Sorry... you're just too much of a swinger for me!

NG CALL E WILD

WRITER: PAUL PETER PORGES

All right . . . you can come up! But just for a minute!

What's a nice chick like you doing on a dump like this?

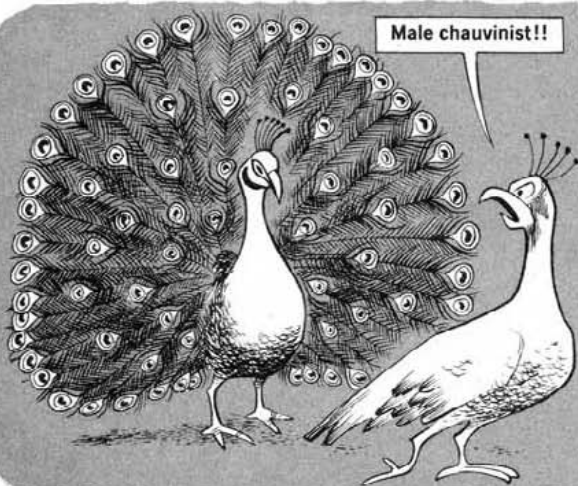

Let me croak sweet nothings in your ear . . .

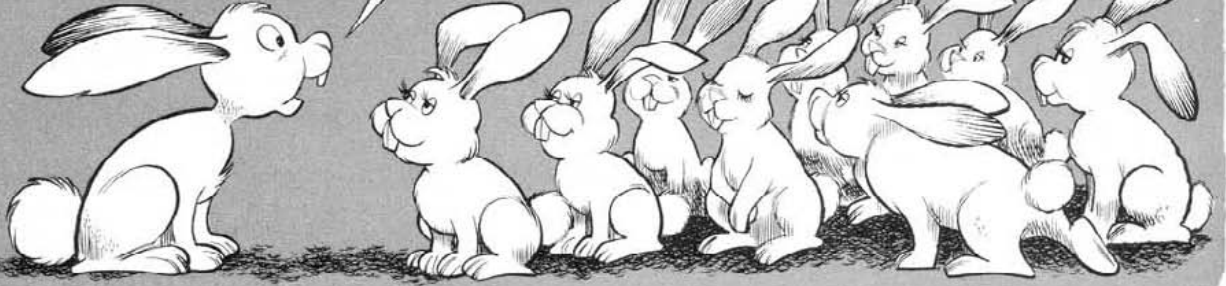

Not tonight! I've got to wash my hair!

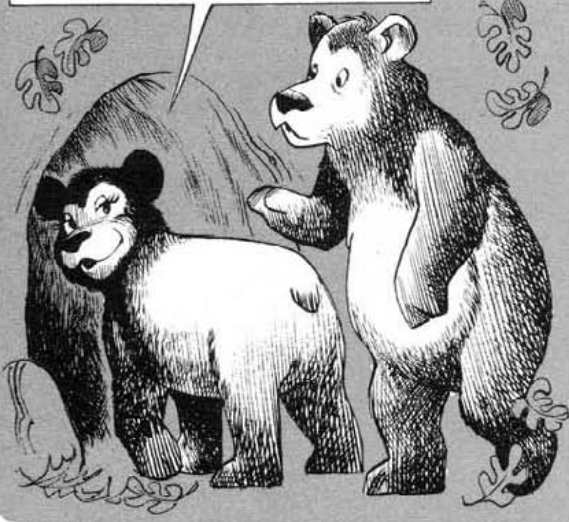

Male chauvinist!!

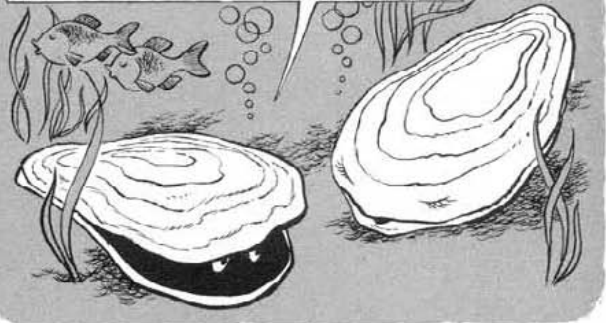

I LOVE YOU!! .. And you! .. And you! .. And you! .. And you! ..

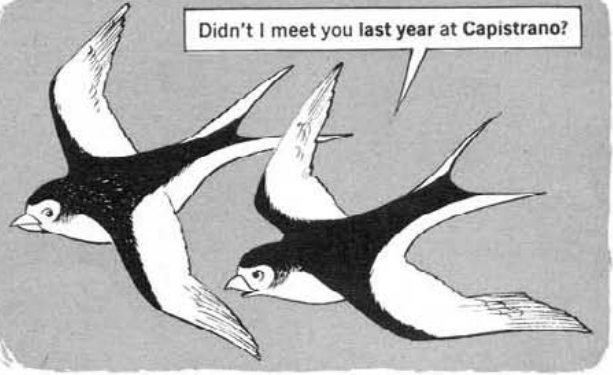

It's been a lovely Summer! Let's not spoil it!

I'll show you my pearl if you show me yours ... !

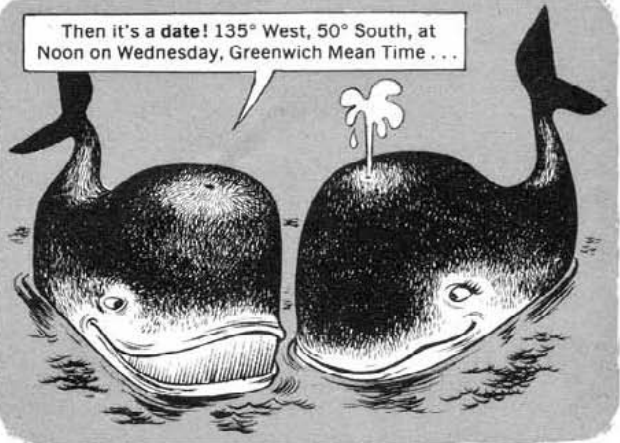

Didn't I meet you last year at Capistrano?

Listen! They're playing our song!

Then it's a date! 135° West, 50° South, at Noon on Wednesday, Greenwich Mean Time ...

It might seem that greeting card companies finally have reached the saturation point in their efforts to boost sales. After all, they've now got us feeling obligated to send cheery messages for every conceivable occasion, including Saint Patrick's Day, Halloween and even something called Sweetest Day. However, MAD thinks that card makers haven't even begun to tap their biggest po-

MAD GREETING

ARTIST: PAUL COKER, JR.

HOPE THOSE RECENT SCARY HEADLINES WON'T SPOIL YOUR VACATION

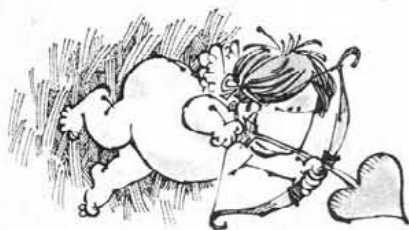

*I hear you'll fly to Europe soon.
(AIR SAFETY RULES HELD LAX!)
Try hard to have a pleasant trip.
(FRANCE RAISES TOURIST TAX!)*

*I know how long you've saved for this.
(DEVALUED DOLLAR DROPS!)
So have a ball in gay Madrid.
(YANK SHOT BY SPANISH COPS!)*

*Sail carefree up the Grecian coast.
(SHIP SINKS IN ATHENS BAY!)
Just leave your worries here at home.
(HOUSE ROBBED WHILE FOLKS AWAY!)*

Have I Got News For You, Lover Boy!

*I don't often send out cards to men I hate,
Who make wrestling matches out of every date.
But I have a special word
Just for you that must be heard,
So please read the rest before it gets too late.*

*Curing mononucleosis takes a year,
During which you suffer terribly, I hear.
You can catch it from a kiss
With a germ-infected Miss.
That's the reason Make-out Men all live in fear.*

*Some girls claim a first-date soul kiss is okay.
I don't think so, but you grabbed me anyway.
Now, your life may soon be hell
'Cause you didn't hear me yell,
"I'm a carrier of mono! Get away!"*

Too Bad About Your Forthcoming Skull Fracture

*The latest crime statistics show
That mugging's on the rise.
I'm sure you saw the figures, and
They came as no surprise.*

*It's quite a stroke of luck that thugs
Have not yet clobbered you.
Perhaps they've seen your chintzy clothes
And let you pass on through.*

*The way you dress, no crook would guess
You carry so much cash.
But I've leaked word! Now, plans are set
For throwing you a bash!*

tential market. So far, they've designed virtually all of their greetings to be sent to people you like. But this group is far outnumbered by people you don't like. And who could resist sending an enemy a sentimental verse, if the underlying sentiments were nasty enough? Most any occasion is appropriate for mailing a warm, heartfelt message of ill will to a loathed one, like these . . .

CARDS ...TO SHAKE UP PEOPLE YOU HATE

WRITER: TOM KOCH

MY THOUGHTS ARE ONLY OF YOU, WEALTHY OLD FRIEND

*Though we've pursued our own careers,
We've kept in touch across the years.
You still stop by my butcher shop
To tell me how you've reached the top
By pushing weaker men aside.
I've listened while you gloat with pride.*

*I've listened closest when you say
It's awful how much tax you'd pay
If you weren't smart enough to mess
With schemes to cheat the I.R.S.—
Like last year, charging seven grand
For "business trips" to Disneyland.*

*I've listened to the tricks galore
That cut your taxes even more.
By bragging loud of what you do,
You'll soon help me get richer, too!
Rewards are paid to those who find
And testify against your kind.*

THINKING OF YOU ACROSS THE MILES

I know how it feels to get no news from home.
(Your brother Fred's in jail.)
So I send this card just to say all is well.
(Your dad won't go his bail.)
A word of good cheer boosts a soldier's morale.
(Your faithful dog is dead.)
It helps you to know that you're still in our hearts.
(The girl you love has wed.)
I may have looked happy to see you ship out.
(My wife told what you'd done.)
But now I'm quite ready for you to come back.
(I've bought myself a gun.)
Here's hoping this card's filled you in on the news,
So now you know the score;
And maybe you'll do what seems best for your health:
Enlist for three years more.

So You're Hoping For A Scholarship. Lots Of Luck, Fella!

A Student Aid Grant you need badly
To stay here and get your degree;
Each Prof you have catered to madly
To make sure he gives you a "B".

Your spare time, I hear, you've devoted
To stealing my Best Girl away;
One fact about that should be noted:
It may mean next term you won't stay.

You con all your Teachers to let you
Keep re-taking tests 'til you pass;
Give up, 'cause I'm now out to get you,
And you're in my Dad's Physics Class!

A Heartfelt Message To A June Graduate

To mark your completion of law school,
I'll give you your first legal case
By listing the laws you have broken
Since you moved next door to my place.

Your poodle dug up all my tulips.
(See Ordinance two-eight-one-three.)
My wife says you peeked in her bedroom.
(Refer to Maine versus McGee.)

That fence you built crosses my easement.
(Go look at the town survey plat.)
Some folk saw you picking my apples.
(I've four depositions on that.)

I hope that your new legal training
Will help you face court without fears.
If not, your career won't get started
For something like three-to-five years.

Here's A Cheery Thought On Your Dental Appointment

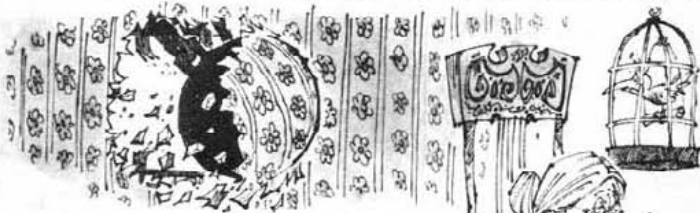

I hear that your dentist is ready
To start on your root canal work.
I hope you can keep your nerves steady,
And not start to scream like a jerk.

It's true that with anything dental,
The pain's like a slow trip through hell.
But just tell yourself it's all mental,
For dentists get mad when you yell.

Don't flinch when that air hose starts squirting.
Just let your mind ramble at will,
And think how much worse you'll be hurting
Next month when you've gotten the bill.

IT PAINS ME TO SAY YOUR HOUSE WILL BE CONDEMNED

I'm sure you've read that I'm part of
The highway scheme that's planned:
Ten billion will be spent to build
New roads throughout the land.

To clear the way, I've got the say
Whose homes will have to fall;
So just keep on the look-out for
That swinging iron ball.

A FINAL GREETING TO ONE WHO FACES DEATH

Ralph Nader says your wash machine's
A deadly type to buy;
And Ralph's condemned your toaster, too;
Its wires can make you fry.

Consumer advocates agree
Your car's a rolling tomb;
And tests have shown your brand of stove
Leaks gas throughout the room.

The record proves, beyond a doubt,
That Ralph is never wrong.
And so I've sent this air mail 'cause
You won't be with us long.

But there is a much more important group that keeps growing larger and silenter every day... and everyone seems to be ignoring them.
