

THE ROUTLEDGE DICTIONARY OF

MODERN AMERICAN SLANG

AND UNCONVENTIONAL ENGLISH

SECOND EDITION

EDITED BY TOM DALZELL

ROUTLEDGE

The Routledge Dictionary of Modern American Slang and Unconventional English

The Routledge Dictionary of Modern American Slang and Unconventional English offers the ultimate record of modern, post-WW2 American slang.

The 25,000 entries are accompanied by citations that authenticate the words as well as offer examples of usage from popular literature, newspapers, magazines, movies, television shows, musical lyrics, and Internet user groups. Etymology, cultural context, country of origin and the date the word was first used are also provided. In terms of content, the cultural transformations since 1945 are astounding. Television, computers, drugs, music, unpopular wars, youth movements, changing racial sensitivities and attitudes towards sex and sexuality are all substantial factors that have shaped culture and language.

This new edition includes over 500 new headwords collected with citations from the last five years, a period of immense change in the English language, as well as revised existing entries with new dating and citations.

No term is excluded on the grounds that it might be considered offensive as a racial, ethnic, religious, sexual or any kind of slur. This dictionary contains many entries and citations that will, and should, offend.

Rich, scholarly and informative, The Routledge Dictionary of Modern American Slang and Unconventional English is an indispensable resource for language researchers, lexicographers and translators.

Tom Dalzell is a lawyer and leading expert on American slang.

Taylor & Francis

Taylor & Francis Group
<http://taylorandfrancis.com>

The Routledge Dictionary of Modern American Slang and Unconventional English

Second edition

Edited by Tom Dalzell

Second edition published 2018
by Routledge
2 Park Square, Milton Park, Abingdon, Oxon OX14 4RN and by Routledge
711 Third Avenue, New York, NY 10017

Routledge is an imprint of the Taylor & Francis Group, an informa business

© 2018 selection and editorial matter, Tom Dalzell

The right of Tom Dalzell to be identified as author of this work has been asserted by him in accordance with sections 77 and 78 of the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988.

All rights reserved. No part of this book may be reprinted or reproduced or utilised in any form or by any electronic, mechanical, or other means, now known or hereafter invented, including photocopying and recording, or in any information storage or retrieval system, without permission in writing from the publishers.

Trademark notice: Product or corporate names may be trademarks or registered trademarks, and are used only for identification and explanation without intent to infringe.

First edition published by Routledge 2009

British Library Cataloguing-in-Publication Data
A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library

Library of Congress Cataloguing-in-Publication Data

Names: Dalzell, Tom, 1951 – editor.

Title: The Routledge dictionary of Modern American slang and unconventional English /
edited by Tom Dalzell.

Other titles: Dictionary of modern American slang and unconventional English

Description: Second edition. | Milton Park, Abingdon, Oxon : New York : Routledge, [2017] |

Includes bibliographical references.

Identifiers: LCCN 2017001815 | ISBN 9781138779655 (hardback : alk. paper) |

ISBN 9781138722088 (pbk. : alk. paper) | ISBN 9781315195827 (ebook)

Subjects: LCSH: English language—Slang—Dictionaries.

Classification: LCC PE3721.P323 2017 | DDC 427.003—dc23

LC record available at <https://lcn.loc.gov/2017001815>

ISBN: 978-1-138-77965-5 (hbk)

ISBN: 978-1-138-72208-8 (pbk)

ISBN: 978-1-315-19582-7 (ebk)

Typeset in Parisine
by Apex CoVantage, LLC

CONTENTS

Preface	vii
Preface to this edition	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
Entries A to Z	1
Bibliography	869

Taylor & Francis

Taylor & Francis Group

<http://taylorandfrancis.com>

PREFACE

This dictionary is an intended consequence of a larger project, the New Partridge Dictionary of Slang and Unconventional English, in which Terry Victor and I updated the work of Eric Partridge. Contributors from around the globe supported us as we recorded and defined the slang of the English-speaking world since the end of World War 2. We worked hard to continue the Partridge tradition, observing his high standards of lexicography while producing an accessible work informed by, and infused with, the humor, mischief and energy that are endemic to slang. Partridge's body of work, scholarship and dignity of approach led the way and set the standard for every other English-language slang lexicographer of the twentieth century, and we tried to do as we thought he would have done.

Partridge limited his work to the language of Great Britain and her dominions. He explicitly decided to exclude American slang, and this decision created increasingly difficult problems for him as the years passed and the influence of American slang grew.

Because Partridge did not record American slang, my task for the New Partridge was to start from scratch, not to review and cull Partridge's previous work and then update it. To some extent I relied on reference works, but for the most part I read extensively from popular literature. I mined fiction, non-fiction, screenplays, scripts, newspapers (especially underground newspapers), magazines, and popular song lyrics for headwords and citations.

For this dictionary, I extracted the American entries from New Partridge and reviewed each entry, definition, and citation. I ultimately excluded many entries from New Partridge, and many others benefited from new citations or new first-usage dating information. I added several thousand new entries, and then trimmed the whole to fit our extent parameters.

Criteria for inclusion

I use three criteria for including a term or phrase in this dictionary. I include (1) slang and unconventional English; (2) used in the United States; and (3) after 1945.

Rather than focus too intently on a precise definition of slang or on whether a given entry is slang, jargon or colloquial English, I borrow the wide net cast by Partridge when he chose to record "slang and unconventional English" instead of just slang, which is, after all, without any settled test of purity. I have considered for inclusion all unconventional English that has been used with the purpose or effect of either lowering the formality of communication and reducing solemnity and/or identifying status or group and putting oneself in tune with one's company. A term recorded here might be slang, slangy jargon, a colloquialism, an acronym, an initialism, a vulgarism or a catchphrase.

In all instances, an entry imparts a message beyond the text and literal meaning. If there was a question as to whether a potential entry fell within the target register, we erred on the side of inclusion. I present my evidence of usage to the reader who is free to determine if a candidate passes probation. I chose to avoid the slang of sports. Entire dictionaries are devoted to sports slang, and there was little that I could add to this work. Because golf and bowling are such social sports, I was tempted to dabble in their slang, but in the end chose not to.

Secondly, all entries were used in the United States. Regardless of the country of origin, if the word or phrase was used in the United States, it is a candidate for inclusion. A number of entries show countries of origin other than the United States, which simply reflects the fact that globalization has affected many facets of life, not the least of which is our language. I also include pidgin, Creolized English and borrowed foreign terms used by English-speakers in primarily English-language conversation.

Thirdly, I include slang and unconventional English heard and used at any time after 1945. I chose the end of the war in 1945 as my starting point primarily because it marked the beginning of a series of profound cultural changes that produced the lexicon of modern and contemporary slang. The cultural transformations since 1945 are mind-boggling. Television, computers, drugs, music, unpopular wars, youth movements, changing racial sensitivities and attitudes towards sex and sexuality are all substantial factors that have shaped culture and language.

No term is excluded on the grounds that it might be considered offensive as a racial, ethnic, religious, sexual or any kind of slur. This dictionary contains many entries and citations that will, and should, offend. To exclude a term or citation because it is offensive is to deny the fact that it is used.

Using The Routledge Dictionary of Modern American Slang and Unconventional English

I hope that my presentation is self-evident and that it requires little explanation. I use only a few abbreviations and none of the stylistic conceits near and dear to the hearts of lexicographers.

Headwords

I use indigenous spelling for headwords. For Yiddish words, I use Leo Rosten's spelling, which favors "sh-" over "sch-". An initialism is shown in upper case without periods (for example, BLT), except that acronyms (pronounced like individual lexical items) are lower case (for example, snafu). Including every variant spelling of a headword seemed neither practical nor helpful to the reader. For the spelling of headwords, I chose the form found in standard dictionaries or the most common forms, ignoring uncommon variants as well as common hyphenation variants of compounds and words ending in "ie" or "y". For this reason, citations may show variant spellings not found in the headword.

Placement of phrases

As a general rule, phrases are placed under their first significant word. However, some invariant phrases are listed as headwords; for example, a stock greeting, stock reply or catchphrase. Terms that involve a single concept are grouped together as phrases under the common headword; for example, burn rubber, lay rubber and peel rubber are all listed as phrases under the headword "rubber."

Definition

I use conventional English in the definitions, turning to slang only when it is both substantially more economical than the use of conventional English and is readily understood by the average reader. If a term used in a definition or gloss is itself defined in the dictionary, it appears in SMALL CAPS BOLD.

Gloss

The gloss is the brief explanations that Partridge used for "editorial comment" or "further elucidation." Partridge warned against using the gloss to show what clever and learned fellows we are – a warning that I tried to heed.

Country of origin

As is the case with dating, further research will undoubtedly produce a shift in the country of origin for a number of entries. I resolutely avoided guesswork and informed opinion.

Dating

Even Paul Beale, who as editor of the 8th edition of Partridge was the direct inheritor of Partridge's trust, noted that Partridge's dating "must be treated with caution." I recognise that the accurate dating of slang is far more difficult than dating conventional language. Virtually every word in our lexicon is spoken before it is written, and this is especially true of unconventional terms. The recent proliferation of electronic databases and powerful search engines will undoubtedly permit the antedating of many of the entries. Individualised dating research, such as Allen Walker's hunt for the origin of "OK" or Barry Popik's exhaustive work on terms such as "hot dog," produces dramatic antedatings: I could not undertake this level of detailed research for every entry.

Conclusion

In the preface to his 1755 Dictionary of the English Language, Samuel Johnson noted that "A large work is difficult because it is large," and that "Every writer of a long work commits errors." In addition to improvements in my dating of terms and identification of the country of origin, it is inevitable that some of my definitions are incorrect or misleading, especially where the sense is subtle and fleeting, defying paraphrasing, or where kindred senses are interwoven. It is also inevitable that some quotations are included in a mistaken sense. For these errors, I apologise in advance. I carry the flame for words that are usually judged only by the ill-regarded company they keep.

Just as Partridge did for the sixteenth-century beggars and rakes, for whores of the eighteenth century, and for the armed services of the two world wars, I try to do for the slang users of the last 60 years. I embrace the language of beats, hipsters, hippies, GI's in Vietnam, pimps, druggies, whores, punks, skinheads, ravers, surfers, Valley Girls, dudes, pill-popping truck drivers, hackers, rappers and more. I have tried to do what Partridge saw as necessary, which was simply to keep up to date.

*Tom Dalzell, Berkeley, California
January 2008*

PREFACE TO THIS EDITION

Additions that we made in 2016 demonstrate a robust and creative stream of new words entering the American slang lexicon. Hip hop continues to contribute vocabulary more than 30 years after rap music burst onto the scene in the early 1980s. Words that make it from hip hop into broader slang usage often transcend hip hop, serving as markers of a generation or hipness without necessarily invoking hip hop culture. Social media plays a greater and greater role in the lives of young Americans, and it serves as a testing ground for language. Thousands of terms and initialisms are used in social media, while only the most clever and thought-provoking make it into vocalized speech.

Secondarily, the work and lifestyle of the increasing number of techies involved in social media have provided slang for broader use. The alternative culture of artistic self-expression and participation by all, epitomized by Burning Man and electronic dance music festivals, pumps words and phrases into the broader body of slang. Lastly, catchphrases from popular culture work their way into our informal, vernacular usage, bringing with them, as Leslie Savan suggests in her work, an imagined laugh track. These are the major, but not the only, sources of the latest generation of American slang, as diverse in their origins as is American culture in general.

Taylor & Francis

Taylor & Francis Group
<http://taylorandfrancis.com>

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Mary Ann Kernan launched the New Partridge project for Routledge in 1999 and will not be forgotten. Sophie Oliver led the project from 1999 until 2007, and her influence may be found in every word. Claire L'Enfant led from upstairs in a sine qua non fashion. John Williams was our instructor in matters of lexicography and all that is right about this book is because of him. Others from Routledge without whom this dictionary would not have existed are Anna Hines, Sonja van Leeuwen, James Folan, Louise Hake, Sandra Anderson, Howard Sargeant, Laura Wedgeworth, and Aine Duffy.

Those who contributed to the New Partridge all informed this work – Richard Allsop, Dianne Bardsley, James Lambert, Lewis Poteet, Jan Tent, and Lise Winer. Terry Victor, co-editor of the New Partridge, has left his imprint throughout this book. We were friends before this started and we are better friends these many words later.

My slang mentors, Paul Dickson and Madeline Kripke, led me to the path that made this work possible. Archie Green, who saved Peter Tamony's work for posterity, encouraged me throughout this project. Jesse Sheidlower, Jonathon Green and Susan Ford are slang lexicographers, friends, and comrades in words.

Dr Jerry Zientara opened the incomparable library of the Institute for Advanced Study of Human Sexuality in San Francisco to me. Tom Miller, Bill Stolz, John Konzal and Patricia Walker, archivists at the Western Historical Manuscript Collection, University of Missouri at Columbia, gave help and insights during my work with the Peter Tamony archives. The late Jim Holliday was a generous source for the slang of pornography, as was Jennifer Goldstein with the slang of sex dancers. Mr. Baldwin, Mr. Muir, Mr. Lee, Dr. Robert Regan, and Dr. Gordon Kelly were exemplary teachers of English and popular culture. Fellow language writers and lexicographers generous in their encouragement, advice and assistance: Reinhold Aman, the late Robert Chapman, Gerald Cohen, Trevor Cralle, Jim Crotty, Connie Eble, Jonathan Lighter, Edward MacNeal, Michael Monteleone, Pamela Munro, Geoffrey Nunberg, Judi Sanders, and Leslie Savan.

Last and far from least, my family gave nothing but patient support for nine years – Cathy most notably, also Jake, Julia, Rosalie, and Charlotte. In their own ways, and from a distance, my parents guided. Audrey, Emily, and Reggae started the project with me but did not stay for the end.

Taylor & Francis

Taylor & Francis Group

<http://taylorandfrancis.com>

Aa

A noun

1 amphetamine US, 1967

- “A” is considered very bad news, “it rots your teeth and your mind.” — Ruth Bronsteen, The Hippie’s Handbook, p. 12, 1967
- — Look, p. 13, 8th August 1967
- [T]hat would come later, when he kicked A in terror after his toenails dropped off. — Ed Sanders, Tales of Beatnik Glory, p. 59, 1975

2 LSD US, 1977

- An abbreviation of ACID.
- — Walter Way, The Drug Scene, p. 105, 1977
- Street names [ː] A, acid, blotter[.] — James Kay and Julian Cohen, The Parents’ Complete Guide to Young People and Drugs, p. 141, 1998

A adjective

1 reserved for the best; the best US, 1945

- He went through what Hollywood calls Treatment A, i.e. the works for top visitors, without a mistake. — Fortune, p. 225, October 1945
- And part of the magic at Malibu was that Mickey’s dinner was unseated which, as any “A” hostess knows, can be hazardous. — San Francisco Chronicle, 18th August 1975
- Oh my God Michele, look at the A group. — Romy and Michele’s High School Reunion, 1997

2 anal US, 1997

- Now every scene I do is pretty much an “A” scene. (Quoting Nici Sterling.) — Anthony Petkovich, The X Factory, p. 33, 1997

a2m noun

a scene in a pornographic movie in which an object or body part is withdrawn from a rectum and taken into a mouth without either washing or editing US, 2005

- Shorthand for “ass-to-mouth.”
- She tea-bags his balls before an A2M. — Editors of Adult Video News, The AVN Guide to the 500 Greatest Adult Films of All Time, p. 27, 2005

AAA noun

an amphetamine tablet US, 1993

In the US, the AAA is the national automobile club, which, like an amphetamine tablet, helps you get from one place to another.

- — Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 1, 1993

A and A noun

in the military, a leave for rest and recreation US, 1966

A jocular abbreviation of “ass and alcohol.”

- They had put in two months’ patrol in the steam-bath heat of the jungle and were due to go next morning to exotic old Hong Kong for some R & R — or A & A (Ass and Alcohol), as they put it. — Elaine Shepard, The Doom Pussy, p. 41, 1967
- Commonly known as R&R in the military, or rest and relaxation, some called it P&P (Pussy and Popcorn), A&A (Ass and Alcohol). — Edmund Ciriello, The Reluctant Warrior, p. 254, 2004

A and B noun

assault and battery US, 1986

- You wanna file A-and-B on the sonofabitch? — Carl Hiaasen, Tourist Season, p. 55, 1986

ab noun

an abscess, especially as a result of injecting drugs US, 1952

- — American Speech, p. 24, February 1952: “Teen-age hophead jargon”
- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 21, 1971

AB noun

the Aryan Brotherhood, a white prison gang in the US US, 1972

- According to the Los Angeles Police Department’s Gang Awareness School training manual, “the Aryan Brotherhood (AB) is the most violent of the prison gangs.” — Bernard Campbell, Sexual Selection and the Descent of Man, p. 77, 1972
- I had been disillusioned upon my return to prison with the AB, and this is when I just decided to drop out completely. — Report to the Senate, California Senate Committee on Civil Disorder, p. 38, 1975
- “But I’m aces with the A.B. here at Coldwater,” Joe objected. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 369, 1990

abandonium noun

an abandoned building where squatters are living US

- Urban Dictionary, 17th August 2014
- “They’ve pushed them out of tents and into ‘abandoniums,’” says King. — Cherry Hill (New Jersey) Courier-Post, 17th August 2014

abba-dabba noun

chatter, gossip US, 1967

Undoubtedly originated with the song “The Aba-Daba Honeymoon,” written in 1913 and rereleased with great success by Larry Clinton and His Orchestra in March 1948, in which “abba-dabba” is the chatter of monkeys.

- Abba-dabba: In and out of our town in a hurry this week was Guy Lewis. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 50, 12th May 1967 abbot noun

a capsule of pentobarbital sodium (trade name Nembutal™), a central nervous system depressant US, 1971

From the name of the manufacturer.

- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 21, 1971

- — Donald Wesson and David Smith, Barbiturates, p. 121, 1977

Abby Singer noun

in television or movie making, the next-to-last shot of the day US, 1990

Singer was active in US television from the early 1950s until the late 1980s; his name became an eponym when he was an Assistant Director in the 1950s.

- — Ralph S. Singleton, Filmmaker’s Dictionary, p. 1, 1990

ABC noun

1 an American-born Chinese US, 1984

- — Judi Sanders, Faced and Faded, Hanging to Hurl, p. 1, 1993
- “Yellow outside, white inside. Like ABC, American Born Chinese.” “Jim’s not marrying a gwaillu (foreign devil) or a banana. He’s marrying a real Chinese.” — Howard Marks, Mr Nice, p. 230, 1997

2 in poker, the ace, two and three US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 4, 1988

ABC adjective

of a piece of chewing gum, Already Been Chewed US, 1983

Childish usage.

- “ABC. Already Been Chewed. It was the best idea Alvin had heard in days.” — Stephen Manes, The Hooples’ Haunted House, p. 101, 1983
- “Exactly! It’s ABC gum—Already Been Chewed! Get it?” — Matt Christopher, Master of Disaster, p. 2, 2003

ABCs noun

underwear US, 1949

- I took off the a b c’s and her stockings. — Hal Elison, Duke, p. 11, 1949

ABC-ya

used as a farewell US, 1947

Intended as a clever variant of “I’ll be seeing you.”

- — San Francisco Examiner, p. 19, 5th January 1947
- — Alonzo Westbrook, Hip Hojtonary, p. 1, 2002

Abdul noun

any male Arab US, 1991

Gulf war usage.

- — American Speech, p. 382, Winter 1991: “Among the new words”

Abe Lincoln noun

a five-dollar bill US, 1966

The bill bears an engraving of President Lincoln.

- If these good people have no objection we’ll call it an off the record sidebet. One Abe Lincoln it is. — Robert Edmond Alter, Carny Kill, p. 36, 1966

abercrombie noun

1 a person devoted to prep-school fashions and style US, 2004

- An Abercrombie is a gorgeous but terminally preppy boy (often blond) who looks like he just stepped out of the pages of A&F Quarterly. — Brittany Kent, O.C. Undercover, p. 137, 2004

2 someone who strives at creating the impression of knowing all US, 1945

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 7, 1945

Abigail noun

a staid, traditional, middle-aged homosexual man US, 1972

- — Bruce Rodgers, The Queens’ Vernacular, p. 17, 1972
- — Maledicta, p. 222, 1979: “Kinks and queens: linguistic and cultural aspects of the terminology for gays”

able Grable noun

a sexually attractive girl US, 1945

- — Yank, p. 18, 24th March 1945

ABM noun

an angry black male US

- Oh yeah, there’s always an ABM who’ll call IA, his councilman, and maybe long distance to Al Sharpton. — Joseph Wambaugh, Hollywood Station, p. 4, 2006 aboard adverb

present, part of an enterprise US, 1957

- McDougal led off the tenth. He turned around at the plate and shook hands with the kid. Gil said: “I’m from San Francisco, Commerce High. Glad to have you aboard.” — San Francisco Chronicle, 11th July 1957
- They met for a couple of days in the plush Lake Tahoe layout of Henry Kaiser—deliberately without any party organization officials or other statewide Democratic candidates aboard. — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 13, 15th August 1958

about preposition used as a humorous attempt to duplicate a Canadian saying “about” US, 1995

- This is not about deals. This is about dignity. This is about freedom. This is about respect. — South Park, 1995

abort verb

to defecate after being the passive partner in anal sex US, 1972

- — Bruce Rodgers, The Queens’ Vernacular, p. 17, 1972

abortion noun

- a misfortune; an ugly person or thing US, 1943
- He scanned around his workshop, dropped the plane, reached for an old beaten-up thing with a lot of notches in it and lifted it up with one hand. "What about this abortion?" — Frederick Kohner, Gidget, p. 18, 1957
- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 69, 1968

about-face noun

- a 180-degree turn executed while driving fast US, 1965
- It was Junior Johnson specifically, however, who was famous for the "bootleg turn" or "about face." — Tom Wolfe, The Kandy-Kolored Tangerine-Flake Streamlined Baby, p. 128, 1965

about it; 'bout it adjective

- in favor of something US, 2001
- — Don R. McCreary (Editor), Dawg Speak, 2001

abracadabra, please and thank you

- used as a humorous embellishment of "please" US, 1996
- A signature line from the Captain Kangaroo children's television show (CBS, 1944–84). Repeated with referential humor.
- Abracadabra. Please and thank you. Hilary took a deep sigh, closed her eyes. — Tyle Corland, The Nurses, p. 96, 1996 abs noun

- the abdominal muscles US, 1956
- Danny and the man begin talking about the relative merits of "frog kicks" for the "abs" as opposed to regular situps[.] — John Rechy, Numbers, p. 66, 1967
- That is, if you mention a strong stomach, you must have cut abs. — John Preston, Hustling, p. 121, 1994
- He had the most awesome set of abs I'd ever seen. — Missy Hyatt, Missy Hyatt, p. 126, 2001

absotively; absitively adverb

- certainly US, 1914
- A jocular blend of "positively" and "absolutely."
- — Bill Davis, Jawjacking, p. 9, 1977
- "Absotively," he would say. — Marilyn Greene, Finder, p. 135, 1988

Abyssinian polo noun

- a game of dice US, 1962
- — Frank Garcia, Marked Cards and Loaded Dice, p. 250, 1962
- Dice were sometimes called "African dominoes," and one game was dubbed "Abyssinian polo." — Karl Johnson, The Magician and the Cardsharp, p. 20, 2006

AC noun

- an Acura Legend car US, 2003
- I used to drive an AC and kept a mac in the engine. — Mobb Deep, "The Start of Your Ending," 1995

Academy Award noun

- recognition of excelling in a field US, 1958
- Tuohy became a jailbird early in life and got his academy award, so to speak, when the FBI rated him Public Enemy No. 1 in 1934. — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 10, 18th April 1958
- "We won't win any academy awards with our showing in Baltimore," he said disgustedly today. — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 45, 17th September 1968

Academy Award adjective

- excellent US, 1958
- But with the club averaging 7½ runs a game, Academy award pitching may not be necessary. — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 19, 21st April 1958

Acapulco gold noun

- golden-leaved marijuana from southwest Mexico US, 1965
- A popular, well-known strain of cannabis. The song "Acapulco Gold" by the Rainy Daze was released in 1967 and had just begun its climb on the pop charts when program directors figured out what it was about and pulled it off play lists.
- "Gold. It's Acapulco Gold," White Rabbit corrected the doctor, who was mixing up the slang names for different kinds of marijuana. — Nicholas Von Hoffman, We Are The People Our Parents Warned Us Against, p. 23, 1967
- We are free to go, but have to be very sneaky and ditch Bruce somewhere inside the Pentagon maze so he won't find the Acapulco Gold in the car. — Abbie Hoffman, Revolution for the Hell of It, p. 44, 1968
- Is that Acapulco gold or Bangkok gold? — Hunter S. Thompson, Fear and Loathing in America, p. 40, 20th February 1968: Letter from Oscar Acosta
- About midnight she came to me and asked would I like some Acapulco gold, I said yes. — Babs Gonzales, Movin' On Down De Line, p. 115, 1975

accelerator noun

- 1 an amphetamine tablet US, 1993
- — Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 1, 1993
- 2 an arsonist US, 1992
- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 34, 1992

ace of hearts; ace of spades noun

- heroin US
- Two bags were labeled ace of spades and ace of hearts, which is street slang for heroin. — Nancy Grace, 3rd February 2014

accommodation arrest noun

- a prearranged, consensual raid of an illegal gambling operation, designed to give the appearance of strict enforcement of laws US, 1961
- And if you could impose reasonable jail sentences, I think you could stop the stand-in and the accommodation arrest. — Special Committee to Investigate Organized Crime, Investigation of Organized Crime, p. 1027, 1951
- If a juice joint is very conspicuous, an accommodation arrest may occasionally be necessary. — New York Knapp Commission, The Knapp Commission Report on Police Corruption, p. 145, 1973

accordion act noun

- collapsing under pressure US, 1989
- Unlike their previous two games against the Rangers, the Devils didn't do an accordion act after allowing an early goal, and scored the next three goals of the first period. — Record (Bergen County, New Jersey), p. E1, 10th January 1989
- If Tech doesn't get things figured out in a hurry, a possible repeat of the 1997 club's late-season accordion act looms. — Roanoke (Virginia) Times & World News, p. C1, 9th November 2001

accordion war noun

- US tactics during the Korean war: accordion-like movements up and down Korea by land forces US, 1951
- It was an accordion war where the Americans went three steps ahead and two steps back. — Kurt Singer, Spy Stories from Asia, p. 180, 1955
- So MacArthur began sniping at Ridgway and his "accordion war." — Joseph C. Goulden, Korea, p. 478, 1982

AC/DC; AC-DC adjective

- bisexual US, 1960
- A pun on electricity's AC (alternating current) and DC (direct current).
- — Frank Prewitt and Francis K. Schaeffer, Vocabulary of Inmates' Usages, 1963
- I don't trust any of those AC-DC guys. — Mickey Spillane, Return of the Hood, p. 124, 1964
- But, all AC-DC folk welcome. — Screw, p. 7, 7th March 1969
- She started out in one of his deluxe AC-DC cathouses in the suburbs of Havana. — Edwin Torres, After Hours, p. 325, 1979

ace *noun1 a police officer US, 1949

- "The punk saw that ace 'n ducked without givin' me the word," Frankie decided bitterly. — Nelson Algren, The Man with the Golden Arm, p. 182, 1949

2 a good and reliable friend US, 1932

- One day after we became aces, we had our first fight in over a year[.] — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, pp. 79–80, 1965
- It really bugged me when the paddies call us Puerto Ricans the same names they called our colored aces. — Piri Thomas, Down These Mean Streets, p. 120, 1967
- "You're pals with Tommy Dunphy, right, Carlito?" "Yeah, we're aces." — Edwin Torres, Carlito's Way, p. 47, 1975
- "But I'm aces with the A.B. here at Coldwater," Joe objected. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 369, 1990

3 one dollar US, 1900

- "An ace for two sticks." — Chandler Brossard, Who Walks in Darkness, p. 11, 1952
- I want to play the nine ball for five dollars, but we decide on a fucking ace. — Jim Carroll, Forced Entries, p. 65, 1987

4 one-eighth of an ounce of a drug US, 1989

- — Geoffrey Froner, Digging for Diamonds, p. 70, 1989

5 phencyclidine, the recreational drug known as PCP or angeldust US, 1981

- — Ronald Linder, PCP, p. 9, 1981

6 in dice games, a rolled one

- Three crap three, ace-deuce, no use. — Chris Fagans and David Guzman, A Guide to Craps Lingo, p. 12, 1999

7 in the theater, a one-night engagement US, 1918

- — Don Wilmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 3, 1981

8 in pool, the number one ball US, 1878

- Fifteen in the corner. Ace in the side. — The Hustler, 1961
- — Mike Shamos, The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Billiards, p. 1, 1993

9 the grade "A" US, 1964

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 69, 1968

ace *verb1 to outsmart someone US, 1929

- But there was something personal about it if the guy was driving down Telegraph grinning, thinking he'd aced him. — Elmore Leonard, Swag, p. 2, 1976

2 to work your way somewhere, to engineer something US, 1929

- The scheme is said to have originated among one or more influential groups in San Francisco's Chinatown, one of which for several years has been acing itself into a favored position with the Nationalist China regime. — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 1, 2nd September 1953

3 to do well in an examination US, 1957

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 69, 1968
- You may think that you aced the exam, but then you get back scores only acceptable to a college that advertises in the back of MAD magazine. — Joanne Kimes, Dating Sucks, p. 153, 2005

4 to kill someone US, 1975

- Then Amalia told her about the woman's husband ripping off the Casino Latino with Louis Palo and how Charley had to ace the husband[.] — Richard Condon, Prizzi's Honor, p. 88, 1982
- A more likely scenario had the kid getting aced with a gun of his own, a .38 taken off him in a struggle with an arresting officer. — David Simon, Homicide, p. 27, 1991
- Of all the words American troops used to describe death in Vietnam, aced, blown away, bought it, croaked, dinged, fucked up, greased, massaged, porked, stitched, sanitized, smoked, snuffed, terminated, waxed, wiped out, zapped—the one I heard most was "wasted." — John Laurence, The Cat from Hue, p. 442, 2002

ace *adjectiveexceptional, expert, excellent US, 1930

- I am glad that the newspaper boys, who later liked to refer to me as an ace narcotic inspector, never heard the story of my first big pinch. — William J. Spillard and Pence James, Needle in a Haystack, p. 7, 1945
- I became an ace young reporter for the Cincinnati Post and Times-Star. — Jerry Rubin, Do It!, p. 12, 1970

- One of my ace informants tells me to see a guy at Charity in there with a gunshot wound he says was from a hunting accident. — Elmore Leonard, Bandits, p. 139, 1987

ace boon coon; ace boon poon noun

- a very close friend US, 1958
- I knew K.B. about a year before we became ace boon coons. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 79, 1965
- “What happened to your ace-boon-coon, that other writer fella?” — John Williams, The Man Who Cried I Am, p. 172, 1967
- Now my ace-boon-poon / was a young boy named Spoon. — Lightnin’ Rod, Hustlers Convention, p. 10, 1973
- Margo got up to greet him. “Lobo. How’s my ace boon coon?” — Robert Deane Pharr, Giveadamn Brown, p. 14, 1978

ace cool noun

- a very close and trusted friend US, 1988
- Your client seemed to be indicating to me over the phone last night that his “Ace Cool,” which means best friend, told him that he was part of the killing at Trenton Towers and that some Italian mobsters did the work. — Stephen Cannell, King Can, p. 66, 1997

ace-deuce noun

- a fellow prisoner upon whom you rely without question US, 1989
- — James Harris, A Convict’s Dictionary, p. 28, 1989

ace-deuce adjective

- 1 cross-eyed US, 1955
 - They had eleven bowlegged children whose glims [eyes] were ace-deuce and won bingo games on strangers’ cards. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 6, 20th March 1955
- 2 riding a racehorse with the right stirrup higher than the left US, 1948
 - Acaro uses what is called the “ace deuce” technique in which the right stirrup is about two inches higher than the left. — Time, p. 82, 17th May 1948

ace-deuce adverb

- on an angle, with one side higher than the other US, 1948
- There’s vomit all over the bed, all in my hat, and that’s sittin’ ace-deuce on my head! — Henry Williamson, Hustler!, p. 62, 1965
- He broke the stingy brim down and set the hat ace-deuce across his head. — Donald Goines, Dopefiend, p. 182, 1971

ace-douche noun

- in craps, a first roll of three US, 1999
- “Douche” is an intentional corruption of “deuce”; a come-out roll of three loses — Chris Fagans and David Guzman, A Guide to Craps Lingo, p. 13, 1999

ace high; aces high adjective

- the very best US, 1896
- From poker.
- I said, “You’re aces high with me, Duke.” — Dan Jenkins, Semi-Tough, p. 177, 1972

ace in verb

- to manipulate someone or something into a situation US, 1971
- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 21, 1971

ace in the hole noun

- an undisclosed resource US, 1908
- Colonel Calls Gems His “Ace in Hole” — San Francisco Examiner, p. 3, 7th February 1947
- One of the first things I did was borrow $800 from Lillian, my rich ace in the hole. — Dick Gregory, Nigger, p. 112, 1964

aceman noun

- a respected fighter in a youth gang US, 1953
- — Dale Kramer and Madeline Kari, Teen-Age Gangs, p. 174, 1953
- [A]cemen (secondary leaders or top fighters in the gang). — Howard Polsky, Cottage Six, p. 24, 1962

ace note noun

- a one-dollar bill US, 1929
- — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 11, 1980

ace out verb

- 1 to exclude someone US, 1964
 - — J. R. Friss, A Dictionary of Teenage Slang, 1964
- 2 in poker, to win a hand by bluffing while holding a relatively low-value hand US, 1983
 - — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 2, 1987

ace up your sleeve noun

- a resource that is yet to be revealed US, 1927
- From the popular belief that card cheats hide cards up their sleeves.
- I still had a few aces up my sleeve. — Max Shulman, The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis, p. 115, 1951 aces adjective

- excellent US, 1901
- I said it in this very sincere voice. “You’re aces, Ackley kid,” I said. — J.D. Salinger, Catcher in the Rye, p. 50, 1951
- Paddy, why he’s aces, a real saint, like; you know? — George Mandel, Flee the Angry Strangers, p. 56, 1952

acey-deucey noun

- 1 in craps, a roll of a one and a two US, 1974
 - — John Savage, The Winner’s Guide to Dice, p. 89, 1974
- 2 a bisexual US, 1980
 - A probable elaboration of ac/dc.
 - — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 11, 1980

acey-deucey adjective

- 1 bisexual US, 1972
 - A probable elaboration of ac/dc.
 - — Bruce Rodgers, The Queens’ Vernacular, p. 32, 1972
 - — Alonzo Westbrook, Hip Hoptony, p. 1, 2002

2 acceptable, satisfactory US, 1975

- — Report to the Senate, California Senate Committee on Civil Disorder, p. 226, 1975

► throw acey-deucey

- to die US, 1960
- An allusion to a losing roll of the dice in the game of craps.
- “You’re going to throw acey-deucey pretty soon, looks like. Okay, so how are your fixed for insurance?” — George Clayton Johnson, Ocean’s Eleven, p. 77, 1960

achiever noun

- a devoted fan of the movie The Big Lebowski US, 2004
- In the movie, the rich Lebowski sponsors a program named the “Little Lebowski Urban Achievers.”
- Many of the faithful—who call themselves Achievers after “The Little Lebowski Urban Achievers” in the movie—showed up dressed as their favorite characters. — Tallahassee (Florida) Democrat, p. D1, 11th April 2004 acid noun

- LSD US, 1965
- [T]hen got up late that night, got loaded on acid & went bar-hopping to hear some great Rock & Roll. — Neal Cassady, The First Third, p. 218, 1965
- Last night as I left the U.C. theater on University Avenue, a guy walking behind me said to his friend: “That was better than acid, man.” — The Berkeley Barb, p. 2, 17th December 1965
- I can’t really recommend acid because acid has become an almost meaningless chemical. — The Last Supplement to the Whole Earth Catalog, p. 83, March 1971
- Well, Donny’s in a coma. He had a very bad acid experience. — Manhattan, 1979 acid freak noun

- a habitual user of LSD US, 1966
- freak: devotee: 1. originally of a particular drug: acid freak. — Ethel Romm, The Open Conspiracy, p. 243, 1970
- In a town full of bedrock crazies, nobody even notices an acid freak. — Hunter S. Thompson, Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas, p. 24, 1971

acid funk noun

- a depression brought on by LSD use US, 1971
- Acid funk—an LSD induced depression. — Edward Bloomquist, Marijuana: The Second Trip, p. 332, 1971

acid head noun

- a habitual user of LSD US, 1966
- For some in the group, it was a weekend party. For others, it was their first trip and several were true “acidheads.” — Richard Alpert and Sidney Cohen, LSD, p. 100, 1966
- What they’ll do is arrest the blacks, the acid heads, and the vagrants. — Berkeley Barb, p. 5, 30th December 1966
- Black militants, New Leftists, acid-heads, tribunes of the gay, families of the Mafia[.] — Norman Mailer, Miami and the Siege of Chicago, p. 33, 1968
- Steve gave a talk at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium, tickets were sold in the Free Press office and I met acid heads galore. — Eve Babitz, Eve’s Hollywood, p. 192, 1974

acid mung noun

- the sensation while under the influence of LSD of having an oily face US, 1971
- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 22, 1971

acid rock noun

- a genre of rock music US, 1966
- Folk etymology claims the music to be inspired by the altered states of consciousness induced by ACID (the hallucinogenic drug LSD); certainly this was a commercial style of music being marketed to the mass audience when high-profile musicians were experimenting with LSD
- I was talking recently to a member of one of America’s top acid-rock bands, who had just returned from England. — Timothy Leary, The Politics of Ecstasy, p. 103, 1968

acid test noun

- an event organized to maximize the hallucinatory experiences of LSD US, 1966
- Ken Kesey and the Merry Pranksters organized acid tests in Palo Alto, Portland (Oregon), Los Angeles and Mexico in 1966
- Several members of the “Acid Test” dance beneath a flashing stroboscope light which heightens the effects of LSD. — Richard Alpert and Sidney Cohen, LSD, p. 97, 1966
- Curiously, after the first rush at the Acid Test, there would be long intervals of the most exquisite boredom. — Tom Wolfe, The Electric Kool-Aid Acid Test, p. 218, 1968

ack noun

- a pimple US, 1968
- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 70, 1968

ack-ack noun

- anti-aircraft artillery US, 1926
- An initialism, using the phonetic alphabet that was current until 1941. Usage survived the new alphabet rather than being amended to “fable able.”
- To the south, ack-ack shells are bursting in the sky, and tracer bullets stream upwards. — Audie Murphy, To Hell and Back, p. 72, 1949
- And came in low with ack-ack taunting him on. — Nelson Algren, The Neon Wilderness, p. 177, 1960

- I had a cross-eyed cousin, an organizer for the farmworker's union, who had been with an ack-ack battery in the defense of Madrid[.] — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 119, 1961
- Down the lazy valley where the ack-ack hides / The lazy lazy valley on the other side. — Joseph Tuso, Singing the Vietnam Blues, p. 75, 1990: Down the Lazy Valley

ack-ack *verb*to shoot someone or something US, 1947

- They barge in ack-ack the wolf an Ridinghood is in the groove forever after! — Harry Haenigsen, Jive's Like That, 1947

A-condition *noun*air conditioning US, 2002

- "Cain't a muthafucka get some A-condition? It be hot as a crack ho's mouth up in here!" — Jimmy Lerner, You Got Nothing Coming, p. 39, 2002

acorn *noun*1 in a casino, a generous tipper US, 1984

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 3, 1987

2 an inexperienced gambler US

- A newbie, one who can be taught and molded by a dealer. — "Read This Before the Next Time You Go to the Casino," Playboy, December 2015

acorns *noun*the testicles US, 1975

- "I loaned you part of the down payment!" reminded Harold and shrieked as the spray hit him in the acorns[.] — Joseph Wambaugh, The Chairboys, p. 213, 1975 act verb▶ act as ifin twelve-step recovery programs such as Alcoholics Anonymous, used as a slogan for new participants in the program US, 1998

- They're told to act as if they were sane, or not wanting to use, because all you can really change for the moment is your actions, not your feelings[.] — Christopher Cavanaugh, AA to Z, p. 43, 1998

acting Jack *noun*1 a lance sergeant US, 1917

- I took my "acting jack" job most seriously, and was thought to be a shooin for the "best trainee" (an honor that included a promotion to PFC on completion of the course until a week before basic was over[.]) — David H. Hackworth, About Face, p. 41, 1989

2 a soldier temporarily appointed to higher rank, especially to serve as a platoon leader in basic training US, 1942

- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 1, 1968

action *noun*1 sexual activity US, 1956

- As far as I'm concerned there ain't no difference. Action's action[.] — Malcolm Braly, On the Yard, p. 88, 1967
- I therefore denounced the idea of conjugal visits as inherently unfair; single prisoners needed and deserved action just as married prisoners did. — Eldridge Cleaver, Soul on Ice, p. 7, 1968
- Where did he go to study when he saw the tie placed on the doorknob of our room (the traditional signal for "action within")? — Erich Segal, Love Story, p. 36, 1970
- "If somebody comes into town and they want a little action, contact me over at the radio station." — Wolfman Jack (Bob Smith), Have Mercy!, p. 85, 1995

2 activity, especially of the kind to arouse interest or excitement US, 1951

- Often in the greetings "where's the action?" and "what's the action?"
- Man, that chick is puttin' down some action! — William "Lord" Buckley, Nero, 1951
- — Richard McAlister, Rapper's Handbook, p. 1, 1990

3 betting, gambling US, 1985

- You looking for action? — The Hustler, 1961
- Every now and then I would go on the road looking for a little action. — Minnesota Fats, The Bank Shot, p. 31, 1966
- The sina qua non is that he is a good "money player," can play his best when heavy action is riding on the game (as many non-hustlers can't). — Ned Polsky, Hustlers, Beats, and Others, p. 55, 1967
- And I'll take all the action I can get. — Diner, 1982

4 the amount that a gambler is willing to bet US, 1991

- For example, one hundred bets of $5 each is $500 in action. — Michael Dalton, Blackjack, p. 25, 1991

5 in pool, a game played with wagers US, 1990

- — Steve Rushin, Pool Cool, p. 5, 1990

6 in pool, spin imparted on the cue ball to affect the course of the object ball or the cue ball after striking the object ball US, 1913

- — Mike Shamos, The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Billiards, p. 2, 1993

7 a political act, often confrontational or violent US, 1971

- On that same point, I'd like to say first of all, as Billy mentioned, letters are going to be going to the men whose [draft] files were destroyed, and this in itself is, I think, an action, because it is giving these men a chance to make their own choice. — The Last Supplement to the Whole Earth Catalog, p. 18, March 1971

▶ piece of the action; share of the actionan involvement in an activity; a share in the profits of something US, 1957

- Triads never helped anyone out without a promise of a piece of the action. — Lung Cheng, I Am Jackie Chan, p. 261, 1998 action beaver *noun*a movie featuring full nudity and sexual activity short of intercourse US, 1974

- The action beaver, the next logical cinematic step, featured increasingly explicit sexual activity along with complete nudity. — Kenneth Turan and Stephen E. Zito, Sinema, p. 78, 1974 action faction *noun*a subset of the political left that advocated forceful, confrontational tactics US, 1968

- The Labor Committee is sometimes referred to as the thought faction, as opposed to the action faction, of SDS. — James Simon Kunen, The Strawberry Statement, p. 102, 1968
- The Progressive Labor people, "the action faction," believed that nothing short of the active overthrow of the Establishment was warranted. — James Davis, Assault on the Left, p. 70, 1997 action player *noun*a gambler who bets heavily, frequently and flamboyantly US, 2003

- — Victor H. Royer, Casino Gamble Talk, p. 5, 2003
- But should the credit risk pay back his gambling debts at that line and show the casino he's an action player so that he obtains a new higher line of credit, the person vouching for his credit is let off the hook as to any future credit. — Edwin Silberstang, The Winner's Guide to Casino Gambling, p. 54, 2005 action room *noun*a poolhall where betting is common US, 1967

- Graney's was the action room—that's where the money was changing hands. — Robert Byrne, McGoorty, p. 118, 1972
- — Mike Shomos, The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Billiards, p. 2, 1993 actor-proof *adjective*denoting a part in a play or performance so well written that no amount of bad acting can ruin it US, 1973

- — Sherman Louis Sergej, The Language of Show Biz, p. 4, 1973

act-right spray *noun*Chemical Mace or any aerosol self-defense spray US

- Which you proved the time you hit me with act-right spray instead of the roided-up primate I was doing a death dance with. — Joseph Wambaugh, Hollywood Crows, p. 6, 2008
- Once the perp was caught, he "resisted arrest" and got a face full of act right spray as punishment. — sportsandwrestling.mywowbb.com, 7th December 2013

actual *adjective*used for emphasis US, 2011

- What the actual fuck? — Connie Eble, Campus Slang: University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Fall 2015

actual factual *adjective*true, real US

- Popularized by a character, Professor Actual Factual, in the Berenstain Bears children's books.
- I recently heard my son use the phrase "actual factual" the other day. — msgborder.snopes.com, 19th July 2004
- Denny Hastert Going to Actual-Factual Prison. — Wonkette.com, 27th April 2016

Ada from Decatur; Ada Ross, the Stable Hoss *noun*In a game of dice, a roll of eight US, 1918

A homophonic evolution of "eighter."

- In craps, the dice-thrower will call for "Ada from Decatur." — S.I. Hayakawa, Language in Thought and Action, p. 202, 1964
- "Ada from Decatur!" a little sawed-off MP pleaded. — John Oliver Killens, And Then We Heard the Thunder, p. 448, 1983

Ad Alley *nickname*the advertising industry, especially that located in New York and commonly known in the US as "Madison Avenue" after the New York street where many advertising agencies had their offices US, 1952

- Ulcers now run second (along Ad Alley) to crackups among ad agency execs — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 8G, 3rd October 1952
- The urgently felt need to "stimulate" people brought new power, glory, and prosperity to the professional stimulators or persuaders of American industry, particularly the skilled gray-flannelled suiters of New York's Madison Avenue, known as "ad alley." — Vance Packard, The Hidden Persuaders, p. 21, 1957

Adam *noun*1 MDMA, the recreational drug best known as ecstasy US, 1985

A near-anagram.

- — Bruce Eisner, Ecstasy, p. 1, 1989
- CALL IT... Adam, brownies, burgers, disco biscuits, doves, eekies, tulips, X[.] JUST DON'T CALL IT... MDMA—too scientific — Drugs: An Adult Guide, p. 34, December 2001

2 a homosexual's first sexual partner US, 1972

From Adam as the biblical first man.

- — Bruce Rodgers, The Queens' Vernacular, p. 18, 1972

Adam and Eve *noun*a pill of MDEA and MDMA, the recreational drug best known as ecstasy UK, 1996

- — Gareth Thomas, This Is Ecstasy, p. 54, 2002

Adam and Eve on a raft *noun*two eggs on toast US, 1909

Restaurant slang.

- "I'd like two scrambled eggs on toast, and a cup of tea with lemon, please." "Adam and Eve on a raft, wreck 'em, and a spot with a twist." — Alexandra Day, Frank and Ernest, 1988

Adam's off-ox noun

a complete stranger US, 1894

Used in the expression "he wouldn't know me from Adam's off-ox."

- The first time I stepped in, he was behind the counter and didn't know me from Adam's off ox. — Christian Science Monitor, p. 20, 29th April 1983
- You don't know me from Adam's off ox — USA Today, p. 6D, 24th February 2004

ADASTW adjective

arrived dead and stayed that way US, 1991

- "He didn't say anything in the ambulance or once he got here?" "A-D-A-S-T-W," says the nurse. — David Simon, Homicide, p. 287, 1991

addy noun

an address US, 2002

- — Alonzo Westbrook, Hip Haptonary, p. 1, 2002
- [H]is e-mail addy disappeared due to the overwhelming flood of support against the global giant. — Idaho Statesman, p. 36, 27th January 2004

A-deck noun

a prison cell used for solitary confinement US, 1984

- — Inez Cardozo-Freeman, The Joint, p. 479, 1984

adger verb

in computing, to make an avoidable mistake US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 31, 1991

adios motherfucker

used as a farewell US, 1986

Jocular or defiant; sometimes abbreviated to AMF.

- Ten days from now I am adios, motherfucker, so till then I'm playing catch-up. — James Ellroy, Suicide Hill, p. 585, 1986
- "Adios, motherfucker," he said, his voice distorted by the OBA mask. — Peter Deutermann, The Edge of Horror, p. 563, 1995

adjuster noun

a hammer US, 1990

- — Elena García, A Beginner's Guide to Zen and the Art of Snowboarding, p. 121, 1990

ad-lib verb

to date indiscriminately US, 1960

- — San Francisco Examiner, p. III-2, 22nd March 1960

admiral's watch noun

a good night's sleep US, 1918

- Although the night's sleep was not his customary "Admiral's watch," he found himself refreshed. — Randall Platt, The Cornerstone, p. 221, 1998

adorbs adjective

adorable US

- — Urban Dictionary, 18th June 2009
- — Connie Eble, Campus Slang: University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Spring 2014
- "Which makes him totes adorbs!" Bry smiled. — Jade Hemsworth, Project Mc2: Smart is the New Cool, 2016

adorkable noun

cute in an unconventional, slightly odd way US, 2002

- Mr. Neil Diamond besides being a very cute and fluffy adorkable man? — alt.native, 24th July 2002
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, Fall 2005

a-double-scribble noun

used as a euphemism for "ass" in any of its senses US, 1996

- — Claudio R. Salvucci, The Philadelphia Dialect Dictionary, p. 27, 1996

adult verb

to behave in a responsible, mature manner US

- We have a 9-month-old little girl named Cecilia Sunshine (yes, that's her real name) who has done everything in her power to prove that we don't actually know anything about adulting. — Jessica Saggio, Florida Today, 22nd October 2015
- — Connie Eble, Campus Slang: University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Spring 2016

advertise verb

1 to signal your intentions unwittingly but plainly US, 1931

- Relax, Please. This is just another day. Stop advertising. — Horace McCoy, Kiss Tomorrow Good-bye, p. 8, 1948

2 in poker, to bluff in a manner that is intended to be caught, all in anticipation of a later bluff US, 1949

- — Albert H. Morehead, The Complete Guide to Winning Poker, p. 255, 1967

3 in gin, to discard in a manner that is designed to lure a desired card from an opponent US, 1971

- — Irwin Steig, Play Gin to Win, p. 138, 1971

adzine noun

a single-interest fan magazine containing only advertising US, 1982

- — American Speech, p. 23, Spring 1982: "The language of science fiction fan magazines" aerial adjective used as a modifier for any sexual position where at least one participant is off the ground US, 1995

- — Adult Video News, p. 40, August 1995

Aesop noun

in poker, any player who tells stories while playing US, 1996

- — John Vorhaus, The Big Book of Poker Slang, p. 3, 1996

AF adverb

extremely US, 2014

An abbreviation of "as fuck."

- — "20 things That Make Guys Sexy AF That Have Nothing to Do With Looks," Cosmopolitan, September 28, 2015

- Goals! Actual goals! AF — EvaAsMyLife, "Literally, My Life," 2015
- Life has me so fucked up af man. — antonio lmao, Twitter.com, 22nd May 2016
- The point being—dolls can be quirky, very quirky, and—sorry Charlotte—quirky AF. — "Lanesplitter Family Action Figures/Dolls Can Be Quirky AF," Quirkyberkeley.com, 28th May 2016

AFAIC

used as shorthand in Internet discussion groups and text messages to mean "as far as I'm concerned" US, 1991

- Bottom line, AFAIC (as far as I'm concerned): All activism is needed at all levels. — soc.motss, 18th October 1991
- — Gabrielle Mander, WAN2TLK?, p. 42, 2002

AFF noun

an attraction to Asian females US, 1997

An abbreviation of "Asian female fetish."

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 20, 1997

afgay noun

a homosexual US, 1972

Formed by a pig Latin-like construction called "Anyway"

- — Robert A. Wilson, Playboy's Book of Forbidden Words, p. 15, 1972

▷ see: AGFAY (NOUN)

AFK

used as shorthand in Internet discussion groups and text messages to mean "away from keyboard" US, 2002

- AFK away from keyboard—alk.folklore.computers, 28th November 1990
- — Gabrielle Mander, WAN2TLK?, p. 42, 2002

afoot or ahossback adjective unsure of the direction you are going to take US, 1895

- — Charles F. Hayward, Yankee Dictionary, p. 2, 1963

African dominoes noun

dice US, 1919

- Then the colored gamblers set in to pleading with the African dominoes[.] — Guy Owen, The Film-Flam Man and the Apprentice Grifter, p. 117, 1972
- — John Scarne, Scarne on Dice, p. 459, 1974

African golf noun

the game of craps US, 1919

- In Chicago, police arrested a twenty-year-old white girl and called her the world's best craps shooter, a designation that had hitherto been reserved for black experts at "African golf." — Roy Wilkins, Standing Fast, p. 73, 1994

African grape noun

a watermelon US, 1980

Based on the stereotypical association between rural black people and love of watermelon.

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin' down some lines, p. 227, 1980

Afro noun

a bushy, frizzy hairstyle embraced by black people as a gesture of resistance in the 1960s US, 1966

- — Current Slang, p. 1, Spring 1967
- But real Afros, not the ones that have been shaped and trimmed like a topiary hedge, and sprayed until they have a sheen like acrylic wall-to-wall—but like funky, natural, scraggly. — Tom Wolfe, Radical Chic & Mau-Mauing the Flak Catchers, p. 7, 1970
- I knew everything about O.J. from reading that 90-page book that third graders could order from the Weekly Reader. I remember knowing that he had a fine wife and an Afro. — Chris Rock, Rock This!, p. 206, 1997

Afro pick noun

a gap-toothed comb used for an Afro hairstyle US, 1986

- Two black guys are about to tear into each other with Afro picks[.] — Josh Alan Friedman, Tales of Times Square, p. 64, 1986

after noun

afternoon US, 1974

- "Look," Cogan said, "this after, I'm supposed to meet a kid, all right?" — George Higgins, Cogan's Trade, p. 184, 1974

afterburner noun

a linear amplifier for a citizens' band radio US, 1976

- — Lawrence Teeman, Consumer Guide Good Buddy's CB Dictionary, p. 23, 1976

after-hours adjective

open after bars and nightclubs close at 2am US, 1947

- [T]hose highways which in their time have known throngs of sight-seers, which in the heyday of Harlem hotspots housed cabarets and after-hour joints known around the world[.] — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 96, 1948
- I had always stayed away from after-hours joints because I was afraid they would be busted by the police[.] — Dick Gregory, Nigger, p. 139, 1964
- One night, me and Reggie closed up my joint and then went over to this after-hours joint downtown Manhattan. — Edwin Torres, Carlito's Way, p. 81, 1975
- In the early morning hours, before the city has washed her face, people stream out of after-hours clubs like Jump-Offs along Seventh Avenue[.] — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 97, 1989

afterlater adverb

later US, 1997

- I can't go witcha now, how about afterlater? — Amy and Denise McFadden, CoalSpeak, p. 1, 1997

afternoon delight noun

extra-marital sex US, 1982

- adultery: afternoon delight — Sherri Foxman, Classified Love, p. 128, 1982

ag *adjective*angry US, 2000

An abbreviation of “aggravated.”

- Ebony Magazine, p. 156, August 2000: “How to talk to the new generation” against the wall *adjective*said of a confidence swindle which is perpetrated without a fake office, extras, props, etc. US, 1940

- We’re gonna do the play-off somewhere else. The play-off is against the wall. — Stephen Cannell, Big Con, p. 341, 1997

A-game *noun*in a casino or cardroom, the poker game with the highest stakes US, 1949

- George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 5, 1988

agate *noun1 a marble in the slang sense of sanity US, 1951

- He didn’t have all his agates and eventually went nuts. — San Francisco News, p. 22, 19th December 1951

2 a small penis US, 1967

- Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 17, 1967

A-gay *noun*a prominent, sought-after homosexual man US, 1982

- Chuck Lord’s addiction to Negroes was a matter of common knowledge among the A-Gays in San Francisco. — Armistead Maupin, Further Tales of the City, p. 9, 1982 age *noun*in poker and other card games, the person to the immediate left of the dealer US, 1963

- Irwin Steig, Common Sense in Poker, p. 181, 1963

-age *suffix*used as an embellishment without meaning at the end of nouns *US, 1981*The suffix got a second wind with the US television series Buffy The Vampire Slayer.

- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 4, March 1981
- Lady Kier Kirby, The 376 Deee-liteful Words, 1992

age card *noun*proof of legal age US, 1968

- New girl, Jane, she fresh up from Alabama an still funky—she ain’t got no age card, can’t buy herself a drink t’ nurse[.] — Robert Gover, JC Saves, p. 17, 1968 agent *noun1 the operator of a rigged carnival game US, 1985

- A good Agent can be listed among the elite super salesmen to be found in any field. Cars, vacuum cleaners or wheeling land dealers, I’ll put a Carny Agent against them anytime. — Gene Sorrows, All About Carnivals, p. 6, 1985

2 in casino gambling, a confederate of a cheat US, 1996

- Frank Scoblete, Best Blackjack, p. 252, 1996

Agent Scully *noun*oral sex *US, 2001*A reference to the name of the female lead in the X-Files television series, punning on her name and SKULL (oral sex).

- Brooks and his colleagues also provide police with glossaries of street slang—“Agent Scully” = “oral sex;” “getting my cake” = “dating my girl.” — Washington Post, p. A1, 20th August 2001 agfay *noun*a homosexual man *US, 1942*Pig Latin for FAG.

- There were plenty of similar names that he had to live down: Nola, pix, flit, queer, fag, faggot, agfay[.] — Etienne Leroux, The Third Eye, p. 42, 1969

aggie *noun*an aggressive, domineering male US, 1968

From the conventional “aggressive.”

- Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 70, 1968

aggie *adjective*angry, agitated US, 2002

- Alonzo Westbrook, Hip Hoptiary, p. 2, 2002

aginner *noun*a person morally opposed to carnivals and the circus US, 1981

- Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 7, 1981

agitate verb▶ agitate the gravelto leave US, 1958

Teen slang.

- San Francisco News, p. 6, 25th March 1958
- Agitate the Gravel—beat it. — Art Unger, The Cool Book, p. 110, 1961

a-gunner *noun*an assistant gunner US, 1981

- It’s up to my a-gunner to keep up with the situation. — Mark Baker, Nam, p. 61, 1981

A-head *noun1 an amphetamine abuser US, 1971

- Edward R. Bloomquist, Marijuana, p. 331, 1971
- There’s A-heads and there’s speedfreaks[.] — Lester Bangs, Psychoic Reactions and Carburator Dung, p. 178, 1975

- She was a bit of an A-head and was a familiar figure at the fountain in her uniform after work. — Ed Sanders, Tales of Beatnik Glory, p. 121, 1975

2 a frequent user of LSD US, 1971

- Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 22, 1971

ahhh, Rooshanused as a youth-to-youth greeting US, 1949

A short-lived fad greeting associated with bebop jazz.

- Time, 3rd October 1949

a-hole *noun1 the anus US, 1942“A” as in ASS.

- Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 17, 1967
- Bruce Rodgers, The Queens’ Vernacular, p. 18, 1972
- “[I’ll stick that dang pecker-bat up his lard-ass A-hole!” — Terry Southern, Texas Summer, p. 110, 1991
- Cum dribbles down her crack, ultimately resting upon her a-hole. — Anthony Petkovich, The X Factory, p. 193, 1997

2 by extension, a despised person US, 1942

- You know Jackie is an Aye Hole. — Howard Stern, Miss America, p. 192, 1995
- “If a-hole is on time, we’ll be long gone ‘fore it hits.” — Carl Hiaasen, Skinny Dip, p. 428, 2004

a-ightused for expressing agreement or affirmation US, 1995

- Lois Stavsky et al., A2Z: The Book of Rap and Hip-Hop Slang, p. 1, 1995
- “He’s aight!” I used to yell back from my grandmother’s window. — Earl “DMX” Simmons, E.A.R.L., p. 167, 2002
- Roots was like, “Aight.” — 50 Cent, From Pieces to Weight, p. 140, 2005

ain’t no shame in my gameused for expressing a lack of shame when engaged in an activity that might shame others US, 2002

- Alonzo Westbrook, Hip Hoptiary, p. 2, 2002

ain’t no thang; ain’t no big thangused for dismissing something as not problematic US, 1985

- Connie Eble, UNC-CH Campus Slang, Fall 1985
- Richard McAllister, Rapper’s Handbook, p. 1, 1990
- O-Dog: How’s the shoulder, nigga? Caine: Fucked up, but it ain’t no thang. — Menace II Society, 1993
- Kenn “Naz” Young, Naz’s Dictionary of Teen Slang, p. 2, 1993

ain’t that a bite!isn’t that too bad! US, 1951

Teen slang.

- Newsweek, p. 28, 8th October 1951

ain’t the beer cold!used for conveying that all is well in the world US, 1982

Popularized by baseball radio announcer Chuck Thompson, who used the phrase as the title of his autobiography. Repeated with referential humor.

- Thompson is the kind of announcer you listen to while wearing your slippers. He’s homey and conversational. An Oriole hits a homer and he says, “Hmmm! Ain’t the beer cold!” — Washington Post, p. E12, 27th June 1982
- When your first two opponents lose their starting quarterbacks in August, well, ain’t the beer cold? — Washington Times, p. F5, 3rd September 2003

AIO *noun*a college student who does not belong to a fraternity US, 1968

- AIO, Ain’t In One, is the way non-Greeks refer to themselves. — Fred Hester, Slang on the 40 Acres, p. 16, 1968

air *noun1 a jump while snowboarding US, 1996

- Mike Fabbro, Snowboarding, p. 93, 1996

2 air support, air power, bombing US

- Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 5, 1991

3 in the pornography industry, an ejaculation that cannot be seenleaving the penis and traveling through the air US, 1995

In a situation which calls for visual proof of the ejaculation, air is not good.

- Adult Video News, p. 40, August 1995

4 the mood created by a person or persons US, 1988

There is “good air” and there is “bad air.”

- Michael V. Anderson, The Bad, Rad, Not to Forget Way Cool Beach and Surf Discretionary, p. 2, 1988

▶ in the air(used of the flank of an army) unprotected by natural or man-made obstacles US, 1982

- In Marine parlance, their flanks were “hanging in the air” with no contact save an occasional patrol. — Joseph C. Goulden, Korea, p. 348, 1982

▶ on air(said of a bet) made on credit US, 2005

- “I let you bet on air;” I told Antoine. — 50 Cent, From Pieces to Weight, p. 114, 2005

▶ up in the air(used of a pair in a game of poker) formed with help from the communal face-up cards US, 1992

- Edwin Silberstang, Winning Poker for the Serious Player, p. 221, 1992

air verb▶ air the house outto shoot a gun US

- Then disarm him and start airing the house out. But he got away before I could get to him. — thefiringline.com/forums/archive, 28th June 2002

- Some members of Cash Out Boyz began talking about leaving, coming back, and fighting and “airing the house out.” — South Bend Tribune, 2nd December 2011

airbag noun

a person who talks too much US, 2004

- To think. When I got out of the joint, I thought an airbag was Paulie Walnuts. — The Sopranos (Episode 60), 2004

airbags noun

the lungs US, 1945

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 7, 1945

air ball noun

1 in pinball, a ball that is lost out of play without having been flipped US, 1977

- — Bobbye Claire Nation and Steve Kirk, All About Pinball, 1977

2 in pool, a shot in which the cue ball does not hit any other ball US, 1993

- — Mike Shamos, The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Billiards, p. 3, 1993

air barrel noun

in pool, that which backs a bet made without money to back the bet US, 1990

A BARREL is a betting unit; an “air barrel” is thus an illusory betting unit.

- — Steve Rushin, Pool Cool, p. 5, 1990

air biscuit noun

a fart US, 2001

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 31, 2001
- — The A-Z of Rude Health, 18th January 2002

air dance noun

suicide by hanging US

- Charlie Gifford had arrived, pissed off for having to leave his TV just because some old cruiser did an air dance. — Joseph Wambaugh, Hollywood Crows, pp. 59–60, 2008

airedale noun

1 a Wall Street gentleman US, 1925

An extension of the symbol of the Airedale as an aristocratic dog.

- — New York Times Magazine, p. 76, 13th March 1955

2 a navy pilot US, 1942

- The pilots are in fact a pleasant, easy-going, affable lot known affectionately to surface sailors as “Airedales” or “birdmen.” — Life, p. 85, 26th March 1945
- Despite a Navy directive to cut it out, Navy pilots remain “Airedales” and Marines are still “Gyrenes.” — New York Times Magazine, p. 76, 13th March 1955
- “Got it from a pilot over at the airstrip,” the first sergeant said. “Those airedales sure live well.” — Robert A. Anderson, Cooks & Bakers, p. 123, 1982
- Looks like you Airedale guys aren’t gonna take no for an answer today, are YOU? — Gerry Carroll, *North S*A*R*, p. 88, 1991

3 a plane handler on an aircraft carrier US, 1943

- The battle-scarred hangar deck of the carrier Enterprise, cleared of planes and shouting airedales (airplane handlers), has been converted into this gigantic bunk room. — Time, p. 24, 10th December 1945
- The air officers, plane handlers who shift and push and manhandle the planes a dozen times a day around the deck. These are ordinarily known as “airedales,” but the term isn’t much used on our ship. — San Francisco News, p. 10, 19th March 1945

air guitar noun

an imagined guitar used to mimic a rock guitar player US, 1982

- The three Figures look at each other, do a ferocious AIR GUITAR, and run OUT OF FRAME. — Bill and Ted’s Excellent Adventure, p. 91, 1989

airhead noun

a person who is not inclined to think, not equipped to think, or both US, 1972

- [T]here’s a good proportion of air heads and space cadets in those courses, too. — Wesleyan Alumnus, p. 29, Spring 1981
- I’m sorry about your friend. I thought she was your usual airhead bitch. — Heathers, 1988
- Look at all these airheads! — Airheads, 1994
- What am I, some sort of mentally challenged airhead? — Clueless, 1995

airmail noun

1 garbage thrown from the upper windows of a building to the courtyard below US, 1952

- Throwing garbage out of windows is referred to as AIRMAIL. — Hubert Selby Jr., Last Exit to Brooklyn, p. 253, 1957

2 objects thrown by prisoners down onto guards or other prisoners below US, 1992

- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 99, 1992

airmail verb

to throw garbage from the upper windows of a building to the courtyard below US, 1968

- [F]rom the back windows of the tenements beyond several people were busy “airmailing,” throwing garbage out of the window, into the rubble, beer cans, red shreds, the No-Money-Down Eames roller stand for a TV set, all flying through the air into the scagg — Tom Wolfe, The Pump House Gang, p. 240, 1968 airplane noun

a device used for holding a marijuana cigarette that has burnt down to the stub US, 1970

An abbreviation of the fuller JEFFERSON AIRPLANE.

- — William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Uplight People, p. 20, December 1970 airplane verb

to inhale through the nose the smoke of the stub of a marijuana cigarette US, 1970

- — Current Slang, p. 12, Spring 1970

airs noun

a pair of Nike Air Jordan™ sneakers US, 1990

- — Richard McAlister, Rapper’s Handbook, p. 1, 1990

air-to-mud adjective

(used of shots fired or bombs dropped) from the air to the ground US, 1961

- We would like to give it modest air-to-mud capability — Senate Committee on Appropriations, Department of Defense Appropriations, p. 72, 1961
- Air-to-ground bombing or shooting missiles from an airplane to a target on the ground. Sometimes called air-to-mud. — Robert Wilcox, Scream of Eagles, p. 293, 1990

airy adjective

marijuana-intoxicated US, 1949

- I just got a little high and airy with the sticks and they made me feel better[.] — Hal Ellson, Duke, p. 3, 1949

aitch noun

1 hell US, 1950

A euphemism.

- As he told his president who wanted to know why the aitch Fresno State wasn’t good enough for the track coach’s son, it broke his heart to lose a kid who had already thrown the javelin — Fortnight, p. 17, 6th January 1950
- “It was boring as aitch,” says Hewitt, who does not use profanity, liquor, tobacco or coffee but has a weakness for candy bars. — Life, p. 144, 12th April 1954

2 heroin US, 1945

- The price of pure heroin (“aitch”) has gone up from $60 an ounce to $500. — Time, p. 48, 16th April 1945

ai te guacho

I’ll see you later US, 1950

“Guacho” pronounced “watch-o,” a pure invention. Border Spanish used in English conversation by Mexican-Americans.

- — George Carpenter Baker, Pachuco, p. 40, January 1950
- “Ay te watcho, man.” “Easy.” — Thurston Scott, Cure it with Honey, p. 14, 1951
- Cruz shook his head and said, “Ahi te huacho,” which is anglicized slang meaning I’ll be seeing, or rather, watching for you. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Blue Knight, p. 61, 1973

ajax noun

in hold ‘em poker, an ace and a jack as the first two cards dealt to a particular player US, 1981

Punning on the brand name of a cleaning agent.

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 5, 1987

AK noun

1 a sycophant US, 1939

An abbreviation of ASS KISSER.

- — Robert A. Wilson, Playboy’s Book of Forbidden Words, p. 15, 1972

2 a mean and nasty old man US, 1942

An abbreviation of the Yiddish ALTER KOCKER.

- Two A.K.’s had sat in silence on their favorite park bench for hours, lost in thought. Finally, one gave a long and languid “Oy!” The other replied, “You’re telling me?” — Leo Rosten, The Joys of Yiddish, p. 14, 1968

3 an AK-47 semi-automatic rifle US, 1990

- — Richard McAlister, Rapper’s Handbook, p. 1, 1990
- — Bill Valentine, Gang Intelligence Manual, p. 74, 1995

AK verb

to curry favor by obsequious behavior US, 1939

An abbreviation of “ass-kiss.”

- — American Speech, p. 154, May 1959: “Gator (University of Florida) slang”

AKA noun

an alias US, 1955

An acronym of “also known as”; from police jargon.

- It was the very lack of embellishment to his aka that established him as a man of distinction. — Marc Savage, Paradise, p. 206, 1993
- Reggie Jackson, Reggie Miller—I think ‘cause he was given a movie star name at birth he has to pick celebrity names as his a.k.a.s, like they his peers. — Elmore Leonard, Be Cool, p. 247, 1999

▶ go AKA

to assume an alias US, 1983

- “The moral of the story,” Chucky said, “the punto, any time you go a.k.a. you better be sure everybody with you does too.” — Elmore Leonard, Stick, p. 121, 1983

ala-ala’s noun

the testicles US, 1981

Hawaiian youth usage.

- Wow, da guy when keeck mah ala-ala! Ah t’ought da buggah goin bus’! — Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max, 1981

Alabama Kleenex noun

toilet paper US, 1967

- Blood spurted from his face, so a pilot from Montgomery went to the bathroom to get some Alabama Kleenex. — Elaine Shepard, The Doom Pussy, p. 46, 1967

Alabama wool *noun*cotton US, 1949

- American has Alabama wool for cotton. — Eric Partridge, The World of Words, p. 152, 1949

Alamo Hilton *nickname*a heavily fortified bunker beneath the Khe Sanh base in South Vietnam during the Vietnam war US, 1977

- The grunts called it the Alamo Hilton and thought it was candy-assed, while almost every correspondent who came to Khe Sanh tried to get a bed there. — Michael Herr, Dispatches, p. 124, 1978

Alaska hand *noun*in hold 'em poker, a king and a three as the first two cards dealt to a particular player US, 1981

- Built from the synonymous KING CRAB, which is found in Alaska.
- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 5, 1987

Alaska strawberries *noun*beans US, 1991

- — Russell Tabbert, Dictionary of Alaskan English, p. 82, 1991

Alaska tuxedo *noun*a wool work suit US, 1965

- The Alaskan tuxedo is an ideal jacket in the woods and is commonly worn as a dress-up jacket. — Robert O. Bowen, An Alaskan Dictionary, p. 7, 1965
- — Mike Doogan, How to Speak Alaskan, p. 6, 1993

albino *noun*in pool, the white cue ball US, 1988

- — Mike Shamos, The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Billiards, p. 4, 1993

alcohol rub *noun*a cocktail party US, 1968

- Bryn Hemming, that delightful English import, gave an alcohol rub last night for Princess Ibrahim Fazil. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 21, 29th October 1968 alibi *noun*in a rigged carnival game, the reason given by the game operator to disqualify a legitimate win US, 1985

- The most common alibi is to tell the player he went over the foul line.
- — Gene Sorrows, All About Carnivals, p. 8, 1985

Alice *noun1 the Aryan Brotherhood, a white prison gang US, 1975

- — Report to the Senate, California Senate Committee on Civil Disorder, p. 227, 1975

2 a military backpack US, 1988

- The only things the men had were their individual weapons and ALICE packs, rucksacks that held the bare bones necessities[.] — Harold Coyle, Sword Point, p. 177, 1988
- I hit the ground and grabbed my alice [backpack], then crawled to my humvee [military vehicle]. — Washington Post, p. A1, 1st February 1991

▶ to have Aliceto experience the bleed period of the menstrual cycle US, 1968

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 70, 1968

Alice B. Toklas brownies *noun*chocolate brownies laced with marijuana or hashish US, 1969

- Toklas' original 1954 recipe, which was for fudge, not brownies, carried the caution: "Should be eaten with care. Two pieces are quite sufficient."
- One close friend, a wife of a Congressman, who smokes marijuana on occasion and takes a few Alice B. Toklas brownies[.] — Myra MacPherson, The Power Lovers, p. 78, 1975
- Mrs. Madrigal had come to her table with a basket of Alice B. Toklas brownies. "I made too many," she had said. "Take two, but save one for later. They'll knock you on your ass." — Armistead Maupin, Tales of the City, p. 183, 1978 alien *noun*in casino gambling, a betting chip from another casino US, 1983

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 5, 1987

A-list *noun*used for denoting all that is associated with the greatest contemporary fame and celebrity US, 1935

- You know, if you do go out with Bianca, you'd be set. You'd outrank everyone. Strictly A-list. — Ten Things I Hate About You, 1999
- From comments McGann had overheard from the A-list guests, tomorrow's society columns would make the ambassador preen. — Philip Shelby, Gatekeeper, p. 144, 2000

alky; alk *noun1 an alcoholic US, 1952

- I get high drunk, drop money on floor, am panhandled, play Ruth Brown wildjumps records among drunken alky whores. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to John Clellon Holmes, p. 338, 8th February 1952
- If these boys don't play it just right they're liable to finish their training up in Portland at the alky hospital. — Ken Kesey, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, p. 145, 1962
- Jesus, you think we'd miss your wedding? This bunch of alky's? — The Deer Hunter, 1978
- You were never an alky, you were a cokehead. — Something About Mary, 1998

2 alcohol, especially methyl alcohol US, 1844

- Alky Orgy Kills One, Fells 8 — San Francisco Examiner, p. 5, 13th May 1946
- Maybe he put alky in the radiator and the chassis is snozled[.] — James T. Farrell, Saturday Night, p. 37, 1947
- Long before midnight its habits have already made sleeping arrangements or are snoring in the alleys, cheap overnight lodgings or hallways, paralyzed by alky or cheap domestic red wine. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 31, 1951

- I dug him up for Big Al, to protect our trucks and the alky we peddled to the coloreds. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Death Wish, p. 222, 1977

alky breather *noun*a breath test for alcohol blood content US, 1967

- They had all the men who had visitors take an alky breather today. All neg.
- — Ken Kesey, Kesey's Jail Journal, p. 34, 1967

alkyed *adjective*drunk US, 1970

- It was big, loud and rough and there must have been a dozen cops getting alkyled. — Red Rudensky, The Gonif, p. 88, 1970

alky tank *noun*a holding cell in a jail reserved for drunk prisoners US, 1962

- I insist on a transfer—neurology bin, the alky tank, pediatrics, I just don't care! — Ken Kesey, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, p. 27, 1962

all▶ be allused as a quotative device to report a conversation US, 1992

- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 1, Spring 1992
- So I was all, "What's your problem?" And he was all, "Nothing." — Boogie Nights, 1997
- Gimme the money, motherfucker, and I'm all, No, and he's yelling. — Lynn Breedlove, Godspeed, p. 200, 2002

all day *noun*a life sentence to prison US, 1974

- "You're goin' in for all day on this one, my friend." — George Higgins, Cogan's Trade, p. 169, 1974
- One has all day [life], and a few are getting ready to get out in a couple of years. — Yusuf Jah, Uprising, p. 26, 1995
- "The majority of people under paperwork have all day. Life sentences, cuz."
- — Colton Simpson, Inside the Crips, p. 128, 2005

all day *adjective1 in bar dice games involving up to three rolls, taking all three rolls to make the player's hand US, 1976

- — Gil Jacobs, The World's Best Dice Games, p. 191, 1976

2 in craps, said of a bet that is in effect until the shooter rolls his point or a seven US, 1983

- When you tell the dealer you're making an all day bet, that means it's a standard hardway bet rather than a one-roll proposition bet. — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 5, 1987

all day and night *noun*a life prison sentence US, 1976

- — John R. Armore and Joseph D. Wolfe, Dictionary of Desperation, p. 19, 1976
- "He's in the big house for all day and night, a new fish jammed into a drum with a cribman, who acts like a gazoonie." — San Francisco Examiner, p. 26, 17th August 1976

all day for a quarter *noun*a jail sentence of 25 years to life US, 1992

- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 24, 1992

allelujah *noun*a religious mission that serves food to the poor US, 1947

- "[M]aybe you hit the Salvation Army for a meal or knock on a back door or you go to the hallelujahs for coffee [.]" — Willard Motley, Knock on Any Door, p. 77, 1947

alley apple *noun*a brick or cobblestone US, 1927

- — Bill Reilly, Big Al's Official Guide to Chicagoese, p. 13, 1982
- [W]hen the wine and beer bottles evaded easy reach, we threw half house bricks and roughed out cobblestones, "alley apples." — Odie Hawkins, Men Friends, p. 13, 1989

alley bourbon *noun*strong, illegally manufactured whiskey US, 1999

- — Star Tribune (Minneapolis), p. 19f, 31st January 1999

alley cat *noun*a young person who idles on a street corner US, 1945

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 21, 1945
- [T]he elderly homeless and alley cats slowly circle the vegetable stalls for handouts from grocers' assistants at closing time. — Alix Shulman, On the Stroll, p. 4, 1981

alley-cat verb

to engage in a full range of vice, especially promiscuous

sex US, 1953

- "Don't go back to your alley-cating until the Sergeant is over the horizon."
- — John D. McDonald, The Neon Jungle, p. 13, 1953

alley craps *noun*a spontaneous, loosely organized, private game of craps, rarely played in an alley US, 1977

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 5, 1987

alley-wise *adjective*sophisticated in the ways of the world US, 1968

- As a pusher, you have more exposure than anyone else in the dope game. You have to be alley-wise. — Phil Hirsch, Hooked, p. 18, 1968
- One way or another, he has been a gambler all his life. Alley-wise. Street-smart. — Edward Lin, Big Julie of Vegas, p. 12, 1974 all-fired *adjective*used as an intensifier *US, 1845*Perhaps a euphemism for “hell-fired,” as are INFERNAL, DAMNED, etc.

- Why are people so all-fired concerned about doing things the right way, anyway? — Dick Clark, To Goof or Not to Goof, p. 12, 1963
- “Well, how come you know so all-fired much about it?” Harold asked. — Terry Southern, Texas Summer, p. 45, 1991

alligator *noun*an enthusiastic fan of swing jazz US, 1936

- Bernie could well remember the “alligators” of the late swing period, those serious types, self-styled students of American jazz, who used to edge up to the orchestra shell and remain there all night, indefatigably listening. — Ross Russell, The Sound, p. 81, 1961

alligator verb(of a painting) to crack US, 1955

- “Alligatoring” is the word for cracks that develop in paint. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 5, 22nd May 1955

Alligator Alley *nickname*Interstate Highway 75, which connects Naples and Fort Lauderdale, Florida US, 1966

So named because it crosses the heart of what had been an impenetrable wilderness, the Florida Everglades. The name is thought to have been coined by the American Automobile Association in 1966 to express supreme disdain for what it considered to be an unsafe toll road.

- — Wayne Floyd, Jason’s Authentic Dictionary of CB Slang, p. 8, 1976
- Authorities closed a 20-mile stretch of “Alligator Alley,” south Florida’s primary cross-state connector, and detonated a package early Friday after stopping three suspects who they believe may have been plotting a terror attack in Miami. — CNN News, 13th September 2002

alligator bait *noun1 a black person US, 1901

- Particularly disturbing was the recurring portrayal of African American children as “alligator bait” in southern tourist memorabilia. — Kevern Verney, African Americans and US Popular Culture, p. 11, 2003

2 bad food, especially fried liver US, 1926

- — Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World’s Toughest Prison, p. 789, 1962

alligator burns *noun*charrings on burnt wood in the form of scales that resemble an alligator’s hide US, 1981

- If he’d gone in there he wouldn’t have known right off, the way those charrings, alligator burns, showed, he would’ve known you torched it. — George V. Higgins, The Rat on Fire, p. 22, 1981

alligator skins *noun*paper money US, 1949

- I pulled the score by myself. I was gone about an hour and when I came back I got fistfuls of alligator skins. — Hal Ellson, Duke, p. 68, 1949

all in *adjective*said of a poker player who has bet their entire remaining bankroll US, 1979

- — John Scame, Scame’s Guide to Modern Poker, p. 272, 1979

all jokes and no tokens *adjective*used by casino employees to describe poor tipping by gamblers US, 1983

- When I hear all jokes and no tokens, I know that everybody is having a good time but the dealers. — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 6, 1987

all like▶ be all likeused as a quotative device, combining two other devices for “to say” US, 1997

- So then I was all like, “What are you gonna do?” Y’ know? And he was all, like acting tough, y’ know, with his friends around and stuff. — Boogie Nights, 1997 all-nighter *noun1 an engagement between a prostitute and customer that lasts all night; a prostitute’s client who pays to stay all night UK, 1960

- I can’t takin no all night fer one fast fiver, so I start in playin roun wiff his lil ol pecker. — Robert Gover, One Hundred Dollar Misunderstanding, p. 21, 1961
- Three hundred and fifty scoots for an all-nighter. — James Ellroy, Brown’s Requiem, p. 236, 1981
- He didn’t know if they tricked during the evening and then took an all-nighter. — Robert Campbell, Alice in La-La Land, p. 263, 1987

2 a person who stays in jail all night after being arrested US, 1992

- He was issued a pallet to sleep on and locked up with twenty other all-nighters. — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 97, 1992

all play *noun*group sex in which all present participate US, 2006

- All play: A term describing a group sex situation (anything from a three-way to a moteful) where bench warming is strongly discouraged and all attendees must participate in some way. — Emma Taylor, Em and Lo’s Rec Sex, p. 11, 2006

all-purpose capsule *nickname*the APC tablet freely dispensed by Army medics US

The tablet contained aspirin, phenace-tin (an analgesic), and caffeine.

- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 34, 1968

all reet *adjective*good; all right US, 1946

- Well, all reet then, tell your story, man. — Ross Russell, The Sound, p. 10, 1961

all right *adjective*in possession of drugs US, 1971

- “You all right?” one of the dopefiends yelled out of the back window. “I’ll be back with some scag in less than an hour,” Snake replied. — Donald Goines, Dopefiend, p. 174, 1971

all right!used as a greeting among prisoners US, 1992

- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 45, 1992

all rooters and no shootersused at casino craps tables for encouraging a player to take a turn as a shooter US, 1983

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 6, 1987

all rootieused as an expression of agreement or satisfaction US, 1957

Especially popular after Little Richard’s 1955 hit song “Tutti Frutti.”

- “All rootie,” she said agreeably. — Max Shulman, Rally Round the Flag, Boys!, p. 47, 1957

all show and no go *adjective*used for describing someone who cannot back appearances with action US, 1978

- “I think you’re all show, no go,” she said, and gave him a firm shove. — Willard Scott MacDonald, Moose, p. 158, 1978
- He’s all show and no go. When he tried to act tough with us, no matter what happened, Hunter Thompson got scared. — Ralph “Sonny” Barger, Hell’s Angel, p. 125, 2000

all that *adjective*superlative, very good US, 1991

- — Lady Kier Kirby, The 376 Deee-liteful Words, 1992
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 1, Spring 1993
- He thinks he’s all that, Tai. — Clueless, 1995

all the way live *adjective*excellent, superlative US, 1982

- So like Andrea’s sweet sixteen party was like all the way live! — Mary Corey and Victoria Westermark, Fer Shurr! How to be a Valley Girl, 1982
- He has a beautiful girl, a brand new car, and a college degree. That brother is definitely all the way live. — Fab 5 Freddy, Fresh Fly Favor, p. 6, 1992

all-time *adjective*excellent US, 1961

- So, let’s just say it was all time. Which, in case you’re not up-to-date, means the utmost, the greatest. — Frederick Kohner, Gidget Goes Hawaiian, p. 6, 1961
- — John Severson, Modern Surfing Around the World, p. 162, 1964

all-timer’s disease *noun*used by surfers humorously to describe a person’s proclivity to exaggerate when recounting surf conditions or their accomplishments US, 1991

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin’ary, p. 2, 1991

alone player *noun*a card cheat who works alone US, 1961

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 6, 1987

alpha alpha *noun*an automatic ambush US, 2004

From the phonetic alphabet.

- — David Hart, First Air Cavalry Division Vietnam Dictionary, p. 2, 2004

alphabet city *nickname*an imprecisely defined area on the lower east side of Manhattan, near Avenues A, B, C, and D US, 1980

- A lot of poet friends have abandoned the squalor of Alphabet City and the Lower East Side for the bovine whines of this little coastal town outside San Francisco. — Jim Carroll, Forced Entries, p. 116, 1987
- We skate through Greenwich Village to Alphabet City. — Lynn Breedlove, Godspeed, p. 205, 2002

alpha sierraan air strike US

From the phonetic alphabet and the initials AS.

- Right now, they’re putting in an air strike, or Alpha Sierra, about a click away, but the trouble is the fighters are making their passes parallel with our perimeter. — Don Bishop, Letters Home: Vietnam, p. 101, 4 March 1969

alrightnik *noun*a person who has succeeded in material terms US, 1968

- An alrightnik, drowning, was pulled out of the water, and an excited crowd gathered, crying, “Stand back!” “Call a doctor!” “Give him artificial respiration!” “Never!” cried the alrightnik’s wife “Real respiration or nothing!” — Leo Rosten, The Joys of Yiddish, pp. 12–13, 1968

also-ran *noun*anyone not performing very well US, 1896

Originally applied in horse racing to any horse placed fourth or worse and thus not winning any money on the race.

- Veteran Millers Now “Also Rans” (Headline) — San Francisco News, p. 17, 15th January 1947
- “Also-Ran” Bags Net Upset Win (Headline) — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 8G, 1st August 1953
- — Mel Heimer, Inside Racing, p. 209, 1962 altar *noun*a toilet US, 1962

- Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World's Toughest Prison, p. 789, 1962

alter kocker; alte kaker *noun*a mean and nasty old man US, 1968

Yiddish for German for “old shitter.”

- I'm doing it for Arnie Green, an alte kaker with hair in his ears. — Armistead Maupin, Maybe the Moon, p. 46, 1992
- His lawyer, Jesse Vogel, one of Mason's entourage of alter cocker flunkies, is propositioning blondes[.] — Josh Friedman, When Sex Was Dirty, p. 9, 2005

altogether noun▶ the altogethercomplete nudity UK, 1894

- It was then that Marcia leaped out of bed, forgetting in her excitement that she was in the “altogether,” as the folks on Broadway say. — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, 2nd May 1946
- She would sooner have cake-walked out on the Radio City Music Hall stage in the altogether, with a red gardenia in her belly button, than put those crippled thumbs of hers on exhibit over a canasta table or anywhere. — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 93, 1954
- Strip teaser Lili St. Cyr made movieland history this week when she appeared in a scene for a new picture in the altogether—that is, absolutely nude. — San Francisco News, 16th August 1958
- Male & Female In the Altogether—Free Coffee! — San Francisco Examiner, 4th July 1968

aluminum box *noun*an armored personnel carrier US

- The “aluminum boxes” were easy targets, and all it takes is a neryv NVA with an armor-piercing rocket. — Fred Brown, Vietnam War Diary, p. 221, 1998

aluminum overcast *noun*any very large military aircraft US, 1961

- Gansz never served in a command that had jet fighters, and he flew as a copilot on a C-124—a large propeller-driven troop and cargo carrier nicknamed “The Aluminum Overcast” because of its size and relatively low normal cruising speed of 272 miles per hour — Chicago Tribune, p. C6, 28th December 1987
- The B-17 was the bomber workhorse of World War II. When production ended in 1945, 12,726 had been built. The “Aluminum Overcast” carries the colors of the 398th Bomb Group and commemorates one shot down over France. — Florida Times-Union, p. B1, 14th November 2003

Alvin *noun*a naive, easily cheated person US, 1949

Circus and carnival usage.

- I registered the unconscious contempt of the barkers for the Alvins and the Clydes who strolled the midway, fat silly sheep who thought it fun to be fleeced[.] — Malcolm Braly, False Starts, p. 69, 1976

A-man *noun1 a police officer assigned to a squad car US, 1958

- A-men are men in the automobile squad. — New York Times, p. 34, 20th October 1958

2 an amphetamine user US

- All the amphetamine men—“A-men”—fags on speed who would howl laughing at the very thought of going to a “gay bar,” loved the San Remo because it wasn't really a gay bar. — Andy Warhol and Pat Hackett, Popism: The Warhol Sixties, pp. 54–55, 1980

amateur night *noun*New Year's Eve US, 1977

Just as amateur Christians attend church only twice a year, or amateur Jews attend services only twice a year, amateur drunks only drink to oblivion once a year.

- I was a third-rate amateur. Do you know what alcoholics call New Year's Eve? Amateur night. — Elmore Leonard, Touch, p. 168, 1977

amazeballs *adjective*very good US, 2009

Coined and popularized by Mario Amando Lavandeira Jr., who blogs as Perez Hilton.

- I don't know ... brainstorm together? Come up with some really amazeballs story lines? — Jayne Denker, Unscripted, 2013
- Amazeballs: impress your friends with this quick, easy, and delicious cookie buttery treat! — Jennifer Lynn Jones, Planning Perfect Parties, 2014
- Happy Birthday, Jane Seymour! You look amazeballs! — perez Hilton.com, 15th February 2016

Amazon Annie *nickname*a cannon designed to fire atomic shells US, 1958

- The Army's 280-millimeter cannon, nicknamed “Amazon Annie,” gave field artillerymen their biggest thrill last week since the first caisson was rolled into place in the Fourteenth Century. — San Francisco Chronicle, This World, p. 2, 31 May 1958

ambo *noun*an ambulance US, 1991

- Separate ambulances took both men to the same trauma unit, with McLarney telling the medics that he felt as if he was falling, as if he was going to fall off the litter. — David Simon, Homicide, p. 150, 1991
- “Mount and Fayette,” says Eggy, watching the ambos roll up on a double shooting. — David Simon and Edward Burns, The Corner, p. 321, 1997 ambulance chaser *noun*a disreputable lawyer, especially one who arrives or has an agent arrive at the scene of a disaster to seek clients from among the victims US, 1896

From the image of following an ambulance to an accident.

- You're a used car salesman, Daniel. You're an ambulance chaser with a rank. — A Few Good Men, 1992 ambush academy *noun*during the Vietnam war, training in jungle warfare, especially of the unconventional sort US, 1966

- The Tropic Lightning's Ambush Academy teaches all the basics necessary for a successful ambush. — United States Army, The 25th's 25th in Combat, p. 232, 1966 ambush alley *nickname*the section of Route 19 between An Keh and the base of the Mang Giang Pass, South Vietnam US, 1965

So named by truckers after countless Vietcong ambushes, borrowed from the Korean war (1952) where the term was used for any dangerous road.

- We pulled out quickly with the very nervous drivers, knowing that we would soon be going through “Ambush Alley.” — Franklin Rast, Don's Nam, p. 121, 1999
- As we turn north on to Ambush Alley I am amazed at how different it looks today. — Byron Holley, Vietnam: A Battalion Surgeon Returns, p. 189, 2001

ameche *noun*a telephone US, 1941

From actor Don Ameche's performance as Alexander Graham Bell in a 1939 movie.

- You're wanted on the Ameche, June! — San Francisco News, p. 13, 7 July 1945
- The Ameche approach—Friday night and you're waiting for that all important call. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 7, 16th November 1947

American Airlines *noun*in hold 'em poker, the ace of diamonds and ace of hearts as the first two cards dealt to a player US, 1981

From the initials AA.

- Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 7, 1987

Amerika; Amerikkka *noun*the United States US, 1969

A spelling favored by the political counterculture in the late 1960s and early 1970s; in the second form, “kkk” signifies the white supremacist Ku Klux Klan. Rap artist Ice Cube's 1990 album “AmerikkKa's Most Wanted” gave the KKK spelling high-profile exposure.

- It wasn't until after the slave trade ended that Amerika, England, France, and the Netherlands invaded and settled in on Afro-Asian soil in earnest. — George Jackson, Soledad Brother, p. 236, April 1970
- The New York bombers identified themselves afterward as “revolutionary force 9” in a message to “Amerika” (a current fad in radical literature is to spell it with a German “k” to denote fascism). — San Francisco Examiner & Chronicle Datebook, p. 18, 5th April 1970
- These black singers and magic music-makers were the real “freedom riders” of Amerika[.] — John Sinclair, Guitar Army, p. 12, 1972
- I believe that all three take a tremendous toll on the behavior of Blacks in Amerikkka. — Yusuf Jah, Uprising, p. 65, 1995

Amerikan *adjective*American US, 1969

- Berkeley Cop Conspiracy: All-American Fascism (Headline) — The Berkeley Tribe, p. 11, 2nd August–4th September 1969

- They seem to be fighting a private holding-action against that day when the “Amerikan” technology turns into a joyless 1984. — Ethel Romm, The Open Conspiracy, p. 159, 1970

AMFused as a farewell US, 1963

From ADIOS MOTHERFUCKER.

- An abbreviated form of the phrase adios mother fucker which simply means good-bye friend. — Sedley H. Martin, College Lore, 1963

amigo *noun1 used as a term of address US, 1974

Spanish for “friend.”

- “Let me lay it on you again, amigo,” the short Mexican had whispered into Benson's ear. — Donald Goines, Cry Revenge, p. 80, 1974

2 a Hispanic US

- Vedol and his friends that Vo was “an amigo.” — New Orleans Times-Picayune, 20th October 2011

amirite? *interjection*used for soliciting affirmation US

- Hey man? More like Gay-Man amirite? — Urban Dictionary, 2nd February 2008
- Amirite? Or. Amirite? Whether we're talking about cocktails, brewing, compounding, or just mixing a bowl of punch. — Matthew Rowley, Lost Recipes of Prohibition, 2015

ammo *noun1 ammunition US, 1911

Actual or figurative.

- They put the ammo clips in their jumper pockets and put their coats on the rack above them. — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, p. 26, 1970
- JOHN: Who's got the ammo? AXEL: Ammo! Get the ammo! — The Deer Hunter, 1978

2 cash US, 2003

- Candy, markers, ammo, liners, stocking stuffer, sweetener, garnish, and pledges are all terms for cash. — Henry Hill and Byron Schreckengost, A Good Fella's Guide to New York, p. 123, 2003

ammo humper noun

- a soldier manning an artillery piece US, 1961
- It's so difficult to give a ugly a meaningful job if he's going to be an ammo humper in wartime. — Senate Committee on Appropriations, Department of Defense Appropriations, p. 326, 1961
- Private First Class Eugene Obregon, his ammo humper, tried to set up their weapon in an advanced position. — Joseph Alexander, The Battle History of the U.S. Marines, p. 280, 1999

amped adjective

under the influence of a central nervous system stimulant, usually amphetamines or methamphetamine US, 1972

- Walter L. Way, The Drug Scene, p. 105, 1977
- "Too much caffeine," Nell said. "I'm so amped I could jump-start Frankenstein's monster." — Joseph Wambaugh, Finnegan's Week, p. 160, 1993

amper noun

an ampersand (&) US, 1991

- Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 35, 1991

amphoterrible nickname

the antifungal drug Amphotericin B US, 1994

- A nickname based on the drug's severe side effects.
- Sally Williams, "Strong" Words, p. 133, 1994

amscray verb

to leave US, 1934

Pig Latin version of "scram."

- Tab Hunter coughing up a grand 50 grand to amscray out of his Warner Bros. Contract. — San Francisco Progress, p. 13, 3rd May 1961
- That's right, it's a free country, so amscray. — Eugene Boe (Editor), The Wit & Wisdom of Archie Bunker, p. 35, 1971
- I just grabbed a pear from the fruit selection and shouted, "Amscray time!" — Ethan Morden, I've a Feeling We're Not in Kansas Anymore, p. 61, 1985
- Amscray! Get out of here! — James Ellroy, Hollywood Nocturnes, p. 95, 1994

-amundo suffix

used as a humorous mechanism to form a slang equivalent US, 1992
Popularized by Fonzy (Henry Winkler) on the US television program Happy Days, set in the 1950s, which aired from 1974 until 1984

- JACK: Fake blood, fake fight, fake bullets, it was perfect. It was perfectamundo, perfect. JENNIFER: Well, it wasn't exactly perfectamundo. — Days of Our Lives, February 1992
- Correct-amundo! And that's what we're gonna be, we're gonna be cool. — Pulp Fiction, 1994

AMW noun

a vacuous female celebrity or hanger-on US, 1988

An abbreviation of "actress, model, whatever"

- Tommy and Shelby Chong; biker-artists; music video hangers-on; assorted AMWs (actress, model, whatever). — Los Angeles Times, p. 2 (Part 5), 24th October 1988
- Alon Shulman, The Style Bible, p. 11, 1999

amy; amie noun

amyl nitrite; an ampule of amyl nitrite US, 1966

- And have "amies" on hand too: poppers, banana splits, whatever you call them. — Angelo d'Arcangelo, The Homosexual Handbook, p. 115, 1968
- Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 25, 1971
- "The place was full of 'amies' (amyl nitrite) and Locker Room (butyl nitrite). People were popping them all over the place," the officer said. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 2, 9th September 1977

Amy-John noun

a lesbian US, 1968

- There are harsher and more widely used expressions: "Bulldyke," "Amy-John," "Cat-lapper," "Les," and so on. — L. Reinhard, Oral Sex Techniques and Sex Practices Illustrated, 196

amyl noun

amyl nitrate or butyl nitrate, when taken recreationally or to enhance sexual arousal US, 1971

- [N]o more grass, the coke bottle was empty, one acid blotter, a nice brown lump of opium hash and six loose amyls. — Hunter S. Thompson, Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas, p. 100, 1971
- The sexual odor of amyl permeates the misty air. — John Rechy, The Sexual Outlaw, p. 81, 1977
- Hunter Thompson probably put it best when he described Humphrey's campaign personality as akin to "a hen on amyls." — New York Observer, p. 1, 22nd December 2003

anal noun

anal sex US, 2000

A brief search of the Internet reveals an overwhelming and mainly heterosexual use of "anal" in this sense.

- Anal is a relatively new thing in porn films. It didn't become hugely popular among filmmakers and consumers alike until the mid-80s[.] — Ana Loria, 1 2 3 Be A Porn Star!, p. 100, 2000
- Monet is proud of her scruples. "I never did anal or gang bangs." — Bill Brownstein, Sex Carnival, p. 63, 2000

analog adjective

in computing, pertaining to the world outside the Internet US, 1997

A figurative extension of a technical term.

- Andy Ihnatko, Cyberspeak, p. 7, 1997

anchor verb

to stay put, to remain US, 1906

- What has a guy gotta do to anchor here in Sing Sing like you did? — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 130, 1973

anchor clanker noun

a member of the US Navy US, 1952

- "Cheer up, Traxler. That probably won't be th' last time some Marine called ya an anchor clanker." — Michael Hodgson, With Sgt. Mike in Vietnam, p. 56, 1970

anchor man noun

in casino blackjack, the gambler immediately to the dealer's right US, 1985

- Steve Kurisak, Casino Talk, p. 56, 1985

ancient adjective

unfashionable, out of style US, 2004

- Your fit is ancient. — Rick Ayers (Editor), Berkeley High Slang Dictionary, p. 11, 2004 and a half used for intensifying the preceding noun UK, 1832

- BLAST and a half—Good party. PANIC and a half—Very funny joke. — San Francisco News, p. 6, 25th March 1958 and away we go!

used as a humorous signal that something has just started US, 1954

A signature line of comedian Jackie Gleason.

- Jackie Gleason, And Away We Go!, 1954
- And away you go! — San Francisco Examiner, p. II-7, 5th October 1956
- A tiny foreign car died like a dawg on the Hyde St. cable tracks nr. Vallejo—whereupon the cable's gripman and conductor got out, picked up the car, carried it over to the curb and awaaay they went! — San Francisco Examiner, p. II-1, 18th November 1957

Andes candy noun

cocaine US, 1990

A near reduplication based on the cocoa grown in the Andes Mountains.

- "What you puttin in my cooker?" "Lil Andes candy . . ." "I hate coke," Rooski whimpered. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 77, 1990 and monkeys might fly out of my butt used as a reflection of the high unlikelihood of something happening US, 1992

- What I'd really love, is to do "Wayne's World" for a living. It might happen—and monkeys might fly out of my butt! — Wayne's World, 1992

andro adjective

androgynous US, 1999

- She chooses from a diverse bunch of African American masculinities, from a super-fly Isaac Hayes to a badass rapper to the andro king himself, The Artist (Prince). — The Village Voice, 5th October 1999

android noun

a patient with no normal laboratory values US, 1994

- Sally Williams, "Strong" Words, p. 133, 1994

And then I found five dollars . . . phrase used for humorously acknowledging that one has been telling a boring story US

- yesterday i went to the fridge and took out a yogurt but put it back and got an apple instead. . . . and then i found 5 dollars. — Urban Dictionary, 23rd May 2004
- Connie Eble, Campus Slang: University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Spring 2014

Andy Gump chin noun

a receding chin US, 1970

- At fourteen he had a poor self-image, which was reinforced whenever he looked in the mirror, by an "Andy Gump" chin. — Family Service Association of America, Social Casework, p. 286, 1989 and you know that!

used for expressing approval or praise US, 1992

- Yo, last night you had it going on, girls were treating you like a king. And you know that! — Fab 5 Freddy, Fresh Fly Favor, p. 6, 1992

angel noun

1 an outside investor, especially one who backs a theatrical production US, 1891

Theatrical origins.

- Farrell quickly became THE "angel" of the season when it was learned he was the sole backer of a musical called "Hold It!" — The San Francisco News, p. 11, 13th July 1948
- Frederick Vanderbilt Field, financial "angel" of left-wing groups, was called today to tell a Senate committee about the bail raised for four missing Communist leaders. — The San Francisco Examiner, p. 31, 11th July 1951

2 a male homosexual US, 1927

Originally referred to the passive partner, but later to any homosexual.

- Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World's Toughest Prison, p. 789, 1962
- Angel, to some, means the crumpled wings and pride of the denigrated fairy. — Bruce Rodgers, The Queens' Vernacular, p. 21, 1972

3 a soldier killed in combat US, 2006

Coined during the invasion and occupation of Iraq.

- The flag is then starched and ironed before it is fitted over a silver-coffin-shaped case that will hold their "angel," their name for dead service members. — The Atlanta Journal-Constitution, p. 1A, 25th March 2006

Angel noun

a member of the Hells Angels motorcycle gang US, 1965

- These are the thoughts—anxieties—of anxious marchers / That the Angels will attack them. — The Berkeley Barb, p. 1, 5th November 1965
- The Angels and the Diggers organized it. — The San Francisco Oracle, 1967
- So the Angels just shrug and say, "our thing's violence." How can the V.D.C. guy answer that? — Joan Didion, Slouching Toward Bethlehem, p. 62, 1968

- Fighting broke out all over between Angels and monitors. Panic. — Jerry Rubin, Do It!, p. 43, 1970

angel dust noun

1 phencyclidine, the recreational drug also it known as PCP US, 1970

- A veterinary anesthetic originally; became a popular recreational drug.
- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 146, 1971
- Most of the football players and basketball players usually brought marijuana or angel dust. — United States Congress, House Select Committee on Crime, Drugs in Our Schools, p. 922, 1972
- “Ain’t it some bad shit, baby? It’s spiked with angel dust,” she slurred as she dropped her head to his naked lap[.] — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Airright Willie and Me, p. 182, 1979
- All you guys do is drop ludes and then, then take Percodans and angel dust. — Manhattan, 1979
- The Technicolor plant, in an industrial area on Roseville Road not far from McClellan Air Force Base, was hit two weeks ago by robbers looking for drugs that could be used in the manufacture of an illegal drug known as angel dust. — San Francisco Examiner, p. A26, 22nd September 1983

2 money borrowed informally from a friend US, 1976

- — “Slingo”, The Official CB Slang Dictionary Handbook, p. 3, 1976

angel food noun

a member of the US Air Force as an object of homosexual desire US, 1988

- — H. Max, Gay (S)language, p. 2, 1988

angelina sorority noun

the world of the young homosexual male US, 1972

- — Bruce Rodgers, The Queens’ Vernacular, p. 21, 1972

angel kiss noun

a freckle US, 1972

- Ain’t you ever seen somebody with angel kisses on his face before? — Emmett Grogan, Ringolevio, p. 80, 1972

Angel’s bible noun

a Harley-Davidson motorcycle manual US, 1992

- — Paladin Press, Inside Look at Outlaw Motorcycle Gangs, p. 33, 1992

angel’s kiss noun

a night breeze US, 1961

Korean war usage.

- The night breeze we called “Angel’s Kiss” was in off Macquitti Bay, but it stayed high up in the palm fronds and scarcely moved the ten ropes. — Russell Davis, Marine at War, p. 121, 1961

angel wing noun

a cigarette dosed with phencyclidine, the drug commonly known as PCP or angel dust US, 2002

- Six months ago, I was guzzling rotgut and smoking angel wings at boarding school. — David Henry Sterry, Chicken, p. 5, 2002

angel with a dirty face noun

a male homosexual who due to caution or fear has yet to act upon his desire US, 1941

After the 1938 Warner Brothers movie Angels With Dirty Faces.

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 20, 1967

angerball noun

a person who has lost their temper US, 1998

From the 1998 movie Playing by Heart.

- angerball—Someone who is excessively angry or frustrated at a certain moment. — Dictionary of New Terms (Hope College), 2002

angle noun

a scheme, especially an illegal one US, 1920

- Immediately I thought this Louie was working an angle. — Carmelo Soraci, The Convict and the Stained Glass Window, p. 84, 1961
- “It always makes me suspicious when people act kind to me. I always think they are working an angle of some kind.” — William Lewis, Helping the Youthful Offender, p. 115, 1989
- “You were working an angle of your own, weren’t you?” — Lawrence Block, The Burglar in the Rye, p. 243, 1999
- “Or else he’s working an angle. If he doesn’t steal a little, he’s stealing big.” — Alan Kaufman, The Outlaw Bible, p. 433, 2004

Anglo noun

a white person US, 1943

The term was brought to the mainstream by Mexican-Americans in the southwestern US.

- I knew you’d call me a dirty Anglo hack if I told you that you have to at least pretend to be objective when you’re trying to sell a book to a New York publisher. — Hunter S. Thompson, Fear and Loathing in America, p. 55, 22nd April 1968: Letter to Oscar Acosta
- “Anglos don’t want to pay to see two colored guys fight.” — Leonard Gardner, Fat City, p. 20, 1969
- Anglo: white, non-Mexican-American. Though normally used simply in a neutral, descriptive manner, the term sometimes has pejorative overtones. It has to some extent replaced gringo. — Time, p. 18, 4th July 1969
- An Anglo with a last name for a first name is automatically a prick. — Edwin Torres, Carlito’s Way, p. 117, 1975

angry adjective

(used of a penis) sexually aroused, erect US, 1970

- Ah’d purely love to see it angry. — *M*A*S*H*, 1970
- Poor little Heather! She’s never seen one angry before. But it made quite an impression on her. — Body Heat, 1980

- Likewise for Rich Garvey, taking note of a rather well endowed male cadaver: “Oh, my goodness, I’d hate to see that thing angry.” — David Simon, Homicide, p. 417, 1991

angry nine nickname

during the Korean war, an AN/GRC-9 radio US, 1956

- Below, M. E. Jeffus, ET2, T.T. Montgomery and F.A. Wood set up “the angry nine.” — Joseph Oglesby, Deepfreeze, p. 87, 1956

animal trainer noun

a person who engages in sexual activity with animals US, 1978

- — Anon., King Smut’s Wet Dreams Interpreted, 1978

animal training noun

bestiality US, 1971

- Specialties include rubber, French and Greek cultures, and animal training. — Emile Nytrate, Underground Ads, p. 23, 1971

animal zoo noun

a rowdy college fraternity US, 1967

- — American Speech, p. 227, October 1967: “Some special terms used in a University of Connecticut men’s dormitory” ankle verb

to walk; to travel US, 1917

- In the Fall of 1927, when I ankled back to Chicago from my barnstorming and barn-burning tour of the West, we were still living in a fool’s paradise. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 140, 1946
- Well, Tell ankles past and ganders the beret. — Harry Haenigsen, Jive’s Like That, 1947
- I ankled over to the club early, about one A.M. — Edwin Torres, After Hours, p. 263, 1979
- Then she smiled and ankled towards the door. — James Crumley, The Mexican Tree Duck, p. 139, 1993 ankle a show to walk out of a performance US, 1973

- — Sherman Louis Sergel, The Language of Show Biz, p. 8, 1973
- — Don Wilmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 9, 1981

ankle-biter noun

1 a petty, narrow-minded bureaucrat US, 1990

- Lieut. Gen Andrew J. Goodpaster, as West Point Superintendent, was described by James Faron in The New York Times in 1981 as “able to make the changes” because he had enough prestige to “keep the ankle-biters away,” according to an aide on the administrative staff. — The New York Times, p. 6–8, 12th December 1990
- Ankle biters take the joy and creativity out of computing. They are negative people who spend their workday hours in a deathwatch over new initiatives. — Computerworld, p. 39, 20th March 1995

2 a child US, 1963

- Also “knee biter.” Humorous, not particularly kind to children.
- Well, it is a little bit of a problem to do a radioisotope procedure on a normal ankle-biter. — Millard Croll, Recent Advances in Nuclear Medicine, p. 76, 1966
- I gotta catch up with my wife. The settlement. The final decree. The property. Our four little ankle-biters! — Joseph Wambaugh, Fugitive Nights, p. 27, 1990

ankle bracelets noun

the < and > characters on a computer keyboard US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 36, 1991 ankle express noun

walking US, 1919

- — Current Slang, p. 1, Spring 1969
- The same trip via ankle express took him and his Chinese mercenaries a full day to complete. — Robert Mason, Chickenhawk, p. 408, 1983
- Take the old ankle express down to the little communication closet under the stairs. — Henry Beard, The Dick Cheney Code, p. 62, 2004

ankle-slapper noun

a small wave US, 1991

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin’ary, p. 3, 1991

Annie from Arkansas noun

in craps, an eight US, 1993

- — Frank Scoblete, Guerrilla Gambling, p. 294, 1993

Annie Oakley noun

a free pass to a performance US, 1916

- I took them out myself on opening day and got Annie Oakleys for them to get in. — Robert Byrne, McGoorty, p. 136, 1972

Annie’s alley noun

the vagina US, 1949

Attested by a police matron at the San Francisco Women’s Detention Center in April 1949; a woman prisoner was thought to be concealing $13.00 “in Annie’s Alley.”

annihilated adjective

drunk US, 1975

- — Rutgers Alumni Magazine, p. 21, February 1986
- [B]attered sfaced fcked messed up annihilated[.] — Stuart Walton, Out of It, Cover, 2001 anoint verb

to whip someone US, 1962

- — Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World’s Toughest Prison, p. 789, 1962

another country heard from used for humorously acknowledging that someone who had previously been silent has spoken up US, 1960

- “So shut the hell up, everybody.” “Another country heard from,” said Phyllis. — John O’Hara, Sermons and Soda-Water, p. 36, 1960

- Mule finally speaks up. “We respectfully request to see the executive officer, sir.” “Another country heard from,” says the OOD. — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, p. 142, 1970
- Another day, another country heard from in the quest to serve as the summer home for the Washington Redskins. — The Richmond Times Dispatch, p. D1, 10th February 2001

answer record noun

a rap song released in response to another song US, 1995

- “Answer records” between feuding rappers, once frequent, are today only sporadic. — Steven Daly and Nathaniel Wice, alt.culture, p. 229, 1995

antenna platoon noun

a platoon with an unusually large number of radios assigned to it US, 1989

- I wasn’t wearing brass, but with an “antenna platoon” of at least five PRC-25 radios with me, it was kind of obvious[.] — David H. Hackworth, About Face, p. 539, 1989

anti-frantic adjective

calm, collected US, 1983

- Yes, above all, anti-frantic. Stay cool. Hang loose. — Esquire, p. 180, June 1983
- He was the coolest cat, negative perspiration, the anti-frantic. — Benjamin Reed, The Bow Tie Gang, p. 2, 2002

anus bandit noun

a predatory male homosexual US, 1962

- — Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World’s Toughest Prison, p. 789, 1962

anyhoo adverb

anyhow US, 1946

A deliberate mispronunciation.

- Anyhoo I don’t want her ministering to me no more. — William Burroughs, Letters to Allen Ginsberg 1953–1957, p. 116, 23rd October 1955
- What wall were those Tulls coming off anyhoo? No comrend. — Lester Bangs, Psychotic Reactions and Carburetor Dung, p. 132, 1971
- Anyhoo, I took the kids back to my daughter’s place. — Mordecai Richler, Joshua Then and Now, p. 419, 1980

any kine noun

anything US, 1981

Hawaiian youth usage.

- She tell any kine fo’ get her way. — Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max, 1981 anyone for tennis?

used for humorously suggesting an activity US, 1951

Seen as quintessentially British and enormously witty in its many variant forms.

- Anyone for tennis? Or lacrosse? — Marion (Ohio) Daily Star, p. 24, 19th December 1951
- Having slept that off, you wander recklessly onto the play deck with gay cries of “Anyone for shuffleboard?” — San Francisco Examiner, p. 21, 27th August 1952
- Anyone for gold? — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 12, 9th July 1953 anywhere adverb

in possession of drugs US, 1946

- Hey, there, Poppa Mezz, is you anywhere? — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 216, 1946

A-OK adjective

completely acceptable US, 1959

US Navy Captain Alan G. Shepard was widely credited for introducing the term to the general public during the first US space flight. Shepard later denied ever having said “A-OK,” insisting that he had been spelling out awkward—“AWK.”

- That’s why George Romney enlisted and secured the support of all our [Rambler’s] employees in the new “A-OK Quality Workmanship” program. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 34, 8th August 1961
- “Mable told me you were A-okay, just drunk.” — Joe Houston, The Gay Flesh, p. 92, 1965
- Big Ed said, “Uh, honey, these boys and your daughter have promised me that their behavior in the future will be A-OK.” — Dan Jenkins, Semi-Tough, p. 60, 1972
- He winked obscenely as he made a lopsided circle of A-OK with pudgy fingers shiny greasy with bar-be-que he was gnawing. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Airright Willie and Me, p. 32, 1979

A-one; A-1 adjective

excellent, first-class US, 1846

Originally of ships, then of persons and things.

- His embassy bespoke the American authorities to give him the A-1 treatment, the best. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 149, 1951
- Just you and me and thirty grand, maybe five or ten more if it’s an A-1 job. — Jim Thompson, Savage Night, p. 73, 1953
- “[H]e’s fuckin’-A-number-one stupid.” — George Higgins, Cogan’s Trade, p. 109, 1974
- I think while you were out on bond, according to my source, which is A-one reliable—you took out the jigs. — Elmore Leonard, Stick, p. 128, 1983

AOS

used for suggesting that there are no good options in a particular situation US, 2001

An abbreviation of “all options suck” or “all options stink.”

- “It’s called AOS,” they say, using a barracks abbreviation for “all options stink.” Another senior military official said there was “no good option that wouldn’t make us look useless.” — Deseret News (Salt Lake City), p. A2, 30th September 2001
- Add it all up for Martha Stewart it’s what they call in the military an “AOS” situation (as in “all options suck”)—and the hour is now at hand. — New York Post, 23rd February 2004

APB noun

in police work, an all points bulletin, broadcast to all who are listening US, 1957

- Guess you’ve often seen policemen working like this on TV or in the movies. They’re sending out an APB. That’s an All Points Bulletin. It’s information they send to hundreds of their fellow law enforcement men to help break a case. — Pacific Telephone, Talk, p. 1, August 1957
- The police, pleased to have captured major game on a routine trapline, put out APB’s on Caterpillar and Chilly. — Malcolm Braly, On the Yard, p. 236, 1967
- Your wife will give the police your truck plate number for an A.P.B. They will arrest you here, arrest me on charges of harboring a fugitive. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Doom Fox, p. 117, 1978

apcray noun

nonsense; garbage US, 1937

A Pig Latin version of CRAP.

- And please don’t give me any of that apcray about first physics. — Harry Allen Smith, Larks in the Popcorn, p. 51, 1948
- [A] pigeon plopped his apcray on my shoulder. — Leo Rosten, King Silky, p. 4, 1980

ape noun

in the entertainment industry, a technical member of a movie crew US, 1970

- You’re gonna put up the actors and the apes in the same hotel!?! Are you outta your nut!?! — Terry Southern, Blue Movie, p. 66, 1970

ape adjective

crazed, frenzied, demonstrating rage or delight US, 1955

Based on the behavior of apes in movies—not in real life.

- I drive you ape, and you just don’t trust yourself with me, that’s what it is. — Max Shulman, Rally Round the Flag, Boys!, p. 58, 1957 ape drape noun

a hair style in which the hair is worn short at the front and long at the back US, 1995

Most commonly known as a “mullet.”

- — Steven Daly and Nathaniel Wice, alt.culture, p. 158, 1995
- I snap, making a mental note of her hideous patch-denim maxi skirt and ridiculous ape-drape hairdo. — John Waters, Crackpost, p. 25, 2003

apeshit *adjective▶ go apeshit to lose control; to go crazy US, 1951

- The ceremony was conducted by a lanky preacher who also was an ex-G.I., a former Marine chaplain gone apeshit. — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 238, 1961
- The crowd went apeshit and the band went oompa-oomp. — Edwin Torres, After Hours, p. 198, 1979
- I turn around and all these cops are outside. You’re right, it was like, bam! I blink my eyes and they’re there. Everybody starts going apeshit. — Reservoir Dogs, 1992
- Nice to see Kiddo hasn’t gone completely apeshit. [Screenplay, not in final cut] — Kill Bill, 2003

A-plug noun

a plug inserted in the rectum as part of a sado-masochistic encounter US, 1979

An abbreviation for “ass-plug.”

- My world of s/m is full of pleasure and is full of toys and goodies—hand-crafted leather dildoes, A-plugs[.] — What Color is Your Handkerchief, p. 17, 1979

apple *noun1 a person US, 1887

Usually heard with a qualifying adjective such as “bad” or “rotten.”

- I got a nephew. A brainy apple and a good kid. — Philip Wylie, Opus 21, p. 114, 1949
- You may be a rough apple, but I can make your face look like it’s been run through a grinder[.] — Mickey Spillane, My Gun is Quick, p. 20, 1950
- “In removing what few ‘bad apples’ there may be, the union would be serving two good purposes.” — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 6G, 14th January 1953
- [T]he hearing should not be interpreted as an indictment of all auto dealers because of the activities of a few “bad apples.” — San Francisco Examiner, 4th August 1960

2 the gullible victim of a confidence swindle US, 1966

- So I’m square, JD told himself resentfully. An apple. — Malcolm Braly, It’s Cold Out There, p. 41, 1966

3 a Native American Indian who curries favor with the white establishment by embracing white cultural values US, 1980

A variation on a theme—red on the outside, white on the inside.

- — Maledicta, p. 124, Summer 1980: “Racial and ethnic slurs: regional awareness and variations”

4 a capsule of secobarbital sodium (trade name Seconal™), a central nervous system depressant US, 1980

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin’ down some lines, p. 228, 1980
- — Richard A. Spears, The Slang and Jargon of Drugs and Drink, p. 13, 1986

5 a self-propelled barracks barge US, 1971

From the ship’s official designation as an “APL.”

- The men climbed out, walked over the metal roofing of the tango boats and up the ladders to the LST’s and “apples.” — Ronald J. Glasser, 365 Days, pp. 28–29, 1971

6 the vagina US, 1980

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin’ down some lines, p. 228, 1980

Apple *noun▶ The Apple

New York City US, 1938

- Max hadn’t heard New York City referred to as “The Apple” in fifteen years. — John Williams, The Man Who Cried I Am, p. 224, 1967

- There was a giant black pimp from the “Apple.” — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 168, 1969
- When I reached the Apple I got off the train at the 125th Street station[.] — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 133, 1973

► see also: BIG APPLE

apple box noun

in the television and movie industries, any device used to raise an actor or object to the desired height US, 1977

- — Tony Miller and Patricia George, Cut! Print!, p. 34, 1977

applehead noun

a dull, stupid person US, 1951

- She’s not married; I don’t believe that applehead. — George Mandel, Flee the Angry Strangers, p. 103, 1952
- Why, those apple heads! Who are they supposed to be kidding? — Mickey Spillane, Kiss Me Deadly, p. 109, 1952

apple-knocker noun

1 a rustic, especially a naive one US, 1919

- “I’m an apple-knocker,” he [Casey Stengel] likes to say, “and I’m against all city slickers.” — Time, p. 81, 25th October 1948
- He [Arthur Godfrey] always sounds like the apple-knocker who’s in the big town for the very first time. — San Francisco Examiner, p. II-1, 6th July 1956
- I didn’t get any serious action on Broadway for a while, because I was still an apple knocker[.] — Minnesota Fats, The Bank Shot, p. 61, 1966
- He was an open apple knocker from the West Side wearing plain Monkey Ward jeans rather than Levi’s and high-top horsehide shit kickers. — Earl Thompson, Tattoo, p. 55, 1974

2 an outdoor toilet US, 1975

From the image of apples dropping onto the outhouse roof.

- — John Gould, Maine Lingo, p. 36, 1975

apple orchard noun

a location where police wait parked, certain that they will soon witness a driving infraction US, 1970

- “Do you know a good spot to sit? Some good spot where we could get a sure ticket?” “An apple orchard, huh?” — Joseph Wambaugh, The New Centurions, p. 293, 1970

apple picking noun

the theft of Apple devices US

- The theft of Apple electronic products, known in street slang as “apple picking,” is also big with the gangs. — Newsday, 3rd October 2012
- Metro detectives noticed a rise in iPad thefts from juveniles about three months ago, Cassell said. The crime is part of a trend called “apple picking.” — Las Vegas Sun, 10th May 2013

apple polisher noun

a person who shamelessly curries favor from those above him US, 1927

- Attention apple-polishers! A new Washington crop, bursting with flavor and health, is on the way to you. — Time, p. 95, 2nd November 1959
- What’s Your Opinion of Office Apple Polishers? (Headline) — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 36, 20th July 1966 applesauce noun

nonsense US, 1919

- “Applesauce,” said Mimsy. “Take the bus as far out as it will take you, and then you walk.” — Frederick Kohner, The Affairs of Gidget, p. 25, 1963

apple up verb

to become frightened US, 1966

- “Okay, if you want to apple it up, I’m not going to try to pull you off it.” — Malcolm Braly, It’s Cold Out There, p. 40, 1966

application noun

► take an application

(used of a pimp) to probe the psyche of a woman who is a candidate to come to work for you US, 1972

- I take an application on a broad when I talk to her that is worse than if she was going to go out and get a job in the Pentagon. I get a mental makeup on her[.] — Christina and Richard Milner, Black Players, p. 88, 1972

aqua boot verb

to vomit into the ocean US, 1991

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin’ary, p. 3, 1991

A-rab noun

an Arab US, 1972

Not flattering, but more oafish than derogatory. The slang sense of the word is gained strictly through pronunciation—a long first “A,” two drawn out syllables, and a light twang with the second. In his 1962 rock novelty record “Ahab the Arab,” Ray Stevens gave a loud public voice to this pronunciation.

- You know yourself that a sumbitch who don’t block or tackle is nothing but a nigger hebe spick with a little A-rab thrown in. By the way. We got any A-rabs around here? — Dan Jenkins, Semi-Tough, pp. 5–6, 1972
- One look at your guinea puss and this fuckin’ A-rab of yours and he’ll bolt like a rabbit. — Edwin Torres, Carlito’s Way, p. 77, 1975
- Except I can’t show you no Arabs on account of I do not know too many A-rabs. — George V. Higgins, The Rat on Fire, p. 27, 1981
- A boogie barkeep said she’s got some ace A-rab tips. — James Ellroy, Destination Morgue, p. 349, 2004

arc verb

in computing, to archive something US, 1997

- I arced all of the code libraries and netted them over to you this morning. — Andy Ihnatko, Cyberspeak, p. 12, 1997

arc around verb to engage in enthusiastic and energetic, if meaningless and aimless, activity US, 1986

- US naval aviator usage.
- — United States Naval Institute Proceedings, p. 108, October 1986

ARC girl noun

a female representative of the American Red Cross US

- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 1, 1968

architect noun

in poker, a player who bets heavily US, 1988

So called because his betting builds the pool of bets.

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 6, 1988

arena rat noun

a woman who invites sexual relations with professional wrestlers US, 1990

- They are called “Arena Rats” by the boys, though I think this is a harsh name for most of them. There are some who deserve it. They come in all shapes, sizes, ages and social backgrounds. The one thing they have in common is the love of wrestlers. — Pat Barrett, Everybody Down There Hates Me, p. 225, 1990
- A new guy would come into the territory, and we would find him the most attractive “arena rat,” or wrestling groupie[.] — Bobby Heenan, Bobby the Brain, p. 114, 2002

arg noun

in computing, an argument US, 1987

- — CoEvolution Quarterly, p. 27, Spring 1981

Arizona stop noun

a rolling stop at a traffic signal or stop sign US, 1962

- — American Speech, p. 266, December 1962: “The language of traffic policemen”
- — Jeffrey McQuain, Never Enough Words, p. 54, 1999

Arizona Territory noun

an area southwest of Da Nang, South Vietnam, with imprecise boundaries and a strong Vietcong presence US, 1991

- Americans who operated there named it the Arizona Territory. — William Le Gro, Vietnam from Cease-Fire to Capitulation, p. 113, 1981

Arkansas fire extinguisher noun

a chamberpot US, 1958

- — Western Folklore, p. 29, 1962

Arkansas flush noun

in poker, a worthless hand consisting of four cards in one suit and a fifth in another US, 1950

In earlier years, an Arkansas flush was three or four cards in combination and a Bowie knife.

- — American Speech, p. 97, May 1951: “The vocabulary of poker”
- — Albert H. Morehead, The Complete Guide to Winning Poker, p. 256, 1967

Arkansas toad stabber noun

a sharp knife US, 1994

- [A]rkansas toad stabbers drawn and pointed square at my middle[.] — James Ellroy, Hollywood Nocturnes, p. 283, 1994

Arkansas toothpick noun

a hunting knife US, 1836

- Beale Street (Memphis) Negroes could damage each other by exercising some ingenuity. Crump’s cops shook them down nightly for pistols, Arkansas toothpicks, brass knucks, razors and ice picks. — Time, p. 20, 27th May 1946

Arky; Arkie noun

a resident of Arkansas; an unsophisticated rustic from the south central US US, 1927

Often used with contempt.

- “Did you hear that, chief?” the scurvy Arkie said. — Oscar Zeta Acosta, The Autobiography of a Brown Buffalo, p. 119, 1972
- — Maledicta, p. 151, Summer/Winter 1978: “How to hate thy neighbor: A guide to racist maledicta”
- Along about dawn, this Arkie bonhunk named Hutchinson actually got up and went back there[.] — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 152, 1990

arm noun

► get your arms around to grasp the meaning of US, 1989

- In 1984, IBM decided it needed to get its arms around education. — Development Journal, p. 34, January 1989

► off the arm

in food and beverage servers’ argot, served without a tray US, 1950

- In truth, it was once very stylish to have a sweetheart who served it “off the arm.” — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Chicago Confidential, p. 105, 1950

► on the arm

without charge US, 1926

- You can eat at the deli. They’re good on the arm. — Peter Maas, Serpico, p. 60, 1973
- But that’s cool, ‘cause Dave is workin’ mostly on the arm now, since at the present time I am in a financial state of insoluble. — Edwin Torres, After Hours, p. 161, 1979
- They had a pizza that tasted even better because it was on the arm, and then drove to Hamilton House. — William J. Cavnitz, One Police Plaza, p. 238, 1984

arm candy noun

someone good-looking enough for you to be seen out with US, 1992

- [Marilyn Monroe] already had mini-roles in eight movies when she turned up as George Sanders' arm candy in the party scenes of this film. — Chicago Tribune, 21st August 1992
- Our heroine Carrie walks off into the sunset not as a spinster, or as the arm candy of a suave Russian artist, but hand-in-hand with the guy who has always been in her heart. — Chicago Daily Herald, p. 1, 23rd February 2004

armchair adjective removed from the action; said of an observer who acts as if he is a participant US, 1955

- Coach Pappy Waldorf and his Golden Bears, in the opinion of local Cal's AA—Armchair Alumni in this case. — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 29, 28th October 1955
- Tom Bolan, boxing promoter, called the National Boxing Association a "bunch of armchair schemers" today and suggested the body "drop out of existence along with its assinine ratings." — San Francisco Examiner, p. 53, 11th July 1961

armchair ride noun

in horse racing, an easy victory US, 1976

- — Tom Ainslie, Ainslie's Complete Guide to Thoroughbred Racing, p. 327, 1976

Armenian chrome noun

aluminum paint US, 1961

- — American Speech, p. 272, December 1961: "Northwest truck drivers' language"

Armo noun

an Armenian US, 2006

- "Not to mention Russkies and Armos." — Joseph Wambaugh, Hollywood Station, p. 181, 2006 armpit of the world; armpit of the universe noun

the worst place US, 1968

- [L]ike the absolute armpit of the world[.] — James Patterson, The Midnight Club, p. 158, 1989
- I been to Asia and it's the armpit of the universe. — Bharati Mukherjee, Jasmine, p. 112, 1989

armpit sauce noun

fish sauce US, 1991

- The Americans called it "armpit sauce" and the girls couldn't stand it. — Martin Griffin, We Gotta Get Out of This Place, p. 68, 2008
- There is a spice that is used by the Vietnamese called Nuocma, known to the GIs as armpit sauce. It had a very, very strong fish odor. — Douglas Feay, The 6th C.C., p. 39, 2010

armpit theater noun

a shoddy, low-budget theater US, 1962

- "I did the Columbia wheel out of Sun time, all the armpit theaters where he was still selling Crackerjack between the striptease numbers." — Stephen Longstreet, The Flesh Peddlers, p. 213, 1962

arm-stretcher noun

a heavy suitcase US, 1992

- As best I could with my two heavy arm stretchers, fighting my way through a mob that kept congratulating me for ending the war, I arrived at the Ambassador Hotel. — Larry Rivers, What Did I Do?, p. 23, 1992

arm trophy noun

a stunning and sexually appealing companion, valued for the prestige attached to their presence US, 1994

- Another girl said, "They want an arm trophy who will be their personal slave." — Anka Radakovich, The Wild Girls Club, p. 168, 1994

army banjo noun

a shovel or other entrenching tool US, 1969

- Army Banjo. A shovel is given this name by soldiers because of its shape. — Word Study, 1969

army brat noun

a person who grew up the child of a career member of the army US, 1931

- Cindy had been an army brat and had lived at military posts all over the world. — John D. MacDonald, The Deceivers, p. 20, 1958
- I was an army brat, born in Chungking, China, where my parents, both Chinese-Americans, were stationed. — Kathryn Leigh Scott, The Bunny Years, p. 154, 1998

army craps noun

a game of craps in which the shooter serves as the banker US, 1984

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 8, 1987

army marbles noun

dice US, 1963

From the view that soldiers are fond of dice games.

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 8, 1987

army odds noun

in a dice game, the true odds, not approximate odds often used in street games US, 1962

- — Frank Garcia, Marked Cards and Loaded Dice, p. 250, 1962

Army Peace Corps noun

the US Army Special Forces US, 1964

Highly trained killers, so an ironic term.

- He asked the generals to name the officers who would be in charge of the proposed "Army Peace Corps" in Southeast Asia. — Davis Wise, The Invisible Government, p. 1964

army roll noun

a controlled roll of the dice by a skilled cheat in a game of

craps US, 1963

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 8, 1987

Arnies noun

anabolic steroids US, 2006

- "If he was popping Arnies to get those shoulders, roid-rage might explain the multiple assault beefs." — Stephen J. Cannell, White Sister, p. 216, 2006

-aroo suffix

used as a festive if meaningless embellishment of a noun US, 1941

- Nino and his Cash Money Monkeys are dealin' with those spicaroos upon Broadway and 171st. — New Jack City, 1990

-arooni suffix

used as a meaningless embellishment of a word US, 1946

A highly affected style of speaking invented and marketed with limited success by jazz musician Slim Gaillard.

- To a word that's already jazz slang like "voot," he adds the sound "arooni" or something like that. — Capitol Records, The Capitol, p. 13, March 1946
- Slim Gaillard is a tall, thin Negro with big sad eyes who's always saying "Right-orooni" and "How 'bout a little bourbon-orooni." — Jack Kerouac, On the Road, pp. 175–176, 1957 around the world noun

the oral stimulation of all parts of a partner's body US, 1949, 1951

- — Anon, The Gay Girl's Guide, p. 15, 1949
- [T]hey say she gives a super around the world and also knows about massage[.] — Gore Vidal, Myra Breckinridge, p. 56, 1968
- "I learned that some things johns ask for, like 'a trip around the world,' don't mean any one thing—you have to find out what he wants." — Charles Winick, The Lively Commerce, p. 180, 1971
- The priest asked for around-the-world service and enjoyed every minute of it. — John Sayles, Union Dues, p. 188, 1977

art noun

artillery US, 2000

- Captain Hewitt helped adjust the art from his vantage point atop Hill 902. — Keith Nolan, Ripcord, p. 22, 2000

Arthur Duffy *noun► take it on the Arthur Duffy

to leave quickly US, 1905

A sprinter, in 1902 Duffy was the first to run the 100-yard dash in 9.6 seconds; he later wrote a sports column for the Boston Post.

- The court there sort of had a hunch that Alfonso might take it on the Arthur Duffy, so it slapped a $50,000 don't-go-away bond on him. — San Francisco Examiner, 5th June 1947
- "If I were you," he whispers, "I would take it on the Arthur Duffy. Heel and toe it out of here." — Robert Byrne, McGoorty, p. 72, 1972

artillery noun

1 guns US, 1822

- "Why all the artillery?" I asked him. — Mickey Spillane, I, The Jury, p. 34, 1947
- Only there was no audience, just the guards and their artillery. — Red Rudenski, The Ganiif, p. 13, 1970
- I ran downstairs and hid all the artillery again. — Edwin Torres, Carlito's Way, p. 109, 1975
- COP 1: What kind of artillery? SECRET 1: Perp's brandishing a shotgun. — Malrats, 1995

2 in boxing, heavy blows US, 1954

- When he was ready to cut loose with his heavy artillery, Carter had no trouble scoring with sharp, hurting blows. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 28, 19th November 1954

- Rocky was tossing those artillery shells of his all night at Archie, who weathered them for nine rounds. — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 12, 1st December 1956

3 in other sports, something accomplished from a distance US, 1957

- Dodgers Use Long-Ball Artillery to Clip Bucs 3-0 (Headline) — San Francisco Chronicle, 11th August 1957
- St. Mary's long range artillery, led by chief fire control officer LaRay Doss, shelled Santa Clara's zone defense into ruins last night. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 1H, 17th January 1958

4 the equipment needed to inject a drug US, 1915

- A cabinet was filled with other "artillery"—the legal connotation addicts give shooting gadgets. — San Francisco News, p. 1, 5th December 1951

5 strict discipline; a greater power US, 1954

- But, before you bring in the heavy artillery, try a more gentle persuasion. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 6, 13th June 1954

artillery ears noun

partial deafness caused by exposure to the loud noise of the artillery US, 1982

- After nine years without any improvement, I realized that my "artillery ears" (as they were known by military tradition) were never going to get any better. — David H. Hackworth, About Face, p. 349, 1982

artsy-fartsy *adjective*excessively arty US, 1964

- [A]n artsy-fartsy director had shot a Western with such low-key lighting that it looked as though the wranglers were herding cattle inside a shoe[.] — Max Shulman, Anyone Got a Match?, p. 106, 1964
- “United Pictures, Ltd.” was one of those mid-sized movie studios that pushed a bunch of now famous actors through, specialized in “small” pictures (nothing arsy fartsy) that made money . . . — Odie Hawkins, Lost Angeles, p. 61, 1994

arty *noun*artillery US, 1864

- “Tell you what, how about some nice arty?” — Tim O’Brien, Going After Cacciato, p. 11, 1978
- Lieutenant, they’re kicking our ass, they know we’re gonna bring heavy shit on ‘em pretty soon so they’re gonna get in tight under the arty. — Platoon, 1986
- “ARTY’s being adjusted now. . .” — Cherokee Paul McDonald, Into the Green, p. 107, 2001

arty-farty *adjective*pretentious, artificially cultural US, 1967

- Look for the Gangsters of the New Freedom at the arty-farty and big-business cocktail parties[.] — G. Legman, The Fake Revolt, p. 13, 1967

Arvin *noun*any South Vietnamese soldier US, 1968

The South Vietnamese Army was known as the ARVN (Army of the Republic of Viet Nam); it took one vowel and very little imagination to get to Arvin.

- Sace and Handson, and a Vietnamese soldier, an Arvin, are already in the rear. — William Wilson, The LBJ Brigade, p. 33, 1966
- At dawn a company of Arvins moves into the hamlet and gathers all the civilians in one spot. — Martin Russ, Happy Hunting Ground, p. 119, 1968

Arvin *adjective*pertaining or belonging to the South Vietnamese Army US, 1967

- That morning the VC had overrun an Arvin [Army of the Republic of Vietnam] outpost. — David Reed, Up Front in Vietnam, p. 35, 1967
- “He’s got fresh Arvin fatigues on every day,” the first reporter insisted. — Robert Stone, Dog Soldiers, p. 32, 1974

Aryan B *noun*the white-supremacist prison gang the Aryan Brotherhood US, 2005

- “Tried right away to hook up with the Dirty White Boys—an Aryan-B farm club.” — Jonathan Kellerman, Rage, p. 82, 2005

ash noun▶ get your ashes hauledto be brought to ejaculation US, 1906

- Then he said, “Kimberly, it’s very plain to me what you need. You need to get your ashes hauled. This morning, if you went out and got your ashes hauled right now, it’d do wonders for you.” — Frederic Wakeman, The Hucksters, p. 88, 1946
- I repeat this one bit of smut only to show what sort of fellows I’ve been forced to live with—they’re going to get their ashes hauled! — Robert Gover, One Hundred Dollar Misunderstanding, p. 10, 1961
- I’m just from behind those gray prison walls / so you can see I’m got to get my ashes hauled. — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 125, 1965
- Even the company shitsack got his ashes hauled while we were there. — Larry Heinemann, Paco’s Story, p. 126, 1986

ashcan *noun*a depth charge US, 1918

- Deduct fifteen for an ashcan to sink to medium depth. — C.S. Forester, The Good Shepherd, p. 84, 1955
- We had ashcans on the stern of the vessel. — New York Times, p. 29, 1st January 1987

ash and trash; ass and trash *noun*a mission involving the flying of supplies and/or personnel US

- Today was a typical ASH & TRASH haul up to LAI KHE—only a short flight from here. We hauled CONEX containers and our total haul today was 30,070 LBS. — Mark Seeley, A Most Fortunate Man, pp. 153–154, 3 April 1966
- We flew three missions of local ass-and-trash, single-ship stuff. — Robert Mason, Chickenhawk, p. 394, 1983
- The first thing that happened to helicopter pilots when they arrived in Vietnam was assignment to a platoon that flew “slicks,” the Hueys used for troop and cargo transport, or “Ash and Trash” missions. — Dennis Marvicsin and Jerold Greenfield, Maverick, p. 36, 1990
- He asked the brigade for an additional allocation of the “ash and trash” support people, but made sure he had a hard-core infantry base. — J.D. Coleman, IncurSION, p. 142, 1991
- I had heard all kinds of stories of flying around hauling “ass and trash” and enjoying the scenery. — Chuck Carlock, Firebirds, p. 177, 1995
- A “log” bird was a utility helicopter used for logistics and resupply. “Ash and trash” meant we’d be hauling anything from C rations to ammunition. — Richard Burns, Pathfinder: First in, Last Out, p. 125, 2002

Ashcan City *nickname*during the Korean war, a US Army processing center eight miles from Inchon US, 1957, 1994

From ASCOM (Army Service Command) to “Ascom City” to “Ashcan City.”

- The convoy to this camp—Ascom City or Ashcan City—was absolutely the END. — Martin Russ, The Last Parallel, p. 43, 1957

Asian two-step *noun*any highly venomous snake encountered in the jungles of Southeast Asia US, 1966

From the belief that the venom will kill the victim within two steps of the bite.

- The thought of running into an Asian two-step—any of a number of very poisonous snakes, usually a branded krait—in the grasslands wouldn’t even enter my mind. — James Watson, Point Man, p. 270, 1995

as if!used as a humorous expression of extreme scepticism US, 1987

- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 1, March 1981
- BENJAMIN: Did you really think I wouldn’t end up with the girl. GARTH: As if. — Wayne’s World, 1992
- He said my debates were unresearched, unstructured, and unconvincing. As if! — Clueless, 1995
- “Then we’d get in our sleeping bags and hump our stuffed animals until we came.” “As if!” — Amy Sohn, Run Catch Kiss, p. 116, 1999

ask noun▶ ask for Nancy’s handto seek membership in Nuestra Family, a Mexican-American prison gang US, 1975

- — Report to the Senate, California Senate Committee on Civil Disorder, p. 227, 1975

asparagus *noun*a boy’s penis US, 2003

From the language of child pornography.

- In court Monday, Schopp said his computer had inadvertently downloaded some of the images as he searched the Internet for asparagus recipes. Wilken noted that asparagus is apparently a slang term for boys’ genitalia. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. A17, 28th October 2003 asphalt jungle *noun*a large city US, 1920

The title of a 1949 book by W. R. Burnett as well as an ABC television series starring Jack Warden in 1961

- Shall we take a new stance toward the City and its mass culture—a tougher stance, a more nervy one—so that we may learn to live more gracefully and meaningfully in this Asphalt Jungle we have constructed around us? (Letter to Editor) — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 2, 28th December 1952
- “I’m not anxious. I’ve been waiting too long,” her owner and skipper Bradford Simmons said. “I’m free of the asphalt jungle.” — San Francisco Examiner, p. 17, 19th November 1964

aspie *noun*a person with Asperger’s Syndrome US

- Dude, I’m an Aspie. — www.dudeimanaspie.com, 29th November 2009
- I’m looking forward to Julie Sokolow’s upcoming documentary, Aspie Seeks Love, about a man with Asperger’s syndrome who is looking for a long-term romantic partner. — Mark Frauenfelder, boingboing.net, 29th January 2015

A-squared *nickname*Ann Arbor, Michigan US, 1994

- At press time, the hit Royal Oak fry shop was preparing to open an outlet on the corner of Main and Washington in downtown A-squared. — Detroit Monthly, p. 109, 7th November 1994

ass *noun1 the buttocks, the posterior US, 1853

- Her skirt is up over her ass, her thighs squirming underneath him, his penis in terrific erection. — Thomas Pynchon, Gravity’s Rainbow, p. 221, 1973
- Is it his imagination, or is she pushing her ass out at him? — Candace Bushnell, Four Blondes, p. 128, 2001

2 the vagina UK, 1684

- Why, the day he was dropped from his mammy’s ass / he slapped his pappy’s face. — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 58, 1970
- I had saved my hankie that I wiped Ruth’s ass out with after we had had our taste of sex, because I had a real freak of a nigger that I was gonna sell a smell of it to after I got back in the joint. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 66, 1973

3 sex; a person as a sexual object US, 1910

- Most of them were dogs, and I had more ass lined up at the house than I could take care of. — Juan Carmel Cosmes, Memoir of a Whoremaster, p. 24, 1969
- The other numerous downtown clubs would not serve us, nor would the white prostitutes sell black G.I.s any ass. — Bobby Seale, A Lonely Rage, p. 106, 1978
- And here’s what I want you to do: I want you to sell your ass. I’ll be in the car waiting. — Chris Rock, Rock This!, p. 186, 1997

4 the self; a person US, 1945

- Not a living ass in that band could read a note except Elmer Schobel. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 51, 1946
- Gramma said you better get your filthy ass out of this garden. — Cecil Brown, The Life & Loves of Mr. Jiveass Nigger, p. 6, 1969
- Now that’s a hard motherfuckin’ fact of life, but it’s a fact of life your ass is gonna hafta git realistic about. — Pulp Fiction, 1994
- My first thought is, “Hey, thanks a lot, man. Thanks for taking her ugly ass off our hands, because we didn’t know what we were going to do about her!” — Chris Rock, Rock This!, p. 129, 1997

5 a fool UK, 1578

- Ted’s greatest asset is the ability to make a complete ass of himself on camera. — Bruce Campbell, If Chins Could Kill, p. 291, 2002

▶ bring ass to get assused for conveying that a person who wants to win a fight must be willing to fight US, 1970

- They has got to bring ass to get ass! Man, that Hiram Elliott Quinault is a bad mother-fucker. — Chuck Stone, King Strut, p. 58, 1970

- In the Black idiom of my Georgia childhood, I believe we must make it ever clear to the white boy that he has “to bring ass to git ass.” — John Alfred Williams, Amistad, p. 106, 1971
- “But remember, muthafucka, you gotta bring ass to git ass—and I’m takin at least two of y’all with me!” — Nathan Heard, A Cold Fire Burning, p. 12, 1974
- You gotta bring ass to kick ass, so come on wid it. — New Jack City, 1990

▶ bust your ass

- to hurry, to exert yourself; to work extremely hard US, 1941
- I bust my ass all day to take home a hundred and seventy bucks a week and I just can’t swing the kind of money it costs. — George V. Higgins, The Friends of Eddie Doyle, p. 33, 1971
- He had always believed Hispanic girls would bust their ass to go out with a white man. — Elmore Leonard, Maximum Bob, p. 250, 1991
- One morning I heard my bell ring at dawn. I figured it was the UPS man with a package. I busted my ass down the stairs, trembling, because I couldn’t wait to get my hands on that bubble wrap. — Chris Rock, Rock This!, p. 67, 1997

▶ eat someone’s ass out

- to berate someone US, 1996
- The magistrate, a lovely, intelligent woman, dismissed the charge and ate the ass out of the assistant U.S. attorney for being overzealous. — Elmore Leonard, Out of Sight, p. 64, 1996

▶ on ass

- on credit US, 1974
- “Put up in advance. We don’t play on ass around here.” — Nathan Heard, A Cold Fire Burning, p. 104, 1974

▶ your ass is grass

- used for conveying the state of being in great trouble US, 1956
- I never heard the man so pissed. They ass is grass, whoever it is. — Vernon E. Smith, The Jones Men, p. 40, 1974
- Else my ass would be grass by now. — Edwin Torres, Carlito’s Way, p. 74, 1975
- If it all comes down, your ass is new-mown grass. — 48 Hours, 1982

ass adjective

- terrible, bad US, 1992
- [T]he cha (“very cool”) worlds include: “winded” for hung over; “craftsman” for a complete idiot; and “ass” for awful. — Washington Times, p. C3, 26th August 1992

-ass; -assed suffix

- used as an intensifier for the preceding adjective or adverb US, 1903
- “Get up the stairs, you sassy-assed bitch,” yelled Agent No. 3. — Tom Robbins, Another Roadside Attraction, p. 110, 1971
- Plus we’re gonna send for a free specialist so you’re not at the mercy of those sorry-ass state sawbones. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 288, 1990
- I’ve seen a lot of crazy-ass shit in my time — Pulp Fiction, 1994
- Do you know how depressing it is to sit in the same room you two sat in when you were both 14? There’s the little-ass dresser, the little-ass bed, and the poster of Tony Doreset on the wall. — Chris Rock, Rock This!, p. 93, 1997

ass action noun

- anal sex US, 2005
- Five sex scenes, starring such luscious pieces of mid ‘90s porn as Nikki Sinn and Kim Chambers, features ass action that is light years beyond most anal-themed efforts. — Editors of Adult Video News, The AVN Guide to the 500 Greatest Adult Films of All Time, p. 15, 2005

ass-and-trash noun

- during the Vietnam war, people and cargo to be transported by plane US, 1978
- We flew three missions of local ass-and-trash, single-ship stuff. — Robert Mason, Chickenhawk, p. 394, 1983
- The first thing that happened to helicopter pilots when they arrived in Vietnam was assignment to a platoon that flew “slicks,” the Hueys used for troop and cargo transport, or “Ash and Trash” missions. — Dennis Marvicin and Jerold Greenfield, Maverick, p. 36, 1990
- He asked the brigade for an additional allocation of the “ash and trash” support people, but made sure he had a hard-core infantry base. — J.D. Coleman, Incurcion, p. 142, 1991
- “Ash and trash” means we’ll be hauling anything from C rations to ammunition. — Richard Burns, Pathfinder, p. 125, 2002

ass antlers noun

- a symmetrical tattoo on a woman’s lower back, rising from her buttocks US, 2002
- Now, you can’t swing a stick without hitting someone with a fucking barb wire armband or a “look at my ass” black low back piece. Ass antlers! — rec.arts.bodyart, 14th July 2002
- Ass antlers is a term for a kind of tramp stamp, in this case a tribal or other tattoo located on the lower back, and radiating upwards with the anus as a center. — alt.buddha.short.fat.guy, 4th March 2003

ass backwards adverb

- in reverse order US, 1942
- With this joker, the more he lapped it up, the more he got his words ass backwards. — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 42, 1954
- “I think you got it ass-backwards,” Majestyk said, returning the keys to his pocket. “I’m not going with you, you’re going with me.” — Elmore Leonard, Mr. Majestyk, p. 52, 1974
- All of my information on the Army indicated that they did things so ass backwards that if you were on the west coast they’d send you to the east (France or Italy or somewhere) and vice versa. — Odie Hawkins, Scars and Memories, p. 73, 1987 ass bandit; asshole bandit noun

a male homosexual, especially the active partner in anal sex US, 1968

- Which is, dear reader, the true story of this particular asshole bandit[.] — Angelo d’Arcangelo, The Homosexual Handbook, p. 78, 1968
- “In the joint I was an asshole bandit. The sheriff of the brown trail.” — John Gregory Dunne, Dutch Shea, Jr., p. 37, 1982
- “I ought to make you eat that hat, you fucking ass bandit!” — Stephen King, It, p. 20, 1987
- I wasn’t scared of jail; the shape I was in I could smear any assbandit onto the wall. — Derek Bickerton, King of the Sea, p. 188, 1989
- Usually derogatory; combines ASS with “bandit” – or “brigand”, conventionally a generally romantic image of a villain who will take what he wants.

ass bite noun

harsh criticism US, 1973

- I felt like he was lots older and a damn sight wiser and took the assbite without looking at him. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Blue Knight, p. 77, 1973

ass-breaker noun

a strict disciplinarian US, 1966

- — Rose Giallombardo, Society of Women, p. 204, 1966: Glossary of Prison Terms
- He’s a real ass-breaker now so they don’t dare touch me. — Josef Skvorecky, The Engineer of Human Souls, p. 211, 1985

ass bucket noun

a despised person US, 1953

- “Once a ass-bucket always a ass-bucket.” The small-eyed waiter looked again at the man with his head resting on the table. — William Fisher, The Waiters, p. 65, 1953 ass burglar noun

the active partner in anal sex; more generally, a male homosexual US, 1979

- “You are at the end of your career ass burglar, said old Nadoway.” — Gilbert Chesterton, Four Faultless Felons, p. 126, 1989

ass chewing noun

a harsh reprimand or scold US, 1954

- Johnson paused to smile, perhaps in recollection of a particularly memorable ass chewing he had inflicted on some trembling bureaucrat. — Dan Rather, The Palace Guard, p. 29, 1974
- A vice president of manufacturing once quit the day Paul Allegretto took over as president of his division, complaining that he was not going to put up with Allegretto’s “long hours, harsh demands and ass chewing.” — American Metal Market, p. 55, 2nd January 1984
- “When accolades were coming, he’d give them to you,” Martinez added. “And when an ass-chewing was coming, he’d give them, too, and I always appreciated that about him.” — Star Tribune (Minneapolis), p. 1B, 7th November 2003

assclown noun

a foolish person US

- You, my good sir, are an assclown. — Urban Dictionary, 23th October 2002
- You can start reading, ya fuckin’ assclown. — Rebecca Martinson forward in Taylor Bell, Dirty Rush, p. xv, 2015
- “He’s not an assclown. If you want an ass clown, look in the mirror.” — Chamein Canton, North of Forty, 2015 ass cunt noun

the anus US, 1974

- Wowie, will you look at that little white kid’s ass-cunt. That’s a cherry if I ever saw one. — Piri Thomas, Seven Long Times, p. 67, 1974

assed out adjective

in severe trouble US, 1993

- Now if you ain’t got none, you just assed out. — Menace II Society, 1993
- If you were light-skinned, maybe you had a shot with the honeys, but regular guys like me were assed out. — Earl “DMX” Simmons, E.A.R.L., p. 80, 2002

ass end noun

the least desirable part of anything US, 1947

- — American Speech, p. 54, February 1947: “Pacific War language”
- [T]heir plight caught the ass end of a brief burst of black unity. — Jess Mowry, Way Past Cool, p. 29, 1992

ass English noun

the body movements and incantations of a dice shooter who believes that he can control the roll of the dice US, 1950

- — The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, p. 120, May 1950

ass fuck noun

1 anal sex US, 1940

- It seems like they were having more fun back then. Now it’s like, um, you want to do an ass fuck for $250 real quick? — LA Weekly, p. 31, 19th November 1999
- Standard price on the street is twenty for head, thirty for a straight lay, and forty for an ass-fuck. — Edward Lee, Seeds of Fear, p. 161, 2005

2 a despicable person US, 2001

- He’d call her a “stupid ass-fuck” and throw her against the wall, she says. — Cleveland Scene, 8th November 2001

ass-fuck verb

to engage in anal sex, especially in the active role US, 1940

- Others will say that they’re too busy being happily clit-tickled or ass-fucked to be bothered with any G-spot gyrations. — Susie Bright, Susie Sexpert’s Lesbian Sex World, p. 23, 1990
- He denies saying he wanted to “ass fuck” the man, but agrees he was out of line. — Cleveland Scene, 2nd August 2001

ass fucker noun

- the active partner in anal sex US, 1979
- “Don’t you dare shoot that load until I say so, you little ass fucker,” Derek demanded. — Ben Tyler, Gay Blades, p. 109, 2004

ass fucking noun

- anal sex US, 1970
- Ass-fucking in general, never so much as crossed my mind until about two years ago[.] — Screw, p. 15, 15th March 1970
- “I love ass-fucking. It’s the first time I’ve ever done it it’s really great.” — Harold Robbins, The Predators, p. 62, 1999

ass gasket noun

- a disposable paper toilet seat cover US, 1994
- Michael Dalton Johnson, Talking Trash with Redd Foxx, p. 129, 1994

asshat noun

- a foolish person US
- Urban Dictionary, 11th October 2002
- A drunk or high suspect with a disregard for societies norms. — “Cop Slang,” www.policemag.com, 6th November 2012
- NO YOU STUPID FUCKING ASS HATS, IT FUCKING DOESN’T. — Rebecca Martinson email dated 18th April 2013

asshole noun

- 1 the anus US, 1935
- He thrusts into her asshole without using any lubrication. — Kathy Acker, Great Expectations, p. 39, 1989
- [He] has fucked her in the ass, sucked his own cum out of her asshole, and spit it back in her mouth. — Ron Scapp, Eating Culture, p. 229, 1998
- He put his hands under my ass and then he plunged his cock into my asshole. — Augusten Burroughs, Running with Scissors, p. 159, 2002
- 2 a fool; a person held in contempt US, 1933
- The phone rang, Benny O. Bliss answered. “Mort Robell? That asshole. Well, put him on.” — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 26, 1954
- “Then let the asshole beef,” said Matthews, and Gus realized that they used “asshole” as much here in the divisions as the instructors did in the academy and he guessed it was the favorite epithet of policemen[.] — Joseph Wambaugh, The New Centurions, p. 55, 1970
- You ain’t nothing but an old stupid God damn fool, motherfucking asshole! — Bobby Seale, A Lonely Rage, pp. 24–25, 1978
- Why do girls like assholes? — Rosalind Wiseman, Queen Bees & Wannabes, p. 186, 2002

asshole buddy noun

- a very close friend US, 1945
- I recall during the war at the Jockey Club in Cairo, me and my asshole buddy, Lud, both gentlemen by act of Congress. — William Burroughs, Naked Lunch, p. 92, 1957
- Meridian, you know that Mister Parnell ain’t going to let them arrest his ass-hole buddy — James Baldwin, Blues for Mister Charlie, 1964
- I need an ass-hole buddy who can cook, clean and keep house. — Emile Nytrate, Underground Ads, p. 94, 1971
- I just hope I can keep playing good enough to make it a contest for our ass-hole buddy here. — Dan Jenkins, Dead Solid Perfect, p. 107, 1986

asshole eating noun

- oral-anal sex US, 1988
- For asshole eating, I would charge, I would charge him thirty dollars extra. — Dolores French, Working, p. 98, 1988

asshole naked adjective

- completely naked US, 1969
- I came in that hot summer day, took a shower and went to my bedroom asshole naked and layed down. — Screw, p. 5, 7th March 1969

asshole of creation noun

- a remote, desolate place US, 1964
- Ain’t it logical that I should appear here in Potts County, which is just about as close to the asshole of creation as you can get without havin’ a finger snapped off? — Jim Thompson, Pop, 1280, p. 209, 1964

asshole of the world; asshole of the universe noun

- the most despised place, area or location US, 1949
- But you can’t vote until you get your citizenship. Not here, not in this Dutch-infested ass-hole of the nation. — John O’Hara, A Rage to Live, p. 118, 1949
- Way down here in the ass-hole of the world, the deep, black, funky South. — James Baldwin, Blues for Mister Charlie, p. 31, 1964
- “All I ever got in that state was shit on. California’s the asshole of the universe.” — Malcolm Braly, False Starts, p. 91, 1976
- We’re from the Sixth Regiment / The asshole of the world. — Thomas Bowen, The Longest Year, p. 49, 1990: We’re A Pack Of Bastards assholes and elbows noun

- said of a chaotic situation US, 1987
- Quickly, ladies! Assholes and elbows! — Full Metal Jacket, 1987
- I mean, you should’ve seen it. All asses and elbows flying all over the goddam place. — Robert Campbell, Juice, p. 29, 1988

asshole to appetite noun

- from the anus to the stomach US, 1992
- Covers me from asshole t’appetite. — Robert Gover, Here Goes Kitten, p. 114, 1964

asshole to belly button adjective

- said of people pressed close together, one behind the other US, 1973
- I remember when the slime-balls used to be packed in there solid, asshole to belly button, waiting to look at the skin show in the viewer. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Blue Knight, pp. 26–27, 1973

ass hound noun

- a man who obsessively engages in the pursuit of women for sex US, 1952
- My friends and professors thought I was quite an “ass-hound.” How right they were! — Philip Barrows, Whores, Queens and Others, p. 156, 2005

ass in a sling

- in deep trouble US, 1943
- [I]ust because I had my ass in a sling was no reason for them to suffer, too. — Anthony Herbert, Soldier, p. 3, 1973
- [I]f I made too many wrong moves, my ass was gon’ be in another sling, so I had to proceed quietly. — Odie Hawkins, Great Lawd Buddha, p. 44, 1990

ass-in-the-grass adjective

- used for describing infantry in combat in the field US, 1973
- It was a hell of a lot better than what the ass-in-the-grass grunts had that night. — Anthony Herbert, Soldier, p. 141, 1973

ass juice noun

- rectal secretions and/or lubrication US, 2001
- This fat cock likes dark and damp places where it can gather up the stench of sweat and cum and ass-juice. — Mark Hemry, Tales from the Bear Cult, 2001

ass-keister verb

- to hide contraband in your rectum US, 2002
- There will be a cavity check in the holding cell for the benefit of any ignorant motherfucker that thinks he can ass-keister a hypo or crack pipe[.] — Jimmy Lerner, You Got Nothing Coming, p. 28, 2002

ass-kicker noun

- a challenging and difficult person, thing, or situation US, 1972
- “Ass-kicker, aint it?” I didn’t answer, panting, chest quivering. — William Pelfrey, The Big V, p. 31, 1972

ass-kiss verb

- to behave in an ingratiatingly sycophantic manner US, 1961
- Sure, I was ass-kissing the boss, but that’s what employees do. — Walter Yetnikoff, Howling at the Moon, p. 192, 2004

ass-kisser; arse-kisser noun

- a sycophant US, 1766
- Combines ARSE/ASS (the buttocks) with conventional “kisser”. As a demonstration of subservience the image is much older than the term; it can be seen in C16 woodcuts of devil-worshippers lifting the goat’s tail to plant their kisses.
- “This guy is an ass-kisser for the company,” Johnny whispered. — Piri Thomas, Stories from El Barrio, p. 11, 1978 ass-kissing noun

- sycophantic or ingratiating behavior US, 1939
- “Do you think I could stand a whole lifetime of this drinking, boredom, small talk, and ass-kissing?” — Saul Bellow, Humboldt’s Gift, p. 128, 1996
- My lips are permanently damaged from the amount of ass-kissing I did today. — Megan McCafferty, Second Helpings, p. 155, 2003

ass-kissing adjective

- sycophantic US, 1942
- Nicky looked him up after doing his time and that was how he got to meet Jimmy Cap and went to work for him: picking up Chinese takeout, lighting his cigars, getting him young girls, generally serving on an ass-kissing basis at first. — Elmore Leonard, Pronto, p. 218, 1993
- You ass-kissing little snitch! — John Waters, Desperate Living, p. 166, 1999

assload noun

- a large amount US, 1957
- One minor hitch—my gear is still at the hotel, so far as I know, containing an assload of barbiturates, amphetamines, T.O., PG—paraegoric—and assorted shit. — James Blake, The Joint, p. 161, 7th January 1957

ass man; arse man noun

- a man who considers that the appearance of a woman’s buttocks provides the supreme initial sexual attraction US, 1972
- Helen Dahlsgog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 4, 1972
- Fran Drescher has an earthy sensuality that permeates her entire being but seems to be localized in her wide, often-grinning libertine’s mouth and he wide, all enveloping ass-man’s dream of a rear end. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin’s Skincyclopedia, p. 155, 2005

ass munch noun

- a person who is easily despised US, 1996
- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 1, March 1996
- Debmeu was a major passive-aggressive ass-much with an MBA from Stanford. — Joseph Armstead, Nocturnes and Neon, p. 318, 2001

ass-out adjective

- without money US, 1999
- “He’s ass-out. He’s not going anywhere.” — John Ridley, Everybody Smokes in Hell, p. 131, 1999

ass over tea kettle; ass over tea cups adverb

- head over heels US, 1948
- “Someday one of these things is going to wipe out New York, turn it ass-over-teakettle.” — Stephen Longstreet, The Flesh Peddlers, p. 256, 1962
- In a matter of seconds, you’re at horizon level and then you’re down, ass over tea-kettle, scrambling up and after the chute, tearing out of the harness. — Anthony Herbert, Soldier, p. 31, 1973
- They drop four head of cattle and blow two papa-sans ass over teakettle with the fifties. — Larry Heinemann, Close Quarters, p. 106, 1977
- Ass over teakettle onto the concrete, right on my wrist. — Robert Campbell, Juice, p. 29, 1988

ass pocket noun

a thin, flat glass bottle US, 1996

- "Ass Pocket of Whiskey" is the name of an album released by R. L. Burnside and the Jon Spencer Blues Explosion in 1996
- I ran to the liquor store and bought her an ass pocket of whiskey and a Coke. — Lynn Breedlove, Godspeed, p. 32, 2002
 - He was out at St. Martha's kicking and screaming with an ass pocket of whiskey. — John Connolly, Dark Hollow, p. 197, 2002 ass ripper noun

a difficult course or test US, 1968

- Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 71, 1968

asswipe; arsewipe noun

1 toilet paper US, 1958

- Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 2, 1968
- "Well, the old thief's got enough asswipe stashed to last a week," said someone in a loud voice. — Joseph Wambaugh, The New Centurions, p. 191, 1970

2 by extension, a despicable or offensive person US, 1952

- Hey! You asswipes, scumbags! — Saturday Night Fever, 1977
- FRANK: Is this the kind of language our employees use on duty? JOE: Well, Corey's usually very courteous. COREY: Asswipe. — Empire Records, 1995
- Hey, Puffy tried to warn you about that Steve guy you was seeing—he was a fucking asswipe—but you had to find out for yourself, didn't YOU. — Something About Mary, 1998
- "Ray was the real deal, asswipe" Drucker hissed. — Stephen J. Cannell, The Tin Collectors, p. 30, 2001

Astor's pet horse noun used in comparisons with a person, especially a woman, who is over-dressed US, 1950

- In the 1700s up pops John (Johannes) Jakob Astor (Asdour), who now has hotels, Astor Place, Astoria, the phrase "dressed up like Astor's pet horse" and lots of stuff named for him. — New York Post, p. 14, 27th June 2003

atari noun

crack cocaine US, 1993

- Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 11, 1993

A-Team noun

the basic functional unit of the US Special Forces in Vietnam, consisting of 10 to 12 trained commandos US

- Gregory Clark, Words of the Vietnam War, pp. 2–3, 1990

Athenian noun

in homosexual usage, an anal sex enthusiast US, 1986–1987

- Maledicta, p. 56, 1986–1987: "A continuation of a glossary of ethnic slurs in American English"

ATM noun

a generous person US, 1997

From the most common US name for a bank's automatic teller machine.

- Anna Scotti and Paul Young, Buzzwords, p. 49, 1997

a toda madre!

excellent! US, 1974

Border Spanish used in English conversation by Mexican-Americans.

- Dagoberto Fuentes and Jose Lopez, Barrio Language Dictionary, p. 10, 1974

atomic noun

a cigar-sized marijuana cigarette US, 1953

- Marijuana (we hear) is now peddled in the form of phony cigars. Called "atomics": A box (less conspicuous than ciggies) sells at $35. — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 8G, 11th March 1953

atomic adjective

(of a drug) very powerful US, 1971

- [I]t was an ace bomber of absolutely atomic North African marihuoch[.] — Lester Bangs, Psychotic Reactions and Carburetor Dung, p. 80, 1971

A train noun

any central nervous system depressant US, 1975

- Only thing I know is that you been fucking with them A trains, again. — Miguel Pinero, Short Eyes, p. 62, 1975

attaboy noun

praise, especially from a boss US, 1970

- They do not volunteer for medals or glory or attaboys. — Richard Marcinko and John Weisman, Rogue Warrior, p. 231, 1992 attagirl!

used for encouraging a female US, 1924

- "You denied it, though?" "Of course." "Attagirl!" — Armistead Maupin, Back to Barbary Lane, p. 622, 1991

attitude test noun

the extremely subjective criteria used by a traffic police officer in deciding whether to issue a traffic ticket or let the offending driver off with a warning US, 1984

- He found that the car's left tail-light was out and he began writing him a ticket, for failing the attitude test, as they say. — Joseph Wambaugh, Lines and Shadows, p. 114, 1984

atto- prefix

used as a diminishing intensifier US, 1997

Literally meaning "ten to the power of negative eighteen."

- I will devote nine attointerest units to your proposal. — Andy Ihnatko, Cyberspeak, p. 17, 1997

Audi noun

► to be audi

to leave US, 1992

- Lady Kier Kirby, The 376 Deee-liteful Words, 1992
- Let's just talk when we've mellowed, alright? I'm audi. — Clueless, 1995

auger in verb

to crash an airplane US, 1957

- For a fellow down to his last fuel, it's "bingo." If he "clanks," he's nervous and if he "augers in" he's crashed. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 10 (II), 2nd June 1957
- There are no black pilots or white pilots, only pilots that make it and pilots that auger in. — Walter J. Boyne and Steven L. Thompson, The Wild Blue, 1986

au naturel adjective

naked US, 1967

French used by those who speak no French; informal, jocular, affected.

- No frustrating plots, mysteries or symbolism. Just simple, unrestricted, unrestrained action! Men & Women Au-Naturel! — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 45, 19th June 1967

Aunt Bettie noun

an overly cautious person US, 1945

- And so it is shocking to hear some of the old male Aunt Bettys lift their skirts in scat fashion against this one-time Andy Smith quarterback on the pretense that there are several indiscreet chapters in his past life. — San Francisco News, p. 16, 10th January 1945
- Prep's "Aunt Betties" Dawdle Over Age Limit Rule Change (Headline) — San Francisco News, p. 13, 23rd January 1951

Aunt Emma noun

used as a personification of a matronly aunt US, 1947

- Into this situation comes Waldorf, whose record is nothing to write your Aunt Emma about. — San Francisco News, p. 15, 21st February 1947
- Your Aunt Emma could win with a team like that. (Cartoon caption) — San Francisco News, p. 17, 24th May 1956

Aunt Flo noun

the bleed period of the menstrual cycle US, 1954

- American Speech, p. 298, December 1954: "The vernacular of menstruation"
- Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 16, 1989

Aunt Hazel noun

marijuana US, 2001

- "Grass ... Mary Jane, Aunt Hazel, African bush, bambalacha. You pick the cool name." — Stephen J. Cannell, The Tin Collectors, p. 60, 2001

auntie noun

an older, effeminate male homosexual US, 1930

A tad cruel, if not derogatory.

- They also think he has an in with the law because an old auntie fuzz man gets his boys through Tony. — William Burroughs, Letters to Allen Ginsberg 1953–1957, p. 82, 28th December 1954
- Later, when I went to the director's house with the auntie—several weeks later—the director would be redecorating his house. — John Rechy, City of Night, 1963
- Is this the way to treat another gay person with whom they disagree—calling him "auntie"? — Screw, January 1969
- To the younger homosexual, an auntie often translates as anything over thirty having lived too long with nothing to show for his age. Youth is the premium in the real world, but it is the criterion in the gay world. — Bruce Rodgers, The Queens' Vernacular, 1972

Aunt Jemima noun

a black woman who seeks approval from white people by obsequious behavior US, 1966

Ironically, singer/actor Ethel Ernestine Harper, who portrayed Aunt Jemima in pancake commercials from 1948 until 1966, was by all accounts anything but the stereotypical subservient black woman.

- What I [Adam Clayton Powell] cannot abide are the black "Aunt Jemimas" who snuggle up to the white power structure for approbation by denouncing "black power" and telling Mr. Charlie what he wants to hear. — San Francisco Examiner, 18th August 1966
- You have got to eat lunch anyway, you know, just like aunt Jemima said. — George V. Higgins, Penance for Jerry Kennedy, p. 170, 1985

Aunt Thomasina noun

a black woman who curries favor with white people by obsequious behavior US, 1963

An echo of the much more commonly heard UNCLE TOM.

- On the other side are New York activists led by Al Sharpton and Alton Maddox Jr. They savage their opponents, calling them "Uncle Toms" and "Aunt Thomasinas." — Record (Bergen County, New Jersey), p. B7, 25th April 1990
- "I ain't nobody's Uncle Tom or Aunt Thomasina," said Ada Fisher, a Republican from Salisbury[.] — Winston-Salem (North Carolina) Journal, p. 1, 6th May 2003

Aunt Tillie; Aunt Tilly noun

used as the personification of a fussy old maid US, 1960

- They are determined that Aunt Tillie, a symbol of their most temperamental customer, shall love their parking. — San Francisco News Call-Bulletin, p. 49, 22nd June 1960

Aunt Tom noun

a woman who does not support the goals of feminism US, 1968

An attempt to link semantically the struggle of women with the struggle of black slaves by borrowing from the well-known UNCLE TOM.

- "Look who's calling who an Aunt Tom," Wolfgang retorted, "she's the real Aunt Tom, the Chamber of Commerce's Aunt Tom." — Dorothy Cobble, The Other Women's Movement, p. 193, 2004

Australian yo noun

in craps, a roll of three US, 1999

A roll of three is rarely a good thing, and is usually best face-down; if a three is face-down, an eleven is face-up. Eleven is “yo,” with the three thus “down-under the yo.”

- — Chris Fagans and David Guzman, A Guide to Craps Lingo, p. 11, 1999

automagically adverb

in computing, in an automatic but explanation-defying complicated fashion US, 1981

- — CoEvolution Quarterly, p. 27, Spring 1981
- Files that have a name ending in “TMF” are automagically deleted when you log out. — Guy L. Steele et al., The Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 28, 1983

Av nickname

► the Av

Telegraph Avenue, Berkeley, California US, 1966

Also Fifth Avenue in New York in gay use. Fifth Avenue was, in the 1940s and 1950s, favoured by homosexual prostitutes.

- “Things are really getting rougher;” nearly every hippy on the Av will tell you. — The Berkeley Barb, p. 1, 2nd September 1966 used by the police as a description of a shooting involving black shooter and black victim US, 1993

AVANHI

- [Partners were likely to turn to each other and shrug: “AVANHI!”—Asshole Vs. Asshole, No Human Involved. — Bob Sipchen, Baby Insane and the Buddha, p. 19, 1993

Avenue noun

► the Avenue

Telegraph Avenue, Berkeley, California US, 1966

- Headline: Peace-Rock OK, But Not On “Avenue” / Will Rock “Off-Telly” — The Berkeley Barb, 15 August 1966

avgas noun

jet fuel US, 1967

- The decrease in aviation gasoline, or avgas, usage shows the shift away from piston-engined aircraft — Carl Vansant, Strategic Energy Supply and National Security, p. 49, 1971
- The rocket hit a fueled and armed airplane. An avgas fire started. — James Dunnigan, Dirty Little Secrets of the Vietnam War, p. 145, 2000

avocados noun

the female breasts US, 1974

- Mr. K is wearing new blinkers—not for reading but in tribute to her avocados, which are worth it. — Leo Rosten, Dear Herm, p. 149, 1974

away adjective

in bar dice games, counting for nothing US, 1976

- A call of “aces away” would mean that rolls of one have no point value. — Gil Jacobs, The World’s Best Dice Games, p. 191, 1976 awesome adjective

great, excellent US, 1975

An informal variation of the conventional sense.

- Like, OK, so I saw this totally awesome dude at the bonerama checkout, right, like I totally thought it was Rick Springfield. — Mary Corey and Victoria Westermark, Fer Shurr! How to be a Valley Girl, 1982

- But NO BIGGIE / It’s so AWESOME / It’s like TUBULAR, y’know. — Moon Unit and Frank Zappa, Valley Girl, 1982
- Awesome party! Good tunes! Good brew! Good buddies! — Wayne’s World 2, 1993

awesomesauce adjective

stunningly good US, 2006

- “Awesomesauce? Did you seriously just say awesomesauce?” — PC. Cast, Destined, 2011
- And, if you can handle any more awesomesauce news, the insider claims they were making each other laugh! — “Kristen Stewart & Robert Pattinson Still ON After Getting Caught Holding Hands?” pereshilton.com, 14th June 2013
- Still, sister missionaries in pants is some pretty awesomesauce. “Sunglasses, hats and pants; Mormon missionaries be stylin’.” — Standard-Examiner, 22nd May 2016

AWOL bag noun

in the Korea and Vietnam wars, an overnight bag US, 1956

- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 2, 1968
- A moment later Paco stands on the bottom of the coach steps with his AWOL bag in one hand and his black hickory cane in the other[.] — Larry Heinemann, Paco’s Story, 1986

ax; axe noun

a musical instrument, especially an electric guitar US, 1955

Originally used in jazz circles for any instrument, particularly a saxophone or trumpet.

- Now these cats were blowing their horns, their axes, whatever they had. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 229, 1965
- OK man, we’ll take these axes. — The Blues Brothers, 1980

► get the axe

in surfing, to be knocked off your board by a wave US, 1957

- I looked around. Only two other guys had made it. The others had got the axe. — Frederick Kohner, Gidget, p. 16, 1957

axe handle noun

an imprecise unit of measurement, especially when applied to the breadth of a man’s shoulders or woman’s buttocks US, 1947

- He is two axe handles across the shoulders, strong as the bulls of Bashan, and possessed of a temper like Jove’s. — Colin Roderick, Miles Franklin, p. 70, 1982
- You have a poochy tummy but want to wear a rhinestone-studded belly tee; your ass—as my Gran used to say—is “six axe handles across” but you crave a pair of low-rise boot-leg distressed snakeskin jeans. — Leslie Carroll, Play Dates, p. 40, 2005

ayo

used as a greeting US, 1995

- — Lois Stavsky et al., A2Z: The Book of Rap and Hip-Hop Slang, p. 3, 1995

Aztec hop; Aztec revenge; Aztec two-step noun diarrhea suffered by tourists in Mexico US, 1953

- “If it isn’t cat fever it’s the Aztec two-step or some other stupid thing! You don’t eat right!” — Evan Connell, The Patriot, p. 149, 1960
- With his luck he’d die of Aztec Revenge anyway, first time he had a Bibb lettuce salad. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Black Marble, p. 152, 1978
- Like a thief, traveler’s diarrhea has many aliases. It is euphemistically known as “Turista,” Montezuma’s Revenge, “The Aztec Two Step,” “Turkey Trots,” and scores more. — The Patriot Ledger (Quincy, Massachusetts), p. 16, 3rd June 1997

Bb

B noun

1 Benzedrine™ amphetamine sulfate, a central nervous system stimulant US, 1986

- — Richard A. Spears, The Slang and Jargon of Drugs and Drink, p. 18, 1986
- — Angela Devlin, Prison Patter, p. 23, 1996

2 a matchbox full of marijuana US, 1971

- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 27, 1971
- — Jay Robert Nash, Dictionary of Crime, p. 15, 1992

▶ put the B on to ask for money for sex after giving the appearance of being seduced US, 1954

- You goddam tramp! Gettin' me up here, then puttin' the B on me! Twenty bucks! — Dev Collins with Stewart Sterling, I was a House Detective, p. 33, 1954

B adjective

(used of a movie) second-tier in terms of actors and budget US, 1946

- Being both profitable and meritorious, Lewton's productions are ideal B films. — Life, p. 123, 25th February 1946
- A falsehood has been circulating in Hollywood and across the country that B pictures are no longer being made. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 34, 30th August 1966

B-52 noun

a powerful amphetamine tablet US, 1993

- — Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 12, 1993

BA noun

a bare ass US, 1970

Usually in the context of exposing the buttocks to shock or amuse.

- — Current Slang, p. 20, Summer 1970

▶ hang a BA

to expose your bare ass US, 1970

- Butt-Head turns around, drops his pants and hangs a "B.A." at the guy. — Mike Judge and Joe Stillman, Beavis and Butt-Head Do America, p. 20, 1997

babe noun

1 an attractive young woman US, 1905

- Tonight I got a date with a Sigma, a keen babe, for a hop at the Shoreland Hotel. — James T. Farrell, Saturday Night, p. 35, 1947
- [T]hree days in New York—three days of babes and booze while I waited to see The Man—hadn't helped it any. — Jim Thompson, Savage Night, p. 1, 1953
- Oh you beautiful babes from England, for whom we have traveled through time. — Bill and Ted's Excellent Adventure, 1989
- She does have a little gambling problem, she plays the football cards a bit too much, but she's a babe, a surgeon babe. — Something About Mary, 1988

2 an attractive young male US, 1973

- Well, he is a babe. — Francesca Lia Block, I Was a Teenage Fairy, p. 80, 1998

3 used as a term of address US, 1906

- Thanks, no, babe. I don't wanna take her time — Edwin Tarres, Q & A, 1977
- "How are you, babes?" — Bret Easton Ellis, Less Than Zero, p. 13, 1985
- Now, now, Babe. Not while I'm in uniform. — Boys on the Side, 1995

babelicious adjective

extremely sexually attractive US, 1992

- Coined by Mike Myers on the US television program Saturday Night Live and popularized by the film — Wayne's World, 1992
- She's magically babelicious. — Wayne's World, 1992
- Having a babelicious best friend can cause you countless problems. — Girlfriend, p. 40, 1995

babies noun

dice US, 1974

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 9, 1987

baboon butt noun

the red, sore buttocks of someone riding as a passenger on a motorcycle US, 1988

- For the doubters among you, there are pictures, one of which shows Brooke hanging on tight and grimacing, an expression described in the caption as "a serious sign of baboon butt"—the rawness that afflicts first-time chopper riders. — Washington Post, p. W5, 3rd January 1988

baby noun

1 used as a friendly term of address US, 1921

- "Look, baby," I said, "if you want to cut out of this joint so bad, I'll take you to Detroit." — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 89, 1946
- The first time I heard the expression "baby" used by one cat to address another was up at Warwick in 1951. Gus Jackson used it. The term had a hip ring to it, a real colored ring. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 171, 1965
- "What's happening, baby?" said the clerk, a small, wiry Negro with a goatee. — Nat Hentoff, Jazz Country, p. 74, 1965
- "Hey, baby, you're my main man," Davis said. — Jim Bouton, Ball Four, p. 86, 1970

2 a sweetheart, a girlfriend US, 1839

- Lord, I really miss my baby / She's in some far off land. — Bob Dylan, Down the Highway, 1963

3 a prostitute's customer US, 1957

- Still and all, she had a small minute of indecision when he brought the first hundred-dollar baby to his apartment to meet her. — John M. Murtagh and Sara Harris, Cast the First Stone, p. 32, 1957

4 a young, inexperienced male homosexual US, 1954

- The biggest crime against the "babies," who come in through the sewer, is there is usually no other route. — One: The Homosexual Magazine, p. 18, February 1954

5 a young performer new to the pornography industry who looks even younger than he or she is US, 1995

- — Adult Video News, p. 40, August 1995

6 in horse racing, a two-year-old horse US, 1976

- — Tom Ainslie, Ainslie's Complete Guide to Thoroughbred Racing, p. 327, 1976

7 in professional wrestling, a wrestler or other participant designed to be an audience favorite US, 1999

A shortened BABYFACE.

- "I really wish I could leave this place as a baby," I said, before adding, "This angle's going to change all that." — Mick Foley, Mankind, p. 280, 1999

8 marijuana US, 1960

- "He say, 'Man, don't forgit the baby now!' He mean bring a few sticks of it out to the field, you see, that's what he mean by that. He call it 'charge,' too. Sho'. Them's slang names." — Terry Southern, Texas Summer, p. 82, 1991

9 in the television and movie industries, a focused 500 watt light source US, 1960

- — Oswald Skilbeck, ABC of Film and TV Working Terms, p. 14, 1960

10 in poker, a 2, 3, 4, or 5 US, 1979

- — John Scarne, Scarne's Guide to Modern Poker, p. 272, 1979

baby batter noun

semen US, 1997

- — Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 10, 1997
- [I]t's because you ain't got the baby batter in your brain any more. — Something About Mary, 1998
- Was he any less a husband now that he could no longer produce even a drop of live baby batter? — Anthony McCarten, Spinners, p. 83, 2000 baby Benz noun

a Mercedes 190 US, 1989

- I wanted the big Benz because a lot of my friends have the baby Benz but the big one is what the big time is all about. — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 31, 1989
- At other times, it is wonderfully descriptive, such as when dealers talk about making "crazy dollars" with which to buy a "baby Benz," a Mercedes 190. — Washington Post, p. 9, 12th September 1989

baby blue noun

1 a tablet of Viagra™, an erection-inducing drug US, 2002

- — Amy Sohn, Sex and the City, p. 154, 2002

2 capsule of the synthetic opiate oxycodone used recreationally US, 2003

- Extracts reproduced in the tabloid show Limbaugh referring to "small blue babies" and "the little blues." — Broward Business Review, p. 1, 18th November 2003
- Prosecutors in Florida, where Limbaugh has a $24 million estate, are now investigating whether he used one of his housekeepers to obtain OxyContin painkillers, known on the street as "Baby Blues." — The Record (Bergen County, New Jersey), p. 1, 23rd November 2003

baby blues noun

blue eyes US, 1957

- Play it big with the baby blues. — Stephen Sondheim, West Side Story, 1957

baby breasts noun

small breasts on a woman, appreciated by small-breast fetishists US, 1995

- My "babybreasts," to use a stripper term, worked just fine. — Heidi Mattson, Ivy League Stripper, p. 181, 1995

baby bumper noun

a child molester US, 1992

- You know, usually there's nothing up there but snitches, baby bumpers, but then there was this other guy? — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 542, 1992

baby doll noun

any central nervous system stimulant US, 1955

- — American Speech, p. 86, May 1955: "Narcotic argot along the Mexican border"

babydyke noun

a young or inexperienced lesbian US, 1999

- An innocent babydyke in college, I first heard of female ejaculation when Debi Sundahl came to campus to show her instructional video[.] — The Village Voice, 7th September 1999

babyface noun

1 in professional wrestling, the wrestler designed by the promoters to be the audience favorite in a match US, 1958

- In fact, even if people heard us talking above the clamor, they weren't able to understand what we were talking about. For example: wrestle is "wart"; fall is "going over"; "finish" is the routine just before the deciding fall; hero is "baby face." — Pappy Boyington, Baa Baa Black Sheep, 1958
- Last fall Backlund signed on with Pro Wrestling USA, which has allowed him to perform on his own bland terms, as the ultimate babyface. — Sports Illustrated, p. 66, 29th April 1985

- I'd been a babyface for all of his fourteen months back with the company. — Mick Foley, Mankind, p. 2, 1999
- — Washington Post, p. N36, 10th March 2000
- As one of the leading babyface groups around, chances are they will win this match, unless their opponents are awarded the bout by trickery. — Rampage, p. 44, September 2000

2 by extension, any figure in the professional wrestling industry designed to be cheered or liked by the fans US, 1999

- Paul Bearer is a chubby individual who for years was a babyface manager for The Undertaker. — Jeff Archer, Theater in the Square, p. 28, 1999
- Finally, Vince McMahon, then a babyface announcer, asked Lawler, "What is wrong with people from Alabama?" — Jeff Archer, Theater in the Square, p. 137, 1999

baby fucker noun
a child molester US, 1985

- The third was a child molester who perhaps was not the best choice that the Colebrook Unified School District might have made as the driver of its bus for junior high school students. "The baby-fucker," I said. — George V. Higgins, Penance for Jerry Kennedy, p. 85, 1985
- "Yogee! Check out the baby-fucker!" — Jimmy Lerner, You Got Nothing Coming, p. 75, 2002 baby gangster noun

a young member of a youth gang US, 1989

- In Los Angeles, where Blood and Crip membership totals about 25,000, "baby-gangsters" as young as 9 are regularly recruited and some gangs include even younger "tiny gangsters," the report said. — UPI, 4th August 1989
- — Mark S. Fleisher, Beggars & Thieves, p. 287, 1995

baby grand noun
five hundred dollars US, 1963

- Punning on the piano size and a "grand" as $1000.
- — Troy Harris, A Booklet of Criminal Argot, Cant and Jargon, p. 4, 1976
- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 9, 1987

baby gun noun
a short, bullet-shaped surf board designed for big-wave conditions US, 1970

- — Jim Allen, Locked in Surfing for Life, p. 193, 1970

baby hole noun
the vagina US, 1973

- "Then I felt the relief as he withdrew his tremendous weapon from my sore baby hole." — Stanley Weber, A Study of Sex in Prison, p. 43, 1973

Baby Huey noun
a military helicopter US, 1969

- An embellishment of the more common and simpler HUEY, alluding here to a comic strip character.
- We took some "Baby Hueys" / And we took a Weasel, too. — Joseph Tusso, Singing the Vietnam Blues, p. 46, 1990: The Battle of 18.50
- The U.S. government, in the midst of downsizing its military-equipment stockpile, sold the $1 million "Baby Huey" helicopter to the county for $3,000. — Seattle Times, p. B2, 15th June 1994

baby-killer noun used as a term of extreme disparagement to describe US troops in Vietnam US

- The veterans of this war have been unable to organize on their own behalf (because of being labeled drug addicts, baby killers, and displayed on the front pages of newspapers as criminals. — Amnesty: Hearings, Ninety-Third Congress, p. 288, 1974
- But the courses were tough and the hoots in the corridors tougher—"How you doing today, baby-killer?" — Newsweek, p. 34, 1975: Volume 85, Issues 9–17
- One said I should not worry, they were not baby killers. It was the first time I have ever heard this expression and it left me a little confused. — Latreil Bellard, Fear and Reality: A Vietnam Wary Diary, p. 114, 2004

baby life noun
a prison sentence of at least ten years US, 2002

- — Gary K. Farlow, Prison-ese, p. 1, 2002

Babylon noun
the white establishment; a symbol of all that is corrupt and evil JAMAICA, 1943

- From the mystical "Babylon of the Apocalypse."
- The capitalistic, imperialistic, doggish pimping of the People must cease by this wanton, sadistic country or perish like Babylon. — The Black Panther, 6th April 1969

Babylonian noun
a white person US, 2004

- — Rick Ayers (Editor), Berkeley High Slang Dictionary, p. 11, 2004

baby pro noun
a very, very young prostitute US, 1961

- — Burgess Laughlin, Job Opportunities in the Black Market, p. 1, 1978
- Young pussy ought to draw the best; that was why he risked the dangers of baby pro. — Alix Shulman, On the Stroll, p. 112, 1981

baby race noun
in horse racing, a relatively short race for two-year-old horses US, 1976

- — Tom Ainslie, Ainslie's Complete Guide to Thoroughbred Racing, p. 327, 1976

baby raper; baby rapist noun
a child molester US, 1961

- Even the Baby Raper appeared to believe he could be forgiven. Baby raping didn't necessarily make him a bad fellow. He just forgot to ask for ID. — Malcolm Braly, On the Yard, p. 13, 1967

- [Y]eah, he's a child rapist . . . baby rapist, how old was she? — Miguel Pinero, Short Eyes, p. 30, 1975
- He was told there were guys in the regular cell blocks who were just dying to get him for being a "baby-raper." — Thomas Kiernan, The Roman Polanski Story, p. 228, 1980
- "Baby rapers" [child molesters], snitches, whites associating with blacks and other undesirables could no longer live in the general population. — Bill Valentine, Gangs and Their Tattoos, p. 10, 2000

baby-san noun
1 an East Asian child; a young woman US, 1954

- Coined during the US occupation of Japan, used frequently in Vietnam.
- Hey, baby-san, you boum-boum G.I.? — Screw, p. 5, 15th February 1971

2 by extension, used by Vietnamese prostitutes to refer to a virgin and by US troops to refer to an inexperienced, untested soldier US

- "You Baby-San?" Which means, "Have you ever been to bed with a woman? A "baby-san" is a virgin. — Bernard Edelman, Dear America, p. 107, 18 May 1966: Letter from Matthew Henn

baby shit noun
mustard US, 1972

- A Vietnam contribution to the timehonored and considerable lexicon of derogatory references to food in the armed forces.
- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 15, 1991

baby shotgun noun
a sawn-off shotgun US, 2002

- But the coat served its purpose because Swizz had a fully loaded Glock and a baby shotgun hidden underneath it. — Earl "DMX" Simmons, E.A.R.L., p. 236, 2002

babysit verb
1 to guide a person through an LSD or other hallucinatory drug experience US, 1968

- — Edward R. Bloomquist, Marijuana, p. 155, 1968

2 to act as a mentor or protector for newly arrived prisoners US, 1984

- — Ines Cardozo-Freeman, The Joint, p. 480, 1984

babysitting noun
in a group marijuana smoking session, to hold the marijuana too long US, 2005

- Bazooka thought about that and watched Jerry Dean babysit the joint. — Matthew McBride, A Swollen Red Sun, 2014

bachelor noun
in police work, an officer who works best alone US, 1992

- He was known as a bachelor, a cop who didn't work well harnessed to another cop, keeping everything to himself, going off and investigating angles on his own and sharing what he learned only when he got damned good and ready. — Robert Campbell, Boneyards, p. 10, 1992

back noun
1 an illegal gambling operation US, 1973

- An abbreviation of "back office."
- We hear Red Scalotta's back offices gross from one to two million a year. And he probably has at least three backs going. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Blue Knight, p. 144, 1973

2 a drink taken immediately after another, a "chaser" US, 1982

- Next morning he went to a bar meeting, as in lawyers, and I went to my own, as in bocoou bourbon and beer backs. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 9, 1990

backasswards adverb
in the wrong order US, 1951

- "You always do everything backasswards." He looked at me. "No wonder you're flunking the hell out of here," he said. — J.D. Salinger, Catcher in the Rye, p. 41, 1951
- "I was born backasswards," she liked to explain, referring to her breech birth. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 4, 1990

backcap noun
an answer US, 1945

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 7, 1945

back door; backdoor noun
1 the anus and rectum UK, 1694

- The other replied, "Lawd have mercy brother, I'd go in the back door!" — Phyllis and Eberhard Kronhausen, Sex Histories of American College Men, 1960
- I was forced to violate everything he has been taught to regard as sacred, including the sanctity of his tiny back door. — Gore Vidal, Myra Breckinridge, p. 231, 1968
- She says, "Sweetie, I ain't gonna go three way with you for no saw-buck. You gotta gimme fifteen." He says, "I'll spring for that if you can guarantee a tight back door and quim." — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Doom Fox, p. 6, 1978
- So let her explore your back door, then you can do hers. — The Village Voice, 24th August 1999

2 in sports, the advancement of a team in a play-off situation as a result of the actions of another team US, 1952

- "We're lucky. That seven-point underdog stuff is steak on the platter for us," said Mr. Williamson. "They're saying we aren't up to Michigan State and only got here through the back door." — San Francisco News, p. 11, 30th December 1952

3 a surreptitious way of entering a protected system or website, made possible by a weakness in the system US, 1990

- — Karla Jennings, The Devouring Fungus, p. 218, 1990

back-door; backdoor verb

to commit adultery US, 1982

- The bawdiest story concerns a merchant who “back-doors” his partner’s wife by promising to tell her his secret of turning a woman to a mare and back to a woman again. — Kent Smith et al., Adult Movies, p. 70, 1982 back-door; backdoor adjective

adulterous US, 1947

- He was your mother’s back-door man, I thought. — Ralph Ellison, Invisible Man, p. 242, 1947
- I was getting back-door stuff from my man’s rib. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 45, 1973

backdoor Betty noun

a woman who enjoys anal sex US, 2000

- The people who’ve volunteered to get done are always self-proclaimed backdoor betties, but when push comes to penetration, they get shy. — The Village Voice, 8th August 2000
- Since anal pleasure is still taboo in American culture, anyone who admits to being a backdoor betty is on the front lines of sexual liberation. — Tristan Taormino, Pucker Up, p. 147, 2001

back-door bust noun

an arrest for one crime, usually major, after a detention or arrest for another, usually minor US, 1992

- He didn’t get busted against until he was thirty-two. And then it was a backdoor bust. A routine vice squad roust. They roust this bar, our buddy Lawrence is in there knocking down a few. — Reservoir Dogs, 1992 back door closed adjective describes a convoy when the final vehicle is looking out for any police interest US, 1976

- Citizen band radio slang.
- — Complete CB Slang Dictionary, 1976

backdoor delivery noun

anal sex US, 1973

- I find “back door deliveries” very painful—even when a man uses lots of lubricant. — Jennifer Sills, Massage Parlor, p. 154, 1973

backdoor parole; backgate parole noun death while serving a prison sentence US, 1929

- A black joke.
- — Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 14, 1949

backdoor trots noun

diarrhea US, 1973

- “That jail is like the inside of a toilet bowl in a place where everybody’s got the backdoor trots, know what I mean?” — Joe Eszterhas, Charlie Simpson’s Apocalypse, p. 39, 1973

backer noun

a high-level figure in an illegal lottery US, 1977

- The highest people I know in the numbers business was the backers.
- — John Allen, Assault with a Deadly Weapon, p. 106, 1977 backfield noun

the supporting members of a criminal group US, 1970

- What he didn’t know about wires wasn’t invented yet, so now we had the whole backfield. — Red Rudensky, The Gonif, p. 93, 1970

back gate exit noun

death while in prison US, 1992

- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 104, 1992

backhouse flush noun

in poker, a very poor hand US, 1984

From “backhouse” (an outside toilet).

back in the day adverb

at a time in the past that evokes a feel of nostalgia, real or conjured US, 1988

- What i used to do back in the day is to record the stuff on a cheapo cassette. — rec.music.beatles, 30th October 1989
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 1, March 1996
- And back in the day, they might’ve actually listened[.] — David Simon and Edward Burns, The Corner, p. 81, 1997
- Hip Hop America starts “back in the day”—the late ‘70s[.] — Nelson George, Hip Hop America, p. xi, 1998
- Back in the day, they say you had anti-freeze in them veins. — Gone in 60 Seconds, 2000

backlip noun

impertinence, talking back US, 1959

- Little Jeff give you sass, Big Jeff look around like he ain’t even listening, but if you gave backlip—wap!—Big Jeff laid you out. — Edwin Torres, Carlito’s Way, p. 17, 1975

back-me-up noun

a friend who can be counted on for support in a confrontation US, 1984

- — Inez Cardozo-Freeman, The Joint, p. 480, 1984

back money noun

money paid after delivery of the item purchased US, 1963

- He demanded “front money” (an advance) and was uneasy over “back money” (arrears). — John A. Williams, Sissie, p. 71, 1963

back pack noun

a gang insignia tattooed on a gang member’s back US, 1992

- — Paladin Press, Inside Look at Outlaw Motorcycle Gangs, p. 33, 1992

back-porch nigger noun

an obsequious, fawning black person US, 1971

- [H]e bowed and scraped and grinned apologetically like some creaky old back-porch nigger. — Tom Robbins, Another Roadside Attraction, p. 61, 1971

backroom job noun

a tattoo on a part of the body that is usually clothed US, 1997

- — Los Angeles Times Magazine, p. 7, 13th July 1997

back row noun

a prison cell used for solitary confinement US, 1984

- — Inez Cardozo-Freeman, The Joint, p. 480, 1984

backs noun

money, especially counterfeit money US, 1945

- Probably an abbreviation of GREENBACK.
- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Live Talk Dictionary, p. 7, 1945

back-sass noun

impudent talking back to an elder US, 1968

- “Don’t ever give me anymore of your back sass—a girl eleven years old tellin her Pap what to do.” — Jesse Stuart, Head O’ W’Hollow, p. 36, 1979

back-sass verb

to talk back impudently US, 1950

- “Sort of respect that, but don’t back-sass me again, son, or I’ll bust your spleen and you’ll drown in your own blood.” — Warren Ripley, Pressing the Bet, p. 97, 2006

back-scratching noun

the removal of enemy soldiers who have climbed onto a tank by shooting light-caliber weapons at the tank US, 1986

- — Ralph Zumbro, Tank Sergeant, p. 189, 1986: Glossary

back-scuttle verb

to play the active role in sex, anal or vaginal, from behind US, 1885

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 25, 1967
- “Them square cats likes them fat-assed bitches. They likes to back scuttle ‘em.” — Robert Deane Pharr, S.R.O., p. 274, 1971

back seat noun

in poker, any of the positions farther from the dealer than the third player to his left US, 1973

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 11, 1987

back-seater noun

an aviator seated behind the pilot US

- My regular radar intercept officer (RIO) would be the backseater for the skipper this time. — Charlie Plumb, I’m No Hero, p. 38, 1973
- Even simply shook his head no, then added softly, “The back-seater didn’t get out either.” — Tom Yarborough, Da Nang Diary, p. 141, 1990 backspace and overstrike!

in computing, used for expressing alarm about a mistake that has just been made US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 45, 1991

backstrap verb

to wire telephone lines as part of an illegal enterprise US, 1989

- Buthe was also the handyman who could rewire, or backstrap, telephone lines in and out of different apartments and across rooftops to confuse investigators. — Gerard O’Neill, The Under Boss, p. 176, 1989

backstreet boy noun

a young man dressed in the trendiest of clothes with the trendiest of haircuts US, 2001

Not a compliment; an allusion to a band of the late 1990s that was thought to value style to the exclusion of substance.

- — Don R. McCreary (Editor), Dawg Speak, 2001

back to hacking used as a farewell, by computer enthusiast to computer enthusiast US, 1983

- — Guy L. Steele et al., The Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 76, 1983

backwards noun

any central nervous system depressant US, 1966

- — J. L. Simmons and Barry Winograd, It’s Happening, p. 167, 1966
- — Edward R. Bloomquist, Marijuana, p. 155, 1968

backwhack noun

the backslash key (\) on a computer keyboard US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 40, 1991

backyard noun

1 the buttocks US, 1972

- — Robert A. Wilson, Playboy’s Book of Forbidden Words, p. 23, 1972

2 the anus US, 1967

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 25, 1967

bacon noun

1 the police; a police officer US, 1974

From PIG (a policeman). During the late 1960s and early 70s, a favored chant of the radical left youth movement in the US was “Today’s pig, tomorrow’s bacon.”

- Publishers and stuff wouldn’t even know “bacon burning” was “pigs” or “cops” coming. — Beatrice Sparks (writing as “Anonymous”), Jay’s Journal, p. 60, 1979
- Later, bacon. — Airheads, 1994
- — Judi Sanders, Da Bomb, p. 1, 1997

2 money US, 1957

- The boss catered mostly to Indians who had struck oil on the reservation, beefy cattlemen who were sure to be milked, sugar-daddies with their sable-sporting chicken dinners, and butter-and-egg men with plenty of bacon. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 84, 1946
- We'll save your bacon for you. — Max Shulman, Rally Round the Flag, Boys!, p. 115, 1957

▶ bring home the bacon

to succeed as a wage earner, supporting one's family; to achieve success; to succeed in a given undertaking US, 1909

Generally thought to echo the ancient tradition in Dunmow, England, of presenting a flitch of bacon to a happily married couple but originates in the US country fair "sport" of hatching a greased pig. The phrase was popularized, if not invented, by the mother of Joe Gans, a black lightweight boxer.

- Anyway, what I'm saying, everybody depending on this new gig I got t'bring home the bacon[.] — Robert Gover, Here Goes Kitten, p. 53, 1964
- He is fanatical about his job. He always brings home the bacon. — Howard Stern, Miss America, p. 448, 1995

bacon adjective

attractive, fashionable, admired US

- Can also be used as an adjective to denote approval, i.e., "that is SO bacon." — <http://burningman.org/culture/glossary/> (accessed 23rd May 2016)

bacon getter noun

a handgun, especially a single-action revolver US, 1957

- — American Speech, p. 192, October 1957: "Some colloquialisms of the handgunner" bad *adjective1 good; tough US, 1897

- The latest bop talk requires you to say, if you like a musician, "Man, he's real bad." Or, "he blows bad." This critical pronunciation is delivered in a monotone, with the "b-a-a-d" dragged out for emphasis. Means the exact opposite of what it says. — Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, 11th October 1955
- I've mentioned him before—one of Harlem's really bad Negroes. — Malcolm X and Alex Harley, The Autobiography of Malcolm X, p. 117, 1964
- There were cats all over East and West Oakland who had reputations for being bad, and they were known throughout the community for being bad. — Bobby Seale, Seize the Time, p. 15, 1970
- The Copsies, the Socialistics, the Bachelors, the Comanches—all bad motherfuckers—these were the gangs that started using hardware. — Edwin Torres, Carlito's Way, p. 8, 1975

2 in computing, broken as designed US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 46, 1991

bad ass noun

a tough, fearless person US, 1956

- Now Dolomite went on down to Kansas City kickin' asses till both shoes were shitty. / Hoboed into Chi / Who did he run into but that badass Two-Gun Pete. — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 59, 1970
- Buddusky became Bad-Ass, which in navy tolerance means a very tough customer. — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, p. 7, 1970
- So like I'm shooting dice on 105th Street off Madison Avenue on a Saturday afternoon when this bad-ass named Chago grabs all the money on the ground and says, "These dice are loaded." — Edwin Torres, Carlito's Way, p. 20, 1975
- I'm a killer and I've got a platoon of the baddest badasses in the Nam. We're bad, baaaad fuckin' killers. — Philip Caputo, A Rumor of War, p. 245, 1977

bad-ass adjective

excellent; worthy of respect, tough US, 1955

Originally black usage but now more widely known.

- I told him about hanging out with those bad-ass boys. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 10, 1965
- My good time badass fuckaround is going out of style. — Hunter S. Thompson, The Proud Highway, p. 509, 18th April 1965: Letter to Paul Seamon
- Now down on the ground in a great big ring / Lived a bad-ass lion who knew he was king. — Dennis Wepman et al., The Life, p. 22, 1976
- You bad-ass little spick. How are you, honey? — Boogie Nights, 1997

bad beat noun

in poker, a disappointing loss, either with a good hand or a big bet US, 1982

- — David M. Hayano, Poker Faces, p. 185, 1982

bad boy *noun1 something that is impressive US, 1974

- I finally got this bad boy together bout six, seven months. Got the whole place furnished top to bottom. — Vernon E. Smith, The Jones Men, p. 139, 1974
- Well, I want two of them bad boys. Two large orders of chili fries. Two large Diet Cokes. — True Romance, 1993
- PIP: It's a card thing door opener. REX: I know how to handle these bad boys. — Airheads, 1994
- "Gimme one a them bad boys," Red Hammernut said, helping himself. — Carl Hiaasen, Skinny Dip, p. 119, 2004

2 a rascal, a misfit US, 1948

- Cincy Trades "Bad Boy" Eddie Miller to Phillies (Headline). — San Francisco Examiner, p. 20, 11th February 1948
- Strange Things Are Happening to Hollywood's "Bad Boy." — San Francisco Examiner's Pictorial Review, p. 13, 27th December 1953

bad butch noun

an aggressive, "mannish" lesbian US, 1967

- Known variously as a bull, a stomper, a bad butch, a hard dresser, a truck driver, a diesel dyke, a bull dagger and a half dozen other soubriquets, she is the one who, according to most homosexual girls, gives lesbians a bad name. — Ruth Allison, Lesbianism, p. 125, 1967

bad country noun

territory controlled or contested by the enemy US, 1990

- The proposed meeting was way out in bad country. — Orr Kelly, Brave Men, Dark Waters, p. 154, 1993
- All of the pilots knew the area around Duc Pho was bad country. — Gary Hook, One Day in Vietnam: The True Story of an Army Bird Dog Pilot, p. 241, 2000

badda bing; bada-bing; ba-da-bing used as an embellishing intensifier US, 1972

The variations are nearly endless.

- You've gotta get up close like this and bada-bing! you blow their brains all over your nice Ivy League suit. — Mario Puzo and Francis Ford Coppola, The Godfather, 1972
- And on this farm he shot some guys. Ba-da-bip, ba-da-bing, ba-da-boom. — The Usual Suspects, 1995
- It was cake—8 cars. Badda-bing. — Gone in 60 Seconds, 2000

bad deal noun

an unfavorable flight assignment US

- The "bad deals" were assignments which involved little or no flight time—waiting for a broken bird to be repaired in Da Nang or being scheduled to stand a duty watch. — Charlie Plumb, I'm No Hero, p. 38, 1973

baddest adjective

toughest; most admired US, 1938

The unconventional superlative of "bad" in the "bad-as-good" sense of the word.

- "Eric [Clapton] is one of the baddest guitarists who ever lived!" [Quincy] Jones concluded. — San Francisco Chronicle, 8th September 1971
- "I'm a killer and I've got a platoon full of the baddest badasses in the Nam. We're bad, baaaad fuckin' killers." — Philip Caputo, A Rumor of War, p. 245, 1977
- Then [presidential spokesman Jody] Powell turned to the statement in Tanzania, where Ali said, "There are two bad white men in the world, the Russian white man and the American white man. They are the two baddest men in the history of the world." — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 10, 6th February 1980

badeye verb

to glare, to stare with menace US, 1990

- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 197, 1990

badge *noun1 a notional symbol of membership in the Mafia US, 1987

- "I've done more work than half the guys who were made." Guido said, meaning that he had been in on more hits, which is one of the prime considerations to getting made, "and I ain't got my badge." — Joseph Pistone, Donnie Brasco, p. 108, 1987

2 a police officer US, 1925

- — Jack Webb, The Badge, p. 220, 1958
- About that time along come two badges patrolling their beat/arrested this whore for prostituting on the street. — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 80, 1966
- "[B]efore I even unpacked my suitcase I'd head for the nearest police station and check in with the big badge." — Martin Gosch, The Last Testament of Lucky Luciano, pp. 141–142, 1975

3 a prison guard US, 1992

- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 95, 1992

badge bunny noun

a woman attracted to and sexually available for police US, 1997

- Being single, I started to see all the badge bunnies that were ready for the taking, but that's another story. — alt.law-enforcement, 29th January 1997
- [A]nd held tight to the conviction that a woman in uniform meant a badge bunny who'd found a way to stalk cops—and get a paycheck. — Gina Gallo, Armed and Dangerous, p. 243, 2001
- He and his partner Cash had swapped any number of the badge bunnies who liked to hang out at cop bars. — Jory Strong, Calista's Men, p. 37, 2005
- Sometimes badge bunnies would show up. — Joseph Wambaugh, Hollywood Station, p. 36, 2006

badger game noun

a swindle in which a prostitute lures a customer or victim to a room where he is robbed by a confederate of the prostitute, often posing to be her husband US, 1909

- But cases of "badger" workers are everyday occurrences[.] — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 98, 1948
- [T]he street-level warrens decayed into strip tease clip joints and worthless sucker traps with carnival barkers, broads hustling tables, finger men on the prowl, lookouts for blackmail mobs on steady duty, badger game veterans[.] — Robert Sylvester, No Cover Charge, p. 89, 1956
- Blackmail Trap Laid to Clerk, Wife; Contractor Charges Badger Game (Headline). — San Francisco Examiner, p. 12, 8th February 1956
- There he met Phillipa, an orphaned teenage whiz at the badger game played with a Baton Rouge based pimp and con man on johns during Mardi Gras. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Doom Fox, p. 46, 1978

bad guy noun

a criminal US, 1932

Originally children's vocabulary from watching western movies.

- "Maybe he didn't," Raylan said. "Maybe he was abducted." They hadn't thought of that, both of them turning to look at each other. "By who," Jerry said, "the bad guys?" — Elmore Leonard, Pronto, p. 71, 1977 bad guy country noun

territory controlled by enemy forces or in which enemy forces pose a considerable risk US

- He held a shallow descent, but all of us recognized that he'd run out of altitude before we could get out of bad guy country. — Tom Yarborough, Da Nang Diary, p. 116, 1990

bad hair day noun

a day on which your hair is especially unruly; hence, a day on which nothing goes to plan US, 1991

- They said I told them I was having a bad hair day. They didn't even talk to me. (Quoting Gary Shandling) — Seattle Times, p. 10, 25th January 1991

bad hat noun

someone who can be counted on to misbehave US, 1914

- He was a thoroughly bad hat, then, but that was the kind, of course, that nice women broke their hearts over. — Mary McCarthy, The Group, p. 175, 1963

bad idea jeans noun

the notional clothing worn by someone who has displayed an utter lack of common sense US, 1994

From a skit on Saturday Night Live.

- And whoever thought mild-mannered milquetoast Jimmy Buffet was up for a no-holds-barred tag-team match on "Mack the Knife" should be given a pair of "Bad Idea" jeans and maybe a dose or two of electro-shock therapy. — Philadelphia Daily News, p. 25, 16th November 1994
- — Ben Applebaum and Derrick Pittman, Turd Ferguson & The Sausage Party, p. 4, 2004

badlands noun

territory controlled or contested by the enemy US

- Piloting the plane, one of the Special Ops men provides the context, "Back in the badlands, my man." — Eric Lichtenfeld, Action Speaks Louder, p. 137, 2007
- Allied units would continue to conduct mobile sweeps in the demographic frontier separating the populated areas from the insurgent "badlands." — Andrew Krepinevich, The Army and Vietnam, p. 244, 2009

badman's territory noun territory controlled by enemy troops or considered unsafe because of the presence of enemy troops US

- "We can't land anywhere around this badman's country other than Hill 55." — Bob Stoffey, Cleared Hot!, p. 30, 1992 bad motherfucker noun

a fearless, tough person US, 1971

- "Jesus Christ was a bad motherfucker." — Ronald Steel, Imperialists and Other Heroes, p. 270, 1971
- [H]e was a very mean and impatient man who had no respect for free enterprise, especially when some cocksucker was freely enterprising in his territory. He was a bad motherfucker[.] — Emmett Grogan, Ringolevio, p. 112, 1972
- "I said you were a bad motherfucker, man, like you could handle yourself." — Robert Stone, Dog Soldiers, p. 86, 1974

bad mouth noun

a curse, a put-down US, 1960

- Rudy wondered how the bad mouth about him had started, although he'd arrived at the point where he didn't much care. — Clarence Cooper Jr., The Scene, p. 12, 1960
- I said, "Mama, look, don't be puttin' the bad mouth on him." — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 287, 1965
- Just that they ken pu the bad-mouth on you, that's all. — Steve Cannon, Groove, Bang, and Live Around, p. 128, 1969
- "Funny, I heard somebody put a bad mouth on me." — Gail Sheehy, Hustling, p. 65, 1973

badmouth verb

to insult someone, to disparage someone US, 1941

- "I had to beat the bitch's ass for bad mouthing you, Mollie," he said. — Dick Gregory, Nigger, p. 22, 1964
- Bobby Bodega Pogats, the society stock market operator, has retained Atty. Jim MacInnis to file a slander suit against the Stock Exchange hotshot who has been badmouthing him. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 29, 2nd July 1969
- "[W]hen you threatened him and bad-mouthed him and everything, you were no better than he was." — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, pp. 43–44, 1970
- Taylor said, "They were bad mouthing our ball players when we were on the way into the locker room. It's bush." — San Francisco Examiner, p. 50, 26th January 1972

bad-o adjective

excellent US, 1991

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin'ary, p. 5, 1991

bad paper noun

1 a discharge from the military other than an honorable discharge, such as the UD (undesirable discharge) or resignations for the good of the service US, 1971

- I've met the bitter veterans with "bad-paper" discharges who hate themselves and everybody else, too. — The Los Angeles Times, 20th April 1980
- "Bad paper," that childish-sounding phrase, is loaded with all the negative connotations of leaving the military with anything less than an honorable discharge. — Myra MacPherson, Long Time Passing, p. 679, 1984

2 counterfeit money or securities US, 1981

- If told my partner, if the dude was into bad paper, you'd know who he was. — Gerald Petievich, Money Men, p. 13, 1981

bad-rap verb

to disparage US, 2002

- This is the first time (not the last) I have heard one C.O. "bad-rap" another to an inmate. — Jimmy Lerner, You Got Nothing Coming, p. 133, 2002

bad noun

the depression following the use of hallucinogens or amphetamines US, 1970

- William D. Alevser, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Uplight People, p. 2, December 1970

bad scene noun

an unpleasant situation; a depressing experience US, 1966

- — J. L. Simmons and Barry Winograd, It's Happening, p. 167, 1966
- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 27, 1971

bad time noun

1 time served in prison that does not count toward the overall sentence; time served in a military stockade that does not count towards the overall period of service US, 1968

- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 2, 1968
- Quinn, your young ass is gonna do some bad time for this. — Larry Heinemann, Close Quarters, p. 164, 1977
- The penalty of being derelict on duty was slyly unexplained but understood, the stockade, bad time, serve six months, come out and start over where you left off. — Odie Hawkins, Scars and Memories, p. 90, 1987

2 a jail or prison sentence for a petty, avoidable offense US, 1977

- He had enough to think about, the last thing he needed was the clammy friendship of a dumb sap doing bad time on an alimony beef. — Odie Hawkins, Chicago Hustle, p. 102, 1977

bad trip noun

1 an unpleasant, frightening or unnerving experience with LSD US, 1966

- Such precautions are thought to be insurance against bad trips. — Hunter S. Thompson, Hell's Angels, p. 236, 1966
- It's like the guy in Los Angeles who had a bad trip on LSD and turned himself into the police, and wrote, "Please help me. Signed, Jehovah." — The San Francisco Oracle, 1967
- After midnight a college kid from Wisconsin phoned requesting help on a bad trip. — Timothy Leary, The Politics of Ecstasy, p. 163, 1968
- There isn't much sense in trying to explain what a "bad trip" is. You simply lose your marbles. You go crazy. There is no bottom, no top. — Oscar Zeta Acosta, The Autobiography of a Brown Buffalo, p. 183, 1972

2 a very unpleasant experience US, 1969

- From running up bills to drugs, to laying bad trips on other people. — Hunter S. Thompson, Fear and Loathing in America, p. 214, 15th November 1969: Letter to Oscar Acosta
- The history of the Sunset Strip has been a bad trip, man, a bumper. — Arthur Blessitt, Turned On to Jesus, p. 103, 1971

bae noun

used as a term of endearment US

- Baby, boo, sweetie. It can mean any of those terms and is most often heard in Western Florida. — Urban Dictionary, 12th December 2008
- Today bae is used as a term of endearment, often referring to your boyfriend or girlfriend. — Time, 23rd July 2014
- — Connie Eble, Campus Slang: University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Fall 2014

baeless adjective

single, romantically unattached US

- — Urban Dictionary, April 10, 2014
- — Gabrielle Clemmy: "32 Things 'Baeless' Friends Say to Each Other," theodysseyonline.com, 8th June 2015
- 6 Benefits of Being BAELESS for Summer with Natalie. — www.msn.com, 30th June 2016

buff verb

to vomit US, 1968

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 74, 1968

baффegab noun

verbose language that is difficult to penetrate and impossible to understand US, 1952

The term, by all accounts, was coined by Milton A. Smith of the United States Chamber of Commerce. Smith defined the term as "Multiloquence characterized by consummate interfusion of circumlocution or periphrahs, inscrutability, incognizability, and other familiar manifestations of abstruse expatiation commonly utilized for promulgations implementing procrustean determinations by governmental bodies."

- — Word Study, p. 5, May 1952
- Mutual funds are diversifying to the point where you can completely lose your way in this financial industry without a bafflegab guide. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 52, 7th January 1970
- Connoisseurs of bureaucratic bafflegab may salivate over this May 12 memo from Roberto Alioto. — San Francisco Chronicle, 15th May 1980

bag noun

1 an interest US, 1964

- Anyway you can also be a part-time new American head. That's going to be my bag. — Nat Hentoff, I'm really dragged but nothing gets me down, p. 19, 1968
- I mean, what the hell's the matter with you guys? You into some kind of fag bag awready? — Terry Southern, Blue Movie, p. 166, 1970
- He was a painter and singer but his main bag was hustlin' in de Paris streets. — Babs Gonzales, Movin' On Down De Line, p. 17, 1975
- I don't even know what this [a penis-enlarger] is. This sort of this ain't my bag, baby. — Austin Powers, 1997

2 a way of doing things US, 1962

- It was clear to me that we were in two different bags; I had it "made" because I had occupied my niche from the age of five, definitely by the time I was eight. — Odie Hawkins, Lost Angeles, p. 89, 1994

3 a police uniform US, 1944

- — New York Times Magazine, p. 87, 16th March 1958
- I'd hate to be back in the bag, believe me. — Charles Whited, Chiado, p. 54, 1973
- I tell you, it's a whole different thing when you wear a nice suit to work instead of that damn bag. — Leonard Shectet and William Phillips, On the Pad, pp. 166–167, 1973

- 4 duty as a uniformed police officer US, 1973
- [He] suddenly declared that maybe he would get out of the pad someday, that if necessary he would go back to the “bag”—police slang for uniformed duty. — Peter Maas, Serpico, p. 187, 1973
- 5 the scrotum US, 1938
- — Anon., King Smut's Wet Dreams Interpreted, 1978
- 6 a condom US, 1922
- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 25, 1967
 - She was on the pill, but I used to use a bag with her anyway. — Screw, p. 9, 12th April 1971
 - Like Brittney Skey as super-heroine Anal Woman advising Kurt Kock-woodon safe sex and telling him to use a bag, a rubber, a condom, if the pair hasn't been tested for disease, and animated talking buttholes aplenty. — Editors of Adult Video News, The AVN Guide to the 500 Greatest Adult Films of All Time, p. 73, 2005
- 7 a diaphragm US, 1964
- — Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 11, 1964
- 8 a package of drugs US, 1952
- A bag is his supply of drugs. — Clarence Cooper Jr., The Scene, p. 54, 1960
 - Now you know it's a drug; I copped a bad bag. — Dennis Wepman et al., The Life, p. 78, 1976
 - Jimmy went and leaned up against a building with them and watched the whores go by and a pusher said you want a bag? — William T. Vollman, Whores for Gloria, p. 115, 1991
- 9 a fuel tank on an airplane US, 1991
- We're loading you up with Rockeyes and giving you a full bag of gas. — Gerry Carroll, *North S*A*R*, p. 61, 1991
- 10 bed US, 1969
- — John D. Bell et al., Loosely Speaking, p. 2, 1969
- bags are dragging the supply of heroin is low US, 1971
- Although his bags were dragging, Bud was bragging. — Michael H. Agar, The Journal of American Folklore, p. 177, 1971
- in the bag
- 1 drunk US, 1940
- You know. Drunk stewed, clobbered, gone, liquored up, oiled, stoned, in the bag. — Max Shulman, Guided Tour of Campus Humor, p. 106, 1955
 - [T]he next night when he came in she was half in the bag[.] — George V. Higgins, The Rat on Fire, pp. 94–95, 1981
 - It took him three hours and forty minutes to hike it half in the bag, from Thebes to the bridge, not seeing one goddamn car on the road. — Elmore Leonard, Killshot, p. 287, 1989
- 2 as good as done US, 1921
- Israel-Egyptian Peace Pact Believed Virtually “in the Bag” (Headline) — San Francisco News, p. 2, 21st February 1949
 - The butler said it was in the bag. — Charles Raven, Underworld Nights, p. 16, 1956
- 3 corrupted, bribed, beholden to someone else US, 1926
- I'm not asking was the figut put in the bag. — Rocky Garciano (with Rowland Barber), Somebody Up There Likes Me, p. 307, 1955
 - As far as he's concerned, I'm in the bag. He gave me until the weekend to contact him. — Edwin Torres, Q & A, p. 175, 1977
- on someone's bag in golf, working as a caddie US, 2000
- Angelo was on Jack's bag for years, but he eventually retired and opened a restaurant in Miami. — Hubert Pedroli and Mary Tiegreen, Let the Big Dog Eat! A Dictionary of the Secret Language of Golf, p. 13, 2000
- to have a bag on to be drunk US, 1945
- Mrs. Doherty, according to eyewitnesses, not to mention authoritative sources, had a bag on. She was drinking champagne. — Earl Wilson, I Am Gazing Into My 8-Ball, p. 151, 1945
- bag verb
- 1 to seduce US, 2002
- At seventeen, you were a real nigga if you could bag a chick that wasn't from the neighborhood on the walk-by. — Earl “DMX” Simmons, E.A.R.L., p. 134, 2002
- 2 to disparage US, 1991
- “I get hyper, and I start baggin’—talkin’ about somebody, everybody.” — Leon Bing, Do or Die, p. 57, 1991
- 3 to arrest someone UK, 1824
- He wasn't taking no chances on getting bagged. — Hal Ellson, Duke, p. 127, 1949
 - Tito and Turk said they would get bagged and sent to Warwick by the time I got there. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 16, 1965
 - I says pal, put that in your pocket before I bag you for bribery. — Leonard Shecter and William Phillips, On the Pad, p. 190, 1973
 - “I might get bagged and have to go to jail.” — George Higgins, Cogan's Trade, p. 151, 1974
 - Our only chance to bag him is if he tries it again. — Gerald Petievich, Money Men, p. 17, 1981
- 4 to catch, capture or obtain something for yourself US, 1861
- [B]y midsummer he managed to bag 135 teachers, every one of them with impeccable credentials. — Max Shulman, Anyone Got a Match?, p. 66, 1964
 - So, Ted, any ideas on who should we bag? Ted? — Bill and Ted's Excellent Adventure, 1989
 - Yeah, I hear you bagged Martin Weir for Mr. Lovejoy. — Get Shorty, 1995
- 5 to disregard, dismiss or stop something US, 1988
- Figurative use of throwing garbage in a garbage bag.
- MRS CHANDLER: We are leaving for your grandmother's. If you'd care to join us... HEATHER CHANDLER: Bag that. MRS CHANDLER: Is that a “No” in your lingo? — Heathers, 1988
- 6 to abandon or leave a place or thing US, 1962
- Let's bag the mall. It's boring. — American Beauty, 1999
- 7 to bribe someone; to arrange an outcome US, 1948
- Bagging of a baseball game down in the Carolina League came as a shock to fans and officials throughout the country. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 27, 3rd June 1948
 - We wink and laugh at wrestling. We go for the bagged fight. — San Francisco News, p. 17, 28th February 1951
 - He became a pigeon for the FBI and fed them information on how football games were supposed to be bagged by the mob in different parts of the country. — Vincent Teresa, My Life in the Mafia, p. 144, 1973
- 8 to leave US, 1981
- Hawaiian youth usage.
- — Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max, 1981
- bag ass to leave, especially in a hurry US, 1972
- — Helen Dahlskog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 5, 1972
- bag beaver to have sex with a woman US, 1994
- Combining hunting and sexual metaphors.
- — Michael Dalton Johnson, Talking Trash with Redd Foxx, p. 72, 1994
- bag your head to stop talking US, 1962
- — Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World's Toughest Prison, p. 789, 1962
- bag and baggage
- used for conveying to a prisoner that he is to be released from jail US, 1977
- He had been told, “Bag and baggage.” A little later, Larry found himself outside the jail, still not believing it was all true. — Donald Goines, Black Gangster, p. 189, 1977
- bag and tag verb
- to place a dead soldier in a body bag and identify the soldier with a tag on the outside of the body bag US, 1991
- We set about our grizzly task/ To bag and tag the dead. — The Leatherneck, 1993
 - Now means four other Marines have to haul your dying asses away and then the Navy has to try to patch you up, or bag and tag your sorry remains and send them home to your mamas. — James Orange, Fire in the Hole: A Mortarman in Vietnam, p. 17, 2001
- bag biter noun
- in computing, something or someone that does not work well US, 1981
- — CoEvolution Quarterly, p. 26, Spring 1981
 - This text editor won't let me make a file with a line longer than eighty characters! What a bagbiter! — Guy L. Steele et al., The Hacker's Dictionary, p. 28, 1983
- bag case noun
- a fatally injured motorist, especially one with gruesome injuries US, 1962
- — American Speech, p. 266, December 1962: “The language of traffic policemen”
- bag-chaser noun
- a drug user who is obsessed with getting drugs US, 1989
- — Geoffrey Froner, Digging for Diamonds, p. 7, 1989
- bagel face noun
- a Jewish person US, 1979
- Derogatory.
- He punches some Hebe—Murray something or other. The biggest bagel face in the precinct, and Lawlor belts him. — Vincent Patrick, The Pope of Greenwich Village, p. 112, 1979
- bag-follower noun
- an attractive woman who carries packets of heroin for a heroin dealer while bestowing status upon him with her good looks US, 1978
- — Burgess Laughlin, Job Opportunities in the Black Market, p. 1, 1978
- baggage noun
- 1 a boyfriend, agent or other male who accompanies a female pornography performer to the set US, 1995
- Not flattering.
- — Adult Video News, p. 50, October 1995
- 2 a nonplaying observer of a card or dice game US, 1950
- — The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, p. 120, May 1950
- bagged adjective
- drunk US, 1953
- Sure, Gleason is consistently “bagged” throughout, by which is he such an angry drunk? — Times Union (Albany, New York), p. S2, 13th October 2002
- baggie noun
- 1 a plastic bag filled with a variable amount of loose marijuana US, 1980
- From the trademarked name of a brand of plastic sandwich bags.
- There wasn't any grass in the apartment anyway. Down to seeds and stems. She'd have to stop at the store on the way and pick up a baggie. — Elmore Leonard, City Primeval, p. 54, 1980
- 2 a condom US, 1971
- [I]f you ever run into sluts like The Rump Humpers be sure and wear a baggie. Anal sex has been linked to several serious diseases[.] — Adult Video, p. 66, August/September 1986

baggies noun

loose pants or shorts, especially loose-fitting shorts or swimming trunks popularized by surfers US, 1963

Trousers have been called bags on and off since the mid-C19; “baggies” derives from the baggy fit.

- You’d see ‘em wearing their baggies / Huarachi sandals too. — Chuck Berry (Brian Wilson, uncredited lyricist), Surfin’ U.S.A., 1963
- — Paradise of the Pacific, p. 27, October 1963
- — J. R. Friss, A Dictionary of Teenage Slang (Mt. Diablo High), 1964
- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 76, 1968

Baghdad Betty nickname

during the US war against Iraq in 1991, a female Iraqi disk jockey who broadcast propaganda to US troops US, 1991

- — Army, p. 47, November 1991

Baghdad Boys noun

during the Gulf war, reporters from the Cable News Network US, 1991

- — American Speech, p. 385, Winter 1991: “Among the new words”

bag job noun

1 a murder in which the victim is left inside a burlap bag US, 1951

- It was decided that a bag job was in order, so that the motive would not be mistaken as any but the one intended. — Burton Turkus and Sid Feder, Murder, Inc., p. 175, 1951

2 a cheating scheme involving a casino employee as a confederate US, 1950

- — The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, p. 120, May 1950

3 a burglary, especially when committed by law enforcement or intelligence agents looking for information US, 1971

- The bag job on his car was a waste of time — Gerald Petievich, Shakedown, p. 119, 1988

bag lady noun

a destitute woman who wanders the streets with her possessions in shopping bags US, 1972

- He’s like the bag ladies on the Common, or some other shit like that. — George V. Higgins, Penance for Jerry Kennedy, p. 234, 1985
- An old bag lady with an anti-abortion poster has it grabbed and ripped up by man-hating dykes. — Josh Alan Friedman, Tales of Times Square, p. 166, 1986
- “We may as well start targeting bag ladies.” — Glenn Savan, White Palace, p. 207, 1987
- I guess we’ve been passing a lot of bag ladies and bums, and I’m like, I don’t know, they’re everywhere[.] — Jay McInerney, Story of My Life, p. 112, 1988

bagman noun

1 a person who collects, makes or holds illegal payments US, 1935

- Tom (“Sailor”) Burke had been the sheriff’s “bag man,” had delivered $36,000 in payoff money to the sheriff’s wife and had gotten signed receipts for the boodle. — Time, p. 18, 24th July 1950
- The “pad” refers to regular weekly, biweekly, or monthly payments, usually picked up by a police bagman and divided among fellow officers. — The Knapp Commission Report on Police Corruption, p. 66, 1972
- Turns out the cop was the biggest bagman ever. — Vincent Patrick, The Pope of Greenwich Village, p. 247, 1979
- It’s tougher to buy the cheapest bagman than it is to buy a cop. — The Usual Suspects, 1995

2 in the circus or carnival, a person who makes change for customers, often cheating them US, 1980

- — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 13, 1980

3 a drug dealer; a person in possession of drugs US, 1970

- — Richard E. Haorman and Allan M. Fox, Drug Awareness, p. 463, 1970
- — William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Uptight People, p. 26, December 1970

bag money noun

money for buying drugs US, 1968

- Girls, trying to put together bag money, approached cars that had stopped for red lights. — Phil Hirsch, Hooked, p. 154, 1968

bag on; bag verb to insult someone in a competitive, quasi-friendly spirit US, 1993

- Hanging out, shooting craps, playing dominos, bagging on each other, and just plain kickin’ it. — Menace II Society, 1993
- There are many different terms for playing the dozens, including “bagging, capping, cracking, dissing, hiking, joning, ranking, ribbing, serving, signifying, slipping, sounding and snapping.” — James Haskins, The Story of Hip-Hop, p. 54, 2000

bag up verb

1 to divide a powdered drug into bags preparatory to selling it US, 1989

- — Geoffrey Froner, Digging for Diamonds, p. 7, 1989

2 to laugh US, 1989

- — Ellen C. Bellone (Editor), Dictionary of Slang, p. 2, 1989

Bahama mama noun

a big, robust African-American woman US, 2006

- He surprised her by leaving a note saying “You are my Bahama Mama. Pack a swimsuit and toothbrush and nothing else.” — Allan Zullo, The Smile-High Club, p. 179, 2002
- Ridin’ like I got a couple dollas in the grip / With my Bahama mama. — Sir Michael Rocks, “Bahamas,” 2011

bail verb

1 to leave a relationship or situation US, 1977

- “Maybe I just bail myself on home an watch TV or something.” — Jess Mowry, Way Past Cool, p. 10, 1992
- I don’t know how I can bail now, he’s going to be here any minute. — Something About Mary, 1998
- [T]he funniest shit happens when I’m about to bail. — Eminem (Marshall Mathers), Angry Blonde, p. 67, 2001

2 to fall while skateboarding US, 1984

- — San Francisco Sunday Examiner & Chronicle, p. 20, 2nd September 1984

3 in mountain biking, to jump off a bicycle in order to avoid an accident US, 1996

- A few who were born rad go too fast for their skill level—when they need to bail they won’t be able to. — Mountain Bike Magazine’s Complete Guide To Mountain Biking Skills, p. 79, 1996

bail out verb

to jump off a surfboard when you are about to be knocked off the board by a wave US, 1964

- — John Severson, Modern Surfing Around the World, p. 162, 1964

bait noun

1 in poker, a small bet that is hoped will lure another player into a larger bet US, 1967

- — Albert H. Morehead, The Complete Guide to Winning Poker, p. 256, 1967

2 in shuffleboard, a shot made to entice the opponent to try to go after the disk US, 1967

- — Omero C. Catan, Secrets of Shuffleboard Strategy, p. 64, 1967

3 a small meal US, 1958

- — American Speech, p. 268, December 1958: “Ranching terms from eastern Washington” bait verb

in gin, to discard a card in a manner that is designed to lure a desired card from an opponent US, 1971

- — Irwin Steig, Play Gin to Win, p. 138, 1971

bait money noun

cash with prerecorded serial numbers set aside by a bank to be included in money given to a robber US, 1992

- — Jay Robert Nash, Dictionary of Crime, p. 16, 1992
- Nothing with bank straps or rubber bands, I don’t want any dyke packs, I don’t want any bait money. — Elmore Leonard, Out of Sight, p. 87, 1996

Baja bug noun

a Volkswagen Beetle modified for surfer use US, 1991

“Baja” is a reference to Baja California, the Mexican state immediately south of California.

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin’ary, p. 6, 1991

bake noun

a complete and hopeless outcast US, 1991

An abbreviation of Bakersfield, a city at the south end of California’s San Joaquin Valley, “the other side of nowhere” to the surfers who use this term.

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin’ary, p. 6, 1991

▶ bake biscuits

to record and produce a phonograph record US, 1959

- — Look, p. 49, 24th November 1959

baked adjective

drug-intoxicated, especially by marijuana US, 1978

- I’m still baked. — Clueless, 1995
- Now Vita was lighting a joint, needing to get baked before she could turn herself into an International Chick. — Elmore Leonard, Be Cool, p. 48, 1999 balance *verb▶ balance the books in an illegal betting operation, to place bets with other operations when betting is too heavy on one proposition US, 1979

- You have to balance the books so you don’t get caught too heavy on one side. — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 11, 1987

balcony noun

the female breasts US, 1963

- “This one’s a carbon copy . . . especially in the balcony, doctor.” — Wade Hunter, The Sex Peddler, p. 9, 1963
- Polly’s balcony might not be something to inflame the pimple-faced readers of Playboy, but it had exactly what a grown man wanted[.] — Max Shulman, Anyone Got a Match?, p. 248, 1964
- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 76, 1968

Bald-headed row noun

the front row of a burlesque or strip show US, 1887

- Fort Worth had a number of burlesque houses at that time, and we were able to obtain choice seats on the front or “baldhead” row. — Jim Thompson, Bad Boy, p. 329, 1953

Baldwin noun

a handsome man US, 1995

From the family of handsome actor brothers.

- OK, OK, so he’s kind of a Baldwin, but what would he want with Tai. — Clueless, 1995
- — Judi Sanders, Da Bomb!, p. 2, 1997

bale noun

any quantity of marijuana US, 2001

- He exploded away from the wall and made a grab for the Baggie. "Hey, what you be doing with my bale, man?" — Stephen J. Cannell, The Tin Collectors, p. 35, 2001

bale verb▶ bale the kale to win a lot of money gambling US, 1962

From KALE (money).

- — Frank Garcia, Marked Cards and Loaded Dice, p. 250, 1962

bale of straw noun

a blonde white woman US, 1928

- — Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 23, 1970
- — Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 14, 1981

ball *noun1 a thoroughly good time US, 1932

- I had no time now for thoughts like that and promised myself a ball in Denver. — Jack Kerouac, On the Road, pp. 17–18, 1957
- [T]he other who had eyes for Phil and had been wooing him by stealing morphine stuyettes from the life boats, presenting them to him and beseeching him to have a ball[.] — Herbert Huncke, The Evening Sun Turned Crimson, p. 101, 1980

2 an act of sexual intercourse US, 1956

- Well after the ball was over, he wants to stay all night and stay a little longer. — William Burroughs, Letters to Allen Ginsberg 1953–1957, p. 147, 13th September 1956
- Ball: The accepted word for the sex act. — Screw, p. 7, 12th October 1970
- Yeah, she's a good ball, get with it already yet. — Babs Gonzales, Movin' On Down De Line, p. 37, 1975

3 one dollar US, 1895

Mainly prison slang.

- — Gary K. Farlow, Prison-ese, p. 2, 2002
- "General Hanrahan doesn't like to be kept waiting." "Few people do," Oliver said. "But sometimes that's the way the ball bounces." — W.E.B. Griffin, The Aviators, p. 379, 1988
- With 10 weeks until the election, it's an instructive reminder that in news and punditry, as in sports, that's now often just the way the ball bounces. — Variety, p. 4, 25th August 2004

ball *verb1 to sell drugs US, 1991

- "The homie was ballin', and he was rich." — Leon Bing, Do or Die, p. 230, 1991

2 to have sex US, 1952

- "We'll have time, baby, we'll have all the balling we can hold." — George Mandel, Flee the Angry Strangers, p. 304, 1952
- In that time, Dean is balling Marylou at the hotel and gives me time to change and dress. — Jack Kerouac, On the Road, p. 43, 1957
- Work little, eat well, ball like crazy, and use all their energy to perfect their own beings, and to help the perfection of others. — The Digger Papers, p. 8, August 1968
- He was there on the acid trip scene, but he wasn't there when we actually balled. — Jefferson Poland and Valerie Alison, The Records of the San Francisco Sexual Freedom League, p. 30, 1971

3 to fondle a man's penis US, 1968

- — Burton H. Wolfe, The Hippies, p. 203, 1968

4 to thoroughly enjoy yourself US, 1942

- He's the kind of a cat that balled every big swingin' main day breeze, all the time every day. — William "Lord" Buckley, Nero, 1951

5 to go or take something somewhere very quickly US, 1939

- But come on, let's ball up there and take a look in that little box of yours! — John Clellon Holmes, Go, p. 105, 1952
- And he balled that thing clear to Iowa City and yelled me the funniest stories[.] — Jack Kerouac, On the Road, p. 16, 1957

6 to insert amphetamine or methamphetamine in the vagina before sexual intercourse US, 1971

- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 28, 1971
- — Jay Robert Nash, Dictionary of Crime, p. 17, 1992

ball and chain noun

a man's wife US, 1921

A rare bit of rhyming slang used in the US, rhyming with "pain."

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 21, 1945
- What Ball and Chain could take that treatment for long? — Whisper Magazine, p. 37, May 1950: Anything for a Divorce
- — Complete CB Slang Dictionary, 1976
- — Dictionary of Cautionary Words and Phrases, 1989: "Multicultural Management Program Fellows"

ballbag noun

an athletic supporter US, 1968

- Whenever he saw a black person in a ballbag, he swooned. — Miriam Cooke, Blood Into Ink, p. 137, 1994

ballbreaker *noun1 a difficult task, a boring situation; any circumstance that saps your spirit US, 1942

The prosaic etymology leads to any task that strains the testicles; more likely that "balls" represent power or spirit in this context.

- So it was the usual day—ballbreaker? — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 284, 1992

2 a powerful, assertive woman; someone who demands or actively exacts a difficult requirement US, 1944

- See, at that time the Anglican Church were really ballbreakers. That was one of the words they used then, ballbreakers. Ballbreakers means backbreakers. — Lenny Bruce, The Essential Lenny Bruce, p. 210, 1967
- At least she's not a ballbreaker. Christ, if she were a ballbreaker there'd be no way. — Diner, 1982

- He prided himself on being as tough, as cruel, as unforgiving as any pimp, macgimpier, child stealer, cutthroat, or ball breaker on the street. — Robert Campbell, Sweet La-La Land, p. 183, 1990

ball-busting adjective

harassing, dominating, controlling US, 1954

- — Joseph Weingarten, American Dictionary of Slang, p. 54, 1954
- Fuckin' nigger gets Doris Day as a parolee office. But a good fella like you gets stuck with a ball-bustin' prick. — Reservoir Dogs, 1992
- You're just jealous, because unlike a certain ball-busting, dried-up career woman I might mention, we're all happily married. — Romy and Michele's High School Reunion, 1997

ball-cutter noun

a person who belittles and demeans others US, 1962

- [W]hat she is a ball-cutter. I've seen a thousand of 'em, old and young, men and women. Seen 'em all over the country and in the homes—people who try to make you weak so they can get you to toe the line, to follow their rules, to live like they want you to. — Ken Kesey, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, p. 58, 1962

baller noun

a drug dealer, usually of crack cocaine US, 1991

- "Them people can't nail down no decent jobs, and you tell me about any baller who's gonna tell 'em 'no' when they come lookin' for work." — Leon Bing, Do or Die, p. 223, 1991
- She tells me that when she was actively gangbangin', her father's brother, Uncle Darryl (whom she describes as a "baller," a successful drug dealer), supplied her with drugs to sell for him. — Rolling Stone, p. 86, 12th April 2001

baller-block verb

to hinder another's romantic pursuit of a woman US

- Why you blockin' us / Baller blockin' us / You niggas can keep tryin' / Ain't no stoppin' us. — E-40, "Baller Blockin'", 2011

ballhuggers noun very tight pants US, 1982

Hawaiian youth usage.

- Whaty, Aaron, you t'ink you macho when you wear dose ball huggahs? — Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max Hana Hou, 1982

balling noun

sex US, 1960

- I tell you there's just too much balling going on in the city itself altho I love it of course. — Jack Kerouac, Jack Kerouac Selected Letters 1957–1969, p. 307, September 1960: Letter to Neal Cassidy ballistic adjective

extremely angry; out of control US, 1985

Originally applied to an out-of-control missile.

- Officer Nelson Hareem went ballistic and put the hot flogger in a neck brace for three weeks. — Seth Morgan, Fugitive Nights, p. 32, 1990
- "Your dad was pissed, huh?" "Totally ballistic." — C.D. Payne, Youth in Revolt, p. 302, 1993
- I totally choked. My father is going to go ballistic on me. — Cueless, 1995
- Mommy goes ballistic and ends their relationship. — Cruel Intentions, 1999 ball of fire noun

a dynamic and energetic person US, 1900

- He is a ball of fire with the women—the sultry, slow-urnin' kind, of COURSE. — Max Shulman, Guided Tour of Campus Humor, p. 2, 1955
- To listen to you guys tell it, my old man is one ball of fire. — Donald Goines, El Dorado Red, p. 32, 1974

ball of wax noun

a complete set of facts or situation US, 1953

- After 13 years of dinner plates that sports Jackie's face in colors, after writing as many as 100 letters a night in search of a rare Kennedy piece, after "lots and lots" of dollars, Steinberg is trying to sell the whole ball of Wax. — Washington Post, Potomac Journal, p. 1, 29th September 1979

balloon *noun1 a lieutenant US, 1951

Coined in Korea.

- Gasping, I told him that "Combat" was now a first lieutenant, and though I made it a rule not to speak to second balloons, since he'd been instrumental in my development I would make an exception. — David H. Hackworth, About Face, p. 211, 1989

2 used as a humorous synonym of "platoon" US, 1967

- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 3, 1968

3 a small amount of heroin, whether or not it is actually in a balloon US, 1967

- — Richard Horman and Alan Fox, Drug Awareness, p. 463, 1970

balloon head noun

an empty-headed, dim-witted dolt US, 1931

Sometimes contracted to "balloon."

- What a fuckin' balloon head. — Casino, 1995 balloon juice noun

empty talk US, 1900

A play on the "hot air" typically found inside balloons.

- Tonight would have been balloon juice without a big backlog of thinking. — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 183, 1954
- — Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World's Toughest Prison, p. 790, 1962

ballpark noun

an approximate range US, 1957

- Yes, someone older. Yeah, I mean, you know, you know, old, not as old as I am, but in the same general ball park as me. — Manhattan, 1979
- Can you give me a ballpark on the time? — Robert Crais, L.A. Requiem, p. 42, 1999 ball player noun

in prison, anyone who is open to being bribed or corrupted US, 1966

- Rose Giallombardo, Society of Women, p. 204, 1966: Glossary of Prison Terms

ballroom noun

a singles bar with a reputation for easy sexual conquests US, 1985

- American Speech, p. 18, Spring 1985: "The language of singles bars" balls *noun1 the testicles UK, 1325

- "I said I lost my balls! Can't you hear me? I'm wounded in the groin!" — Joseph Heller, Catch-22, p. 289, 1961
- I worked my way up to his balls, which I sucked one at a time. — Xavier Hollander, The Happy Hooker, p. 181, 1972
- She held it up and kissed under it, running her tongue over my testicles and sucking my balls. — Harold Robbins, Sin City, p. 64, 2002

2 courage, daring UK, 1893

- He's a smart pitcher too, knows what he's doing out there, and as Jim Owens says, "He has the balls of a burglar." — Jim Bouton, Ball Four, p. 324, 1970
- You didn't hit it, but it was a big balls bet. — Hard Eight, 1996
- If you think something's going on, have the balls to ask someone instead of just sneaking around. — Robert Crais, L.A. Requiem, p. 124, 1999
- [Y]ou need one other vital ingredient for your criminal idea—balls, big balls. And that makes all the difference. — Danny King, The Burglar Diaries, p. 33, 2001

▶ bust your balls; break your balls to harass, to nag someone US, 1944

- C'mon, man, don't break my balls, I'm just trying to get along. — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, p. 3, 1970
- "You fucking snuck up here and did this just to break my fucking balls!" — Joseph Pistone, Donnie Brasco, pp. 361–362, 1987

▶ to have someone by the balls to exert complete control over someone; to have complete power over someone US, 1918

- [E]ven though he's got me by the balls out here, Dan knows that in a courtroom, he loses this case. — A Few Good Men, 1992

▶ to have someone's balls in a vice at an extreme disadvantage, overpowered US, 1987

- I'm up front with ya, Tilley. I've got my balls in a vice. — Tin Men, 1987 balls-ass naked adjective

completely naked US, 1958

- The two of us were balls-ass naked when they carried us to Bellevue. — Herbert Huncke, Guiltily of Everything, p. 197, 1990

balls-to-the-walls adjective

unrestrained, full-out US, 1967

From military aviation; thrusting the throttle with its ball-shaped grip towards the firewall at the front of the cockpit achieves maximum power.

- J.L. says that motorcycle of his only has two speeds: dead still and balls to the walls. — Ken Weaver, Texas Crude, p. 102, 1984

ballsy adjective

gutsy, courageous US, 1935

- The minesweep guys are a real ballsy bunch. — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, p. 123, 1970
- That Scal, he's a ballsy guy, you know. — George V. Higgins, The Friends of Eddie Doyle, p. 203, 1971
- I've got to tell you, my friend: this is one of the ballsiest moves I've ever been privy to. I never would have thought you capable of such blatant disregard of store policy. — Clerks, 1994

ball up verb

to botch, to ruin US, 1915

- You say that the present generation has balled things up to the extent that we now face a war so terrible that the very thought of it makes hardened veterans shudder. — Hunter S. Thompson, The Proud Highway, p. 3, 1955: Open Letter to the Youth of our Nation bally; bally act; ballyhoo noun

any method used to draw a crowd; a small, free performance given outside a place of entertainment in the hope of drawing customers inside US, 1901

Circus and carnival usage.

- I refused to go out in the rain and do the bally. — Ethel Waters, His Eye is on the Sparrow, p. 84, 1951
- Bally is used by sideshows, girlie shows, and the like to give the tip an idea of the show to be seen inside (the bally is located immediately outside the structure or tent). — Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 15, 1981
- Gene Sorrows, All About Carnivals, p. 8, 1985

ballyhoo verb

to draw a crowd US, 1965

- Said, "I've ballyhooed in a smalltown circus / throughout the middle west." — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 75, 1965

baloney *noun1 utter nonsense US, 1922

- I met Bob's brother Hank, who says he fell in love with me, which is a bunch of baloney 'cause he fell in love with anything in skirts that would pay any attention to him. — James Mills, The Panic in Needle Park, p. 93, 1966
- It might be a load of baloney, but I have always really liked that image. — Varsity, p. 6, 14th June 2002

2 the penis US, 1928

- Man, wouldn't I love to play hide the baloney with that. — Charles Whited, Chiodo, p. 224, 1973

3 a die that has been flattened on several edges to favor one surface US, 1974

- You watch these dice for so many years and years and years, square dice, that when you throw a pair of baloneys in, it looks like a flat tire. — Edward Lin, Big Julie of Vegas, p. 217, 1974

baloney pony noun

the penis US, 2005

- Bouncing butt and boobs during her Ride-'em-Cowboy impression on a lucky feller's baloney pony. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin's Skincyclopedia, p. 110, 2005

balsa boy noun

a male pornography performer who has trouble maintaining an erection US, 1995

One of many WOOD images.

- Adult Video News, p. 42, August 1995

Balto nickname

Baltimore, Maryland US, 1981

- Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 16, 1981

bam *noun1 a pill or capsule of amphetamines US, 1970

An abbreviation of "bambita."

- Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 23, 1970
- [A]rrested 71 persons trying to buy Preludin—known as "bam" in street slang—and Dilaudid. Both are diet pills used as heroin boosters or heroin substitutes. — Washington Post, p. A1, 22nd July 1981
- I am steeped in thoughts about "angel dust" and "wacky weed" and "bam" and "speed," not to mention plain old marijuana, cocaine, and heroin because I have spent weeks doing a television special on drug abuse. — San Francisco Examiner, p. C10, 28th March 1981

2 a female member of the US Marine Corps US, 1948

A "broad-assed marine."

- That was something that a general could turn to his aide and say: "Who's that BAM?" Up until, like yesterday. — Jean Zimmerman, Tailspin, p. 211, 1995

bamalam noun

marijuana US, 1973

Variation of BAMALACHA.

- [D]iggin' sounds after hours and smokin' your bamalam and walking down the street stark noble savage naked to the world! — Lester Bangs, Psychotic Reactions and Carburetor Dung, p. 117, 1973

bambalacha; bamba; bammy noun

marijuana US, 1938

- Marijuana is also known as loco weed, love weed, giggle weed, bambalacha and Indian hay. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 15, 19th October 1948
- Grass . . . Mary Jane, Aunt Hazel, African bush, bambalacha. You pick the cool name. — Stephen J. Cannell, The Tin Collectors, p. 60, 2001

bambi-sexual noun

a homosexual whose sexual activity is characterized by kisses, caresses, and emotion US, 1985

Punning on the gentle deer Bambi, hero of the novel by Felix Salten and the movie by Disney.

- Wayne Dynes, Homolexis, p. 147, 1985 bamboo telegraph noun

the spreading of gossip or rumours in a jungle US, 1929

- In my country, good deeds are publicized all over by the bamboo telegraph. — William Lederer, The Ugly American, p. 73, 1958 bamf!

1 in computing, a notional sound during a magical transformation in a multi-user dungeon US, 1991

Also an acronym produced from "bad-ass motherfucker."

- Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 47, 1991

2 used as Internet shorthand to mean "I am leaving this discussion" US, 1997

A sound effect from the X-Men comic books.

- Andy Ihnatko, Cyberspeak, p. 21, 1997

banana verb

in television and movie making, to walk in a slight curve in front of the camera to prevent focus US, 1990

- Ralph S. Singleton, Filmmaker's Dictionary, p. 15, 1990

banana hammock noun

a brief male bikini US, 1997

- A member of the band roused himself from his lounge chair, gut jiggling out over his banana hammock, and strutted lazily to the edge of the water. — Rick Marin, Cad, p. 152, 2004

banana horse noun

a racehorse that is part of a cheating scheme in a fixed race US, 1973

- "We'd list the banana horse on the sheet that went out to all our bookmakers and he'd then refuse to take any action on that horse from anyone in the city." — Vincent Teresa, My Life in the Mafia, p. 156, 1973

banana oil noun

nonsense; persuasive talk US, 1924

- Jerry Robertson, Oil Slangueage, p. 24, 1954

- Helen Dahlsgog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 5, 1972

banana race noun

a fixed horse race US, 1967

- New England tracks are famous throughout the United States for their so-called “banana-races,” in which the winner is known in advance to a select few. — Saturday Evening Post, p. 29, 18th November 1967
- “New England had—it still does—more banana races each year than any section of the world.” — Vincent Teresa, My Life in the Mafia, p. 152, 1973

bananas adjective

madly excited; mad; behaving oddly US, 1957

Derives from BANANA OIL (nonsense), which abbreviates as “bananas”; “to become mad” is “to go bananas.”

- We heard the police broadcast! They say you’re bananas! — L’il Abner in San Francisco News, p. 11, 20 March 1957
- If this dude in a pinstripe suit thinks he’s going to keep her off The All-Weather Panther Committee, he’s bananas. — Tom Wolfe, Radical Chic & Mau-Mauing the Flak Catchers, p. 63, 1970
- Was Richard Nixon mentally unstable at any time of his Presidency? Did he flip his lid, go bananas? — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 7, 14 May 1975
- He went totally bananas, cussin’ me out instead of thankin’ me for savin’ his raggedy ass. — Edwin Torres, After Hours, p. 264, 1979

bananas on bananas noun

too much of something, even a good something US, 1977

- — Tony Miller and Patricia George, Cut! Print! The Language and Structure of Filmmaking, p. 39, 1977

banana smoke noun

yellow-colored smoke from a smoke grenade US

- “I see banana smoke,” the AC radios and the bird banks slightly left dropping quickly then levels and aims for the LZ. — John Del Vecchio, The 13th Valley, p. 632, 1982

banana split noun

amyl nitrite; an ampule of amyl nitrite US, 1968

A reference to the banana-like smell of the drug vapors.

- And have “amies” on hand too: poppers, banana splits, whatever you call them. — Angelo d’Arcangelo, The Homosexual Handbook, p. 115, 1968

banana with cheese noun

marijuana and freebase cocaine combined for smoking US, 1979

- A marijuana-and-base combo is referred to as “banana with cheese” banana is the rolling paper, usually wheat straw or yellow paper, and cheese is the base, white and crumbly like feta. — Hi Life, p. 78, 1979

band-aid noun

a medic US, 1991

During the Vietnam war, a radio call for a “band-aid” was a call for a medic.

- “My call-sign is Band-Aid 6 or Big BandAid. My medics are Band-Aid-Charlie 1 or Band-Aid Alpha 1, etc. — Margaret Brown, That Time, That Place, That War, 2011 band chick noun

a woman who is attracted to, and makes herself available to, musicians US, 1961

An early term for what would come to be known as a “groupie.”

- Although Miriam had known enough musicians and enough Negroes to judge each one on his own, there were “band chicks” at the Savoy, as at nearly every club where jazz is played. — Nat Hentoff, The Jazz Life, p. 20, 1961

B and D; B/D noun

bondage and domination (or discipline) as sexual activities US, 1973

- The term b & d as an abbreviation for bondage and discipline is gaining currency, certainly in the underground press, for s-m. — Gerald and Caroline Green, S-M, p. 205, 1973
- Real-life S/M activity, unlike the clichés of S/M fiction, rarely is bizarre or extreme; most of it involves biting, hitting, slapping and the like, rather than heavy B and D (bondage and discipline). — Playboy, p. 183, March 1974
- Look out for terms like dominant, submissive, B/D, and S and M. — Lawrence Paros, The Erotic Tongue, p. 148, 1984
- The sadomasochism books, or S&M, featured whips, unlike the bondage-and-discipline (B&D) magazines.[...] — Jack Weatherford, Porn Row, p. 8, 1986 burglary US, 1965

B and E noun

From the initials for “breaking and entering.”

- He said, “Mom, there’s no way anybody could bust in here, even jigs I met who spent their lives doing B and Ees, pros.” — Elmore Leonard, Glitz, p. 98, 1985
- The one where you do all your B-and-E’s? — Carl Haasen, Tourist Season, p. 15, 1986

B and E; B & E verb

to commit a burglary US, 2004

- A one-armed bum B&Es the doc’s pad and snuffs her. — James Ellroy, Destination Morgue, p. 35, 2004

Band House nickname

the Chicago House of Corrections US, 1946

- Off I went to Chicago’s city prison at 26th and California, the Bride-well, known as “The Band House” in the underworld. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 33, 1946

bandit noun

a hostile aircraft US, 1942

- Two friendly aircraft closing on the bandit to intercept, Sir! — Milton Caniff, Steve Canyon in San Francisco Examiner, p. 40, 15th December 1954
- I had a SAM come so close I could almost read the tail markings. You get bandit calls all the time. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 10, 30th December 1971
- Bandits! Bandits! Over Thud Ridge. — Joseph Tuso, Singing the Vietnam Blues, p. 36, 1990: The Ballad of Robin Olds

bandit odds noun

betting odds that strongly, if secretly, favor one betting position US, 1977

- He was fleecing rich sportsmen out of a fortune by betting ringer Upshaw could beat their favorite boxers, usually at bandit odds. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Long White Con, p. 189, 1977

B and Q noun

diluted or adulterated crack cocaine US, 1997

- Baking soda or bonita and quinine—B-and-Q—as dope. oregano as weed, battery acid as ready rocks. — David Simon and Edward Burns, The Corner, p. 69, 1997

bands; bandz noun

money Suggesting rubber bands around a wad of cash US

- All these chicks popping pussy, I’m just popping bandz. — Juicy J, featuring Lil’ Wayne and 2 Chainz, 2012
- — Connie Eble, Campus Slang: University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Spring 2014

bang noun

1 pleasure, enjoyment US, 1929

- Many of the younger social and diplomatic sets get a bang out of hot licks. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 17, 1951
- Boy, did I get a bang out of watching him. — Frederick Kohner, Gidget, p. 29, 1957
- The surfers also get a hell of a bang out of slot racing for some reason.[...] — Tom Wolfe, The Kandy-Kolored Tangerine-Flake Streamline Baby, p. 81, 1965
- Also, I could tell these dudes got a real bang out of playing and winning at cards.[...] — Bobby Seale, A Lonely Rage, p. 267, 1978

2 an injection of a narcotic US, 1922

- I found him in such a state of collapse that I had to give him a bang before he could pull himself together and locate the junk in the place where he’d hidden it. — Ethel Water, His Eye is on the Sparrow, p. 148, 1952
- The physician would take care of her with a “bang” in the arm, employing a strong narcotic drug. — Harry J. Anslinger, The Murderers, p. 185, 1961

3 the sudden effect of a drug US, 1948

- [T]he top grade, the gueneon, which produces a voluptuous “bang,” bringing as high as a dollar. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, pp. 102–103, 1948

4 marijuana US, 1993

- — Kenn “Naz” Young, Naz’s Dictionary of Teen Slang, p. 6, 1993
- “We could light up, take some bang?” the teenager said hopefully. — Stephen J. Cannell, The Tin Collectors, p. 136, 2001

bang verb

1 to have sex UK, 1720

- Because I haven’t banged anybody, not anybody, since we picked up Dinah, except her, of course, and this Margo is real cute. — John Clellon Holmes, Go, p. 137, 1952
- At one sharp he rushes from Marylou to Camille—of course neither one of them knows that’s going on—and bangs her once, giving me time to arrive at one thirty. — Jack Kerouac, On the Road, pp. 42–43, 1957
- I suppose she’s a real gunner; bangs away, huh? — John Nichols, The Sterile Cuckoo, p. 88, 1965
- Even Dave Dummings, a fiftysomething ex-Army colonel, has marketed himself as the sexy older man who doesn’t need Viagra and gets to bang beautiful young chicks half his age. — Ana Loria, 1 2 3 Be A Porn Star!, p. 110, 2000

2 to inhale or to inject a drug intravenously US, 1926

- If he’d taken an overdose of cocaine, I’d have to bang him with heroin to counteract it. — Ethel Water, His Eye is on the Sparrow, p. 148, 1952
- Angel nodded off immediately, hitting himself and banging it all in at once.[...] — Hal Elson, The Golden Spike, p. 95, 1952
- He groaned as he banged himself in the arm while the mixture was still warm. — Chester Himes, A Rage in Harlem, p. 38, 1957
- My habit screwed my mind up. All I wanted to do was bang “H” and “coast.” — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 99, 1969

3 to engage in youth gang criminal activity US, 1986

- In most of Los Angeles, gang members contend that for all the publicity about the killings, the gangs themselves are pretty quiet. “Ain’t nobody banging no more,” they insist. — Los Angeles Times, p. 1, 26th June 1986
- “People who never banged in their life.” — Leon Bing, Do or Die, p. 221, 1991
- OLDER SHERIFF: Are you a Crip or a Blood? CAINE: I don’t bang. — Menace II Society, 1993
- I started banging when I was ten years old. — Yusuf Jah, Uprising, p. 25, 1995
- Curiously, the 18th Street gangsters, who have definite roots in the I.A. area, nevertheless claim norte while bangin’ in EPA. — Bill Valentine, Gangs and Their Tattoos, p. 112, 2000

► bang ears

to talk idly US, 1946

- “[T]he other day he was banging ears with the Old Man again. He tells us he hates him and every chance he gets he sneaks up there and bangs ears.” — Thomas Heggen, Mister Roberts, p. 65, 1946

► bang heads

to fight US, 1968

- — Hy Lit, Hy Lit’s Unbelievable Dictionary of Hip Words for Groovy People, p. 3, 1968

bang and slang verb to take part in youth gang activity and sell drugs US, 1995

- What was that like coming from the streets of Watts, bangin’ and slangin’, and then going to meet Minister Farrakahn? — Yusuf Jah, Uprising, p. 180, 1995

bang-bang noun

a gun US, 1992

- “Well, leastways we score ourselves a new bang-bang, huh?” — Jess Mowry, Way Past Cool, p. 55, 1992
- “But as long as the law says I can own bang-bangs, I will.” — Jonathan Kellerman, Rage, p. 240, 2005

banged adjective

intoxicated on a drug, especially marijuana US, 1980

- He had me take a long, strong take, and then squat down and blow on my thumb. After a few of those, he had me floating and really banged. — Stephen Gaskin, Amazing Dope Tales, p. 7, 1980
- He said he should've held the meeting in here, get everybody zonked and decadent on a strong stone, get them good and banged—using all the words he knew—then present the movie deal. — Elmore Leonard, Stick, p. 241, 1983
- [S]o banged on ups and cocaine she fell out on the floor[.] — Clarence Major, All-Night Visitors, p. 201, 1998

banger noun

1 a boxer who relies on brute strength and aggressive tactics US, 1968

- The Big Banger From Parks (Headline). — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 42, 21st September 1968
- Robertson is a "banger," a converted southpaw whose left hook has produce 18 KO's. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 46, 28th July 1973

2 a gang member US, 1985

Shortened form of GANGBANGER.

- Two of the bangers had shaved heads, two others wore knit caps; all wore black high-top sneakers, half unlaced. — Joseph Wambaugh, Floater, p. 26, 1996
- "Dunas isn't a banger. He's a bookie, pure and simple." — John Ridley, Love is a Racket, p. 33, 1998
- [T]he Border Brothers, who outnumber both the MRU and the Sur Califas in Nevada's prisons, are aligning with the Sur Califas bangers. — Bill Valentine, Gangs and Their Tattoos, p. 32, 2000

bang-needle gun noun

a contraption for injecting drugs US, 1951

- Later Rocky told me he made his own bang-needle gun out of those things. — Ethel Waters, His Eye is on the Sparrow, p. 115, 1951

bang on verb

in computing, to subject a piece of equipment or a new program to a stress test US, 1991

- I banged on the new version of the simulator all day yesterday and it didn't crash once. — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 48, 1991

bangtail noun

1 a racehorse; one of several inferior kinds of horse US, 1921

From the practice of bobbing the horse's tail.

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 12, 1951
- "Wherever the bangtails are running, this Banjho's there." — Ovid Demaris, The Last Mahfouz, p. 423, 1981

2 a return-address envelope sent with a bill, containing a product offer on a detachable portion of the envelope flap US, 1986

- — Rachel S. Epstein and Nina Liebman, Biz Speak, p. 16, 1986

bank noun

money; wealth US, 1991

- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 1, Spring 1991
- Hoodsters gathered in the evening to swap stories, get high, make a little bank on drug sales, and plot crimes. — Bob Sipchen, Baby Insane and the Buddha, p. 15, 1993
- Doing this, we make mad bank. — Gone in 60 Seconds, 2000
- Because if the buzz is any indication, the movie's gonna make some huge bank. — Kevin Smith, Jay and Silent Bob Strike Back, p. 18, 2001

► take it to the bank; put it in the bank to be very sure of a fact US, 1977

- "One thing you can take to the bank is a white Christmas," a National Weather Service spokesman said of western Illinois and eastern Iowa. — Washington Post, p. A2, 22nd December 1983
- "I will never forget where I come from, and you can take that to the bank." (Quoting Senator John Edwards). — Chicago Tribune, p. C1, 20th February 2004 banker noun

1 a usurer, an illegal lender of money US, 1988

- How can I figure Bill Ray—he knows the streets like I know the streets—gets a case of the stupids and brags to Pachoulo that he's got a new banker? — Robert Campbell, Juice, p. 73, 1988

2 the operator of an illegal numbers racket or lottery US, 1959

- A numbers banker? — Chester Himes, The Real Cool Killers, p. 102, 1959
- They couldn't be trusted by numbers bankers any more. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 191, 1965
- There was no problem getting the free-lance Negro bankers out of business. — Mario Puzo, The Godfather, p. 252, 1969
- The bankers pay them [the police] off. — Louise Meriwether, Daddy Was a Number Runner, p. 116, 1970

3 in a functionally compartmentalized illegal drug operation, the person who receives payment for drugs bought US, 1987

- — Carsten Stroud, Close Pursuit, p. 269, 1987

bank job noun

a bank robbery US, 1920

- "A bank job. I pulled a bank job and I got away with it." — John Ridley, Love is a Racket, p. 20, 1998

bank shot noun

a delayed fuse shell fired by a tank in such a manner as to bounce off an object and around a corner to explode at or near the target US Borrowed from any number of sports and games.

- Bank shot: Shooting a delayed exploding shell to cause a deliberate ricochet, thus allowing tanks to shoot around corners. — Ralph Zumbro, Tank Sergeant, p. 189, 1986

bap verb

to shoot someone or something US, 1966

- Then I bapped at the first little rabbit and turned him aboutface on his pivot. — Robert Edmond Alter, Carny Kill, p. 2, 1966

baptism noun

the drenching of a prison guard with urine and/or feces US, 1992

- Word of the guard's "baptism" had spread through the cellhouse, sparking laughter and jeers from other Cubans. — Pete Earley, The Hot House, p. 116, 1992

Baptist bag noun

a brown paper bag in which a bottle of beer can be concealed US, 1992

- You want a Baptist bag with that beer, buddy? — Lewis Poteet, Car & Motorcycle Slang, p. 23, 1992

bar noun

1 a package of heroin US, 1978

- All I want is the stuff. Hey, wait a minute, momma, I ain't no petty nigger. Naw, baby, if I was goin' rip off something, it would be a hell of a lot bigger than a twenty-five dollar bar. — Donald Goines, Crime Partners, p. 43, 1978

2 used as a name for any variable object US, 1983

- The second metasyntactic variable, after FOO. If a hacker needs to invent exactly two names for things, he almost always picks the names "foo" and "bar." — Guy L. Steele et al., The Hacker's Dictionary, p. 29, 1983

BAR noun

a Browning automatic rifle US, 1967

- But today all the Oakland Angels got BARs. — Frank Reynolds, Freewheelin' Frank, p. 7, 1967

bar adjective

a "minus" attached to a grade US, 1968

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 76, 1968

bar; barr noun

a mixture of codeine-infused cough syrup and soda US, 1998

- I'm also trying to find out the Pharmaceutical name for a drug in Texas called syrup, lean or bar. It is a codeine based syrup, which tastes like some sweet cough syrup, but it is very strong. — alt.drugs.chemistry, 22nd November 1998
- In Houston, Elwood said, it has a variety of nicknames—Lean, AC/DC, barr, down, Karo and nods. "Lean because after you take it you will be definitely leaning and losing your coordination," Elwood said. — The Commercial Appeal (Memphis), p. F1, 9th July 2000

barb noun

a barbiturate US, 1966

- — John B. Williams, Narcotics and Hallucinogenics, p. 109, 1967
- [H]e only lets me come over when he restocks my acid supply and gives me enough grass and barbs to lasts me until I see him again. — Anonymous, Go Ask Alice, p. 59, 1971
- Barbiturates are also known as BARBS, BLUES, REDS, and SEKKIES. — Macfarlane, Macfarlane and Robson, The User, p. 97, 1996

Barbara Hutton noun

in hold 'em poker, a five and ten as the first two cards dealt to a player US, 1981

Hutton (1913–1979) was heiress to the Woolworth fortune; Woolworth was the foremost five and ten cent store in America.

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 13, 1987

barbecue noun

a self-immolation US, 1963

- The term enjoyed a brief and gruesome popularity in the early 1960s.
- I am not saying that we should accept Mme. Nhu's statements at face value. Nor that we should forgive her for using that unfortunate language. If she had not referred to the Buddhist suicides as "monk barbecues," Americans would surely have greeted her. — San Francisco News Call-Bulletin, p. 6, 12th October 1963

barbecue verb

to put someone to death by electrocution US, 1990

- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 197, 1990

barber pole noun

in casino gambling, a bet comprised of various colored chips US, 1980

- Barber poles are to be broken down and paid color for color. — Lee Solkey, Dummy Up and Deal, p. 107, 1980

Barbie; Barbie Doll noun

a barbiturate capsule US, 1979

- — Joel Homer, Jargon, p. 193, 1979
- — Sally Williams, "Strong" Words, p. 134, 1994

bare-ass; bare-assed adjective

naked UK, 1562

- That's what I thought, no gloves. I heard about you. The Digger goes in bare-ass. — George V. Higgins, The Digger's Game, p. 4, 1973
- [T]he Zorros marched off, leaving Dougie and Scottie bare-assed and shivering on the bridge. — Richard Price, The Wanderers, p. 23, 1974

bareback verb

1 to engage in sex without a condom US, 1970

- — Current Slang, p. 12, Spring 1970
- — Judi Sanders, Faced and Faded, Hanging to Hurl, p. 2, 1993
- The study by researchers at the CDC and San Francisco's Department of Public Health is the first serious analysis of the practice of "barebacking," in which gay or bisexual men intentionally engage in sex without a condom with someone other than their primary partner[.] — San Francisco Chronicle, p. A2, 4th April 2002

2 to surf without a wetsuit US, 1991

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin'ary, p. 6, 1991

bareback adjective + adverb(used of sex) without a condom US, 1960

- I always ride bareback myself. Take a chance my way, though. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Glitter Dome, p. 165, 1981
- I never got the clap and I always went in bareback. — Mark Baker, Nam, p. 167, 1981
- What can I tell you, she let this jockey ride bareback. — James Ellroy, White Jazz, p. 113, 1992
- “Tell them not to ride bareback. Tell them to stay away from the whores.” — Cherokee Paul McDonald, Into the Green, p. 96, 2001 barefoot pilgrim *noun*in the used car business, a naive, trusting, unsophisticated customer US, 1968

- — Esquire, p. 118, March 1968

bare metal *noun*a new computer which is not equipped with even an operating system US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 49, 1991

barf *verb1 to vomit US, 1958

- — American Speech, p. 228, October 1967: “Some special terms used in a University of Connecticut men's dormitory”
- LaDonna said, “You want me to barf all over the car?” — Elmore Leonard, Glitz, p. 235, 1985
- If you think you're going to barf, walk out and get some air. — Robert Crais, L.A. Requiem, p. 97, 1999

2 in computing, to fail to operate US, 1983

- The division operation barfs if you try to divide by zero. — Guy L. Steele et al., The Hacker's Dictionary, p. 29, 1983

barf, beer and a cigar *noun*a fighter pilot's breakfast US, 1986

- — United States Naval Institute Proceedings, p. 108, October 1986

barf buddy *noun*a drinking companion US, 1977

- [S]ometimes longed for the uncomplicated life of lacrosse and rugby and hou-bro bevo parties, of happily hugging the toilet all night long with your barf buddies after draining a half-keg for no special occasion? — John Sayles, Union Dues, p. 279, 1977

barfic *noun*an unartistic computer graphic created with keyboard characters US, 1995

- — Christian Crumlish, The Internet Dictionary, p. 19, 1995

barfly *noun*a too-frequent frequenter of bars and saloons US, 1906

- In the dingy half-light, in the thick, stale miasma of tobacco smoke and alcoholic fumes which are the atmosphere of the innumerable cocktail bars of our cities, a new character has entered the American scene. It is the female bar fly. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 14, 10th December 1947
- Me, now, the first impression I'd had of her was that she wasn't much to look at—just a female barfly with money. — Jim Thompson, After Dark, My Sweet, p. 7, 1955
- The kid had still another beer, pulled the cheek of a middle-aged woman bar fly and bought her a drink. — Willard Motley, Let No Man Write My Epitaph, p. 73, 1958
- She couldn't bear the thought of sitting in a gin mill like a day-time barfly, avoiding the moves of local lotharios so old they were moldering. — Joseph Wambaugh, Fugitive Nights, p. 107, 1992

barf me out!used for expressing disgust US, 1982

- Sheryl's mom, like she's a total space cadet, like barf me out, she like made Sheryl throw her dead beta fish down the garbage disposal, right? — Mary Corey and Victoria Westermarck, Fer Shurr! How to be a Valley Girl, 1982
- He like sits there and like plays with all his rings / And he like flirts with all the guys in the class / It's like totally disgusting / I'm like so sure / It's like BARF ME OUT / Gag me with a spoon! — Moon Unit and Frank Zappa, Valley Girl, 1982

barf ride *noun*a tumultuous carnival ride US, 2005

- Party Time Shows specialized in violent, lurching “barf” rides. — Peter Entko, Eying the Flash, p. 132, 2005

barfy *adjective*unpleasant, disgusting US, 1957

- That's what my English-comp teacher says—Mr. Glucksberg that barfy-looking character who's practically invented halitosis. — Frederick Kohner, Gidget, p. 3, 1957 barge *verb*to come; to go; to leave; to arrive; to move US, 1929

- “Let's barge out of here,” Dopey said suddenly. — James T. Farrell, Saturday Night, p. 23, 1947

barhop *verb*to move in a group from one bar to another, stopping at each for a drink or two US, 1948

- For the still missing mother, 18 year old Joyce Swinhart, her bar-hopping appeared to have been a jidded one-way, dead-end road. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 15, 8th January 1948
- The few who stayed, and the tourists, kept to the Gay White Way as they used to name it, clubbing, bar hopping or taking in a show. — Mickey Spillane, Return of the Hood, p. 60, 1964

- [T]hen they went out to bar-hop the beach bars, avoiding only the gay bars on the crossroads where the main road from the freeway joins the Coast Highway. — Roger Gordon, Hollywood's Sexual Underground, p. 145, 1966
- I was barhopping . . . I must have hit every place on the West Side of town. — Gerald Petievich, To Die in Beverly Hills, p. 205, 1983

bari *noun*a baritone saxophone US, 1955

- — Robert S. Gould, A Jazz Lexicon, p. 12, 1964

barker *noun1 a failure, a waste of time US, 2002

An elaboration of the common dog.

- “I just went and saw that movie. Avoid it all costs. It was a total barker!” — Dictionary of New Terms (Hope College), 2002

2 a person who stands at the door of a business calling out to people passing by, trying to lure them into the business UK, 1699

- The spiel of the leather lunged barker, a Barbary Coast fixture who continued on when Pacific St. became the International Settlement, is to be silenced. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 3, 9th January 1957
- Behind him, blazing lights promote a “Male and Female Love Act,” topless singers, topless stewardesses, topless wrestlers. To top it off, The Colonel, a Broadway barker, wears a derby. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 21, 9th March 1976
- — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 16, 1980

3 an unsophisticated master of ceremonies US, 1986

- The barker comes out and says that Hester Prime will now take off her clothes, which is what she does best. — Robert Campbell, Junkyard Dog, p. 132, 1986

4 in craps played in a casino, the stickman US, 1983

The stickman controls the pace of the game and engages in steady banter with the players.

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 14, 1987

5 a handgun US, 1814

- Then, holding his roscoe or barker on Mr. Mach, the policeman moseyed back to the truck and peered inside. — San Francisco News, p. 1, 25th August 1950
- “Then he yanks out the barker and bangs him. Smack in the biscuit.” — Richard Prather, The Peddler, p. 67, 1952 barkers *noun*shoes *US, 1929*An extension of the much more commonly used docs (shoes).

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 7, 1945

barley *noun*beer US, 1972

- — David Claerbaut, Black Jargon in White America, p. 57, 1972

barnburner *noun*an exciting idea, event or thing US, 1934

- All the Dub Hotchkisses looked at him with admiration bordering on awe. “A barn-burner!” said one. — Max Shulman, Rally Round the Flag, Boys!, p. 185, 1957

barndance card *noun*a debriefing after combat US, 1992

- Sure, I'd handled Barrett's paperwork during my time at UDT-21 and UDT-22, and written “barndance cards” (after-action reports), fitreps, and commendation citations for my squads and platoon in Vietnam. — Richard Marcinko and John Weisman, Rogue Warrior, p. 147, 1992

barn door *noun*the fly on a pair of pants US, 1950

Used in the euphemistic warning: “Your barn door is open.”

- — Don R. McCreary (Editor), Dawg Speak, 2001
- “Your barn door is open,” I said, remembering Uncle Peter's sense of humor. — V.C. Andrews, Falling Stars, p. 145, 2001

barney *noun1 an unattractive, unpopular young man US, 1987

- — Mitch McKissick, Surf Lingo, 1987
- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 17, 1989
- I don't know where she meets these Barnies. — Clueless, 1995
- 2 a new Internet user whose interest will soon lapse US, 1997
- Different from a newbie in that newbies become plain decent folk through time and effort; a barney is for good once their ten free hours of AOL time are up[.] — Andy Ihnatko, Cyberspeak, p. 23, 1997

3 in the television and movie industries, a noise-reducing pad placed over a camera US, 1977

- — Tony Miller and Patricia George, Cut! Print!, p. 40, 1977

Barney's brig *noun*the essence of disorder US, 1975

The full expression includes “both main tacks over the foreyard,” showing the nautical origins if not explaining who Barney was.

- — John Gould, Maine Lingo, p. 6, 1975

barn money *noun*in horse racing, money bet by purportedly informed track insiders US, 1994

- — Igor Kushyshyn et al., The Gambling Times Guide to Harness Racing, p. 211, 1994

barnstorm *verb*to travel from town to town, performing, competing or campaigning US, 1888

- Murph had joined a circus band after his release and was barnstorming around the country some place. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 20, 1946
- After observing “Archie” I decided my troubles were small so I joined up with them barnstorming for a month. — Babs Gonzales, I Paid My Dues, p. 64, 1967 barnyard expression; barnyard language noun

profanity US, 1968

- What's amazing is that viewers are making it one of the highest rated shows on TV this season, so people obviously don't find the barnyard language the debutantes use distasteful. — Daily News Leader (Staunton, Virginia), p. 11A, 18th December 2003
- Although Hatch draws chuckles in Washington for uttering Utah-approved epithets like "Bullcorn!" his book gives readers uncensored expletives by the second page and sprinkles what the Denver Post called "barnyard expressions" throughout the narrative. — Salt Lake Tribune, p. A1, 16th February 2003 barnyard golf noun

the game of horseshoe pitching US, 1925

- Eighty-one contestants, who don't like to be called "barnyard golfers," gathered under the poplar trees at the county fairgrounds in Murray for the National Horseshoe Pitchers Association of America's Ninth World's Championship tourney. — Time, p. 15, 21st August 1950
- Barnyard Golf This Week End [Headline]. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 1H, 30th August 1957

barnyard hen noun

a prostitute not favored by her pimp US, 1957

- [T]hey are their "head chicks" instead of just one or another of their "barnyard hens." — John M. Murtagh and Sara Harris, Cast the First Stone, p. 10, 1957

bar of soap noun

in dominoes, the double blank US, 1959

- — Dominic Armanino, Dominoes, p. 15, 1959

barracuda noun

an aggressive, unprincipled person US, 1957

- "My God," he whispered, "get a load of the barracuda with Tompkins." — Jimmy Snyder, Jimmy the Greek, p. 211, 1975
- Multicultural Management Program Fellows, Dictionary of Cautionary Words and Phrases, 1989

barrel noun

1 a drum containing 50,000 central nervous system depressants for illegal sale US, 1978

- In this form they were called barrels, or kegs, and sold for $1,200 at the time. — Joan W. Moore, Homeboys, p. 79, 1978

2 a tablet of LSD US, 1971

Usually in the plural.

- — Richard A. Spears, The Slang and Jargon of Drugs and Drink, p. 28, 1986
- Acid pills roughly the shape and size of aspirin tablets are called "barrels" because of their cylindrical shape. — Cam Cloud, The Little Book of Acid, p. 37, 1999

3 a perfect wave breaking US, 1991

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfinary, p. 7, 1991

4 in pool, a betting unit US, 1990

- If you have $1000 and you're playing for $100 a game, you're packing ten barrels. — Steve Rushin, Pool Cool, p. 6, 1990

barrel-ass; barrel verb

to move rapidly, generally oblivious to any obstacles US, 1930

- Barrel-assing toward Buddhahood. — Tom Robbins, Another Roadside Attraction, p. 245, 1971
- "Dagos, eh, drivin' a big Cadillac from the big city—where yo all barrel-assing to?" — Edwin Torres, Carito's Way, p. 33, 1975
- He was more at home on the Howard, the A or B trains that ignored risk, gathered speed, six cars, and barreled ass straight north or straight south. — William Brashler, City Dags, p. 65, 1976
- I barreled through the living room, back to the kitchen[.] — Janet Evanovich, Seven Up, p. 82, 2001

barreled out adjective

in pool, depleted of money to bet US, 1990

- — Steve Rushin, Pool Cool, p. 6, 1990

barrelhouse noun

some combination of brothel, bar, and rooming house US, 1883

- I've played the music in a lot of places these last thirty years, from Al Capone's roadhouses to swing joints along 52nd Street in New York, Paris nightclubs, Harvard University, dicty Washington embassies and Park Avenue salons, not to mention all the barrel house dives. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 4, 1946

barse-ackwards adjective

end-first US, 1975

- — John Gould, Maine Lingo, p. 7, 1975

bart noun

a criminally inclined youth, especially a youth gang member US, 1963

- — San Francisco Examiner, p. 8, 27th October 1963: "What a 'Z'! The astonishing private language of Bay Area teenagers"

base noun

freebase cocaine; basic cocaine from which the hydrochloride has been removed US, 1982

- After some of the fellas would step away from the blackjack table, and the bar, and get ready to buy a fiddy or a hundred dollars' worth of sniff, I would set them up with a hit of base in the back room. — New Jack City, 1990
- "They look around, find ten keys of base in the garage, actually in a Mercedes that happens to have my prints on the steering wheel and partials on the door handle." — Elmore Leonard, Out of Sight, p. 63, 1996

▶ on base

engaged in some degree of sexual activity US, 1972

- I admired her for that—it made me feel pretty sure that not too many other people had been on base. — Robert Byrne, McGoorty, p. 82, 1972

base verb

1 to smoke freebase cocaine US, 1987

- — Ellen C. Bellone (Editor), Dictionary of Slang, p. 2, 1989
- "At about five a.m. they wanted to base and shit and I knew Max didn't base either." — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 33, 1989
- — Terry Williams, Crackhouse, p. 146, 1992
- I tried basing a few times but thought it a waste. — Cleo Odzer, Goo Freaks, p. 261, 1995

2 to argue US, 1990

- For home boys and zimmers; This dictionary is def! — Frederick (Maryland) Post, p. B2, 24th May 1990

3 to verbally attack someone using sarcasm to convey an accurate if cruel appraisal of them US, 1993

An abbreviation of "debase."

- It reminded him of the way he and Keller and Cedric Pratt would base on each other back at the polliwog pool. — Bob Sipchen, Baby Insane and the Buddha, p. 349, 1993
- — Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 14, 1997

baseball noun

1 homosexual activity US, 1989

Back formation from the use of PITCH and CATCH as terms meaning "to have the active and passive roles in homosexual sex."

- — James Harris, A Convict's Dictionary, p. 28, 1989

2 in horse racing, a bet on one horse in one race and all horses in another US, 1976

- — Tom Ainslie, Ainslie's Complete Guide to Thoroughbred Racing, p. 328, 1976

Baseball Annie noun

a woman who makes herself available sexually to professional baseball players US, 1949

- It is permissible, in the scheme of things, to promise a Baseball Annie dinner and a show in return for certain quick services for a pair of roommates. — Jim Bouton, Ball Four, p. 204, 1970
- I don't like the word "groupie" or "Baseball Annie" applied to me. — Herb Michelson, Sportin' Ladies, p. 92, 1975
- — Richard Scholl, Running Press Glossary of Baseball Language, p. 13, 1977
- Roberts' agent, Seth Levinson, was at the ballpark and came out swinging against the woman, described as a "Baseball Annie" living near the Mets' minor-league affiliate in Binghamton. — New York Post, p. 51, 21st September 2002

baseball bum noun

in craps, the number nine US, 1949

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 14, 1987

baseball whiskers noun

a sparsely bearded face US, 1952

- "He said I had baseball whiskers," I said, blushing. "Nine on each side." It was a stale joke. — Chester Himes, Cast the First Stone, p. 37, 1952 base camp commando; base camp desk jockey noun somebody with bellicose opinions about the way the war should be conducted but no intention of leaving their post away from combat to do it US, 1986

Vietnam war usage.

- I was never really fond of sports, but the life of a Base Camp Commando looked pretty good. — Paul Clayton, Cal Melcer Goes to Vietnam, p. 11, 2004

base crazies noun

obsessive searching behavior experienced by crack cocaine users US, 1989

- [A] kind of hallucination that leads an individual to search for the smallest particle of cocaine or crack in mistaken belief that they have lost some of the residue. — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 135, 1989

base dealer noun

a card cheat who deals from the bottom of a deck US, 1993

- — Frank Scobleto, Guerrilla Gambling, p. 296, 1993

base gallery noun

a room or building where freebase cocaine users pay to enter and then buy and smoke freebase cocaine US, 1992

An extension of "shooting gallery."

- — Terry Williams, Crackhouse, p. 146, 1992

base head noun

a regular smoker of freebase cocaine US, 1986

- — Ellen C. Bellone (Editor), Dictionary of Slang, p. 2, 1989
- After a month or two, the place was full of just baseheads who would stay there all day or night, day after day, spending their money. — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 108, 1989
- First you wanna be a stick-up kid, but you got shot. Now youse a basehead. You all fucked up, Pookie. — New Jack City, 1990
- He was a little part-time basehead though. — Menace II Society, 1993
- There is a lot of drug dealing and baseheads around here. — S. Beth Atkin, Voices from the Street, p. 86, 1996

base house noun

a house or apartment where freebase cocaine is sold US, 1992

A term and concept that all but vanished with the advent of crack cocaine in the mid-1980s.

- — Terry Williams, Crackhouse, p. 146, 1992

basement *noun▶ in the basement

in stud poker, dealt facing down US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 7, 1988

baser noun

- a user of freebase cocaine US, 1989
- Most of this thing about rock is really just because basers want more for their money, and regular sniffers do, too. — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 41, 1989

base rock noun

- solid freebase cocaine US, 1998
- Stoney was the biggest dealer on the corner, it was nothing for him to pay off some fool with base rocks to commit felonious crimes against rival dealers or people who failed to pay off their tabs. — Renay Jackson, Oaktown Devil, p. 29, 1998

bases loaded noun

- in craps, bets placed on every possible combination US, 1974
- There's no bigger thrill than when he's got the bases loaded and they hit the numbers[.] — Edward Lin, Big Julie of Vegas, p. 112, 1974

bash noun

- a party UK, 1901
- Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 77, 1968
- Last night in town, you guys gonna have a little bash before you leave? — American Graffiti, 1973

bash verb

- while surfing, to slam into a wave US, 1991
 - Trevor Cralle, The Surfin'ary, p. 7, 1991
- to eat with great fervor US, 1945
 - Lou Shelly, Hepcats Live Talk Dictionary, p. 7, 1945

► bash ears

- to talk on the telephone US, 1951
- Teen slang.
- Newsweek, p. 28, 8 October 1951

► bash wheels

- in the usage of youthful model road racers (slot car racers), to race US, 1997
- Phantom Surfers, The Exciting Sounds of Model Road Racing (Album cover), 1997

bashers noun

- a fast, reckless skier US, 1963
 - American Speech, p. 205, October 1963: "The language of skiers"
- in the television and movie industries, a simple 500 watt flood light US, 1960
 - Oswald Skilbeck, ABC of Film and TV Working Terms, p. 16, 1960

basie; basey noun

- a person living on a military base US, 1993
- Like the adults, they developed their own social hierarchy, carving up the town into a variety of cliques: greasers, soshes, basies, and those who feel somewhere inbetween. — Kim Rich, Johnny's Girl, p. 154, 1993

basing gallery noun

- a room, apartment, or house where cocaine is smoked in freebase form US, 1995
- Steven Daly and Nathaniel Wice, alt.culture, p. 50, 1995

basket noun

- the male genitals as seen through tight pants US, 1941
 - A young fellow in a very tight-fitting pair of faded blue jeans walks in. Eyes follow him. "Oh my God! What a basket!" a young man shrills in feminine-like voice. — Willard Motely, Let No Man Write My Epitaph, p. 246, 1958
 - What a low-cut gown to a faggot must be is like tight Levis with a padded basket. — Lemmy Bruce, The Essential Lemmy Bruce, p. 161, 1967
 - Sure, you lock eyes while you're pounding the pavement, looking for a lay or love or both, but let's face it, the focal point is the crotch. In gay parlance, the basket. — John Francis Hunter, The Gay Insider, p. 119, 1971
 - The local men have short hair and wear wild-looking Hawaiian-style sports shirts with wide baggy pants which totally disguise their baskets. — Gore Vidal, Myron, p. 252, 1974
- a woman's labia US, 1949
 - Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 17, 1949
- in roulette, a bet on zero, double zero and two US, 1983
 - Sometimes expanded to "basket bet."
 - Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 14, 1987

► the baskets

- basketball US, 1985
- "Very few bookmakers get into the baskets seriously." — Nicholas Pileggi, Wise Guy, p. 195, 1985

basket case noun

- a person who is emotionally debilitated US, 1952
- After forcing himself (and his "eccentricity") upon a six-year-old basket case (a victim of pregnancy tranquilizers) he is found out[.] — Terry Southern, Now Dig This, p. 195, 1961
- [T]he whole thing was making a young girl who wasn't too bright to being with into some kind of a daffy basket case. — George V. Higgins, The Rat on Fire, p. 149, 1981
- But what we found out is that each one of us is a brain and an athlete and a basket case, a princess and a criminal. — The Breakfast Club, 1985
- You're a basket case. — Sleepless in Seattle, 1993

basket days noun

- days of good weather US, 1965
- Basket days—A period of mild weather that permits men to wear garments light enough to reveal the contours of their baskets. — Fact, p. 25, January–February 1965

baskets noun

- the female breasts US, 1968
- Fred Hester, Slang on the 40 Acres, p. 3, 1968

basket shopping noun

- the practice of observing the crotch of a clothed male to gauge the size of his penis US, 1964
- Also known as "basket watching."
- Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 13, 1964
- Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 26, 1967

Basra belly noun

- diarrhea experienced by travelers in the Middle East US, 1976
- In the Middle East, you'll hear such euphemisms as Gippy tummy, Aden gut, and Basra belly. — Jane Brody, The New York Times Guide to Personal Health, p. 581, 1982

bass noun

- one fifth of a gallon of alcohol US, 1975
- American Speech, p. 56, Spring–Summer 1975: "Razorback slang"

bass; bass on verb

- to criticize loudly US
- So don't start bassin' / I'll start packin'. — Public Enemy, "Public Enemy No. 1," 1987

basackwards adjective

- in the wrong order US, 1865
- An intentionally jumbled ASS BACKWARDS. US quotation expert Fred Shapiro recently found the term used by Abraham Lincoln in 1865, a substantial antedating.
- I was pibsted at him, putting the case in bass-ackwards because that way he can start with me[.] — George V. Higgins, The Judgment of Deke Hunter, p. 199, 1976
- My mother came downstairs the way things usually got done in my family, culo avanti—or in regular English, bass ackwards. — Rita Ciresi, Pink Slip, p. 4, 1999
- "It's kinda basackwards from the way people normally do it," he laughs. — New Times Broward-Palm Beach (Florida), 25th December 2003

bastard noun

- a despised or disrespected person; a derogatory insult or challenging form of address to someone considered objectionable UK, 1598
- Originally, "a person born out of wedlock."
- There are consequences to breaking the heart of a murdering bastard. You experienced some of them. — Kill Bill, 2003

bastardy noun

- statutory rape US, 1956
- "They give a guy twenty years for bastardy in this state." — Grace Metalious, Peyton Place, p. 292, 1956

basted adjective

- drunk US, 1928
- Joseph Weingarten, American Dictionary of Slang, p. 18, 1954
- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 1, Fall 1988

basuco; bazuko noun

- coca paste, the basic ingredient in the manufacturing process of cocaine; hence, cocaine US, 1984
- CALL IT... Basuco, gianluca, blow, percy, lady, toot, white[.] JUST DON'T CALL IT... Charlie—too Eighties. — Drugs: An Adult Guide, p. 34, December 2001

bat noun

- a foolish or eccentric person US, 1894
 - A bat can't go it. Bat? You mean a dingbat? [fool, incompetent]. yeah. — Bruce Jackson, In the Life, p. 162, 1972
 - The old bat on the door who rode shotgun on the money box—really a cigar box—never did act like she was going to give me the chance to take it. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 12, 1973
- an ugly woman US, 1972
 - David Claerbaut, Black Jargon in White America, p. 57, 1972
- a drinking binge US, 1846
 - One sip and I'll go on a nine-week bat. — John D. McDonald, The Neon Jungle, p. 21, 1953
- in horse racing, the whip used by the jockey US, 1951
 - David W. Argot of the Racetrack, p. 12, 1951

► at bat

- said of an appearance before a judge, magistrate, or parole board US, 1967
- You're first a bat, Henry. Take off your cap and come along. — Malcolm Braly, On the Yard, p. 17, 1967

bat verb

► bat the breeze

- to talk, chat, or gossip US, 1941
- Jenkins, you've been around the Hall long enough to know a murder isn't something we bat the breeze about. — Thurston Scott, Cure it with Honey, p. 23, 1951
- A klatsch of kids was battling the breeze about five or six cars away from his own[.] — Morton Cooper, High School Confidential, p. 32, 1958

bat away verb

- in a carnival, to operate swindles aggressively and without fear of arrest US, 1985
- A term borrowed from the game of baseball.
- The only time the order to bat away is given is when the police have been paid off. — Gene Sorrow, All About Carnivals, p. 9, 1985

batch noun

- an ejaculation's worth of semen US, 1973
- The sounds this bitch was making damn near had me ready to unload this batch right in her hand[.] — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 166, 1973

batch; bach verb

- to live as a bachelor US, 1862
- It came from the boys' cabin—they were batching together to save money. — Jim Thompson, The Kill-Off, p. 29, 1957
- For nearly six months I bached it, doing damned well what I pleased. — William Tulio Divale, I Lived Inside the Campus Revolution, p. 9, 1970

bat noun

- a heavy loss in a business or betting proposition US, 1936
 - Cars, p. 40, December 1953
 - John Scarne, Scarne's Guide to Modern Poker, p. 292, 1979
 - Kathleen Odean, High Steppers, Fallen Angels, and Lollipops, p. 94, 1988
- in television and movie making, any of the chemical mixtures used to develop film US, 1987
 - Ira Konigsberg, The Complete Film Dictionary, p. 26, 1987

bat house noun

- a mental hospital US, 1962
- Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World's Toughest Prison, p. 790, 1962

baths noun

- Turkish baths where the main attraction is sex between homosexual men US, 1968
- You'll never learn to stay out of the baths, will you. — Mart Crowley, The Boys in the Band, p. 59, 1968
- Baths can be found in any large city. — Screw, p. 2, 29th September 1969
- Essentially, the baths are where gay men go for sex. — The Village Voice, 27 September 1976
- You betcha. None o' that nasty heterosexual role-playing for us. Lots of buddy nights at the baths. — Armistead Maupin, Further Tales of the City, p. 33, 1982

bat salt noun

- any of a number of synthetic drugs related to the central nervous system stimulant cathinone US
- Six chemicals used to make "bat salts," a designer drug linked to scattered reports of violence in New Jersey and throughout the country, have been added to the state's list of banned substances. — www.nj.com, 28th April 2011
- Within days of the Anderson County Council vote to make synthetic cathinones, known in street slang as "bat salts" and cannabinoids illegal, both state and federal officials took action as well. — The Williamston (South Carolina) Journal, 26th October 2011

bathtub curve noun

- in computing, used as a description of a notional graph of the predicted failure rate of a piece of electronic equipment US, 1991
- Evoking a cross-section of a bathtub as the graph – briefly high, long low, high again at the end.
- Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 51, 1991

bathtub gin noun

- homemade alcohol, perhaps approximating gin US, 1930
- [H]e had been a cab driver in Chicago during the Roaring Twenties but had left town fast due to some trouble with the police over transporting bath tub gin in his cab. — Piri Thomas, Seven Long Times, p. 216, 1974

bathtub Nash noun

- a Nash Airflyte model car US
- "At one point in my life I drove an eighteen-year-old bathtub Nash," she said. — Joseph Wambaugh, Hollywood Hills, p. 57, 2010

bats adjective

- crazy; very eccentric; mad, to any degree UK, 1911
- From the phrase HAVE BATS IN THE BELFRY.
- You're bats. Somebody'll bust in. You can't leave it here. — Harry J. Anslinger, The Murderers, p. 72, 1961
- You think I'm nuts because I sew. It's to keep me from going bats. — Antony James, America's Homosexual Underground, p. 137, 1965
- I'm not bats, but I got to try this track. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 102, 1969

batshit adjective

- crazy, out of control, angry US, 1970
- [H]e just wanted to know whether the private standing in front of him was trying to punk out of that war, or was truly batshit. — Emmett Grogan, Ringolevio, p. 227, 1972
- "Some guys couldn't take it, they went batshit." — Robert Stone, Dog Soldiers, p. 237, 1974
- Nothing's working anymore, everything's changing and it's driving me fucking batshit. — James Ellroy, Brown's Requiem, p. 105, 1981
- These things are more likely to fuck up a shoot than trying to stick a needle [S-M piercing] through someone on camera who goes batshit. — Robert Stoller and I.S. Levine, Coming Attractions, p. 93, 1991 batting average noun

- a police officer's arrests-to-prosecution percentage US, 1958
- A policeman calls his arrest and summons record his batting average. — New York Times, p. 34, 20th October 1958

battle noun

- an unattractive woman US, 1948
- Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 235, 1948

battle verb

- to breakdance or rap competitively with the object of demonstrating the most individual style US, 1999

- So when you're practicing for that whole week, your goal is to hit the jam and battle. — Alex Ogg, The Hip Hop Years [quoting "Crazy Legs" Richie Colon], p. 32, 1999
- But how did battling come about? Well, DJs had always battled with their sound systems in New York. — J. Hoggarth, How To Be a DJ, p. 82, 2002
- See, I wasn't scared about battling someone on their own turf because I quickly realized that MC's thought they had an advantage on their block when they really didn't. — Earl "DMX" Simmons, E.A.R.L., p. 127, 2002

- to attack someone verbally US, 1998

- Ethan Hilderbrand, Prison Slang, p. 10, 1998

▶ battle the iron men

- in horse racing, to bet using pari-mutuel machines US, 1951
- David W. Maurer, Argent of the Racetrack, p. 12, 1951

battleaxe; battleax noun

- an old or elderly woman who is variously characterized as resentful, vociferous, thoroughly unpleasant, usually arrogant and no beauty US, 1896
- Hey, Estelle, ain't that that old battle ax that owns the place next door? — Helen P. Branson, Gay Bar, p. 57, 1957 battle happy adjective

- emotionally imbalanced due to combat stress US, 1949
- "What's wrong with that joe? Battle-happy?" asks Candler. "Looks like he's taken about all he can." — Audie Murphy, To Hell and Back, p. 269, 1949 battle of the bulge noun

- an effort to lose weight US, 1956
- They won their battle of the bulge, according to a male post commander and three foreign correspondents, also eminently male. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 17, 13th October 1956
- The inside story of Elvis Presley's battle of the bulge is that Presley tipped the scales at 253 pounds only a few weeks ago. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 43, 27th May 1975

battle scar noun

- a bruise on the skin caused by sucking US, 1982
- Hawaiian youth usage.
- Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max Hana Hou, 1982

battle whacky adjective

- emotionally distraught from combat stress US, 1949
- "You're dreaming things, Mike. You're battle whacky." — Audie Murphy, To Hell and Back, p. 39, 1949

batty adjective

- eccentric, odd, insane US, 1903
- "Look," Coyle said, "they're all batty." — George V. Higgins, The Friends of Eddie Doyle, p. 132, 1971
- She's been driving me batty lately. — Body Heat, 1980

batwings noun

- in the language of parachuting, surfaces applied to the arms and body to slow the rate of descent US, 1978
- Dan Poynter, Parachuting, p. 165, 1978

bay and a gray noun

- in poker, a bet involving a red chip (the bay) and a white chip (the gray) US, 1951
- American Speech, p. 97, May 1951: "The vocabulary of poker"
- Albert H. Morehead, The Complete Guide to Winning Poker, p. 256, 1967

bayonet noun

- a hypodermic needle US, 1986
- Sacramento Municipal Utility District, A Glossary of Drugs and Drug Language, 1986

▶ take the bayonet course

- to participate in bismuth subcarbonate and nearsphenamine therapy for syphilis US, 1987
- Maledicta, p. 227, Summer/Winter 1981: "Sex and the single soldier" bayonet drill noun

- sexual intercourse US, 1964
- Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 14, 1964

Bay State noun

- any standard medical syringe US, 1973
- Drug addict usage.
- David Maurer and Victor Vogel, Narcotics and Narcotic Addiction, p. 387, 1973

bazillion noun

- a mythical very large number US, 2001
- Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 35, 2001

bazooka noun

- crack cocaine US, 2003
 - "Welfare pukes hustling bazooka and blacks and South American spics and bikers muleing brown skag out of Florida." — James Lee Burke, Last Car to Elysian Fields, p. 31, 2003
- in television and movie making, a light support used on a catwalk US, 1990
 - Ralph S. Singleton, Filmmaker's Dictionary, p. 16, 1990

bazookas noun

the female breasts UK, 1963

Perhaps from the shape of the shell fired by a bazooka anti-tank weapon, probably influenced by conventional “bosom”.

- Thonged buttoage backed up by booming bazookas when Bobbie boogies on the stage at a club. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin's Skincyclopedia, p. 85, 2005

bazooms noun

the female breasts US, 1936

Originally a corruption of “bosom” with the same sense, then evolved to mean “breasts.”

- How many out-of-town buyers' hands had paraded over those bazooms? How much in fees had each of these bazooms raked in per annum? — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 73, 1954
- “They're solid gold, these boozooms of mine,” she said. — Gypsy Rose Lee, Gypsy, p. 185, 1957
- Their secondary sex characteristics are simply too conspicuous to pass without insult, and we were unmerciful towards them: tits, boobs, knockers, jugs, bubbies, bazooms, lungs, flaps and hooters we called them, and there was no way to be polite about it. — Screw, p. 6, 3rd January 1972
- Yeah, but how'dja like them bazooms on that P.R. chick? — Richard Price, The Wanderers, p. 27, 1974
- “Nice bazooms. She was a good kid to talk to.” — George Higgins, Cogan's Trade, p. 71, 1974

bazuca noun

the residue of smoked freebase cocaine, itself mixed with tobacco and smoked US, 1984

- [O]thers prefer a bazuca, in which the drug is sprinkled on cigarettes or joints and smoked. — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 110, 1989

BB noun

any smart person, especially a professor US, 1947

- An abbreviation of “big brains.”
- — Marcus Hanna Boulware, Live and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947

BBA noun

a woman with large buttocks US, 1968

- An abbreviation of “broads with big asses.”
- — Fred Hester, Slang on the 40 Acres, p. 3, 1968

BBFN

used as shorthand in Internet discussion groups and text messages to mean “bye-bye for now” US, 2002

- — Gabrielle Mander, WAN2TLK? It! bk of txt msgs, p. 43, 2002

BBL

used in computer message shorthand to mean “be back later” US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 342, 1991

B board noun

an electronic newsgroup US, 1991

- A contraction of “bulletin board.”
- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 52, 1991

B bomb noun

an amphetamine inhaler US, 1969

Withdrawn from the market by Smith Kline & French in 1949 after widespread abuse. A wad of Benzedrine™-soaked cotton found in an asthma inhaler would be removed, immersed in a drink until drug and drink form a single intoxicating solution, reputedly 100 times stronger than a single Benzedrine™ tablet.

- — Richard Lingeman, Drugs from A to Z, p. 21, 1969
- — William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Upright People, p. 2, December 1970
- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 30, 1971

B-boy noun

1 a breakdancer; later, anyone involved in hip-hop culture US, 1981

- The heroes of these legends are the B Boys, the Puerto Rican and black teenagers who invent and endlessly elaborate this exquisite, heady blend of dancing, acrobatics, and martial spectacle. — Village Voice, p. 31, 22nd–28th April 1981
- The “breakers,” or “B boys,” for rival crews at the playgrounds, discos and skating rinks where they gather. — New York Times, p. C1, 14th August 1981
- B-boys were inner city kids who were trying to get theirs. — William Upski Wimsatt, Bomb the Suburbs, p. 18, 1994
- The B-Boy, a phrase originally applied to break dancers, was, by the time I used it [1992], a catchall phrase among hip hop fans for anyone deeply involved with or influenced by hip hop culture. — Nelson George, Buppies, B-Boys, Baps & Bohos, p. xv, 2001

2 a streetwise young black man US, 1995

- By extension from the previous sense.
- Most athletes are all B-boys and homeboys from the block. — Lois Stavskey et al., A2Z: The Book of Rap and Hip-Hop Slang [quoting Run-DMC, 1992], p. 4, 1995

BBW noun

1 a fat woman US, 1988

An abbreviation of “big, beautiful woman”; a fetish with a large male following.

- “Ninety-five percent of the men are average-sized but attracted to BBW” (Big Beautiful Women). — Newsday (New York), p. 2 (Part II), 13th February 1988

2 a big, beautiful woman US

- A fetish and pornography genre.
- I'd had a lifelong love affair with fullfigured ladies. Delta Burke, Roseanne, Rosie, Oprah—these were my people! If anyone could see my retail potential and take a risk on me, it was gonna be a BBW. — Ross Mathews, Man Up!: Tales of My Delusional Self-Confidence, 2013

BC noun

contraception; birth control US, 1985

- — American Speech, p. 19, Spring 1985: “The language of singles bars”

B cat noun

an ostentatiously homosexual male prisoner US, 1989

- From the official categorization by California prison authorities.
- — James Harris, A Convict's Dictionary, p. 28, 1989

BCD noun

military eyeglasses US, 1991

Because they are so unattractive, they are deemed “birth control devices.” Also variant BCG (birth control goggles).

- — E.M. Flanagan Jr., Army, November 1991
- — American Speech, p. 383, Winter 1991: “Among the new words”

BC Lounge noun

a Burger Chef fast food franchise restaurant US, 1979

- — Detroit Free Press, 4th November 1979

BCNU

used in computer message shorthand to mean “be seeing you” US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 342, 1991

BD noun

a syringe US, 1982

An allusion to Becton-Dickinson, a medical supplies manufacturer.

- — Ralph de Sola, Crime Dictionary, p. 14, 1982

BDF noun

a big, strong, dumb brute US, 1997

New York police slang; an abbreviation of “big dumb fuck.”

- — Samuel M. Katz, Anytime Anywhere, p. 386, 1997

B dog noun

used as a term of address between members of the Bloods gang US, 1998

- — Ethan Hilderbrant, Prison Slang, p. 11, 1998

BDSM; BD/SM noun

bondage, domination, sadism and masochism or sado-masochism, unified as a sexual subculture US, 1969

- B&D = dominant (sadist) — Stephen Lewis, The Whole Bedroom Catalog, p. 144, 1975

beach noun

▶ the beach

Saudi Arabia US, 1991

Gulf war usage.

- “Desert cherries” in “Kevlars” fly the “Sand Box Express” to the “beach” and soon are complaining about “Meals Rejected by Ethiopians” if they can't find a “roach coach” run by “Bedouin Bob.” — Houston Chronicle, p. 15, 24th January 1991

Beach noun

▶ the Beach

Miami Beach, Florida US, 1993

- “You from somewhere on the East coast. New York?” “Miami. The Beach most of my life.” — Elmore Leonard, Pronto, p. 120, 1993

beach bomber noun

a bicycle modified for riding on the sand US, 1991

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin'ary, p. 7, 1991

beach boy noun

a young male who spends a great deal of time at the beach US, 1965

- — John M. Kelly, Surf and Sea, p. 279, 1965

beach bum noun

someone whose devotion to spending a lifetime at the beach has left them destitute and an outcast US, 1965

- — John M. Kelly, Surf and Sea, p. 279, 1965

beach bunny noun

a young female who spends a great deal of time at the beach, surfing or associating with surfers US, 1963

- — Paradise of the Pacific, p. 27, October 1963
- — John M. Kelly, Surf and Sea, p. 279, 1965
- What to other people is a “pad” is called a “hutch” in surfing circles—most properly if it is the beach bunny's own apartment[.] — Roger Gordon, Hollywood's Sexual Underground, p. 144, 1966

beach chick noun

a young woman living a Bohemian lifestyle near the beach in the 1950s US, 1958

Peter Tamony described the term as follows: “Originally applied to girls who lived at Stinson Beach [north of San Francisco] who were bisexual. By those unfamiliar with its background, and both ways implication, it has been extended to any girl who associated with the so-called Beat Generation inhabitants of North Beach in San Francisco.”

- It's [being Beat] shacking up for weeks at a time with a Beach chick, or picking up homosexuals in gay bars. — San Francisco Chronicle, This World, p. 4, 15th June 1958
- Nude “Beach Chick” Strangled Here [Headline]. — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 10, 18th June 1958

beached whale noun

an obese hospital patient US, 1994

- — Sally Williams, “Strong” Words, p. 134, 1994

beach head noun

- a person who spends a great deal of time at the beach US, 1991
- Trevor Cralle, The Surfin'ary, p. 9, 1991

beach rat noun

- a person who spends a great deal of time at the beach US, 1990
- “I’ll certainly point out that a pensioned fifteen-year veteran of the Newport Beach Police Department is not just some ordinary unemployed beach rat,” Chip added. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Golden Orange, p. 10, 1990

bead juggler noun

- a Roman Catholic US, 1966
- After rosary beads.

- He has also requested that Losing Preacher Mulcahy come prepared to administer the last rites of the bead-juggler Church. — Richard Hooker, MASH, p. 49, 1968

beagle *noun1 a sausage US, 1927

- Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World’s Toughest Prison, p. 790, 1962

2 a racehorse US, 1923

- David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 12, 1951

beak *noun1 the nose UK, 1715

- We called this kid O’Brien because his beak was so big and hooked it kept the sun out of his face and got caught on clothes lines. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 7, 1946
- You’ve been snorting coke. You been snuffing that crap up your beak again after you promised—after you swore on your mother’s grave! — Robert Campbell, Juice, p. 130, 1988

2 in horse racing, a bet that a horse will win US, 1951

Extended from the sense as a “nose,” suggesting that the horse will win by “a nose.”

- Give me two tickets right on the beak. — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 12, 1951

▶ on the beam

good; to the point; balanced US, 1941

- Lou Shelly, Hepcats Live Talk Dictionary, p. 31, 1945
- And you can get Ann for Benny? That’s on the beam. — Irving Shulman, The Amboy Dukes, p. 87, 1947
- I lost the argument—the part of me that was on-the-beam lost it—and I went back. — Jim Thompson, After Dark, My Sweet, p. 3, 1955
- The signal beam, high over the tracks, could be seen for miles from the engine cab. Three colored lights kept the engineer informed of track conditions ahead. Being on the beam really meant being well-informed. — J. Herbert Lund, Herb’s Hot Box of Railroad Slang, p. 20, 1975

beam verb

in computing, to transfer a file electronically US, 1991

From the terminology of the original Star Trek television series.

- Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 53, 1991

▶ beam up to Scotty; beam up; beam to smoke crack cocaine and become cocaine-intoxicated US, 1986

From the pop phrase “Beam me up, Scotty,” used repeatedly on the first generation of Star Trek television programmes from 1966 to 1969.

- On the street, they say when you’re smoking crack, that you’re beamin’ up to Scotty, you’re goin’ to another world. — New Jack City, 1990
- “To buy crack and beam up,” Kathy said. — Elmore Leonard, Maximum Bob, p. 232, 1991
- Terry Williams, Crackhouse, p. 146, 1992

beamer noun

a crack cocaine user US, 1992

From BEAM UP (TO SCOTTY) (to smoke crack cocaine).

- Terry Williams, Crackhouse, p. 146, 1992

beamers; beemers noun

crack cocaine US, 1988

After BEAMER (a crack cocaine user).

- They say “Beam Me Up, Scotty.” They say, “I Need a Beam-Me-Up Scotty. You got some? You got some?” And the rock star say, “Looky here. Lookyhere. I got a dollar beamer. Dollar Beamer. Three dollar Beamer.” — St. Petersburg (Florida) Times, p. 1F, 28th February 1988

beamy adjective

wide US, 1961

Originally “broad in the beam,” then shortened and applied to a ship’s width, and then by extension to other objects and to people, especially those wide in the seat.

- You couldn’t possibly be a tadpole—your tail’s too beamy. — Willie Fennell, Dexter Gets The Point, p. 86, 1961
- John Gould, Maine Lingo, p. 9, 1975

bean *noun1 anything at all; very little US, 1833

- And another thing—the race made me feel inferior, started me thinking that maybe I wasn’t worth beans as a musician or any kind of artist, in spite of all my big ideas. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 239, 1946
- He’s makin’ beans compared to what he should be makin’. — Raging Bull, 1980

2 a dollar US, 1902

- And I want four hundred beans for the Dinch and I want it soon. — George Mandel, Flee the Angry Strangers, p. 269, 1952
- In three weeks after they showed I got my vines out of hock and was doing about fifteen beans a day. — Babs Gonzales, Movin’ On Down De Line, p. 6, 1975
- Pals of mine at the Ventura courthouse said he logged twenty-one hundred sixty-six beans of the ransom money into the evidence locker. — James Ellroy, Hollywood Nocturnes, p. 187, 1994

3 in US casinos, a $1 betting chip US, 1967

- Albert H. Morehead, The Complete Guide to Winning Poker, p. 256, 1967
- Steve Kuriscak, Casino Talk, p. 3, 1985

4 a capsule or tablet of Benzedrine™ (amphetamine sulfate), a central nervous system stimulant US, 1967

- After a particularly lackluster effort, I asked a friend of the Cal team what happened. “Oh, it was simple. We just ran out of beans (amphetamines).” — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 57, 23rd September 1971
- I ran down the pill man and bought out his supply of beans. — Donald Goines, Whoreson, p. 200, 1972
- “One of my first nights at Obie’s, Delise asked me if I had any beans[.]” — Anne Steinhart, Thunder La Boom, p. 126, 1974
- One game owner I knew goes through a daily ritual of passing out a BEAN to each of his agents before they start work[.] — Gene Sorrows, All About Carnivals, p. 10, 1985

5 a capsule of MDMA, the recreational drug best known as ecstasy US, 2000

- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 1, Spring 2000
- Don R. McCreary (Editor), Dawg Speak, 2001

6 the head US, 1905

- [T]heir well-educated little beans[.] — Lester Bangs, Psychotic Reactions and Carburetor Dung, p. 42, 1970

7 the hymen US, 1950

- Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 24, 1950

8 the penis US, 1967

- Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 27, 1967

bean-choker noun

a Mexican or Mexican-American US, 1980

- Edith A. Folb, runnin’ down some lines, p. 229, 1980

bean chute; bean slot noun

the opening in a solid prison cell door through which food is passed to the prisoner within US, 1998

- Ethan Hilderbrant, Prison Slang, p. 11, 1998

beaned up adjective

under the influence of Benzedrine™ (amphetamine sulfate), a central nervous system stimulant US, 1971

- Montie Tak, Truck Talk, p. 8, 1971

beaner noun

a Mexican or Mexican-American US, 1965

Derogatory, from the association of beans with the Mexican diet.

- I mean, here you go around apologizing to everybody cause you got a name like a beaner, and cause you’re dark enough to pass for one. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Delta Star, p. 25, 1983
- When he made the canteen cart, the beaners ripped off his zuuzuus and whamwhams. — Seth Morgan, Honeyboy, p. 152, 1990
- “Joey, accidents happen,” Tommy pleaded. “People get hit by falling safes . . . a car fulla beaners runs a light and whammo, you got avocado salad.” — Stephen Cannell, King Con, p. 94, 1997

beanery noun

a low-cost, low-quality restaurant US, 1887

- Worked as a waitress in a beanery to keep body and soul together. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 88, 1946
- When he got his discharge papers he made tracks for Laguna Beach, where he landed a job as a carhop in a drive-in beanery. — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 159, 1954

beanie light noun

a flashing, rotating light on an emergency vehicle US, 1969

- American Speech, p. 202, Fall 1969: “Truck driver’s jargon”

beanie weenie noun

the C-ration meal of frankfurters and beans US, 1990

- But I like beanie-weenies and Vienna-sausages cans too. — John Halliday, Flying Through Midnight, p. 192, 2007
- The one that’s even half-way palatable are those “beanie weenies.” — Ken Bumpus, Those Crazy Camera Guys: Navy Combat Photographers in Vietnam, p. 33, 2011

beanies and weenies noun

c-rations of hot dogs with beans US, 1982

Vietnam war usage.

- By the time we finished Kobi Tan Tan, after thirty days of eating C rations, the only C rations I could even look at was beanies and weenies. — Al Santoli, Everything We Had, p. 27, 1982

beanmobile noun

a car embellished with bright colors, chrome and other accessories associated with Mexican-American car enthusiasts US, 1981

- I ditched the bean-mobile at the Ford lot and dropped the keys and repo order with the sales manager. — James Ellroy, Brown’s Requiem, p. 16, 1981

bean patch nickname

during the Korean war, an assembly area on the northern outskirts of Masan, a seaport about 40 miles west of Pusan US, 1982

- The 1st Marine Brigade moved its headquarters to a new bivouac area near Masan that came to be known in marine lingo as the Bean Patch. The area in calmer times had been exactly that. — Joseph C. Goulden, Korea, p. 182, 1982

beanpole noun

a tall, thin person US, 1837

- Which is more beautiful, this expert asks—a bean pole or a woman? — San Francisco Chronicle, This Week, p. 12, 4th January 1953

- Pat Marichal—dark-skinned Paraguayan beanpole with a stark resemblance to the murgue pic of Chief Joe Running Car. — James Ellroy, Hollywood Nocturnes, p. 100, 1994

bean queen noun

a homosexual who prefers Latin Americans as sexual partners but is not Latin American himself US, 1988

- — H. Max, Gay (S)language, p. 4, 1988

bean rag noun

a red flag raised on a ship during mealtime US, 1955

- [T]he meal pennant is called the bean rag. — United States Naval Institute, Proceedings of the United States Naval Institute, p. 1020, 1955

beans and baby dicks noun

in the Vietnam war, beans and hot dogs US, 1983

- “The crazy fucker just finishing eat six cans of beans and dicks before we got hit.” — Lynda Van Devanter, Home Before Morning, p. 11, 1983

beans and bullets noun

water, food, supplies, weapons, and ammunition US

- As far as beans and bullets went, we were adequately supplied at all times. If nothing else we had C-rations. — Christa Umphrey, Vietnam: A Community and Country Divided, 2003
- Overworked days to deliver beans and bullets to the soldiers on the front line. — Garrett Brown, “Charlie” Brown’s Vietnam Journal: A Tactical Audit, 2006
- The LT made him throw out the air mattress, poncho liner, and a bunch of other stuff he had originally packed, just the essentials—beans and bullets. — Robin Moore, The Wars of the Green Berets: Amazing Stories from Vietnam, 2007
- The other practical point involved that of beans and bullets. — Bruce Clarke, Expendable Warriors: The Battle of Khe Sanh and the Vietnam War, 2007

beans and motherfuckers noun

in the Vietnam war, lima beans and ham, one of the least popular c-rations US, 1981

- “I’m not going to say he had some cold beans and motherfuckers for breakfast, took some shots from the other guys about being a cherry and then went out and got blown into fifty million pieces—which is what happened.” — Mark Barker, Nam, p. xi, 1981

Beantown; Bean Town nickname

Boston, Massachusetts US, 1901

- Because Boston is known for its baked beans.
- Beantown’s No. 1 bachelor, youthful, handsome Nathaniel Salton-stall, has all of Boston society buzzing over the attention he’s showering on Bobo Rockefeller. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 14, 24 November 1954
- — Montie Tak, Truck Talk, p. 9, 1971
- You think this is Bean Town? You think this is New York? You make a mess in Chicago, you clean it up with your tongue. — Robert Campbell, Junkyard Dog, p. 49, 1986
- Beantowns premier black-owned 24 hour hip-hop station, WBOT[.] — The Source, p. 243, March 2002

bean up verb

to take amphetamines US, 1976

- — Verbatim, p. 280, May 1976

bean wagon noun

a no-frills lunch counter US, 1960

- We did it all in Stamford and White Plains—in the streets, the park, a bean wagon, a saloon[.] — Richard Schickel, Ella Kazan, p. 143, 2005

bear noun

1 the co-pilot or navigator in an F-4 or F-105 military aircraft US, 1990

- He’s a man who flies, but don’t fly / Bear of the sky. — Joseph Tuso, Singing the Vietnam Blues, p. 52, 1990: Bear of the Sky

2 a hairy and stocky man, of a type beloved by some homosexuals US, 1994

- — Kevin Dilallo, The Unofficial Gay Manual, p. 237, 1994
- In some cities, particularly San Francisco, “bears” are very popular. — John Preston, Hustling, p. 48, 1994

3 an unattractive woman US, 1982

- — Arnold Shaw, Dictionary of American Pop/Rock, p. 30, 1982

4 a cautious and conservative poker player US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 8, 1988

5 a difficult task or situation US, 1966

- — Andy Anonymous, A Basic Guide to Campusology, p. 2, 1966

6 a weapons officer seated behind the pilot US

- “You need an electronics/weapon officer on board.” “A bear,” Steve mused. “Huh?” “That’s what the pilots call their backseaters in Vietnam, bears, as in trained bears.” — T.E. Cruise, Wings of Gold III, p. 284, 1989

beard noun

1 a woman’s pubic hair US, 2005

- [S]he strips down to bumpers and beard, then climbs aboard his Oscar Meyer-mobile. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin’s Skincyclopedia, p. 188, 2005

2 in gambling, a person who bets for someone else, especially for a cheat US, 1962

- — Frank Garcia, Marked Cards and Loaded Dice, p. 250, 1962
- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 15, 1987
- — Frank Scobletole, Guerrilla Gambling, p. 296, 1993

3 a person used to mask the identity of the actual controlling agent; a person who escorts another to a social function in order to mask the identity of one or the other’s lover or sexual orientation US, 1956

- In underworld terminology, Manny Skar was a beard (front). — Ovid Demaris, Captive City, p. 76, 1969

- “It’s supposed to look like the girls are for the clients’ entertainment, not his.” “Who believes that?” “Not many. He also has a respectable friend he uses as a beard.” — Robert Campbell, Junkyard Dog, p. 147, 1986
- Maya, did you hear the latest medical report on Clinton’s laryngitis? They say it’s just an excuse to let Hillary make all the speeches, since all he is, is her beard anyway. — Joseph Wambaugh, Finnegan’s Week, p. 110, 1993

4 a broker who buys up stock quietly and secretly for bidders in a corporate takeover who hope to disguise their intentions US, 1988

- As one colleague explained about Ivan Boesky, the most closely watched of the arbitrageurs, “He likes a beard when he trades.” — Kathleen Odean, High Steppers, Fallen Angels, and Lollipops, p. 107, 1988

5 an intellectual or academic US, 1927

Unkind if not derisive.

- — Washington Post, 23rd April 1961: “Man, Dig This Jazz”
- — Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 24, 1970

6 a male member of an Orthodox Jewish group US, 1967

- The beards are picketing the Russian Mission. — Charles Whited, Chiodo, p. 154, 1973

7 an “older” surfer US, 1991

In the youth culture of surfing, “old” is a relative term.

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin’ary, p. 9, 1991

beard verb

to serve as a beard for someone US, 1971

- Bloomquist writes like somebody who once bearded Tim Leary in a campus cocktail lounge and paid for all the drinks. — Hunter S. Thompson, Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas, p. 139, 1971 bearded clam noun

the vulva US, 1965

Combines FISH with visual imagery.

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 27, 1967
- He gobbles one beaver and gets promoted. I’ve ate close to three hundred bearded clams in my time and never even got a commendation. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Choirboys, p. 22, 1975

bearded lady noun

the vulva US, 1967

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 27, 1967

beard jammer noun

the manager of a brothel US, 1962

- — Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World’s Toughest Prison, p. 790, 1962

bear hunting with a switch noun phrase

said of an under-manned, underarmed patrol US

- That’s about as smart as going bear hunting with a switch. — Tony Brant, Journal of a Combat Tanker, p. 76, 1988
- Bear hunting with a switch: Undermanned, lightly armed reconnaissance patrol. — Allen Rubin, Handbook of Military Social Work, p. 519, 2012

bear insurance noun

a gun, the bigger the better the insurance US, 1965

- — Robert O. Bowen, An Alaskan Dictionary, p. 8, 1965

bear joint noun

in a carnival, a game in which stuffed teddy bears are the prize US, 1960

- — American Speech, pp. 308–309, December 1960: “Carnival talk”

bear paw noun

round-footed snowshoes worn while doing chores US, 1993

- — Mike Doogan, How to Speak Alaskan, p. 7, 1993

Bear Whiz Beer noun

an inferior beer US, 1978

- A popular beverage in Firesign Theater skits; its motto is the stunning “It’s in the water! That’s why it’s yellow!”
- Turns it off before going to the kitchen for another can of Bear Whiz Beer. — Richard Malott, Behavior Analysis, p. 149, 1978

beast noun

1 used as an affectionate reference to an aircraft US, 1990

- — Joseph Tuso, Singing the Vietnam Blues, p. 245, 1990: Glossary

2 a sexually available female US, 1955

- — American Speech, p. 302, December 1955: “Wayne University slang”

3 heroin; heroin addiction US, 1958

- — Edward R. Bloomquist, Marijuana, p. 332, 1971
- As long as Mable his whore was able / To satisfy his beast. — Dennis Wepman et al., The Life, p. 98, 1976

beast verb

to crave US, 2007

- Angry, cold, beasting for crack[.] — Treasure E. Blue, A Street Girl Named Desire, p. 6, 2007

▶ get beasted in to eat with great enthusiasm UK: SCOTLAND, 1985

beastly adjective

excellent US, 1953

- — Lavada Durst, The Lives of Dr. Hepcat, p. 11, 1953

beasty noun

a repulsive, disgusting person US, 1985

- “Oh, Clay, you’re such a beasty,” she giggles. — Bret Easton Ellis, Less Than Zero, p. 16, 1985

beasty *adjective*repulsive, disgusting US, 1982

- Like we went to Dupars and there were all these beasty seventh grade nerds with nine million zits apiece. — Mary Corey and Victoria Westermarck, Fer Shurr! How to be a Valley Girl, 1982 beat *noun*1 a member of the 1950s youth counterculture US, 1958

- But insofar as they speak of themselves generically and are forced to choose among evils, they prefer the word "beat." — Dissent, p. 339, Summer 1961
- Beats avoid work. — Ned Polsky, Hustlers, Beats, and Others, p. 159, 1967

2 in horse racing, an unfortunate defeat US, 1976

- As when a horse is caught in the last stride and a losing bettor moans, "What a tough beat!" — Tom Ainslie, Ainslie's Complete Guide to Thoroughbred Racing, p. 328, 1976

3 a crime which has not been solved US, 1992

- What the fuck do I care if this goes in as a solve or a beat? — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 449, 1992

4 in television and movie making, the main storyline US, 1990

- Ralph S. Singleton, Filmmaker's Dictionary, p. 16, 1990

5 a car US, 1947

- Marcus Hanna Boulware, Life and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947

beat *verb*to cheat, to swindle, to steal US, 1849

- It was early one morning / the temperature read about twenty below / I was on my way to the Union Station to beat some sucker for his dough. — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 66, 1964
- I knew the cab driver had beat me for my bread but there was no use crying, it was gone. — Babs Gonzales, I Paid My Dues, p. 24, 1967
- They also beat me for a ten dollar bill. — Herbert Huncke, The Evening Sun Turned Crimson, p. 177, 1980
- We was over in New York and we got beat on some dope. — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 461, 1992

beat feetto leave US, 1944

- So he snags his blunderbuss, calls his bonecruncher, blows the barracks and beats feet for the timber. — Harry Haenigsen, Jive's Like That, 1947
- Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 78, 1968
- Gregory Newbold, The Big Huey, p. 244, 1982
- Well, shit, fella, you might as well keep fuckin' beatin' feet, as they say. — Larry Heinemann, Paco's Story, p. 64, 1986
- "I'll be glad when all these sailboat tourists beat feet," Fortney said. — Joseph Wambaugh, Floater, p. 178, 1996 beat it1 to leave quickly US, 1878

- I sneaked into the house and stole my sister's Hudson-seal fur coat out of the closet, then I beat it down to a warehouse and sold it to a madam for $150. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 54, 1946
- He forgot all about the money, and beat it. — Jim Thompson, The Kill-Off, p. 132, 1957

2 (of a male) to masturbate US, 1995

- The plane started spinning around, going out of control. So my cousin decides it's all over, and he whips it out and starts beating it right there. — Malrats, 1995 beat the boardin poker, to hold the best hand showing US, 1963

- Irwin Steig, Common Sense in Poker, p. 181, 1963

beat the bushesin horse racing, to race a horse in minor circuits, where the horse can be a big fish in a little pond US, 1951

- David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 13, 1951 beat the cottonto soak and then pound used cottons, used to strain drug doses, in an attempt to leach out enough heroin for another dose US, 1989

- Geoffrey Froner, Digging for Diamonds, p. 8, 1989

beat the eightballto use heroin US, 1971

- Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 31, 1971

beat the favoritein horse racing, to place a small bet on a horse with long odds to win rather than betting on the horse favored to win US, 1951

- David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 13, 1951

beat the manto sleep US, 1990

Prison usage suggesting that in sleep one escapes domination by prison authorities.

- Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 197, 1990

beat the tab; beat the checkto leave a restaurant or hotel without paying your check US, 1973

- He'd check into the best New York hotels under a phoney name so he could beat the tab. — Vincent Teresa, My Life in the Mafia, p. 119, 1973
- I was proudest of the chuckles we got from beating checks in restaurants. — Gary Mayer, Bookie, p. 81, 1974 beat the tillto grab money from a cash register when the store clerk is not watching US, 1972

- I walked into a supermarket and watched a girl beatin' the till. She had turned the cashier around. — Harry King, Box Man, p. 71, 1972

▶ beat your baloney(of a male) to masturbate US, 1969

- One maverick among those polled got his kicks beating his baloney during TV commercials. — Screw, 10th November 1969

▶ beat your bishop(of a male) to masturbate US, 1916

- In fact you can sit here and rest or beat your bishop while I go ramblin around there, I like to ramble by myself. — Jack Kerouac, The Dharma Bums, p. 53, 1958

▶ beat your chops; beat up your chopsto talk US, 1945

- Herbie was beating up his chops about Lend-Lease to Russian when I walked up. — Chester Himes, If He Hollers Let Him Go, p. 112, 1945
- When I stood around outside the Pekin, beating up my chops with Big Buster, and he put his arm around my shoulder in a friendly way[.] — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 48, 1946
- Sherman Louis Sergel, The Language of Show Biz, p. 19, 1973

▶ beat your faceto perform push-ups US, 1998

- Seattle Times, p. A9, 12th April 1998

▶ beat your gums; beat up your gumsto talk without purpose or without effect US, 1945

- "Never mind, I am who I am. Just don't beat up your gums at me," I said, throwing him a newly acquired phrase. — Ralph Ellison, Invisible Man, p. 269, 1947
- On the way to Biff's, Betsy, dressed in a knocked-out strapless, boobers more out than in, kept beating her gums. — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 157, 1954

▶ beat your meat; beat the meat(of a male) to masturbate; to masturbate a male US, 1936

- Suppose you just sit down and beat your meat if you're getting anxious. — Norman Mailer, The Naked and the Dead, p. 124, 1948
- The young man held his fist up and agitated it meaningfully, yet with such a disinterested air that his gesture—ordinarily such a smutty one—seemed quite abstract and inoffensive. "You know—onanism—" "beating your meat," he explained. — Terry Southern, Candy, p. 74, 1958
- I have affairs, Arn, and I beat my meat. — Philip Roth, Portnoy's Complaint, p. 197, 1969
- Beating your meat is not a substitute for fucking. — Screw, p. 11, 1st September 1969 beat *adjective*world-weary, spiritual, jaded, intellectual US, 1947

- But he's still alive, and strange, and wise, and beat, and human, and all blood-and-flesh and starving as in benny depression forever. — Jack Kerouac, Windblown World, pp. 100–101, 3rd July 1948
- You know, everyone I know is kind of furtive, kind of beat. — John Clellon Holmes, Go, p. 38, 1952
- The beatest characters in the country swarmed on the sidewalk[.] — Jack Kerouac, On the Road, p. 85, 1957
- If all the unemployed had followed the lead of the beatniks, Moloch would gladly have legalized the use of euphoric drugs and marijuana, passed out free jazz albums and sleeping bags, to all those willing to sign affidavits promising to remain "beat." — Eldridge Cleaver, Soul on Ice, p. 72, 1968

beat artist *noun*a swindler US, 1973

- "That beat artist? He's got himself a home in Westchester[.]" — Gail Sheehy, Hustling, p. 70, 1973
- One response to freebase buyers' increasing demand for purer and purer cocaine was a proliferation of dealers and con men ("beat artists") purporting to sell the real thing. — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 40, 1989

beat bag *noun*a bag of drugs that is heavily adulterated or is completely counterfeit US, 1993

- Washington Post, p. C5, 7th November 1993

beatbox *verb*to make mouth noises that serve as the background rhythm for a rap US, 2002

- Seeing all of this go down, I knew that I had to find my niche, so one day I started beatboxing. — Earl "DMX" Simmons, E.A.R.L., p. 76, 2002

beatdown *noun*a brutal physical beating US, 1993

- The Grape Streets moved on Bingo first. The sight was inexplicable; within seconds he was unidentifiable. This was a standard beatdown. — Sanyika Shakur, Monster, p. 148, 1993
- Such punishment would most probably be a beat-down. — Eric Davis, The Slack Boys, p. 41, 1998
- George had allegedly arranged for someone to greet Jessica with a beat-down. — Adrian Nicole LeBlanc, Random Family, p. 121, 2003

beat generation *noun*the alienated class of young Americans who came of age in the mid-1940s and then embraced an alternative lifestyle and values in the 1950s US, 1950

- It's time we thought about our material. Call them hipsters, the "beat generation," "postwar kids," or our own displaced person whatever you will. — John Clellon Holmes, Letter to Jack Kerouac, 28th April 1950
- They were like the man with the dungeon stone and the gloom, rising from the underground, the sordid hipsters of America, a new beat generation that I was joining. — Jack Kerouac, On the Road (The Original Scroll), p. 156, 1951
- The whole beat generation is a pain in the ass after 35. — Jack Kerouac, Jack Kerouac Selected Letters 1957–1969, pp. 138–139, 13th April 1958; Letter to John Clellon Holmes

- Kerouac speaks to Harrington (in a letter written and mailed from here) about “the beat generation,” the “generation of furtives.” — John Clellon Holmes in Arthur Knight: The Beat Vision. 10th December 1948

beat in verb

- to initiate a new member of a youth gang by group beating US, 1996
- You can either get beat in or sexed in. — S. Beth Atkin, Voices from the Street, p. 8, 1996

beatnik noun

a follower of the beat generation (avant-garde “visionaries, rebels and hipsters”) derided and defined by stereotypical appearance and lifestyle choices US, 1958

Coined in 1958 (the first popular, non-Russian use of the suffix NIK) by San Francisco newspaper columnist Herb Caen.

- For some reason my name has become associated with bearded beatniks with whom I never had anything to do at all. — Jack Kerouac, Jack Kerouac Selected Letters 1957–1969, p. 210, 13th February 1959: Letter to Stella Sampas beat off verb

(of a male) to masturbate US, 1962

- Guys all primed by the live show could duck next door to beat off in peace and dark. — Anne Steinhardt, Thunder La Boom, p. 144, 1974
- [T]hen there was only emptiness and the same sort of something-wasted feeling he’d had when he was his little brother’s age and beat off in the bathroom. — Jess Mowry, Way Past Cool, p. 33, 1992
- Just as he’d begun to beat off, there was a knock on the bedroom door, which had no lock. — John Irving, A Widow for a Year, p. 50, 1998
- Gypsy Rose Lee related a story about how she told a dozen guys in the front row who were beating off, “Are ya ready yet, fellas, or can you use another 12 bars?” — Josh Friedman, When Sex Was Dirty, p. 108, 2005

beat out verb

to strip someone of their membership in a youth gang, accomplished by a ritualistic beating US, 1995

- — Mark S. Fleisher, Beggars & Thieves, p. 287, 1995

beat sheet noun

in television and movie making, a short summary of a story US, 1990

- — Ralph S. Singleton, Filmmaker’s Dictionary, p. 16, 1990

beatstick noun

in the game of Magic, a creature, usually but not always large, that is useful for attack US

- Why yes ... but mostly because he is a Beatstick. You probably thought I named this deck after the Staff. Oh no, the real beatstick is right here baby ... all 11/11 of him. — Nate Heiss, “Beatstick”, Magic.wizards.com, 26th March 2004

beau noun

used as a term of address between young males US, 1954

- — This Week Magazine, New York Herald Tribune, p. 47, 28th February 1954

beaut noun

a beauty, an impressive person or thing US, 1895

- Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes, who previously had been denying applications for federal tidelands oil leases on the ground that the submerged territory clearly was the property of the States, wise-cracked, “When I make a mistake, it’s a beaut.” — San Francisco Examiner, 15th April 1946
- Jimmy Kelly’s, a beaut of a room specializing in fan welders and dancing gals, is patronized chiefly by merchants and Wall Streeters. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 67, 1948
- A few minutes later he was back in an entirely different car, a brand-new convertible. “This one is a beaut!” he whispered in my ear. — Jack Kerouac, On the Road, p. 211, 1957
- BB: You know, I hear the new Cadillac’s gonna be out in a couple of months. TILLEY: You’re kidding? BB: Yeah, they’re changing the body. I hear it’s a beaut. — Tin Men, 1987

beauteous maximus noun

something that is excellent US, 1989

Mock Latin.

- — Merriam-Webster’s Hot Words on Campus Marketing Survey ‘93, p. 2, 13th October 1993

beautiful adjective

in the counterculture of the 1960s and 70s, used as an all-purpose adjective of approval US, 1961

A vague but central word of the hippie eta, suggesting passivity, appreciation for nature, kindness, etc.

- — Francis J. Rigney and L. Douglas Smith, The Real Bohemia, p. xiii, 1961
- I hear it’s a very good scene there. Not much heat, beautiful people, no speed freaks, and righteous dope. — Nicholas Von Hoffman, We Are The People Our Parents Warned Us Against, p. 47, 1967
- For a few days, we were all in a beautiful place. Can we do it again? — East Village Other, 20th August 1969
- beautiful: great, marvelous, a term of approval and admiration similar to groovy and outasight. — Ethel Romm, The Open Conspiracy, p. 242, 1970 beautiful!

used for expressing enthusiastic agreement US, 1975

- “Yes, Elliot, I’ll be waiting.” “Beautiful, beautiful.” — Donald Goines, Inner City Hoodlum, p. 88, 1975

beautiful people noun

the cream of society’s crop; the wealthy, fashionable people of high society and the arts, especially those celebrated as trendsetters US, 1964

- Two of the Beautiful (and famous) People, actress-model Suzy Parker and her husband Brad Dillman of film, TV and stage game, flew into San Francisco airport last evening. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 9, 27th February 1965
- We rent beautiful people to squares. — Emile Nytrate, Underground Ads, p. 112, 1971

beauty farm noun

a resort with a focus on improving appearances US, 1972

- Her old lady’s at the beauty farm[.] — John Rechy, The Fourth Angel, p. 76, 1972

beaver noun

1 a woman’s pubic region; a woman as a sex object; sex with a woman US, 1961

Although recorded at least as early as 1927, “beaver” did not come into its own until the mid-1960s, with an explosion of films featuring full frontal female nudity but no sexual activity and titles punning on “beaver”—Bald Beaver, Beaver Works in the Bush Country, Hair Raising Beaver, Fine Feathered Beavers, Leave it to Beavers, and so on. As published sexual material got more graphic, so did the association of the term. Despite the highly sexual origin of the term, it was used by truck drivers with a slightly naughty innocence to refer to women.

- Hey, you know what the cryptic term “Beaver” refers to in those nudie movie ads? Then you’re sharper than a Gillette. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 31, 27th September 1967
- [S]he was a professional, but the trained buttocks behind and the sheared beaver up front didn’t seem like real cunt and ass. — Anne Steinhardt, Thunder La Boom, p. 45, 1974
- Truckers expanded the existing slang term of “beaver” into their own vocabulary and “sweet thing” and “mini skirt,” two previous names used for females were discarded. Beaver became the national word for a female[.] — Gwyneth A. “Dandalon” Seese, Tijuana Bear in a Smoke’um Up Taxi, p. 45, 1977
- Beaver? You mean vagina? — The Big Lebowski, 1998
- Perhaps you’re daring enough to make your beaver completely bare. — The Village Voice, 8th-14th November 2000

2 a pornographic film US, 1969

- The first two beavers were disappointing for a unique reason. The girls were splendidly proportioned creatures with saliva-inducing propensities for any males’ libido, but they didn’t do anything. — Screw, p. 5, 24th January 1969

3 a beard US, 1871

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 7, 1945
- She plunged her hands into the beaver, and I decided I’d better go home and think, because I was in very big trouble. — Max Shulman, I was a Teen-Age Dwarf, p. 104, 1959
- “When did this all happen?” says Parker. “The beaver. When did you grow the beaver?” — Tom Wolfe, The Kandy-Kolored Tangerine-Flake Streamline Baby, p. 279, 1965

beaver bait noun

money US, 1976

- — “Slingo”, The Official CB Slang Dictionary Handbook, p. 7, 1976

beaver film noun

a mildly pornographic film, featuring full frontal nudity US, 1969

- If the beaver film is not something like that, then what? — Adam Film Quarterly, p. 75, February 1969
- The original Avon was the first in New York to screen “beaver” films, i.e., those showing pubic hair, five or six years ago. — Joseph Slade, The Sexual Scene, p. 269, December 1971
- For a time, this genre of “beaver” film was the most explicit pornographic entertainment available. — George Paul Csicsery (Editor), The Sex Industry, p. 166, 1973
- The simple beaver film soon developed two significant variations. — Kenneth Turan and Stephen E. Zito, Sinema, p. 77, 1974

beaver flick noun

a pornographic film US, 1970

- Shortly after this, the first genuine beaver flick was shown in another dingy house on 50th Street near 8th Avenue. — Screw, p. 14, 27th April 1970
- “We know we’ve got a long way to go but we’re trying not to make just beaver flicks.” (Quoting Jim Mitchell). — The Berkeley Tribe, p. 9, 22nd–28th August 1970

beaver loop noun

a repeating video featuring female frontal nudity US, 1971

- During my career, I’ve probably seen close to 500 beaver loops and maybe 200 hard-core shorts[.] — Screw, p. 18, 2nd August 1971
- “Those early prints of the beaver loops cost thirty-five dollars a print, right?” — Carolyn See, Blue Money, p. 132, 1974

beaver magazine noun

a magazine featuring photographs of nude women, focused on their genitals, usually not engaged in sex US, 1967

- Guys from around the league wrote to him regularly and sent him CARE packages—cakes, cookies, video cassettes, beaver magazines—because he refused to name any of his customers. — Dan Jenkins, Life Its Ownself, p. 28, 1982

beaver movie noun

a film featuring female frontal nudity US, 1971

- Do you think that for many of the girls the decision to work in a beaver movie—besides just being an economic decision—is a way of saying—“Why should I be afraid of this?” — Jefferson Poland and Valerie Alison, The Records of the San Francisco Sexual Freedom League, p. 75, 1971
- [S]he was back down on Main Street competing with beaver movies between reels, and taxi dancing part-time down the street at the ballroom. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Blue Knight, p. 21, 1973
- The first beaver movies—whose main attraction was the visible pubic region of the women (and later men) who posed for them—were nothing more than short loops, several loops making up a show[.] — Kenneth Turan and Stephen E. Zito, Sinema, p. 77, 1974

beaver patrol noun

girl-watching US, 1967

- — Current Slang, p. 1, Summer 1967

beaver picture noun

a movie, the main attraction of which is a number of shots of women's genitals; a photograph of a woman's genitals US, 1769

- For those interested in semantics, the pictures with the legs in normal position showing only the pubic bush are called "beaver pictures" but if the legs are spread apart and the camera angle shows the vaginal aperture or clitoris, then it is called "spread." — Screw, p. 16, 18th August 1969
- Sells, I figure he sells beaver pictures. — George V. Higgins, The Friends of Eddie Doyle, p. 171, 1971
- Her "co-star" in the beaver picture? — The Big Lebowski, 1988

beaver red noun

a photograph or film depiction of a woman's vulva, showing a hint of pink US, 1970

- No, that's what we call "beaver red." It's not prosecutable as long as you don't have the lips showing or hanging out all through the picture. — Roger Blake, The Porno Movies, p. 195, 1970

beaver-shooting noun

a concerted voyeuristic effort to find women whose genitals or pubic hair can be seen US, 1970

- I better explain about beaver-shooting. A beaver-shooter is, at bottom, a Peeping Tom. It can be anything from peering over the top of the dugout to look up dresses to hanging from the fire escape on the twentieth floor of some hotel to look into a window. — Jim Bouton, Ball Four, p. 36, 1970
- — Helen Dahlsgok (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 6, 1972

beaver shot noun

a photograph or filming of a woman's genitals US, 1970

In the early 1960s LA-based band The Periscopes recorded a rock'n'roll tune called "Beaver Shot" which was banned from the radio after two plays.

- In commercial film prior to this, other than documentaries on nudism, a view of the pubic region—the "beaver shot" it was called—occurred only as a brief glimpse[.] — Terry Southern, Blue Movie, p. 24, 1970
- This was about all that software consisted of at that point, except for the famed "beaver shot." — Tina Russell, Porno Star, p. 22, 1973
- A beaver shot taken with a 60-second camera takes very little artistic ability. — Stephen Ziplow, The Film Maker's Guide to Pornography, p. 142, 1977
- What's there to steal? Two bucks and a beaver shot. — The Breakfast Club, 1985
- This is beaver-shot, today meaning a flash of female pubic hair. — Letter from David Maurer to Peter Tamony, 14th October 1968

beaver-with-stick noun

full frontal male nudity US, 1977

- Back in the good old days, like the middle '60s, when female "beaver" films were all the rage, the industry catered primarily to the heterosexual trade. Oh, sure, there was the occasional male "beaver-with-stick" flick, but these were the exception. — San Francisco Chronicle, 24th January 1977

bebe noun

crack cocaine US, 1994

Possibly an initialism of BEAUTIFUL BOULDERS.

- — US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994

bebop verb

to take part in gang fights US, 1965

- This was one way of putting down bebopping. When you were on horse, you didn't have time for it. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 153, 1965 be careful, Matt!

used as a humorous caution US, 1979

A signature line of Miss Kitty Russell (portrayed by Amanda Blake) to Marshall Matt Dillon on the television Western Guns Smoke (CBS, 1955–75). Repeated with referential humor.

- "Be careful, Matt!" Hendrick watched Link fixing him a drink. — Jeremy Burnham, Children of the Stones, p. 140, 1979

because X phrase used as a pithy explanation for something that is either obvious or unsupported by reason. No longer followed by "of" or a full clause, because X is in new grammatical waters US

- Completely stripped inside because race car. — Craigslit.com, 26th January 2011
- Rewatching teen wolf because feels. — Lbourdea18, twitter.com, 10th November 2013
- Hot cocoa because need. — Jo West, twitter.com, 12th November 2013 bed noun

the playing surface of a pool table US, 1990

▶ put to bed

to watch someone go home before vulgarizing their business US, 1972

- We saw him go into his house and that's what we call putting them to bed. So we knew it was perfectly safe. — Harry King, Box Man, p. 49, 1972

bedbug noun

a person who is somewhere between amusingly eccentric and alarmingly disturbed US, 1832

- "Agh, Clancy is a bedbug," Solly said. — Evan Hunter, The Blackboard Jungle, p. 149, 1954

bedbug row; bedbug alley noun

a poor, crime-ridden area in a city US, 1969

- [T]he central business area and the red-light districts, variously known as the Levee, Hair-Trigger Block, Little Cheyenne, Gamblers' Alley, Bad Lands, Bedbug Row and Hell's Half Acre. — Chicago Tribune, p. 7C, 25th January 1987 bed-check Charlie noun

a pilot flying night air raids against US troops US, 1964
Korean war usage.

- Although these night raids did no major damage, they did affect the morale of the ground troops, who called the raiders "Bed Check Charlies." — Don Lawson, The United States in the Korean War, p. 66, 1964

beddy noun

1 in circus and carnival usage, the place where a person spends the winter or off-season US, 1981

- — Don Wilmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 19, 1981

2 a promiscuous girl US, 1989

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 20, 1989

beddy-bye; beddy byes; beddie-byes noun

sleep or bed UK, 1906

A nursery term, used for effect elsewhere.

- [I]t's two o'clock in the afternoon by golly, and he, for one, is going to take his little chicks home to beddy-by. — John M. Murtagh and Sara Harris, Cast the First Stone, p. 13, 1957
- Mr. Cherry said he had a hard day's driving to Spokane tomorrow to purchase some varnish wholesale and he would have to go beddy-bye now. He said beddy-bye. We said goodnight to him[.] — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 95, 1961
- Well, I better get my ass beddy-by. I'll see you in the morning. — Elmore Leonard, Gold Coast, p. 71, 1980
- And she's wearing her Frederick's of Hollywood silkies for beddy-bye. — Joseph Wambaugh, Fugitive Nights, p. 82, 1992

bed-hop verb

to habitually have casual sex US, 1974

- HI! GREAT WEEK! Mine was really great—back bed-hopping again. — Screw, p. 2, 4th March 1974

bed house noun

a brothel US, 1973

- — Ruth Tadosco et al., The Intelligent Woman's Guide to Dirty Words, p. 2, 1973

Bedouin Bob noun

any Saudi; any desert nomad US, 1991

Gulf war usage.

- — American Speech, p. 384, Winter 1991: "Among the new words"

bedpan commando noun

a medic in the Medical Corps US, 1948

- I was transferred to Fort Sam Houston to be turned into a Surgical Technician or, as we called it, a Bedpan Commando. — Orris Keiser, How Can I Help You?, p. 14, 2006

Bedrock noun

a common name for US armed forces camps during the Persian Gulf war US, 1990

An allusion to the prehistoric town on the cartoon television series The Flintstones (ABC, 1960–66), home to quarry worker Fred Flintstone and his wife Wilma.

- They live in a tent city nicknamed "Bedrock," for Fred Flintstone's home town, and eat two hot meals a day and packaged rations for the third in a mess tent dubbed "Dino's Diner." — Washington Post, p. A20, 1st October 1990 bedroom eyes noun

a sensual face and eyes that convey desire US, 1947

- "Those dreamy eyes—" she said. "Bedroom eyes, that's what they are." — Willard Motley, Knock on Any Door, p. 123, 1947
- Pretty, blonde Mrs. Acaro sees beyond the end of his nose, thinks the most striking thing about his face are his "big, brown bedroom eyes." — Time, p. 78, 17th May 1948
- They all have to have bedroom eyes. — Raymond Chandler, The Little Sister, p. 42, 1949
- "Why not stay here?" Nancy said and added, looking up at him with the bedroom brown eyes, "No one's home." — Elmore Leonard, The Big Bounce, p. 41, 1969

Bed-Stuy nickname

the Bedford-Stuyvesant neighborhood of New York City US, 1989
The area is the epitome of urban American poverty.

- G.B. ran back up to his neighborhood (Bed-Sty New Yawk) for a bag of bad smoke[.] — Odie Hawkins, Men Friends, p. 51, 1989
- It's one of the original ghettos. I grew up there. Bed-Stuy is such a ghetto that in Billy Joel's song, "You May Be Right," he brags about walking through Bedford-Stuyvesant by himself: "I walked through a combat zone." — Chris Rock, Rock This, p. 40, 1997

bee *noun1 a drug addiction US, 1960

Also known as "a bee that stings."

- A bee is what he calls his habit; it's always stinging him to get a fix. — Clarence Cooper Jr., The Scene, p. 54, 1960
- — David Maurer and Victor Vogel, The Slang and Jargon of Drugs and Drinks, p. 387, 1973

2 a barbiturate or other central nervous system depressant, especially Nembutal™ US, 1963

A Nembutal™ capsule is commonly known as a YELLOW JACKET, hence the "bee."

- I have a fine connection here, baby, and we'll get tanked on bees and pods and then I'll really show you a sex-scene. — John Rechy, City of Night, p. 184, 1963

3 in a deck of playing cards, a joker, especially when the deck is made by the playing card manufacturer Bee US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 8, 1988

bee *verbto beg US, 1962

- Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World's Toughest Prison, p. 790, 1962

bee-bee *nouncrack cocaine US, 1993

- Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 17, 1993

beef *noun1 a complaint, an argument, a fight US, 1899

- These fellers have a beef, boss. — Chester Gould, Dick Tracy Meets the Night Crawler, pp. 61–62, 1945
- Man, I tell you we had some real beefs. — Hunter S. Thompson, Hell's Angels, p. 40, 1966
- If while living in the Honor Unit you get into a “beef” which results in action against you by the disciplinary committee, one of the certain penalties is that you are immediately kicked out of No. 5 Building. — Eldridge Cleaver, Soul on Ice, p. 52, 1968
- Mr. Wilson apparently has a beef against society. A serious beef. — Carl Hiaasen, Tourist Season, p. 195, 1986

2 conflict, feuding US, 2002

- A wider use of the previous sense.
- Their deaths [Tupac Shakur and Notorious B.I.G.] forever alter the way we look at beef, death—and life—in hip-hop. — The Source, p. 133, March 2002

3 an arrest or criminal charge US, 1928

- Satin picked up three beefs in six months, and since the High One was still an undercover bondsman he raised her each time. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 121, 1973
- [P]risoners with felony beefs outranked the other prisoners. — Bobby Seale, A Lonely Rage, p. 268, 1978
- He's got all these drunk-driving beefs. — James Ellroy, White Jazz, p. 33, 1992

4 in prison, a written reprimand US, 1967

- They should have given you a medal instead of a beef. — Malcolm Braly, On the Yard, p. 183, 1967
- — Paul Glover, Words from the House of the Dead, 1974

5 the penis US, 1980

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin' down some lines, p. 229, 1980
- I laid her down on the sofa and placed my beef directly over her soaking split. — Renay Jackson, Oaktown Devil, p. 32, 1998
- The boy is masturbating [. . .] Beef Strokin' off[.] — Erica Orloff and JoAnn Baker, Dirty Little Secrets, p. 89, 2001

6 in homosexual society, a masculine man or a member of the armed forces whatever his gender preference US, 1972

- So he married a real girl, huh? Well, I guess he preferred fish to beef. — Bruce Rodgers, The Queens' Vernacular, p. 30, 1972

7 a dramatic and unintended ending of a surf ride US, 1991

- Dude, check out these hot beefs. — Trevor Cralie, The Surfin'ary, p. 9, 1991

8 a backwards fall off a skateboard US, 1997

- — Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 18, 1997

► ride the beefto refuse to implicate others when arrested or interrogated US, 1954

- “I heard you rode the beef for a lot of other people when you partner squealed!” — Caryl Chessman, Cell 2456 Death Row, p. 88, 1954
- “Yeah, ride the beef, man. Ride that motherfucker down.” — James Lee Burke, Dixie City Jam, p. 214, 1994

beef *verb1 to complain US, 1866

From an earlier sense: to shout.

- Everything is going wrong here. My boy's family has beefed to the fuzz. — William Burroughs, Letters to Allen Ginsberg 1953–1957, p. 28, 13th April 1954; Letter to Jack Kerouac
- Some bitch in Newton Division beefed a policeman last week. Says he took her in a park and tried to lay her. — Joseph Wambaugh, The New Centurions, p. 54, 1970
- “Have you been beefed before?” “When I was on the police department a prisoner spit in my face. I was accused of punching him in the stomach so hard it knocked him out.” — Gerald Petievich, To Live and Die in L.A., p. 64, 1983

2 to have sex US, 1975

- — American Speech, p. 56, Spring–Summer 1975: “Razorback slang”

3 in prison, to issue a disciplinary reprimand US, 1967

- [O]n such nights he would literally beef you because he didn't like your looks. — Malcolm Braly, On the Yard, p. 70, 1967

4 to argue, to fight US, 1997

- But Boys Village is way worse than Hickey, filled with D.C. niggers who like to beef with the Baltimore boys. — David Simon and Edward Burns, The Corner, p. 119, 1997

beef and shrapnel *nouna meal of beef and potatoes US, 1972

- I was eating sliced beef and potatoes—beef and shrapnel in the vernacular. — William Pelfrey, The Big V, p. 40, 1972
- I had beef and shrapnel for supper; Fi Bait had spaghetti. — Melvin Small, International War, p. 83, 1989

beefcake *noun1 artistic or photographic depictions of nude or partially nude muscular men *US, 1949*The gender equivalent of CHEESECAKE.

- — Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 14, 1964
- Doubleday Book Shops have run smirking ads for The Gay Cook-book and newsstands make room for “beefcake” magazines of male nudes. — Joe David Brown, Sex in the '60s, p. 66, 1968
- Lesbian periodicals, male “beefcake,” pamphlets, cards, buttons, and a host of fine fiction on the homosexual theme adorn the shelves of Craig's bookstore. — Screw, 21st February 1969

- True, the beefcake cowboy murals struck a somewhat citified note in the overall scheme of things, but Michael didn't mind. — Armistead Maupin, Further Tales of the City, p. 31, 1982

2 a muscular man US, 1949

- — Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 14, 1964
- Male, 26, trim, smooth-skinned, is hung-up on beefcake guys who are well-hung and wear lace briefs. — Emile Nytrate, Underground Ads, p. 15, 1971

beef curtains *nounthe labia US, 1991

- It tastes really weird though, all those cheesy deposits in her beef curtains. — alt.tasteless, 3rd October 1991
- I parted her beef curtains with my tongue. — Stewart Home, 69 Things to Do with a Dead Princess, p. 10, 2003
- After he universally maligned “performance” at the VMA's on Sunday, the former pop star went out partying at the Bellagio in Vegas and showed the world her hairless beef curtains, cuz she knows we just can't get enough of that. — perzhilton.com, 10th September 2007

beefier *nouna constant and tiresome complainer US, 1950

- — The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, p. 120, May 1950
- Most of the guests were pretty good about the blizzard, like they lent each other newspapers and so on, but the other people, the beefiers, just hung around the lobby and stared out at the snow going up higher and higher, and made trouble. — Richard Condon, Prizzi's Honor, p. 24, 1982
- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 8, 1988

beef injection; hot beef injection *nounsexual intercourse US, 1968

- [W]hat Rollo really needs is love, affection, understanding, etc. In other words, a beef injection. — Angelo d'Arcangelo, The Homosexual Handbook, p. 229, 1968
- — Robert A. Wilson, Playboy's Book of Forbidden Words, p. 33, 1972
- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 77, 1989
- — Michael Dalton Johnson, Talking Trash with Redd Foxx, p. 70, 1994

beef slices and grenades *nouna prepared meal of sliced beef and potatoes US

- Beef slices and potatoes with gravy we called beef slices and grenades 'cause the potatoes were that hard, and they'd probably kill ya. — Don Bishop, Letters Home: Vietnam, p. 163, 2013

beef trust *noun1 in sports, a group of large athletes US, 1928

- Defensively the 49ers came up with a beef trust on the line that really held the vaunted Browns in check. — San Francisco News, p. 11, 29th August 1958
- Lincoln Line More Like Beef Trust [Headline]. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 61, 17th September 1970

2 a chorus of large women who entertain men US, 1931

- The beef trust was out in full force—these ladies were all shaped like barrels, wherever there wasn't a crease in their meat there was a dimple. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 91, 1946
- Now touring the burlesque houses is a troupe known as “The Beef Trust.” The women in this aggregation weigh 250 pounds or over. — San Francisco Examiner, 21st June 1948

beef up *verbto enhance someone or something, to strengthen someone or something US, 1944

- I got all beefed up—and then got sick in Poland—and the beef evaporated. — Philip Wylie, Opus 21, p. 280, 1949
- Say I got an idea for the recording, I want to lay in some more tracks, beef it up. — Elmore Leonard, Be Cool, p. 19, 1999 beehive *verb► beehive it*to leave hurriedly US, 1991

Vietnam war use.

- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 19, 1991

beehive round *nounan artillery shell that scatters small nails with fins instead of shrapnel, first used in Vietnam in 1964 US, 1991

- The canister, or beehive, rounds, were especially effective for final, close-in defensive fire. — J.D. Coleman, Incurion, p. 77, 1991

beetch *nounused as a synonym of “bitch,” especially as a term for a woman US, 1963

- “Of course. From the moment that little bee-itch moved in on us.” — Frederick Kohner, Gidget Goes to Rome, p. 59, 1963
- Beetch, if you ain't got no kinda chronic, yo punk ass gots to go! — Snoop Doggy Dogg, A Day in the Life of Snoop Doggy Dogg (Cover art), 1993

Bee More *nicknameBaltimore, Maryland US, 1989

- — Ellen C. Bellone (Editor), Dictionary of Slang, p. 2, 1989

been *verb► been around*sexually experienced US, 1979

- Brad and Dell both told me “for my own good” that Deb “has been around.” — Beatrice Sparks (Writing as “Anonymous”), Jay's Journal, p. 19, 1979

been-there medal *nounthe Vietnam Campaign Service Medal US

- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 19, 1991

beep noun

- a homing or tracking device US, 1989
- “There’s a fucking bug or beep on it.” — Gerard O’Neill, The Under Boss, p. 213, 1989 beep beep!

- pay attention! US, 1961
- [U]sed in the expression “beep beep to X.” — San Francisco Examiner, p. 21, 12th December 1961

beeper noun

- 1 the telephone US, 1968
 - “Here’s why I’m on the beeper, Ron,” said the telephone voice on the all-night radio show. — Joan Didion, Slouching Toward Bethlehem, p. 220, 1968
- 2 an electronic paging device US, 1970
 - He had an answering service and an electronic beeper that fit onto his belt. The beeper didn’t make Keyes feel particularly important; every shyster lawyer, dope dealer, and undercover agent in Dade County wore one. — Carl Hiasen, Tourist Season, p. 33, 1986
 - Max prefers to be called on the tiny beeper attached to his belt. — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 31, 1989
 - Besides, everybody had a beeper these days. — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 6, 1992
 - They [call girls] drive Porsches, live in condos, have stockbrokers, carry beepers, you know, like Nancy Allen in Dressed to Kill. — True Romance, 1993

beer belly noun

- the protruding stomach of an excessive beer drinker US, 1960
- [A] large, brawny man about the shade of a chestnut with a crop of snow-white hair, a white billygoat goatee and a beer belly that hung out over his belt. — Robert Gover, Poorboy at the Party, p. 37, 1966

beer blast noun

- a party organized around the consumption of beer US, 1967
- Not like the Socs, who jump greasers and wreck houses and throw beer blasts for kicks[.] — S.E. Hinton, The Outsiders, p. 5, 1967
- Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 78, 1968

beer bottle glasses noun

- thick eye glasses US, 1979
- “That ski-jumper fellow with the beer-bottle glasses and scary hair.” — James Hawkins, No Cherubs for Melanie, p. 166, 2002

beer bust noun

- a party organized around the consumption of beer US, 1973
- Police said they were called to the picnic grounds of Enrico Rosotti, favorite “beer bust” locale of Stanford students, and there found the sextette hilariously dancing about the flaming tables. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 32, 2nd March 1948
- Have a real beer bust, like we used to in the old days, and make a tour of the burly houses. — Jim Thompson, Roughneck, p. 119, 1954
- Two weeks ago the kids had a beer-bust on the beach. — Ann Landers, Ann Landers Talks to Teen-Agers About Sex, p. 120, 1963
- He was the only one of them who didn’t like to join the beer busts after WORK. — Joseph Wambaugh, Lines and Shadows, p. 41, 1984

beer can grenade noun

- a crude hand grenade fashioned by the Viet Cong, packed inside a beer can US, 1990
- Gregory Clark, Words of the Vietnam War, p. 53, 1990
- On the walk along deserted Grave Street toward the company, Moytz attacked Baker Company’s dumpster with a beer can grenade. — William Singley, Bragg, p. 178, 2006

beered; beered out adjective

- drunk on beer US, 1930
- She was starting into her glass and did not notice him at first. “Get beered out?” — Harold Robbins, Never Enough, p. 148, 2002

beer flat noun

- an apartment where beer is sold privately and illegally US, 1980
- It was shortly prior to the repeal of prohibition and beer flats were popular. — Herbert Huncke, The Evening Sun Turned Crimson, p. 27, 1980

beer goggles noun

- a drink-induced clouding of visual perception that enhances the sexual allure of previously unappealing companions US, 1987
- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 1, Fall 1987
- Aside from inappropriate vomiting and public urination, one of the most puzzling effects are the “beer goggles” that accompany the latter stages of a bender. — Drugs: An Adult Guide, p. 32, December 2001

beer gut noun

- the protruding stomach of an excessive beer drinker AUSTRALIA, 1967
- Reaney stood back with Pemberton as the director, a large, bearded man with a down-to-earth beer gut, spared Jake a few words. — Gordon Williams, The Man Who Had Power Over Women, p. 228, 1967
- “What’s he look like? Regular old beer-gut dick?” “No, he’s skinny almost.” — Elmore Leonard, City Primeval, p. 54, 1980
- His pants hang perfectly flat, while out front his angry red beer gut balloons out like the front end of a ’51 Studebaker. — C.D. Payne, Youth in Revolt, p. 10, 1993

beer run noun

- a trip to a store to buy beer for a party US, 1970
- At supper I sat with the new girl, and that night she chose a study; I helped her move her stuff in; later, as somebody made a beer run, we chipped in[.] — Fielding Dawson, The Black Mountain Book, p. 27, 1970
- Current Slang, p. 8, Spring 1971

beer-thirty noun

- a fictional time of day, suggesting that a beer is overdue US, 1980
- Don Alexander, The Racer’s Dictionary, p. 10, 1980
- Their minds were on beer-thirty and lounge chairs, worried less about suspicious activity than asteroid collisions. — Tom Corcoran, Octopus Alibi, p. 242, 2003

beer up verb

- to drink a great deal of beer US, 1952
- [T]he mechanics beering up with the guys and driving off to Detroit on a whim. — New York Times Magazine, 16th November 1952: This is the Beat Generation

bee shit noun

- honey US, 1984
- From the mistaken belief that bees defecate honey.
- She calls me “beeshit,” cause I’m so sweet. — Ken Weaver, Texas Crude, p. 103, 1984

bee stings noun

- small female breasts US, 1964
- Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 15, 1964
- Michael Dalton Johnson, Talking Trash with Redd Fox, p. 62, 1994

bee-stung adjective

- (said of a woman) endowed with small breasts US, 2005
- For a look at Suzy’s Qs, check out her striptease down to her bee-stung boobage[.] — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin’s Skincyclopedia, p. 14, 2005

beetle juice noun

- soy sauce US, 1972
- He shook the little glass bottle and that beetle-juice came out real good for him[.] — Robert Byrne, McGoarty, p. 83, 1972

beevo noun

- an alcoholic beverage US, 1977
- [S]ometimes longed for the uncomplicated life of lacrosse and rugby and hou-bro beevo parties, of happily hugging the toilet all night long with your barf buddies after draining a half-keg for no special occasion? — John Sayles, Union Dues, p. 279, 1977

beeyatch noun

- used as an emphatic variation of “bitch,” especially when used to a woman or as exclamation US, 2001
- One time for your mind, beeyatch[.] — Too $hort, Tell the Feds, 2001
- Cuz you ask the questions I got answers, beeyatch[.] — Ja Rule, Survival of the Illest 2, 2004

beezee noun

- the nose US, 1908
- How many ways can you wrinkle your beezee? Do you show your teeth when you say the letter S? — Bruce Brooks, The Moves Make the Man, p. 62, 1984

before time adverb

- long ago US, 1982
- “Befo’ time I had real popolo kine hair, you know!” — Douglas Simonson, Pidgin da da Max Hana Hou, 1982

beg noun

- in a telephone solicitation, the actual plea to purchase that which is being sold US, 1959
- American Speech, pp. 150–151, May 1959: “Notes on the cant of the telephone confidence man” behind adjective

- 1 imprisoned US, 1961
 - Before I left Chicago he had been “behind” twice, once for car stealing and once, of all things, for bond forgery or something complicated like that. — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 355, 1961
- 2 committed, dedicated US, 1968
 - Lewis Yablonsky, The Hippie Trip, p. 367, 1968

behind preposition

- 1 (of a drug) under the influence of US, 1967
 - I could write behind STP, but not behind acid. — Joan Didion, Slouching Toward Bethlehem, p. 109, 1967
 - Edward I. Bloomquist, Marijuana, p. 333, 1971
 - Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 17, 1993
 - Simone de Beauvoir, whom I knew during her Nelson Algren period, worked very well behind absinthe, or its substitute, Pernod[.] — Terry Southern, Now Dig This, p. 206, 2001
- 2 as a result of US, 1957
 - Anthony Romeo, The Language of Gangs, p. 16, 4th December 1962
 - “Well, I might have to go to jail for a while behind that roust.” — Malcolm Braly, Shake Him Till He Rattles, p. 171, 1963
 - Went to Q behind armed robbery. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Blue Knight, p. 27, 1973
 - “That’s outta line, dawg, falling behind some bitch snitch.” — Jimmy Lerner, You Got Nothing Coming, p. 28, 2002

behind-the-behind noun

- anal sex US, 1967
- Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 27, 1967

beige noun

- a light-skinned black person US, 1945
- Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 7, 1945
- Sweetheart, yo’s as baij as they come. — Robert Gover, JC Saves, p. 68, 1968

beige verb

- to chemically darken cocaine to give it the appearance of a purity that it does not possess US, 1989
- Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 135, 1989

beige frame noun

a light-skinned black woman US, 1953

- Lavada Durst, The Lives of Dr. Hepcat, p. 11, 1953

be-in noun

an organized gathering for the celebration of counterculture lifestyles and values US, 1967

Originally applied to an event in San Francisco in January 1967, and then to similar events elsewhere. Organizers (“inspirers”) of that event wrote: “When the Berkeley political activists and the love generation of the Haight Ashbury and thousands of young men and women from every state in the nation embrace at the gathering of the tribes for a Human Be-In at polo field in Golden Gate Park the spiritual revolution will be manifest and proven.”

- And again, the beautiful thing about the Be-In was it had no leadership, it had no big financing, it will just grow automatically. — The San Francisco Oracle, 1967
- THE BEGINNING IS THE HUMAN BE-IN [Headline]. — Berkeley Barb, p. 1, 6th January 1967
- Be-In. A kind of instant hippie evangelism. Park grass, open skies and trees is the usual church architecture. — Sidney Bernard, This Way to the Apocalypse, p. 58, 1968
- Like a super be-in, a live-in, real freedom. Wow! — East Village Other, 20th August 1969

bejabbbers; bejabbers noun

used as a jocular euphemism for “bejesus” US, 1959

- They arrived in time to be scared by a group of drunken townies beating the bejabbbers out of three or four hippy boys they’d caught in the lot. — Nicholas Von Hoffman, We Are The People Our Parents Warned Us Against, p. 67, 1967
- Does he want, bejabbers, to get me sacked for nothing? — Murphy Tom, A Crucial Week in the Life of a Grocer’s Assistant, p. 155, 1989

bejesus; bejasus noun

used as a mild expletive US, 1908

An ameliorated “Jesus,” originally recorded in 1908 but not widely used until the 1930s.

- I interviewed Garbo three times, and I will slap the bejesus out of anybody who says I didn’t. — Earl Wilson, I am Gazing Into My 8-Ball, p. 63, 1945
- But stories about dykes bore the bejesus out of me. I just can’t put myself in their shoes. — Truman Capote, Breakfast at Tiffany’s, p. 21, 1958
- Did you know he got four purple hearts in Vietnam? Did he? Bejesus. — Doug Lang, Freaks, p. 21, 1973
- That Saturday morning, April Fool’s Day, one of the lifeguards was impressing the bejesus out of a ride-along female citizen by whipping his boat into 180s on Fiesta Bay. . . — Joseph Wambaugh, Floaters, p. 22, 1996

bejimony noun

used as a mild expletive US, 1946

- I like Rocky Graziano’s way of belting the bejimony out of his opponents without any shilly-shallying. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 14, 9th April 1946

Bela and Boris noun

in hold ‘em poker, the two of clubs and the two of spades US, 1996

An allusion to Bela Lugosi and Boris Karloff of horror movie fame, with a nod to the horror that they visit upon a hand in hold ‘em poker.

- — John Vorhaus, The Big Book of Poker Slang, p. 6, 1996

belch noun

a complaint US, 1981

Circus and carnival usage.

- — Don Wilmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 20, 1981

belch verb

to act as a police informer US, 1901

- — Vincent J. Montealeone, Criminal Slang, p. 20, 1949
- — Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 25, 1950

bell noun

1 a telephone call US, 1951

Teen slang.

- — Newsweek, p. 28, 8th October 1951

2 a hotel bellhop US, 1973

- “Three K, promo drinks and that stuff, tips for the bells,” Schabb said. — George Higgins, The Digger’s Game, p. 33, 1973

▶ on a bell

in television and movie making, shooting a scene US, 1990

From the bell used on location to signal that shooting is about to begin.

- — Ralph S. Singleton, Filmmaker’s Dictionary, p. 115, 1990

bell cow noun

in marketing, a popular, high-profit item US, 1986

- — Rachel S. Epstein and Nina Lieberman, Biz Speak, p. 18, 1986

belle noun

a young and effeminate male homosexual US, 1940

- — Florida Legislative Investigation Committee (Johns Committee), Homosexuality and Citizenship in Florida, 1964

bells!

used for expressing approval US, 1948

- — Robert S. Gould, A Jazz Lexicon, p. 17, 1964

bells and whistles noun

1 entertaining features that are not necessary to a computer program US, 1983

- “Now that we’ve got the basic program working, let’s go back and add some bells and whistles.” — Guy L. Steele et al., The Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 29, 1983

2 extra features designed by underwriters to attract investors in a bond issue US, 1988

- — Kathleen Odean, High Steppers, Fallen Angels, and Lollipops, p. 20, 1988

Bell Telephone hour noun

a session of torture in which US soldiers used the electricity from field telephones to shock suspected Viet Cong US, 1981

The term suggests a television program, not genital-oriented electric torture.

- “Come on back, it’s the Bell Telephone Hour. We’re wiring somebody up.” — Mark Baker, Nam, p. 173, 1981
- One of the favorite forms of torture was referred to as the “Bell Telephone Hour.” — Lynda Van Devanter, Home Before Morning, p. 156, 1983

belly noun

1 a fat person US, 1967

- The labels were cruel: Gimp, Limpy—go-fetch, Crip, Lift-one-drag one, etc. Pint, Half-a-man, Peewee, Shorty, Lardass, Pork, Blubber, Belly, Blimp. Nuke-knob, Skinhead, Baldy, Four-eyes, Specs, Coke bottles. — San Francisco Examiner, p. A15, 28th July 1997

2 the swell in a thicker-than-normal surfboard US, 1963

- — Grant W. Kuhns, On Surfing, p. 113, 1963

bellyache noun

any small-town newspaper US, 1975

- Anything in the Bellyache this week? — John Gould, Maine Lingo, p. 11, 1975

bellyache verb

to complain US, 1881

- They get that idea in their heads, all they can do is stand there and bellyache Gospel at you[.] — George V. Higgins, The Friends of Eddie Doyle, p. 39, 1971
- Okay, hogs, I’ve listened to you bellyache about moving to this new town. This said bellyaching will end as of 0859 hours[.] — Lewis John Carlino, The Great Santini, 1979
- Now he’s bellyaching in Paris and L.A. and Honolulu about the ropes and the canvas and a short count. — Bill Cardoso, The Maltese Sangweech and Other Heroes, p. 304, 1984
- Quit your bellyaching, Hawkings. — Gone in 60 Seconds, 1992

bellyacher noun

a complainer US, 1930

- My dad wasn’t a bellyacher[.] — St. Petersburg Times, 6th March 2004

belly bomber noun

greasy food, especially a greasy hamburger US, 1987

- “The next thing you know, you’ve got a bag full of belly-bombers on the seat of your car, and you’re stuffing your face with them again.” — Glenn Saven, White Palace, p. 13, 1987

bellybump verb

1 to jostle; to shove; to rough up US, 1961

- Most of the time, Slim said, all he did was write and mimeograph leaflets, though once or twice he was called upon to “belly bump” in the picket lines. — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 83, 1961

2 to ride a sled face down US, 1912

- — Charles F. Hayward, Yankee Dictionary, p. 10, 1963
- — Claudio R. Salvucci, The Philadelphia Dialect Dictionary, p. 30, 1996

bellybuster noun

a greasy hamburger or other food likely to provoke indigestion US, 1981

- So I get myself one of Danny’s bellybusters there, that a self-respecting do would not eat, and I ate it all[.] — George V. Higgins, The Rat on Fire, p. 102, 1981

belly fiddle noun

a guitar US, 1970

- — Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 25, 1970

belly flop noun

a dive into the water stomach first, intentionally or not US, 1985

- California’s greatest exponent of the calculated belly-flop [comic diver Norman Hanley] had forgotten to eat breakfast. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 20, 1st September 1957
- Biggest splash in the world, according to the judges in Vancouver, B.C., where the fifth annual World Belly-Flop Championships were held, is made by Robin Gentile. — San Francisco Examiner and Chronicle, This World, p. 25, 12th August 1979

belly gas noun

air injected into the abdominal cavity to raise the diaphragm US, 1961

- — American Speech, pp. 145–148, May 1961: “The spoken language of medicine; argot, slang, cant”

belly gunner noun

a ball turret gunner on a bomber US

- I saw my two belly gunners instinctively swing their M-60s forward, shooting into their left and right fronts in the treeline. — Bob Stofey, Cleared Hot!, p. 88, 1992 belly habit noun severe stomach cramping suffered during withdrawal from a drug addiction; an opiate addiction US, 1946

- Belly habit: an opium habit that, unlike the head type, affects the addict in the stomach. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 371, 1946
- — Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 25, 1970

belly hit noun

in poker, a card drawn that completes an inside straight US, 1951

- — American Speech, p. 97, May 1951: “The vocabulary of poker”
- — Albert H. Morehead, The Complete Guide to Winning Poker, p. 256, 1967

bellyman noun

the member of a military helicopter crew who coordinates communication between the pilot and the troops being transported US, 1992

- The bellyman signaled me to stand in the door. — Larry Chambers, Recondo, p. 1, 1992

belly queen noun

a male homosexual who prefers face-to-face intercourse US, 1965

- — Robert A. Wilson, Playboy's Book of Forbidden Words, p. 33, 1972

belly ride noun

sexual intercourse US, 1993

- — Kenn "Naz" Young, Naz's Dictionary of Teen Slang, p. 7, 1993
- Roland decided he would find a way in, even if it meant forgoing the belly ride in Berkeley. — Stephen J. Cannell, Runaway Heart, p. 34, 2004

bellyrubber noun

a slow song in which partners dance close to each other US, 1992

- The blast of the music ended for a few counts before going on to a slower piece, a bona fide Chicago belly rubber. — Odie Hawkins, Black Chicago, p. 138, 1992

belly-stick; stick noun

in a confidence swindle involving fixed gambling, a confederate who appears to win consistently US, 1940

- I said, "I'll learn fast. I'll be the best stick you ever saw." — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Trick Baby, p. 91, 1969
- "Kid, there isn't a helluva lot a belly-stick has to know. All you do is keep your belly against the joint counter and let me make lucky on the wheel." — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Trick Baby, p. 92, 1969

belly up verb

to approach and stand against something, usually a bar US, 1907

- [B]y the time they hit the doorway I belled up to the bar, put a foot on the rail, one hand casually resting on the back of Susie's chair. — Larry Heinemann, Close Quarters, p. 175, 1977
- The road crews belly up to the bar, swilling mugs of Pabst Blue Ribbon on tap[.] — Larry Heinemann, Paco's Story, p. 62, 1990

belly-up adjective

bankrupt, out of business; dead US, 1920

- Air Control Union Goes Belly Up [Headline]. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 10, 3rd July 1982
- Your Uncle Milton lost all his money in a Puerto Rican condominium that went belly up. — Sleepless in Seattle, 1993
- The other Master Lee dropped the business in his lap just before he was about to go belly up. — Odie Hawkins, Lost Angeles, p. 25, 1994

bellywash noun

1 any alcoholic drink US, 1972

- Most of the stupid things I have done in my life I can blame on the bellywash. — Robert Byrne, McGoorty, p. 147, 1972

2 a soft drink, soda; colored water US, 1926

Originally applied to a weak drink, and then to soda.

- Many B-girls ask for "sloe gin," which is a signal to the bartender that they want some colored water ("belly wash") or tea. — Charles Winick, The Lively Commerce, p. 171, 1971
- So we're waiting for this kid to bring us some bellywash. — Joe Eszterhas, Charlie Simpson's Apocalypse, p. 36, 1973
- It's hotter than the hubs of hell today! What'd'ya say we stop off over here and get us a bellywash? — Ken Weaver, Texas Crude, p. 103, 1984

belly-whop verb

in sledding, to dive stomach first onto the sled US, 1955

- There is always plenty of ice and snow for "belly-whopping." — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, 17th March 1955
- Belly whopping while under the influence, Sarge. — New Yorker, p. 53, 28th February 1968
- That was why I took the kids out to bellywhop—I was high. — John A. Williams, The Angry Ones, p. 153, 1969 belt noun

1 a gulp, especially of strong alcohol US, 1922

- Mrs. Larkin cried a little too and took Guido out in the garage and gave him a belt from a pint bottle of Schenley hidden behind the skid chains. — Max Shulman, Rally Round the Flag, Boys!, p. 14, 1957
- After a frustrating day at the office a couple of belts lift me out of the dumps. — Lenny Bruce, How to Talk Dirty and Influence People, p. 46, 1965
- Give me a drink, fella. Gimme a belt of Scotch. — Edwin Torres, Q & A, p. 51, 1977
- Hard day at the job, no lunch maybe, get so fuckin' pissed off you don't want any dinner, only thing on your mind's a good couple of belts, huh? — George V. Higgins, The Rat on Fire, p. 74, 1981

2 the first, strong effect of a drug US, 1948

- [W]hite women learned where they could get a "belt," a "jolt," or "gow." — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 103–104, 1948 belt buckle polisher noun

a song suited for slow dancing US, 1984

- Now here's a belt buckle polisher, so all you lovers can dance cheek to cheek ... to cheek ... to cheek. — Ken Weaver, Texas Crude, p. 103, 1984

belted adjective

drunk or drug-intoxicated US, 1970

- — William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Uptight People, p. 15, December 1970

Beltway commando noun

any military bureaucrat working in Washington D.C US, 1991
Gulf war usage.

- — American Speech, p. 384, Winter 1991: "Among the new words"

bender noun

1 a prolonged session of hard drinking US, 1845

- Frisco Kate, who was en route to New York on a bender, came in there accompanied by a young pug she had picked up. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Chicago Confidential, pp. 30–31, 1950
- I was on a 5-day bender and got home long after the appointment you made to meet Nov. 25 at 3. — Jack Kerouac, Jack Kerouac Selected Letters 1957–1969, p. 191, 28th November 1958: Letter to Stan Isaacs
- You go on a bender after all those years, it's like all that sober time never was. — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 274, 1992

2 a male homosexual who plays the passive role in anal sex; a homosexual US, 1965

- — The Guild Dictionary of Homosexual Terms, p. 3, 1965

bend over, brown eyes used as a humorous instruction to a patient about to under-go a rectal examination US, 1989

- — Maledicta, p. 31, 1988–1989: "Medical maledicta from San Francisco" bends and motherfuckers noun

the squat-thrust exercise drill US, 1981

Vietnam war usage. In gentler times, known as a "burpee."

- "You look like shit, so we're going to do a little PT now. Bends and motherfuckers. Many, many, many of them." — Mark Barker, Nam, p. 19, 1981 benefit noun

any hardship or unpleasant feature of army life US, 1968

Used with obvious irony.

- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 3, 1968

Ben Franklin noun

a $100 bill US, 1990

From the engraving on the bill.

- Winnie looked up sharply when Buster, still staring at the pile of money, said, "That's a lot of Ben Franklins." — Joseph Wambaugh, The Golden Orange, p. 108, 1990 be nice!

used by US troops in Vietnam when caught by surprise or provoked by another US, 1967

- Sounds of Vietnam: The City: Be nice. — Ken Abood, How to Live in Vietnam for less than $ 10 a day, p. 102, 1967

benies noun

benefits US, 1970

- There sure are the benies if you don't have an education. — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, p. 33, 1970

Benjamin; Benjie; Benji noun

a $100 bill US, 1985

From the engraved portrait of Benjamin Franklin on the bill.

- Just go blow five benies and stop chewing on me. — Stephen Cannell, Big Con, p. 208, 1997
- — Puff Daddy and the Family, It's All About the Benjamins, 1997
- "Fifty Groovers," I said. "Is that more than five hundred Benjamins?" — Dan Jenkins, The Money-Whipped Steer-Job Three-Jack Give-Up Artist, p. 235, 2001
- He dropped three stacks of Benjamins on the table. The air tightened up. — Tracy Funches, Pimpnopsis, p. 62, 2002
- [H]avin' a Benz and a fat knot of Benji's definitely helps. — The Source, p. 218, March 2002

bennie noun

a female prostitute's customer who prefers to perform oral sex on the prostitute US, 1964

- — Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 16, 1964
- — Robert A. Wilson, Playboy's Book of Forbidden Words, p. 34, 1972

bennie God noun

the sun US, 1965

- I learned, with the advent of the "Bennie God" to make an acceptable "bennie machine" out of aluminum foil, and use it on the flat back porch every afternoon during the spring semester to "catch a few rays" while downing some frosties. — John Nichols, The Sterile Cuckoo, p. 60, 1965

bennie machine noun

a reflector used while sunbathing US, 1965

- I learned, with the advent of the "Bennie God" to make an acceptable "bennie machine" out of aluminum foil, and use it on the flat back porch every afternoon during the spring semester to "catch a few rays" while downing some frosties. — John Nichols, The Sterile Cuckoo, p. 60, 1965

bennies noun

1 sun rays US, 1965

A shortened form of "beneficial rays."

- Nothing to do but laze around, drink beer on the back porch roof, and soak up the bennies. — John Nichols, The Sterile Cuckoo, p. 137, 1965
- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 79, 1968

2 basic comforts US, 1976

A shortened form of "benefits."

- On top of all those bennies they had ice cream and ice-cold beer! — Charles Anderson, The Grunts, p. 29, 1976
- The troops were always talking about service "bennies," the little perks like the BX and the commissary, as if they made much difference. — Walter Boyne and Steven Thompson, The Wild Blue, p. 241, 1986

Benning School for Boys nickname

Fort Benning, Georgia, especially the Officer Candidate School there US, 1971

- I was sent across the country to attend the Infantry Officer Candidate School at Fort Benning in Columbus, Georgia, commonly referred to within the Army as “The Benning School for Boys.” — A.T. Lawrence, Crucible Vietnam: Memoir of an Infantry Lieutenant, p. 31, 2010
- They seldom closely imitated tactics outlined by the “Ft. Benning School for Boys” Officer Candidate School. — Gordon Rottman, Green Beret in Vietnam 1957–73, p. 46, 2012

benny noun

1 an amphetamine, especially Benzedrine™ (amphetamine sulfate), a central nervous system stimulant US, 1945

- I feel an incredible need to talk to you . . . Not because I'm high on Benny, and lone in the cursed kitchen, but as a matter of mood. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Allen Ginsberg, pp. 99–100, 13th November 1945
- Oh, I've been trying benny but it speeds everything up, it's all wrong and besides it makes you talk. — John Clellon Holmes, Go: A Novel, p. 47, 1952
- With each week of work, bombed and sapped and charged and stoned with lush, with pot, with benny[.] — Norman Mailer, Advertisements for Myself, p. 243, 1955
- At Bass Lake he tended the fire with the single-minded zeal of a man who's been eating bennies like popcorn. — Hunter S. Thompson, Hell's Angels, p. 185, 1966

2 a Benzedrine™ inhaler US, 1970

- Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 25, 1970

3 a sports fan who looks back at a basketball game and analyzes what might have been US, 1946

Synonymous with “Monday Morning Quarterback” except basketball people like to call them “Bennys.” Probably from the image of men in overcoats.

- There was nothing mysterious about the performance of Jimmy Pollard, the gangly Oakland sensation many of the tournament “Bennys” have been calling the “all-time great.” — San Francisco Examiner, p. 18, 22nd March 1946

4 a person who looks and talks the part of a surfer but does not actually surf US, 1991

- Trevor Cralle, The Surfin'ary, p. 9, 1991

benny blue noun

in craps, a roll of seven when shooting for your point US, 1985
From the call, “Benny blue, you're all through!”

- Steve Kuriscak, Casino Talk, p. 3, 1985

benny house noun

a primarily heterosexual brothel that will upon request procure a male sexual partner for a male client US, 1965

- The Guild Dictionary of Homosexual Terms, p. 4, 1965

beno adjective

used as a humorous description of a woman's condition while experiencing the bleed period of the menstrual cycle US, 1954
From the pronunciation—“There will be no fun tonight.”

- American Speech, p. 298, December 1954: “The vernacular of menstruation”

Benson Silk noun

counterfeit North Vietnamese currency US, 1997

- Benson Silk was tightly controlled, signed out on a hand receipt and usually carried only by the One-Zero. It was planted mostly to confuse the enemy. — John Plaster, SOG, p. 132, 1997

bent adjective

1 homosexual UK, 1959

- Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 32, 1971
- Anon., Ring Smut's Wet Dreams Interpreted, 1978
- Does your family know you're bent? — Armistead Maupin, Babycakes, p. 214, 1984

2 drunk or drug-intoxicated US, 1833

- Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 32, 1971
- CAMERON: Will Bogey get bent? MICHAEL: Are you kidding? He'll piss himself with joy. — Ten Things I Hate About You, 1999

3 ill-humored; grouchy US, 1965

- Miss Cone, The Slang Dictionary (Hawthorne High School), 1965

bent and greased adjective

prepared to be taken advantage of US, 1994
The sexual allusion is difficult to miss.

- Michael Dalton Johnson, Talking Trash with Redd Foxx, p. 107, 1994

Bent Whore nickname

Bien Hoa, South Vietnam, site of an American air base during the Vietnam war US, 1984

- John Robert Eiting, A Dictionary of Soldier Talk, p. 23, 1984

Benz noun

a tablet of Benzedrine™ (amphetamine sulfate), a central nervous system stimulant US, 1969

- Richard Lingeman, Drugs from A to Z, p. 22, 1969
- Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 32, 1971

Benzo noun

a Mercedes-Benz car US, 1986

- That Benzo missed her ass by a red pussy hair. — Robert Campbell, Alice in La-La Land, p. 11, 1987
- You'd rather see, me in the pen / than me and Lorenzo rollin in a Benz-o. — NWA, Fuck Tha Police, 1988
- Who's Benzo was that I saw you rolling in yesterday? — Boyz n The Hood, 1990

Berb noun

a social outcast US, 1993

- Merriam-Webster's Hot Words on Campus Marketing Survey '93, p. 2, 13th October 1993

Berdo; San Berdo; San Berdu nickname

San Bernardino, California, east of Los Angeles US, 1914

- They came from Okie flats outside Bakersfield, San Diego, Fresno and San Berdo. — Jack Kerouac, On the Road (The Original Scroll), p. 206, 1951
- Anything less would forfeit the spiritual leadership back to southern California, to the San Bernardino (or Berdo) chapter[.] — Hunter S. Thompson, Hell's Angels, p. 11, 1966
- I heard about you from some cops in San Berdo. — Joseph Wambaugh, Fugitive Nights, p. 94, 1992
- According to Vic, the first Hell's Angels motorcycle club was formed around 1948 in Berdo[.] — Ralph “Sonny” Barger, Hell's Angel, p. 30, 2000

berry noun

1 a dollar US, 1916

- Hand two hundred berries in my billfold and I couldn't afford to lose it. — Mickey Spillane, I, The Jury, p. 113, 1947
- “It's the berries, Phil,” Dopey said. — James T. Farrell, Saturday Night, p. 22, 1947
- The mayor says he'll pay a thousand berries if the Pied Piper will disc his jig. — Harry Haenigsen, Jive's Like That, 1947
- Twenty berries an you alla roun the mothahfuggin' worl'. — Robert Gover, One Hundred Dollar Misunderstanding, p. 21, 1961

2 crack cocaine US, 1993

- Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 17, 1993

Bess noun

used as a term of address among male homosexuals US, 1965

- Fact, p. 25, January-February 1965

bessie noun

the penis US, 1973

- And then I'm suddenly staring at the biggest bessie I ever seen in my life. — Richard Frank, A Study of Sex in Prison, p. 28, 1973

best verb

should US, 1956

- You BEST move on up. — Malachi Andrews and Paul T. Owens, Black Language, p. 98, 1973

be's that way

used as a world-weary but wise acknowledgement that what is, is US, 1968

- Hy Lit, Hy Lit's Unbelievable Dictionary of Hip Words for Groovy People, p. 4, 1968

best piece noun

a girlfriend or wife US, 1937

- Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 32, 1971

bet!

used for expressing approval US, 1987

- Washington Post Magazine, p. 17, 28th June 1987
- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 1, Fall 1995

beta noun

1 a test or probationary stage US, 1991

- Borrowed from the technical process of external testing of a product.
- “His girlfriend is in beta” means that he is still testing for compatibility and reserving judgment. — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 55, 1991

2 the grade “B” in academic work US, 1968

- Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 79, 1968

be there, aloha

used as a farewell US, 1978

Repopularized by ESPN's Keith Olberman, borrowed from the television program Hawaii 5-0.

- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, April 1978
- Keith Olberman and Dan Patrick, The Big Show, p. 12, 1997

better living through chemistry used as a humorous endorsement of mind-altering recreational drug use US, 1968

- Borrowed from an advertising slogan of DuPont Chemicals.
- While many regard psychedelic drugs as examples of “better living through chemistry,” there is ample reason to be concerned[.] — American Institute of Planners, Environment and Change, p. 125, 1968
- Abbie Hoffman encouraged students at Columbia University to experiment further with such “better living through chemistry.” — J. Anthony Lukas, The Barnyard Epithet and Other Obscenities, p. 10, 1970 betting tool noun

in horse racing, a horse that consistently wins US, 1960

- Robert Saunders Dowst and Jay Craig, Playing the Races, p. 160, 1960

Betty noun

an attractive female US, 1993

- Surf Punks, Oh No! Not Them Again! (liner notes), 1988
- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 1, Spring 1993
- Not a total Betty, but a vast improvement. — Clueless, 1995

Betty Coed noun

the stereotypical female high school or college student US, 1960

- Betty Coed and her football hero—he's the coach—will be married in Richmond a week from tomorrow. — San Francisco News Call-Bulletin, p. 9, 6th May 1960
- “I'd never guessed—you look so—so—Betty Coed.” — Frederick Kohner, Gidget Goes Hawaiian, p. 20, 1961
- Betty Coed passed by outside, unmindful of the drizzle and the heart that skipped a beat behind windows. — Bill Cardoso, The Maltese Sangweech and Other Heroes, p. 91, 1984

Betty Crocker noun

used by combat troops to describe their peers not in combat, especially those in Saigon US, 1969

Betty Crocker is the mythical yet trademarked American homemaker created in 1921 by the Washburn Crosby Company, forerunner to General Mills Incorporated.

- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 20, 1991

between pictures adjective

Out of work, unemployed US, 1954

A euphemism, true in the entertainment industry, jocular elsewhere.

- “I’m between pictures” is a popular Hollywood phrase. But for the “Barefoot Girl with Coat of Mink”—sultry Ava Gardner—a more appropriate line is “I’m between headlines.” — San Francisco News, p. 5, 30th August 1954

Beulah land noun

heaven US, 1939

From the book of Isaiah, 62:4.

- There ain’t nothin’ up there. If you would read that Bible, you would know. There is no Beulah land. — Los Angeles Times, p. L7, 8th January 2004

bevels noun

dice that have been altered by rounding off the sides slightly so as to produce a desired point US, 1963

- — John S. Salak, Dictionary of Gambling, p. 20, 1963

bewitched, bothered and bewildered adjective

confused US, 1950

The title of a song from the show Pal Joey, lyrics by Lorenz Hart, music by Richard Rodgers.

- [T]he bewitched, bothered and bewildered fathers and mothers of these expensively educated lads and lassies. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 17, 21st May 1950
- The 49ers are bewitched, bothered, and bewildered. Plain confused too. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 11-5, 3rd October 1955
- Bewitched, Bothered, Bewildered [Headline]. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 23, 1st November 1967
- Bewitched, Bothered, and Bewildered [Episode Title]. — Marti Noxon, Buffy the Vampire Slayer, 10th February 1998

beyond adjective

outstanding, amazing, extraordinary US, 1999

- Gigglepuss was so beyond. — Ten Things I Hate About You, 1999

BFD noun

a big fucking deal US, 1966

Sometimes euphemized from “fucking” to “fat.”

- — J. W. Mays, A Basic Guide to Campusology, p. 2, 1966
- — Current Slang, p. 5, Fall 1967
- “BFD! By one stupid little minute!” — Jess Mowry, Way Past Cool, 1992

BFE noun

any remote location US, 1989

An abbreviation of BUMFUCK, EGYPT.

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 20, 1989

BFF noun

best friends forever US, 1988

- B/F/F means Best Friends Forever. — USA Today, 14th June 1988
- BFF: Best friends forever or a day? — Rosalind Wiseman, Queen Bees & Wannabes, p. 162, 2002

BFI noun

1 in computer technology, an approach relying on brute force and ignorance rather than elegant analysis US, 1986

- — Rachel S. Epstein and Nina Liebman, Biz Speak, p. 19, 1986

2 a massive heart attack or stroke; a big fucking infarct US, 1994

- — Sally Williams, “Strang” Words, p. 133, 1994

BG noun

a young member of a youth gang US, 1995

An abbreviate of BABY GANGSTER.

- — Mark S. Fleisher, Beggars & Thieves, p. 287, 1995
- — James Haskins, The Story of Hip-Hop, p. 135, 2000

B game noun

in a gambling establishment or cardroom, the table with the second highest betting limit US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 9, 1988

BGF

the Black Guerilla Family, a black prison gang US, 2000

- The BGF, a radical prison security threat group, got its start in San Quentin in 1966. — Bill Valentine, Gangs and Their Tattoos, p. 17, 2000

B girl noun

1 a woman who works in a bar, encouraging customers through flirtation to buy drinks, both for themselves and for her US, 1936

- New York’s cafes and clubs are forbidden by law to employ hostesses or “B” girls. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 127, 1948
- Sunday I dropped into the Little Harlem and when the B-Girl approached me I recognized her as the fat slob who insisted she was the wife of Freddy Strong and so to avoid having her ask for a drink I casually asked if she’d heard from Freddy lately. — Neal Cassidy, Neal Cassidy Collected Letters 1944–1967, pp. 301–302, 10th August 1951: Letter to Jack Kerouac
- The B-girls (B for bar) converge on Manhattan from all over the nation, but many are native New Yorkers. — Jess Stearn, Sisters of the Night, p. 17, 1956
- A bunny sitting near me was more succinct. “They don’t want us to look like B girls hustling drinks.” — Kathryn Leigh Scott, The Bunny Years, p. 24, 1998

2 a young woman involved in early hip-hop US, 2000

From “break girl.”

- — James Haskins, The Story of Hip-Hop, p. 135, 2000

B head noun

a barbiturate user or addict US, 1979

- — Joel Homer, Jargon, p. 193, 1979

Bhum Fuk, Vietnam noun

a notional, isolated spot in Vietnam US

A Vietnamization of the civilian “Bum Fuck, Egypt.”

- It’s better than being stuck somewhere outside of Bhum Fuk, Vietnam in the middle of a bomb crater the size of the Superdome under fire by determinedly hostile forces. — Dennis Mavicsin and Jerold Greenfield, Maverick, p. 205, 1990

bi noun

a bisexual person US, 1956

- If he were a “bi” he’d want to get into the act and maybe hump his buddy while ol’ buddy is humping you. — Screw, p. 16, 16th May 1969
- Though the hanky code was originated by gay men, it has been adopted by cruising lesbians and bi’s. — Taste of Latex, p. 24, Winter 1990–1991

bi adjective

bisexual US, 1956

- Met this quietly sensual “bi” friend of Martin’s, wearing a clerical collar. — Jefferson Poland and Valerie Alison, The Records of the San Francisco Sexual Freedom League, p. 45, 1971
- This is a pretty sensual group of girls, mostly bi. — Robert Stoller and I.S. Levine, Coming Attractions, p. 148, 1991

Bianca blast noun

oral sex performed with a mouth full of Bianca™

mouthwash US, 1993

- — J.R. Schwartz, The Official Guide to the Best Cat Houses in Nevada, p. 163, 1993

Bible! exclamation

What I just said is true Popularized by “Keeping up with the Kardashians” US

- — Connie Eble, Campus Slang: University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Fall 2014

bibleback noun

1 a prisoner who has turned to religion, sincerely or not US, 1953

- Sandy’s cell partner was a glib, sinister con artist, a Jew who had become a converted Baptist and posed as a Bible-toting evangelist A type convicts called “Bible-Back.” — James Blake, The Joint, p. 81, 1971
- There is the Bibleback, a particularly disgusting type of sycophant, who attends all the religious functions, wails the loudest, sings, prays and performs all the external functions required to become known as a Christian. — Bruce Jackson, Outside the Law, p. 178, 1972

2 in the circus or carnival, a folding plank used for grandstands US, 1980

- — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 15, 1980

Bible-basher; Bible-thumper noun

an evangelical Christian US, 1885

- I could have told you for free that people think cigarettes are the road to perdition. Ain’t you never heard one of them Bible-thumpers? — Max Shulman, Anyone Got a Match?, p. 43, 1964
- He was a real triple-threat man—boozier, Bible-thumper and box-chaser. — Joey V., Portrait of Joey, p. 25, 1969
- Any cheap Bible thumper on the outside has all the qualifications of a navy chaplain. — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, p. 46, 1970
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, March 1973

Bible belt noun

rural America, especially in the south, where fundamentalist Christians dominate the culture US, 1924

- Coming under the influence of the green-covered American Mercury, he looked back on home as the uncivilized “Bible belt.” — James T. Farrell, Ruth and Bertram, p. 91, 1955
- Gonna let it rock / Let it roll / Let the Bible Belt come down / And save my soul. — John Cougar Mellencamp, Jack and Diane, 1982

Bible run noun

in television and movie making, a weekly printout of all production expenses US, 1990

- — Ralph S. Singleton, Filmmaker’s Dictionary, p. 17, 1990

bic verb

1 to understand US

A corrupted biet, Vietnamese for “understand.”

- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 21, 1991

2 an artillery piece US

- Big Boys—artillery. — Mark Baker, Nam, p. 297, 1981: Glossary

bicoastal adjective pertaining to the west and east coasts of the USA US, 1984

Almost always used with a sense of mocking, hyper-formality.

- To one side of us in the bleachers, as part of the audience, were the bicoastal network executives[.] — Dan Jenkins, Life Its Ownself, p. 174, 1984
- HBS, Stanford Forge a Bicoastal e-Alliance. — Harvard Magazine, p. 67, March–April 2001

bicycle noun

a bisexual US, 1982

- Only those in the know understood the reference in the 1978 Top 10 hit recording by Queen, “I want to Ride My Bicycle.” — Arnold Shaw, Dictionary of American Pop/Rock, p. 35, 1982

▶ on your bicycle in boxing, staying away from the opponent's punches by back pedaling US, 1936

- Bolden, strictly a defensive fighter, got on his bicycle in the first session and back pedaled through the entire fight. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 19, 13th November 1945
- So he kept me away with left hooks and got on his bicycle where I charged him. — Rocky Garciano (with Rowland Barber), Somebody Up There Likes Me, p. 275, 1955

bicycle verb

1 in television and movie making, to work on multiple projects simultaneously US, 1977

In the days of silent movies, to show a movie at several different theaters required transporting it from one theater to another, often by bicycle.

- — Tony Miller and Patricia George, Cut! Print!, p. 40, 1977
- — Ira Konigsberg, The Complete Film Dictionary, p. 27, 1987
- — Ralph S. Singleton, Filmmaker's Dictionary, p. 17, 1990

2 to ride a surfboard with a wide stance US, 1977

- — Gary Fairmont R. Filosa II, The Surfer's Almanac, p. 182, 1977

bicycle pump noun

a large syringe US, 1961

Korean war usage.

- The bicycle pump was the giant, legendary needle that Navy medics used to scare noisy Marines. When threatened with the "bicycle pump," the Marine would pretend to scorn such a story. — Russell Davis, Marine at War, p. 167, 1961 bid noun

a prison sentence US, 2000

A variant of the more common bit.

- "Dear Sweetie," began one, which an officer had opened, "Your bid's not that long." — Ted Conover, Newjack, p. 167, 2000
- His stomach still had cuts from workouts during his prison bid. — Adrian Nicole LeBlanc, Random Family, p. 293, 2003
- He hated it. "I'd rather do my bid"—his jail sentence—he always said. — Philadelphia Daily News, p. Local 3, 27th December 2006

biddy noun

an old woman, usually one prone to complain and fuss US, 1938

The dominant sense of the term in the US, with the older sense of a "young woman" unknown.

- "Those old welfare biddies will find her a fine family to live with." — Chester Himes, The Real Cool Killers, p. 45, 1959
- The captain whispered in my ear: "Don't make any dramatic gestures to those biddies or I'll crease your head with this club." — Lenny Bruce, How to Talk Dirty and Influence People, p. 70, 1965
- Have you seen the way those old biddies look at you when we walk into the dining room? — Armistead Maupin, Further Tales of the City, p. 195, 1982
- When Bobbie questioned Fin about the age of all the fun-loving fogies, coots, geezers, codgers, duffers and biddies she'd met in the saloon, he didn't know how to tell her that the oldest fossil in the joint wasn't fifteen years his senior. — Joseph Wambaugh, Finnegan's Week, p. 230, 1993

bidness noun

business US, 1984

A Texas corrupted pronunciation of a Texas activity.

- He blessed Bid Ed's oil bidness, said young people were the hope of the world, acknowledged the talented tap-dance team of Jesus and Mary, forgave the Catholics and Jews, and pronounced us man and wife. — Dan Jenkins, Life Its Ownself, p. 65, 1984
- Doing Bidness With Roger Clinton. — Washington Post, p. A25, 21st June 2001

biff noun

1 a blow, a hit, a whack US, 1847

- [G]et your kicks and biffs. It's your night! — Lester Bangs, Psychotic Reactions and Carburetor Dung, p. 38, 1970
- Then a biff from an idea that bowled him over. — Neal Cassady, The First Third, p. 168, 1971

2 in mountain biking, a crash US, 1996

- We've grimaced and chuckled simultaneously at face plants [a face-first encounter with the ground], endos [an accident in which the cyclist flies over the handlebars], biffs and crash-landings. — Mountain Bike Magazine's Complete Guide To Mountain Biking Skills, p. 32, 1996

3 in pinball, a forceful hit with the flipper US, 1977

- — Bobbye Claire Natkin and Steve Kirk, All About Pinball, p. 110, 1977

4 a toilet US, 1942

- — The Guild Dictionary of Homosexual Terms, p. 4, 1965
- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 79, 1968

biffer noun

1 an unattractive woman US, 1932

- — Robert George Reisner, The Jazz Titans, p. 150, 1957

2 a prostitute US, 1971

- "Biffer," "prossie," "she-she," "pig-meat" are some other slang designations. — Charles Winick, The Lively Commerce, p. 41, 1971

biffy noun

a bathroom US, 1942

- [A]t a recent cocktail party Chief Justice Earl Warren, cocktail in hand, was backed up against the door leading to the biffy reserved for the children in the house[.] — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 11, 25th March 1954
- "I'll get to inventory the rest of her when she finishes whatever she's doing in the girlies' biffy[.]" — David Gregory, Flesh Seller, p. 22, 1962
- There's a towel in the biffy. — Elmore Leonard, The Big Bounce, p. 92, 1969

big verb to impregnate someone US, 1917

- "And tell her not to come crying around here when she gets all bigged from messing around with you!" — Herbert Simmons, Corner Boy, p. 99, 1957
- He tu blame fuh biggin' yu. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Mama Black Widow, p. 184, 1969
- Damn near every man likes a girl when she's bigged and young at the same time; this makes it a double treat. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 47, 1973
- — History of Medicine Society, A Folk Medical Lexicon of South Central Appalachia, 1990

Big A nickname

1 AIDS US, 1992

- — Terry Williams, Crackhouse, p. 146, 1992
- — Sally Williams, "Strong" Words, p. 134, 1994
- [S]he wondered what diseases all these losers would bring home to their wives. Maybe the fatal one. Maybe the Big A. — Joseph Wambaugh, Hollywood Station, p. 155, 2006

2 in poker, an ace, especially when it is the deciding card in a hand US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 10, 1988

3 the Aqueduct Race Track in Westbury, New York US, 1959

- Everything about the new Aqueduct is so big that it is referred to as the Big A. — New York Times, p. 21, 9th September 1959

4 the US federal penitentiary in Atlanta, Georgia US, 1982

- — Ralph de Sola, Crime Dictionary, p. 15, 1982

big ass adjective

in the game of Magic, said of a powerful card US

- For your win con there are 2 obvious routes to go. The first is to look for a big ass bomb like Niv-Mizzet or Dominus of Fealty so you could beat face in the end when all their defenses are down. — Manuel Enrico Sison, Is red/blue deck in Magic: The Gathering a good combination?, quora.com, 7th October 2015

big-ass adjective

very large US, 1957

- He left the house and didn't stop till he opened the door of his bigass Cadillac. — Hubert Selby Jr., Last Exit to Brooklyn, p. 304, 1957
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 1, March 1996

big-ass bird noun

the Boeing B-17 military aircraft US, 1961

- Lt. Howard M. Park, a veteran of panzer busting in Normandy, was among the first up that morning heading for Bastogne in his famous red nosed Big Ass Bird. — Danny Parker, To Win the Winter Sy, p. 227, 1998

big-assed adjective

large US, 1945

- If he could think of some way not to—he's bird-brained and chicken-hearted and big-assed. — James Baldwin, Blues for Mister Charlie, p. 25, 1964

Big B nickname

Berlin US, 1944

- The crew couldn't make their original target in Berlin—"Big B," as they called it. — Seattle Post-Intelligencer, p. B2, 20th May 2003

big ball noun

1 in pool, an object ball that can be hit either directly or on the rebound off a cushion US, 1913

Because there are two ways to hit it, it is a bigger target, hence a "big ball."

- — Mike Shamos, The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Billiards, p. 25, 1993

2 in bowling, a roll that forcefully hooks into the standing pins US, 1962

- — Frank Bryan, Tackle Tenpin Bowling This Way, 1962

big baller noun

a big spender US, 2001

- Saturday's "Evening in Paradise" at the Hotel Inter-Continental in Miami, at $250 per person, is a big-baller special. — Sun-Sentinel (Fort Lauderdale, Florida), p. 1E, 11th July 2001

big belly noun

a B-52 bomber US, 1986

- A stream of bomb trailers rolled under them, stuffing their Big Bellies with eight-four bombs. — Walter J. Boyne and Steven L. Thompson, The Wild Blue, p. 464, 1986

Big Ben noun

1 the new, large design hundred-dollar bill minted in the late 1990s US, 1996

The "Ben" is an allusion to Benjamin Franklin, the C18 slang lexicographer whose portrait graces the note.

- — John Vorhaus, The Big Book of Poker Slang, p. 6, 1996

2 Benzedrine™ (amphetamine sulfate), a central nervous system stimulant US, 1966

- — Mr., p. 8, April 1966: The "Hippie's" Lexicon

3 in craps, a roll of ten US, 1999

Rhyming slang.

- — Chris Fagans and David Guzman, A Guide to Craps Lingo, p. 33, 1999

Big Ben nickname

the USS Franklin (heavily damaged off Japan on 19th March 1945, repaired and mothballed); the USS Bennington (commissioned in 1944, decommissioned in 1970) US, 1954

The Bennington was featured in the opening scene of the CBS television program Navy Log in 1956 and 1957.

- To me and many other World War II sailors, there is only one "Big Ben" and that is the U.S.S. Franklin. [Letter to Editor] — Life, p. 5, 28th June 1954
- The Big Blast in "Big Ben" [Headline]. — Life, p. 36, 7th June 1954

Big Bertha noun

an over-sized slot machine used as a promotion for hotel guests and to lure prospective gamblers into a casino US, 1984

- J. Edward Allen, The Basics of Winning Slots, p. 57, 1984
- Berthas, as in "Big Bertha," are giant, oversized machines sprinkled here and there around the casino. — Jim Regan, Winning at Slot Machine, p. 49, 1985

big bill noun

a $100 bill US, 1961

- "Here's a big bill as a binder." Vann took a new one-hundred-dollar bill from his wallet, folded it the long way and poked it into Red's breast pocket. — Ross Russell, The Sound, p. 62, 1961

big bitch noun

the prison sentence given to habitual criminals US, 1961

- Frank Prewitt and Francis Schaeffer, Vacaville Vocabulary, 1961–1962
- "If Chilly wasn't doing the big bitch," Nunn told Manning, "he'd own half this state." — Malcolm Braly, On the Yard, p. 38, 1967

Big Blue 82 noun

a 12,540-pound BLU-82 bomb US, 1991

- A vicious anti-personnel weapon, developed for vegetation clearing in Vietnam, used again in the Persian Gulf war and Afghanistan.
- A unique bomb which also provides tremendous blast overpressures and was reported to have been used in the Mideast ("a favorite of the Marine Corps," according to one anonymous Pentagon spokesman) is the BLU-82, otherwise known as "Big Blue 82." — Boston Globe, 16th April 1991
- The type depicted in the leaflets, and also used in Afghanistan, is the BLU-82B Commando Vault or Big Blue 82, also known as the Daisy Cutter. — BBC News, 6th November 2001

big-boobed adjective

of a female, having generously proportioned large breasts US, 1970

- "I gotta be bright-eyed, big-boobed and dancing at six," moaned Marion. — William Craddock, Be Not Content, p. 174, 1970
- He'd win at the track and some big-boobed bimbo would take it all from him. — Jackie Collins, Rock Star, p. 19, 1988
- Prante had told Bond, "There's a big-boobed blonde moving in next door to Dwayne." — Don Weber, Silent Witness, p. 182, 1993
- Tall, long-legged, and big-boobed, she was definitely built like the proverbial brick shithouse. — Beverly Barton, The Fifth Victim, p. 40, 2003

big book noun

in twelve-step recovery programs such as Alcoholics Anonymous, the book Alcoholics Anonymous, first published in 1939 and still the central document of the recovery movement US, 1998

- Christopher Cavanaugh, AA to Z, p. 54, 1998

big boss noun

heroin US, 1972

- Having been an addict I know something about it, one of the narcotics especially; heroin. Some people call it "the Big Boss; Horse." — Bruce Jackson, In the Life, p. 210, 1972

big boy noun

a tank US, 1968

- Vietnam war usage. The bigger the tank and the more weapons mounted on the tank, the more likely it was to be called a "big boy."
- Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 4, 1968
- The Armored Cavalry battalion was also on the base so there were lots of APCs and tanks and a couple of Big Boys. — Mark Baker, Nam, p. 193, 1981

big brother noun

1 the penis, especially a large penis US, 1965

- The Guild Dictionary of Homosexual Terms, p. 4, 1965
- Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 28, 1967

2 the erect penis US, 1967

- Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 28, 1967
- Robert A. Wilson, Playboy's Book of Forbidden Words, p. 34, 1972

big bullet noun

a missile US

- At twelve miles still invisible, the MIG was in position to be hit by the cranky radar-guided Sparrow missile, the huge "big bullet" of a rocket that the Phantom fought with. — Walter Boyne, The Wild Blue, p. 522, 1986

Big C noun

1 cancer US, 1964

- The Washington Whispers have it that Jack Ruby doesn't stand a chance of beating the Big C. — San Francisco Examiner and Chronicle, p. 19, 1st January 1967
- "Big C" Finally Beats John Wayne [Headline]. — San Francisco Examiner and Chronicle, p. 14, 17th June 1979
- They don't think it's anything silly do they? Like ... Big C ... or any of his pals? — Dan Jenkins, Dead Solid Perfect, p. 26, 1986
- His wife's in the hospital, has been for a couple months. The big C. — Fargo, 1996
- That's when I decided I was going to beat this monster, the Big C. — Ralph "Sonny" Barger, Hell's Angel, p. 243, 2000

2 cocaine US, 1959

- J.E. Schmidt, Narcotics Lingo and Lore, p. 16, 1959
- William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Uptight People, p. 6, December 1970
- Donald Louria, The Drug Scene, p. 189, 1971

3 a female as an sexual object US, 1963

- A hint of CUNT.
- American Speech, p. 273, December 1963: "American Indian student slang"

big casino noun

1 the best that you can do; your greatest resource US, 1922

- Jimmy had written a $2,500,000 life insurance policy on Hill. Ask your insurance agent whether that would be peanuts or the big casino in the insurance. — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 10, 17th March 1920
- The big casino in Nixon's over-all program is the next stage of the Vietnam troop withdrawals. — San Francisco Examiner and Chronicle, p. A-2, 14th September 1969
- Jerry Brown should go for the Big Casino [Headline]. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 31, 16th March 1976

2 cancer US, 1951

- His grin was forced. He knows he's got Big Casino—cancer. — San Francisco Examiner and Chronicle, p. III-6, 7th May 1967
- Wee Willie Wilkin, former St. Mary's College tackle (so named because at 270 he was considered the largest item in football during the '30s) is fighting the Big Casino. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 48, 14th December 1971
- "If you still want to do that book, we better get started awful sudden, because I've got cancer. Big Casino." — Robert Byrne, McGoorty, p. 11, 1972
- "It's true, Billy," he said, gazing bleakly at his glass. "Big casino. It's hopeless." — San Francisco Examiner and Chronicle, p. 5, 27th February 1983

3 any sexually transmitted infection US, 1948

- Nitti, like Capone, had picked up in his travels the occupational malady of the underworld, euphemistically known as the capital prize, or big casino. — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 14, 23rd February 1948
- It was hinted that poor, departed Will had once acquired a case of what the boys call big casino, which ended in the same paresis that finished Al Capone. — San Francisco News, p. 11, 8th October 1951

4 capital punishment, the death penalty US, 1960

- Will "Call Me Bernie" for Big Casino. Yes, say the results of an informal poll of the Nation's press covering the sensational Finch murder trial here. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 12, 22nd January 1960

big Charlie noun

1 a CH-3C helicopter used during the Vietnam war for counterinsurgency airlifts US, 1985

- Ian Padden, U.S. Air Commando, p. 104, 1985

2 an important white man US, 1968

- I know they's nothin' but overseers on the big plantation, jes doin' like Big Charlie tell 'em to. — Robert Gover, JC Saves, p. 112, 1968

big cheese noun

the most important person in a given organization or enterprise US, 1914

- Reggie Jackson: the big cheese of the holey AL West. [Caption] — Washington Post, p. F8, 3rd April 1983
- Ito-san was the head honcho, the big cheese, the number-one Tomodachi ... or to put it another way, the overall manager of the SPN group. — Rhianonn Paine, Too Late for the Festival, p. 27, 1999

big chicken dinner noun

a bad conduct discharge US, 1987

- Playing with initials: armed forces usage.
- "You could have gotten a bad-conduct discharge for that." "What, the Big Chicken Dinner?" — David Poyer, The Circle, p. 160, 1003

big chief noun

the hallucinogenic drug, mescaline US, 1971

- Edward R. Bloomquist, Marijuana, p. 332, 1971

Big D noun

1 LSD US, 1966

- Donald Louria, Nightmare Drugs, p. 45, 1966
- John B. Williams, Narcotics and Hallucinogenics, p. 109, 1967
- Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 33, 1971

2 the penis US, 1998

- D as in DICK.
- Ethan Hilderbrant, Prison Slang, p. 12, 1998

3 Dallas, Texas US, 1930

- In Big D, do as the heteros do. — Phil Andros (Samuel M. Steward), Stud, p. 89, 1966
- Well, you probably have certain opinions about the security arrangements they had that bad Friday down in Big D—inadequate, I suppose. — Terry Southern, Now Dig This, p. 137, 2001
- Anne Frank don't make me no never mind, as they say in Big D. — David Henry Sterry, Chicken, p. 114, 2002

4 Detroit, Michigan US, 1961

- It ain't like the Big D, where so many brothers is startin' to snitch on each other. — Donald Goines, El Dorado Red, p. 92, 1974
- After a short run he settled in Detroit. During the early fifties, every jazz artist who played the big D, usually ran into him. — Babs Gonzales, Movin' On Down De Line, p. 56, 1975

5 Denver, Colorado US, 1967

- Current Slang, p. 5, Fall 1967

big dad noun

a senior drill instructor US, 1991

- Vietnam war usage.
- The senior is "Big Dad," the "Omnipotent and Omniscient One," the "Father Confessor." — Daniel Da Cruz, Boot, p. 72, 1987

big dago noun

a sandwich made on Italian bread US, 1960

- "You know the signs all over for what we call in New York 'submarines,' here sandwich on sliced Italian bread? On the coast, they advertise 'Don's big Dagos, Red Hot Dagos!'" — Esquire, p. 153, 1st November 1960

big dance in Newark noun

in circus and carnival usage, a jocular explanation for a small audience US, 1981

- Don Willmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 21, 1981

big day noun

visiting day in prison US, 1949

- Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 21, 1949
- American Speech, p. 194, October 1951: “A study of reformatory argot”
- Troy Harris, A Booklet of Criminal Argot, Cant and Jargon, p. 5, 1976

big dead one nickname

later in the Vietnam war, the First Infantry Division US, 1981

- A sad play on BIG RED ONE after heavy attrition through casualties.
- Also known as “Big Dead One” — Shelby L. Stanton, Vietnam Order of Battle, p. 353, 1981

big Dick noun

1 in craps, a roll of ten US, 1904

Often embellished to “big Dick from Boston”, “big Dick from Battle Creek”, and “big Dick the ladies’ friend”. Gambling slang authority, the late Thomas Clark, theorised that “dick” came from the French dix. Another popular folk etymology is that the original Big Dick was Boston dice cheater Richard Mantell who was shot to death as he switched dice while trying to shoot a ten. The addition of “the ladies’ friend” leaves little doubt as to the most probable etymology—ten inches would indeed be big.

- “There it was—Little Joe or Phoebe, Big Dick or Eighter from Decatur, double trey the hard way and dice be nice.” — Nelson Algren, The Man with the Golden Arm, p. 11, 1949

2 a 14-inch rocket US, 1946

- Here from 300 safe yards away we watched naval technicians fire a free-launched 14-inch rocket known to the men developing it as “Big Dick.” That’s to distinguish it from the older, smaller 11.75 inch “Tiny Tim.” — San Francisco News, p. 1, 27th December 1946

big dog noun

in poker, a hand comprised of five cards between nine and ace and no pairs among them US, 1963

- Irwin Steig, Common Sense in Poker, p. 182, 1963

big duke noun

in poker, especially hold ‘em poker, a strong hand US, 1981

- Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 18, 1987

Big E nickname

the USS Enterprise US, 1942

Two aircraft carriers carried the name Enterprise and the nickname “Big E”; the first commissioned in 1936 and the second in 1961.

- “Big E” Plays Cat and Mouse with Russ Sub [Headline]. — San Francisco Examiner and Chronicle, p. A-2, 15th September 1968
- Battleflat of “Big E” to new Enterprise [Headline]. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 48, 18th April 1974

Big Easy nickname

New Orleans, Louisiana US, 1970

- The Big Easy, as New Orleans calls itself, regards progress with a skeptical eye. — New York Times, p. 10, 4th January 1981

big eight noun

in poker, four twos US, 1988

A borrowing from the game of craps.

- George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 10, 1988

big-endian adjective

in computing, denoting computer architecture in which the most significant byte is found in the lowest address US, 1991

- Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 57, 1991

big eye noun

1 a high-powered telescope, especially the one located on Palomar Mountain, California US, 1949

- Palomar’s “Big Eye”—already the apple of astronomers’ eyes—is going to be even better than expected after a final polishing. — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 11, 6th May 1949
- California’s second “Big Eye,” the 120 inch mirror for the new telescope at Mt. Hamilton, near San Jose, is ready to probe the heavens. — San Francisco News, p. 11, 26th June 1959
- Flying low over the Gulf of Mexico, pilots approaching the Florida panhandle can see the Big Eye staring at them like some baleful guardian of the coast. — Los Angeles Times, pp. 1–3, 22nd February 1968

2 a Lockheed EC-121 Warning Star aircraft US, 1991

- Deployed in Vietnam to provide early warning and communication relay; later redesignated the COLLEGE EYE.
- PIRAZ was augmented by an Air Force EC-121 airborne radar aircraft, known as “Big Eye.” — John Sherwood, Afterburner, p. 82, 2003

big fellow noun

a law enforcement official of the US federal government US, 1974

- We best pull out. The big fellows was by here today. — David W. Maurer, Kentucky Moonshine, p. 114, 1974

big fish noun

a very important person or thing US, 1836

- They spared most of the big fish. Congress must face up to social security costs. — Christian Science Monitor, p. 1, 25th November 1981
- “I was a big fish in a little pond, but it was nice for my ego and I learned how to win,” he said. [Quoting Patrick Horgan] — Los Angeles Times, p. C2, 1st February 1992

- Martha was a little fish when it comes to these crimes. We’re still waiting for the big fish at Enron, WorldCom, Tyco and Harken to pay for their crimes. — Post-Crescent (Appleton, Wisconsin), p. 7C, 11th March 2004
- Over the next few months, that same informant helped apprehend or implicate several “big fish,” such as 17 corrupt state police officers. — Dallas Morning News, 14th March 2004

big foot country noun

the deep, rural south of the US US, 1974

- I heard you had went down to the big foot country and decided to stay there for your health. — Donald Goines, Never Die Alone, p. 20, 1974
- You know how hard it was to get short heist up in big-foot country before the riot. — Miguel Pinero, Short Eyes, p. 73, 1975
- You’re a champ chump from the Big Foot Country (deep South) and you’re creaming to get laid. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Airtight Willie and Me, p. 6, 1979

big friend noun

a bomber aircraft US, 1946

- American Speech, p. 310, December 1946: “More air force slang”

big fucking deal noun

a major issue US, 1971

An elaboration of BIG DEAL. Often used to dismiss something as not being a major issue.

- “Big deal. So they voted against the war. Big fucking deal.” — Thomas Cottle, Time’s Children, p. 48, 1971
- Lawyer, huh? Big fuckin’ deal. — Edwin Torres, Q & A, p. 121, 1977
- What’s the big fucking deal? — South Park, 1999

big full noun

in poker, a hand consisting of three aces and two kings US, 1978

This hand represents the best possible variation of the hand conventionally known as a “full house.”

- Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 18, 1987

big general noun

in a bar dice game, a first roll showing five dice of the same denomination US, 1974

- Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 18, 1987

biggie noun

1 a big deal; something of consequence or difficulty US, 1945

Often in the negative: “no biggie.”

- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 5, Fall 1989
- FABIAN: You’re hurt? BUTCH: I might’ve broke my nose, no biggie. — Pulp Fiction, 1994

2 an important person US, 1926

- She will dance till she’s dippy at the Sunset Strip cabarets, meeting the biggies[.] — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New Yorker Confidential, p. 145, 1948
- He was in with all those biggies. — Edwin Torres, After Hours, p. 185, 1979
- So you got a biggie, Brian. — Carl Hiaasen, Tourist Season, p. 19, 1986

biggity adverb

in a haughty, arrogant or conceited way US, 1880

- We had a yen, every time we got away from home and school, to strut and act biggity and shoot the works, live our whole lives out before the sun went down. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 5, 1946
- Mama never acted biggity in court, but she would bow her head only so low. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 95, 1965
- They were unwashed and uncombed and acted brazen-faced and biggity. — Joe Eszterhas, Charlie Simpson’s Apocalypse, p. 28, 1973

Biggity O

Oakland, California US

- Yeah but a special shot goes out to the Playaz club right across the water in the Biggity Biggity O. — Rappin’ 4 Tay, “Playaz Club,” 1994

big golden bird noun

an airplane transporting troops back to the United States from Vietnam US, 1966

- When FIGMO (“Farewell, I Got My Orders”) time rolls around, some guys start marking off the days before that final one when they hop into the Big Golden Bird bound for the Land of the Big PX. — Ken Melvin, Sorry ‘Bout That, p. 94, 1966

big green noun

1 large amounts of money US, 2000

- “If ‘Stunning Steve’ can make more of the big green by listening to the Colonel, I can’t knock him for that.” — Robert Picarello, Rules of the Ring, p. 7, 2000

2 in sporting and music events, corporate sponsors US, 1992

- Lewis Poteet, Car & Motorcycle Slang, p. 30, 1992

biggums adjective

overweight US, 1994

- Evening Sun (Baltimore), p. 12A, 19th January 1994

Big H noun

heroin US, 1953

- You ever hear of dope? Snow? Junk? Big H? Horse? — John D. McDonald, The Neon Jungle, p. 61, 1953
- Their habit of sniffing and shooting “The Big H” had reached a monumental $500 per day. — Phil Hirsch, Hooked, p. 31, 1968
- “Walking with the King. Big H. If God made anything better he never let On.” — Robert Stone, Dog Soldiers, p. 171, 1974

big hair noun

an extravagant, large-sized hairdo US, 1978

- “I think I’m more like a cartoon character, this big hair flapping all over, big hips, big bosom. It’s a gimmick.” [Quoting Dolly Parton] — Washington Post, p. B1, 8th May 1978
- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 1, Fall 1990

- I went out and bought a fall and did “big hair” for about six months—and looked horrid! — Kathryn Leigh Scott, The Bunny Years, pp. 265–266, 1998

big hat, no cattle used for describing someone who appears the part but has no substance US, 1977

- Mr. Davis is not like a lot of Texans, big hat, no cattle. — Lima (Ohio) News, 15th December 1977

big-headed adjective

conceited, arrogant, haughty US, 1967

- The great thing about him is with all his talent he never became big-headed. — Babs Gonzales, I Paid My Dues, p. 140, 1967

big house noun

a prison US, 1913

Usually follows “the.”

- “Strebhouse and Stevens spent a stretch in the big house,” I said. — Mickey Spillane, I, The Jury, p. 111, 1947
- In fact, their fate was often worse. Suicide. Dope addiction and the d.t.’s. The big house and the nuthouse. — Jim Thompson, The Grifters, p. 24, 1963
- As the gates of the Atlanta big house swung open, I flippanantly remarked to the guard on duty: “So long, Jim.” — Red Rudensky, The Gonif, p. 137, 1970
- Chazz, I don’t want to go to the Big House! — Airheads, 1994

Big J nickname

Juarez, Mexico US, 1970

- — Current Slang, p. 13, Spring 1970

big jab noun

execution by lethal injection US, 2002

- — Jeffrey Ian Ross, Behind Bars, p. 182, 2002; Slammer Slang

Big Joe noun

a novice, especially a military recruit US, 1947

- — American Speech, p. 54, February 1947: “Pacific War language”

Big Joe from Boston noun

in craps, a ten US, 1957

- — Sidney H. Radner, Radner on Dice, p. 10, 1957

big John noun

a police officer; the police US, 1980

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin’ down some lines, p. 229, 1980

big juicer noun

a powerful, all-night AM radio station US, 1976

- — Porter Bibb, CB Bible, p. 87, 1976

big kahuna noun

a top leader US, 1990

From a Hawaiian term for “priest” or “wise man.”

- This might be the big kahuna, gentlemen. — New Jack City, 1990
- Because I fly a few hundred thousand miles a year, United gave me Big Kahuna status. — Sergio Zyman, The End of Advertising as We Know It, p. 207, 2002

Big L noun

1 love US, 1987

- It’s love, baby. And Whatcom County residents found it at the Northwest Washington Fair in Lynden. From horse barn to the grandstand, they tell how they walked through the gates and into the big “L.” — Bellingham (Washington) Herald, p. 1C, 13th August 2002

2 the federal penitentiary in Leavenworth, Kansas US, 1970

- I was broke, back in stir, and the Big L was surrounding me. — Red Rudensky, The Gonif, p. 6, 1970

big-league adjective powerful, influential, important US, 1919

- Being one of Yanowitz’s boys made them big league. — Irving Shulman, Cry Tough, p. 103, 1949
- CLARENCE: Is he big league? DICK: He’s nothing. — True Romance, 1993

big leagues noun

a high level in any field US, 1941

Also used in the singular.

- Relax. This is the big league. . . — Horace McCoy, Kiss Tomorrow Good-bye, p. 293, 1948
- A dazzling crowd. The names escaped Reilly, but the titles and affiliations were awesome: bank trustees, Senior Wall Street lawyers, jurists, legislators. Al Reilly was in the big leagues. — Edwin Torres, Q & A, p. 139, 1977

Big M noun

1 morphine US, 1959

- Les, quite disheveled, still wearing his gray nut-house bathrobe, and totally strung-out in coming off the big M, had been trying to brief them as to the true nature of the movie they were producing. — Terry Southern, Blue Movie, p. 219, 1970

2 marriage US, 1966

- — Current Slang, p. 1, Winter 1966

big mama noun

the ocean US, 1991

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfinary, p. 10, 1991

big man on campus noun

a socially prominent student US, 1934

Initially used with respect, but often in later years with irony, if not scorn.

- “All the Big Men on Campus are wearing them. Where’ve you been?” “In the library,” I said, naming a place not frequented by Big Men on Campus. — Max Shulman, The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis, p. 40, 1951 big meeting in the sky noun heaven as characterized by those who are part of twelve-step recovery program such as Alcoholics Anonymous US, 1998

- — Christopher Cavanaugh, AA to Z, p. 54, 1998

Big Mo nickname

the USS Missouri US, 1945

- But she [Maureen Connolly] was a dynamo called Little Mo, the nickname an admiring comparison to Big Mo, the US Navy battleship Missouri famed at the time for World War II exploits. — Boston Globe, p. E7, 17th January 2003

big mother noun

a Sikorsky SH-3 helicopter used by the US Navy in Vietnam for search and rescue missions US, 1990

- The Sea Kings were affectionately known as “Big-Mothers” to those who flew and depended on them for rescue. — Gregory Clark, Words of the Vietnam War, p. 462, 1990
- The “Big Mother” SH-3 went in and picked up both survivors, although it got five bullet holes in it for its trouble. — Robert Powell, Vigilante Units in Combat, p. 73, 2004

Big Muddy nickname

1 the Mississippi River US, 1846

- Not only is the “Big Muddy” a long, long river, it is filled with majestic dams that create monstrous lakes. — Mansfield (Ohio) News Journal, p. 1B, 7th March 2004

2 the Missouri River US, 1825

- I told Eva-line I was going to take him over to Big Muddy, which runs into the Mississippi River around Murphysboro[.] — Minnesota Fats, The Bank Shot, p. 153, 1966
- Uncertain about the depth of the Missouri River over the summer, the two barge companies that move grain and fertilizer on the Big Muddy have shut down their operations, at least through 2004. — St. Louis Post-Dispatch, p. C1, 15th January 2004

big nickel noun

five hundred dollars US, 1961

- — John Scarne, Scarne’s Guide to Modern Poker, p. 273, 1979

big noise noun

1 an important and influential person US, 1906

- “We want an exciting campaign, we want you to be a big noise in this campaign.” [Quoting Chris Matthews] — New York Observer, p. 1, 2nd February 2004

2 in poker, the alpha player at a table US, 1996

- — John Vorhaus, The Big Book of Poker Slang, p. 7, 1996

bignum noun

any very large number, especially if greater than 2,147,483,648 US, 1983

- — Guy L. Steele et al., The Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 30, 1983

big NUMBER-oh noun

a birthday ending with a zero, especially 30, 40, and 50 US, 1980

- Some women get depressed when they hit the big five-oh. Others get motivated. — Atlanta Journal-Constitution, p. 21JA, 27th November 2003
- Helping her ring in the big three-oh were Sean Patrick Thomas, Alanna Ubach, Tiffany Limos. . . — Hollywood Reporter, 13th October 2003
- Brett Hawthorne hits the big “4-oh” today. — Herald-Dispatch (Huntington, West Virginia), p. 9A, 28th February 2004

Big O noun

1 an orgasm US, 1968

- Then, just as I was about to reach the big O, shrieking with pleasure, he hurled me down the stairs[.] — Gore Vidal, Myra Breckinridge, p. 270, 1968
- One of them is the wedge-shaped “Snap-On Stimulator” which again is aimed at the Clitoral big “O.” — Angelo d’Arcangelo, The Homosexual Handbook, p. 223, 1968
- He’s got spine, but he’s not the type who can’t wait to leave after the big O. — Anka Radakovich, The Wild Girls Club, p. 21, 1994
- On the subject of the Big O, the Newsweek article gets even more infuriating. — The Village Voice, 13th June 2000
- For those of you who’ve already experienced the joys of the Big O, you know how it feels[.] — Tristan Taormino, Pucker Up, p. 22, 2001

2 opium; heroin US, 1957

- “I’m here because of opium. The big O.” — United States Senate Committee on Veterans’ Affairs, Drug Addiction and Abuse Among Military Veterans, p. 455, 1971
- I’m not trying to hide the fact that I was smoking the Big O that night. — Ron Rosenbaum, Murder at Elaine’s, p. 41, 1978

big one noun

1 one hundred dollars US, 1961

- “How much?” “I said, three big ones.” — Ross Russell, The Sound, p. 135, 1961

2 one million dollars US, 1967

- “Three big ones, baby! And final cut!” “Three million? You’re kidding.” — Terry Southern, Blue Movie, p. 47, 1970

3 one thousand dollars US, 1863

- He could tell a bitch he needed—not wanted—five or six big ones without her saying “Whatta you need that kinda money for?” — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 59, 1973

- “How the hell am I gonna deliver ten big ones in little bills right in the middle of all them cops?” — Martin Gosch, The Last Testament of Lucky Luciano, p. 86, 1975

- But twenty big ones each? — George V. Higgins, Penance for Jerry Kennedy, p. 76, 1985

- Fifteen for the vig plus the ten, that’s twenty-five big ones you go for a whole year, buddy! You hear me? — Get Shorty, 1995

4 World War 2 US, 1971

- Well, I was in Italy, fighting the Big One, one-hundred fifty-six missions over Europe, my group. — Eugene Boe (Compiler), The Wit & Wisdom of Archie Bunker, p. 39, 1971

5 the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey circus US, 1973

- — Sherman Louis Sergel, The Language of Show Biz, p. 20, 1973

big orange pill noun

during the war in Vietnam, the antimalarial pill taken once a week in addition to the daily medication US, 1991
Chloroquine-primaquine was taken weekly in the form of a large, orange-colored pill.

- I don't know a soul who served in Southeast Asia that didn't have some kind of problem with the big orange pill, some were just worse than others. — Stanley McGowen, You Ain't Gonna Believe This But, p. 93, 2004

bigot noun

in computing, a person who is irrationally attached to a particular operating system or computer language US, 1991

- True bigots can be distinguished from mere partisans or zealots by the fact that they refuse to learn alternatives even when the march of time and/or technology is threatening to obsolete the favored tool. — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 59, 1991
- — Christian Crumlish, The Internet Dictionary, p. 21, 1995

big ouch noun

a serious injury US, 1962

- — American Speech, p. 271, December 1962: "The language of traffic policemen"

big outpatient department in the sky noun

death US, 1988–1989

- — Maledicta, p. 35, 1988–1989: "More Mailawukee medical maledicta"

big place noun

a state prison US, 1969

- "He's been in and out of the big place so often. And that's not including shorter stays in the county jail." — L.H. Whittemore, Cop, p. 193, 1969

big pockets noun

wealth US, 1971

- "Them ole gals just comes around when I got big pockets." — Robert Deane Pharr, S.R.O., p. 302, 1971

big pond noun

the Pacific Ocean US, 1991

Playing on the use of the term since the 1830s to refer to the Atlantic Ocean.

- I chickened out and opted for a free trip, courtesy of the U.S. Government, across the Big Pond. — E. Tayloe Wise, Eleven Bravo: A Skytrooper's Memoir of War in Vietnam, p. 11, 2005

big PX in the sky noun

death US, 1991

Vietnam war usage, grim humor based on many cheerful euphemisms for death as a "big [fill in the blank] in the sky."

- No big PX in the sky for him. — Danielle Steel, Message from Nam, p. 223, 1991

Big Q nickname

the San Quentin State Prison, California US, 1961

Just north of San Francisco, San Quentin houses California's death chamber.

- Simpkins was convicted of five counts of robbery one with aggravated assault, for five-to-life at Big Q[.] — James Ellroy, Hollywood Nocturnes, p. 129, 1994

Big R noun

during the Korean war, rotation home US, 1960

Distinguished from the conventional R AND R (rest and recreation).

- — American Speech, p. 121, May 1960: "Korean bamboo English"

big red noun

1 secobarbital, a sedative-hypnotic drug marketed under the brand name Seconal™ US, 2001

- He'd also legally scored far more interesting dope called secobarbital and sold as "Big Reds." These actually produced a slice of long-lasting silent giggles. — Howard Marks, The Howard Marks Book of Dope Stories, p. 113, 2001

2 adriamycin, an extremely toxic agent used in chemotherapy US, 1994

- — Sally Williams, "Strong" Words, p. 134, 1994

3 in craps, a one-roll bet on a seven US, 1981

If the shooter rolls a seven, he loses; "big red" thus serves as a diplomatic way to bet that the shooter will lose on the next roll.

- — N. B. Winkless, The Gambling Times Guide to Craps, p. 91, 1981

4 the desert sun US, 1991

- — Army, p. 47, November 1991

Big Red One nickname

the First Infantry Division, US Army US, 1967

The Division's patch is a big red number one.

- These men of the Big Red One held the record of more assault landings than any other US unit in WW II. — Elaine Shepard, The Doom Pussy, p. 8, 1967
- He had led a battalion, originally in the renowned 1st Infantry Division, "the Big Red One," and then a regiment flawlessly for more than two years[.] — Neil Sheehan, A Bright Shining Lie, p. 272, 1988
- There's the Big Red One and the First Air Cav/And all those other hordes. — Thomas Bowen, The Longest Year, p. 12, 1990: Ballad of Cords

Big Rock nickname

the US federal penitentiary on Alcatraz Island, San Francisco Bay US, 1970

- "Is there a blast, or are you going to the Big Rock?" He meant Alcatraz Island that we all used to joke about[.] — Red Rudenski, The Gonif, p. 60, 1970

big noun

in pool, the striped balls numbered 9 to 15 US, 1990

- — Steve Rushin, Pool Cool, p. 6, 1990

big shit noun

1 an important person, if only in their own eyes US, 1934

- "Ginsburg and Epstein don't pay off them welfare bigshits like they oughta." — Robert Deane Pharr, S.R.O., p. 321, 1971
- "Tommy's trying to act big shit and order Italian dishes like he knows what he's doing." [Quoting James Lee Burke] — USA Today, p. 8D, 2nd August 1994

2 an important event or thing US, 1960

- We going down the road, smoking, talking cash trash, in laymen's terms, we talking big shit, right? — Washington Post, p. F1, 11th October 1992

big shotgun noun

a 106 mm recoilless rifle, developed during the Korean war and used extensively by the US Marines in Vietnam US, 1991

- Tanker's reference to the canister-firing 90 mm maingun on the M-48A3 tank. — Ralph Zumbro, Puma Force, p. xviii, 1991: Glossary

big-six talk noun

talk unsupported by action US, 1990

- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 198, 1990

big sleep noun

death; capital punishment US, 1951

- He told me he was going to get some one guy, even if he had to do the big sleep for it. — Thurston Scott, Cure it with Honey, p. 13, 1951

big slick noun

in hold 'em poker, an ace and a king as the first two cards dealt to a player US, 1981

- An ace and a king are a Santa Barbara. The older term for that is big slick, but a few years ago there was an oil spill off the coast and the California players started called it Santa Barbara. — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, pp. 18–19, 1987

Big Smoke nickname

Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania US, 1930

- Today, Pittsburgh is ranked among the cleanest cities in the world and often listed as one of the five most liveable cities by several national magazines. Old "Big Smoke" has finally left its cloudy legacy behind. — Times Union (Albany, New York), p. J1, 2nd June 2002

big sniff noun

execution in the gas chamber US, 1969

- The D.A. made it out as a triangle slaying, and he made it stick. So Jerry was going to take the Big Sniff. — Juan Carmel Cosmes, Memoir of a Whoremaster, p. 66, 1969

big spark noun

an electric shock administered in a hospital to a patient whose heart has failed in an attempt to revive the heart US, 1994

- — Sally Williams, "Strong" Words, p. 143, 1994

big stuff noun

artillery, artillery fire US

- I could hear them in the compound outside the perimeter getting ready for a final assault, but when the big stuff started coming in, they broke and ran. — Bill Adler, Letters from Vietnam: Voices of War, 63, 3 June 1966
- Let's give 'em eighteen rounds of the big stuff in three batteries at forty minute intervals beginning at 0130. You get the hang of it? — W.D. Ehrhart, Vietnam-Perkasie: A Combat Marine Memoir, p. 104, 1995
- Big stuff: Artillery fire support or Air Force ordinance. — Shelby Stanton, Vietnam Order of Battle, p. 353, 2003

big tender noun

a scene in a pornographic film when the participants hug each other US, 1991

- Now, this [on screen] is what we call "the big tender," only the dialogue is a little different[.] — Robert Stoller and I.S. Levine, Coming Attractions, p. 88, 1991
- — Adult Video News, p. 42, August 1995

big-ticket adjective expensive; representing a major purchase US, 1945

- Dick Nichols said, "Now you're talking about a big-ticket item." — Elmore Leonard, Bandits, p. 192, 1987

big time noun

1 the highest level of achievement in a field US, 1910

Originally theatrical.

- "I been away!" She said, "Uh-oh. You mean you were in jail?" "Jail, shit, the big time." — Elmore Leonard, Maximum Bob, p. 149, 1991
- They started off robbing 7/11 type stores and gas stations and later graduated to banks and the big time. — Natural Born Killers, 1994

2 a long sentence to state prison US, 1939

- "What else could you be? As much big time as you pulled?" — Malcolm Braly, It's Cold Out There, p. 40, 1966

3 heroin US, 1971

- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 33, 1971
- — Richard A. Spears, The Slang and Jargon of Drugs and Drink, p. 44, 1986

big-time verb

to show off US, 1957

- That was the way jokers in Harlem carried their money when they wanted to big-time. — Chester Himes, A Rage in Harlem, p. 76, 1957

Big Tom noun

in a carnival ball-throwing game, a big stuffed cat target that has been weighted and is thus hard to knock down US, 1981

- — Don Wilmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 22, 1981

big top noun

a prison, especially a maximum-security state prison US, 1955

- He went straight to the big top, Rikers Island. — Rocky Garciano (with Rowland Barber), Somebody Up There Likes Me, p. 76, 1955
- Fixer, I'm going to send those dirty bastards to the big-top for murder-one. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Trick Baby, p. 306, 1969
- This killing was witnessed by twelve hundred cons during the noon meal at the Big Top's mess hall. — Red Rudensky, The Gonif, p. 21, 1970
- — John R. Armore and Joseph D. Wolfe, Dictionary of Desperation, p. 20, 1976

big train noun

in horse racing, a great racehorse US, 1951

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 14, 1951

big Turk noun

an ostrich US, 1981

Circus and carnival usage.

- — Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 22, 1981

Big Two nickname

World War 2 US, 1961

- He'd been in the Big Two and had come out a war hero, having been among those who'd fought their way up the boot of Italy and past the slaughterhouse known as Monte Cassino. — Robert Campbell, Boneyard, p. 10, 1992

Big V nickname

Vietnam US, 1972

- However, it was not ABOUT our time, was it? Director Steven Spielberg steered clear of the big "V." Vietnam. — Austin American-Statesman, p. A15, 30 July 1998

big wheel noun

a prominent, powerful and important person US, 1942

- Heretofore I thought Kalecki was the big wheel behind the syndicate, but now I could see that he was only a small part of it. — Mickey Spillane, I, The Jury, p. 157, 1947
- Every one of us is a big wheel, and I don't mind telling you I'm one of the biggest. — Hal Elson, Tomboy, p. 90, 1950
- The athletes and the rich boys and the brains were the big wheels at Summer High School. — Dick Gregory, Nigger, p. 47, 1964
- Big hara put the cuffs on me in the car, just in case a big wheel was present when they brought me in. — Piri Thomas, Down These Mean Streets, p. 314, 1967 big whoop!

used to mock the importance of what has just been said US, 1981

- I'll never drive your precious Mercedes again. Big whoop. — American Beauty, 1999
- I know, you're thinking, Fifty dollars! Big whoop! — Missy Hyatt, Missy Hyatt, p. 35, 2001

big win noun

complete luck US, 1991

- "Yes, those two physicists discovered high-temperature superconductivity in a batch of ceramic that had been prepared incorrectly according to their experimental schedule. Small mistake; big win!" — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 56, 1991

big yard noun

the main yard in a prison where the general population mingles for recreation US, 1958

- I, at last encountered, when first stumbling across the "Big Yard"—as the "cons" call it. — Neal Cassidy, Grace Beats Karma, p. 59, 16th October 1958: Letter to Carolyn Cassidy
- Jack gave him the Big Yard stare, cold and hard, set his tone low, and asked, "What did you say?" — Elmore Leonard, Bandits, p. 104, 1987

big yellow mama nickname

the electric chair US, 2001

- Ohio and other states call it "Old Sparky." In Alabama, it's the "Big Yellow Mama." In Mississippi, it's "Black Death." — Cincinnati Enquirer, p. 15, 2nd September 2001

bike doc noun

in mountain biking, a bicycle mechanic US, 1992

- — William Nealy, Mountain Bike!, p. 162, 1992

bikini bar noun

a sex club where the dancer strips down to her bikini US, 1988

- Those exercises and her three-hour shifts as an exotic dancer in bikini bars would one day give her the physical strength to hoist people twice her weight over her head. — Los Angeles Times, p. 1 (Part 5), 18th January 1988
- "I just want a bikini bar. Girls are going to wear beach bikinis, not tiny little strings," she said. — Riveride (California) Press Enterprise, p. B1, 2nd September 1994
- A Scottsdale cabaret owner is currently working on turning the property around the corner from Majerle's into a "bikini bar" (translation: topless, but with panties). — Phoenix New Times, 11th December 2003

bikini wax noun

an application of hot wax to remove a person's pubic hair US, 1982

- — Mary Corey and Victoria Westermark, Fer Shurr! How to be a Valley Girl, 1982
- Cosmo may mention where to get a good bikini wax for that trip to the Bahamas, but what about the girl who wants to go beyond the bathing-suit line? — The Village Voice, 8th-14th November 2000

bilged adjective worn out, tired US, 1968

- — Fred Hester, Slang on the 40 Acres, p. 15, 1968

bilingual adjective

bisexual US, 1964

- — Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 17, 1964

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 29, 1967
- — Anon., King Smut's Wet Dreams Interpreted, 1978

bill noun

1 a dollar US, 1915

- He'd raised one hundred sixty-five bills to buy an anti-war ad in the school paper, and then the principal, who is widely held to be a bad person, refused to let the ad run. — James Simon Kunen, The Strawberry Statement, p. 80, 1968
- Like I was saying about the hundred bills: the suit and shoes would run about eight bill, right? — Nathan Heard, Howard Street, p. 160, 1968
- They must have won eighty dollars between them last night at poker (and spent considerable time letting us be reminded of the fact on the way over here), and they walk after being shot down for a measly five bills. — Jim Carroll, Forced Entries, p. 65, 1987

2 one hundred dollars US, 1929

- I'll sound Jimmy on a stronger advance, say a bill and a half, but I can't guarantee anything. — Ross Russell, The Sound, p. 189, 1961
- "I only got two bills because I made it with a donkey." — Elliott Parker, What You Always Wanted to Know About Sodomy and Perversion, p. 256, 1972
- He's pulling down six bills a week. — The Blues Brothers, 1980
- If his stuff is worth twenty-five bills then I probably won't have to sell all of it. — Kenneth Lonergan, This Is Our Youth, p. 94, 2000

▶ do a bill to spend one hundred dollars US, 1974

- — Stewart L. Tubbs and Sylvia Moss, Human Communication, p. 120, 1974

Bill!

used as a warning that police are near US, 1988

- "Now, when they see me, they yell '5-0' or 'Bill! Bill!', street slang for police." — Record (Bergen County, New Jersey), p. L1, 24th February 1998

Bill Daley *noun▶ on the Bill Daley

in horse racing, having taken the lead at the start of the race and held it for the entire race US, 1932

- Tod [Sloan] got his horses away from the post fast and put them out in front. He was "off on a Bill Daley." — San Francisco Examiner, p. 17, 28th June 1949
- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 46, 1951
- He would, as the saying goes, "be off on a Bill Daley" and get so far out in front that the foreign jockeys employed the "come from behind" technique couldn't catch him. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 21, 15th January 1952
- Claude was a wire-to-wire winner and as a result the phrase "on the Bill Daley" was coined and today it is uttered hundreds of times daily by racetrackers. — San Francisco News Call-Bulletin, p. 51, 14th April 1965

billfold biopsy noun

a hospital's analysis of the ability of a patient seeking admission to pay their bill US, 1986

- — Rachel S. Epstein and Nina Liebman, Biz Speak, p. 20, 1986

Billie Hoke noun

cocaine US, 1959

A personification based on COKE.

- — J.E. Schmidt, Narcotics Lingo and Lore, p. 16, 1959

billies; billys noun

money US, 1982

- I saw the kill mini, but like I totally don't have the billys to buy it. — Mary Corey and Victoria Westermark, Fer Shurr! How to be a Valley Girl, 1982

bills noun

1 money US, 1997

- Those without bills have spare change. — Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 18, 1997

2 the game of pool US, 1993

- — Mike Shamos, The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Billiards, p. 29, 1993

billy noun

1 a police officer's blackjack or club, a truncheon US, 1850

- I clung desperately to the back of the seat until one of the cops hit me on the arm with a billy. — Hunter S. Thompson, Songs of the Doomed, p. 86, 1962
- The cop came down. He had his billy out. — Nat Henstoff, Jazz Country, p. 129, 1965
- Back at school I eat in a restaurant full of police. As audibly as possible I compose a poem entitled "Ode to the TPE": It extols the beauty of rich wood billies, the sheen of handcuffs, the feel of a boot on your face. — James Simon Kunen, The Strawberry Statement, p. 45, 1968

2 an unsophisticated rustic US, 1991

An abbreviation of "hillbilly".

- To the chagrin of established white ethnic groups, the billies swarmed into the red brick and Formstone rowhouses in the southern reaches of the city. — David Simon, Homicide, p. 420, 1991
- Never mind that it's three black men and a white girl held hostage in the street by a red-faced billy. — David Simon and Edward Burns, The Corner, p. 317, 1997

bim noun

a shortened form of "bimbo" US, 1925

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 7, 1945
- I date the best-looking bims in Sigma at school, and I'm a Kapp, the best frat there. — James T. Farrell, Saturday Night, p. 34, 1947
- The table is so situated that the town's aging and more prosperous squab-hunters who congregate at it nightly can case the door and ogle the bims brought in by younger and more energetic men. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 166, 1948
- But a bim that won't bolt while you doin' a little jolt / is just one out of a thousand my friend. — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 116, 1964

bimbette noun

a young, mindless, attractive woman US, 1982

A diminutive of the more widely known BIMBO.

- Shannon and the other blonde bimbettes gasp in delight as they bring this ballbusting orgy to its only possible conclusion. — Adult Video, p. 32, August/September 1986
- I don't need these bimbettes you got me chasing. — Something About Mary, 1998

bimbo noun

a well-built, attractive, somewhat dim woman US, 1920

An offensive term.

- New York has the most beautiful bimbos on earth and it will amuse you to learn that few of them come from New York. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 130, 1948
- When Biff gets there with the bimbo he finds 94 of my baby turtles crawling in the bed[.] — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 13, 1954
- Then the bimbo gets kidnapped by some Zombies[.] — Joe Bob Briggs, Joe Bob Goes to the Drive-In, p. 156, 1987
- He had a typical Frenchman's attitude toward women—i.e., that they were all bimbos. — Terry Southern, Now Dig This, p. 174, 1991

bindle stiff noun

a migratory worker; a tramp US, 1897

- Every bindle stiff on the street lifted his lids, and eyed this group of black kids coming along the Bowery. — Emmett Grogan, Ringolevio, p. 9, 1972

bing noun

1 jail, especially solitary confinement in jail US, 1932

- Mrs. McDonnell one day passes the bing (cramped little cell where guys are stuck in solitary confinement, as punishment), finds somebody locked up there and runs to Big John screaming[.] — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 315, 1946
- Later on, Collier made the bing again on a battery charge. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 16, 13th November 1947
- Boys sent to the bing (the solitary confinement cell, the punishment chamber—without mattress, light, or reading matter, an inmate must stand silently for five days and sleep on the cement floor), sent there for fighting, talking, dressing improperly, or getting seconds on food. — Evergreen, p. 46, April 1970
- The only game I'm going to play with you is to break your little Puerto Rican ass and slam you in the bing until you leave this place. — Miguel Pinero, Short Eyes, p. 104, 1975

2 an injection with a hypodermic needle and syringe US, 1918

- — J.E. Schmidt, Narcotics Lingo and Lore, p. 16, 1959

3 crack cocaine; a piece of crack cocaine US, 1994

- — US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994

bingo noun

a prison riot US, 1992

- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 100, 1992

bingo adjective + noun

(of a plane's fuel tank) just enough fuel to reach home base US, 1956

- For a fellow down to his last fuel, it's "bingo." — San Francisco Examiner, p. 10 (II), 2 June 1957
- "Us too, almost bingo." Bingo—the low fuel level that would force them to return to the KC-135 for an inflight refueling. — Richard Herman, Force of Eagles, p. 384, 1990
- "No matter what the mission develops into, bingo—go home." — Bob Stoffey, Cleared Hot!, p. 15, 1992 bingo!

used for emphasis or for registering pleasurable surprise, success, excitement UK, 1927

- They take a bit here and a bit there until the picture is complete and bingo, they have something we're trying to keep under the hat. — Mickey Spillane, One Lonely Night, p. 94, 1951
- No way, Jose, the cop said. Bingo: nine months in the laundry at Wayside. — James Ellroy, Suicide Hill, p. 597, 1986
- HITCHHIKER: You see Eight-Minute Abs and right next to it you see Seven-Minute Abs—which you gonna spring for? TED: I'd go with the seven. HITCHHIKER: Bingo. — Something About Mary, 1998
- ELLE: Bill? BUDD: Wrong brother, you hateful bitch. ELLE: Budd? BUDD: Bingo. — Kill Bill, 2003

bingo field noun

a field in Vietnam where an American bomber could land safely if unable to return to its home aircraft carrier US, 1984

- It started becoming real when we started getting fewer and fewer "bingo" fields. — Wallace Terry, Bloods, p. 193, 1984

binky noun

a baby's pacifier that a heroin user has converted into a squeeze bulb for injecting a dose of heroin through an eye dropper and needle into the vein US, 1989

- From the common children's nickname for a pacifier.
- — Geoffrey Fronet, Digging for Diamonds, p. 9, 1989

binocs noun

binoculars US, 1943

- Those Germans might be some crazy, genocidal Hitler-loving bastards, but they knew how to make a great pair of binocs. — John Ridley, Everybody Smokes in Hell, p. 174, 1999
- The platoon commanders went up on top for one last look through the binocs and to hear the Captain's plan. — Charles Anderson, The Grunts, p. 58, 1976
- Late one afternoon, on top of the pass, my RTO squatted beside me as I swept the highway far below with my binocs. — Cherokee Paul McDonald, Into the Green, p. 24, 2001

bip noun

the head; the brain US, 1947

- At first the good citizens say he's off his bip. — Harry Haenigsen, Jive's Like That, 1947

bip verb

to break into a house while the housewife is outside hanging laundry on the line to dry US, 1972

An abbreviation of SCALLYBIP.

- Around Christmas of that year me and a friend was going to go up through Oklahoma bipping—scallybipping [burglarizing a home when they saw the wife out back hanging clothes], you know. — Bruce Jackson, In the Life, p. 82, 1972

bipe verb

to break and enter the dwelling of another while they sleep, with the intent of stealing US, 1990

- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 198, 1990

bippy noun

used as a jocular euphemism for "ass" US, 1967

Coined and popularized by Rowan and Martin on the television program Laugh-In (NBC, 1968–73); a wildly popular word for several years, the key word in the title of the 1969 Rowan and Martin film The Maltese Bippy, and then abandoned on the junk heap of slang.

- You bet your sweet bippy I did. [Quoting Apollo 10 crew member Tom Stafford] — San Francisco Examiner, p. 1, 26th May 1969
- — Helen Dahlsglog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 7, 1972

bird noun

1 an ordinary fellow US, 1839

- This is an inside job, pulled by one of the company or some bird working for them. — Chester Gould, Dick Tracy Meets the Night Crawler, p. 28, 1945
- You birds say that knowledge is power—yet all your knowledge turns into impotence when you want it used for human harmony and peace. — Philip Wylie, Opus 21, p. 58, 1949

2 the penis US, 1969

- — John D. Bell et al., Loosely Speaking, p. Addenda, 1969
- "Bird"—the male organ. Used in jovial greeting, as in "How's your bird?" — Washington Post, p. B1, 17th January 1985

3 a homosexual man US, 1956

- The muggers and the sluggers who in recent years have made it unsafe for almost anyone to walk the public streets late at night, learned about the Birds long ago. — Robert Sylvester, No Cover Charge, p. 268, 1956

4 a surfer who uses any bird or wings as his surfboard logo US, 1988

- — Michael V. Anderson, The Bad, Rad, Not to Forget Way Cool Beach and Surf Discretionary, p. 3, 1988

5 a twenty-five cent betting token US, 1974

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 19, 1987

6 a gesture of the middle finger, meaning "fuck you" US, 1961

- It was Red's way of giving him the bird. — Ross Russell, The Sound, p. 177, 1961
- — Frank Prewitt and Francis Schaeffer, Vacaville Vocabulary, 1961–1962
- — Collin Baker, College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 79, 1968
- He got up the juice to give me a feeble middle-finger farewell, and when the bird was in midair I stepped on his heart and pushed down[.] — James Ellroy, Hollywood Nocturnes, p. 141, 1994

7 an amphetamine tablet US, 1992

- — Jay Robert Nash, Dictionary of Crime, p. 29, 1992
- — Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 19, 1993

8 a kilogram of cocaine US, 2002

- "In the past two or three years around here, a brick, kilo of coke—1,000 grams of the drug, they'd call a 'bird,'" Hagedorn said. — Milwaukee Journal Sentinel, p. 1B, 9th February 2002

9 Wild Turkey™ whisky US, 1984

- "I've never seen anybody that loved that ol' Bird as much as Jim Ed. When he buys a bottle, he just throws the cap away." — Ken Weaver, Texas Crude, p. 64, 1984
- We just chillin' out, drinking a little Bird, that's all. You want a taste? — Oodie Hawkins, Great Lawd Buddha, p. 11, 1990

10 a helicopter US, 1967

- "Unless the friendlies have their ass in a crack, no raget is worth a man or a bird." — Elaine Shepard, The Doom Pussy, p. 51, 1967
- A total of eight birds (helicopters) could make a pick-up simultaneously. — Kenneth Mertel, Year of the Horse, p. 66, 1968
- Seven birds appeared from behind the resupply tent. — William Pelfrey, The Big V, p. 23, 1972
- But we got special permission tonight for this big shot, 'cause we had to land the bird in the middle of the street[.] — Stephen J. Cannell, The Tin Collectors, p. 239, 2001

birdbath noun

1 a cursory washing of the body using little water US, 1953

- [A]fter I've finished my calisthenics and the hot water has arrived, I take me a bird (jailbird) bath in the little sink. — Eldridge Cleaver, Soul on Ice, p. 43, 1968

2 the area in a military motor pool where vehicles are washed US, 1980

Coined in Vietnam.

- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 22, 1991
- The only activity is in the "birdbath," where National Guard troops training at Fort Hood wash dozens of personnel carriers with high-pressure water cannons. — Texas Monthly, p. 98, March 1991

birdbrain noun

a human who gives the impression of possessing a bird-size brain; a fool US, 1933

- Leo wasn't there—probably out chasing missing persons, the birdbrain[.] — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 4, 1954

- In spite of his father's reputation as the family intellectual, Billy, at about age twelve, considered him something of a birdbrain[.] — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, p. 11, 1970

birdcage noun

the anus US, 1972

- — Bruce Rodgers, The Queens' Vernacular, p. 18, 1972

bird circuit noun

a prolonged group tour of gay bars; the bars themselves US, 1956

- The Bird Circuit—a network of saloons and small night clubs catering exclusively to the homosexuals—and what are generally known as Broad Joints. — Robert Sylvester, No Cover Charge, p. 265, 1956
- — The Guild Dictionary of Homosexual Terms, p. 4, 1965
- [R]ight after the war the bars of New York were filled with beauty, particularly along “the bird circuit” as it was then known[.] — Gore Vidal, Myron, p. 335, 1974

bird colonel; full-bird colonel noun

in the US Army, a full colonel US, 1946

From the eagle insignia.

- A bird colonel, commanding a brigade of the 4th Infantry Division. — Michael Kerr, Dispatches, p. 178, 1977
- Had NCO's all around his desk / And a full Bird Colonel in the leanin' rest. — Sandee Shaffer Johnson, Cadences, p. 66, 1986
- He [Oliver North] is a lieutenant colonel in the United States Marine Corps, although his chances of making bird colonel seem dim this week. — Hunter S. Thompson, Generation of Swine, p. 184, 1988

bird dog noun

1 a scout US, 1929

- The boys had instructed their courtroom bird dogs to call that number as soon as the verdict was in. — Robert Sylvester, No Cover Charge, p. 205, 1956
- I had a bird dog in almost every “action” room who would tip me off for small change. — Robert Byrne, McGoorty, pp. 25–26, 1972
- Art says Mansell used him as a bird dog. Mr. Sweetie would go in a dope house—very friendly type of guy—sit around and chat a while, pass out some angel dust, tell a few jokes—that's the way they worked. Get 'em laid back on the dusty, then Clement comes in and takes 'em off easy. . . — Elmore Leonard, City Primeval, p. 100, 1980

2 in professional sports, a talent scout or a scout's associates who let him know about players who may be prospects for professional play US, 1950

- — Richard Scholl, Running Press Glossary of Baseball Language, p. 16, 1977
- — Bill Shefski, Running Press Glossary of Football Language, p. 15, 1978
- Paul's scouts also found Vada Pinson, Jim Maloney, Tony Perez and—after much cajoling from Buddy Bloebaum, a bird-dog scout who was the kid's uncle—Pete Rose. — Cincinnati Enquirer, p. 4D, 28th October 2003

3 a person who provides information about potential victims to a thief or group of thieves US, 1977

- — Robert C. Prus and C.R.D. Sharper, Road Hustler, p. 169, 1977

4 a navigational device in planes that points in the direction of a radio signal US, 1956

- — American Speech, p. 227, October 1956: “More United States Air Force slang”
- — American Speech, p. 118, May 1963: “Air refueling words”

5 a person who solicits players for gambling, whether in a casino or a private poker game US, 1949

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 19, 1987
- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 10, 1988

6 a Cessna observation aircraft US, 1992

- Now Charlie didn't like the sound of that birddog / And the bullets began to fly. — Joseph Tuso, Singing the Vietnam Blues, p. 142, 1990: Old 97, the O-IE
- Their sister squadron, VMO-2, had light, fixed-wing Cessna observation aircraft, “Bird Dogs,” for forward air control (FAC) and for controlling attack bombers[.] — Bob Stoffey, Cleared Hat, p. 8, 1992

bird-dog verb

1 to eavesdrop US, 2002

- [S]ome wood suggests I stop bird-dogging his conversation (eavesdropping—one of my many character flaws). — Jimmy Lerner, You Got Nothing Coming, p. 185, 2002

2 to flirt with another's date US, 1941

- You oughta be out running around in a convertible, bird-dogging girls. — Ken Kesey, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, p. 184, 1962
- — American Speech, p. 193, October 1965: “Notes on campus vocabulary, 1964”

3 to look for, find and return with someone or something US, 1948

- Old Preston was back out there bird-dogging suckers. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 98, 1969
- [T]he pilot-mogul had me out bird-dogging quiff: prowling bus depots and train stations for buxom young girls who'd fall prey to RKO contracts in exchange for frequent nighttime visits. — James Ellroy, Hollywood Nocturnes, p. 199, 1994

bird egg noun

an amphetamine tablet US, 1993

- — Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 18, 1993

bird food noun

inferior quality marijuana US, 2001

- “Bet he didn't sell you this crummy bag a' bird food,” Shane said, holding up the bag of thin, seed-ridden grass. — Stephen J. Cannell, The Tin Collectors, p. 98, 2001

birdie noun

a passive, effeminate male homosexual US, 1921

- — Vincent J. Montealeone, Criminal Slang, p. 23, 1949
- He didn't turn around even when he heard the crunch of boots on the gravel, or felt the heavy body of the bulldog creature filling the space at his back, or even when the sodomite spoke. “You're a birdie and I'm going to have your ass.” — Robert Campbell, Alice in La-La Land, pp. 6–7, 1987

bird in a cage noun

the rank of Specialist 5, in the US Army US, 1968

From the eagle under a curved stripe on the chevron.

- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 4, 1968

bird nest noun

a person's room, apartment, or house US, 1973

- Dickie held the sting, and I split back to the bird next to get what I left. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 23, 1973

bird of paradise noun

the US armed forces insignia designating honorable discharge US, 1946

- — American Speech, p. 153, April 1946: “GI words from the separation center and proctology ward”

bird sanctuary noun

any institution where traffic violators who are under pursuit are free from further pursuit once they pass the gates US, 1962

- — American Speech, p. 267, December 1962: “The language of traffic policemen”

bird's eye noun

a small dose of heroin US, 1973

- A bird's eye is generally what a junker takes in his first bang after being on vacation for a while. — David Maurer and Victor Vogel, The Slang and Jargon of Drugs and Drinks, p. 388, 1973

bird shit noun

a paratrooper US

From the jocular tease that only two things fall from the sky, paratroopers and bird shit.

- Another impolite reference, bird shit, comes from the Vietnam War, where it was military slang for paratroopers (who drop from the sky). — Christine Ammer, Cool Cats, Top Dogs, and Other Beastly Expressions, p. 153, 1989
- Kenny replied, “The only things that fall out of the sky are bird shit and fools.” — John Burnam, A Soldier's Best Friend, p. 12, 2008
- Here I am in an Airborne unit. Only rain, bird shit and assholes fall out of the sky. — Tom Oathout, An American Son, 210

bird's nest noun

pubic hair that can be seen to extend from the crotch to the

navel US, 1972

Homosexual use; tangled imagery.

- — Bruce Rodgers, The Queens' Vernacular, 1972

birdwood noun

a cigarette US, 1944

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Live Talk Dictionary, p. 7, 1945

birthday card noun

in poker, the one card needed and drawn to complete an unlikely good hand US, 1996

- — John Vorhaus, The Big Book of Poker Slang, p. 7, 1996

birthday present noun

in tiddlywinks, a stroke of good luck US, 1977

- — Verbatim, p. 525, December 1977

birthday suit noun

a state of nudity UK, 1771

- “Why don't you go back to your place and change into something comfortable? “My birthday suit?” — Robert Gover, This Maniac Responsible, p. 115, 1963

biscuit noun

1 a good-looking member of whatever sex attracts you US, 1990

- My brother was seeing this biscuit out here and she almost got him shot. — Boyz N The Hood, 1990
- But even the grunge-wear could not dull the brilliant polished-mineral black of his eyes or lessen the effect of his lavish eyelashes, pouting lips, or leanly muscled babe-of-life body. A biscuit, as Mab would say. — Francesca Lia Block, I Was a Teenage Fairy, p. 73, 1998
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 1, Spring 1998

2 the head US, 1934

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Live Talk Dictionary, p. 7, 1945
- “Then he yanks out the baker and bangs him. Smack in the biscuit.” — Richard Prather, The Peddler, p. 67, 1952

3 a watch US, 1905

- Think our nut will show to take his biscuit out of hook? — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Doom Fox, p. 175, 1978

4 a phonograph record US, 1950

- — Arnold Shaw, Lingo of Tin-Pan Alley, p. 7, 1950

5 a white tablet of methadone, a synthetic narcotic used to treat heroin addicts US, 1972

- — Richard A. Spears, The Slang and Jargon of Drugs and Drink, p. 46, 1986

6 a handgun US, 1962

- — Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World's Toughest Prison, p. 791, 1962
- “You have the biscuit?” Godineaux asked, using street slang for a gun. — New York Post, p. 4, 28th May 2000
- I roll with groups of ghetto bastards with biscuits. — RZA, The Wu-Tang Manual, p. 146, 2005

7 a black prisoner US, 1976

- — John R. Armore and Joseph D. Wolfe, Dictionary of Desperation, p. 20, 1976

8 a can of C-rations US

- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 22, 1991

9 used as a euphemism for “bitch” US, 1999

- Drop the biscuit. (I will!) — Eminem (Marshall Mathers), Guilty Conscience, 1999

biscuit *adjective*easy US, 1997

- Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 20, 1997

biscuit bitch *noun*a female Red Cross volunteer US, 1983Vietnam war usage; less common than the more popular DOUGHNUT DOLLY.

- Biscuit bitch refers to a female volunteer in the American Red Cross.
- Philip Herbst, Wimmin, Wimps & Wallflowers, p. 24, 2001

biscuit gun *noun*a signal light given from a landing strip to aircraft US, 1952

- Without radio contact you have to rely on “biscuit guns” beamed from the tower. — Elaine Shepard, The Doom Pussy, p. 191, 1967

biscuits *noun1 money US, 1977

- Bill Davis, Jawjacking, p. 18, 1977

2 shoes US, 1993

- Wearing my fresh Pendleton shirt, beige khakis, and biscuits (oldmen comfort shoes, the first shoe officially dubbed a “Crip shoe”), I threw on my black bomber jacket and stepped out into the warm summer night.
- Sanyika Shakur, Monster, p. 45, 1993

biscuit snatcher *noun*the hand; a finger US, 1953

- Lavada Durst, The Lives of Dr. Hepcat, p. 11, 1953

bishop *noun*the penis US, 1916

Used in a variety of expressions that refer to male masturbation.

- Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 80, 1968
- I banged the bishop over this one more times than I care to count.
- Armistead Maupin, Babycakes, p. 75, 1984 bit *noun1 a prison sentence US, 1866

- Now that I was in the money and had done two bits in the pen, I got more respect from the gang. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 44, 1946
- He was sent up for his first real bit when he was 16. — Hubert Selby Jr., Last Exit to Brooklyn, p. 42, 1957
- By the time he was twenty-three he had done four bits in the joint.
- Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 33, 1969
- Jack Hardy, he worked for a safe company after he did a six-year bit.
- Casino, 1995

2 an interest; an affected mannerism; a role US, 1955

- “What a drag!” said Red. “What’s the bit?” “Hangoversville, for all I know,” said her mother. — Steve Allen, Bop Fables, p. 37, 1955
- She had done the champagne-and-stout bit, the Westhampton bit, the French poodle bit. — Max Shulman, Rally Round the Flag, Boys!, p. 71, 1957
- Kim Novak is doing the intellectual bit. Reading scads of books. — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 24, 21st November 1957

3 an activity US, 1968

- Burton H. Wolfe, The Hippies, p. 203, 1968

4 used as a meaningless embellishment of the preceding noun, as in “Let’s do the lunch bit” US, 1955

- In the white-collar canyons of Manhattan, the smart-talk boys are almost constantly “doing” some kind of “bit.” If they want to propose going to lunch, they say: “Let’s do the lunch bit.” If they see a motion picture, they “do the movie bit.” — Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, 11th October 1955

5 twelve and a half cents US, 1821

- “Two bits!” he yelled to the boy who took the hat. — Irving Shulman, The Amboy Dukes, p. 228, 1947
- It is customary to give her four bits for the pro in the powder-room. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 221, 1948
- I had to panhandle two bits for the bus. I finally hit a Greek minister who was standing around the corner. He gave me the quarter with a nervous lookaway. — Jack Kerouac, On the Road, p. 107, 1957

6 twelve dollars and fifty cents US, 1929

- “One and four bits!” — Lois O’Conner, The Bare Facts, p. 45, 1964
- Sweet meat, you wouldn’t be happy, respect me, couldn’t love me if say I became a funky tire changer for six bits a week to support us and what’s it name? — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Doom Fox, p. 75, 1978

▶ pull a bitto serve a prison sentence US, 1969

- I thought about Oscar and wondered if he could pull his bit or if he would go back to his parents in a pine box, or worse to the crazy farm. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 51, 1969 bit bashing *noun*low level, tedious computer programing US, 1991

- Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 60, 1991

bit bucket noun

in computing, the mythical place where lost information goes US, 1983

- Guy L. Steele et al., The Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 33, 1983

bitca *noun*used as a euphemism for BITCH US, 2001

Coined by the writers of the television series “Buffy the Vampire Slayer” in 2001 and used outside the confines of the show with some degree of referencing.

- Trips to Ireland, house in the Hamptons, sailboat, a modest amount of fame, a loving family. I’d say ol’ Spalding’s a whiny little bitca. — alt.true-crime, 15th January 2004

- He was hilarious and she wasn’t such a selfish shallow bitca when they were together. — televisionwithoutpity.com, 6th June 2004 bitch *noun1 a woman UK, 1713Although Grose considered it “the most offensive appellation that can be given to an English woman,” it is used in this sense with no derogatory intent; it is dismissive or patronising, based on gender rather than the unpleasant and lewd characteristics of earlier and concurrent usages. Comedian Richard Blackwood (b.1972) used “bitch” in this sense, referring to Queen Elizabeth II, during an edition of BBC television’s Have I Got News For You in October 2000. Six viewers complained to the Broadcasting Standards Commission. The BBC argued “Richard Blackwood was using the term as it is currently used, for example, in British and American Rap Music simply to mean ‘woman’, and not as a term of abuse”. The complaints were not upheld.

- Johnny was always telling us about bitches. To Johnny, every chick was a bitch. Even mothers were bitches. Of course, there were some nice bitches, but they were still bitches. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 113, 1965
- I know you been traveling a lot of Europe and used to “dem harems” and things so I brought you four bitches. They’re going to do anything you ask them to! — Babs Gonzales, I Paid My Dues, p. 84, 1967
- Bitch involves many connotations. It is, of course, allied to White middle-class usage, but is far from synonymous with it. Sometimes it is used insultingly or as a curse, but often it is used casually and without malice! — Christina and Richard Milner, Black Players, p. 32, 1972
- And if you bitches talk shit I’ll have to put the smack down! — Dr. Dre, Nuthin’ But a “G” Thing, 1992

2 a despicable woman UK, 1400

- On the other hand, Charles Laughton kills his wife in The Suspect (1944) because she is a total bitch. — Jeanine Basinger, A Woman’s View, p. 383, 1995

3 the person taking the passive role in a male homosexual relationship; a feminine or weak man UK, 1726

- He was neither a wolf nor a wolverine but just a pleasant bitch who had a crush on me. — Chester Himes, Cast the First Stone, p. 72, 1952
- “You think you’s a man, bitch. Running off with my ho like this.” — Frederique Delacoste, Sex Work, p. 31, 1987
- I ain’t nobody’s bitch, you a bitch, Bitch. You a bitch, your daddy’s a bitch and your momma’s a bitch! — Boyz n The Hood, 1990
- Archie was the bitch and Jughead was the butch. — Chasing Amy, 1997
- And he said you’re the bitch and you’re the butch. — Kevin Smith, Jay and Silent Bob Strike Back, p. 11, 2001

4 a remarkable person or thing US, 1943

- Jack, I finally made it, I was a musician. If you’ll pardon my beat-up English, ain’t that a bitch. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 56, 1946
- I hear you’ve decided to bite the bullet, as it were, in re: The ‘74 Senate race. It should be a real bitch, eh? — Hunter S. Thompson, Fear and Loathing in America, p. 478, 22nd February 1973; Letter to Gary Hart

5 something that is difficult or unpleasant UK, 1814

- “That’s a bitch,” Robell said sympathetically. — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 263, 1954
- And a kid like this they give eight years to for nothing. Ain’t that a bitch. — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, p. 31, 1970
- I heard Prohibition was a bitch, but the dope rumbles sure has buried a lot of people in my time. — Edwin Torres, Carlito’s Way, p. 93, 1975
- You can bet that Texas boy, Charles Whitman, the fella who shot all them guys from that tower, I’ll bet you green money that the first little black dot that he took a bead on, was the bitch of the bunch. — True Romance, 1993

6 in a deck of playing cards, any queen; in hearts, the queen of spades US, 1900

- Joseph Weingarten, American Dictionary of Slang, p. 29, 1954

7 in chess, the queen US, 1971

- Checksckmuck! The Queen of the Chess Player — American Speech, p. 232, Autumn–Winter 1971
- The guy called the queen, the most powerful and versatile piece on the board, the “bitch.” — Nathan McCall, Makes Me Wanna Holler, p. 147, 1994

8 a complaint; an extended period of complaining US, 1945

- “What’s your bitch? You’re having an affair, one of the better ones I’ve seen.” — Sara Vogan, Loss of Flight, p. 37, 1989

9 the middle position of the back seat of a car US, 1989

- Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 62, 1989

▶ put the bitch on you; hit you with the bitchto file criminal charges accusing someone of being a habitual criminal US, 1957

- They tell me it’s possible the judge may hit me with the bitch (habitual criminal) because my record will have a possible four strikes when I go up for trial. — James Blake, The Joint, p. 161, 7th January 1957
- Bruce Jackson, Outside the Law, p. 59, 1972

bitch *verb1 to complain US, 1918

- In early January I realize it’s been weeks since anyone has bitched about the desert. — Anthony Swofford, Jarhead, p. 151, 2003

2 to identify and punish someone as a habitual criminal US, 1976

- “While you wuz on Sick Bay I got bitched,” Smoothbore cried over the crashing water. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 122, 1990

bitch-ass *adjective*weak, effeminate US, 1979

- Bitch-ass motherfucker. — Elin Scaison, Tales of an All-Night Town, p. 89, 1979
- “Hey, dickhead,” she screamed. “Tell your bitch-ass gorilla to get off him.” — John Ridley, Love is a Racket, p. 225, 1998

bitch bath noun

a cleaning of the body using little water, powder, or other odor-masking agents US, 1953

- I took a bitch bath while two Kraqui artillery pieces burned about four hundred meters away. — Alex Vernon, The Eyes of Orion, p. 247, 1999

bitch box noun

a public address loudspeaker system US, 1945

- Welch called down to the ship's bridge, using the "bitch box," the intercom system that connected important parts of the ship with each other. — Gerry Carroll, *North S*A*R*, p. 56, 1991

bitchen; bitching adjective

excellent US, 1957

- It was a bitchen day, too. — Frederick Kohner, Gidget, p. 4, 1957
- "Wouldn't that be bitchen?" says Tom Coman. Bitchen is a surfer's term that means "great," usually. — Tom Wolfe, The Pump House Gang, p. 19, 1968
- It was so bitchin' mon. Everybody is talking about it. — Fast Times at Ridgemont High, 1982
- Encino is like SO BITCHEN! — Moon Unit and Frank Zappa, Valley Girl, 1982

bitchen twitchen adjective

excellent US, 1982

- Mimi Pond, The Valley Girl's Guide to Life, p. 52, 1982

bitcher noun

a habitual criminal US, 1963

- Marlena Kay Nelson, Rookies to Raaches, p. 7, 1963

bitches' Christmas noun

Halloween US, 1964

A glorious homosexual holiday, erotic and exotic.

- Guy Strait, The Lavender Lexicon, 1 June 1964
- They were singing "Don us now our gay apparel" on Bitches' Christmas. — Bruce Rodgers, Queens' Vernacular, p. 32, 1972
- In some homosexual newspapers it's called Bitches' Christmas. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 3, 1st November 1976

bitch fight noun

a quarrel between ostentatiously effeminate male homosexuals US, 1964

- Guy Strait, The Lavender Lexicon, 1964

bitch fit noun

a temper tantrum US, 1969

- Carey-Lee, secure in his knowledge that he is loved, does not throw a "bitch fit" when his nellie neighbor, Tommy (Edward Dunn) intimates that something more than a simple "visit" may have taken place while he was aWay. — Screw, p. 20, 27th October 1969

bitching adjective

used as a negative intensifier US, 1928

An abbreviation of "son-of-a-bitching."

- But he'd manage it somehow. He bitchin' well had to. — Tom Ronan, Moleskin Midas, 1956

bitch kitty noun

an excellent instance of, or example of, something US, 1944

- I was having one bitch kitty of a time tuning out the interracial sewer mouth shucking and jiving[.] — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Airright Willie and Me, p. 3, 1979

bitch lamp noun

an improvised lamp US, 1956

- Long after he had gone to bed that night the light from the bitch lamp kept him awake. — Nelson Algren, A Walk on the Wild Side, p. 9, 1956

bitch off verb

to irritate someone US, 1975

- American Speech, p. 56, Spring–Summer 1975: "Razorback slang"

bitch on wheels noun

a person, especially a woman, with a truly nasty disposition US, 1946

- The girl said she was a bitch on wheels. — Jerome Weidman, Too Early to Tell, p. 258, 1946
- John D. Bell et al., Loosely Speaking, p. 2, 1966

bitch out verb

to criticize someone harshly US, 1955

- No, the queens would have smelled him out, bitched him out years ago. — William Burroughs, Letters to Allen Ginsberg 1953–1957, p. 124, 2nd November 1955
- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 1, Fall 1986

bitch pad noun

a small seat mounted behind the regular seat on a motorcycle or bicycle US, 1992

- Lewis Poteet, Car & Motorcycle Slang, p. 30, 1992
- In revenge, Stephens claims for herself the envied machismo of the outlaw Harley biker who never rides the "bitch pad." — Deborah Bright, The Passionate Camera, p. 15, 1998
- She sidesaddles the bitch pad, and we weave off into the night[.] — Lynn Breedlove, Godspeed, p. 75, 2002

bitch pie noun

a pizza with pepperoni, mushroom, and sausage US, 1996

- The initials of the toppings—PMS—suggest a cranky woman. — Maledicta, p. 8, 1996: "Domino's pizza jargon"

bitch session noun

a group airing of complaints US, 1960

- As one dispatcher disclosed, after disconnecting from a frustrating call, dispatchers like to "have a little bitch session back and forth." — Gregory Shepherd, Communication and Community, p. 70, 2001

bitch sip verb

to sip slowly and with manners US, 2000

- "But you can't just drink it down. You have to bitch-sip it. Savor it." — Paul Beatty, Tuff, p. 156, 2000

bitch slap verb

to slap someone full across the face US, 1995

- Kint's lawyer comes in and five minutes later the D.A. comes out looking like he'd been bitch-slapped by the boogie man. — The Usual Suspects, 1995
- Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 30, 1997
- Openhanded, he bitch-slapped me. — John Ridley, Love is a Racket, p. 206, 1998
- Dr. Evil charges at Klansman and starts to bitch slap him. — Austin Powers, 1999
- His old lady was screaming, so one of the Misfits bitch-slapped her, making her lay down on the floor. — Ralph "Sonny" Barger, Hell's Angel, p. 85, 2000
- But we bitch-slapped that little fuck and sent him packing, so it's smooth sailing. — Kevin Smith, Jay and Silent Bob Strike Back, p. 44, 2001
- [W]hen Knut does that kind of thing, somebody ought to "bitch-slap the motherfucker upside the head." — Dan Jenkins, The Money-Whipped Steer-Job Three-Jack Give-Up Artist, p. 60, 2001
- "Ah hope to God you don't try that mess in public, cuz that's a good way to git yourself bitchslapped, son." — David Henry Sterry, Chicken, p. 25, 2002

bitch-smack verb

to strike without warning and emphatically US, 2004

- I wanted to walk up and bitch smack the shit out of each one of them, but that wouldn't get me any Christmas money. — Jamie Lowe, Da Flip Side, p. 284, 2004
- Hurricane lunged across the table and bitch-smacked the phone clear out of my hand. — Noire, Candy Licker, p. 75, 2005 bitch up verb

to ruin US, 1980

- "She really bitched her life up," French said. — George Higgins, Kennedy for the Defense, p. 21, 1980

bitch with a capital C noun

a truly hideous person US, 2003

A suggestion of CUNT.

- I was a total bitch with a capital C. — Stuck on You, 2003

bitchy adjective

malicious, spiteful US, 1925

- The bitchy quality that only a female can get into a review makes Miss Willella Waldorf, who occupies the next cage to me on the New York Post, a cruel and unusually readable critic. — Earl Wilson, I Am Gazing Into My 8-Ball, p. 79, 1945

bite noun

1 a small meal or a snack US, 1899

- Think I'll go get a bite to eat, then. — Jim Thompson, A Swell-Looking Babe, p. 44, 1954
- "You're going to have some lunch before you go, aren't you?" "I'll get a bite downtown." — J.D. Salinger, Franny and Zooey, p. 117, 1961
- While I grabbed a bite, I called the Naples Cafe, got a number for me to call Art and dialed it. — Mickey Spillane, Me, Hood!, p. 44, 1963
- You wanna grab a bite or something like that? — Manhattan, 1979
- You guys go on inside, get yourselves a bite. — The Blues Brothers, 1980

2 the portion of the money bet by gamblers taken as the share for the establishment sponsoring the gambling US, 1988

- George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 10, 1988

3 a price US, 1958

- You want the blue too? The bite is two for fifty slats. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 92, 1969

- Kenn "Naz" Young, Naz's Underground Dictionary, p. 15, 1973

4 something that is very disagreeable US, 1951

- If they can't get the car, that's the way the ball bounces (tough luck) or ain't that a bite? (too bad). — Newsweek, 8th October 1951

bite verb

1 to copy or steal another person's style, especially a breakdancing move or a rap lyric or sound US, 1979

- Biting moves is really wack, but everyone does it. — Bradley Elfman, Breakdancing, p. 40, 1984
- You wacker than the motherfucker you bit your style from. — Eminem (Marshall Mathers), Just Don't Give a Fuck, 1999
- At first I thought it was to discourage me from sweating him, but he thought graffiti is best learned by intuition and biting. — Stephen Power, The Art of Getting Over, p. 38, 1999
- Then he passed a poplock over to Warren, who also bit my style and tried to make it look juvenile. — Linden Dalecki, Kid B, p. 17, 2006

2 to be unfair or extremely distasteful US, 1966

- John D. Bell et al., Loosely Speaking, p. 2, 1966
- You know what really bites; when people watch that cafeteria stuff on TV and see all those Geeks and Metalheads jumping around, they're going to think UnCool is the Rule at Westerburg. — Heathers, 1988

3 to flex, and thus contract, the sphincter during anal sex US, 1972

- Bruce Rodgers, The Queens' Vernacular, p. 32, 1972

bite feathers to lie on your stomach, especially in anticipation of anal sex US, 1964

- Guy Strait, The Lavender Lexicon, 1964

bite it

to die US, 1977

- She bit it. — Drugstore Cowboy, 1988

bite the bag

in computing, to fail, especially in a dramatic fashion US, 1983

- Guy L. Steele et al., The Hacker's Dictionary, p. 28, 1983

▶ bite the big oneto die US, 1979

- Most people think of the Chateau as the place where Belushi bit the big one, but it's got a lot more going for it than that. — Armistead Maupin, Maybe the Moon, p. 142, 1992

▶ bite the brownto perform mouth-to-anus sex US, 1972

- — Robert A. Wilson, Playboy's Book of Forbidden Words, p. 38, 1972

biter *noun1 a copier of breakdance moves; a plagiarist of rap lyrics US, 1999

- Back in the days you could get booted out of the circle [...] if you looked too much like the next man. They'll tell right off you're a biter and you're wack [inferior]. — Alex Ogg, The Hip Hop Years [quoting Jorge "Fabel" Pabon], pp. 32–33, 1999

2 the vagina US, 1998

- [O]ut on the floor, after a long sexy masturbatory dance, her miniskirt around her hips; her rosy biter winking its hairy eye at me where I sat.] — Clarence Major, All-Night Visitors, p. 201, 1998

3 a tooth US, 1946

- During this period I sat in on a recording date with the Pollack band, just a couple hours after I'd had a gang of teeth yanked, because my biters were going bad along with all my other parts. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 188, 1946

biting *noun*copying another person's style US, 1994

- Like when did biting become cool? Onyx came out biting Busta Rhymes. It's cool. — William Upski Wimsatt, Bomb the Suburbs, p. 14, 1994 bit spit *noun*any electronic communication US, 1997

- — Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 20, 1997

bitter-mouth *verb*to speak harshly US, 1947

- — Marcus Hanna Boulware, Live and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947

bitty *noun1 a girl US, 1962

- — Anthony Romeo, The Language of Gangs, p. 16, 4th December 1962

2 a female; used as a term of address to a female Less harsh than "BITCH" US

- — Urban Dictionary, 22nd July 2003
- Love ya, bitty. — Connie Eble, Campus Slang: University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Spring 2014

bitty *adjective*tiny *US, 1905*A corruption and shortening of ITSY-BITSY.

- [H]e was sorta convinced already that there was something odd about this little-bitty nigger who tink he can beat somebody five times his size. — Cecil Brown, The Life & Loves of Mr. Jiveass Nigger, p. 64, 1969
- There never was a man who could stand up to Kokomo, and he started to wonder where this little-bitty nigger could get such confidence. — Christina and Richard Milner, Black Players, p. 175, 1972
- Little itty-bitty things accumulate. — Susan Hall, Gentleman of Leisure, p. 6, 1972
- Darrol Woods was saying "Two larceny from a person reduced from larceny not armed and a little bitty assault thing . . ." And Hunter was saying, "Little bitty . . . little bitty fucking tire iron you used on the guy." — Elmore Leonard, City Primeval, p. 58, 1980

bitty box *noun*a small computer, especially a single-tasking-only machine US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 64, 1991

biz; bizz *noun1 business US, 1861

- Rumor had it that there were quite a few pinks in the publishing biz. — Mary McCarthy, The Group, p. 185, 1963
- Lead you to draw bad conclusions (or "bad vibes" as they say in the rock biz) about what happened. — Abbie Hoffman, Woodstock Nation, p. 4, 1969
- [H]e had to stay in L.A. for the music biz, and if he stayed in L.A., Bobby would find him[.] — James Ellroy, Suicide Hill, p. 673, 1986

2 the syringe and other equipment used by intravenous drug users US, 1949

- — Vincent J. Montealeone, Criminal Slang, p. 24, 1949
- — William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Uptight People, p. 19, December 1970

3 a small amount of a drug US, 1971

- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 34, 1971

▶ in the biz bagin trouble with police management US, 1994

- — Los Angeles Times, p. B8, 19th December 1994

bizarro *noun*a bizarre person US, 1980

Influenced by, if not directly descended from, "Bizarro" a comic-book villain who first challenged Superman in the late 1950s.

- [T]he reclusive bizarro I've been goofing on for the past year wants to come on my radio show. — Howard Stern, Miss America, p. 60, 1995

bizarro *adjective*bizarre US, 1971

- Out here in the bizarro city by the bay, things are different. — Jim Carroll, Forced Entries, p. 130, 1987
- Hey, this question wouldn't be that bizarro thing you were blabbing about over the phone[.] — Heathers, 1988

bizotic *adjective*unexpected, out of the ordinary US, 1984

- — San Francisco Sunday Examiner & Chronicle, p. 20, 2nd September 1984
- — Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 20, 1997

bizzing *noun*sliding on an icy road while hanging onto the rear bumper of a car US, 1969

A verbal noun with no recorded use of "bizz" as a verb.

- Not to mention bizzing in the Northwest and bum-riding in Utah; all these denote the action of daring, often foolish, children who grab a ride on the back end of a moving vehicle. — New York Times Magazine, p. 18, 13th March 1994

Bj *noun*an act of oral sex, a blow job US, 1949

- — Anon., The Gay Girl's Guide, p. 3, 1949
- "B.J."—"Blowjob." — Richard Price, The Wanderers, p. 101, 1974
- And what should be this film's finest sex scene, the finale between Ashlyn and Jamie, turns out to be mainly a simple bj. ending in a facia. — Adult Video News, p. 48, February 1993
- Of course, staying in town probably wasn't the best decision, but it affords  a jailed Ava a chance to seduce sheriff Dillon Day with a through-the-bars bj. — Editors of Adult Video News, The AVN Guide to the 500 Greatest Adult Films of All Time, p. 8, 2005

B joint *noun*a bar where women coax customers to buy drinks US, 1993

- Ginger was my mother's nightclub name, to match her new career working as a part-time stripteaser and "B-girl" in Tenderloin "B-joints." — Kim Rich, Johnny's Girl, p. 48, 1993

BK *abbreviation*Brooklyn US

- I was gonna miss BK, the music, the vibe, the hot dogs, and mostly the streets. — Sister Souljah (Lisa Williamson), The Coldest Winter Ever, p. 17, 1999

BK's *noun*British Knight™ shoes US, 2000

Favored by members of the Crips youth gang, for whom the initials also stand for "Blood Killer"

- — Bill Valentine, Gangs and Their Tattoos, p. 77, 2000

blabber *noun*a very talkative hospital patient US, 1994

- — Sally Williams, "Strong" Words, p. 134, 1994

black *noun1 night US, 1947

- — Time Magazine, p. 92, 20 January 1947
- About a deuce of long black and whites ago, a stud from the low lands came to the Apple. — Babs Gonzales, "A Manhattan Fable" in Movin' On Down De Line, p. 89, 1975

2 in American casinos, a $100 chip US, 1980

- I've never dealt to blacks before. — Lee Solkey, Dummy Up and Deal, p. 107, 1980

3 potent, unrefined black opium US, 1978

- Injecting "black" was risky; if the addict missed a vein, impurities lodged in the tissues. — Joan W. Moore, Homeboys, p. 83, 1978

black *adjective*secret US, 1965

- He dubbed the group his little "black box" ("black" for secret) and promised them carte blanche. — Frank Snepp, Decent Interval, p. 218, 1977
- When completed it filled a large spiral notebook nicknamed "the Black Book," and it covered all of Delta's skills. — Charlie A. Beckwith and Donald Knox, Delta Force, p. 168, 1983

black action *noun*casino betting in $100 increments US, 1991

- — Michael Dalton, Blackjack, p. 31, 1991

blackalicious *adjective*beautiful and sexy in an Afrocentric way US, 2003

- Shedding his robe he was a blackalicious sight, in black tank top and pants, with a simple gold cross dangling from his neck, and sporting his trademark cornrows and bandana. — Boston Globe, 29th August 2000

black and tan *adjective*catering to both black and white customers US, 1887

- Many of these small clubs have become, for all practical purposes, "black and tan" spots where whites and Negroes (of opposite sexes) mix, not furtively. — Jack Laft and Lee Mortimer, New York confidential, p. 45, 1948
- In some places—like Georgia—the Populists "fused" with the lily-white wing of the Republican Party, not with the so-called black-and-tan wing. — Stokely Carmichael and Charles V. Hamilton, Black Power, p. 68, 1967
- As one old queen—who had the apartment next to Spencer's—told me—"My dear—it was really too much. It was a regular black and tan fantasy." — Herbert Huncke, The Evening Sun Turned Crimson, p. 43, 1980
- My father was a regular at the Oasis as well as at the other all-black nightclubs, including bars that catered to all races, called "black and tan" bars. — Kim Rich, Johnny's Girl, p. 81, 1993

black and white *noun1 a police car US, 1958

From the traditional colors of police cars in the US.

- Officer Breslin and I took cover behind our, uh, black and white, and ordered the suspects to, uh, halt. — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, p. 153, 1970
- The policia drive black and whites, 'ey? Most towns in the States I think our policia drive black and whites too. — Elmore Leonard, Giltz, p. 7, 1985
- Jimmy said shit because he saw the black-and-white rolling up. — William T. Vollman, Whores for Gloria, p. 130, 1991

- A shitload of Hollywood division black-and-whites showed up[.] — James Ellroy, Hollywood Nocturnes, p. 191, 1994
- 2 a capsule containing both a central nervous system stimulant and a barbiturate US, 1971
- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 34, 1971
- 3 a soda fountain drink made with chocolate syrup, seltzer, and vanilla ice cream US, 1947
- “You want black and whites?” Benny asked the boys at the table. — Irving Shulman, The Amboy Dukes, p. 192, 1947

black and white fever noun

- an aversion to police US, 1970
- Funny, how many people get black and white fever and start moving fast in the opposite direction. — Joseph Wambaugh, The New Centurions, p. 127, 1970

black and whites noun

- the black pants or skirt and white shirt worn by American casino dealers US, 1961
- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 19, 1987

black and white taxi noun

- a police car US, 1962
- — American Speech, p. 267, December 1962: “The language of traffic policemen”

black art noun

- in computing, an array of techniques developed and discovered for a particular system or application US, 1991
- The huge proliferation of formal and informal channels for spreading around new computer-related technologies during the last twenty years has made both the term black art and what it describes less common than formerly. — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 65, 1991

black ass noun

- a car without working rear lights US, 1962
- — American Speech, p. 267, December 1962: “The language of traffic policemen”

black bag noun

- a brown-haired prostitute US, 1960
- The telegraphic code is “black bag” for brunettes and “tan valise” for blondes. — Lee Mortimer, Women Confidential, p. 141, 1960

black bag job noun

- a burglary, especially one committed by law enforcement or intelligence agents US, 1966
- Two months later, Gary asked me if I would like to do a black bag job. — Wesley Swearingen, FBI Secrets, p. 23, 1995

black beauty noun

- 1 a black amphetamine capsule US, 1969
- They are known as “black mollies” or “black widows” or “black beauties,” because they were put in black capsules. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 24, 19th January 1972
 - [H]e was always in danger of being seized and booked with a pocket full of “bennies” or “black beauties” at the property desk. — Hunter S. Thompson, The Great Shark Hunt, p. 582, 1979
 - “Processed any speed lately?” “Black beauties?” “Music to my ears.” — James Ellroy, Suicide Hill, p. 836, 1986
- 2 a capsule containing both barbiturate and amphetamine US, 1973
- — David Maurer and Victor Vogel, Narcotics and Narcotic Addiction, p. 389, 1973

black belt noun

- 1 a neighborhood of black families that circles a city or area US, 1951
- But Washington’s Black Belt is no belt at all. It is sprawled all over[.] — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 37, 1951
 - Unlike other areas in the black belt, Macon County remained relatively free of overt acts of violence and intimidation during the forties and fifties. — Stokely Carmichael and Charles V. Hamilton, Black Power, p. 129, 1967
 - [T]he Black belt had the Blackstone Rangers, the largest gang of juvenile delinquents on earth[.] — Norman Mailer, Miami and the Siege of Chicago, p. 87, 1968
 - There are more people starving in the U.S., in the Black Belt of southeastern U.S. in all the large cities, in the Appalachian Mountains and grape fields of California than in any other country on earth with the possible exception of India. — George Jackson, Soledad Brother, p. 261, April 1970
- 2 in the US Army, a senior drill instructor US
- Not a reference to martial arts, simply to the uniform.
- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 23, 1991

Black Betty noun

- a van for transporting prisoners US, 1965
- ‘Cause one day on Main she caught a convict chain / and rode Black Betty to her new pad. — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 155, 1965

blackbird noun

- 1 an unmarked military aircraft, such as a C-123 or C-130 US, 1983
- Used by the Studies and Observations Group (SOG) in Vietnam, the highly secret, elite, unconventional warfare component of the US military presence in Southeast Asia.
- Flown in a SOG blackbird to Okinawa, the ammunition was dismantled by CIA technicians. — Peter MacInerney, A Contagion of War, 1983
- 2 an amphetamine capsule US, 1972
- — Carl Chambers and Richard Heckman, Employee Drug Abuse, p. 201, 1972

black book noun

- 1 a corporation’s plan for battling a hostile takeover US, 1988
- — Kathleen Odean, High Steppers, Fallen Angels, and Lollipops, p. 111, 1988
- 2 in a casino, a list of persons to be excluded from the casino US, 1991
- — Michael Dalton, Blackjack, p. 32, 1991

3 a graffiti artist’s notebook containing ideas, outlines, sketches and plans for future graffiti pieces US, 1982

- “Autographing” each other’s black books (hardbound sketch pads that almost all writers carry with them.) — Craig Castleman, Getting Up, p. 21, 1982
- I couldn’t even bring my blackbook out of my jacket. — Stephen Power, The Art of Getting Over, p. 38, 1999
- If you live, breathe, piss, and shit hip-hop culture, you’ll feel at home hanging out at Oaklandish, checking out its weekly series and live music happenings—or maybe just collecting wildstyle hieroglyphs from local graf-heads in your black book. — East Bay Express (Oakland, California), 5th May 2004

black bottom noun

- a neighborhood where most of the population are poor black people US, 1915
- Eatonville has been described as a place neither ghetto, nor slum, nor black bottom[.] — Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, p. F1, 14th October 2001

black box noun

- 1 the notional container in which proprietary technical information is secured in dealings over industrial property rights US, 1974
- In dealing with the sale or purchase of industrial property rights, classified technical information can be often dealt with as proprietary knowledge without revealing the confidential know-how of what is in the black box. — Robert Kirk Mueller, Buzzwords, p. 47, 1974
- 2 any highly technical piece of electronics equipment US, 1945
- I think now of our first celestial computer, known commonly as the Black Box. It was a gadget with counters on it, and cranks which you turned. — Curtis E. LeMay with MacKinlay Knator, Mission with LeMay, p. 98, 1965
- 3 a linear amplifier for a citizen’s band radio US, 1976
- Sometimes embellished as “little black box.”
- — Porter Bibb, CB Bible, p. 98, 1976

black Cadillac noun

- an amphetamine capsule US, 1980
- — National Institute on Drug Abuse, What do they call it again?, 1980

black crow noun

- a long-range ignition detector US
- Highly effective from the air in locating enemy convoys; used in conjunction with a beacon tracking system.
- “Low-light, TV, infrared, and Black Crow that could read a truck’s emissions. — Al Santoli, To Bear Any Burden, p. 140, 1985

black death nickname

- the electric chair US, 2001
- Ohio and other states call it “Old Sparky.” In Alabama, it’s the “Big Yellow Mama.” In Mississippi, it’s “Black Death.” — Cincinnati Enquirer, p. 1F, 2nd September 2001

black fever noun

- sexual attraction felt by a white person for black people US, 1977
- Black Fever is when a girl, a white girl she gets this thing in her head she’s got to have a black guy. — John Sayles, Union Dues, p. 147, 1977

black Friday noun

- the day after Thanksgiving US, 1975
- Philadelphia police and bus drivers call it “Black Friday”—that day each year between Thanksgiving and the Army-Navy game. It is the busiest shopping and traffic day of the year in the Bicentennial City[.] — New York Times, p. 21, 29th November 1975

Black Hand noun

- a secret criminal organization composed of first-generation Italian immigrants to the US US, 1898
- The Mafia and the dread Black Hand are the same thing. The black hand was the sign over which the Mafia’s threats were delivered. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 180, 1951
 - The Black Hand? You think you can laugh it off? — Mickey Spillane, Kiss Me Deadly, p. 38, 1952

black hat noun

- 1 in a drama, or in life viewed as a drama, the villain US, 1964
- Why are we talking about Alfred North Whitehead when we ought to be out looking for a black hat? — Max Shulman, Anyone Got a Match?, p. 41, 1964
 - Well, from where this peace monger sits, I’d say the black hats are succeeding. — William C. Anderson, Bat 21, p. 161, 1980
- 2 a member of Pathfinder platoon, dropped behind enemy lines to make deep reconnaissance patrols and to establish landing zones for the initial helicopter waves US, 1982
- “You know how to operate that thang?” asked the Black Hat, a staff sergeant member of SERTS’ cadre. — John Del Vecchio, The 13th Valley, p. 9, 1982
- 3 a US Army drill instructor US, 1986
- Look to your left and what did you see? / A mean old black hat lookin’ at me. — Sandee Shaffer Johnson, Cadences, p. 24, 1986
- 4 a Viet Cong or soldier in the North Vietnamese Army US
- “Well, from where this peace monger sits, I’d say the black hats are succeeding.” — William Anderson, Bat 21, p. 161, 1980

black hole noun

- in computing, the notional place where e-mail that is sent but not received disappears US, 1991
- “I think there’s a black hole at foovax!” conveys suspicion that site foovax has been dropping a lot of stuff on the floor lately[.] — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 65, 1991

black horse nickname

the US Army's 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment US, 1991

So named because of the Regiment's insignia.

- This time, however, the Black Horse net is tight. — Jacques-Francois de Chaunac, The American Cavalry in Vietnam, p. 250, 2003
- She was with the 7th Surgery at Black Horse Base Camp. — Bill Adler, Letters from Vietnam: Voices of War, p. 112, 2007
- The 199th Infantry Brigade, supported by the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment ("Black Horse") engaged the Viet Cong (VC) and People's Army of Vietnam (PAVN, North Vietnamese Army) forces. — Spencer Trucker, The Encyclopedia of the Vietnam War, p. 1162, 2011

black ice noun

in in-line skating, a recently paved street US, 1998

- BLACK ICE A very smooth, recently paved street. — Shelley Youngblut, Way Inside ESPN's X Games, p. 84, 1998

black jack noun

1 a central nervous system stimulant US, 1968

- Some of the names describe the drugs' effects, such as "helpers," "copilots," "Los Angeles turn arounds," or their shape, color and markings—"hearts," "footballs," "blackjacks," "crossroads." — Phil Hirsch, Hooked, pp. 51–52, 1968

2 the penis of a black man US, 1965

Homosexual usage.

- — The Guild Dictionary of Homosexual Terms, p. 4, 1965

blackjack mission noun

during the war in Vietnam, an operation carried out by a mobile strike force US, 1991

The mobile strike forces were light infantry battalions equipped and trained to operate in remote areas without any significant logistical requirements or support.

- Jenkins, Morris, and Head went on at least one more blackjack mission. — Henry Gole, Soldiering, p. 161, 2005

black light noun

an ultraviolet light, under which fluorescent paint glows UK, 1927

- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 34, 1971

Black Lions nickname

a navy fighter squadron formally identified as VF-213, commissioned in 1955 US, 1990

- Nash was one of those rare Phantom pilots who, against the trend, had been dogfighting in the F-4 since his squadron, the V-213, nicknamed "The Black Lions," had transitioned to it in 1964. — Robert K. Wilcox, The Scream of Eagles, p. 45, 1990

black magic noun

1 in computing, a technique that works without any apparent reason for its success US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 65, 1991

2 the M-16 rifle, the standard rifle used by US troops in Vietnam after 1966 US, 1991

- It was nicknamed "black magic" because it was made of black plastic and steel. — Barbara Schading, A Civilian's Guide to the U.S. Military, p. 302, 2006
- It was also called the "plastic rifle" and the "black magic." — Gordon Rottman, The M-16, p. 17, 2011

Black Man's Wheels noun

a BMW car US, 2002

- I wouldn't be offended at hearing BMW = back man's wheels. — forums.plentyoffish.com, 28th July 2008

Black Maria noun

1 a police wagon or van for transporting those who have been arrested US, 1843

The etymology is uncertain beyond the color black.

- Po-lice thought it was really funny . . . two niggers fightin' over some bags of coffee on their way to the Black Maria. — Oodie Hawkins, Ghetto Sketches, p. 123, 1972

2 in a deck of cards, the queen of spades US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 10, 1988

black molly noun

1 a black amphetamine capsule US, 1970

- There are known as "black mollies" or "black widows" or "black beauties," because they were put in black capsules. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 24, 19th January 1972

2 a barbiturate capsule US, 1973

- — David W. Maurer and Victor Vogel, Narcotics and Narcotic Addiction, p. 389, 1973

Black Monday noun

1 28th May 1962 US, 1962

The date of a dramatic stock market crash.

- Was it the "little woman" who panicked on Black Monday, May 28, in Wall Street, then in unreasoning terror dumped off her stocks in skyrocketing volume and thereby set off one of the worst stock market slumps of this century? — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 54, 18th June 1962
- Will 1968 see another "Black Monday" in the stock market? — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 58, 1 April 1968

2 19th October 1987 US, 1987

The date of the greatest single-day stock market crash in the US since the Depression.

- By 4 p.m., after the market bell clanged, economics reporter Mike Jensen would appear with Brokaw to intone that "today will be known as Black Monday" and NBC News consultant Donald Regan would bid "goodbye to the bull market." — Washington Post, p. D6, 20th October 1987
- — Kathleen Odean, High Steppers, Fallen Angels, and Lollipops, p. 165, 1988
- — American Speech, Fall 1988

black money noun

cash that is not accounted for in the financial records of a business US, 1963

- Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy is concerned about "black money"—also known as "hot money." — Ed Reid and Ovid Demaris, The Green Felt Jungle, p. 212, 1963

black O noun

opium US

- Black-O was Black Opium. It came in tin foil about the size of a marble or golf ball, depending on how many "Green Backs" you had. — Richard Swarzlender, Welcome Home: A Salute to the Forgotten Vietnam War Heroes, p. 156, 2002

black on black noun

a car with a black exterior and black upholstery US, 1980

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin' down some lines, p. 229, 1980

black-out noun

a very dark-skinned black person US, 1947

- — Marcus Hanna Boulware, Jive and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947

black rain noun

rain that has been contaminated by smoke from oil field fires US, 1991

Gulf war usage.

- — American Speech, p. 384, Winter 1991: "among the new words"

black shoe noun

an officer in the US Navy other than an aviator US, 1950

Aviation officers wore brown shoes.

- Yesterday some blackshoe goof reached to punch the microphone to announce the evening prayer and punched the button for general quarters instead. — Frank Elkins, The Heart of a Man, p. 54, 24 July 1966

blackstick noun

a clarinet US, 1937

- — Robert S. Gould, A Jazz Lexicon, p. 21, 1964

black syph noun

a virulent, fatal strain of syphilis, probably apocryphal US, 1976

- The GIs insisted the VC injected the whores with something called "black syph." ("You get it, man, and they just send you to this black syph camp to die"). — Jack Kermer, Travels with the Celestial Dog, p. 53, 1976

black tar noun

crude, impure, potent heroin from Mexico US, 1986

- — Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 20, 1993
- [It] brushes up against the competition, including Mexican-produced Black Tar, known derisively as Mexican Mud because of its poor quality; the more superior Mexican Brown in powder form; and especially high-grade Colombian White, its biggest rival. — New York Times, p. SM29, 23rd June 2002
- "And this is not the black tar crap you all do either." — JT. LeRoy, Harold's End, p. 31, 2004

black velvet noun

a black woman's vagina US, 1967

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 30, 1967
- — Robert A. Wilson, Playboy's Book of Forbidden Words, p. 40, 1972

black water noun

sewage US, 1993

Euphemism used in recreational vehicle camping.

- — John Edwards, Auto Dictionary, p. 15, 1993

black whack noun

phencyclidine, the recreational drug known as PCP or angel dust US, 1994

- — US Department of Justice Street Terms, October 1994

black widow noun

1 a black amphetamine capsule; Benzedrine™ (amphetamine sulfate), a central nervous system stimulant US, 1972

- They are known as "black mollies" or "black widows" or "black beauties," because they were put in black capsules. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 24, 19th January 1972

- — American Speech, p. 56, Spring–Summer 1975: "Razorblang slang"

2 a capsule containing both barbiturate and amphetamine US, 1973

- — David Maurer and Victor Vogel, Narcotics and Narcotic Addiction, p. 389, 1973

3 an M-16 rifle equipped with a night scope US

- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 23, 1991

black wings noun

oral sex with a black woman US, 2000

- You got your Red Wings by eating a girl on her period and your Black Wings by eating a black girl. — Ralph "Sonny" Barger, Hell's Angel, p. 99, 2000

bladder noun

1 a balloon US, 1981

Circus and carnival usage.

- — Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 26, 1981

2 a collapsible drum for holding liquids US, 1991

- Bladder: A heavy-duty, rubberized collapsible drum for POL (petroleum, oil and lubricant). — Shelby Stanton, Vietnam Order of Battle, p. 353, 2003

bladder bird noun

a tanker aircraft used for aerial bulk fuel delivery US, 1976

Vietnam war usage.

- A bladder-bird received major damage on the 26th. — A.J.C. Lavalie, Airpower and the 1972 Spring Invasion, p. 68, 1976

bladder boat noun

an inflatable rubber boat US

- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 23, 1991

blade *noun1 a knife US, 1896

- He came back, pulling a blade[.] — Malcolm X and Alex Haley, The Autobiography of Malcolm X, p. 131, 1964
- Hip little kiddies never carry a BLADE; it's a bad scene if you meet up with your equalizer or John Law. — Hy Lit, Hy Lit's Unbelievable Dictionary of Hip Words for Groovy People, p. 5, 1968
- I thought only PRs went to the blades over a broad. — Edwin Torres, Q & A, p. 45, 1977
- Wonder why O.J. used a blade? Why not a gun with a silencer? A guy like him could get any weapon he wanted. Why a blade? — Joseph Wambaugh, Floater, p. 128, 1996

2 a man US, 1948

- Vice does not thrive here, because the young blades seek it elsewhere. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 83, 1948

3 a dollar US, 2002

- — Gary K. Farlow, Prison-ese, p. 4, 2002

blade *verb1 in professional wrestling, to cut yourself intentionally to produce bleeding US, 1990

- Real blood produced by means other than blading. — rec.sports.pro-wrestling, 17th July 1990
- Jericho wasn't wearing a bandaid any more (this is week four of TV, after all) and there was no scar. "This makes us think he must have bladed above the hair line." — Herb's Smoky Mountain Fanweek 1994 Review, 1994
- He lay there motionless. Then I noticed his hand moving slowly under his forehead. He was "blading" himself, cutting his own forehead with a razor blade. — Larry Nelson, Stranglehold, p. 119, 1999
- Some guys were terrified of blading. I remember William Snyder would whimper when it was time for him to blade. — Bobby Heenan, Bobby the Brain, p. 127, 2002

2 to skate on rollerblades US, 1997

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 31, 1997

blader *nouna rollerblader US, 1989

- The most common injury to a blader is a sprained or broken wrist. — New York Times, p. C12, 17th April 1989
- [D]aylight shots taken down along the West Village piers among the weekend cruising population: bladers and bikers and dog walkers. — Ethan Morden, Some Men Are Lookers, p. 132, 1997
- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 44, 2001

blade time *nountime logged flying a helicopter US

- On 20 July a Forward Supply Point was established at Fire Base Blaze to reduce blade time required for resupply. — BACM Research, Vietnam War After-Action Reports, p. 240, 31 July 1969
- "It's a waste of blade time. In case you haven't noticed, there are no lights in the AO." — Randy Zahn, Snake Pilot: Flying the Cobra Attack Helicopter in Vietnam, p. 189, 2003
- Blade time was carefully logged by the crew chief and was the basis of determining allowable flight time. — Gordon Rottman, US Helicopter Pilot in Vietnam, p. 50, 2011

blading *nounusing rollerblades US, 1995

- Blading exploded in the late '80s and early '90s, appealing both to ex-joggers looking for low-impact workouts and death-defying speed freaks[.] — Steven Daly and Nathaniel Wice, alt.culture, p. 211, 1995

blah *adjectivewithout energy, without spark, unmotivated US, 1922

- Part of the problem is a blah role: Steve is not a protagonist of many words, or even many revealing looks. — Washington Post, p. E7, 6th May 1981

blah; blah blah; blah blah blah noun empty and meaningless talk; so on and so forth; used for implying that what is being said is not worth the saying or has been said too often already UK, 1918

- Echoic of nonsense speech, possibly German blech (nonsense); synonymous with RHUBARB (nonsense) which may also be repeated two or three times for emphasis.
- "You can give me a whole ration of shit and this and that, and blah, blah, blah." — George V. Higgins, The Friends of Eddie Doyle, p. 75, 1971
- We all decided to chuck the idea because I'd have trouble making friends, blah-blah-blah. — Heathers, 1988
- This country is just one big global village with everyone out there going blah blah blah. — Sleepless in Seattle, 1993

blahs *nouna minor illness; a feeling of ennui US, 1968

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 81, 1968

blanca noun

an amphetamine or other central nervous system stimulant US, 1967 Border Spanish used in English conversation by Mexican-Americans; from the Spanish for "white."

- It's something like bennies—blanca—only not as good. — Malcolm Braly, On the Yard, p. 281, 1967
- — Dagoberto Fuentes and Jose Lopez, Barrio Language Dictionary, p. 17, 1974

blanco *nounheroin; cocaine US, 1973

Spanish for "white."

- — US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994

blank *noun1 a package of non-narcotic white powder sold as*narcotics US, 1966

- Heroin itself has a bitter taste and if a junkie tastes some stuff before he uses it and it's real sweet he figures he's bought a blank and gets upset. — James Mills, The Panic in Needle Park, p. 72, 1966
- — Richard Lingeman, Drugs from A to Z, p. 25, 1969

2 in a carnival, a bad day, a bad engagement or a bad customer US, 1985

- What a BLANK that bum was. He looked like he had money, but all he had was three lousy bucks. — Gene Sorrows, All About Carnivals, p. 10, 1985

3 in poker, a useless card in the dealt hand US, 1992

- — Edwin Silberstang, Winning Poker for the Serious Player, p. 217, 1992

4 the top of a skateboard US, 1976

- — Laura Torbet, The Complete Book of Skateboarding, p. 105, 1976

5 a tablet of Aspirin US, 1990

- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 198, 1990

blank; blankety; blankety-blank used as a self-censored deletion of an expletive, regardless of part of speech UK, 1854

Written more often than spoken, but not without uses in speech.

- Two Judges Wish Two Thieves A Blankety-Blank Christmas [Headline]. — San Francisco News, p. 8, 20th December 1945
- "Throw that blank blank out!" ordered Dressen angrily. "Throw him out!" — San Francisco Examiner, p. 33, 7th August 1953
- Oh, go ahead and inject your blankety-blank personal note, you old geezer. — Washington Post, p. B1, 4th July 1977

blank canvas noun

the body of a person who is about to get their first tattoo US, 1997

- — Los Angeles Times Magazine, p. 7, 13th July 1997

blanket *noun1 any sandwich US, 1960

- — San Francisco Examiner, p. III-2, 22nd March 1960

2 an overcoat; a top coat US, 1925

- — H. Craig Collins, Street Gangs, p. 221, 1979

3 in the US military, a beret US, 1992

- He'd always refused to wear the blanket, the green beret. — Richard Marcinko and John Weisman, The Rogue Warrior, p. 238, 1992

blanket-ass noun

a native American Indian US, 1973

Derogatory.

- The Native American Student Council says it will not sit by idly while slurs such as "mucket," "blanket ass," "dirty skin" and "lazy" are hurled at the school's 138 American Indians[.] — Salt Lake Tribune, p. D1, 10th October 1994
- "I've been called "blanket ass" and "prairie nigger" more times than I can count," he said. — Philadelphia Inquirer, 7th November 1999

blanket craps noun

an informal game of craps with the shooter acting as banker US, 1977

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 20, 1987

blanket drill noun

sex in bed US, 1964

- — Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 19, 1964

blanket finish noun

in horse racing, a close finish between several horses US, 1951

So called because the horses contending for the lead could all be covered by a single figurative blanket.

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 14, 1951 blanket game noun

in the circus or carnival, a private gambling game for employees only, played on a blanket UK, 1980

- — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 17, 1980

blanket party noun

a ritual in which the offending person is covered with a blanket, which prevents identification of the wrong-doers, and then beaten US, 1969

- "Some of the guys just had a blanket party with the ops officer," he said. — Randy Zahn, Snake Pilot: Flying the Cobra Attack Helicopter in Vietnam, p. 186, 2003 blanket roll noun

a controlled roll of the dice by a skilled cheat, best made on a blanket spread on the ground US, 1950

- — The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, p. 128, May 1950

blasé blasé

and so on and so on US, 2002

An embellishment of the more expected BLAH BLAH BLAH.

- — Gary K. Farlow, Prison-ese, p. 4, 2002

blast *noun1 a telephone call US, 1970

- "Give us a blast on the horn sometime." — Burt Hirschfield, Fire Island, p. 27, 1970

2 an extremely enjoyable time US, 1950

- [B]efore you know it she's going tandem with you and that's the end of the whole blast. — Frederick Kohner, Gidget, p. 39, 1957
- It was going to be the blast to end all blasts[.] — Glendon Swarthout, Where the Boys Are, p. 220, 1960
- It would be such a blast for you guys to reach a half-million houses. — Wayne's World, 1992

- 3 a party, especially a loud and raucous one UK, 1959
- I said yes, she could have a party here—now she’s inviting all her friends to come to a blast. [The Neighbors comic strip] — San Francisco News Call-Bulletin, p. 13, 20th June 1960
 - Patrolman Charles Roberts called it “a real blast” in the usually quiet Westervine residential section on the San Mateo coast. — San Francisco News Call-Bulletin, p. 3, 25th September 1964
- 4 an injection of a drug US, 1952
- I want it main line for one blast. — George Mandel, Flee the Angry Strangers, pp. 378–379, 1952
- 5 an escape US, 1970
- Red, we need some hooks and need them quick. We’ve got a blast going in two weeks[.] — Red Rudensky, The Gonif, p. 47, 1970

blast verb

- to use a drug, especially to smoke marijuana US, 1943
- At York Avenue we goofed all day . . . as we’ve been doing for 2 weeks now, laugh . . . laugh; . . . laugh; imitated “B” movies; blasting hay; talking. — Jack Kerouac, Windblown World, p. 395, 10th January 1949
 - Sure, we’ll be seeing you over the weekend, and we’ll blast some of this tea, okay? — John Clellon Holmes, Go: A Novel, p. 106, 1952
 - We were at a crazy pad before going and were blasting like crazy and were up so high that I just didn’t give a shit for anyone[.] — Hubert Selby Jr., Last Exit to Brooklyn, pp. 39–40, 1957
 - Here you’d be with a joint in your hand, and you’d be blasting before you knew what had happened. — Herbert Huncke, Guilty of Everything, pp. 1–2, 1990

blasted adjective

- highly intoxicated on any drug or alcohol US, 1928
- Everyone would leave the Strip at 2 when the clubs closed and go to Cantor’s en masse so blasted out of their heads that if you asked someone what time it was they backed away, wide-eyed, as though you’d presented them with a philosophical impossibility. — Eve Babitz, Eve’s Hallywood, p. 234, 1974
 - Cause like this one time with Eric, when we got blasted at his house. — Kids, 1995

blaster noun

- 1 a gun, especially a pistol US, 1964
- [N]either of them had the guts to go for a rod because they knew I had a blaster in my belt and would chop them down the second they moved. — Mickey Spillane, Return of the Hood, p. 106, 1964
- 2 a powerful, hard-breaking wave US, 1964
- John Severson, Modern Surfing Around the World, p. 165, 1964

blast from the past noun

- a song that was popular in the past and is still popular with those who were young when the song was popular US, 1962
- He’ll be autographing copies of his great new album, “Blasts from The Past.” — Chicago Tribune, p. 10, 19th January 1962
 - Speedy went with a blast from the past: cold-stored Kate Smith, a known quantity once, of uncertain mornings of late[.] — Bill Cardoso, The Maltese Sangeewech and Other Heroes, pp. 127–128, 1984

blast party noun

- a gathering of marijuana smokers US, 1958
- New York Times Magazine, p. 87, 16th March 1958

blaze noun

- 1 in a card game with five cards per hand, a hand with five face cards US, 1962
- Frank Garcia, Marked Cards and Loaded Dice, p. 250, 1962
 - Irwin Steig, Common Sense in Poker, p. 182, 1963
- 2 in a deck of playing cards, a face card US, 1987
- Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 20, 1987

blaze verb

- 1 to leave US, 1983
- Washington Post, 14th October 1993
- 2 to light a marijuana cigarette or other drug-smoking conveyance US, 1985
- Also expressed as to “blaze up.”
- Yo wastoid—you’re not gonna blaze up in here! — The Breakfast Club, 1985
 - Go behind tha curtains while my fanz they point / You know what Loc’s doin’, I’m blazin a joint. — Tone Loc, Cheeba Cheeba, 1989
 - So I’m blazing with my friends man. — Dazed and Confused, 1993

blaze full noun

- in poker, a hand consisting of three cards of one face card rank and a pair of another US, 1968
- The “full” is drawn from the conventional name for the hand, a “full house.”
- Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 20, 1987

bleach verb

- to soak and flush a hypodermic needle and syringe with bleach to prevent transmission of HIV US, 1989
- Geoffrey Froner, Digging for Diamonds, p. 10, 1989

bleacher bum noun

- a loud, rowdy sports fan who favors the inexpensive bleacher seats US, 1987
- Giant’s centerfielder Bill North received an afternoon of heckling from the Wrigley Field bleacher bums. [Caption] — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 53, 25th June 1981
 - In a booming bleacher bum voice C.C. ordered coffee from a trusty passing his open office door. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 106, 1990

bleat verb

- to complain US, 1985
- M. Allen Henderson, How Can Games Work, p. 217, 1985

bleed noun

- in pinball, a ball that leaves play having scored few points US, 1979
- Edward Trapunski, Special When Lit, p. 152, 1979

bleed verb

- 1 to dilute a drug US, 1992
- Buy four, bleed in a ounce of cut, make it five. — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 185, 1992
- 2 to be showing lipstick on your face or clothes US, 1968
- Sandy sat up and grinned, and said, “You’re bleeding, Peter,” meaning I had lipstick on my face[.] — Evan Hunter, Last Summer, p. 187, 1968

▶ bleed the weasel

- (of a male) to urinate US, 2006
- “Come in here and play my hand, will ya? I gotta bleed the weasel.” — Chris Miller, The Real Animal House, p. 70, 2006

bleeder noun

- 1 a casino employee or executive who worries extensively about money being lost to gamblers US, 1974
- He will try to avoid picking “bleeders” or “sweaters.” That is executives who so hate to see the player win they may cheat the customer without the permission of the hotel, just out of sheer competitiveness. — Mario Puzo, Inside Las Vegas, p. 182, 1977
- 2 in poker, a player who methodically if undramatically drains money from the game by conservative, steady play US, 1988
- George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 10, 1988
- 3 a boxer who is prone to bleeding US, 1975
- [H]e was not a good defensive fighter and to cap it, a bleeder. — Edwin Torres, Carlito’s Way, p. 135, 1975

bleeding deacon noun

- a person with an over-inflated sense of self-importance to an organization US, 1988
- Usually used in the context of self-help recovery groups such as Alcoholics Anonymous.
- It will be what I call the “tradition lawyers.” They find it easier to live with black and white than they do with gray. These “bleeding deacons”—these fundamentalists—are afraid of and fight any change. — New York Times, p. 40 (Section 6), 21st February 1988
 - People who behave in this manner in the A.A. program—those who abandon self in the effort to help others—are called “bleeding deacons.” — Terence T. Gorski, Understanding the Twelve Steps, p. 123, 1989
 - He was just one very dry and very angry alcoholic—often called a “bleeding deacon” (as contrasted to an “elder statesman”) in earlier A.A. parlance. — Dick B., That Amazing Grace, p. 109, 1996
 - Most will do the right thing and accept discussion of drugs. Those that don’t will be populated mostly by “bleeding deacons” masquerading as elder statesmen, as members vote with their feet. (Letter to the editor). — Village Voice, p. 42, 5th June 2001

bleeding spot noun

- an oil leak on an asphalt road US, 1962
- American Speech, p. 267, December 1962: “The language of traffic policemen”

bleep verb

- to superimpose an electronic noise over expletives in a television or radio broadcast US, 1966
- Just bleep out the fucks and shit shits. — Natural Born Killers, 1994
 - Stern has made the same kind of threat dozens of times in the past, often in response to the way his flagship station, WXRK-FM in New York, bleeps out extreme sexual content. — Los Angeles Times, p. E1, 22nd March 2004

bleep

- used as a euphemistic replacement for an expletive, regardless of part of speech US, 1968
- You could hardly hear Columnist Sheila Graham for the “bleeps” on KPIX’s “Hot Line” Wednesday morning. Once she started discussing “Portnoy’s Complaint,” it was bleepers’ creepers all the way. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 29, 7th March 1969
 - When you’re having trouble stopping them and you’re not moving the ball, it’s going to be a bleeping long day. [Quoting John Madden] — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 44, 4th September 1972
 - I’m a bleep, “Howard said,” because if you say what I think you’re going to say, that’s the way it’ll come out. — Elmore Leonard, Touch, p. 220, 1977

blem noun

- a pimple US, 1968
- A shortened form of the conventional English “blemish.”
- Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 82, 1968

bless verb

- to approve the forwarding of a proposed action US, 1986
- Military usage.
- Department of the Army, Staff Officer’s Guidebook, p. 56, 1986

blessed sacrament noun

- marijuana US, 2001
- Rick Ayers (Editor), Slang Dictionary, p. 5, 2001

bless in verb

- to join a youth gang by consent of the membership without any physical or sexual initiation rite US, 1996
- You only get blessed in if you’ve been in the gang before or something. — S. Beth Atkin, Voices from the Street, p. 8, 1996

bless your pea-pickin' heartsused for expressing thanks US, 1956

A catchphrase television sign-off on The Ernie Ford Show (NBC, 1956–61), a music variety program. Repeated with referential humor.

- Beginning in 1956 he took a prime-time TV gig on The Ford Show, where he instigated the time-worn phrase “Bless your pea-pickin’ hearts.” — Kurt Wolff, Country Music, p. 177, 2000

bletch!used as an all-purpose, potent expression of disgust US, 1981
From the German brechen (to vomit).

- CoEvolution Quarterly, p. 26, Spring 1981
- Guy L. Steele et al., The Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 33, 1983

bletcherous adjectivein computing, poorly designed, dysfunctional US, 1981

- CoEvolution Quarterly, p. 26, Spring 1981
- Guy L. Steele et al., The Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 33, 1983

blimp noun1 in necrophile usage, a corpse with a distended abdomen US, 1987

- Maledicta, p. 180, Summer/Winter 1986–1987: “Sexual slang: prostitutes, pedophiles, flagellators, transvestites, and necrophiles”

2 an obese person US, 1934

- Maledicta, p. 38, 1983: “More common patient-directed pejoratives used by medical personnel”

3 in the television and movie industries, a camera’s sound-proofing housing US, 1977

- Tony Miller and Patricia George, Cut! Print!, p. 41, 1977

4 a bus US, 1990

- Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 198, 1990

blind noun1 a legitimate business used to conceal an illegal one US, 1929

- Why didn’t you tell us Carlito was using the office as a blind? We could have all been embarrassed. — Edwin Torres, After Hours, p. 369, 1979
- A sports news wire, set up in a back room that displayed the latest results from the region’s horse tracks, was the shop’s reason for existing. My grandfather called the shop a “blind”: a front for an off track betting operation. — Kim Rich, Johnny’s Girl, p. 33, 1993

2 an area in prison where guards cannot easily see what is going on US, 1989

- Allright, you lame bastard, let’s go to the blind. — James Harris, A Convict’s Dictionary, p. 34, 1989

3 a baggage carriage, usually immediately behind the engine of a passenger train US, 1893

- I started to buzz fast in Louis’ ear, telling him that A-Number-One was the greatest hobo who ever lived, hoboes ride the rods, blinds, and tops of trains[,] — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 256, 1946

► make the blind seeto perform oral sex on an uncircumcised man US, 1981

- Male Swinger Number 3, p. 48, 1981: “The complete gay dictionary” blind adjective1 very drunk UK, 1630

- Many a night we put on the whole floor show, chorus and all, for a party of six or eight, and they were usually too blind to see it. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 84, 1946
- But you—being a man—don’t care if the boys get blind. — Philip Wylie, Opus 21, p. 101, 1949
- [W]e were more than pretty well looped—we were blind. — John Nichols, The Sterile Cuckoo, p. 190, 1965

2 highly drug-intoxicated US, 1952

From an earlier alcohol sense.

- Later, they entered the movie house blind and sat down upstairs. — Hal Ellson, The Golden Spike, p. 234, 1952

3 (used of a bet) placed before seeing the cards being bet on US, 1963

- Irwin Steig, Common Sense in Poker, p. 181, 1963

blind bat nounan AC-130 aircraft used for night flare missions in Vietnam between 1964 and 1970 US, 1971

- Bats are not, of course, blind; they see at night.
- The role of the C-123s included the Candlestick flare-drop mission that had been performed by C-47s in South Vietnam and C-130 Blind Bat aircraft out of country. — Philip Chinney, Air Commando, p. 167, 1997 blind blast nouna parachute jump at night in enemy territory US

- Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 24, 1991

blind link nounon the Internet, a link that is misleading or false, taking you somewhere other than where you expect to go US, 2000
Common on pornography websites.

- Detracting from the site are a few “blind links,” notably under “Contact us,” which lead to annoying error messages. — Legal Times, p. 20, 19th June 2000 blind pig noun1 a speakeasy, where alcohol is served illegally US, 1886

- Of the 50-odd blind pigs in 52nd Street, between Fifth and sixth, only two remained. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 43, 1948
- They hadn’t been able to locate him in any of the blind pigs or whorehouses where he usually holed up, but he could have found a new place. — Jim Thompson, The Nothing Man, p. 142, 1954
- There is no way of estimating how many night clubs, speakeasies and blind pigs existed in the Broadway sector then. — Robert Sylvester, No Cover Charge, p. 138, 1956

- I found out from arguments between Mama and Papa that cousin Bunny had been a fast twenty five year old hustler who was operating a blind pig and poker trap in Vicksburg’s sin district that night that Mama saw Papa for the first time. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Mama Black Widow, p. 56, 1969

2 in poker, an unskilled but lucky player US, 1996

From the adage that even a blind pig will find an acorn over time.

- John Vorhaus, The Big Book of Poker Slang, 1996

blind tiger nounan illegal drinking establishment US, 1909

- Washington is loaded with bootleggers and blind tigers. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 130, 1951

bling nouna vulgar or ludicrously ostentatious display of wealth US, 2003

- Leave the bling and attitude at home. Abstract Rude’s on the microphone. — Anchorage (Alaska) Daily News, p. H5, 25th April 2003
- [Jennifer] Lopez’ erstwhile boyfriend [Puff Daddy/P Diddy] was “bling” personified. — The Guardian, p. 23, 21st May 2003

bling-bling nounwealth, especially as manifested in expensive, if tasteless, jewelry US, 1999

Coined by hip-hop rapper B.G. and appearing in his 1999 “Chopper City in the Ghetto.”

- Like B.G.’s hit song says, it’s about “Bling! Bling!” Li’l Wayne calls it “braggin’ rights.” A teenager whose gold teeth say “CASH MONEY,” Wayne says he lives with Baby in English Turn just so he can say he does. — Atlanta Journal and Constitution, p. 1C, 28th November 1999
- She [Aaliyah] didn’t traffic in Glocks, didn’t indulge in big pimpin’, didn’t court the bling-bling life. — Washington Post, p. C1, 28th August 2001
- [T]he modern-day “bling-bling” era of hip-hop has emerged. Gold has taken a back seat to the new metal of choice—platinum. — The Source, p. 64, March 2002

bling-bling verbto be successful, especially in hip-hop; hence, to be ostentatious; to make money US, 2003

- Lyrix, Reggie, Akino and even Hank are bling-blinging it all the way to the bank. — Patrick Neate, Where You’re At, p. 14, 2003

blinged; blinged out adjectiveostentatious; expensively bejeweled, especially if a tasteless display US, 2000

- The Honda’s driver cuts the gas, his jaw working a wad of gum as he checks out what Aviland his friends bring to the table: two Integras, a ‘93 and a ‘98, and a moderately blinged-up Benz sedan. — Los Angeles Times, p. B1, 9th December 2000 blink noun► on the blink*1 broken, not functioning US, 1899

- “Our car’s on the blink,” she said. “I took a bus.” — Robert Campbell, Juice, p. 104, 1988
- My car was on the blink, so Mr. De Wilde politely asked if he could take me home from the train station. — Pamela Des Barres, I’m With the Band, p. 120, 1988
- Although Keb’ Mo’, in his Monday night performance at the Birchmore, showed hints of ownership, it appeared as if his mojo was on the blink. — Washington Post, p. C2, 24th March 2004

2 posing as a blind person while begging US, 1956

- “Tell you what, Tex,” Ford persisted, “you go on the blink with me and I give you my word of honor here and now, the day we get a stake we throw away the glasses.” — Nelson Algren, A Walk on the Wild Side, p. 136, 1956 blink verbto miss seeing a fight, attack or other cause of excitement US, 1976

- John R. Armore and Joseph D. Wolfe, Dictionary of Desperation, p. 20, 1976

blinkenlights noundiagnostic lights on the front panel of a computer US, 1991

- Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 66, 1991

blinker noun1 a quadriplegic US, 1980

Vietnam war gallows humor, suggesting that a quadriplegic is capable only of blinking his eyes.

- “You got fucked, but there’s a guy who’s a blinker—the quadriplegic—and he got it worse than you.” — Mark Baker, Nam, p. 257, 1981

2 a police helicopter US, 1980

- Edith A. Folb, runnin’ down some lines, p. 229, 1980

blinkers nouneye-glasses US, 1974

- Mr. K is wearing new blinkers—not for reading but in tribute to her avocados, which are worth it. — Leo Rosten, Dear Herm, p. 149, 1974

blinkus of the thinkus nouna momentary loss of concentration US, 1971

- Dick Squires, The Other Racquet Sports, p. 219, 1971

blinky nouna person with poor or no eyesight US, 1922

- Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World’s Toughest Prison, p. 791, 1962

blinky adjectiveagitated, upset US, 1992

- And she gets all blinky on me. “What you say!” — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 366, 1992

blip noun

1 a minor fluctuation, usually upward, in the stock market or other measures of corporate fortunes US, 1988

- Kathleen Odean, High Steppers, Fallen Angels, and Lollipops, p. 97, 1988
- The rise of Reese [Witherspoon] is explicable both as a blip (she's a perky, funny, charming freak of nature) and as a trend: chick flicks are performing better than ever before. — The Times, 2nd August 2003

2 a source of surprise US, 1947

- You young New York Negroes is a blip! I swear you is! — Ralph Ellison, Invisible Man, p. 330, 1947
- I lit the stick of pot. Damn, that whole scene was a blip. — Piri Thomas, Down These Mean Streets, p. 62, 1967

3 a nickel (five-cent piece) US, 1935

- Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 7, 1945
- Even before I was in the money I toggled like a fashion plate, so I could run with the hip cats who hung around the poolroom. I was always as ready as they were, although sometimes I never had a blip in my poke. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 22, 1946

blip adjective

classy US, 1948

- Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 235, 1948

blippy adjective

used as a euphemism roughly meaning “damned” US, 1974

- How many times have I stood on my street corner, looking out at your blippy world full of pros? — Piri Thomas, Seven Long Times, p. 4, 1974

bliss cup noun

in the usage of counterculturalists associated with the Rainbow Nation gatherings, a homemade cup or bowl for eating and drinking US, 1997

- Jim Crotty, How to Talk American, p. 288, 1997

bliss out verb

to become ecstatic US, 1973

Used in a derogatory fashion, usually when applied to religious or cult zealots.

- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, November 1973
- The trumpet fanfares in [“It’s All Too Much” by The Beatles]. . . completely blissed-out, over the top. — Uncut, p. 34, July 2001

blister noun

1 a bump placed on a playing card by pressing it against a small sharp object, used by card cheats to identify the value of the card US, 1991

- Michael Dalton, Blackjack, p. 33, 1991

2 a prostitute US, 1905

- Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 30, 1967

blister bandit noun

a new recruit US, 1991

So named because blisters preclude them from training.

- Those burnished by the trials of combat or tough training missions label newcomers “cherry boys,” “twinks,” “FNG’s” (“fuckin’ new guys”) and “blister bandits.” — Carol Burke, Camp All-American, Hanoi Jane and the High-and-Tight, p. 108, 2004

blisterfoot noun

an infantry soldier US, 1945

- Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 43, 1945

blister work noun

extortion US, 1950

- When we pipe, it’s a hard lay we do a little blister work. — The New American Mercury, p. 708, 1950

blisty adjective

windy, cold, not suitable for surfing US, 1991

- Trevor Cralle, The Surflinary, p. 11, 1991

blitz noun

an intensive campaign; a concentrated effort US, 1940

After German blitz (understood in English as “all-out offensive warfare”).

- The Utah Highway Patrol’s recent speeding-enforcement blitz between Lehi and Provo showed there are a significant number of drivers who exceed the posted 65 mph limit along that stretch of I-15. — Desert Utah Morning News, 1st April 2004

blitz verb

1 to defeat someone soundly US, 1940

- The Mountaineers led 14–9 before being blitzed 74–53. — Charleston Daily Mail (West Virginia), p. B1, 22nd March 2004

2 in gin, to win and leave an opponent scoreless US, 1971

- Irwin Steig, Play Gin to Win, p. 138, 1971

3 in bar dice games, to bet the total amount of the pot US, 1971

- Jester Smith, Games They Play in San Francisco, p. 103, 1971

blitzed adjective

drunk or drug-intoxicated US, 1966

- If they were too drunk to get out, too blitzed to feel the heat, their skeletons were found in the debris, skulls smiling. — William Brashler, City Dogs, p. 56, 1976
- I get blitzed and pass out in his bedroom. Caitlan comes in and dives all over me. — Clerks, 1994
- I had my shirt off, I was sweaty, blitzed, everyone was. — Michelle Tea, Valencia, p. 49, 2000

blivet noun

1 an obnoxious person, especially with bad hygiene US, 1949

- Sally Williams, “Strong” Words, p. 134, 1994

2 in computing, a problem which cannot be solved or any impossibility US, 1991

- Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 67, 1991

blizzard noun

1 a large amount of cocaine US, 1999

- So of course there was a blizzard, a never-ending, complimentary blizzard for your nasal enjoyment. — James St. James, Party Monster, p. 127, 1999

2 poor television reception characterized by flickering white dots US, 1952

- Life in this great pretzel center is distinguished by the worst television reception enjoyed by any metropolitan American city—not even barring blast-furnacy Pittsburgh, runner-up for ghosts, blizzards, fade-outs and other visual blah. — San Francisco News, p. 21, 22nd May 1952

3 the cloud of thick, white smoke produced when smoking freebase cocaine US, 1992

- Terry Williams, Crackhouse, p. 147, 1992

blizzard head noun

in the early days of black and white television, a blonde US, 1948

So called because a blonde’s hair takes up all the light in the picture.

- Time, p. 76, 24th May 1948

block noun

cocaine US, 1993

- Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 22, 1993

block noun

1 prison US, 1983

- He paused. Stick was looking at him now. Cornell said, “You from the block, aren’t you?” — Elmore Leonard, Stick, p. 98, 1983

2 a watch US, 1972

Circus and carnival usage.

- He had an old dollar block [watch] and a few picks and he’d lay around the yard and every fish [new convict] that come in, if the fish had anything he’d con him out of it if he could. — Bruce Jackson, In the Life, p. 285, 1972

▶ on the block

engaged in prostitution on the street US, 1941

- Have all the players and working girls smiling on her, lapping up the news that Inez been put out on the block again, handed over her little black book and gone back in harness. — John Sayles, Union Dues, p. 182, 1977
- A whore had to be tough, because if she start off at sixteen out there on the block, by the time she’s twenty-four or twenty-five, she’s done for. — John Allen, Assault with a Deadly Weapon, p. 102, 1977

block and tackle noun illegally manufactured whiskey US, 1974

- Burgess Laughlin, Job Opportunities in the Black Market, p. 4, 1978
- Star Tribune (Minneapolis), p. 19f, 31st January 1999

block boy noun

a youth who spends his abundant free time idling on a street corner, looking or hoping for trouble US, 1970

- Current Slang, p. 5, Fall 1970

blockbuster noun

1 a capsule of pentobarbital sodium (trade name Nembutal™), a central nervous system depressant US, 1970

Sometimes shortened to “buster.”

- Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 27, 1970

2 a .357 Magnum bullet US, 1962

- American Speech, p. 267, December 1962: “The language of traffic policemen”

blocked adjective

drunk or drug-intoxicated US, 1956

- I knew he was getting blocked in a very methodical fashion. — James Blake, The Joint, p. 126, 30th June 1956

- Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 35, 1971

blocker noun

a confederate who shields a casino cheat from being seen as he robs a slot machine US, 1984

- Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 22, 1987

blockhead noun

a stupid fool, an idiot UK, 1549

Originally “a wooden base for hats or wigs,” hence “wooden-headed.”

- Peterson’s defense would have been more palatable if it had admitted to his arrogance, lecherousness, and stupidity, and argued that he was too much of a self-centred blockhead to pull off a murder. — Loretta Dillon, Stone Cold Guilty, p. 154, 2005

block hustle noun

a small-scale swindle US, 1997

- I prosecuted a few bunco cases, but they were just block hustles, street scams. — Stephen Cannell, Big Con, p. 152, 1997

blocks noun

dice US, 1962

- Frank Garcia, Marked Cards and Loaded Dice, p. 262, 1962

▶ put the blocks to someone to have sex with someone US, 1888

- Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World’s Toughest Prison, p. 814, 1962
- He supposed every stud on the beach was trying to put the blocks to her. — Burt Hirschfeld, Fire Island, p. 71, 1970

- Guys who spoke of “putting the blocks to” a chick were bound to be assholes too[.] — Screw, p. 7, 3rd January 1972

blonde noun

coffee with cream US, 1952

- — American Speech, p. 232, October 1952: “The argot of soda jerks” blonde and sweet adjective

(used of coffee) with cream and sugar US, 1945

- — American Speech, p. 37, February 1948: “Talking under water: speech in submarines”
- — Helen Dahlkog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 8, 1972
- — “Slingo”, The Official CB Slang Dictionary Handbook, p. 9, 1976

blooper noun

a female breast US, 1954

- On the way to Biff’s, Betsy, dressed in a knocked-out strapless, boobers more out than in, kept beating her gums. — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 157, 1954

bloochie noun

any cumbersome object US, 1982

From Polish immigrants’ speech.

- Bloochie—Any awkward, unwieldy object. Something without handles, making it difficult to pick up or steal. — Bill Reilly, Big Al’s Official Guide to Chicagoese, p. 16, 1982

blood *noun1 a black person US, 1965

- — J. L. Simmons and Barry Winograd, It’s Happening, p. 167, 1966
- Annette downtown going for broke, while Chicanos and bloods outside the bars beat the nightlight out of po’ trash from across the way, driving them out their territory. — Steve Cannon, Groove, Bang, and Jive Around, p. 24, 1969
- They never inquired if the bloods they were giving the jobs to were the same ones who were causing the trouble. — Tom Wolfe, Radical Chic & Mau-Mauing the Flak Catchers, pp. 98–99, 1970
- A young blood stops him, gives him his address. — Ken Kesey, Last Whole Earth Catalog, p. 234, 1971
- “Okay. So he wasn’t a blood.” — Robert Deane Pharr, S.R.O., p. 464, 1971

2 wine US, 1959

- — Robert George Reischer, The Jazz Titans, p. 151, 1960
- “Ever try blood?” Joe Richards snickered across the room. “The kind distilled from grapes, I mean.” — Clarence Cooper Jr., Black, p. 12, 1963
- I told him like I did every stud / that it wasn’t shit for me to drink two or three fifths a some real good blood. — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 89, 1964

3 pizza sauce US, 1996

- — Maledicta, p. 12, 1996: “Domino’s pizza jargon”

4 tomato juice US, 1936

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 7, 1945

blood alley noun

an unsafe stretch of a road US, 1978

- “Blood Alley” Claims Victim — San Francisco Examiner, p. 54, 9th March 1978
- The site of the crash was a desolate desert stretch of Highway 86, a two-lane highway known as “Blood Alley” and “killer Highway” because of the hundreds of collisions there each year. — New York Times, p. A12, 11th August 1983
- How many injuries or deaths are required on the 74 to increase CHP and local police enforcement to improve conditions on this highway which is fast becoming Blood Alley? [Letter to Editor] — Press Enterprise (Riverside, California), p. B2, 26th January 2004

blood chit noun

a written notice in several languages, carried by members of the American armed forces, identifying the person as American and promising a reward for help in evading the enemy US, 1941

- The US Department of Defense Policy on Blood Chits states that the chits “are a tool used by an evader or escapee after all other measures of independent evasion and escape have failed and the evader(s) considers assistance vital to survival. Upon receiving assistance, the evader or escapee provides the assistant with the blood chit number. The blood chit represents an obligation of the U.S. Government to compensate the claimant, or his immediate family if the claimant is deceased, for services rendered to DoD personnel.” The version used in the Vietnam war had the plea for “assistance in obtaining food, shelter and protection” in English, Burmese, Chinese, Thai, Laotian, Cambodian, Vietnamese, Malayan, Indonesian, Tagalog, Visayan, French and Dutch.
- None of them had dared take anything—not even the cheap barter watch from the blood-chit can. — Wallace Brown, The Endless Hours, p. 27, 1961

bloodhound verb

to track someone down US, 1963

- That hundred and a quarter was in my fist almost, and I went blood-houndin after you. — Clarence Cooper Jr., Black, p. 190, 1963

blood in verb

in prison, to establish your credentials for toughness by slashing another prisoner US, 2000

- Rikers inmates had to “blood in,” or slash someone across the face. — Village Voice, p. 54, 19th December 2000

blood in, blood out noun used for expressing the rules for entering (to kill) and leaving (to be killed) a prison gang US, 1990

- Entrance into the group is by election and a “blood in, blood out” oath is taken by new members. — Alfredo Miranda, Gringo Justice, p. 205, 1990
- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 41, 1992
- “‘Blood in, blood out’ simply means that to join the AB, an inmate had to ‘earn his bones’—in other words, had to kill someone to get in.” — Pete Earley, The Hot House, p. 79, 1992

- A “blood-in, blood-out” entry requirement is absolute. — Bill Valentine, Gangs and Their Tattoos, p. 8, 2000

bloodman noun

a person who is at any moment capable of physical violence US, 2002

- — Gary K. Farlow, Prison-ese, p. 5, 2002

blood money noun

in gambling, money that is won after long, hard work US, 1979

- — John Searne, Scarne’s Guide to Modern Poker, p. 273, 1979

blood poker noun

poker played as business with no social trappings US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 11, 1988

blood simple adjective

crazed by violence US, 1984

- But the caper went blood simple: guard snuffed, stray bullets flying. — James Ellroy, Hollywood Nocturnes, p. 286, 1984

blood stripe noun

a military promotion that is made possible only by the demotion of another unit member US, 1968

- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 4, 1968
- I don’t know if the blood-stripe promotion qualified Kell as a full-fledged lifer or not. — William Pelfrey, The Big V, p. 80, 1972

blood weapon noun

a weapon captured from an enemy soldier, especially a soldier killed by the man taking the weapon US, 1990

- New troops had to earn the right to carry the communist-made rifle, as the general rule was that an AK had to be a “blood” weapon, one taken from an enemy soldier in combat after he no longer had any use for it. — Michael Lee Lanning, Inside the LRRPs: Rangers in Vietnam, 2011

blood wings noun

the first set of parachute insignia that a paratrooper receives upon qualification at different levels of expertise US, 1989

- His master-blast “blood wings” were on his hat and he desperately wanted them back. — David H. Hackworth, About Face, p. 449, 1989

Bloody One nickname

the First Infantry Division US, 1991

- Bloody One: Nickname for the 1st Infantry Division derived from its red numeral “1” on an olive drab patch. — Shelby Stanton, Vietnam Order of Battle, p. 353, 2003

blooey *adjective▶ go blooey to go out of business; to break down completely US, 1910

- One More American Tradition Goes Blooey [Headline]. — San Francisco News, p. 15, 12th June 1950
- Because fish fall in love with other fish, a wartime dream of a Sunnyvale industrial plant’s employee went blooey today. — San Francisco News, p. 1, 18th July 1952
- Oblivious shitbird—he didn’t know the whole scheme had gone blooey. — James Ellroy, Hollywood Nocturnes, p. 115, 1994

blooker noun

an M79 grenade launcher US, 1973

Vietnam war usage. It is a single-shot, break-open, breech-loading, shoulder-fired weapon.

- It was also called “chunker,” “thump gun,” “79,” “blooker,” “blooper,” and “bloop tube.” The latter three names were derived from the distinctive sound generated when a round popped out of its muzzle. — Peter Kokalis, Soldier of Fortune, p. 57, July 1992
- “A guy who’d started lobbing blooker rounds in on us.” — James Lee Burke, Last Car to Elysian Fields, p. 406, 2003

bloomer noun

in horse racing, a horse that performs well early in the morning during the workout but not in a race later in the day US, 1951

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 14, 1951

bloomer boy noun

a paratrooper US, 1948

- — American Speech, p. 319, October/December 1948: “Slang of the American paratrooper”

Bloomie’s nickname

the Bloomingdale’s department store, especially the original store located on Third Avenue between 59th and 60th Streets, New York US, 1977

- Pitstopping on her way to Paris, where she will shoot pix of Raquel, our heroine hit Bloomie’s New York where with credit card in hand racked up a $240 bill in 15 minutes. — New York Times, p. B1, 22nd April 1977
- Even with the Bloomie’s job, I carefully rationed myself to one 23-cent can of tuna fish a day. — Kathryn Leigh Scott, The Bunny Years, p. 13, 1998
- The limited-edition tees are available at all Bloomie’s locations. — Atlanta Journal-Constitution, p. 18NE, 18th March 2004

blooper noun

1 an error, especially a humiliating and/or humorous one US, 1925

- “He would never make such a tactical mistake in a naval problem but he made bloopers with the press.” — William Brinkley, Don’t Go Near the Water, p. 45, 1956

2 in television, radio or film making, an unintentionally funny misspoken line US, 1924

- — Ira Konigsberg, The Complete Film Dictionary, p. 32, 1987

- 3 an M79 grenade launcher US, 1978
Vietnam war usage. It is a single-shot, break-open, breech-loading, shoulder-fired weapon.
- The exploding “blooper” rounds exposed an entire network of holes and tunnels dug into the northern rim of the hilltop. — Tom Yarborough, Da Nang Diary, p. 157, 1990
 - It was also called “chunker,” “thump gun,” “79,” “blooker,” “blooper,” and “bloop tube.” The latter three names were derived from the distinctive sound generated when a round popped out of its muzzle. — Peter Kokalis, Soldier of Fortune, p. 57, July 1992

blooper ball noun
a grenade used in an M-79 grenade launcher US, 1982

- — Maledicta, p. 259, Summer/Winter 1982: “Viet-speak”

blood tube; blood gun noun
an M79 grenade launcher US, 1971
It is a single-shot, break-open, breechloading, shoulder-fired weapon.

- It was also called “chunker,” “thump gun,” “79,” “blooker,” “blooper,” and “bloop tube.” The latter three names were derived from the distinctive sound generated when a round popped out of its muzzle. — Peter Kokalis, Soldier of Fortune, p. 57, July 1992

blotch verb to stain your underwear when what had seemed like flatulence was something more US, 1989

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 21, 1989

blotter noun
a tiny piece of absorbent paper impregnated with LSD and ingested as such US, 1971

- He was rummaging around in the kit bag. “I think it’s about time to chew up a blotter,” he said. — Hunter S. Thompson, Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas, pp. 20–21, 1971
- “What kind is it?” “Blotter. Has a little numeral one on it.” — Elmore Leonard, Freaky Deaky, p. 20, 1988
- This plan ended up with us walking up and down Haight Street in S.F. trying to sell blotter to amused and disinterested hippies. — Jennifer Blowdryer, White Trash Debutante, p. 37, 1997
- She did some blotter when she started with the Chicks and made the mistake of telling him one time, on the phone. — Elmore Leonard, Be Cool, p. 79, 1999

blotto adjective
very drunk; in a drunken stupor UK, 1917
Possibly from the absorbent quality of blotting paper, or from a conventional mid-C19 usage of “blotted” as “blurred”.

- “You can sit up and drink with me until I go blotto,” I said. — Chester Himes, If He Hollers Let Him Go, p. 95, 1945
- “The pleasure of being blotto and not knowing for a little while what a mess everything is.” — John Conway, Love in Suburbia, p. 56, 1960
- And the Barfers got blotto and fell in love with everything about these movie guys[.] — Joseph Wambaugh, Lines and Shadows, p. 336, 1984
- [H]is M.O. for the evening, I soon began to discern, was to get Donleavy so totally blotto that he could have his way with him, in terms of contracts[.] — Terry Southern, Now Dig This, p. 174, 1991

blow noun
1 cocaine US, 1971

- “I think I’ll have a little blow before we begin,” he said as he produced the folded hundred-dollar bill in which he carries his cocaine. — Christina and Richard Milner, Black Players, p. 177, 1972
- He says he owes you for blow and he just got some product himself. — Heathers, 1988
- You got some good blow, right? — The Bad Lieutenant, 1992
- The two of us liked to get high a lot around the house, and we used more than our share of blow during the early 1970s. — Ralph “Sonny” Barger, Hell’s Angel, p. 113, 2000

2 heroin US, 2003

- “We’ve been sitting out here for the last couple hours and haven’t heard anyone shouting about ‘rocks’ and ‘blows,’” said Talley, 65, referring to the street slang for crack and heroin. — Chicago Tribune, p. C1, 3rd August 2003

3 a dose of a drug, especially a dose of cocaine to be snorted US, 1953

- “You goin’ give me a blow, ain’t you Terry?” she asked in a pleading voice. — Donald Goines, Dopefiend, p. 197, 1971
- I felt it getting a bit heated so I ordered another blow of cocaine and a round of drinks and I split. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 58, 1973
- I’m dying, baby. If I don’t get a blow I’m goin’ to die. — Charles W. Moore, A Brick for Mister Jones, pp. 26–27, 1975
- After a while Lalin said, “Carlito where can we go for a blow?” I wasn’t too much into candy anymore since I came out. — Edwin Torres, After Hours, p. 241, 1979

4 a confidence swindle involving the claimed ability to change the denomination on currency US, 1957

- It didn’t surprise Goldy that Jackson had been trimmed on The Blow. — Chester Himes, A Rage in Harlem, p. 40, 1957

blow verb
1 to smoke, especially to smoke marijuana US, 1772
Originally “to smoke a pipe or cigar,” now drugs use only. Usage often specifies marijuana thus “blow shit,” “blow a stick,” etc.

- At times, after we had fixed and blown some pot, with a sleek thrust of my own soul, a thrust of empathy, I used to find myself identifying with him. — Alexander Trocchi, Cain’s Book, p. 75, 1960
- Shorty would take me to groovy, frantic scenes in different chicks’ and cats’ pads, where with the lights and juke down mellow, everybody blew gage and juiced back and jumped. — Malcolm X and Alex Haley, The Autobiography of Malcolm X, p. 56, 1964
- I could not see how they were more justified in drinking than I was in blowing the gage. — Eldridge Cleaver, Soul on Ice, p. 4, 1968

- — Home Office, Glossary of Terms and Slang Common in Penal Establishments, 1978
 - Did I ask if they’re tooting cocaine, maybe blowing a little weed? No, I didn’t ask him that either. — Elmore Leonard, Split Images, p. 16, 1981
- 2 to register on a blood alcohol breath testing device US, 1978
- Someone at the club that evening had said that anybody coming from Deep Run after a Saturday night party, anybody at all, would blow at least a twenty on the breathalyzer. — Elmore Leonard, Switch, p. 1, 1978
- 3 to perform oral sex US, 1930
- I, anticipating even more pleasure, wouldn’t allow her to blow me on the bus[.] — Neal Cassady, The First Third, p. 190, 1947
 - Here, man. Blow me here! — John Rechy, Numbers, p. 106, 1967
 - Girls will blow girls, girl will blow boys, boys will blow girls, and boys will blow boys. — Screw, p. 11, 5th January 1970
 - Oh, if you think I’m gonna blow this guy for your sick purposes, you are sadly mistaken. — The Sopranos (Episode 57), 2004
- 4 to open something with explosives UK, 1602
- The guys in the mob thought I had turned snowbird when I said we would blow the Kroger safe. — Charles Hamilton, Men of the Underworld, p. 136, 1952
 - I prefer blowing one. I blowed quite a few. — Bruce Jackson, In the Life, p. 96, 1972
 - Convicts, they’d sit around talking about jobs, banks they’d held up, argue about how to blow a safe. — Elmore Leonard, Maximum Bob, pp. 107–108, 1991
- 5 to waste an opportunity, to bungle US, 1907
- I had the market on the good pot uptown sewed up; I didn’t want to blow that. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 161, 1965
 - Anyway, she blew her whole weekend looking for someone for me to debate. — James Simon Kunen, The Strawberry Statement, p. 63, 1968
 - You know, Billy, we blew it. — Easy Rider, 1969
 - You blew it, asshole. — Fast Times at Ridgemont High, 1982
- 6 to be useless, unpopular, distasteful US, 1907
Often in the context of an exclamation such as “That blows!”
- — Anna Scotti and Paul Young, Buzzwords, p. 53, 1997
 - — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Fall 1999
- 7 to leave US, 1898
- I picked up my battered hat from the desk and stretched. “Got to blow, pal.” — Mickey Spillane, I, The Jury, p. 24, 1947
 - “Go ahead,” he said to her. “You can blow.” — Irving Shulman, The Amboy Dukes, p. 43, 1947
 - As far as Roamer is concerned, they blew with the dough. — Horace McCoy, Kiss Tomorrow Good-bye, p. 264, 1948
 - “Want to blow this place now?” he said to the girl. — Chandler Brossard, Who Walks in Darkness, p. 12, 1952
- 8 to play a musical instrument US, 1949
Used with all instruments, not just those requiring wind.
- And the gate that rocked at the eighty-eight was blowin’ “How High the Moon.” — William “Lord” Buckley, The Ballad of Dan McGroo, 1960
 - You blew piano with Jimmy Vann, huh? — Ross Russell, The Sound, p. 108, 1961
 - This gave me a stronger urge to blow piano, or blow a box, as they used to say. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 229, 1965
 - [O]ne whom he intended looking up at the Capitol Theater where he was blowing with a name band (Glenn Miller’s old band). — Herbert Huncke, The Evening Sun Turned Crimson, p. 75, 1980
- ▶ blow a gasket to lose your temper completely US, 1949
- Watching it one day I saw the normally mild mannered Stuart almost blow a gasket on the air. — Sue Rhodes, Now you’ll think I’m awful, p. 100, 1967
 - — Helen Dahlkog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 8, 1972
- ▶ blow a hype to become overexcited US, 1986
- — Gary Goshgarian (Editor), Exploring Language, p. 302, 1986
- ▶ blow a load
to ejaculate US, 1995
- Lois could never have Superman’s baby. Do you think her fallopian tubes could handle his sperm? I guarantee he blows a load like a shotgun. — Mallrats, 1995
- ▶ blow a nut
to ejaculate US, 1994
- So I blow a nut on her belly, and I get out of there, just as my uncle walks in. — Clerks, 1994
- ▶ blow a shot
while trying to inject a drug, to miss the vein or otherwise waste the drug US, 1966
- You keep blowing shots like that and all you’ll have for an arm is abscesses. — James Mills, The Panic in Needle Park, p. 80, 1966
 - I blew the shot, please come back and give me another bag. — Robert Daley, Prince of the City, p. 21, 1978
- ▶ blow a vein
while injecting a drug, to cause a vein to collapse US, 1974
- — Stewart L. Tubbs and Sylvia Moss, Human Communication, p. 119, 1974
 - — Geoffrey Froner, Digging for Diamonds, p. 11, 1989
 - — Sally Williams, “Strong” Words, p. 134, 1994
- ▶ blow beets
to vomit US, 1968
- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 82, 1968
 - — Lewis Poteet, Car and Motorcycle Slang, p. 32, 1992
- ▶ blow chow
to vomit US, 1988
- — Michael V. Anderson, The Bad, Rad, Not to Forget Way Cool Beach and Surf Discretionary, p. 3, 1988
 - I gagged a couple of times, but I didn’t blow chow so I was pretty pleased. — Janet Evanovich, Seven Up, p. 201, 2001

- ▶ blow chunks
to vomit US, 1992
- I think he's gonna blow chunks. — Wayne's World, 1992
 - If some disco freak popped out of a trunk and blew chunks all over the hood of my car, I'd be hoping mad. — Elissa Stein and Kevin Leslie, Chunks, p. 3, 1997
- ▶ blow dinner
to vomit US, 1968
- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 82, 1968
- ▶ blow dust
to shoot a gun US, 2001
- At one point, a woman overheard one of Mendrell's friends tell Miguel's security guard they would "blow dust also, if they have to," which is street slang for shooting a gun, police said. — Intelligencer Journal (Lancaster, Pennsylvania), p. B1, 10th March 2001
- ▶ blow lunch
to vomit US, 1965
- I ate the porridge with onions and salt in it that had a raw egg tinted with blue vegetable coloring on top, blew my lunch, and ate some more. — John Nichols, The Sterile Cuckoo, p. 55, 1965
 - — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 82, 1968
- ▶ blow smoke
to brag US, 1946
- — Norman Carlisle, The Modern Wonder Book of Trains and Railroadings, p. 259, 1946
- ▶ blow someone's mind to amaze someone; to surprise someone; to shock someone US, 1965
- A figurative sense, extended from the sense as a "hallucinogenic experience."
- "People are already down on us because we're Hell's Angels," Zorro explained. "This is why we like to blow their minds." — Hunter S. Thompson, Hell's Angels, p. 117, 1966
 - Who was the passenger? You guess it—Peter Fonda. It blew my mind. I couldn't believe it. — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, p. 83, 1970
 - That she knew my name blew my mind. Some of my best friends didn't know my name. — Something About Mary, 1998
- ▶ blow this cookie stand
to leave US, 1977
- Let's blow this cookie stand and get ourselves some breakfast. — John Sayles, Union Dues, p. 373, 1977
- ▶ blow your cool to lose your mental composure US, 1961
- Since the mid-1950s it has been uncool in youth and counterculture to demonstrate too much emotion.
- "We agreed when this shit started, that we'd just have to move it from day to day and not blow our cool and not try to think too far ahead." — James Baldwin, If Beale Street Could Talk, p. 197, 1974
- ▶ blow your jets to become angry US, 1960
- — San Francisco Examiner, p. III-2, 22nd March 1960
- ▶ blow your lid to lose your control emotionally; to become angry US, 1935
- We were in my room, Mrs. Winroy had come in a couple of minutes behind him, and she'd blown her lid so high we'd had to come upstairs. — Jim Thompson, Savage Night, p. 24, 1953
- ▶ blow your lump to completely lose your emotional composure US, 1951
- — American Speech, p. 194, October 1951: "A study of reformatory argot"
- ▶ blow your mind
1 to have a hallucinogenic experience; to experience a psychotic break as a result of drug use US, 1965
- What's it like to blow your mind? [Advertisement for Look Magazine's "Hippie issue"] — San Francisco Examiner, p. 26, 12th September 1967
 - Since that time I've had a few friends that have blown their minds on acid.[.] — Leonard Wolfe (Editor), Voices from the Love Generation, p. 70, 1968
 - One pound of LSD could therefore blow the minds of the entire population of New York City. — Timothy Leary, The Politics of Ecstasy, p. 74, 1968
- 2 to lose your mind, to go crazy US, 1965
- There's a man in the line / And she's blowing his mind / Thinking that he's already made her. — Arlo Guthrie, Coming into Los Angeles, 1969
- ▶ blow your stack to lose your temper US, 1947
- He waited to see what would happen and when nothing did, said, "you go blowing off your stack like you been doing and you'll be wearing a D.O.A. tag on your toe." — Mickey Spillane, Kiss Me Deadly, p. 65, 1952
 - I want to say something to you without you blowing your stack. — Raging Bull, 1980
- ▶ blow your top
1 to lose emotional control US, 1946
- It left me so shaky I almost blew my top and got sicker than a hog with the colic. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 4, 1946
 - The weed available in the U.S. is evidently not strong enough to blow your top and weed psychosis is rare in the States. — William Burroughs, Junkie, p. 32, 1953
- 2 to engage in inconsequential conversation US, 1947
- — Marcus Hanna Boulware, Life and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947
- ▶ blow your wheels to act without restraint US, 1955
- You feel like you want to blow your wheels right now? — Rebel Without a Cause, 1955
- ▶ blow your wig to lose emotional control; to become angry US, 1851
- "I still think the punk's blowed his wig!" — Donald Wilson, My Six Convicts, p. 47, 1951
 - The Chick, you may dig, may blow her wig if a lad is sad and when he visits her pad and can't talk trash and has no cash. — Dan Burley, Diggeth Thou?, p. 5, 1959
- ▶ blow z's
to sleep US
- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 25, 1991
- blow away verb
- 1 to kill someone, usually with a gun US, 1913
- — H. Craig Collins, Street Gangs, p. 222, 1979
 - He should have just taken a dollar out of the wallet, given it to Joe the Grinder, and walked out, instead of blowing her away like he did. — Gerald Petievich, Money Men, p. 120, 1981
 - That's what he has workers for, to blow people away for nothing. — Richard Condon, Prizzi's Honor, p. 223, 1982
 - I said, "Okay, I'll give you three seconds." By the time he started to reach in his pocket I was at three and it was too late. So I blew him away. — Elmore Leonard, Killshot, p. 22, 1989
- 2 to impress or astonish someone; hence, to be impressed or astonished US, 1975
- "I don't know why you're so blown away, though, after the stuff Kate laid on us in group." — Cyra McFadden, The Serial, p. 155, 1977
- blow back verb
in gambling, to lose all or most of your winnings US, 1990
- — Anthony Holden, Big Deal, p. 298, 1990
- blow bath noun
during the war in Vietnam, a bath, massage, and sex US, 1969
- They went to whorehouses and massage parlors—steam and cream, they were called, the Old Cuckooer Shop, going to a blow bath to get a steam job. — Philip Beidler, Late Thoughts on an Old War, p. 32, 2004
- blowboy noun
a male homosexual US, 1935
- "Else you be tellin' everybody round school tomorrow how a blowboy kick your butt." — Jess Mowry, Way Past Cool, p. 124, 1992
 - — Michael Dalton Johnson, Talking Trash with Redd Foxx, p. 66, 1994
- blow dart noun
a hypodermic needle used to inject drugs US, 1971
- — Edward R. Bloomquist, Marijuana, p. 334, 1971
- blow date noun
a session with a prostitute enhanced by cocaine use US, 1973
- When you have a blow date, a couple of men come to your house for three days. — Susan Hall, Ladies of the Night, p. 71, 1973
- blower noun
- 1 a telephone UK, 1922
- Carried over from the "speaking tube" which was blown through to alert the receiver; has also been applied to the telegraph system when used for the transmission of racing results. During World War 2, and for some time after, applied to a public address system.
- [T]he bent bogey [corrupt policeman] was on the blower to Charley. — Charles Raven, Underworld Nights, p. 62, 1956
- 2 a respirator US, 1994
- — Sally Williams, "Strang" Words, p. 135, 1994
- 3 in a jazz band, a soloist US, 1960
- — Robert S. Gould, A Jazz Lexicon, p. 26, 1964
- 4 a handkerchief US, 1960
- Stout looked humiliated and ineffably sad as he pulled out his blower and began to wipe off the goo. — Timothy Crouse, The Boys on the Bus, p. 53, 1973
- 5 a party US, 2001
- — Don R. McCreary (Editor), Dawg Speak, 2001
- 6 a pistol US, 1976
- — Porter Bibb, CB Bible, p. 94, 1976
- blowhard noun
a boaster, a braggart US, 1857
- "[A] braggart and a blowhard of the type who may climb up on a soapbox and shout for a following, the way we've all seen Mr. Ceswick do, then back down the moment there is any real danger to him personally." — Ken Kesey, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, p. 149, 1962
- blowhole noun
the mouth US, 1950
- "You shut your blowhole," Tomboy said, turning to Liz. — Hal Elson, Tomboy, p. 85, 1950
- blow in verb to arrive US, 1882
- About that time Sid Barry blew in from New York[.] — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 21, 1946
 - Well, children, the big bad wolf blew into town as advertised[.] — Steve Allen, Bop Fables, p. 21, 1955
 - Sapphire waited until 2.30. Then he blew in by the kitchen window round at the back[.] — Charles Raven, Underworld Nights, p. 11, 1956
 - He had blown into town with no 'ho. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Airtight Willie and Me, p. 21, 1979
- blow job noun
1 an act of oral sex performed on a man, or, occasionally, a woman US, 1942
- That white chick—Jane—of yours—she ever give you a blow job? — James Baldwin, Another Country, p. 69, 1962
 - Well, the least you could do is give me a blow job. — Repo Man, 1984

- “You’ve written the definite blow-job!” he kept shouting. “The definite blow-job!” — Terry Southern, Now Dig This, p. 13, 1986
 - After all, if you’re the kind of guy who’ll pay for blowjobs from a black chick on the Sunset Strip, it’s humiliating to have to keep saying “Oh, bugged” as if it were the most adorable thing in the world. — LA Weekly, p. 15, 31st May 2002
- 2 a safe robbery in which explosives are used to gain access to the safe US, 1973
- There’s also the old-fashioned blow job, which nobody uses anymore. You blow the whole goddamn safe. — Leonard Shecter and William Phillips, On the Pod, p. 179, 1973

blowman noun

- a member of a youth gang designated as a shooter US, 1979
- — H. Craig Collins, Street Gangs, p. 222, 1979

blown adjective

- of a blood vein, collapsed US, 1989
- A vein is said to be “blown” when it can no longer be used because it has collapsed. — Geoffrey Froner, Digging for Diamonds, p. 11, 1989

blown away adjective

- drunk or drug-intoxicated US, 1981
- I checked out an unmarked car, drove to the apartment of an informant and got blown away on hash[.] — James Ellroy, Brown’s Requiem, p. 220, 1981

blown out adjective

- 1 said of choppy ocean conditions unfavorable for surfing US, 1963
- — Grant W. Kuhns, On Surfing, p. 114, 1963
 - [H]e took first place in the U.S. Surfing Championship on a “blown-out” (rotten) day when he got one of the few decent waves. — Eve Babitz, Eve’s Hollywood, p. 204, 1974
- 2 drug-intoxicated US, 1972
- — Helen Dahlskog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 8, 1972

blow-off noun

- 1 the end of a performance; the final performance in an engagement US, 1913
- Originally circus usage.
- Feuds and angles, if successful, can last for a year or more, progressing slowly before dramatically culminating in what is known as a blow-off match, signifying the end of the wrestler’s current storyline[.] — Dave Flood, Kayfabe, p. 30, 2000
 - Actually, I was the one who came up with an angle for the blow off. — Missy Hyatt, Missy Hyatt, p. 87, 2001
- 2 in the circus or carnival, the crowd leaving a performance US, 1980
- — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 18, 1980
- 3 oral sex performed on a man US, 1972
- Through Oregon and Washington we were cut down quite a bit; we couldn’t give the blow-off and we couldn’t strip all the way and things like that. — Bruce Jackson, In the Life, p. 390, 1972
- 4 the moment in a confidence swindle when the victim is left to discover his loss US, 1969
- White grifters call it the blowoff. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Trick Baby, p. 124, 1969

blow off verb

- 1 to ignore, to dismiss someone US, 1965
- Well then blow him off when he gets here. — Something About Mary, 1998
- 2 to fail to attend US, 1986
- — Rutgers Alumni Magazine, p. 21, February 1986

blowout noun

- 1 a party or meal unlimited by normal rules of conduct US, 1815
- Two summers ago he decided to throw a blowout reunion party at the China Club[.] — Elissa Stein and Kevin Leslie, Chunks, p. 8, 1997
- 2 in horse racing, a short but intense workout several days before a race US, 1968
- — Don Voorhees and Bob Benoit, Railbird Handbook, p. 44, 1968
- 3 an utter failure US, 1938
- Blowouts, both times, wiped me clean. — Elmore Leonard, Bandits, p. 66, 1987

blow-up noun

- a corpse that has exploded from a build-up of internal gas US, 1962
- — American Speech, p. 267, December 1962: “The language of traffic policemen”

blow up verb

- 1 to become muscular US, 1995
- So when I started buffin with Jime!, I blew up to some twenties [20-inch arms], then I got sick with cancer. — Yusuf Jah, Uprising, p. 27, 1995
- 2 in an endurance sport, to reach a point of utter exhaustion US, 1990
- The Ultimate Warrior is said to be one of the few wrestlers who blows up on the entry ramp. — rec.sports.pro-wrestling, 17th July 1990
 - The athlete may “bonk,” “hit the wall” or “blow up,” as the terminology goes. — Washington Post, p. A1, 11th June 2001
- 3 to receive repeated electronic pages US, 2001
- — Rick Ayers (Editor), Slang Dictionary, p. 5, 2001

blow-your-mind roulette noun

- a drug activity in which a variety of pills are mixed together and individuals take a random selection of pills from the mix US, 1970
- — Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 29, 1970

blubber noun

- a fat person US, 1997
- The labels were cruel: Gimp, Limpy-go-fetch, Crip, Lift-one-drag one, etc. Pint, Half-a-man, Peewee, Shorty, Lardass, Pork, Blubber, Belly, Blimp. Nukeknob, Skinhead, Baldy, Four-eyes, Specs, Coke bottles. — San Francisco Examiner, p. A15, 28th July 1997

blubberbutt noun

- an obese person US, 1952
- And watch: if Gore wins, America’s blubberbutts will file a class action suit against the beer companies. — New York Post, p. 20, 30th July 2000

blubberhead noun

- a fool US, 1916
- [E]ven jail was not a safe sanctuary for that big scar-faced blubber-head. — Harry Grey, The Hoops, p. 79, 1952

blue noun

- 1 a barbiturate capsule US, 1969
- — Norman W. Houser, Drugs, p. 13, 1969
 - I laughed to myself as I pictured blues or dilaudid in such great amounts that the spoon would literally be overflowing. — Drugstore Cowboy, 1988
- 2 cocaine US, 1945
- They ordered cocaine or morphine by the pieces (ounces) and used the dope peddler’s slang or code terms, red or blue identifying morphine or cocaine. — William J. Spillard and Pence James, Needle in a Haystack, p. 147, 1945
- 3 a police officer UK, 1844
- Couple of years ago, I just missed getting locked up myself, or maybe getting shot by a “blue.” It happened on a Mardi Gras. I was walking along and looked at a “fay bitch,” just a little too long. — Robert deCoy, The Nigger Bible, p. 234, 1967
 - “If you want to be a copy, if you want to do for law and order,” Schoonover said sarcastically, “why don’t you put in your application? Be a blue?” — Robert Campbell, In La-La Land We Trust, pp. 26–27, 1986
 - I’ll have one of the blues park it for you in the underground garage[.] — Stephen J. Cannell, The Tin Collectors, p. 16, 2001
- 4 a black man US, 1964
- A shortened BLUE BOY.
- — New York Times Magazine, p. 62, 23rd August 1964
 - If Mathis wasn’t a blue, he’d be a big movie star. — Diner, 1982
- 5 a tablet of Numporhan, a semi-synthetic opioid US
- Oh, I don’t know, give me a blue and a couple sixteenths. — James Fogle, Drugstore Cowboy, p. 15, 1990
- 6 a member of the United States Marine Corps US
- From their dress blue uniforms.
- Today we dropped our blues into an area they were in two days ago. — Bill Adler, Letters from Vietnam, p. 27, July 1966
- under the blue
- said of a rigged carnival game being operated with police protection US, 1985
- — Gene Sorrows, All About Carnivals, p. 27, 1985

blue adjective

- sexually explicit, pornographic UK, 1864
- Angela Hoffa hung up her pink telephone and muttered a blue word. — Max Shulman, Rally Round the Flag, Boys!, p. 70, 1957
 - [B]ut then one night he took us to a blue movie, and what do you suppose? There he was on the screen. — Truman Capote, Breakfast at Tiffany’s, p. 61, 1958
 - [H]is material was blue and old, but after a while I was laughing too[.] — Dick Gregory, Nigger, p. 101, 1964
 - I’ve always enjoyed the various “blue” French 16mm I’ve come across. — Screw, p. 2, 4th July 1969

► all blue

- in poker, a flush consisting of clubs or spades US, 1967
- — Albert H. Morehead, The Complete Guide to Winning Poker, p. 255, 1967

blue and clear noun

- an amphetamine tablet US, 1993
- — Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 191, 1993

blue and white noun

- a police car US, 1974
- A variation on BLACK AND WHITE.
- There were three blue and whites in front of it, blocking the north side of the boulevard. — Robert Campbell, Boneyards, p. 36, 1992

blue angel noun

- a tablet of Amytal™, a central nervous system depressant US, 1967
- Barbies, downers; for nembutal, nebbies, abbots; for amytal, amies, blue angel[.] — Providence (Rhode Island) Journal-Bulletin, p. 6B, 4th August 1997

blue area noun

- a presumably safe and secure area US
- Staff called it a blue area (the Americans, he decided, loved maps even more than the French and had taught them about red, white and blue areas). — David Halberstam, One Very Hot Day, p. 127, 1967

blue baby noun

- a capsule of the synthetic opiate oxycodone used recreationally US, 2003
- Extracts reproduced in the tabloid show Limbaugh referring to “small blue babies” and “the little blues.” — Broward Business Review, p. 1, 18th November 2003

blue bag noun

- a police uniform US, 1973
- You miss the blue bag. — Charles Whited, Chiodo, p. 143, 1973

blue balls noun

- 1 a pain in the testicles caused by long periods of sexual arousal without release US, 1916
- Know what the cure for blueballs is? Scratch them until they’re red! — Bruce Rodgers, The Queens’ Vernacular, p. 34, 1972

- [A]s though to pay me back for the case of “blue balls” I must have given him on our honeymoon excursion across Manhattan Island. — Xaviera Hollander, Xaviera, p. 64, 1973
- She’s taken their blood pressures on a wild-geese chase, and abandoned them with blueballs. — Josh Alan Friedman, Tales of Times Square, p. 9, 1986
- Ho Chi Minh is a son of a bitch / Got the blueballs, crabs and the seven-year itch. — Full Metal Jacket, 1987

2 any sexually transmitted infection US, 1912

- — Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 19, 1964

blue band noun

a capsule of Carbitral™, a central nervous system depressant US, 1971

On 27th August 1967, Brian Epstein, manager of the Beatles, was found dead from an overdose of Carbitral.

- — Edward R. Bloomquist, Marijuana, p. 334, 1971

bluebird noun

a capsule of amobarbital sodium (trade name Amytal™), a central nervous system depressant US, 1953

- Her equipment is a small bottle of knockout drops (chloral hydrate) or “blue-birds,” (sodium amytal). — Lee Mortimer, Women Confidential, p. 301, 1960
- — John B. Williams, Narcotics and Hallucinogenics, p. 109, 1967

bluebirds noun

waves on the horizon, seen from near the shore US, 1964

- — John Severson, Modern Surfing Around the World, p. 165, 1964

blue bloater noun

1 a hospital patient suffering from chronic bronchitis US, 1994

The blue coloring is from lack of oxygen; the bloating is from the lungs as they retain water.

- — Sally Williams, “Strong” Words, p. 135, 1994

2 an overweight patient suffering from emphysema US, 1973

- — American Speech, p. 202, Fall-Winter 1973: “The language of nursing”

blue boar nickname

the F-4D Phantom aircraft US, 1990

- — Joseph Tuso, Singing the Vietnam Blues, p. 245, 1990: Glossary

blue book noun

in horse racing, a sheet showing the contenders in a day’s races, the odds on the horses and the handicapping US, 1951

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 15, 1951

bluebottle noun

a Portuguese man-of-war US, 1991

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin’ary, p. 12, 1991

blue boy noun

1 an amphetamine tablet US, 1952

- [T]aken two or three at one time with coffee, they gave a wonderful jag. The capsules were blue so we called them blue boys. After we got jagged we found no one would know what we were talking about when we said blue boys. — Chester Himes, Cast the First Stone, p. 247, 1952

2 a black man US, 1967

- BLUE BOY—Synonym for a Nigger male. — Robert deCoy, The Nigger Bible, p. 29, 1967

blue bullet noun

a capsule of amobarbital sodium (trade name Amytal™), a central nervous system depressant US, 1977

- — Walter L. Way, The Drug Scene, p. 106, 1977

Blue Chip nickname

the US air base at Tan Son Nhut, Saigon US, 1989

- At “Blue Chip,” Seventh Air Force’s operational headquarters at Tan Son Nhut near Saigon, plans for the renewed attack on North Vietnam were also well advanced. — Jeffrey Ethel, One Day in a Long War, p. 14, 1989

blue-chip adjective of the highest quality US, 1904

A term that spread from poker (the blue chip is the highest value) to stocks to general usage.

- T.J. soon discovered that the blue-chip athletes coming out of Texas high schools rarely chose to become Horned Frogs. — Dan Jenkins, Life Its Ownself, p. 21, 1984

blue-chipper noun

an excellent student athlete with potential for playing professionally US, 1984

- — Arthur Pincus, How to Talk Football, p. 16, 1984
- — Don R. McCreary (Editor), Dawg Speak, 2001

blue-clue caper noun

a scheme by one police officer to cause harm to another police officer US, 1983

- “You’re talking about a blue-clue caper,” Higgins said. “You’re talking about going against another cop.” — Gerald Petievich, To Die in Beverly Hills, p. 66, 1983

bluecoat noun

a uniformed police officer US, 1976

- About the weather being bad and the business being slow / And the bluecoat on the beat taking all her dough. — Dennis Wepman et al., The Life, p. 165, 1976
- To get locked up by a bluecoat—a uniformed cop—was an embarrassment. — Eric Davis, The Slick Boys, p. 37, 1998

blue devil noun

a capsule of amobarbital sodium (trade name Amytal™), a central nervous system depressant US, 1967

- — John B. Williams, Narcotics and Hallucinogenics, p. 109, 1967
- — Helen Dahlsgog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 8, 1972

blue doll noun

a capsule of amobarbital sodium (trade name Amytal™), a central nervous system depressant US, 1977

- — Walter L. Way, The Drug Scene, p. 106, 1977

blue-eyed devil noun

a white person US, 1972

- I’m tellin’ you I know what that blue-eyed devil was hooked you up on. — Odie Hawkins, Ghetto Sketches, p. 210, 1972
- Don’t thank me, Home . . . thank that blue-eyed devil. He’s the one who made it mean somethin’ to you. — Odie Hawkins, Chicago Hustle, p. 80, 1977

blue flamer noun

a zealot US, 1991

- Added to which indignity, I got three months left to retirement and they saddle me with some blue-flamer fresh out of Quantico for a partner. — Point Break, 1991

bluegill noun

the penis US, 1990

- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 198, 1990

bluegrass verb

to commit someone to the Lexington (Kentucky) Federal Narcotics Hospital US, 1953

Kentucky’s nickname is “the Bluegrass State.”

- — American Speech, p. 86, May 1955: “Narcotic argot along the Mexican border”
- “They blue-grassed me to Lex, and all that shit,” Red said sullenly. — Ross Russell, The Sound, p. 155, 1961

blue hair noun

an older person, especially an older woman US, 1981

- This joint is where you find busloads a blue-hairs when they get off the freaking cruise ships. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Glitter Dome, p. 85, 1981
- — Multicultural Management Program Fellows, Dictionary of Cautionary Words and Phrases, 1989
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 7, Fall 1991

blue happiness noun

liquid morphine US, 1988–1989

- — Maledicta, p. 31, 1988–1989: “Medical maledicta from San Francisco”

blue haze noun

the sense of euphoria and distance produced by a large dose of alprazolam (trade name Xanax™), a benzodiazepine used for short term relief of symptoms of anxiety US, 1993

- — Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 227, 1993

blue heaven noun

sodium amytal, a barbiturate US, 1954

- They also take Amytal (“blue heaven”), Nembutal (“yellow jackets”) and Tuinal. — Hunter S. Thompson, Hell’s Angels, p. 216, 1966
- — Donald Louria, Nightmare Drugs, p. 25, 1966
- — Current Slang, p. 10, Fall 1968

blue ice noun

frozen toilet waste from an aircraft which melts off and falls US, 1982

- A 30-pound chunk of ice that fell from the sky over Tecumseh, Okla., was not the world’s largest hailstone but probably “blue ice” from an airliner’s leaky lavatory, officials say. — United Press International, 15th March 1982
- 48. Blue ice falling on houses. [List of 100 things that wouldn’t have occurred without development of the airplane]. — Newsday (New York), p. B10, 8th December 2003

blue in the armor noun

a can of Pabst Blue Ribbon beer US, 1967

- — American Speech, p. 61, February 1967: “Soda-fountain, restaurant and tavern calls”

blue jay noun

a capsule of amobarbital sodium (trade name Amytal™), a compound used as a sedative and hypnotic US, 1953

- [W]e have a pretty complete exhibit of the little pills downtown. Bluejays, redbirds, yellow jackets, goofballs, and all the rest of the list. — Raymond Chandler, The Long Goodbye, p. 230, 1953

blue John noun

strong, homemade whiskey US, 1986

- Masters of moonshine prided themselves in their ancient, father-to-son recipes and the white lightning, blue John, red eye, happy Sally, and stumphole whiskey they made, Smith said. — Chicago Tribune, p. C-1, 15th January 1986
- — Star Tribune (Minneapolis), p. 19F, 31st January 1999

blue juice noun

a powerful wave US, 1991

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin’ary, p. 12, 1991

blue line noun

a river US, 1976

From the designation of a river on a map.

- This is Six! Tell your people they can stop at this here blue line, but to fill only two canteens. — Charles Anderson, The Grunts, p. 41, 1976

blue line sweep noun

a military operation on a river or stream US

In Vietnam military jargon, a “blue feature” was a body of water and a “blue line” was a stream or river as depicted on a map.

- Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 25, 1991

Blue Max *nickname1 the Congressional Medal of Honor US, 1988

- Let’s go flying now with the twisted hero of Hunters Tale, Bruno Stachel, who is about to sell his soul for a chance at a Blue Max. — Stephen Coonts, On Glorious Wings, p. 179, 2003

2 a gunship of the First Air Cavalry Division, one of only two aerial rocket artillery battalions in the US Army’s history US, 1991

- The Third Brigade became well equipped with helicopters from the 329th Helicopter Assault Battalion and later a battery of “Blue Max” aerial field artillery units. — Herbert Banks, 1st Cavalry Division: A Spur Ride Through the 20th Century, p. 110, 2002
- “Blue Max,” as the unit was nicknamed, became the life saving fire support tool of 1st Cav infantrymen. — Jonathan Bernstein, US Army AH-1 Cobra Units in Vietnam, 2012

blue meanies noun

the police or other enforcement authorities; a section of society with an antifreedom point of view US, 1969

From so-named predatory characters in the 1968 Beatles’ cartoon film The Yellow Submarine.

- Alas, the Blue Meanies and politicians in the area did not see Our People as separate and distinct human beings at all! — Raymond Mungo, Famous Long Ago, p. 52, 1970
- BLUE MEANIES: the deputies of the Alameda County Sheriff’s Department. — Robert Buckhout, Toward Social Change, p. 464, 1971

blue movie noun

a sexually themed or pornographic film US, 1957

- Cunts, pricks, fence straddlers, tonight I give you—that internationally-known impresario of blue movies! — William Burroughs, Naked Lunch, p. 88, 1957

blue mystic noun

the central nervous system stimulant 2,5-dimethoxy-4-(n)-propylthiophenethylamine US, 2000

- Each pill of Blue Mystic contains 10mg of 2C-T-7 if I’m not mistaken but make sure you verify this with your source before you take them. — alt. drugs.psychedelics, 26th October 2000
- “Blue Mystic” is a common drug in the Ecstasy and club drug scene. — Microgram Bulletin (DEA), p. 16, January 2004

blue nitro noun

the recreational drug GHB US, 1998

- Three young people were treated at Southwest Washington Medical Center on Thanksgiving and released apparently after taking a drug called GHB or “Blue Nitro.” — The Columbian (Vancouver, Washington), p. B4, 27th November 1998

blue-nosed; blue-nose adjective

excessively moral, puritanical, repressed US, 1890

- The Mann Act was invented by a Chicago blue-nosed representative named Mann, after a hophead parlor-whore in melodramatic mood threw a note out of the window of the late Harry Guzik’s cathouse on which she had written “I am a white slave.” — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 86, 1951
- Mr. Poole was Philadelphia’s blue-nose censor, and whenever he came to catch the show, all the strippers would wear big panties and opaque brassieres and would drop the bumps and grinds from their acts. — Georgia Sothorn, My Life in Burlesque, p. 73, 1972

blue-on-blue *noun1 in battle, fire unintentionally directed at friendly forces US, 1991

- On the night of 17 February, we had the first blue-on-blue (what some call fratricide, or so-called friendly fire) in the 1st Infantry Division! — Tom Clancy, Into the Storm, p. 248, 1991
- American Speech, p. 384, Winter 1991: “Among the new words”

2 clear blue sky and a calm blue sea US, 1986

- American Speech, p. 122, Summer 1986: “The language of naval fighter pilots” blue one noun

in carnival usage, poor location or slow business for a concession stand US, 1981

- Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 28, 1981

blue pages noun

in television and movie making, additions to a script after production has started US, 1990

- Ralph S. Singleton, Filmmaker’s Dictionary, p. 19, 1990

blue pill noun

a very powerful handgun US, 1957

- American Speech, p. 192, October 1957: “Some colloquialisms of the handgunner”

blue room *noun1 a toilet US, 1965

Usually applied to a portable toilet on a construction site.

- Federal Aviation Agency official had locked himself in the “blue room.” He emerged on his own when the stewardess informed him the captain was coming back with an ax. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 13, 10th September 1965

2 a cell used for solitary confinement US, 1976

- John R. Armore and Joseph D. Wolfe, Dictionary of Desperation, p. 21, 1976

blues *noun1 a deeply felt sense of sadness, rejection or depression UK, 1741

- They taught me the blues in Pontiac—I mean the blues, blues that I felt from my head to my shoes, really the blues. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 4, 1946

2 unreserved bleacher seats in a circus US, 1980

- Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 18, 1980

3 money US, 1976

From blue gambling chips.

- Playing blackjack, short on blues / A game all bad motherfuckers were booked to lose. — Dennis Wepman et al., The Life, p. 125, 1976

4 a combination of oxycodone and alcohol US

- Stephens admitted he is addicted to “blues” which is street slang for the combination of oxycodone and alcohol. — Palm Beach (Florida) Post, 22nd October 2013

5 a formal blue dress uniform of the US Marines US, 2004

- When I came home on leave for a few weeks after boot camp, my mother gave me $50 to buy a set of dress blues. (Dress blues were only issued to enlisted personnel who required them: embassy guards, recruiters, sea-borne detachments. Everyone else had to buy them). — Marc Jason Gilbert, The Vietnam War on Campus, p. 233, 2001
- This sequence was repeated for fatigues, casual tan uniforms, and dress blues. — Russell Coward, A Voice from the Vietnam War, p. 50, 2004
- A uniform company came in and sized everyone for dress blues and damn near everyone bought them. — Mark Busy, Fort Benning Blues, 2013

blue sky *noun1 worthless securities; a pleasant appearance with difficulties ignored US, 1906

- Although fakers, known as blue sky promoters, promise to fulfill all the aspirations of the average man for a comfortable nest egg, prudent analysts know that Ponzi and his ilk were not public benefactors. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 16, 26th November 1945
- Henry A. Wallace: Apostle of Political Blue Sky [Headline]. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 10, 14th January 1948
- It violates the blue-sky laws. — Jim Thompson, Bad Boy, p. 294, 1953
- I’m not selling blue sky, Gypsy! I can place you tonight! [Gordon comic strip] — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 14, 26th March 1958

2 heroin US, 1987

- Carsten Stroud, Close Pursuit, p. 269, 1987

Blue Spader *nicknamea soldier of the 1st Battalion, 26th Infantry, 2nd Brigade, 1st Infantry Division US, 1990

From the blue spade on the insignia. Served in World War 2, Berlin, Vietnam from 1965 until 1970, Bosnia, Macedonia, and Kosovo.

- The number one Blue Spader used varied methods to watch the progress of junior officers in the regiment. — Harold Meyer, Hanging Sam, p. 151, 1990

blue spot noun

a spotlight with a blue filter, sometimes required by law during striptease shows US, 1986

- When Hester shows every inch she can show and struts off the floor in a blue spot, Choo-Choo gets up and hurries over towards the men’s room. — Robert Campbell, Junkyard Dog, p. 133, 1986

blue steeler noun

a particularly erect erection US, 1978

- “Give me a blue-steeler to look at her.” — Thomas Williams, The Night of Trees, p. 67, 1978
- Racing from droopy dick to Blue Steeler in two seconds flat was no record for a guy to be proud of, and Remy certainly wasn’t. — Sandra Hill, Tail, Dark, and Cajun, p. 66, 2003

blue streak noun

an emphatic and vigorous degree US, 1830

Used to modify “talk” or variations on talking.

- I’ll curse up a blue streak if my heat so desires. Motherfucker—Shit—Bastard—Cocksucker—Bastard. — Mo’ Better Blues, 1990

bluesuit noun

a uniformed police officer US, 1965

- Bimbo and Hecto ran into a bluesuit who stifed Bimbo in the wind with his night stick and Bimbo doubled down on his hands and knees and began to vomit. — Sol Yurick, The Warriors, p. 178, 1965
- Shee-it, man, when the bluesuits stops me, I always gets nervous. — Joseph Wambaugh, The New Centurions, p. 73, 1970

bluesuiter noun

a member of the US Air Force US, 1963

- [I]t was wrong for the Air Force to fire civil service workers and replace them with former blue-suiters. — San Antonio (Texas) Express-News, p. 3B, 11th September 2003

blue team noun

an air rifle platoon supported by UH-1 transport helicopters US

- It appears extremely doubtful that even a “Blue Team” on immediate stand-by could get to the scene in time to determine just where the aircraft and crew are located in the jungle. — BACM Research, Vietnam War After-Action Reports, p. xciv, 1969
- The White Team calls in a Blue Team to check things out. — Jacques-Francois deChaunac, The American Cavalry in Vietnam, p. 189, 2003

blue ticket noun

1 a one-way train or bus ticket given by the police to criminals whose presence in town is no longer deemed acceptable US, 1993

- If your past did catch up with you, the police were more than happy to buy you a “blue ticket,” the term used to describe the one way passages they’d purchase to send shady characters back to wherever they’d come from. — Kim Rich, Johnny’s Girl, p. 53, 1993

2 a discharge from the US armed services as “unsuitable for military service” US, 1991

- A blue discharge (also known as a “blue ticket” was a form of administrative military discharge formerly issued by the United States beginning in 1916. It was neither honorable nor dishonorable. — Jesse Russel, Blue Discharge, 2013

blue tip noun

a capsule of amobarbital sodium (trade name Amytal™), a central nervous system depressant US, 1977

- — Donald Wesson and David Smith, Barbiturates, p. 121, 1977

blue veiner noun

a rigid erection US, 1975

- During his one month convalescence Rosco was unable to raise what Harold Bloomguard called a “diamond cutter” or even a “blue veiner” due to the shooting pains in his groin. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Choirboys, p. 45, 1975
- Otto’s got a throbbing blue-veiner for Romaine Lewis’s little sister, Rayette. — Terry Davis, Vision Quest, p. 161, 1979

blue velvet noun

a combination of cough syrups, especially codeine-based syrups, used as a weak heroin substitute US, 1994

- — US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994

blue water Navy noun

an ocean-going military vessel US, 1948

Coined well before the American invasion of Vietnam, when the term became widely used.

- The desire to assert a global role through a “blue water” navy. — Rand Corporation, Rand Report, p. 45, 1948
- The U.S. Navy’s riverine forces were commonly referred to as the “Brown Water” Navy in contrast to the Blue Water forces[.] — T.L. Bosiljevack, SEALS, p. 51, 1990

blue 30 noun

a 30 mg capsule of roxicodone, a narcotic pain reliever US

Responding to a Craigslist wanted ad for blue 30’s or green 15’s, street slang for Roxicodone pills, a St. Lucie County Sheriff’s deputy early Friday arrested two New Jersey residents. — Stuart (Florida), News, 26th February 2011 bluff noun

a lesbian who enjoys both the active and passive role in sex US, 1970

- — American Speech, p. 56, Spring–Summer 1970: “Homosexual slang”

blunt noun

1 marijuana rolled and smoked in a hollowed out cigar US, 1988

Generic usage but originally made with a Phyllies Blunt™.

- Purchase a Philly, not the city of Philly / Silly punk, I’m talking ‘bout the shit called the Philly Blunt / Lick the blunt and then the Philly blunt middle you split[.] — Redman, How To Roll A Blunt, 1992
- We don’t smoke blunts, strictly Zigzags — The Source, p. 64, September 1993
- Drinking beers, beers, beers, rolling fatties, smoking blunts! — Kevin Smith, Jay and Silent Bob Strike Back, p. 9, 2001
- There were no lingering effects of getting drunk one night off a bottle of malt liquor or passing a blunt with my niggas from School Street. — Earl “DMX” Simmons, E.A.R.L., p. 93, 2002

2 a capsule of Seconal™ or other barbiturate in a black capsule US, 1980

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin’ down some lines, p. 230, 1980

3 a hypodermic syringe US, 1980

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin’ down some lines, p. 230, 1980

blunted adjective

marijuana-intoxicated US, 1997

- Being a little blunted at the time, the first thing that came to mind was women[.] — The Source, p. 54, May 1993
- He can remember getting blunted up with Tae and Sean. — David Simon and Edward Burns, The Corner, p. 20, 1997
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Spring 1998
- I get too blunted off funny homegrown[.] — Eminem (Marshall Mathers), Role Model, 1999

bluntie noun

marijuana rolled and smoked in a hollowed out cigar US, 1997

- Rucker proudly holds up a bluntie and bag of pot. — James Mangold, Copland, p. 91, 1997

bluper noun

an M-79 grenade launcher US

- We started toughing out some shit when Sterling started to run out of Bluper rounds. — Keith Nolan, Death Valley: The Summer Offensive, 1 Corps, August 1969, 13 July 1969
- Bluper: Nickname for M-19 grenade launcher. — Shelby Stanton, Vietnam Order of Battle, p. 353, 2003

BM noun

a bookmaker US, 1974

- By 11:30, which is the time most BMs are settled in their joints or phone booths around the city, my ninny action is behind me[.] — Gary Mayer, Bookie, p. 4, 1974

BMO noun

used by US troops in the war against Iraq to describe Saudi women US, 1991

Initialism of “black moving objects.”

- — Newsweek, 21st January 1991
- — Army, p. 47, November 1991

BMOC noun

a popular and visible college boy US, 1934

A “big man on campus.”

- — Marcus Hanna Bouliware, Live and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947
- “This is the most important event of the year, and if you should come up with a winning idea for us, you’d be a B.M.O.C.” “A Big Man on Campus.” — Max Shulman, I was a Teen-Age Dwarf, p. 131, 1959
- “You know darn well that Ollie is B.M.O.C. at Cascadia.” — Frederick Kohner, The Affairs of Gidget, p. 52, 1963
- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 73, 1968

B-more nickname

Baltimore US, 1989

- You can bet if there were baseball in the District, these very same folks would still think of “B-more” as a rest stop on their way north. — Washington Post, p. A26, 17th August 1989
- But like Yonkers, B-more was a small world[.] — E.A.R.L., p. 219, 2002

BNF noun

a science fiction fan well known by other fans US, 1982

A “big-name fan.”

- — American Speech, p. 24, Spring 1982: “The language of science fiction fan magazines”

bo noun

a hobo US, 1899

A reality and term that only barely lingered into the 1950s.

- I reclined on a flatcar reading the Sunday funnies with the other [ho]bos, and the brakemen smiled at us and waved cheerfully. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Allen Ginsberg, p. 151, 18th May 1948
- Mr. Davis informs me there are no more hoboes riding the rails any more— “only a few bums and tramps passing themselves off as boes. The real boes all quit to go work during the war.” — San Francisco News, p. 21, 16th June 1949
- There was nobody around but a bo who pointed out the freight for us[.] — James Blake, The Joint, p. 28, 21st June 1951

BO noun

body odor US, 1931

An initialism coined for soap advertisements; made even more infamous by the comic strip villain B.O. Plenty in Dick Tracy.

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Live Talk Dictionary, p. 21, 1945
- with bright almond-shaped eyes and a misshapen, pear-shaped head, with tremendous b.o., and endowed, through his stupidity, with a certain curious thrusting intelligence. — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 476, 1961
- The Angels’ old ladies are generally opposed to B.O. — Hunter S. Thompson, Hell’s Angels, p. 47 (note), 1966
- That don’t mean I gotta die of B.O. — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, 91, 1970
- Give the big pig with the B.O. to Healy, right? — Something About Mary, 1998

bo adjective

excellent, fashionable, trendy US, 1963

- — San Francisco Examiner: People, p. 8, 27th October 1963

board noun

1 a surfboard US, 1963

- — Grant W. Kuhns, On Surfing, p. 114, 1963
- — Ross Olney, The Young Sportsman’s Guide to Surfing, p. 88, 1965

2 in a game of poker in which some cards are dealt face-up, all face-up cards collectively US, 1992

- — Edwin Silberstang, Winning Poker for the Serious Player, p. 217, 1992

► off the board

in horse racing, said of odds greater than 99–1 US, 1976

- — Tom Ainslie, Ainslie’s Complete Guide to Thoroughbred Racing, p. 335, 1976

► take off the board in sports betting, to fail to establish a pointspread on a game or event US, 1975

- I didn’t establish a line—a point spread—on the Kansas City Chiefs. In betting parlance, they were “taken off the board.” — Jimmy Snyder, Jimmy the Greek, p. 145, 1975

board cord noun

a line attached at one end to a surfer and at the other to the surfboard US, 1977

- — Gary Fairmont R. Filosa II, The Surfer’s Almanac, p. 183, 1977

boarding house reach noun

an effort by a diner to reach for a serving plate rather than ask for it to be passed US, 1908

- Well, my old ma always said you had to have a boarding house reach if you were ever going to get your share off the table. — Robert Campbell, Alice in La-La Land, p. 104, 1987
- Yes, we are responsible for our own actions, our own boarding-house reach at the table, our own failure to get any exercise more strenuous than fumbling for the remote. — Salt Lake Tribune, p. A12, 13th November 2003

board jock; board sock noun

a protective surfboard cover US, 1977

- — Gary Fairmont R. Filosa II, The Surfer’s Almanac, p. 183, 1977

board room noun

a private gambling room US

- The meeting was held in their “board room,” a backroom gambling joint bested described as “early Tobacco Road.” — David Friedman, A Youth in Babylon: Confessions of a Trash-Film King, p. 18, 1990 boards noun

► on the boards

in solitary confinement US, 1976

- — John R. Armore and Joseph D. Wolfe, Dictionary of Desperation, p. 42, 1976

boast verb

to brag as a part of a rap performance US, 2000

- Big Daddy is “boasting,” a tradition in rap music derived from reggae. — James Haskins, The Story of Hip-Hop, pp. 3–4, 2000

boat noun

1 a large shipment of MDMA, the drug commonly known as ecstasy US, 2004

- The Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) in Vancouver, British Columbia, has noted an increase in the supply of seized MDMA, with 1,000 tablet shipments, known as “boat” shipments, the most common. — Microgram Bulletin (DEA), p. 11, January 2004

2 a prison transfer; a group of prisoners being transferred; the bus used to transfer them US, 1956

- — Frank Prewitt and Francis Schaeffer, Vacaville Vocabulary, 1961–1962
- When I heard I was on a boat to Comstock, I knew you’d be here. — Piri Thomas, Down These Mean Streets, p. 265, 1967
- Have you anything to say before we send you away / On the next Sing Sing boat? — Dennis Weisman et al., The Life, p. 59, 1976

3 phencyclidine, the recreational drug known as PCP or angel dust US, 1984

A shortened form of LOVE BOAT.

- With a police officer on every corner directing traffic, dealers simply lined the curbs along 11th Street and silently formed the word “boat,” street slang for PCP, with lips pursed like a fish. — Washington Post, p. B1, 29th July 1984
- — Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 24, 1993

4 heroin US, 1993

- — Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 24, 1993

5 in poker, a hand consisting of three of a kind and a pair US, 1981
Conventionally known as a “full house.”

- — Jim Glenn, Programmed Poker, p. 155, 1981

boat anchor noun

a crippled or useless piece of computer equipment; by extension, a useless person US, 1991

- That was a working motherboard once. One lightning strike later, instant boat anchor! — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 71, 1991

boat in a moat noun

a casino that must, as a result of gambling laws, float US, 2003

- — Victor H. Royer, Casino Gamble Talk, p. 16, 2003

boat people noun

people who arrive at casinos on bus excursion trips US, 1994

- We are the boat people. That is casino workers’ slang for the millions of Americans now arriving at their portals in smelly diesel waves. We come by bus—“motorcoach,” if you want to get la-di-da about it. — New York Times, p. 36, 17th July 1994

boat race noun

a fixed horse race or other competition US, 1917

- — Walter Steigleman, Horsereading, p. 271, 1947
- I bet crooked horse races—“boat races” we called them. My two detectives at the track would hear of a fix. They’d telephone me. I’d say get down a hundred for me. I made about $50,000 on “boat races” when I was chief of detectives. — San Francisco News, p. 40, 16 November 1950
- It was claimed then, reported United Press, that Berry engineered two “boat races” on Feb. 7–8. — San Francisco News, 26th November 1952
- — Current Slang, p. 4, Summer 1969

boats noun

shoes or feet, especially large ones US, 1956

- Too small for your fat fuckin’ boats. — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 97, 1992

bob noun

1 marijuana US, 1997

Very likely derived from Bob Marley, a highly visible marijuana lover. A long list of derivatives play with the term—“see bob,” “talk with bob,” “bob’s on the phone”—serve as a code for discussing marijuana and its use.

- — Jim Emerson-Cobb, Scratching the Dragon, April 1997

2 a shoplifter US, 1962

- — Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World’s Toughest Prison, p. 791, 1962

bob verb

to perform oral sex on a man US, 1995

- How much more can I bob here? — Kids, 1995

▶ bob for apples to remove impacted feces by hand US, 1988–1989

- — Maledicta, p. 31, 1988–1989: “Medical maledicta from San Francisco”

Bob adjective used by US troops in the war against Iraq as an adjective for all things Saudi US, 1991

- Bob car, Bob clothes, and the like. — Army, p. 47, November 1991

bobble bumper noun

in pinball, a bumper that scores and kicks the ball on contact US, 1977

- — Bobbie Claire Natkin and Steve Kirk, All About Pinball, p. 111, 1977

Bobbsey Twins noun

1 used as a representation of either innocence or a strong resemblance US, 1969

From a popular series of 72 children’s books created by Edward Stratemeyer in 1904 and written under the name of Laura Lee Hope by writers under contract to Stratemeyer.

- The backlot scuttle is that Mike Frankovich’s “Doctors’ Wives” will make the Kinsey Report look like Bobbsey Twins research. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 37, 3rd November 1969
- One of the questions show folks often discuss is, “Which of the British Bobbsey Twins, Tom Jones or Engelbert Humperdinck, will be around longer?” — San Francisco Examiner, p. 33, 2nd August 1971

2 two girls who regularly double-date US, 1968

An allusion to a 72-book juvenile series created by Edward Stratemeyers, writing under the name Laura Lee Hope, in 1904.

- — Mary Swift, Campus Slang (University of Texas), 1968

bobbysoxer noun

a teenage girl US, 1944

“Bobby socks” (ankle-high white socks, first recorded in 1927) as a generational trademark for American teenagers arrived on the national scene in June 1937, with a cover photograph in Life magazine. After “the socks” came “the soxer.” The “bobby” is most likely constructed on “to bob” (to cut or shorten).

- Champion of the Bobby Soxers [Headline]. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 10, 18 February 1946
- “Occasional” prostitutes work some of the bars, and bobby soxers flirt at Washington Square. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 69, 1948
- Gregory Peck, or some of the new boy friends of the bobby-soxers I’m too old to remember the names of? — Philip Wylie, Opus 21, p. 83, 1949
- She’s been around, she knows what the score is, she ain’t some punk bobby-soxer with the mood in her eyes. — Jim Thompson, A Swell-Looking Babe, p. 80, 1954

bobo noun

prison-issued canvas shoes US, 2002

- — Gary K. Farlow, Prison-ese, p. 5, 2002

bobtail noun

in poker, four-fifths of a straight that can be completed at either end US, 1865

- — Oswald Jacoby, Oswald Jacoby on Poker, p. 141, 1947
- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 23, 1987

bodacious adjective amazing, impressive US, 1843

A C19 word from the American frontier, rediscovered by the late C20 young. The term “bodacious tatas” as descriptive of “magnificent breasts” was made widely popular by the 1982 film Officer and a Gentleman.

- — Helen Dahlskog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 8, 1972
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 1, November 1983
- Ted, you and I have witnessed many things, but nothing as bodacious as what just happened. — Bill and Ted’s Excellent Adventure, 1989

bo-deen noun

a police officer US, 2001

- While kids in Northwest refer to police as “one-time,” Northeast teenagers call them “bo-deen” or “hot dog,” and in Southeast they’re “po-pos” or good old “feds.” — Washington Post, p. A1, 20th August 2001

bodice-ripper noun

a sexually themed romantic/historical novel aimed at an adult female audience US, 1980

- Miss Faust reminds us that women, too, are a little bit beastly, that they too have their pornography: Harlequin romances, novels of “sweet savagery,” bodice-rippers. — New York Times, p. 7–4, 28th December 1980
- A steamy bodice-ripper to help while away the hours in an airport lounge? — Opera News, p. 48, October 1998
- Diana Lindsay admits that Marshal’s journalism is as romantic as a Harlequin bodice-ripper. — San Diego Union-Tribune, p. E1, 14th March 2004

bodied adjective

(used of a female) well built US, 1947

- — Marcus Hanna Bouliware, Jive and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947

body noun

a person you have killed US, 2001

- Vega allegedly bragged to the undercover cops that he had “bodies” on his criminal resume[.] — Daily News (New York), p. 1, 9th May 2001

▶ to have a body on to have committed a murder in the name of a youth gang US, 1996

- — S. Beth Atkin, Voices from the Street, p. 125, 1996: Glossary body verb

to kill someone US, 1999

- Investigators went on to learn from several other people that Parker bragged that “I bodied him for his drugs.” — Hartford (Connecticut) Courant, p. B1, 15th October 1999

body contact squad noun

Korean soldiers who acted as suicide bombers US, 1982

- Without our knowledge, they prepared charges designed to strap around the waist of a soldier and formed some “body contact squads.” Members of these squads were to move into the side of a tank, pull a fuze lighter on a two-second fuze, perhaps disable the tank and certainly join their honored ancestors. — Joseph C. Goulden, Korea, p. 128, 1982

body queen noun

a homosexual man attracted to men with muscular bodies US, 1970

- American Speech, p. 56, Spring–Summer 1970: “Homosexual slang”

body rain noun

corporate executives in search of employment after a takeover, merger or business failure US, 1988

A macabre image recalling the suicides by jumping associated with the market crash of 1929.

- Kathleen Odean, High Steppers, Fallen Angels, and Lollipops, p. 119, 1988

body shop noun

a bar catering to an unmarried clientele with sexual agendas US, 1970

- Pete Rozelle was in town this weekend. He popped into one of those body shops on Union Street Friday night, squeezing past the sweet young things and the hot-to-trot hustlers. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 63, 24th September 1970
- But its [Union Street’s] detractors are confusing its present nature with its image of half a decade ago—when it surely was home of Dark-Glass-in-the-Rain, every girl a stewardess, and fast bucks to be picked up by operating body shops. — San Francisco Examiner and Chronicle, p. 10, 4th March 1973

body shot noun

a ritual in which a person licks salt off someone else, drinks a shot of tequila and then sucks on a lemon in the other’s mouth US, 2001

- Don R. McCreary (Editor), Dawg Speak, 2001

body snatcher noun

1 a morgue employee who retrieves and transports corpses to the morgue US, 1993

- After talking to the body snatcher, Nell wasn’t sure whether she’d be better off trying to upchuck or work. — Joseph Wambaugh, Finnegan’s Week, p. 161, 1993

2 someone who steals another’s date US, 1955

- American Speech, p. 302, December 1955: “Wayne University slang”

body snatching outfit noun

a military unit assigned to recover and process bodies US, 1949

- “Then why didn’t you get hooked up with a body-snatching outfit? You look like a natural for the buzzard detail.” — Audie Murphy, To Hell and Back, p. 3, 1949

body time noun

in casinos, the amount of time a player, whose playing time is being tracked, spends gambling US, 1996

- Frank Scoblete, Best Blackjack, p. 254, 1996

body wumping noun

body surfing US, 1987

- Mitch McKissick, Surf Lingo, 1987

bof noun

a record album consisting of the “best of” the artist’s previous recordings US, 1982

- Arnold Shaw, Dictionary of American Pop/Rock, p. 47, 1982

boff noun

1 a hearty laugh US, 1945

- More to be desired, though, is the boff, which is the Homeric response to an elementary comic situation. — Atlantic Monthly, p. 136, April 1946
- Boff: a full, hearty burst of laughter that comes from the bottom of the stomach. — Everybody’s Digest, p. 21, September 1951
- The producer orders a gross of assorted yaks and boffs, and sprinkles the whole sound track with a lacing of simpering snorts. — Vance Packard, The Hidden Persuaders, p. 204, 1957

2 sex; an act of sexual intercourse US, 1956

- “Well, there goes your opportunity to give the guy a boff and find out if everything I told you was correct,” he said. — Georgia Sothorn, My Life in Burlesque, p. 269, 1972
- Ladies flock to kiss him, pay respects, and, in some cases, hope for a little boff. — Josh Alan Friedman, Tales of Times Square, p. 108, 1986

boff verb

1 to have sex US, 1937

- Don’t give me that innocent bit. I know you were boffing Virgil Tatum this afternoon. — Max Shulman, Anyone Got a Match?, p. 253, 1964
- Why, just the thought of boffing some hairy boy makes me sick all over. — Gore Vidal, Myra Breckinridge, p. 158, 1968
- And yet, go understand people—it is her pleasure while being boffed to have one or the other of my forefingers lodged snugly up her anus. — Philip Roth, Portnoy’s Complaint, p. 116, 1969
- Then I asked him if it was true he was boffing Kate Cruikshank. — c.d. Payne, Youth in Revolt, p. 71, 1993

2 to kiss and caress US, 1968

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 84, 1968

boffo noun

1 a dollar US, 1979

- It made me feel noble and generous to donate 100 boffos to such a worthy cause. — Leo Rosten, Silky!, p. 91, 1979

2 a great joke US, 1968

- Billy Wilder’s One, Two, Three was a boffo (cf. Variety) spoof of international relations. — Joan Didion, Slouching Toward Bethlehem, p. 157, 1968

3 a one-year prison sentence US, 1930

- — Frank Prewitt, Vacaville Vocabulary, 1961–1962

boffo adjective

very impressive, popular, successful US, 1949

Originally theatrical when it was often used of a comedic success, and in which sense it probably derives from “buffo” (a comic actor; comic).

- [S]he was going to be competing with garage sales, which got more boffo all the time. — Cyra McFadden, The Serial, p. 188, 1977
- They had tried in vain to convince one another and the brass that they had been boffo in the canyon. — Joseph Wambaugh, Lines and Shadows, p. 100, 1984

boffola noun

1 a hearty laugh; a joke that produces a hearty laugh US, 1946

- It’ll sound all right. Good jokes, laughs, I’ll pack the script with boffolas. — Frederick Wakeman, The Hucksters, p. 47, 1946

2 a smash hit, a success US, 1947

- Working with Dirty Eddie, Cassard thought he could make a big boffola* of Will You Marry Me? *Variant of the Hollywood term, “Boffo Terrific,” big box-office smash. — Time, p. 86, 1st September 1947
- The new boffola of the Soviet Screen is Meeting on the Elbe, and it has everything. — Time, p. 30, 23rd May 1949

bogart verb

1 to bully US, 1966

As “tough guy” movies and the forceful characters portrayed by actors like Humphrey Bogart went out fashion, so the usage moved from admiring to critical. Also variant “bogard.”

- — Current Slang, p. 1, Fall 1966
- Cool Breeze jus’ bogarts his way in. — Malcolm Braly, On the Yard, p. 195, 1967
- “Then I’m going to Bogart some pussy,” Green spouted. — Bobby Seale, A Lonely Rage, p. 118, 1978
- DREXL: Next time you Bogart your way into a nigger’s crib, an’ get all in his face, make sure you do it on white boy day. — True Romance, 1993
- Bogart, to muscle through — as I “Dig up, let’s grab a boss broad and bogart our way into a boss jam!” — Ebony, page 98, March 1965

2 to selfishly keep possession of something that you are expected to return or forward, especially drugs US, 1957

- You’ve been holding on to it and I sure would like a hit/Don’t bogart that joint my friend, pass it over to me. — Fraternity Of Man, Don’t bogart me, 1969
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, October 1972
- The one where you bogarted nine grand and flew to Vegas. — Empire Records, 1995
- Motherfuckers try to come up and bogard your weed at the club, and they don’t wanna share theirs[.] — Cypress Hill, Can I get a hit?, 1999

bogey noun

an unidentified aircraft, presumed to be hostile until identified as friendly US, 1943

Coined in World War 2 and used since.

- A few minutes later came “scramble,” an unidentified “bogey” had been picked up on RAF control radar. — Gregory “Pappy” Boyington, Baa Baa Black Sheep, p. 57, 1958

bogey adjective

fraudulent, bogus US, 1977

- “I got a great-uncle lives over to Kentucky, he’s in one of them bogey locals. Bunch of old miners drawn’ from the retirement fund but somehow they still got a vote.” — John Sayles, Union Dues, p. 41, 1977

bogey dope noun

information about a bombing target US, 1985

- “Bogey dope,” information about aerial targets, is provided by two sources. — Air Defense Artillery, 1987: 26
- I then asked for “bogey dope” (position of the body from me) and bogey altitude. — Walter Boyne, Phantom in Combat, p. 89, 1985
- Tooter starts bugging and bugging the controller for bogey dope. — John Sherwood, Afterburner: Naval Aviators and the Vietnam War, p. 118, 2004 boggie bear noun

an ugly person US, 1947

- — Marcus Hanna Boulware, Life and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947

Bogners noun

blue jeans worn when skiing US, 1963

Alluding to the stylish stretch pants manufactured by the German Bogner firm.

- — American Speech, p. 205, October 1963: “The language of skiers” bogosity noun

the degree to which anything can be described as wrong or in error US, 1973

Computer hacker slang from BOGUS (wrong).

- Bilgewater words like “bro” for brother, “gritting down” for eating, “crib” for home, “P-ing down” for sexual intercourse, “skunk” for girl, and “bogosity” for anything he disagreed with. — Joe Eszterhas, Charlie Simpson’s Apocalypse, p. 22, 1971
- — CoEvolution Quarterly, p. 27, Spring 1981

bog out verb

to become intoxicated on drugs US, 1998

- — Ethan Hilderbrant, Prison Slang, p. 14, 1998

bogue verb

to smoke a cigarette US, 1983

A part-of-speech shift derived from Humphrey Bogart, cigarette-smoking icon.

- — Concord (New Hampshire) Monitor, 23rd August 1983
- — Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 24, 1997

bogue adjective

wrong; sick US, 1960

From BOGUS; sometimes seen spelt as “boag.”

- I’m bogue, but I ain’t gonna indulge. I’m tryin’ to kick. — Clarence Cooper Jr., The Scene, p. 13, 1960

- Whenever a kid did something that was boag, you were never told to get under the desk[.] — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 17, 1973
- Man, I'm as boguie as a Hong Kong coolie with his piles hangin' out! — Charles W. Moore, A Brick for Mister Jones, p. 32, 1975
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 1, October 1986

bogue out verb

in computing, to become nonfunctional suddenly and without warning US, 1983

- — Guy L. Steele et al., The Hacker's Dictionary, p. 35, 1983

bogus noun

counterfeit money US, 1798

- There's a hell of a lot of bogus flying around in tens and twenties. — George V. Higgins, The Friends of Eddie Doyle, p. 87, 1971
- He was sitting in a motel room on Hollywood Boulevard waiting for the money man, and two hippies kicked in the door, tied him up, and took the bogus. — Gerald Petievich, One-Shot Deal, p. 218, 1981

bogus adjective

1 disagreeable, offensive; wrong US, 1876

- So, like when Jefferson went before the people what he was saying was "Hey, we left this place in England because it was bogus, and if we don't come up with some cool rules ourself, we'll be bogus, too!" — Fast Times at Ridgemont High, 1982
- "Heard you dropped out of U.S.C." "Oh yeah. Couldn't deal with it. It's so totally bogus." — Bret Easton Ellis, Less Than Zero, p. 48, 1985
- Bogus. My dad's home. — Bill and Ted's Excellent Adventure, 1989
- I still live with my parents, which I admit is both bogus and sad. — Wayne's World, 1992

2 in computing, nonfunctional, useless, false or incorrect US, 1981

- — CoEvolution Quarterly, p. 27, Spring 1981
- — Guy L. Steele et al., The Hacker's Dictionary, p. 34, 1983

bogus beef noun

idle, insincere conversation US, 1947

- — Marcus Hanna Boulware, Life and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947

bohawk noun

a member of the Bohemian counterculture US, 1952

- "She's only a bohawk anyway," Dincher complained. "Like—one of them screwy artists." — George Mandel, Flee the Angry Strangers, p. 249, 1952

boho noun

a Bohemian, in the sense of an unconventional person US, 1958

- A few local bohos saw it and came out, but mainly it was the Pranksters and their friends who showed up at the Spread that night, including a lot of the Berkeley crowd that had been coming to La Honda. — Tom Wolfe, The Electric Kool-Aid Acid Test, p. 209
- — Current Slang, p. 2, Winter 1971

boho adjective

unconventional, bohemian US, 1958

- I can't say I gave her costume an honor grade, however; it was a bit too Boho for my taste. I especially loathed the Indian thing she carried for a handbag. — Erich Segal, Love Story, p. 3, 1970
- "Oh, he's just trying to be boho." — Chris Miller, The Real Animal House, p. 4, 2006

bohunk noun

1 a Czechoslovakian immigrant US, 1903

- Generally Czechs, or "Bohunks," as they once were called, are law-abiding people[.] — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Chicago Confidential, p. 72, 1950
- Hell, when I was a kid I knew guys who were real Bohemians, I mean in the blood—Bohunks. — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, p. 70, 1970
- There was a bohunk girl used to hang around at the dances at the Midway Gardens. — Robert Byrne, McGoorty, p. 57, 1972

2 a ill-mannered, loutish person US, 1919

- Hey, who the hell's this bohunk, anyhow? — Robert Gover, The Maniac Responsible, p. 22, 1963
- "What do you mean by calling Randy Pinkerton a bohunk, you ghetto slime?" — Ethan Morden, Buddies, p. 140, 1986
- Along about dawn, this Arkie bohunk named Hutchinson actually got up and went back there[.] — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 152, 1990

boi noun

used as a term of address to a male US, 2004

An alternate spelling of boy.

- Connie Eble, Campus Slang: University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Fall 2015

boiled adjective

very drunk US, 1884

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 84, 1968
- Ken Kelly got boiled on vodka for courage[.] — Joseph Wambaugh, Lines and Shadows, p. 254, 1984

boiled owl noun

1 used as a representation of the ultimate drunkard US, 1864

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Live Talk Dictionary, p. 21, 1945

2 the last thing in the world that you would want to eat US, 1975

- — John Gould, Maine Lingo, p. 17, 1975

boiler noun

the stomach US, 1886

- Boiler, as in "he's got the bad boiler," or upset stomach. — Jim Bouton, Ball Four, p. 252, 1970

boilermaker noun

a shot of whiskey followed by a glass of beer; a beer and whiskey combined US, 1942

- They are hard workers and good citizens who seldom get into trouble except on Saturday nights after too many boilermakers—whiskey and beer. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Chicago Confidential, p. 78, 1950
- They go to a bar and order boilermakers. — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, p. 149, 1970
- At four in the afternoon, two old men were huddled over boiler-makers at the far end of the bar[.] — Walter Tevis, The Color of Money, p. 69, 1984
- While he's having his first boilermaker, he asks me what's new in my precinct. — Robert Campbell, Junkyard Dog, p. 17, 1986

boiler room noun

an office used in an elaborate swindle US, 1931

- "An office, a secretary, a car, juice money for the real estate people, the boiler room, bleepety, bleepety bleep." — Gerald Petievich, Money Men, p. 78, 1981
- Those boiler-room scams can get a guy chucked into a single room with three roommates. For about five years. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Golden Orange, p. 251, 1990
- He ran boiler rooms and bucket shops. — Stephen Cannell, King Con, p. 35, 1997
- Boca Raton supposedly had more telephone boiler rooms than Calcutta. — Carl Hiaasen, Nature Girl, p. 295, 2006

boiler water noun

whiskey US, 1977

- — Ramon Adams, The Language of the Railroader, p. 17, 1977

boing verb

while snowboarding, to bounce off something US, 1990

- — Elena Garcia, A Beginner's Guide to Zen and the Art of Snowboarding, p. 121, 1990: Glossary bo-ing!

used for humorously expressing approval or delight US, 1955
Teen slang.

- — American Weekly, p. 2, 14 August 1955

boink noun

an in-person meeting of participants in an Internet discussion group US, 1995

- — Christian Crumlish, The Internet Dictionary, p. 24, 1995

boink verb

to have sex with someone US, 1987

- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 1, Spring 1987
- Thing was, Marty never got down to doing it. You know, it. Boinking. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 84, 1990
- Real pedophiles try and convince everyone it's OK to boink prepub kids. — Nancy Tamosaitis, net.sex, p. 113, 1995
- Was there any greater sin than this? Fantasizing about embracing—or boinking—a priest? — Rita Ciresi, Pink Slip, p. 64, 1999

boinking noun

sexual intercourse US, 2005

- Julia joins a horned-up farmhand for some boinking in the barn. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin's Skincyclopedia, p. 81, 2005

boker noun

an unsophisticated rustic US, 1968

- — Mary Swift, Campus Slang (University of Texas), 1968

bold adjective

successful, excellent US, 1965

- — Carol Covington, A Glossary of Teenage Terms, 1965

Bolivian marching powder noun

cocaine US, 1984

- All might come clear if you could just slip into the bathroom and do a little more Bolivian Marching Powder. — Jay McInerney, Bright Lights, Big City, p. 1, 1984
- "Because," he screams over the music, grabbing me by the collar, "we need some Bolivian Marching Powder . . ." — Bret Easton Ellis, American Psycho, p. 54, 1991

boll noun

in surfing, a turbulence or disturbance on a developing wave US, 1980

- — John Grissim, Pure Stoke, p. 156, 1980

bollix verb

to bungle something, to ruin something US, 1937

- One of the three commissioners is noted for his ability to bollix everything up after a big, bad night—which is almost every night. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 235, 1951
- Write to me. The mail gets bollixed up at Xmas time. — James Ellroy, White Jazz, p. 167, 1992

bollixing adjective

used as a negative intensifier US, 1954

- On top of everything else I got those bollixing poems. — Jim Thompson, The Nothing Man, p. 242, 1954

bolloxed adjective

drunk US, 1986

- — Rutgers Alumni Magazine, p. 21, February 1986

bolo noun

1 a directive to be on the look-out for something US, 1986

- I'm sorry, old man, but he cops put a BOLO out on the Caddy so I had Tommy get rid of the darn thing. — Carl Hiaasen, Tourist Season, p. 231, 1986
- Struggling frantically through traffic to get back behind the fleeing car, they radioed the dispatcher for what Fort Lauderdale police call a Bolo—"be on the lookout." — James Mills, The Underground Empire, p. 157, 1986

- 2 crack cocaine US, 1994
Spanish.
● — US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994
- bolo verb
to fail, intentionally or not US, 1944
● “If you shitbirds think you’re going to bolo that test and give Mike Company a bad name, well, you just think again.” — Bo Hathaway, A World of Hurt, p. 12, 1981
- bolo badge noun
a Purple Heart military decoration for battle wounds, especially those suffered in a foolish action US, 1968
● — New York Newsday, 14th February 1991
● — American Speech, p. 384, Winter 1991: “Among the new world”
- bolohead noun
a bald person US, 1981
● — Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max, 1981
- bolshie; bolshy noun
a Bolshevik US, 1919
● Her coverage of Iraqi weapons of mass destruction (WMDs) has been quite properly thumped by both CounterPunch Bolshie Alexander Cockburn and Slate’s Jack Shafer[.] — LA Weekly, p. 14, 6th June 2003
- bolt noun
a blemish; a pimple US, 1969
● — Richard Scholl, Running Press Glossary of Baseball Language, p. 17, 1977
- bolt verb
1 to leave US, 1845
● — USA Today, 29th September 1983
2 in poker, to withdraw from a hand US, 1988
● — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 11, 1988
- bolter noun
a landing on an aircraft carrier in which the plane misses the arresting mechanisms US, 1958
● After the day’s operations, pilots who have made sloppy approaches or too many bolters (missing the arresting gear) are sharply criticized by their squadron commanders. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 7, 28th September 1958
- bolts noun
a tattooed depiction of lightning bolts, symbolising a prisoner’s association with a white pride prison gang US, 1989
● — James Harris, A Convict’s Dictionary, 1989
- bolts and jolts noun
a combination of central nervous system stimulants and depressants US, 1946
● Dr. Freireich’s discovery was anticipated by bored Broadwayites, who had made a pastime of “bolts and jolts”—mixtures of barbiturates and Benzedrine which knock them for a loop, then slap them to. — Time, p. 67, 1st July 1946
- bolts and nuts adjective mentally unstable; crazy US, 1984
● — Inez Cardozo-Freeman, The Joint, p. 483, 1984
- bomb noun
1 a marijuana cigarette, especially a large one US, 1951
● By the way, boy, I am of course indulging in a perfect orgy of Miss Green & can hardly see straight right at this minute, whoof 3 bombs a day. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Neal and Carolyn Cassidy, p. 358, 10th May 1952
● I paid 75 cents a stick, or a dollar for a bomb. A bomb is about as big as a Pall Mall and as fat as a Pall Mall. Like a regular cigarette. — Jeremy Larner and Ralph Tetterter, The Addict in the Street, p. 33, 1964
● When my buddy told me, we smoked around five bombs[.] — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 133, 1964
● [T]ake a head of this Skunk / Twist up a big bomb of this serious dope / Smoke it down to the dub or roach tip[.] — Tone Loc, Cheeba Cheeba, 1989
2 high-potency, relatively pure heroin US, 1960
● “You know,” Curtis began, “if you say the stuff will take a five, then I put a four on it. That way, I always have the bomb.” — Donald Goines, Cry Revenge, p. 107, 1974
3 crack cocaine US, 1994
● — US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994
4 potent heroin US, 1969
● Lee here says he knows where to cop the bomb at. — Donald Goines, Dopefiend, p. 104, 1971
5 a forceful blow with the fist US, 1949
● From Challenge Jake La Motta’s corner, he heard the entreaties of La Motta’s handlers above the buzz of 22,183 spectators: “At’s it, Jackson. ‘Atta go, Jackson . . . put the bomb in.” — Time, p. 53, 27th June 1949
● Johnny Summerlin planned today to “stay out of the way of the bombs” and let youth carry him to victory tonight. — San Francisco News, p. 27, 20th June 1956
● Moore moved quickly and threw another overhand bomb flush to the chin. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 39, 9th April 1961
● Rush Bomb Decks Johnson [Headline]. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 47, 22nd February 1967
6 in tiddlywinks, a long-distance shot US, 1977
● — Verbatim, p. 525, December 1977
7 a skateboarding maneuver in which the rider crouches and holds the sides of the board as the board leaves the ground US, 1976
● — Laura Torbet, The Complete Book of Skateboarding, p. 105, 1976
8 a dismal failure, especially in show business US, 1952
● The 10 biggest bombs [Headline]. — San Francisco Examiner and Chronicle, Sunday Scene, p. 12, 13th January 1974
- The title of the book was How to Talk Dirty and Influence People, and, oddly enough, it was a bomb. — Mort Sahl, Heartland, p. 25, 1976
- 9 an unexpected bass drum accent US, 1955
● He taught me how to turn on what the kids now call “dropping bombs.” — Nat Shapiro and Nat Hentoff, Hear Me Talkin’ to Ya, p. 289, 1955
● He [Kenny Clarke] uses his bass drum, but only to “drop an occasional bomb,” that is, he “boots” the soloist forward with an infrequent and unerringly timed explosion. — Hugh Panassié and Madeline Gautier, Guide to Jazz, p. 41, 1956
● Hassan dropped bombs, flailed tom-toms, rapped the snare, stirred his cymbals. — Russ Russell, The Sound, p. 32, 1961
- the bomb; da bomb
the very best, something that is very good US, 1973
● The crescent was the bomb. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 13, 1973
● Smoking a spliff of high-octane chronic (street talk for pot) in the back room, he explains his bond to Dre. “He’s the bomb,” says Snoop. — People, p. 77, 23rd May 1994
● I just did a movie about teen modeling with Todd and Griffin Tyler. It’s the bomb. — Francesca Lia Block, I Was a Teenage Fairy, p. 72, 1998
● Yeah, I’m not too big a fan either. Though Affleck was the bomb in Phantoms. — Kevin Smith, Jay and Silent Bob Strike Back, p. 19, 2001
- bomb verb
1 to place graffiti with an emphasis on quantity, not quality US, 1982
● I did my first car in less than an hour. I was bombing. — Craig Castleman, Getting Up, p. 5, 1982
● What is a young man from the Hague doing bombing the one line in the 145th Street tunnel with Bode nudes? — Henry Chalfant, Spraycan Art, p. 7, 1987
● [A]erosol artists find a place to bomb in peace[.] — The Source, April 2000
● “Bombing,” trying to put your name up in as many challenging and highly visible places as possible, was how a graffiti writer maintained his reputation among peers. — Plain Dealer (Cleveland, Ohio), p. L1, 29th July 2001
2 in mountain biking, to travel fast downhill US, 1992
● — William Nealy, Mountain Bike!, p. 160, 1992
3 to train intensely, alternating heavy weights with light weights US, 1984
● — American Speech, p. 198, Fall 1984: “The language of bodybuilding”
4 to fail dramatically; to flop US, 1958
Originally theatrical.
● “They bomb and I serve their time,” was Lenny’s view of the situation. — Albert Goldman, Freak Show, p. 211, 1968
5 in computing, to cease to function completely and suddenly US, 1991
● Don’t run Empire with less than 32K stack, it’ll bomb. — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 73, 1991
- get bombed
to be overcome by a wave while surfing US, 1965
● — Duke Kahanamoku with Joe Brennan, Duke Kahanamoku’s World of Surfing, p. 172, 1965
- bombed adjective
extremely drunk or drug-intoxicated US, 1955
● With each week of work, bombed and sapped and charged and stoned with lush, with pot, with benny[.] — Norman Mailer, Advertisements for Myself, p. 243, 1955
● Last weekend the men got so bombed they couldn’t make the stairs. [Letter to Ann Landers] — San Francisco Examiner, p. 24, 27th May 1966
● She gets totally bombed anyway, but having him around makes it worse. — Bret Easton Ellis, Less Than Zero, p. 16, 1985
- bombed out adjective
extremely marijuana-intoxicated US, 1967
● Bombed-out hippies, drag queens, and the great male unwashed. — James Ellroy, Destination Morgue, p. 128, 2004
- bomber noun
1 an extra large, thick or potent marijuana cigarette US, 1949
● I was only carrying the bombers. The bombers are big. They’re just like regular cigarettes, the same size[.] — Hal Elson, Duke, p. 3, 1949
● Gregor proceeded to roll the biggest bomber anybody ever saw. — Jack Kerouac, On the Road (The Original Scroll), p. 383, 1951
● Satchmo making a roach of a bomber joint in two mighty drags. — Neal Cassidy, Neal Cassidy Collected Letters 1944–1967, p. 299, 20th June 1951: Letter to Jack Kerouac
● I felt its size. It was king-sized, a bomber. — Piri Thomas, Down These Mean Streets, p. 58, 1967
● — Current Slang, p. 11, Fall 1968
2 a graffiti artist US, 1994
● An enterprising bomber could take King of Cleveland by walking the tracks one night. — William Ufski Wimsatt, Bomb the Suburbs, p. 43, 1994
● These guys were bombers that would do the fancy stuff only when time permitted. — Stephen Power, The Art of Getting Over, p. 38, 1999
3 a nicely restored older car US, 1991
● This used to be Bianca’s brother’s greatest source of pride—a fully restored Chevy Impala, what the homies call a bomber. — Leon Bing, Do or Die, p. 72, 1991
4 a hard-hitting, aggressive boxer US, 1937
● — J. E. Lighter, Historical Dictionary of American Slang, Volume 1, p. 226, 1994
5 a powerful, hard-breaking wave US, 1964
● — John Severson, Modern Surfing Around the World, p. 165, 1964
- bomb farm noun
an area on a military base where bombs are stored US, 1991
● He made his way through the “Bomb Farm,” the area where the weapons readied for loading were kept handy. — Gerry Carroll, North 54°R, p. 172, 1991

bombida noun

a mixture of heroin and cocaine US, 1975

From the Spanish, literal translation "little bomb."

- "I need you to fire a bombida, Rooski," Joe said softly. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 77, 1990

bombilla noun

an ampule filled with a drug US, 1998

- "Absolutely!" he said emphatically and opened the second refrigerator, which was filled to overflowing with row upon row of small bombillas (glass ampules) filled with methedrine[.] — Peter Coyote, Sleeping Where I Fall, p. 162, 1998

bombita; bombito noun

a tablet of amphetamine sulfate (Dexedrine™), a central nervous system stimulant US, 1966

- — Donald Louria, Nightmare Drugs, p. 28, 1966
- He was on amphetamines, stimulants, and had been shooting bombitas, small glass ampules of a drug called Desoxyn. — James Mills, The Panic in Needle Park, p. 34, 1966
- One outstanding defensive back was officially known as the Gulper. He would stand there swallowing a gaudy assortment of bombitos. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 46, 30th March 1970

bomb jockey noun

a bomber pilot US

- Being out in the open with tanks, we knew that the bomb jockeys could see our position and wouldn't dump any of that stuff on us. — Christopher Ronnau, Blood Trails, p. 173, 2006

bomb line noun

during the Korean war, the line beyond which bombing was deemed safe US, 1986

- Jim called back, past "the bomb line," the arbitrary division beyond which it was safe to bomb with assurance of not hitting any United Nations patrol. — Steven L. Thompson, The Wild Blue, p. 137, 1986

bomb-out noun

in competitive surfing, early elimination US, 1988

- — Brian and Margaret Lowdon, Competitive Surfing, 1988 bomb out verb

to knock a surfer off a surfboard US, 1964

- — John Severson, Modern Surfing Around the World, p. 165, 1964

bomb pocket noun

an irresistible bombing target US

- They had a name for the bridges, too, "bomb pockets," targets so attractive the Americans had to bomb them, no matter what the cost. — Walter Boyne, The Wild Blue, p. 525, 1986 bombs noun

the female breasts US, 1968

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 85, 1968

bombshell noun

a woman who is astonishingly attractive US, 1933

- Kaye Stratford, "The Blond Bombshell," an international favorite, in person 3 shows nightly at Spanish Village, 54 Mason, near Market. — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 21, 10th April 1951
- Italian Bombshell Silvana Mangano Jolts America [Headline]. — Quick Magazine, p. 55, 13th November 1951
- I never know what she is trying to be, except noisy. Miss Tanguay is billed as a "bombshell." — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 11, 9th January 1956

Bom-de-Bom noun

Ba Muoi Ba beer, a staple in Saigon during the Vietnam war US, 1990

- Nobody in Maverick's platoon could pronounce the name, so they just called it Bom-de-Bom. — Dennis J. Marvicsin and Jerold A. Greenfield, Maverick, p. 45, 1990

bomfog noun

dense and verbose language US, 1965

When Governor Nelson Rockefeller campaigned for the Republican nomination for president in 1964, he tended to end speeches with a reference to the "brotherhood of man under the fatherhood of God," a phrase which compacts into the acronym BOMFOG. Reporters covering the campaign began to refer to the end of his speeches as BOMFOG. The term survived and eventually took on a more general, less flattering meaning.

- "Do you remember Nelson Rockefeller's 'bomfog?'" asked the American. — New York Times, p. 1–1, 9th June 1984
- BOMFOG has now acquired a meaning along the lines of highfalutin verbiage. — Time, 26th April 1999

bondage pie noun

a pizza with sausage and mushroom topping US, 1996

The initials of the toppings – S and M – suggest bondage.

- — Maledicta, p. 8, 1996: "Domino's pizza jargon"

bone noun

1 the penis, especially when erect US, 1916

- "Why, if you mean do I think I could get a bone up over that old buzzard, no, I don't believe I could . . ." — Ken Kesey, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, p. 69, 1962
- And when you fall down on your good gal and lower your bone / you got to make that pussy call your dick "Bad Mr. Al Capone." — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 135, 1964

- Torn or nicked cocks are common casualties as one endeavors to stuff a full bone into his pants and zip up. — John Francis Hunter, The Gay Insider, p. 191, 1971
- Let her suck me up good, till I've got a fresh bone / And then I'll come in like the sword in the stone. — Screw, p. 7, 15th May 1972
- Every time she'd move her big ass, my bone would ache and throb. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 15, 1973

2 the active participant in homosexual sex US, 2001

- — AFSCME Local 3963, The Correctional Officer's Guide to Prison Slang, 2001

3 the middle finger raised in a gesture meaning, roughly, "fuck you!" US, 1957

- [A]ll Jeff did was flip the bone at his old man which is a very dirty way of telling somebody where to get off. — Frederick Kohner, Gidget, p. 48, 1957
- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 85, 1968
- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 38, 1971

4 a marijuana cigarette; hence, marijuana US, 1978

A visual pun.

- — Richard A. Spears, The Slang and Jargon of Drugs and Drink, p. 62, 1986
- Take a big bone hit/Cause after tha bud, My rhymes start flowin'. — Tone Loc, Cheeba Cheeba, 1989

5 a measurement of crack cocaine sold for $50 US, 2003

- We got Rocks, we got Bones, we got Brown, we got Stones. — Julian Johnson, Urban Survival, p. 170, 2003

6 heroin US, 1993

- — Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 25, 1993

7 a dollar US, 1889

- I never heard of anybody offering a twenty-bone bounty for bagging a ball-cutter. — Ken Kesey, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, p. 69, 1962
- I sent you two dollars of it, but don't spend it fast / 'cause those two bones will be your first and last. — Dennis Weptman et al., The Life, p. 141, 1976
- Thousand, yes, bones or clams or whatever you call them. — The Big Lebowski, 1998
- Me and Trick figured it would be at least ten bones each for gas roundtrip. — Linden Dalecki, Kid B, p. 137, 2006

8 one thousand dollars US, 1988

- They lend you a thousand and call it a bone. — Robert Campbell, Juice, p. 20, 1988

9 a trombone US, 1918

- Ross frequently lays aside his "bone" to take over the mike as Benny's vocalist. — The Capital, p. 6, July 1946
- Furg's 'bone was a brass bowel hooked in his nervous system, completing some rare equation of heart and body. — Malcolm Braly, Shake Him Till He Rattles, p. 85, 1963
- Many of the performers belonged to a San Francisco trombone choir called the Bay Bones. — Time, p. 73, 5th March 1979 bone *verb1 to have sex from the male point of view US, 1971

- You kin change the engine on your bike, you kin paint the kitchen, you kin bone your old lady twice. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Secrets of Harry Bright, p. 191, 1985
- It's a lot more interesting than just flinging off your clothes and boning away on the neighbor's swing set. — Heathers, 1988
- "Make sure you wear a raincoat when you bone them broads." — Nathan McCall, Makes Me Wanna Holler, p. 40, 1994
- Alone with most of the female cast, he proceeds to bone one after another after another. — Editors of Adult Video News, The AVN Guide to the 500 Greatest Adult Films of All Time, p. 62, 2005

2 to walk fast US, 1999

- We boned out of the police station and headed to the parking lot. — Eric Jerome Dickey, Cheaters, p. 369, 1999

3 in mountain biking, to strike the nose of your seat with your buttocks US, 1992

- — William Nealy, Mountain Bike!, p. 160, 1992: Bikespeak

4 to study intensely US, 1859

- I was back at State again, boning for my finals[.] — Chester Himes, Cast the First Stone, p. 55, 1952 bone banger; bone crusher noun

an orthopedist US, 1994

- — Sally Williams, "Strong" Words, p. 135, 1994

bonecrushers noun

the very painful symptoms of withdrawal from drug addiction US, 1990

- I've held off the bonecrushers two days, rationing that stuff up my nose—horned the last just an hour ago. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 49, 1990

bonehead noun

an idiot US, 1908

- "Anything a bonehead like me can do to study up on 'em, Doc?" — Donald Wilson, My Six Convicts, p. 54, 1951
- "That was a bonehead play." — Charles Perry, Portrait of a Young Man Drowning, p. 141, 1962
- I don't know which bonehead dreamed up this business of splitting up teams that have been working together for years. — Robert Campbell, Juice, p. 216, 1988

bone-on noun

an erection US, 1927

- I swear to Christ, B, I never got such a terrific bone-on in my life! Like a fucking rock[.] — Terry Southern, Blue Movie, p. 206, 1970

bone out *verb1 to relax, to idle US, 1991

- "I go to my mama's house like Friday through Sunday, and I bone out." — Leon Bing, Do or Die, p. 32, 1991

2 to back down from a confrontation; to run away from danger US, 1993

- — People Magazine, p. 72, 19th July 1993
- — Bill Valentine, Gang Intelligence Manual, p. 75, 1995

3 to leave quickly US, 1993

- I know if I had some money I'd bone the fuck out. — Menace II Society, 1993

4 while snowboarding, to hold your leg straight during a maneuver in the air US, 1990

- — Elena Garcia, A Beginner's Guide to Zen and the Art of Snowboarding, p. 121, 1990

boned out adjective exhausted after sex US, 2004

- Your favorite 'gram that getting boned out / Would prefer if I drowned in some Hi-Tech. — RetcH, "Out Da Lobby", 2016

bone queen noun

a male homosexual who favors performing oral sex US, 1964

- — Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 21, 1964

boner noun

1 a blunder US, 1912

- Right here is where we pulled a boner. I didn't know at the time I was being followed, but my leaving the bandstand out of a clear sky and taking Frank's car called for a tail. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 66, 1946
- He had a pretty good idea that he'd pulled a boner. — Jim Thompson, Savage Night, p. 61, 1953
- As for Japhy he was quite pleased with anything I did provided I didn't pull any boners like making the kerosene lamp smoke from turning the wick too far up. — Jack Kerouac, The Dharma Bums, p. 147, 1958
- "Now remember you get a roust out here, crack my name. Don't repeat your boner." — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 192, 1969

2 an erection US, 1961

The supposed bone-like quality of an erect penis, with which you BONE (have sex).

- The little dog used to raise a boner every time it walked into a room where Rickie was present. — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 68, 1961
- In the classroom I sometimes set myself consciously to thinking about DEATH and HOSPITALS and HORRIBLE AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS in the hope that such grave thoughts will cause my "boner" to recede before the bell rings and I have to stand. — Philip Roth, Portnoy's Complaint, p. 200, 1969
- I graduated into the "talking mood"—a group of neighborhood kids who met behind the garage to tell the same worn-out dirty jokes and recount when they (the boys) had last had a "boner." — Jefferson Poland and Valerie Alison, The Records of the San Francisco Sexual Freedom League, p. 111, 1971
- Don't like to look like I'm hustling, and there I am, sitting next to you with a boner. — Diner, 1982

bones noun

1 dice UK, 1400

The term has journeyed from colloquial to standard English and now to slang.

- And I'd take some loaded craps down there, some bones, and I would beat the paddy boys out of all their money. They were the only ones who were dumb enough to shoot craps with bones. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 151, 1965
- We now had five yards to spend / so I made the same bet again / as I watched the bones fly from Spoon's hand. — Lightnin' Rod, Hustlers Convention, p. 52, 1973
- How bout it new kid, you wanna handle my bones, or do you just like to watch. [Screenplay, not in final cut]. — Kill Bill, 2003

2 heroin US, 1984

- Heroin is called either "bones," referring to a high level of purity, or "scramble," meaning a much less pure version, which is much cheaper. — Washington Post, p. B1, 29th July 1984

► make your bones

to establish yourself as an equal in a group setting US, 1996

- She'd made her bones back in the days when there were still a lot of dinosaurs left on the job, guys who wanted women to fail. — Joseph Wambaugh, Floater, p. 139, 1996

► make your bones; earn your bones

to establish yourself as a fully fledged member of a crime organization, usually by carrying out an execution-style murder US, 1972

- Only a few weeks before he had made his bones, a double kill of Herm and Sal Perigino. — Mickey Spillane, Last Cop Out, p. 8, 1972
- Mr. Bellini wants you to join the Family. He told me to see that you make your bones. I have the guy you need in mind already. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Death Wish, p. 65, 1977
- When he was thirteen he had made his bones on the Gun Hill Road in the Bronx, where he had never been before that afternoon. — Richard Condon, Prizzi's Honor, p. 4, 1982
- Angiulo had no scalps, never having "earned his bones," or killed a man to become a "made" Mafia member. — Gerard O'Neill, The Under Boss, p. 41, 1989

bone shack noun

any place where a couple have sex US, 1997

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 42, 1997

boneshaker noun

a rigid-frame motorcycle, especially a rigid-frame Harley-Davidson US, 1962

- — American Speech, p. 267, December 1962: "The language of traffic policemen"

bone up verb

to study, especially at the last minute US, 1918

An American outgrowth of the C18 "bone" with the same meaning.

- Then we started boning up on the dog-ass Jets, who had dusted off Oakland thirty-five to ten for the American Conference title. — Dan Jenkins, Semi-Tough, p. 91, 1972 bone works noun

rough treatment US, 1970

- I wasn't leaned on too much, but I got the bone works when it came to security. They stayed on me like hawks for six months. — Red Rudensky, The Gonif, p. 50, 1970

boneyard noun

1 a cemetery US, 1866

- "Among other places, at the boneyard," I clued her in. — Frederick Kohner, The Affairs of Gidget, p. 119, 1963
- A minister funeralized over his coffin and all the tiny town's eyes were flued on the windy old boneyard. — Joe Eszterhas, Charlie Simpson's Apocalypse, p. 75, 1973
- So if he did the work on the plumber he would be sending the only woman he had ever really loved to a boneyard. — Richard Condon, Prizzi's Money, p. 90, 1994

2 in various industrial settings, the site for dumping broken vehicles and equipment which can be cannibalized for parts US, 1913

- — Ramon Adams, The Language of the Railroad, p. 18, 1977

3 in dominoes, the pile of unused tiles US, 1897

- — Dominic Armano, Dominoes, p. 16, 1959
- Never mind the sun, Homer—help yourself to the boneyard—you're 5 peps from a skunking. [Homer comic strip] — San Francisco Examiner, p. 48, 2nd April 1963

4 the area off a beach where waves break US, 1957

- [O]n Malibu Mac's how to get out of a "boneyard" when you're caught in the middle of a low of breakers—and on Scooterboy Miller's hot rod I learned how to avoid a pearl dive. — Frederick Kohner, Gidget, p. a, 1957
- — John M. Kelly, Surf and Sea, p. 280, 1965

5 a conjugal visit in prison US, 1989

- — James Harris, A Convict's Dictionary, p. 28, 1989

boney maroney noun

a very thin person US, 1957

In various spellings, but surely originating in the rock 'n' roll lyric from the 1957 song by Larry Williams.

- I've got a girl named Bony Maroney / She's as twiggy as a stick of macaroni. — Larry Williams, Bony Maronie, 1957
- — Kenn "Naz" Young, Naz's Underground Dictionary, p. 16, 1973

bone you! bone ya!

used as an all-purpose, defiant insult US, 1963

- — American Speech, p. 276, December 1963: "American Indian student slang"

bong noun

a pipe with a water-filled bowl through which marijuana or crack cocaine smoke is drawn for inhalation US, 1971

- I like a blunt or a big fat coal / But my double-barrel bong is gettin' me stoned / I'm skill it, There's water inside don't spill it. — Cypress Hill, Hits from the Bong, 1993
- "Come smoke a few bongs with the sheriff." A bong was a vertical bamboo pipe containing water. — Cleo Odzer, Goa Freaks, p. 75, 1995
- If we didn't have a bong, we used to get my brother's motorcycle helmet. — MacFarlane, MacFarlane and Robson, The User, p. 79, 1996
- She wondered what mishappen bong or other embarrassment was drawn on him. — Francesca Lia Block, I Was a Teenage Fairy, p. 90, 1998

► hit the bong

to smoke using a water pipe US, 1986

- But then would any of you lame fucks give up your CD player now that you've been trained to crawl up in front of it and hit the bong every night? — mod.music.gaffa, 7th November 1986
- She was upstairs hitting the bong. — Michelle Tea, Rent Girl, p. 98, 2004

bong verb

to drink beer directly from a keg, using a hose and funnel US, 1982

- — Mary Corey and Victoria Westermarck, Fer Shurr! How to be a Valley Girl, 1982

bongo adjective

crazy US, 1979

- I wonder if I'm bongo to let this yo-yo try to do what I want. — Leo Rosten, Silkly, p. 25, 1979

bonhunkus noun

the buttocks US, 1941

- If surfing isn't vigorous enough, you can go zipping down the Sun Streaker water slide, a 220-foot nearly straight shot that you take from four stories high, sitting only on your bonhunkus. — Washington Post, p. 5 (Weekend), 1st April 1983

bonita noun

milk sugar (lactose) used to dilute heroin US, 1973

- — David Maurer and Victor Vogel, Narcotics and Narcotic Addiction, p. 390, 1973

bonkers adjective

crazy US, 1957

- That's incredible! Richard Marks will go bonkers. — Dan Jenkins, Life Its Ownself, p. 198, 1984
- North rim? Man, are you bonkers! They'll shoot you. — Bill Cardoso, The Maltese Sangweech and Other Heroes, p. 247, 1984
- That's when Letch devised the scheme to pee on the tree and drive the little bowwow bonkers. — Joseph Wambaugh, Floater, p. 11, 1996

- This she could deal with: a woman going bonkers over a man. — Rita Ciresi, Pink Slip, p. 340, 1999

bonneroo; bonaroo *adjective*good, smart, sharp US, 1926

Largely, if not exclusively, prison slang.

- The uniform of the 10-piece ensemble was “boneroo”—that’s lingo on the inside for “cool” on the outside. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 19, 13th June 1960
- — Board of Corrections, State of California, A Dictionary of Criminal Language For Official Law Enforcement Use Only, 1962
- These are boneroo free-world shoes. — Malcolm Braly, On the Yard, p. 140, 1967
- He had bonneroo rolls and cookies[.]. — James Carr, Bad, p. 70, 1975
- If you weren’t a Mexican, I’d call it a bonaroo taco wagon. — James Ellroy, Suicide Hill, p. 611, 1986

Bonnie Dick *nickname*the USS Bonhomme Richard US, 1955

An aircraft carrier named after Capt. John Paul Jones’ famous ship in the American Revolution.

- Bonnie Dick Rejoins Fleet [Headline] — San Francisco News, p. 12, 7th September 1955

bonzo *adjective*crazy US, 1979

- The kid was a banana! Bonzo. Loonier than his old man. — Joseph Wambaugh, Lines and Shadows, p. 108, 1984

boo *noun1 marijuana US, 1959

- “Boo is a crutch for you,” Lee snorted. — Clarence Cooper Jr., Black, p. 104, 1963
- Hey, really, you know my manic thing with boo. If I start seeing spiders, you can always slip me a little niacin. — Richard Farina, Been Down So Long, p. 66, 1966
- Well then somebody dumped an ounce of boo on the table and cats and kitties got their kicks that way and the beering halted. — Richard Meltzer, A Whore Just Like the Rest, p. 163, 1972
- His father had been unable to figure out any other way to ice Little Phil Terrone, the heaviest shit and boo dealer in the North Bronx. — Richard Condon, Prizzi’s Honor, p. 4, 1982

2 a sexual partner or lover US, 1997

- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, 1997
- — Milwaukee Journal-Sentinel, 5th March 2001
- — Gary K. Farlow, Prison-ese, p. 5, 2002

3 an attractive young person US, 1968

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 84, 1968

4 used as a term of endearment US, 2004

- — Rick Ayers (Editor), Berkeley High Slang Dictionary, p. 13, 2004

5 anything at all US, 1883

Usually heard in the warning—“don’t say boo.”

- “I’ve hardly had time to say boo to her today.” — Glenn Savan, White Palace, p. 271, 1987

6 a C-7 Caribou aircraft US, 2004

- — David Hart, First Air Cavalry Division Vietnam Dictionary, p. 9, 2004

boob *noun1 a fool US, 1907

Almost certainly from C16 “booby,” meaning a “stupid fellow.”

- There’s another buddyship of boobs who think the earth is hollow and we live inside. — Philip Wylie, Opus 21, p. 85, 1949
- But wouldn’t it be funny if he suddenly turned to him and said, “Phil Latham, you’re a boob!” — John Knowles, A Separate Peace, p. 175, 1959
- Your rotarian boob of a publisher has one of the most original minds I’ve run across in quite a while. — Hunter S. Thompson, The Proud Highway, p. 191, 29th October 1959: Letter to William J. Kennedy
- New York Billie dug that Willie was from Lame Junction so he figured he’d take this boob for the New York pig. — Babs Gonzales, “A Manhattan Fable” in Movin’ On Down De Line, p. 89, 1975

2 the female breast US, 1931

From synonymous “bub.” Generally used in the plural.

- She had a nice pair of boobs and he’d like to catch her sometime — Hubert Selby Jr., Last Exit to Brooklyn, p. 268, 1957
- Someone would sit up and point at some sex display, “Look at those boobs!” — Frederick Kohner, Gidget, p. 49, 1957
- Her breasts weren’t especially big, or little, or round, or pointy or any of those magazine-writer tit fetish clichés. They were just nice boobs on a nice woman. — Gurney Norman, Divine Right’s Trip (Last Whole Earth Catalog), p. 41, 1971
- “Oh, I wish you wouldn’t use that expression [flat],” retorted Miss Andrews in her precise British voice. “Everyone including Carol Burnett knows I have bigger boobs than she does.” — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 58, 15th December 1971

boob *verb*to perform poorly, to botch something US, 1919

- The growing consensus, says the pro-American Economist, is “that American intelligence booped.” — Tampa (Florida) Tribune, p. 6, 9th September 1998
- “I just completely booped three 5-irons and plunked two or three woods,” Wessels said of her morning qualifying round in the Illinois Women’s State Amateur. — Rockford (Illinois) Star, p. 1D, 8th June 1999

boob box *noun*a television; television US, 1968

- [G]lomming the presidential conventions from the boob box[.] — Sidney Bernard, This Way to the Apocalypse, p. 72, 1968

boo-bird noun

a sports fan who constantly and loudly boos during a game US, 1933

- Cleveland Boo-Birds Backed by Vecek [Headline]. — Sporting News, p. 1, 14th July 1948
- Philadelphia is reputed to be the biggest sports boobird city in the U.S. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 50, 17th November 1966

- Enraged boo birds, many fueled by beer, took over the game for about 20 minutes Sunday, making so much noise play had to be held up because the Eagles couldn’t hear Garbril’s signals. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 46, 29th October 1974

boobitas; boobititas *noun*small female breasts US, 1963

A borrowed use of the Spanish diminutive.

- — Carol Ann Preusse, Jargon Used by University of Texas Co-Eds, 1963

boob job *noun*surgery to alter a woman’s breast size US, 1986

- Half the girls get boob jobs and butt tucks. — Carl Hiaasen, Tourist Season, p. 259, 1986
- Cop Don Fernando, who’s been trying to find Spankenstein for five years, discovers pint-sized Nasty Natasha (Courtney plus a boob job). — Adult Video News, p. 56, February 1993
- I’ve got almost three thousand dollars. I was saving it for a boob job. — American Beauty, 1999
- [A] week after Jake dumped me, I slept with Hawk just to get back at him. Then I got a boob job. — Missy Hyatt, Missy Hyatt, p. 19, 2001

boob man *noun*a male with a primary interest in a woman’s breasts as a point of attraction US, 1973

- “I’ve seen you looking at women, the big boobs . . . you are a big boob man and I think I can satisfy that.” — Robert O’Neil Bristow, A Faraway Drummer, p. 232, 1973
- “Like, most of ‘em got small little titties and are skinny, so if you’re a boob man your hands feel kinda empty.” — Cherokee Paul McDonald, Into the Green, p. 98, 2001

boo-boo *noun1 an error US, 1953

Children’s vocabulary.

- The other day, Mr. B. made a lamentable boo-boo. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 29, 24th January 1953
- How could she have made such a thundering booboo as to cut Oscar loose before she had Harry properly hooked? — Max Shulman, Rally Round the Flag, Boys!, p. 233, 1957
- “Now, since I made a booboo—I’ll let you make one.” — Frederick Kohner, Gidget Goes Hawaiian, p. 46, 1961
- This is a male institution. Someone’s made a . . . booboo. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 251, 1990

2 a bruise or scrape US, 1954

- But in Springfield, Mass., you say “I fell down and got a boo-boo on my elbow” (a bruise). This boo-boo may come from a French slang word, bo-bo, any small bruise or hurt. — Junior Parade Magazine, p. 22, 20th June 1954
- Has the poor little girl got a BooBoo? — Hubert Selby Jr., Last Exit to Brooklyn, p. 47, 1957
- He says, “Well, whaddaya know—Champ Pimp’s got himself a boob-boo.” — Raging Bull, 1980
- [D]on’t worry about that little boob-boo on her throat / It’s just a little scratch[.] — Eminem (Marshall Mathers), ’97 Bonnie and Clyde, 1999

boob-boos *noun*the testicles US, 1951

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 31, 1967

boobs *noun*in poker, a pair of queens US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 12, 1988

boob sling *noun*a brassiere US, 1968

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 85, 1968
- They raised thousands of dollars for breast cancer research by staging a strip-a-thon-cum-burlesque show and an autographed celebrity bra auction (including a multicolored boob-sling from Madonna). — Mark Eber, Hollywood, Interrupted, p. 235, 2004

boob tube *noun*television US, 1963First came THE TUBE, and then the obvious reduplication.

- Maybe you do a few things which irritate her and she retaliates via the boob tube. — San Francisco News Call Bulletin, p. 11, 21st January 1963
- Hi-fi comes to the boob tube [Headline]. — Life, p. 22, 15th May 1970
- Parked in front of the boob tube, Carol and I used to gawk and hoot at those hunks[.] — Rita Ciresi, Pink Slip, p. 163, 1999

booby *adjective*foolish US, 1958

- [W]e’ll poetize the lot and make a fat book of icy bombs for the booby public. — Jack Kerouac, The Dharma Bums, p. 158, 1958

booby; boobie *noun*a female breast US, 1916

- Sitting in the back seat with the pudgy girl was his date—big boobies, he remembered, they jigged. — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 46, 1954
- You can be up to your boobies in white satin, with gardenias in your hair and no sugar cane for miles, but you can still be working on a plantation. — Billie Holiday with William Dufty, Lady Sings the Blues, p. 95, 1956
- And pointy, stretched-out boobies from past hormone dabbling. — James St. James, Party Monster, p. 68, 1990
- Her eyes are still big, and her boobies are still mobile and high as she straddles her man in a girl-on-top tussle. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin’s Skincyclopedia, p. 10, 2005

booby hatch *noun*a mental hospital US, 1896

- If I was, they’d drive me into the booby hatch. — James T. Farrell, Saturday Night, p. 20, 1947

- How in the name of carnation some people go through life without their getting locked up in what we used to call the Bobby Hatch  well, pal, it sure beats me. — Leo Rosten, Dear Herm, p. 17, 1974
- Frank had to content himself with getting her committed to the booby hatch for life, innocent by reason of insanity. — George V. Higgins, Penance for Jerry Kennedy, p. 37, 1985

booby house noun

a mental institution US, 1949

- "In the booby house you eat every day." — Nelson Algren, The Man with the Golden Arm, p. 274, 1949

booby trap noun

a dishonest carnival game US, 1950

- — American Speech, p. 235, October 1950: "The argot of outdoor booby traps" boochie noun

a Japanese person US, 1950

- Chicago Japs refer to those from the old country and Hawaii as "Buddha heads" or "Boochies." — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Chicago Confidential, p. 88, 1950

boo-coo; boo koo noun

a large number; a lot US, 1918

- Bama said, "Yeah, he'll be there. So what has that to do with boo koos of fine foxes?" — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Death Wish, p. 130, 1977

boo-coo; boo koo adjective

a large number of; a lot of US, 1972

- "LZ on the Cambodian border. Beaucoup dinks." You pronounce it boo-coo in the Big V. — William Pelfrey, The Big V, p. 12, 1972
- We got boo-coo movement. 3rd Battalion just got hit 15 kliks north of here. — Platoon, 1986
- He's boo-koo koo-koo. — Gone in 60 Seconds, 2000
- I fry boocoo buckets of chicken, and eat them by the stomachful. — David Henry Sterry, Chicken, p. 27, 2002

boodle noun

1 profits appropriated quietly, and usually illegally US, 1858

- Tom ("Sailor") Burke had been the sheriff's "bag man," had delivered $36,000 in payoff money to the sheriff's wife, and had gotten signed receipts for the boodle. — Time, p. 18, 24th July 1950
- Of the boodle with which she had skipped St. Louis, she still had several thousand dollars, plus, of course, such readily negotiable items as her car, jewelry, and furs. — Jim Thompson, The Grifters, p. 87, 1963
- Sister Heavenly reckoned that Gus was carrying the boodle on him. — Chester Himes, Come Back Charleston Blue, p. 48, 1966
- We gotta go and score for decent bennys and bread to make up a playing boodle. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Airtight Willie and Me, p. 5, 1979

2 a fake bankroll used in confidence swindles US, 1985

- — M. Allen Henderson, How Con Games Work, p. 218, 1985

3 a package of snacks US, 1900

- Those with friends or family in the military are sure to find the online Gift Shop an easy way to send "boodle," as soldiers often refer to much-anticipated packages from home. — PR Newswire, 17th June 2003

4 a capsule of poison disguised as a capsule of heroin US, 1968

- And the best way to "waste" a stoolie was to make him a conspirator in his own murder, by dropping a "boodle." — Phil Hirsch, Hooked, p. 15, 1968

boof noun

contraband hidden in the rectum US, 2002

- — Jeffrey Ian Ross, Behind Bars, p. 182, 2002: Slammer Slang

boof verb

to hide prison contraband in your rectum US, 2000

- Like prisoners everywhere, Rikers inmates use their rectums as a sort of suitcase for weapons, concealing one or two razor blades—or sometimes even 20 or 30—by "slamming" or "boofing" them. — Village Voice, p. 45, 19th December 2000

boog noun

a black person US, 1937

Offensive.

- "She's workin' in some boog honky-tonk," Antek told Frankie. — Nelson Algren, The Man with the Golden Arm, p. 231, 1949
- Christ, let's take all of them—the fucking boogs may turn cannibal any minute! — Terry Southern, Blue Movie, p. 182, 1970
- Everybody is doing okay, Irish, Poles, the ghinnies even, paddling along, all except the boogs. Right to the bottom. — John Sayles, Union Dues, pp. 22–23, 1977

boogaloo noun

a black person US, 1970

- — Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 29, 1970

booger noun

1 a glob of nasal mucus US, 1891

- Eeeuuwww! You got a booger on your shirt! — Richard Price, The Wanderers, p. 76, 1974
- She peered at me with fierce suspicion, so I crossed my eyes and probed for a booger. — C.D. Payne, Youth in Revolt, p. 36, 1993

2 the vagina; and so, woman as sexual object US, 1959

- I bet LaNelle got some sweet booger up top of them nice long legs. — Ken Weaver, Texas Crude, p. 105, 1984

booger drag noun

a man dressed as a woman, but revealing his masculinity by not shaving his face, arms and/or legs US, 1997

- — Jim Crotty, How to Talk American, p. 138, 1997
- What I had seen before her was what Joe called "booger drag." — Jay Quinn, The Mentor, p. 91, 2000

boogie noun

a black person US, 1923

Offensive.

- Strike a match, the boogie's nuts. — Ralph Ellison, Invisible Man, p. 566, 1947
- "Stopped both fights in the first. One was against that boogie from the Savoy." — Nelson Algren, The Neon Wilderness, p. 62, 1960
- She was with some boogie and then some other boogie came in and shot them both in the head. How do you like that? Fucking for boogies. — Philip Roth, Portnoy's Complaint, p. 197, 1969
- Make our job a lot easier, keep the boogies inside. — John Sayles, Union Dues, p. 22, 1977

boogie verb

1 to dance, especially with abandon US, 1947

- He could hear the hi-fi going next door, Lesley boogying around the apartment to the Bee-Gees, ignoring her aunt, who was a little deaf. — Elmore Leonard, Gold Coast, p. 58, 1980

2 to go, especially in a hurry US, 1970

- If you were lonely you could always boogie on down to the Vietnam Day Committee house and find someone to talk to. — Jerry Rubin, Do It!, p. 37, 1970
- Let's boogie. — The Blues Brothers, 1980
- Gazing into the mirror he used an actor's trick and conjured images of middle-aged sociopaths: Fat Tony Salerno, Saddam Hussein, Ted Kennedy. Nothing worked. The killer had boogied. — Joseph Wambaugh, Finnegan's Week, p. 2, 1993
- He had no reason to drop us so far from the target and he certainly didn't need to boogie out so quickly. — Latrell Bellard, Fear and Reality: A Vietnam War Diary, p. 61, 2004

boogie-joogie verb to fool around US, 1968

- Hadn't he messed up by his own chances at life by boogie-joogying with them? — Nathan Heard, Howard Street, p. 53, 1968

boogie man; boogy man noun

a mythical demon, used to frighten children US, 1905

- Television, the early boogie-man of all forms of show business, has had a definite effect on night clubbing, Walters thinks. — Robert Sylvester, No Cover Charge, p. 36, 1956
- Betty, John, and I believed there was a boogie man in the church at night.[.] — Bobby Seale, A Lonely Rage, p. 5, 1978
- Damn, you daddy mean. He worse than the boogie man himself. — Boyz n The Hood, 1990
- I couldn't tie my shoes until I was 9, I wet the bed until I was 13, and I still can't go to sleep without Mommy making sure the Boogie Man isn't under the bed. — Chris Rock, Rock This!, p. 57, 1997

boogie party noun

a party held to raise money to pay the rent US, 1982

- — Arnold Shaw, Dictionary of American Pop/Rock, p. 159, 1982

boojie noun

a middle-class person US, 1970

A refinement of "bourgeois" and not used with kindness.

- "We know those Boojies (bourgeois Negroes) don't want to hear about us," was their reaction, "but that's too bad: we exist!" — Christina and Richard Milner, Black Players, p. 11, 1972

book noun

1 a betting operation US, 1917

- There are about thirty books or wheels going in Chicago alone. — Alison Smith, Syndicate City, p. 196, 1954
- One of my rules, forty years in the business—going back to the syndicate days—twenty years running my own book, you have to always know who you're doing business with. — Elmore Leonard, Riding the Rap, p. 16, 1995

2 in sports, the collective, conventional wisdom in a given situation US, 1985

- Williams went against the book, and sent pitching coach Galen Cisco to the mound with instructions. — Los Angeles Times, p. 1 (Part 3), 10th April 1985
- In sports, it is always referred to as "the Book." It doesn't exist, not in any tangible form at least, but it is referenced by coaches on every level, from little league to the NFL. — Atlanta Journal-Constitution, p. 7F, 2nd January 2004

3 ten thousand doses of LSD soaked into paper US, 1999

- Ten pages—ten thousand hits—constitute a "book," which is a common wholesale unit. — Cam Cloud, The Little Book of Acid, p. 34, 1999

4 one pound of drugs US, 1976

- — Robert Sabbag, Snowblind, p. 271, 1976

5 half a kilogram of drugs US, 1976

- — Robert Sabbag, Snowblind, p. 271, 1976

6 a hard-working, focused, serious student US, 1968

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 85, 1968

7 a life sentence to prison US, 1976

- "What do you think we'll get?" Bob asked. "The book," Mick said. — Malcolm Braly, False Starts, p. 98, 1976

8 keep books US to write a police report.

- Her passenger partner "keeping books" or "taking paper," which simply meant the reporter writer, was twenty-nine-year-old Georgie Adams. — Joseph Wambaugh, Hollywood Hills, p. 79, 2010

► make book

to bet US, 1962

- [H]e was shrugging it off like water, makin' book with the technicians on long he could keep his eyes open after the poles touched. — Ken Kesey, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, p. 277, 1962

▶ the book

the unwritten code of style and conduct observed by pimps US, 1972

- During the study we only met three White pimps, and all of them mimicked the Black style in their speech, dress, and in their adherence to "The Book," the unwritten pimp's code. — Christina and Richard Milner, Black Players, p. 12, 1972

▶ throw the book at; give the book to sentence someone to a maximum penalty allowed by law US, 1908

- That's what they do, give you the book. That's supposed to scare the other guys. — Chester Himes, Cast the First Stone, p. 12, 1952
- The assistant U.S. attorney argued that the defendant had been involved in criminal endeavors for over four decades and wanted an upward departure. Which Raylan understood to mean throw the book at him. — Elmore Leonard, Riding the Rap, p. 280, 1995 book verb1 to study US, 1968

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 86, 1968

2 to depart, usually hurriedly US, 1974

- Belly sprang to her feet. "We gotta book—fast." — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 66, 1990
- MARSELLUS: What'cha got? ENGLISH DAVE: He booked. — Pulp Fiction, 1994
- We gotta book it if we're going to make it to PE. — Clueless, 1995
- We gotta book. We're catching a bus to Chi-town. — Chasing Amy, 1997

▶ book a party of two to arrange for oral sex to be performed on two male prisoners US, 1989

- — James Harris, A Convict's Dictionary, 1989

▶ book the action

to accept a bet US, 1980

- If a player puts down a roll of dimes, you book the action. — Lee Solkey, Dummy Up and Deal, p. 108, 1980

book-beater noun

a serious, hard-working student US, 1945

- — Yank, p. 18, 24th March 1945

book 'em, Danno

used for humorous suggestion that somebody has been caught in an improper act US, 1968

- From the US television series Hawaii Five-O (1968–1980), in which Detective Steve McGarrett would order Detective "Danno" Williams to arrest a suspect.
- McGarrett may have said, "Book 'em, Danno," but the audience wanted to bed 'em when it came to Anne's brunette beauty and her big kahunas. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin's Skincyclopedia, p. 24, 2005

bookend verb

in twelve-step recovery programs such as Alcoholics Anonymous, to speak with a fellow recovering addict both before and after confronting a difficult situation US, 1998

- — Christopher Cavanaugh, AA to Z, p. 58, 1998

book gook noun

a diligent, socially inept student US, 1951
Teen Slang.

- — Newsweek, p. 28, 8th October 1951

bookie noun

a bookmaker UK, 1885

Sometimes spelt "booky."

- He spotted the young Duke of Salamanca drawing stacks of white from the bookies[.] — Charles Raven, Underworld Nights, p. 174, 1956
- The Pope is the World's biggest bookie. Makes people bet on their own salvation. — The Bad Lieutenant, 1992

books noun

used as a figurative description of membership in a criminal organization US, 1964

- — American Speech, p. 305, December 1964: "Lingua cosa nostra"
- The bosses are sitting on millions and they say, you no do-a this, you no do-a that—meanwhile they close the books and the soldiers have to drive trucks on the side to live. — Edwin Torres, Carlito's Way, p. 41, 1975
- "When they open the books, they won't put you up. Don't you want to be a wiseguy?" — Joseph Pistone, Dannie Brasco, p. 298, 1987

boola-boola adjective characterized by extreme boosterism and spirited support of an institution US, 1900

- The song "Boola Boola" has been one of Yale University's football fight songs since 1901 when it was written by Allan M. Hirsch, who explained the meaning of the word as follows: "It is interesting to note that many people have asked us what the word 'Boola' meant, and we said it was Hawaiian and meant a joy cry. We stuck to this for several years until someone came along and pointed out to us that there was no B in the Hawaiian language and therefore Boola could not possibly be Hawaiian. So the fact remains that we do not know what it means, except that it was euphonious and easy to sing and to our young ears sounded good." The song was an "adaptation" of an 1898 "La Hoola Boola" performed by Bob Cole and Billy Johnson.
- It was a real boola-boola reunion. — Edwin Torres, After Hours, p. 294, 1979
- — Yale Alumni Magazine, October 2000

boolhipper noun

a black leather jacket with a belt in the back US, 1970

- — Roger D. Abrahams, Deep Down in the Jungle, p. 258, 1970

boolin' noun

relaxing, idling US, 2005

- Chillin', hangin', lampin'. Derived from Blood culture, which generally avoids the letter "C" due to a rivalry with the Crips. — Matt Stieb, "What did He Say? A Guide to the Young thug Idioglossia," 20th October 2015

boom noun1 potent marijuana US, 1946

- Stoned Raider, in the Temple of Boom. — Cypress Hill, Stoned Raider, 1995
- Yo, Cass, you got any boom? — Kids, 1995

2 fake crack cocaine US, 2001

- One of the officers patted him down and felt a "rock-like substance," said Sgt. Clifford Gatlin. Smith told the officer it was "boom," street slang for fake crack cocaine. — Daily Town Talk (Alexandria, Louisiana), p. 3A, 25th April 2001

boom and zoom; b and z verb in air combat, to use a relative altitude advantage to attack an opponent (to boom) and then return to a superior position out of danger (to zoom) US, 1986

- But that bunch of good old boys, big-shot lawyers, ex-Marine Corps heroes, ring-knocking fighter jocks who can't get enough of that boomin' and zoomin'[,] — Larry Heinemann, Paco's Story, p. 157, 1986

boom-boom noun1 sex US, 1964

From Asian pidgin. Major use in Vietnam during the war.

- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 5, 1968
- [F]rom then on the recreation area at the lake was referred to jokingly by the Jumping Mustangs as the "Boom-boom" area. — Kenneth Mertel, Year of the Horse, p. 213, 1968
- "Come on, we make boom boom, Joe." — William Pelfrey, The Big V, p. 19, 1972
- "No more boom-boom for that mamma-san," the Marine said, that same, tired remark you heard every time the dead turned out to be women. — Michael Herr, Dispatches, p. 199, 1977
- She love you good. Boom-boom long time. Ten dollar. — Full Metal Jacket, 1987

2 live music US, 2003

- Quirky alt-rockers The Anarchy Orchestra will provide the boom boom[.] — The Record (Bergen County, New Jersey), p. 37, 24th October 2003

3 a pistol US, 1945

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 22, 1945

4 a cowboy or Western movie US, 1947

- — Marcus Hanna Boulware, Jive and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947

boom-boom verb

to copulate US, 1971

- Hey, baby-san, you boum-boum G.I.? — Screw, p. 5, 15th February 1971
- At least they were honest about who they were boom-booming. — Larry Chambers, Recondo, p. 124, 1992
- A young kid asked if he could borrow my pistol so he could shoot the VC that came each night to "boom boom" (have sex) with his sister. — Chuck Carlock, Firebirds, p. 68, 1995

boom-boom girl noun

a prostitute US, 1966

Vietnam usage.

- The rest of the day was spent in finding a boom-boom girl. — Charles Anderson, The Grunts, p. 159, 1976
- A few minutes later, a boom-boom girl came by and he took her into the bushes. — Roger Hayes, On Point, p. 80, 2000

boom-boom house; boom-boom parlor noun

a brothel US, 1966

- — American Statesman (Austin, Texas), p. A7, 9th January 1966
- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 5, 1968
- He had what he called "Boom-boom Parlors," a common name referring to prostitution in Vietnam. — Kenneth Mertel, Year of the Horse, p. 213, 1968
- A trip to the local boom-boom house not only enabled the three LRP's to relieve a lot of tension, but also provided them with the information that the air force had an enormous amount of beer stored over in their supply center. — Gary Linderer, The Eyes of the Eagle, p. 136, 1991

boom-booms noun

the female breasts US, 2005

- [H]er bare boom-booms are reflected mesmerizingly in the mirror. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin's Skincyclopedia, p. 207, 2005

boom-booms-a-gogo noun

a unit of quad-fifty machine guns US, 1982

Korean war usage.

- — Frank Hailey, Soldier Talk, p. 7, 1982

boom box noun

a large, portable radio and tape player US, 1981

- They measured their warrior cakewalk to a boombox beat as deadly and mechanical as automatic fire. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 18, 1990
- I could hear sirens and boom boxes and Valley kids howling at the moon as if they owned the night. — Armistead Maupin, Maybe the Moon, p. 138, 1992
- And there were a lot of young people on the streets, leaning into cars, chatting, listening to boom boxes. — Joseph Wambaugh, Finnegan's Week, p. 59, 1993
- The normal noises of the Cabrinin-Taylor projects continued to accompany their weekly sexual get together: doors slamming, boom boxes blaring raps, screams, yells, car horns blasting[.] — Odie Hawkins, Amazing Grace, p. 9, 1993 boom-dee-boom *noun*sex US, 1984An embellishment of the more common BOOM-BOOM.

- Some of the boom-dee-boom girls. Some of the owners of the boom-dee-boom clubs. — Wallace Terry, Bloods, p. 123, 1984

boomer *noun1 a nuclear submarine armed with missiles US, 1976

- On the other question, no, they've never recalled all their boomers at once, but they do occasionally reshuffle all their positions at once. — Tom Clancy, The Hunt for Red October, p. 88, 1984

2 a member of the baby boom generation, born between roughly 1945 and 1955 US, 1982

- The boomers have failed to provide or protect or prepare us for any kind of hopeful life. — Empire Records, 1995
- It was all so depressing. Boomers weren't supposed to get old. It sucked. — Joseph Wambaugh, Floaters, p. 138, 1996

3 during aerial refueling, the boom operator on the fueling plane US, 1986

- The bomber pilot's task was then simply to formate within a prescribed envelope while the boomer, the refueling operator, actually flew the patented Boeing boom into the receptacle. — Walter J. Boyne and Steven L. Thompson, The Wild Blue, p. 442, 1986

4 a portable radio, tape player, or CD player US, 1992

- "Hell, man, here we just tryin' to save by for scorin' usselfs a CD boomer!" — Jess Mowry, Way Past Cool, p. 225, 1992

boomerang *noun1 a young person who moves back in with their parents after moving out US, 1997

- Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 26, 1997

2 a repeated offender, a recidivist US, 2002

- Gary K. Farlow, Prison-ese, p. 5, 2002

3 in television and movie making, a device that holds a filter in front of a light US, 1987

- Ira Konigsberg, The Complete Film Dictionary, p. 33, 1987

boomerang *verb*to return to prison shortly after being released US, 1992

- William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, 1992

boomers *noun*large female breasts US, 2005

- Kinked-up Lisa dons a leather outfit that showcases her boomers and buncakes while she drips hot wax on her man-friend. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin's Skincyclopedia, p. 79, 2005

booming *adjective*excellent US, 1990

- Baby was fine, body was boomin', like right outta Jet centerfold o somethin'. — Boyz n The Hood, 1990
- Kenn "Naz" Young, Naz's Dictionary of Teen Slang, p. 13, 1993

boom squad *noun*the group of prison guards who are used to quell disturbances US, 2000

- Depending on whom you ask, the ESU, or "boom squad," is a group of dedicated officers with the toughest job on the island or a bunch of testosterone-fueled thugs who get a rush from brawling with the inmates. — Village Voice, p. 62, 19th December 2000

boon *noun1 a dollar US, 1957

- "Fifty dollars, sweet Jesus, fifty boons you'll never see again, lord have mercy!" — Herbert Simmons, Corner Boy, p. 21, 1957

2 a black person US, 1967

- Possibly reduced from BOON COON (a good friend) or from "baboon." "[A]ll these boons just sat there laughing at me." "Boons?" I said. "What's boons?" "You know," she said. "Black guys." "Why do you call them that?" "I dunno. From 'baboons,' I guess." I didn't say anything. — Lester Bangs, Psychotic Reactions and Carburetor Dung, p. 272, 1978

boon *adjective*close, intimate US, 1969

- They pounded each other on the back. They looked like boon buddies. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 123, 1969

boon coon *noun*a very close friend US, 1958

- He said, "About a month ago, your 'boon coon Party' caught sixty in the county." — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 79, 1969
- That's cool for you. You his boon-coon. — Edwin Torres, Q & A, p. 187, 1977

boondagger *noun*a lesbian with overtly masculine mannerisms and affectations US, 1972

- I was mad at Loren for being loyal to a crazy old boondagger like her instead of someone who really cared about him. — John McManus, Bitter Milk, p. 7, 2005

boondocker *noun*a party held in the country US, 1966

- Current Slang, p. 1, Winter 1966

boondockers *noun*marine-issued combat boots US, 1942

- In preparation for disembarking I'm wearing the following articles: scivie shirt and drawers, long Johns, flannel shirt, utility pants, cold-weather pants, pile-lined vest, park w/hood, gloves and inserts, flannel cap, socks, boondockers[.] — Martin Russ, The Last Parallel, p. 58, 1957

- Kavanaugh lay next to MacCauley, his face dead white, his boondockers smelling of vomit. — Alfred Coppel, The Burning Mountain, p. 211, 1983

- The first thing he saw was the man's shoes, black boondockers, then bell-bottom jeans, then the gym bag and the Uzi. — Stephen Coonts, Final Flight, p. 338, 1988

boondocks *noun*the remote end of nowhere US, 1909

- Schauer told me he saw the accident but it is so far out in the boondocks people were afraid to stop. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 125, 21st June 1964
- [H]e had this thing for a P.R. chick, which in those days was unheard of, so like his uncle kept him in the boondocks. — Edwin Torres, Carlito's Way, p. 22, 1975

boondoggle *noun*a business trip or venture designed for the enjoyment of those involved, not for its stated purpose US, 1935

- It's just a big boondoggle for the Army; they're trying to get the guided missile program away from the Air Force. — Max Shulman, Rally Round the Flag, Boys!, p. 95, 1957

boonie hat; boonie cap *noun*a fatigue hat, made of cotton canvas with a brim around, that kept the sun and rain off the heads of American soldiers in Vietnam US, 1972

- There were four, with AK-47s and cloth boony hats. — William Pefrey, The Big V, p. 144, 1972
- [C]amouflage T-shirts for the kids, stiff-brim drill instructor hats, Ranger boonie hats and combat caps, holsters, binoculars, canteens, knives, and bayonets with sawtooth blades[.] — Elmore Leonard, Bandits, p. 266, 1987
- He was dressed in OD fatigues and a boonie cap. — Gary Linderer, The Eyes of the Eagle, p. 179, 1991
- As the rotor blades picked up speed, I pulled my boonie hat off my head and stuck it in my shirt. — Larry Chambers, Recondo, p. 51, 1992

boonie rat *noun*a soldier serving in the jungle or other remote area US, 1967

- In Vietnam, he goes by an assortment of names—the Grunt, Boonie Rat, Line Dog, Ground Pounder, Hill Humper, or Jarhead. — David Reed, Up Front in Vietnam, p. 3, 1967
- Everyone has always portrayed infantryman, boonierat, as dumb. Everyone, except anyone who has ever been a boonierat. — John M. Del Vecchio, The 13th Valley, p. 121, 1982
- The fort afforded showers, bunkers, private rooms, movies, girls, and enough equipment and supplies to make us boonie rats drool. — David Donovan, Once a Warrior King, p. 217, 1985
- From this point on, with the possible exception of a seven-day rest-and-recuperation (R&R) leave (probably spent somewhere else in Asia), he would live each day of the next year in the surreal, virtually indescribable existence of the "boonie rat." — James L. Estep, Company Commander, Vietnam, p. 22, 1996 boonies *noun*a remote rural area US, 1956An abbreviation of BOONDOCKS.

- Special Forces in remote outposts, boondocks, or "boonies," military slang for just about as far from civilization as you can get. — Elaine Shepard, The Doom Pussy, p. 53, 1967
- In the boonies the whole time? — Ronald J. Glasser, 365 Days, p. 130, 1971

boorrring *adjective*very boring US, 1981

Slang by drawn out pronunciation. From popular entertainment.

- Would you want to drive a truck all day? Boorrring! — C.D. Payne, Youth in Revolt, p. 217, 1993
- Back in the early part of my career, I think Cleveland was the most boring city to go in and play. But now it's one of the hottest cities to go in and play. But when I came into the league, it was boorring. — Denver Post, p. C4, 27th July 2003

boo out *verb*to leave US, 1959

- American Speech, p. 154, May 1959: "Gator (University of Florida) slang" boo-reefer *noun*marijuana US, 1972

- David Claerbaut, Black Jargon in White America, p. 58, 1972

boost *noun1 a theft, especially a car theft US, 1995

- You down with the boost? — Kids, 1995
- MEMPHIS: What kind of job? ATLEY JACKSON: A boost. A big boost. — Gone in 60 Seconds, 2000

2 in poker, an increased or raised bet US, 1988

- George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 12, 1988

3 a background player in a large confidence swindle US, 1985

- M. Allen Henderson, How Con Games Work, p. 218, 1985

► on the boostengaged in shoplifting US, 1962

- Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World's Toughest Prison, p. 810, 1962

boost *verb1 to steal, especially to steal a car or to shoplift US, 1928

- Only thing I can think of is to go in the Business with Ritchie or start boostin'. — William Burroughs, Letters to Allen Ginsberg 1953–1957, p. 67, 13th October 1954
- "Pinched. Jobbed. Swiped. Stole," he says, happily. "You know, man, like somebody boosted my threads." — Ken Kesey, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, p. 94, 1962
- Then there was boostin' in department stores—and there was dice, cards, writin' numbers (single action) for Jackie Cooperman[.] — Edwin Torres, Carlito's Way, p. 14, 1975

- But you can't boost with no shopping bag. — Kate Millett, The Prostitution Papers, p. 116, 1976
- 2 in poker, to increase the amount bet on a hand US, 1967
- — Albert H. Morehead, The Complete Guide to Winning Poker, p. 257, 1967

- ▶ boost one to defecate US, 1992
- — Surfer Magazine, p. 30, February 1992

booster noun

- 1 a thief, especially a shoplifter or car thief US, 1908
- "Boosters," Inspector Smith explained, "pick on out-of-state cars because they know the people are traveling and have a lot of stuff with 'em." — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, 28th June 1949
 - He would have a booster someday. He had made up his mind to that. — Clarence Cooper Jr., The Scene, p. 31, 1960
 - Most male addicts are eventually pimps, boosters, or pushers. — Alexander Trocchi, Cain's Book, p. 158, 1960
 - That was the gang of organized boosters, who would deliver to order, in one day, C.O.D., any kind of garment you desired. — Malcolm X and Alex Haley, The Autobiography of Malcolm X, p. 66, 1964
- 2 a full-time, career thief US, 1977
- — Robert C. Prus and C.R.D. Sharper, Road Hustler, p. 169, 1977
- 3 a criminal who specializes in selling stolen goods US, 1985
- Some Boosters specialize in such wares as jewelry, cars, dope, etc. — Gene Sorrows, All About Carnivals, p. 11, 1985
- 4 a confederate of a cheat who lures players to a card game, carnival concession or other game of chance US, 1906
- — Don Wilmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 30, 1981
 - — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 24, 1987
- 5 an additional dose of a drug taken to prolong intoxication US, 1970
- — William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Upright People, p. 4, 1970

booster fold noun

- a special inside jacket pocket used by shoplifters US, 1972
- With both suits tucked under my armpits in a booster fold, I scanned the moving traffic until I saw an empty cab. — Donald Goines, Whoreson, p. 88, 1972

booster stick noun

- a tobacco cigarette that has been enhanced with marijuana or marijuana extract US, 1973
- — Jay Robert Nash, Dictionary of Crime, p. 40, 1992

boosting bloomers; booster bloomers noun

- underwear designed for concealing merchandise that has been shoplifted US, 1972
- Boots was able to go back to work, so I stopped her from doing any more boosting. Her boosting bloomers were packed away for later use. — Donald Goines, Whoreson, p. 134, 1972
 - Booster Bloomers—a large pair of underclothing worn under the outer pants or dress—can be used to "steal hundreds of dollars' worth of goods in a matter of a few seconds." — San Francisco Examiner, p. 6, 22nd February 1974 boot noun

- 1 a newly enlisted or drafted recruit in the armed services, especially the marines US, 1911
- At 21, Laing, a quiet, dark, and handsome man from Waterloo, Iowa, just a few years out of undergraduate school in engineering at Dubuque's Catholic Loras University, was just a "boot ensign." — Robert K. Wilcox, Scream of Eagles, p. 50, 1990
- 2 a black person US, 1954
- What's wrong with a white broad helping two spades? She's a "boot." She looks like what she is. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 207, 1969
 - One boot got the tom-tom and the other grabbed a flute. — Steve Cannon, Groove, Bang, and Live Around, p. 187, 1969
 - Yet I hadn't seen a boot or a spic. — Robert Deane Pharr, S.R.O., p. 12, 1971
- 3 in the US Army, a second lieutenant US, 1966
- — True, p. 4, 7 July 1966
 - — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 5, 1968
 - I'm a boot lieutenant and that's the lowest thing in the Marine Corps. — Mark Barker, Nam, p. 40, 1981
- 4 amusement or pleasure US, 1979
- Down Atherton way, the peasants are getting a big boot out of the guy who's having a home built on Valparaiso Ave. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 25, 2nd January 1952
 - He got such a boot out of being a big-dog fight manager, he never found out why I couldn't lose weight except in a steam bath. — Rocky Garcia (with Rowland Barber), Somebody Up There Likes Me, p. 261, 1955
 - You'll Get a Real Boot out of this Beauty [Advertisement]. — San Francisco Examiner, p. I-13, 30th March 1956
 - I told her I packed the pipe by mistake and she said she wanted to give it to you anyway since you seemed to get a boot out of it[.] — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, p. 112, 1970
- 5 a bootleg product US, 1999
- He'd copy hits, big ones, Madonna, Elton John, the Spice Girls, and sell the boots down in South America at a discount. — Elmore Leonard, Be Cool, p. 205, 1999
- 6 while injecting a drug intravenously, the drawing of blood into the syringe to mix with the drug US, 1987
- I was just finishing up, the needle still in the vein for one last boot down the old line[.] — Jim Carroll, Forced Entries, p. 47, 1987
- 7 a cigarette US, 1996
- — John Fahs, Cigarette Confidential, p. 301, 1996
- 8 an error, especially in sports US, 1913
- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Live Talk Dictionary, p. 8, 1945

9 a linear amplifier for a citizens' band radio US, 1976

- — Lawrence Teeman, Consumer Guide Good Buddy's CB Dictionary, p. 32, 1976

10 a condom US, 1966

- — John D. Bell et al., Loosely Speaking, p. 3, 1966

11 in television and movie making, a tripod cover US, 1987

- — Ira Konigsberg, The Complete Film Dictionary, p. 33, 1987

12 vomit US, 2006

- "It's clean air—no beer or piss or boot." — Chris Miller, The Real Animal House, p. 136, 2006

In the bootdrunk US, 1980

- Roger got a couple in the boot one night at my house (Roger does not do that anymore, since he made partner) and told me candidly what Grace thought of me[.] — George Higgins, Kennedy for the Defense, p. 62, 1980

boot verb

- 1 while injecting a drug, to draw blood into the syringe, diluting the drug dose so as to prolong the effect of the injection US, 1952
- Just look at me boot it and you will. — Hal Ellson, The Golden Spike, p. 139, 1952
 - "Lou'll turn on next if Fay ever stops booting it." Fay's thick, dark, purplish-red blood rose and fell in the eye-dropper like a column of gory mercury in a barometer. — Alexander Trocchi, Cain's Book, p. 166, 1960
 - The technique, known as "booting," is believed to prolong the drug's initial effect. — James Mills, The Panic in Needle Park, p. 78, 1966
 - And as you feel this goodness take over, you start playing with your blood—that's a kick. You "boot" it awhile. — John Gimenez, Up Tight!, p. 44, 1967
- 2 to kick something, literally or in the slang sense of "breaking a habit" US, 1877
- — Francis J. Rigney and L. Douglas Smith, The Real Bohemia, p. xiii, 1961
 - You think the white folks booted you in the butt? — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), The Naked Soul of Iceberg Slim, p. 203, 1971
 - My girlfriend kicked me out of the apartment, I got booted out of Capitol Records, and somebody wrote "Fag-Mobile" on my gas tank. — Airheads, 1994
- 3 to walk; to patrol on foot US, 1905
- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 27, 1991
- 4 in horse racing, to spur or kick a horse during a race US, 1951
- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 15, 1951
- 5 in a game, to misplay a ball US, 1976
- I think I booted one that should've been a double play[.] — George V. Higgins, The Judgment of Deke Hunter, p. 86, 1976
- 6 to vomit US, 1971
- Booted his insides all over my God damn shoes and my last pair of dry socks. — John Sayles, Union Dues, pp. 57–58, 1977
 - — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Spring 1988
 - Looking uncomfortable and defeated, he turned to his left, meaning to burp, and instead booted all over the back of a brunette we had just been talking to. — Elissa Stein and Kevin Leslie, Chunks, p. 37, 1997
 - Boot on purpose? — Chris Miller, The Real Animal House, p. 88, 2006 boot adjective

- inexperienced and untested US, 1946
- [H]e turned around and saw his boot ensign standing there, giving him the dirtiest kind of look. — Thomas Heggen, Mister Roberts, p. 23, 1946
- boot-and-shoe adjective
- (used of a drug addict) desperately addicted US, 1936
- He said she was "just a boot-and-shoe hype" with a $60-a-day heroin habit. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 12, 9th March 1962

boot and shoe thief noun

- a criminal who robs parking meters using an adjustable key US, 1972
- Now they have on that by just changin' a little dial on it they can use one key and open any meter in any district. We call those kind of thieves "boot and shoe thieves." Where that's derived from is when they start stealing with a boot on one foot and a shoe on the other. — Harry King, Box Man, p. 71, 1972

boot brown bar noun

- a newly promoted second lieutenant US
- I was alliteratively known as the "boot brown-bar," slang for a raw second lieutenant. — Philip Caputo, A Rumor of War, 1977
 - A new marine second lieutenant was a boot brown bar. — Philip Beidler, Late Thoughts on an Old War: The Legacy of Vietnam, p. 30, 2004

booted adjective

- intoxicated by marijuana, or another narcotic drug US, 1995
- We was too booted to see the cops comin'. — Lois Stavsky et al., A2Z: The Book of Rap and Hip-Hop Slang, p. 11, 1995

boot ensign noun

- an inexperienced Navy or Marine Corp recruit in basic training US
- At 21, Laing, a quiet, dark, and handsome man from Waterloo, Iowa, just a few years out of undergraduate school in engineering at Duboué's Catholic Loras University, was just a "boot ensign." — Robert Wilcox, Scream of Eagles, p. 50, 1990

booter noun

- a jockey with an inclination to spur his mount incessantly US, 1959
- The number of riders in America who will give a horse of any age a chance to settle into stride is pitifully few, the great majority being strictly "whoop-de-do" booters who might have been developed by the late Bill Daly. — Daily Racing Form, p. 4, 27th November 1959

booth bimbo; booth bunny noun

an attractive, well-built, sometimes scantily clad woman hired to work in a company's booth during a trade show US, 1989

- Booth bunnies, flashy video displays and tacky giveaways ("Register Here To Win a Free Ounce of Gold") notwithstanding, this is indeed gold's darkest hour. — Boston Globe, p. 73, 31st May 1989
- Did it ever occur to you that the booth bimbos are just as proud of their work as you are proud of being a member of the plastics industry—whatever that is? [Letter to editor] — Plastic News, p. 7, 3rd January 1994
- Women are underrepresented among the professional-managerial types who frequent Comixed and overrepresented among the "booth bunnies," the working girls who hawk wares by looking pretty. — San Francisco Bay Guardian, 29th November 2000

booties noun

1 rubber surf boots US, 1987

- — Mitch McKissick, Surf Lingo, 1987

2 boots, especially knitted boots for a baby US, 1965

- Who cares? You can buy booties. — John Nichols, The Sterile Cuckoo, p. 186, 1965 boot it!; boot it baby!

used as an exhortation to continue US, 1968

- — Hy Lit, Hy Lit's Unbelievable Dictionary of Hip Words for Groovy People, p. 6, 1968

bootleg noun

illegally manufactured alcohol US, 1898

- It used to be a bootleg spot during prohibition[.] — Mickey Spillane, I, The Jury, p. 43, 1947
- We would buy five-gallon containers of bootleg, funnel it into the bottles, then deliver, according to Hymie's instructions, this or that many crates back to the bars. — Malcolm X and Alex Haley, The Autobiography of Malcolm X, p. 124, 1964

bootleg verb

1 to manufacture or provide something illegally US, 1928

- We finally found a guy bootlegging rides and he took us to the project where my sister Dolores lived with her three kids. — Dick Gregory, Nigger, p. 116, 1964

2 to manufacture or distribute illegal alcohol US, 1922

- He used to bootleg whiskey from the mountains[.] — Jack Kerouac, On the Road, p. 215, 1957

3 in roller derby, to deviate from the scripted game plan US, 1999

- A skater who bootlegs is viewed with disfavor, usually accused of showboating. — Keith Coppage, Roller Derby to Roller Jam, p. 126, 1999

bootleg adjective

1 smuggled; illegally copied; unofficial; counterfeit US, 1889

Derives from the practice of carrying a flat bottle of alcohol hidden in a boot leg.

- Another Negro industry is the sale of bootleg booze. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 55, 1951
- He got tagged smuggling a truckload of bootleg cigarettes up from Virginia[.] — Janet Evanovich, Seven Up, p. 3, 2001

2 imitation US, 1893

- Half of the Black "militants" ain't nothing but a bunch of potheads, bootleg preachers and coffeehouse intellectuals. — H. Rap Brown, Die Nigger Die!, p. 104, 1969

3 (used of an action paper) unofficial, advance US, 1986

- — Department of the Army, Staff Officer's Guidebook, p. 56, 1986

bootlegger noun

a manufacturer or a dealer in illegally manufactured alcohol US, 1890

- The bootlegger's product had to be good, and his prices reasonable. — Jim Thompson, Bad Boy, p. 391, 1953

bootlegger turn noun

a 180-degree turn executed while driving fast accomplished by a combination of spinning the wheel, shifting down the gears and accelerating US, 1955

- — American Speech, p. 98, May 1956: "Smugglers' argot in the southwest"
- It was Junior Johnson specifically, however, who was famous for the "bootleg turn" or "about face." — Tom Wolfe, The Kandy-Kolored Tangerine-Flake Streamlined Baby, p. 128, 1965

bootlick verb

to seek favor through obsequious behavior US, 1845

- [A]nd allows the television networks to recover some of the dignity they lose every time they bootlick Lewis until their tongues grow raw and grisly. — Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, p. B2, 9th January 2004

bootlicker noun

a person who seeks favor through obsequious behavior US, 1848

- We got inside, and here come the bootlickers, scared niggers, niggers who were jiving, niggers who were talking shit. — Bobby Seale, Seize the Time, p. 73, 1970
- Seale had come ambivalently, having okayed King's being called a "bootlicker" in Panther newspapers. — Washington Post, p. D1, 10th March 1978
- Of course, he doesn't say the number of listeners Limbaugh has and that they're coast to coast; he just refers to them as bootlickers. [Letter to Editor] — Tampa (Florida) Tribune, p. 10, 8th October 2003

boot mooch noun

a person who is always asking others for a cigarette US, 1996

- — John Fahs, Cigarette Confidential, p. 301, 1996

boots *noun▶ put the boots to

to have sex with someone US, 1933

- I'd rather put the boots to Mrs. A. than Mrs. S. — Screw, p. 9, 18th July 1969

boot scoot verb

to dance side-by-side in a line to country and western music US, 1991

- — American Speech, p. 177, Summer 1994: "Among the new words"

boot suppository noun

any strong measure taken to encourage an obnoxious patient to leave a hospital US, 1994

An image based on a "kick in the ass."

- — Sally Williams, "Strong" Words, p. 135, 1994

bootsy adjective

bad, unpleasant US, 2003

- — San Francisco Chronicle, p. E5, 10th August 2003
- — Rick Ayers (Editor), Berkeley High Slang Dictionary, p. 14, 2004

boot-up noun

a dose of heroin US, 1953

- "How about a boot-up? I got enough dough for a reefer, but I sure could do real good with a couple sniffs of the horse." — Dale Krame, Teen-Age Gangs, p. 55, 1953

boot up verb

1 to prepare for a fight US, 1998

- — Ethan Hilderbrant, Prison Slang, p. 15, 1998

2 to prepare to fight US

- I say boot up or shut up or / Get yo' fuckin' life lit up. — Univ, "6 Baronne Awk Awk," 1994

booty adjective unpleasant; unattractive US, 1997

- — Maybeck High School Yearbook (Berkeley, California), 1997
- — San Francisco Chronicle, p. E5, 10th August 2003

booty; bootyie noun

1 the buttocks US, 1928

- Wine-and-whisky-taster, downtown money-waster / back-binder, booty-grinder, sweetspot-finder. — Dennis Wepman et al., The Life, p. 148, 1976
- Big country bootyie, big country titties. — Boyz N The Hood, 1990
- Breda knew he'd scope out the woman's booty before closing the door, and he did. — Joseph Wambaugh, Fugitive Nights, p. 45, 1992

2 the vagina US, 1925

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin' down some lines, p. 230, 1980

booty bandit noun

an aggressive, predatory male homosexual US, 1962

- Fat Rat had a reputation for being a "booty bandit" and thrived on weak men with tight asses. — Sanyika Shakur, Monster, p. 293, 1993
- Inmates subject to rape ("punks") face threats and violence perpetrated by stronger inmates ("daddies," "jockers," or "booty bandits") who initiate unwanted sexual acts. — Corrections Today, p. 100, December 1996

booty bump noun

the rectal ingestion of a drug US, 2006

- Booty bump: A hit of drug, such as crystal meth, taken rectally, usually as a prelude to high-risk casual sex. — Emma Taylor, Em and Lo's Rec Sex, p. 23, 2006

booty bump verb

to ingest drugs, usually methamphetamine, diluted in an enema US, 2002

Collected from a recovering methamphetamine addict in Los Angeles, 2002.

booty-bust verb

to play the active role in anal sex US, 2000

- "I can think of something worse than being booty-busted." — Paul Beatty, Tuff, p. 150, 2000

booty call noun

a date made for the sole purpose of engaging in sex US, 1997

- — Judi Sanders, Da Bomb!, p. 4, 1997
- Just another B.C.—booty call—to be made on weekends. — Eric Jerome Dickey, Cheaters, p. 29, 1999
- He cruises the streets of L.A. in one long booty call. — Ana Loria, 1 2 3 Be A Porn Star!, p. 111, 2000

booty-chokers noun

very tight pants US, 1994

- I will admit he [R. Kelly] had too many girls in booty-chokers, shaking their butts on the screen. — k12.chat.senior, 10th December 1994

booty drought noun

a sustained lack of sex US, 1989

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 23, 1989

booty hole noun

the anus US, 1998

- This meant pulling my ass cheeks apart while they looked in my booty hole. — Renay Jackson, Oaktown Devil, p. 89, 1998

booty juice noun

the drug MDMA, the recreational drug best known as ecstasy, dissolved in any liquid US, 1997

- — Jim Crotty, How to Talk American, p. 87, 1997

bootylicious adjective sexually attractive, especially with reference to the buttocks US, 2001

A compound of BOOTY (the buttocks) and "delicious."

- I don't think you / Ready for this / 'Cause my body too / Bootylicious for ya babe. — Destiny's Child, Bootylicious, 2001

booty rock noun

crack cocaine hidden in a person's rectum US

- And if they got booty rock, it's your job to deal with it. — Joseph Wambaugh, Hollywood Moon, p. 17, 2009

booze noun

alcoholic drink of any kind US, 1859

In Australia generally referring to beer.

- Betty [Ford] herself was America's First Lady when booze got a grip on her[.] — Drugs: An Adult Guide, p. 31, December 2001

booze and broads noun

a leave for rest and recuperation US, 1991

- Leave B&B (Booze and Broads) See R&R. — Dave Zorn, Dinky Dau: Love, War and the Corp: A Vietnam War Memoir, p. 135, 2001
- Always some time, though, for rest and relaxation, a little I&I (intercourse and intoxication) or B&B (booze and broads). — Carol Burke, Camp All-American, Hanoi Jane, and the High-and-Tight, p. 111, 2004

booze balloon noun

a heavy drinker's protruding stomach US, 1979

- That's a booze balloon around his middle region, and his shoulders slope a bit. — Robert J. Williams, Skin Deep, p. 17, 1979

boozed; boozed up adjective

drunk US, 1737

First recorded by amateur slang lexicographer Benjamin Franklin in 1737.

- I know you've been cutting down, but you can't be boozed up or have a hangover on this job. — Jim Thompson, After Dark, My Sweet, p. 42, 1955
- It's kind of hard to tell with him—he acts boozed up sometimes even when he's sober. — S.E. Hinton, The Outsiders, p. 27, 1967
- At that same moment, in the bedroom of Erica's flat, boozed Baptiste has the problem of dressing for a grocery shopping trip with Erica. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Doom Fox, p. 102, 1978
- "You know in While the City Sleeps, he was so boozed up they had to write it into the character." — John Ridley, Love is a Racket, p. 60, 1998

booze freak noun

an alcoholic US, 1968

- And we all know what the world can expect from Kennedy booze-freaks. — Hunter S. Thompson, Fear and Loathing in America, p. 48, 26th March 1968: Letter to Oscar Acosta

boozehound noun

an alcoholic US, 1911

- Her mother was married again to some booze hound. — J.D. Salinger, Catcher in the Rye, p. 32, 1951
- The booze hounds just make a man a lot of trouble for no fun. — Raymond Chandler, The Long Goodbye, p. 3, 1953
- I can't read a list of my academic credentials to every booze-hound that comes in the place. — 48 Hours, 1982
- "He was a booze hound," I said. "A perpetual drunk." — John Ridley, Love is a Racket, p. 60, 1998

boozer noun

a drinker of alcohol; a habitual drinker; an alcoholic US, 1606

- That was the only way to bring back to life the sodden, shaky boozers. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Chicago Confidential, p. 53, 1950
- These are the boozers who still have entree to the better clubs but no credit whatever. — Robert Sylvester, No Cover Charge, p. 231, 1956
- You hit the liver and it doesn't give, you know the guy was a boozer, had cirrhosis. — Elmore Leonard, Bandits, p. 13, 1987

booze-rooster noun

a heavy drinker US, 1962

- The way she talks, you'd think I was a regular booze-rooster. — M.K. Joseph, Pound of Saffron, p. 253, 1962

booze snooze noun

a nap taken in anticipation of a night of drinking US, 2004

- — Ben Applebaum and Derrick Pittman, Turd Ferguson & The Sausage Party, p. 9, 2004

bop noun

1 liveliness, spirit, rhythm US, 1997

- My father also didn't want any of us to be cool. "I noticed when you walked in here you had a little bop in your walk. No bopping around here." — Chris Rock, Rock This!, p. 45, 1997

2 a member of a youth gang US, 1958

- Heart, as the bop defines it, is audacity, devil-may-care disregard for self and consequences. — Harrison E. Salisbury, The Shook-up Generation, p. 25, 1958
- But the alienation of the Negro poor is such that the "hustler" or "bop" or unwed ADC mother, the members of the "deviant subculture," often respond with an attitude of "include me out." — Kenneth Clark, Dark Ghetto, p. 49, 1965

3 phenacyclidine, the recreational drug known as PCP or angel dust US, 1995

- — Maria Hinojas, Crews, p. 166, 1995

4 nonsense US, 1973

- "Yeah, you talk all that off the wall bop," Roger stammered. — Joseph Nazel, Black Cop, p. 104, 1974

5 a youth gang fight US, 1962

- Third is a "bop." That can be a small group, five, ten, twenty guys from one team, having it out with the same number from a different team. — Lewis Yablonsky, The Violent Gang, p. 78, 1962

▶ on the bop involved in youth gang activity US, 1949

- On the bop—on the prowl for street brawling. — William Bernard, Jailbait, p. 81, 1949

bop verb

1 to move with rhythm US, 1959

- Hobie put the box in and slammed the trunk lid down and the two bopped away. — John Sayles, Union Dues, p. 11105, 1977
- Glenn would listen to the two morons and watch Maurice bopping around from table to table giving brothers, the brother handshake, touch fists in their ritual ways, Maurice the hipster, a dude black felt cap set on his head, just right, and shades. — Elmore Leonard, Out of Sight, p. 287, 1996

2 to have sex with someone US, 1974

- Your dick been limp for a year, 'cept when you're bopping your buddy Tony up there. — Platoon, 1986
- It's all that accountant-meets-cowboy, muscle-beach-bop-in-the-surf shit that they churn out on the West Coast at the rate of four miles of celluloid a day. — Jim Carroll, Forced Entries, p. 39, 1987

3 to engage in gang fighting US, 1950

- What were you doing, bopping it up? — Hal Ellison, Tomboy, p. 122, 1950
- The Cobras are an active "bopping" or street-fighting club which has its base in one of the older Brooklyn housing projects. — Harrison E. Salisbury, The Shook-up Generation, p. 19, 1958
- She's the head guy's deb. You stick your nose in there any more, the Mau Maus'll slice it off. My information is they're all set up to go bopping. — Man's Magazine, p. 12, February 1960
- The gang reverted to a "bopping"—i.e., a fighting and generally hell-raising—pattern. — Isidor Chein, The Road to H, p. 187, 1964

4 to hit someone, to beat someone US, 1928

- [I] hung around with a crew up there setting fire to mansions early in the morning and bopping skinheads. — Jamie Mandelkav, Buttons, p. 30, 1971

5 in team gambling, to move to a card table identified by a confederate counting cards there to be primed for better-than-average odds US, 1985

- — Steve Kuriscak, Casino Talk, p. 5, 1985

bop glasses noun

horn-rimmed eye glasses US, 1958

From the style favored by bop jazz musicians.

- "Bop glasses," or simply "bops," were affected by many, often with tinted "windowpane" lenses. — Ira Gitler, The Masters of Bebop, p. 80, 2001

bop 'n slop verb to lose your inhibitions and enjoy yourself at a party US, 1968

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 87, 1968

bop off verb

to leave US, 1959

- — American Speech, p. 154, May 1959: "Gator (University of Florida) slang"

bopper noun

1 a preteen or young teenager US, 2005

An abbreviation of TEENYBOPPER.

- Mobs of boppers would subway into Times Square at school break to purchase fake I.D.'s. — Josh Friedman, When Sex Was Dirty, p. 13, 2005

2 a fighter, especially a gang fighter US, 1958

- You're not only expected to talk like a bopper, but to think like one, too. — Morton Cooper, High School Confidential, p. 13, 1958
- I owed them nine more years, which they'd probably make me do if I joined up with the boppers. — Piri Thomas, Down These Mean Streets, p. 282, 1967
- Annette smiled and turned to face the crowd: high-school and college dropouts, ex-Muslims, cons, boppers and bullshit hustlers with their dates[.] — Steve Cannon, Groove, Bang, and Jive Around, p. 4, 1969

3 a song in the style of bebop jazz US, 1965

- Fifteen years ago he got caught with very little of what Charlie Parker and Dizzy were doing, and until he began recording boppers fast, he lost some bread as modern jazz became moderately popular. — Nat Hentoff, Jazz Country, p. 110, 1965

boppers noun

shoes US, 1975

- — American Speech, p. 56, Spring—Summer 1975: "Razorback slang"

boppy adverb

in an affected gang manner US, 1967

- You dig people watching you an' walk a little more boppy. — Piri Thomas, Down These Mean Streets, pp. 58–59, 1967

Borax noun

any low quality retail merchandise that is impressive on first glance US, 1929

- — Rachel S. Epstein and Nina Lieberman, Biz Speak, p. 25, 1986

border noun

a capsule of a non-commercial barbiturate compound US, 1971

- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 39, 1971
- — Edith A. Folb, runnin' down some lines, p. 230, 1980

border brother noun

a Mexican national living in the United States. The term may also apply to a member of the Border Brothers prison gang, established in US, 1994

- There were plenty of "border brothers," Mexican nationals in cowboy hats, boots, and hand-tooled leather belts." — Joseph Wambaugh, Harbor Nocturne, p. 39, 2012

border work noun

subtle markings on the printed edge of the back of a playing card for identification of the card by a cheat US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 12, 1988

Boro noun

- a Marlboro™ cigarette US, 1996
- John Fahs, Cigarette Confidential, p. 301, 1996

boro-boros noun

- old clothes worn for dirty tasks US, 1981
- Hawaiian youth usage.
- Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max, 1981

borrow verb

- to steal US, 1821
- Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 31, 1949
- Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 135, 1989

borsch!

- used for expressing disgust US, 1968
- Fred Hester, Slang on the 40 Acres, p. 10, 1968

Borscht Belt noun

- a group of resort hotels in the Catskill Mountains of the eastern US with a primarily Jewish clientele US, 1941

Alluding to the cold beet soup “borscht” because of the eastern European heritage of many of the Jewish guests US, 1949

- American Speech, December 1949
- It is hard to believe that anybody is unfamiliar with New York’s Borscht Belt. Books, movies, plays and TV skits have centered around this vacationland in Sullivan County, about 100 miles north of New York City. — San Francisco News Call-Bulletin, p. 6, 22nd December 1962
- Damon Runyon described it [Grossinger’s] as Lindy’s with trees. It has also been called the ancestral home of the bagel, the pride of the “Borscht Belt,” the Waldorf of the Catskills. — San Francisco Examiner and Chronicle, p. 11 (Travel), 25th February 1973
- The Emcee was a slimy, bald exile from the Borscht Belt. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 313, 1990

Borscht circuit noun

- the Borscht belt US, 1936
- Great for a couple of lads who, when we first knew them owned one Catskills’ Borscht Circuit hotel. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 35, 21st June 1966

boson noun

- in computing, an imaginary concept, the smallest possible unit measuring the bogus content of something US, 1997

- Andy Ihnatko, Cyberspeak, p. 29, 1997

boss adjective

- very good, excellent US, 1873

The word was around for 70 years before taking off, it was popular beyond description in 1965 and 1966.

- Even the kids who aren’t full-time car nuts themselves will be influenced by which car is considered “boss.” They use that word a lot, “boss.” — Tom Wolfe, The Kandy-Kolored Tangerine-Flake Streamline Baby, p. 80, 1964
- Of all the people I have spoken to, only one person really thought they (beach movies) were “boss” (great) and that was my 10-year-old kid sister. [Letter to the Editor] — Life, p. 59, 6th August 1965
- They left the joint and “Willie” knew that he’d scored, when she ushered him into a chauffeur-driven limousine and to a boss pad in the East Seventies. — Babs Gonzales, I Paid My Dues, p. 101, 1967
- Don’t you think the Beach Boys are boss? — American Graffiti, 1973

boss Charley noun

- a white person or white people collectively US, 1967

- It doesn’t matter, the end result, as long as trick Whitey, fuck up Boss Charley. — Lenny Bruce, The Essential Lenny Bruce, p. 12, 1967

boss game noun

- a highly developed, status-conscious sense of style US, 1975

- Rembrandt, Remington, ain’t no difference, man. It all mounts to the same thing—Boss game. — Charles W. Moore, A Brick for Mister Jones, p. 113, 1975

boss hoss noun

- an admired, popular man US, 1968

- Hy Lit, Hy Lit’s Unbelievable Dictionary of Hip Words for Groovy People, p. 6, 1968

boss player noun

- a pimp with flair, style and success US, 1981

- He talked game with him at every chance, lectured him on the pimping code, instilled contempt for the small-time popcorns and respect for the real boss players[.] — Alix Shulman, On the Stroll, p. 56, 1981

Boston coffee noun

- coffee with a lot of cream or milk US, 1958

- “Do you like Boston Coffee?” she asked the young man brightly. “You mean coffee with a lot of cream?” “Half cream, half coffee,” she informed him. — Terry Southern, Flash and Filigree, p. 109, 1958

Boston Glob nickname

- the Boston Globe newspaper US, 1981

- CoEvolution Quarterly, p. 27, Spring 1981

Boston marriage noun

- an arrangement in which two women live together in an outwardly platonic relationship US, 2001

- So-called “Boston marriages,” intense but ostensibly nonsexual relationships between two women, were well recognized, and in fact, self-consciously survive. — Jeffrey Weeks, Same Sex Intimacies, p. 54, 2001
- To fulfill this longing, many of us have created a version of the “Boston marriage,” making romantic friendships where we daily experience true love. — bell hooks, Communion, p. 212, 2002

Boston tea party noun

- a sexual fetish in which the sadist defecates or urinates on the masochist US, 1967

- Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 31, 1967
- Robert A. Wilson, Playboy’s Book of Forbidden Words, pp. 46–47, 1972
- Thomas Murray and Thomas Murrell, The Language of Sadomasochism, p. 43, 1989

both ways noun

- a bet in craps both that the shooter will win and that the shooter will lose US, 1950

In craps, gamblers can bet that the shooter will win, that he will lose, or both.

- The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, p. 120, May 1950

► go both ways

- 1 to be willing to play both the active and passive role in homosexual sex US, 1972

- All the punks go both ways, the queens don’t. — Bruce Jackson, In the Life, p. 400, 1972
- “Some guys go both ways, stud. No offense.” He retreats. — John Rechy, Rushes, p. 99, 1979

- 2 to be bisexual US, 1988

- “Two of the guys went both ways, she told me.” — Roger Blake, Love Clubs, Inc., p. 149, 1967
- You trying to tell me if I don’t like spiders it means I go both ways? — Elmore Leonard, Freaky Deaky, p. 30, 1988

bottle noun

- 1 a dose of crack cocaine, whether or not it is actually in a small bottle US, 1992

- In Tunney, crack came in tinfoil because it was easier to hide and cheaper to package, but out of habit everybody still called it bottles. — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 190, 1992

- 2 a small container of amphetamine or methamphetamine in liquid form US, 1980

- National Institute on Drug Abuse, What do they call it again?, 1980

- 3 a police officer US, 1966

- “A poor neighborhood, no one’s got nothing; a class neighborhood, the bottles bust you on sight.” — Malcolm Braly, It’s Cold Out There, p. 71, 1966

► the bottle, big house, or box

- in twelve-step recovery programs such as Alcoholics Anonymous, used as a description of the three options for an addict who does not recover from their addiction—a return to drinking, prison, and death US, 1998

- Christopher Cavanaugh, AA to Z, p. 59, 1998

bottle baby noun

- an alcoholic US, 1925

- We were on another plane in another sphere compared to the musicians who were bottle babies, always hitting the jug and then coming up bawling after they got loaded. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 94, 1946
- The dregs of society hang out here, and hustlers of both sexes intermingle with short-con men, narcotics pushers, junkies, and plain bottle babies who booze their way through life. — Johnny Shearer, The Male Hustler, p. 55, 1966
- “There’s no use denying I’m a bottle baby.” — Robert Deane Pharr, S.R.O., p. 200, 1971 bottle blonde noun

- a person whose blonde hair is the result of bleach, not nature US, 1951

- She was a real bottle-yellow blonde in a green dress that went on like a bathrobe. — Mickey Spillane, The Long Wait, p. 23, 1951
- He brings in this bottle-blond sissy, it was like getting a righteous college degree in fruitiness. — James Ellroy, White Jazz, p. 52, 1992

bottle-cap colonel noun

- a lieutenant colonel in the US Army US, 1986

Vietnam war usage. From the insignia.

- I don’t have time to tell you about it; I’ve got a bottle-cap colonel named Homer Kising coming over to brief you. — Walter Boyne and Steven Thompson, The Wild Blue, p. 450, 1986

bottle club noun

- a business disguised as a club in an attempt to circumvent alcohol laws US, 1951

- A bottle club is a resort which gets around the law which provides that all liquor dispensaries shall close at 2 a.m. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 11, 1951
- The Seventy-seventh Precinct, like all ghetto precincts, teams with illegal bottle clubs[.] — Robert Daley, Prince of the City, p. 188, 1978

bottle dealer noun

- a drug dealer who sells pills in large quantities US, 1971

- Edward R. Bloomquist, Marijuana, p. 334, 1971

bottle up and go verb

- to leave US, 1947

- Marcus Hanna Boulware, Jive and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947

bottom noun

- 1 the pimp’s favorite of the prostitutes working for him US, 2002

An abbreviation of BOTTOM BITCH or BOTTOM LADY.

- His bottom was Rudy, a seasoned ho from Georgia. — Tracy Funches, Pimpnosis, p. 98, 2002

- 2 the submissive partner in a homosexual or sado-masochistic relationship US, 1961

- If he is said to be “tops,” it means that he will assume only the active partnership in sodomy, while if he is called “tops or bottoms,” he will assume either the so-called male or female role in sodomy. — New York Mattachine Newsletter, p. 6, June 1961

- No professional top pushes the limits of a bottom much beyond this point. — Frederique Delacoste, Sex Work, p. 51, 1987
- “You have contempt for bottoms, don’t you?” — Ethan Morden, Some Men Are Lookers, p. 174, 1997
- According to no less an authority than the Marquis de Sade, there is only one hierarchy in the world: tops and bottoms. Those who like to administer pain and/or sexual pleasure are the tops. Those who like to receive are the bottoms. — Bill Brownstein, Sex Carnival, p. 75, 2000

Bottom nickname

- Miami, Florida US, 1991
- Police say the Miami Boys had such a leader in Atlanta in Theophilus Lujan “Big Wheel” Roker, 28, a Miami native who is suspected of recruiting personnel, drugs and weapons from “The Bottom”—street slang for Miami. — Atlanta (Georgia) Journal and Constitution, p. D1, 4th March 1991

bottom bitch noun

the pimp’s favorite of the prostitutes working for him; the leader of the prostitutes US, 1967

- Oliver had assured her that she was his top bitch but demanded to know why she couldn’t catch as many dates as Alice, his bottom bitch. — Joseph Wambaugh, Floaters, p. 67, 1996
- Now, that’s bottom bitch right there. — Hustle and Flow, 2004 bottom fisher noun

a stock investor looking for stocks with a poor recent showing US, 1988

- — Kathleen Odean, High Steppers, Fallen Angels, and Lollipops, p. 86, 1988

bottom girl noun

the pimp’s favorite of the prostitutes working for him; the leader of the prostitutes US, 1973

- It would just keep me too busy, and I wouldn’t have the time to be free. That is, unless I had a top-notch bottom girl to check the traps for me. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 82, 1973

bottom half noun

the second six months of a tour of duty in Vietnam US

- Then March and forecast time and then the slide down the bottom half of the tour. — Bryan Dubois, Reflection of Home, p. 47, 21 December 1965

bottom lady noun

the pimp’s favorite of the prostitutes working for him US, 1981

- A sophisticated lady from Virginia, at twenty-eight she was the bottom lady of Sweet Rudy, and an old hand in the life. — Alix Shulman, On the Stroll, p. 133, 1981

bottom line noun

the final analysis US, 1967

- Bottom line? Elyse turns into Iceland and Eddie’s not the type to look elsewhere. — Diner, 1982 bottom man noun

the passive partner in a homosexual relationship US, 1972

- — Bruce Rodgers, The Queens’ Vernacular, p. 36, 1972
- His “bottom-men” must be equally masculine. — John Rechy, Rushes, p. 26, 1979
- Bottom man is the masochist in an S/M relationship (antonym: top man). The term refers exclusively to the hierarchical contrast of the two partners, one subject to the other, and need not correspond to the actual physical position. — Wayne Dynes, Homolexis, p. 25, 1985

bottoms noun

1 dice that have been marked to have two identical faces US, 1962

- — Frank Garcia, Marked Cards and Loaded Dice, p. 265, 1962

2 the worst US, 1955

- I’ve had it. This is bottoms. I’m really locked. — Max Shulman, Guided Tour of Campus Humor, p. 105, 1955

bottom’s up noun

a common position for anal and/or vaginal sex, in which the passive partner lies on their stomach US, 1960

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 31, 1967
- — Bruce Rodgers, The Queens’ Vernacular, p. 90, 1972

bottom woman noun

the pimp’s favorite of the prostitutes working for him; the leader of the prostitutes US, 1969

- There ain’t more than three or four good bottom women promised a pimp in his lifetime. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 215, 1969
- A pimp with several women usually has a favorite or “number one” or “bottom woman.” — Charles Winick, The Lively Commerce, p. 112, 1971
- My bottom woman, Sandy—she’s been with me the longest—takes care of most of my business and helps me make decisions. — Susan Hall, Gentleman of Leisure, p. 10, 1972
- — Ruth Todasco et al., The Intelligent Woman’s Guide to Dirty Words, p. 2, 1973

bougie; bouji; bouge adjective

bourgeois US, 1975

- Kenny Freeman was the one who came from the bougie family. — Bobby Seale, Seize the Time, p. 25, 1970
- I pay you a thousand dollars a week and you can’t even get one bougie niggal! — Charles W. Moore, A Brick for Mister Jones, p. 62, 1975
- Very “bouge” looking, which is an accomplishment[.] — Kate Millett, The Prostitution Papers, p. 117, 1976
- That didn’t make Daymond happy, his bougie neighbors thinking he was a rapper. — John Ridley, Everybody Smokes in Hell, p. 37, 1999

boulder; boulders noun

crack cocaine; a piece of crack cocaine US, 1998

Built on the rock metaphor.

- — Ethan Hilderbrant, Prison Slang, p. 15, 1998

boulder baby noun

a crack cocaine addict US, 2002

From the rock metaphor.

- — Gary K. Farlow, Prison-ese, p. 6, 2002

boulevard noun

a long, straight hallway US, 1965

- They’d take us downstairs in the boulevard and strip us naked. — Henry Williamson, Hustler, 1965

boulevard boy noun

a young male prostitute in an urban setting US, 1986–1987

- — Maledicta, p. 145, Summer/Winter 1986–1987: “Sexual slang: prostitutes, pedophiles, flagellators, transvestites, and necrophiles”

bounce noun

1 a brainstorming session US, 1984

- Bounce, she thought with a weak smile, that’s what they call it. Bounce is cop vernacular for a brainstorm session. — Michael Slade, Headhunter, p. 313, 1984

2 a jail or prison sentence US, 1957

- Hopefully I look for a 3 to 5 bounce. — James Blake, The Joint, p. 161, 7th January 1957
- With their priors, they’re looking at a serious bounce. — Gone in 60 Seconds, 2000

3 an instance of sexual intercourse US, 1953

- An invitation to the waltz. The signorina desires a bounce! — Edwin Gilbert, The Hat and the Cool, p. 11, 1953

bounce verb

1 to maintain order in a bar or nightclub, ejecting people from the premises if necessary US, 1874

- [T]here’s nothing much can be done about it, because the muddled situation of District law and law enforcement makes it impossible to bounce that sort of undesirables[.] — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 14, 1951
- He cut her off with the wave of a hand. “A bouncer’s job is to bounce. I pay that asshole good money!” — Carl Hiaasen, Strip Tease, p. 22, 1993

2 to leave US, 1996

- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 1, March 1996
- — Newsday, p. B2, 11th October 1997

3 (used of a message sent electronically) to return to the sender, undeliverable as addressed US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 75, 1991

4 to pay; to provide without charge US, 1970

- I think she’d bounce for a free meal if the boss isn’t there. — Joseph Wambaugh, The New Centurions, p. 245, 1970

5 to activate a car’s suspension system so as to cause the car to bounce up and down US, 1980

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin’ down some lines, p. 230, 1980

6 to socialize, to carouse US, 1985

- “The rest of the week she was usually busy with the kids and I did my bouncing with the crew and took Linda along.” — Nicholas Pileggi, Wise Guy, p. 144, 1985
- I would need an apartment, car, money to bounce around with, and so on. — Joseph Pistone, Donnie Brasco, p. 41, 1987

bouncer noun

a person, usually a strong man, employed to maintain and restore order in a bar, restaurant, club or performance US, 1865

In the UK, “bouncers” collectively are THE BOUNCE. John Godber’s all-male cast play about UK nightlife Bouncers (1984) is a classic of the contemporary British theatre and one of the most performed plays in the English language.

- [W]hen your friends come around asking for you they don’t get thrown out by the bouncer for not spending enough loot[.] — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 198, 1946
- As the years gather on him, his personal temper seems to be cooling, but when he was younger and even more nervous he never needed a bouncer in any of his cafes. — Robert Sylvester, No Cover Charge, p. 104, 1956
- The bouncers took care of them in a hurry and a few were hustled out lengthwise. — Mickey Spillane, Me, Hoodl, p. 63, 1963
- I used to be the head bouncer here back in the 70s. — The Blues Brothers, 1980
- The go-go whore starts yelling I owe her five bucks and this bouncer come running over. — Elmore Leonard, Maximum Bob, p. 1, 1991

bounce shot noun

in a dice game, a type of controlled shot by a skilled cheat US, 1950

- — The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, p. 121, May 1950

bouncing Betty noun

a land-mine first used in World War 2, prevalent in Vietnam, that bounces waist high and then sprays shrapnel when triggered US, 1943

- “It’s a Bouncing Betty” he said. “Is that the one that jumps into the air and then blows up?” Redding asked. — David Reed, Up Front in Vietnam, p. 93, 1967
- Kurt gritted his teeth, but kept on talking about a trooper who’d frozen on a pull-release bouncing betty. — Ronald J. Glasser, 365 Days, p. 14, 1971
- He was going to take a patrol out in the morning and said he hoped they did not trip any Bouncing Betties. His last company commander had been hit by one. — Philip Caputo, A Rumor of War, p. 229, 1977

bouncy-bouncy noun

sexual intercourse US, 1993

- — Kenn “Naz” Young, Naz’s Dictionary of Teen Slang, p. 13, 1993

bounty hunter noun
a police officer who measures success by the number of arrests made US, 1975

- If he was eager to make a reputation as a knight in blue or to install himself as a “bounty hunter,” a cop who’d arrest his own mother, Sepe never showed these traits then[.] — John Sepe, Cop Team, p. 41, 1975

bouquet straight noun
in poker, a sequenced hand comprised of all red or all black suits, but not a flush US, 1996
It looks impressive, but is worth no more than any nonflush straight.

- — John Vorhaus, The Big Book of Poker Slang, p. 8, 1996

‘bout it adjective

- in agreement US, 2003
- Your body, your body is pure gold / Is you ‘bout it, ‘bout it?’ — Partynextdoor, “Bout It,” 2014

bow noun
the elbow US, 1980
Elbows used to establish position are a key part of the anatomy in basketball.

- — Chuck Wielgus and Alexander Wolff, The In-Your-Face Basketball Book, p. 30, 1980

bow-and-arrow adjective not armed with a pistol US, 1984

- Keenan was currently assigned to the “bow-and-arrow squad,” which meant that he would not be allowed to carry a gun until such time as his attitude improved. — Thomas Larry Adcock, Precinct 19, p. 38, 1984

bowl noun
a pipe for smoking marijuana, hashish, or crack cocaine US, 1974

- Jeff and I smoked a couple of bowls and then went to a screening of the new Friday the 13th movie. — Bret Easton Ellis, Less Than Zero, p. 130, 1985
- I’m at my best after some methical or a bowl of sense[.] — Tone Loc, Cheeba Cheeba, 1989
- And every day George would come home from work, she’d have a big fat bowl waiting for him, man, when’d come in the door, man. — Dazed and Confused, 1993
- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 44, 1997

bowlegged adjective
1 (of prison sentences) concurrent US, 1990

- Ring’s public defender argued till he was blue in the face, and the judge relented just a little, running the deuces [two-year sentences] bowlegged instead, as in concurrent. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 85, 1990

2 (of prison sentences) consecutive US, 2002

- “Running wild?” “Yeah, daw—bowlegged sentences, y’understan’ what I’m saying?” — Jimmy Lerner, You Got Nothing Coming, p. 60, 2002 bowl over verb

to kill US, 1969

- He recalled an old homicide buddy called Johnny Whales (phonetic), who “bowed over” people in the old days. — Ovid Demaris, Captive City, p. 66, 1969

bowser noun
a dog US, 1965

- Letch thought about slipping the bowser some barbiturates but was afraid it might croak. He didn’t want an OD’d Scottie on his conscience. — Joseph Wambaugh, Floaters, p. 10, 1996

bowser bag noun
a container used by restaurants to package unfinished meals to be taken home by diners US, 1965

- A variation on the more common DOGGY BAG.
- Whereupon the child asked, “Father, if you were in a warehouse and you couldn’t finish, would it be permissible to ask for a bowser bag to take the leftovers home?” — Tom Robbins, Another Roadside Attraction, p. 47, 1971

bow-wow noun
a “dog,” literally and in its slang senses US, 1935

- [T]he network wants to burn off as soon as possible a series it considers to be a real bow-wow[.] — Washington Post, p. C14, 18th August 1983
- “A bow-wow,” Purdue said. “Thirty to one on the morning line.” — Robert Campbell, Juice, p. 2, 1988
- That’s when Letch devised the scheme to pee on the tree and drive the little bowwow bonkers. — Joseph Wambaugh, Floaters, p. 11, 1996
- Judge Reinhold, whose career has spiraled downhill ever since Home Alone, stars in the direct-to-video installment of the St. Bernard series. It’s a real bow-wow. — Boston Globe, p. N9, 23rd July 2003

box noun
1 the vagina; a woman UK, 1605

- I grabbed her by the shoulders, kissed her, and right quick from some instinctive sense shoved my hand right up her dress and came up with her box shining golden in the golden sun. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Neal Cassidy, p. 298, 10th January 1951
- She has no cherry, but she thinks it’s no sin / for she still has the box that the cherry came in. — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 229, 1964
- The broad was there in a short skirt with no drawers; when the guard wasn’t looking—zip—she flashed her box, now you see it, now you don’t—like the guy in the raincoat on the subway. — Edwin Torres, Carlito’s Way, p. 123, 1975
- Are the billboards around town promoting Kool cigarettes’ flip-top box in poor taste, pornographic—or neither? The ones that show a young woman in bathing attire floating in an inner tube under the caption: “Coolest box around.” — San Francisco Examiner, p. 37, 15th September 1976

2 a jail or prison US, 1995

Usually heard as “the box.”

- — Bill Valentine, Gang Intelligence Manual, p. 130, 1995

3 a cell used for solitary confinement US, 1976

- — John R. Armore and Joseph D. Wolfe, Dictionary of Desperation, p. 21, 1976

4 a safe US, 1902

- Can you bust a box, if you have to? — Robert Edmond Alter, Carny Kill, p. 102, 1966
- I was supposed to be the best box-man in the country and as I look back, I must have busted four hundred boxes and lifted more than a million. — Red Rudensky, The Gonif, p. 6, 1970
- What they weigh depends on the box you’re going after. — Bruce Jackson, Outside the Law, p. 91, 1972
- I’m thinking about my own place, Nicky. Would you be able to put a box in? — Vincent Patrick, The Pope of Greenwich Village, p. 9, 1979

5 a guitar US, 1911

May also refer to a banjo.

- — Robert S. Gold, A Jazz Lexicon, p. 35, 1964
- — David Powis, The Signs of Crime, 1977

6 a piano US, 1908

- — Arnold Shaw, Lingo of Tin-Pan Alley, p. 8, 1950
- This gave me a stronger urge to blow piano, or blow a box, as they used to say. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 229, 1965

7 a record player UK, 1924

- [A] record player is a “box”[.] — Harrison E. Salisbury, The Shook-up Generation, p. 161, 1958
- If you have a box I’ll bring them in. — Jack Kerouac, Jack Kerouac Selected Letters 1957–1969, p. 170, 28th August 1958; Letter to Allen Ginsberg
- [W]hy did Lester [Bangs] mention that El Cajon means “The Box”? Was it because “box” is old hipster slang for record player[?] — Greil Marcus, Psychotic Reactions and Carburetor Dung, 1986

8 a large, portable radio and tape player US, 1985

A shortened GHETTO BOX.

- He was no legal scholar but even he knew the kids call a ghetto blaster a box. — Andrew Vachas, Flood, p. 342, 1985

9 television US, 1950

Usually after “the.”

- He came on the box early, drummed home the law and order theme, honored his cops and firemen. — Sidney Bernard, This Way to the Apocalypse, p. 72, 1968

10 a polygraph machine US, 1991

- On the night that Yolanda passes the box, there is a homecoming of sorts when McLarney returns to Kavanaugh’s[s.] — David Simon, Homicide, p. 157, 1991
- She was taken to the next room and connected to “the Box.” — Stephen Cannell, Big Con, p. 325, 1997

► in the box engaged in vaginal sex US, 1972

- — Helen Dahlkog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 9, 1972

► put someone in the box

to kill someone US, 2000

- There are three reasons a familiano can be put in the box [killed]: cowardice, treason, or desertion. — Bill Valentine, Gangs and Their Tattoos, p. 36, 2000

► take someone out of the box

to kill someone US, 1995

- — Bill Valentine, Gang Intelligence Manual, p. 78, 1995; “Black street gang terminology”

box verb

1 to confirm the death of a hospital patient US, 1977

- — Philadelphia Magazine, pp. 145–151, November 1977

2 to die US, 1994

- — Sally Williams, “Strang” Words, p. 135, 1994

3 in an illegal lottery, to bet on a group of related numbers rather than a single number US, 1974

- I guess you just gotta do like the Reverend I Doo Little tell the people: If you must play ‘em, brothers and sisters, box ‘em. — Vernon E. Smith, The Jones Men, p. 92, 1974

4 to subject to a polygraph examination US, 1997

- Within months every American had been “boxed” but the ARVN was still planning its program. — John Plaster, SOG, p. 322, 1997

Box 100 noun

the notional repository for information given to police by informants US, 1979

- It’s the rattigest fucking neighborhood in the city. Half the mail into box 100 must come from the Village. — Vincent Patrick, The Pope of Greenwich Village, p. 183, 1979

box bag noun

the amount of marijuana (the bag) which can be bought for a carton of cigarettes (the box) US, 1992

- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 74, 1992

box bumper noun

a lesbian US

- Hector had never liked big, athletic-looking women in Hillary Clinton pantsuits and figured most of them for box bumpers. — Joseph Wambaugh, Harbor Nocturne, p. 289, 2012

boxcar noun

any four-engine bomber US, 1946

- — American Speech, p. 310, December 1946; “More Air Force slang”
- Yeah. He was my buddy on the boxcar. — Kurt Vonnegut, Slaughterhouse-Five, p. 141, 1969

boxcar numbers noun

a lot of money US, 1950

- He's OK for a short tab but make sure you don't let him go into box-car numbers. — The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, p. 121, May 1950

boxcar prices noun

in horse racing, high odds US, 1974

- "I just know boxcar prices like that made somebody out there happy!" — Gary Mayer, Bookie, p. 63, 1974

boxcars noun

1 in horse racing, high odds US, 1934

From the high numbers used to identify railroad cars.

- — San Francisco Examiner, p. 25, 3rd April 1953
- — Robert Saunders Dowst and Jay Craig, Playing the Races, p. 160, 1960

2 in a game of dice, a roll of two sixes US, 1949

- Abie the Jew bet the dice to win or lose, barring box cars and snake-eyes. — Chester Himes, A Rage in Harlem, p. 26, 1957
- — Frank Garcia, Marked Cards and Loaded Dice, p. 250, 1962
- I learned about percentage dice that are shaved to favor an ace-six—and a plenitude of snake eyes and boxcars. — Jimmy Snyder, Jimmy the Greek, p. 15, 1975

3 in poker, a pair of sixes or three sixes US, 1988

- A borrowing from the game of craps. — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 12, 1988

box-chaser noun

a man who relentlessly pursues women US, 1969

- He was a real triple-threat man—boozier, Bible-thumper and box-chaser. — Joey V., Portrait of Joey, p. 25, 1969

boxed adjective

1 marijuana-intoxicated, drunk US, 1958

- — Robert George Reisner, The Jazz Titans, p. 151, 1960
- — William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Uptight People, p. 15, December 1970
- Her pretty face was slightly flushed, the look of a woman who'd already gotten half-boxed. — Dan Jenkins, The Money-Whipped Steer-Job Three-Jack Give-Up Artist, p. 133, 2001

2 incarcerated US, 1970

- — William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Uptight People, p. 16, December 1970

boxes noun

in craps, a roll of two fours US, 1983

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 25, 1987

boxie noun

a person with bleached blond hair US, 1987

- — Washington Post, p. 18, 8th November 1987

Boxie noun

in the Vietnam war, used as a nickname for company medics US, 1967
An Americanization of bac-si, Vietnamese for "doctors."

- [H]e knows his weakness and allows Boxie, medic-turned-team sergeant, to do the leading. — Donald Duncan, The New Legions, p. 11, 1967

boxing noun

smoking marijuana in a confined area US, 2006

- — Urban Dictionary, 15th February 2006
- — Will B. High, The Danknary, p. 18, 2011

box-kicker noun

a supply clerk in the US Marines US, 1998

- — Seattle Times, p. A9, 12th April 1998

box lunch; box lunch at the Y noun

oral sex on a woman US, 1964

- — Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 21, 1964
- [C]omments such as "likes to make," "frigid," "the picture does her too much justice," "box lunch," "a real roller," "get laid," ad infinitum. — John Nichols, The Sterile Cuckoo, p. 7, 1965
- — American Speech, p. 228, October 1967: "Some special terms used in a University of Connecticut men's Dormitory"

box man noun

a criminal who specializes in breaking into safes US, 1902

- "I don't know, for godsake;" I said. "I'm no box man." — Robert Edmond Alter, Carmy Kill, p. 103, 1966
- I was supposed to be the best box-man in the country and as I look back, I must have busted four hundred boxes and lifted more than a million. — Red Rudensky, The Gonif, p. 6, 1970
- The old boxmen [safecrackers] they was not dope fiends. — Bruce Jackson, In the Life, p. 68, 1972
- When I was learning to be a box-man, I didn't do nothing but box work. — Harry King, Box Man, p. 85, 1972

box of L noun

a box of 100 ampules containing methamphetamine hydrochloride (trade name Methedrine™), a central nervous system stimulant US, 1973

- — David Maurer and Victor Vogel, Narcotics and Narcotic Addiction, p. 391, 1973

box shot noun

in a dice game in which the dice are rolled from a cup, a controlled shot US, 1950

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 26, 1987

box slugger noun

a criminal specializing in breaking into safes US, 1970

- Later, I heard that they had picked up a tip that two major outfits outside were in dire need of a box slugger and would collaborate to break me out. — Red Rudensky, The Gonif, p. 49, 1970

box tool noun

any tool used for breaking into a safe US, 1972

- [T]hey'd go in there with nothing but regular old box tools. — Bruce Jackson, Outside the Law, p. 96, 1972

box work noun

breaking into safes US, 1972

- When I was learning to be a box-man, I didn't do nothing but box work. — Harry King, Box Man, p. 85, 1972

boy noun

1 heroin US, 1953

- "I'm warning you though, you start fooling with Boy and Girl and I'm through with you." — Herbert Simmons, Corner Boy, p. 28, 1957
- But now he had the boy; he could lie around up in his crib, twisted, drugged to the verge of insensibility. — Clarence Cooper Jr., The Scene, p. 12, 1960
- Dig my man, how about dropping off two spoons of boy, and a hundred dollar bag of girl. — Donald Goines, El Dorado Red, p. 69, 1974
- They called it "girl" or "Jane" or "Missy" in feminine contrast to "boy" or "John" or "Mister" for king heroin. — David Simon and Edward Burns, The Corner, p. 62, 1997

2 a male friend US, 1997

Connotes affection and loyalty.

- A man gets off work, he's got to go somewhere. He's got to drink something. He's got to smoke something. He's got to watch a game. He's got to hang out with his boys. — Chris Rock, Rock This!, p. 169, 1997

3 a homosexual male prostitute US, 1971

- The boys—who are called boys and not hookers or hustlers—generally go to the john's apartment, usually staying until the john has his mind-blowing climax and not lingering for the night. — John Francis Hunter, The Gay Insider, p. 213, 1971
- Not being under the same financial pressures as most of the other boys, I could be a little choosy about my customers. — John Preston, Hustling, p. 67, 1994

4 a lesbian US, 1997

- Gay or straight—ugly's still ugly. And most of those boys are scary. — Chasing Amy, 1997

5 a boxer or wrestler US, 1977

- A specialist, in Berlin, told me last year to retire Upshaw after he was knocked out in the last of three boys in three days. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Long White Con, p. 189, 1977

6 in a deck of playing cards, a jack or knave US, 1967

- — Albert H. Morehead, The Complete Guide to Winning Poker, p. 258, 1967

7 in horse racing, a jockey US, 1951

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 15, 1951

boy beaver noun

the male sex organs and pubic hair US, 1987

- The job: co-manager (with Gerry Malanga) of a boy-beaver movie house operating under Andy's name. — Jim Carroll, Forced Entries, p. 39, 1987

boychik noun

a boy or young man US, 1951

Also variant "boychick". As is the case with most diminutives, used with affection; coined by Yiddish speakers in America.

- You see, boychik, I can spike any script with yaks, but the thing I can't do is heartbreak. — Norman Mailer, Advertisements for Myself, p. 159, 1951
- "Pleased to meet up with you boychiks." — Harry Grey, The Hoods, p. 16, 1952
- "Where you been, boychik?" chirped Joel. — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 10, 1961
- "She's still got the sleeping mask on. Goodbye, boychik." — Stephen Longstreet, The Flesh Peddlers, p. 94, 1962
- Mama would say that she only hoped I would only turn into a good boychik. — Red Rudensky, The Gonif, p. 39, 1970
- "Oh, boychik." I rub my high, fine brow. — Leo Rosten, Silkyl!, p. 2, 1979

boy-gal noun

a male homosexual US, 1990

- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 199, 1990

boy-girl noun

a young, effeminate, male homosexual US, 1952

- [I]t was in that bar that I first saw flagrantly painted men congregate and where a queen boy-girl camped openly with a cop. — John Rechy, City of Night, p. 62, 1963

boy in the boat; little man in the boat noun

the clitoris US, 1916

- [T]hose who felt that the ladies should have big bursts but could have them only in that highly localized surface nodule known in the trade as the vestigial phallus, or button, or boy in the boat. — Bernard Wolfe, The Magic of Their Singing, p. 93, 1961
- I suppose I should describe the moans she moaned, the way her hot body moved into me and trembled when I touched the little man in the rowboat[.] — Leo Rosten, Silkyl!, p. 180, 1979
- Don't be afraid to spread her open with your fingers. Pull back on her mons to expose the little man in the boat. — Diana Cage, Box Lunch, p. 79, 2004

boyo adjective

mildly pornographic, featuring naked men US, 1970

- [A] tawdry grocery store where every known Girlie and Boyo magazine is sold; and a colorful assortment of pimps, hustlers, prostitutes, petty thieves, and alcoholics. — Raymond Mungo, Famous Long Ago, p. 25, 1970

boys noun

1 a group of homosexual male friends; collectively, the male homosexual community US, 1972

- You've been seeing a real woman—what will the boys think? — Bruce Rodgers, The Queens' Vernacular, p. 36, 1972
- They have everything for young men to enjoy/You can hang out with all the boys. — Village People, Y.M.C.A., 1978

2 racketeers US, 1979

- The boys financed this Poker game. — John Scarne, Scarne's Guide to Modern Poker, p. 273, 1979

3 used by professional wrestlers to refer to other professional wrestlers US, 1990

- They were nasty affairs and could go on for long periods of time with the wrestlers, or "boys" as is the common term used in the business, capitalizing on the situation. A "boy" could be any age, from sixteen to sixty, as long as she wore wrestling trunks. — Pat Barrett, Everybody Down There Hates Me, p. 72, 1990
- A lot of AWA people live there when they move to town. Many of the boys live there now. — Larry Nelson and James Jones, Stranglehold, p. 55, 1999
- The last was the one that angered the boys the most. Nikita Koloff questioned this commandment at a meeting a short time later. Bill addressed the boys and asked if there were any questions. — Mick Foley, Mankind, p. 221, 1999
- While I enjoyed the freedom of traveling alone, the most memorable trips were those that I made with the boys[.] — Gary Cappetta, Bodyslams!, p. 178, 2000

boys and girls noun

heroin and cocaine, mixed and injected together US, 1993

- — Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 27, 1993

boy scout noun

a person who is extremely, and usually distressingly, sincere US, 1997

- He's got a whole troop of Boy Scout lawyers ready to swear for him. — Stephen Cannell, King Can, p. 47, 1997

boys in blue noun

the police; sailors; US Federal troops UK, 1851

Rarely, if ever, occurs in the singular.

- One or two of the boys in blue will dull this lull with well-whipped heads needing white-togged meds. — Dan Burley, Diggett Thou?, p. 18, 1959
- Sometime around ten or ten thirty we'll get a visit from the boys in blue. — Donald Goines, White Man's Justice, Black Man's Grief, p. 81, 1973

boys in Saigon noun

war correspondents in Saigon US, 1990

- Leave the media circus to the boys in Saigon. — Robert Curry, Whispering Death, 2004
- At the meeting, as Arnett tells it, Gallagher walked in, looked straight at the president, and said, "I hear you're not happy with my boys in Saigon." — Associated Press, Breaking News: How the Associated Press Has Covered War, p. 12, 2007

boys of Baghdad noun

during the Gulf war, reporters for the Cable News Network US, 1991

- — American Speech, p. 385, Winter 1991: "Among the new words"

Boy's Town noun

a city neighborhood dominated by homosexual men, especially West Hollywood, California US, 1984

A play on Father Flanagan's Boys Home, a home for delinquent and homeless boys in Omaha, Nebraska.

- Officer Pig was, of course, corruption incarnate—an up-for-grabs cop who took bribes from the male prostitutes of Boy's Town, allowing them to ply their wicked craft while he and his sleazy cop buddies looked the other way. — James Ellroy, Blood on the Moon, p. 58, 1984
- And they were beautiful, too, all the boys in Boy's Town. — John Ridley, Love is a Racket, p. 228, 1998
- Through Boyz' Town, slow down at the Castro Theater, wistful, covet James Dean marathons. — Lynn Breedlove, Godspeed, p. 286, 2002

boy toy noun

a young, attractive woman or man who is the object of sexual desire of their elders, homosexual or heterosexual US, 1989

- They're soon joined by a wealthy local widow (Tanya Berezin) and her new "boy toy" of a lover (Brian Tarantina), an aspiring tennis star. — New York Times, p. C15, 18th October 1982
- Boy toy—young (18–22 years old) club kid, often seen wearing go-go outfits. — Kevin Dillallo, The Unofficial Gay Manual, pp. 237–238, 1994
- Our glitzy diva French-kissing a boy toy in a tongue-wrestling match that would make Madonna salivate. — Miami New Times, 8th April 2004
- Bryant gives much joy when she flashes her bare boobies during a shower shtup with her tattooed boytoy. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin's Skincyclopedia, p. 86, 2005

bozack noun

1 sex US, 1989

Usually heard as "do the bozack."

- — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 138, 1989

2 the penis; the entire male genitalia US, 1990

Sometimes shortened to "zack."

- And the bitches? They'll do anything for it. I got my bozack done every day last week. Several times a time. — New Jack City, 1990
- I put the starter cap on the bozack, can't get with no kid rap[.] — Kwesi The Mudd Lad Lubrication, 1996
- a knack for grabbin' the bozack. — The Source, p. 181, March 2002

bozo noun

a buffoon US, 1916

In the US, the older sense of "bozo" as "a fellow" was supplanted by the figure Bozo the Clown, who first appeared on record in 1946 and then became a fixture on local television programs throughout the US beginning in 1949.

- "Read it and weep, bozo—I'm the law." — Willard Motley, Knock on Any Door, p. 173, 1947
- It's the horn-goggled bozos who sit in swivel chairs that make wars. [Quoting Dr. Leo Eloesser] — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 21, 3rd December 1950
- C'mon now, Blondie, what you want to mess with these bozos for? — Ken Kesey, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, p. 231, 1962
- What these bozos and their friends are up to now is simply the last act in their original adoption and betrayal of any truly "beat" credo. — Jack Kerouac, Jack Kerouac Selected Letters 1957–1969, p. 429, 1964: Letter to Fernanda Pivano
- Hey, Murtaugh, tell these bozos to lay off. — Lethal Weapon, 1987

bozotic adjective

in computing, ridiculous US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 77, 1991

BP noun

1 in blackjack counting teams, the player who places the large bets based on cues from other members of the team who have been counting cards at a particular table US, 1991

An initialism for "big player."

- — Michael Dalton, Blackjack, p. 31, 1991

2 in American casinos, a serious gambler US, 1985

The initials stand for "big player."

- — Steve Kuriscak, Casino Talk, p. 6, 1985

3 a young prostitute US, 1971

An abbreviation of "baby pro."

- So the next day she registered in school as the woman's niece and began living as a high class BP. — Anonymous, Go Ask Alice, p. 161, 1971

BPS noun

a wooden stick used by police for probing a corpse US, 1997

New York police slang; an abbreviation of "brain-picking stick."

- — Samuel M. Katz, Anytime Anywhere, p. 386, 1997

BQ noun

a male homosexual who favors anal sex US, 1964

An abbreviation of BROWNIE QUEEN.

- — Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 22, 1964

BR noun

1 a bankroll US, 1915

- After finding the fat BR, I removed a few pound-notes from the center and placed it back in the same way it was when I found it. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 12, 1973

2 money US, 1915

From the term "bankroll."

- I'm broke as Lazarus, with no B.R. for the free world when I hit it. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Doom Fox, p. 214, 1978

3 in carnival usage, any hyperbolic story US, 1985

An extension of the "bankroll" sense, the roll of money used by the operator of a rigged game to distract and divert the attention of a player from how the game is rigged.

- — Gene Sorrows, All About Carnivals, p. 11, 1985

4 Banana Republic™, a chain of shops selling casual clothing US, 1997

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 44, 1997

bra-busters noun

large female breasts US, 2005

- Raven's bra-busters are each bigger than a hog's head. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin's Skincyclopedia, p. 139, 2005

brace verb

to apprehend someone; to arrest someone; to accost someone US, 1889

- "[W]hen I braced the guy that proved that Decker had paid him back." — Mickey Spillane, The Big Kill, p. 45, 1951
- Then I thought: brace him at his pad? — James Ellroy, Brown's Requiem, p. 209, 1981
- They haven't braced Girod's killer. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 239, 1990

brace face noun

any person wearing an orthodontic brace US, 1991

- "Fewer people make fun of me; they want to see them." Shawn said. "And they don't call me as many names as they used to, like 'brace face' and 'metal mouth.'" — St. Petersburg (Florida) Times, p. 2D, 9th September 1991
- For boomers, taunts like "brace-face," tin grin' and "metal mouth" have made way for more sophisticated teasing. — Washington Post, p. F1, 13th January 2004 bracelet play noun

in poker, an exceptionally crafty play US, 1996

An allusion to the "bracelet prize" in the World Series of Poker.

- — John Vorhaus, The Big Book of Poker Slang, p. 8, 1996

bracelets noun

handcuffs UK, 1661

- I was cold, stiff, sore all over, and if I had any hands left behind me they could have been stone for all they felt the bite of the bracelets. — Thurston Scott, Cure it with Honey, p. 175, 1951
- I can also see us in bracelets pictured on page three of the Daily News the next day too. — Emmett Grogan, Final Score, p. 70, 1976
- Take off the bracelets or no deal. — 48 Hours, 1982

bracer noun

any strong alcoholic drink US, 1830

- These first are merely “bracers,” to protect them from the morning chill. — Robert deCoy, The Nigger Bible, p. 248, 1867

brace work noun

poorly executed markings on the back of cards by card cheats US, 1961

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 26, 1987

bra chute noun

a type of parachute malfunction US, 1982

- The bra chute or semi-inverted chute resulted when the rigging lines were routed incorrectly causing the lines to split the chute canopy into two sections. — Gregory Clark, Words of the Vietnam War, p. 498, 1990

braggadocious; braggadocious adjective

boastful US, 1956

- The black who caused more nightmares for white America than any other was bullet-headed, braggadocious heavyweight boxing champion Jack Johnson. — Mary Frances Berry and John W. Blasingame, Long Memory, p. 131, 1982
- I don't mean to sound braggadocious, but it does not strap me or hurt me to do it. — Washington Post, p. A1, 26th April 1983
- “It seems to me that people with these characteristics would naturally be drawn to music that is made especially braggadocious for them.” — William Upski Wimsatt, Bomb the Suburbs, p. 24, 1994
- We're full of it. We're vain, we're braggadocious. At Passover, we try to come down to a normal level[.] — Ledger (Lakeland, Florida), p. D1, 3rd April 2004

brag-rag noun

a military decoration in the form of a ribbon US, 1960

- Bill opened his jacket and flashed his brag rag. — Fran Baker, Once a Warrior, p. 49, 1998

brah noun

used as a term of address, young surfing male to young surfing male US, 1981

A surfer's “brother.”

- — Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max, 1981
- Chill, brah. — Point Break, 1991

brain noun

1 oral sex performed on a male US, 1998

An extension of HEAD.

- Kids say “get brain” does not mean smarts. It's slang for oral sex. — Daily News (New York), 5th November 2004

2 a smart person UK, 1914

- The athletes and the rich boys and the brains were the big wheels at Summer High School. — Dick Gregory, Nigger, p. 47, 1964

3 a police detective US, 1958

- Detectives are brains. — New York Times, p. 34, 20th October 1958

brain verb

to hit someone on the head US, 1938

- Do you know when they're fulfilled? When you tell them not to go any further or you'll brain them. — Mort Sahl, Heartland, p. 60, 1976
- He wanted to brain Lefty and drag Millie Filbert into the bushes. — C.D. Payne, Youth in Revolt, p. 131, 1993
- Schmalowitz picked a kid up in a gay bar, took him home, and the kid brained him. — Richard Condon, Prizzi's Money, p. 146, 1994

brain bender noun

a strenuous, rowdy party US, 1966

- At least twice a year outlaws from all parts of the state gather somewhere in California for a king-size brain-bender. — Hunter S. Thompson, Hell's Angels, p. 116, 1966 brain box noun

the head; the mind UK, 1823

- [T]he A's portable brain-box of manager Ken Macha and general manager Bill Meane decided it would behoove them to push Ted Lilly back three days to help align the rotation for the postseason. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. B1, 21st September 2003

brain bucket noun

a helmet US, 1955

Coined in the US Air Force, adapted to drag racing and then to a variety of sports.

- I religiously wore a ballistic flight helmet (allegedly a bullet proof brain bucket). Most pilots did not wear it because of the weight. — Chuck Clark, Firebirds, p. 32, 1995

brave bull nickname

a Boeing C-97 Stratofreighter cargo aircraft equipped with infrared equipment used in reconnaissance flights US

- It was replaced by Brave Bull in 1963. — John Schlicht, The War in South Vietnam, p. 378, 1988
- No US manned aircraft (except for Brave Bull and air transports approved on a case-by-case basis). — Harve Saal, p. 21, 1990

brain candy noun

an insignificant entertainment or diversion as opposed to something that requires thought US, 1981

- I was writing in a medium—the Sunday supplement—that tended to be ignored, treated like brain candy. [Quoting Tom Wolfe] — New York Times, pp. 6–46, 20th December 1981
- Brain candy is not something you'll find on The O.C.—if you want a show with no gray cells, that's what The King of Queens is for! — Brittany Kent, O.C. Undercover, p. viii, 2004

brain cramp noun

a mental error US, 1982

- Utah coach Jerry Pimm said his team seemed victimized by “brain cramps.” — United Press International, 7th February 1982
- — Paul Dickson, The New Dickson Baseball Dictionary, p. 82, 1999

brain-damaged adjective

in computing, clearly wrong US, 1983

- — CoEvolution Quarterly, p. 27, Spring 1981
- Calling something brain-damaged is really bad; it also implies it is unusable, and that its failure to work is due to poor design rather than some accident. — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 77, 1991

brain derby noun

1 an exam or test US, 1961

- Brain Derby—school exams. — Art Unger, The Cool Book, p. 107, 1961

2 a test or examination US, 1961

- — San Francisco Examiner, p. 21, 12th December 1961

brain fade noun

a momentary mental lapse US, 1980

- — Don Alexander, The Racer's Dictionary, p. 11, 1980

brain fart; mind fart noun

a temporary mental lapse US, 1983

- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Spring 1992
- [T]hey painted the den “grape” the first time, an embarrassing goof. “It was some kind of brain fart,” said the always-blunt Peterson. — Atlanta Journal and Constitution, p. G5, 26th August 1994
- Did retired General Anthony Zinni really call George W. Bush's war in Iraq a “brain fart”? That seems to be the case. — The Nation, 26th September 2003

brain fixer noun

a psychotherapist US, 1953

- “It upsets Brownie so much that he complained to his brain fixer, who called up the probation board and asked what the hell.” — Dale Krame, Teen-Age Gangs, p. 123, 1953

brain freeze noun

a searing headache experienced when eating frozen food or drinks US, 1993

- Though ominous-sounding, brain freeze is nothing more than the fleeting headache that befalls most of us after consuming too much ice cream too quickly. — Columbus (Ohio) Dispatch, p. 1C, 3rd May 1993
- Drank Slurpee too fast, got a brain freeze. (Quoting the David Letterman Show) — Post Standard (Syracuse), p. D1, 25th September 1993
- Why do you get brainfreeze if you eat ice cream too fast? — Chicago Daily Herald, 9th July 1998
- The culprit, in most cases, isn't an ice pick, but rather an icy drink or ice cream that spans the cold frontal lobeotomy known as “brainfreeze.” — The Orlando Sentinel, p. E1, 26th June 2001

brainiac noun

a very intelligent person US, 1986

Brainiac was introduced as an arch-enemy of Superman in 1958.

- — Ellen C. Bellone (Editor), Dictionary of Slang, p. 4, 1989
- Hey, brainiac. — Cueless, 1995
- Angela Bassett honed her considerable acting chops in productions at Yale University, where the brainiac beauty earned a scholarship. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin's Skincyclopedia, p. 45, 2005

brain-over-butt adverb

head-over-heels US, 1960

- I don't know how to tell a girl I'm crucially and brain-over-butt in love with her[.] — Glendon Swarthout, Where the Boys Are, p. 138, 1960

brain screw noun

a prison psychological counselor US, 1951

- Cheer up, brain screw. — Thurston Scott, Cure it with Honey, p. 20, 1951

brain session noun

a group study session US, 1963

- “I've been foolin' around with a lot of dames on campus, and been cuttin' out on brain sessions.” — Frederick Kohner, The Affairs of Gidget, p. 64, 1963

brain surgeon noun

a poker player who over-analyzes every situation US, 1982

- — David M. Hayano, Poker Faces, p. 185, 1982

2 used in comparisons as the epitome of intelligence US, 1978

- Frank's got a decent body but he's no brain surgeon. — Jay McInerney, Story of My Life, p. 55, 1988

brain surgery noun

any difficult, demanding work US, 1978

Used in contrast to the job at hand.

- “I think this so-called intelligence factor is being a bit overrated,” said Healy. “Let's face it, this isn't brain surgery.” — Washington Post, p. E1, 27th July 1980
- As a coach, you have one basic tool and that is playing time. This isn't brain surgery. — Milwaukee Journal Sentinel, p. 7C, 21st March 2004

brain trust noun

a group of expert advisers US, 1910

Although found at least as early as 1910, not popularized until 1933 in association with US President Franklin Roosevelt's advisers.

- Oakland's new “brain trust” includes Manager Chuck Dressen, left, and Long George Kelly, former major league baseball luminaries. — San Francisco News, 19th January 1949
- But the strategy of the Democratic brain-trust miscarried. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 200, 1951

- It is not altogether strange that President Kennedy's brain trust should find itself under heavy fire from the Republican side of the fence. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 1, 1st July 1962
- Well, he ain't popl'ar neither. He ain't no brain trust. He ain't even good-lookin'. — C.D. Payne, Youth in Revolt, p. 409, 1993

brake fluid noun

1 any medication used to sedate an unruly prisoner US, 1991

- — Lee McNeilis, 30 + And a Wake-Up, p. 6, 1991

2 psychiatric medications US

- Matt Soniak, "50 Prison Slang Words to Make You Sound Like a Tough Guy," mentalfloss.com, 17th October 2012.

brand X noun

marijuana US, 1980

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin' down some lines, p. 230, 1980

brannigan noun

a brawl, literal or figurative US, 1940

- But no matter how great the whoop-de-do, nothing in Chicago is likely to approach the heroic brannigan of 1920, when an earlier and perhaps more stalwart Democratic generation convened for the first and only time in San Francisco. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 19, 20th July 1952
- Another brannigan is expected to break out for control of the Democratic party on the San Francisco county level. — San Francisco News, p. 3, 9th June 1956
- Next came the brannigan. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 7, 11th August 1960

brass noun

1 in the military, high-ranking officers as a collective entity US, 1864

- As perspiring VIPs, government guides, Navy brass and reporters stood by, the President came out, shook hands with Guzick, his wife and three children, then patted his pockets for the check. — Washington Post, p. B2, 19th May 1979
- [I]t is by considerations largely beyond the control of the air crews or even the Air Force Brass. — Washington Post, p. E7, 9th August 1981
- Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld won the first argument, about the size of the invasion force; it was far smaller than Army brass wanted. — Chicago Tribune, p. C24, 8th April 2004

2 in carnival usage, fake jewelry US, 1981

- — Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 33, 1981

3 brass knuckles US, 1980

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin' down some lines, p. 231, 1980

brass buttons noun

a police officer; the police in general US, 1974

- — John Scarme, Scarme on Dice, p. 462, 1974

brass-happy adjective

extremely anxious to be promoted within the officer corps US, 1946

- — American Speech, p. 238, October 1946: "World War II slang of maladjustment"

brass monkey noun

used in a number of figures of speech, especially as a basis for comparison US, 1857

- It would take what Kipling called the nerve of a brass monkey to talk about democracy versus totalitarianism or about fighting the anti-Christ. — George N. Crocker, Roosevelt's Road to Russia, p. 85, 1959
- "It's cold enough to breeze the balls off a brass monkey" (which has nothing to do with a monkey or its private parts, but rather the brass rings that held cannonballs on ships). — St. Petersburg (Florida) Times, p. 1, 19th January 2003
- Clem Dubose can talk the ears off a brass monkey. — Orlando (Florida) Sentinel Tribune, p. K1, 29th February 2004

brass ring noun

an elusive but valuable prize US, 1950

- There are plenty of women who see me as the brass ring. — Sleepless in Seattle, 1993

brass tacks noun

the basic facts; the basic reality US, 1895

- Rhyming slang for "facts," but not accepted as such by authorities who combine "brass tacks" with its variation "brass nails."
- Let's get down to brass tacks here. We've got a sweetheart of a deal to do. — Vincent Patrick, Family Business, p. 53, 1985

brat noun

a young and/or weak man used as a passive homosexual partner, especially in prison US, 1967

- Punks and brats are those prisoners who take the passive role in sodomy; there is no chronological age limit. — New York Mattachine Newsletter, p. 6, June 1961
- — Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World's Toughest Prison, p. 792, 1962

brat pack nickname

a group of young movie actors who played roles in John Hughes films of the 1980s US, 1985

- Frequently mentioned as members of the group included Anthony Michael Hall, Emilio Estevez, Charlie Sheen, Judd Nelson, Molly Ringwald, Rob Lowe, and Ally Sheedy. A play on the Sinatra-centric Rat Pack of the 1950s and 60s.
- No, he insists, the Brat Pack (the name given to Estevez and some of his young actor pals) is not a tightly knit group of friends[.] — Chicago Tribune, p. 7C, 31st October 1985
- "Went to the movies?" "Any good?" "Tedious. Brat-pack stuff." — Joseph Wambaugh, The Golden Orange, p. 54, 1990

braveheart noun

a group activity at a heavy metal or punk concert in which dancers divided into two groups rush at each other US, 2003

- From the scenes in Mel Gibson's movie in which the Scottish and English armies rush at each other.
- "We did the Braveheart thing. We split the crowd, and when you give the signal, you have both fronts collide, and they didn't know how to do it." — Phoenix New Times, 4th December 2003

bravo noun

a soldier in the US infantry US, 1980

- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 27, 1991

► break tape

to fire your weapon US

- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 27, 1991

bravo delta noun

a non-functioning piece of hardware US, 1988

- A phonetic-alphabet euphemism for "broke dick."
- — Hans Halberstadt, Airborne, p. 130, 1988

brawl noun

a rowdy party US, 1927

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 88, 1968
- — Kenn "Naz" Young, Naz's Underground Dictionary, p. 17, 1973

Brazilian landing strip; Brazilian noun

the trimming of a woman's public hair such that only a narrow strip remains; the result thereof US, 2001

- Maybe one percent of my clients have stuck to the old conservative bikini line wax—the rest have converted to Brazilians. — Nerve, p. 20, December 2000-January 2001
- "I got mugged. She took everything I've got." Carrie Bradshaw in Sex and the City after a Brazilian bikini wax. — Real Simple, p. 65, May 2001
- The Brazilian[.] Leaves a vertical stripe in front, two or three fingers in width. — Loaded, p. 5, June 2002 used in computer message shorthand to mean "be right back" US, 1991

BRB

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 342, 1991

bread noun

money US, 1935

The term was used at least as early as the 1930s, but it did not gain wide acceptance until the 1960s.

- Without bread a stud can't even rule an anthill. — William "Lord" Buckley, Marc Anthony's Funeral Oration, 1955
- We spent two hours in Testament waiting for Hyman Solomon to show up; he was hustling for his bread somewhere in town, but we couldn't see him. — Jack Kerouac, On the Road, p. 137, 1957
- "There's a lot of bread to be made gigging right around here in Roxbury," Shorty explained to me. — Malcolm X and Alex Haley, The Autobiography of Malcolm X, p. 45, 1964
- Black Panther Platform and Program No. 10: We want land, bread, housing, education, clothing, justice and peace. — The Black Panther, p. 18, 25 January 1969

breadbasket noun

the stomach UK, 1785

- I had to stand on top of the pile trying to catch four or five bricks at a time when the man below heaved them at me. The first batch caught me right in the breadbasket and bounced square on my toe. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 36, 1946
- I pivoted like a soldier doing an aboutface and planted my right in Pansy-face's bread basket[.] — Robert Edmond Alter, Carny Kill, p. 110, 1966

bread box noun

1 the stomach US, 1919

A lesser-known cousin of BREADBASKET.

- Also, he needed more cash—ought to see a doctor about this bum breadbox. — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 170, 1954

2 a safe that is easily broken into US, 1949

- — Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 33, 1949

breadwinner noun

the person responsible for supporting a family UK, 1821

- "I don't blame you, dear Kay," he said gravely, "for comparing yourself to me as a breadwinner." — Mary McCarthy, The Group, p. 87, 1963
- MICKY: Because it's expected. He's—KAY: The breadwinner. — Elmore Leonard, Switch, p. 34, 1978

break noun

in hip-hop culture, an instrumental section from any recorded source that is mixed with other similar selections to make a new piece of music US, 1993

- [H]e plays the instrumental breakdown section—or the breaks—of his favorite funk, soul and reggae songs, sending partygoers to the dancefloor in droves. — The Source, p. 137, March 2002

► break a cap

to shoot a gun US, 1954

- The bodyguard got hold of his gun and we broke a couple of caps at each other. — Caryl Chessman, Cell 2456 Death Row, p. 194, 1954

► break bad

to act in a threatening, menacing manner US, 1997

- — Anna Scotti and Paul Young, Buzzwords, p. 54, 1997

▶ break his (or her) cherry

(used of a racehorse) to win the first race in a racing career US, 1951

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 17, 1951

▶ break luck

(of a prostitute) to have sex with the first customer of the day or night US, 1969

- The runt was gone. She was breaking her luck with Chuck. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 154, 1969
- A ho breaks her luck when she turns the first trick of her work day. — Christina and Richard Milner, Black Players, p. 297, 1972
- “I broke luck. Made fifty dollars.” — Susan Hall, Ladies of the Night, p. 21, 1973
- Several of her stable prosses were chatting over too hot cups of coffee, eager to break luck, anxious for Leila to tell them where to turn the first trick of their workday. — Emmett Grogan, Final Score, p. 68, 1976

▶ break out into assholes to become deeply frightened US, 1982

- — Arnold Shaw, Dictionary of American Pop/Rock, p. 54, 1982

▶ break out the rag

to lose your temper after losing a game US, 1971

- — American Speech, p. 232, Autumn–Winter 1971: “Checkschnuck! the slang of the chess player”

▶ break someone's chops to give someone a hard time, to harass someone US, 1953

- We don't get those bullshit complaints and they won't break our chops on the paper work. — Peter Maas, Serpico, p. 175, 1973
- Kids used to call me a “hallelujah”—break my chops. — Edwin Torres, Carillo's Way, p. 7, 1975

▶ break squelch

to communicate on a radio during a period when radio use is inadvisable, given enemy locations, by tapping a key on the radio handset US, 1981

- I broke squelch, because I thought they would move these people out, relocate them to a POW camp. — Mark Baker, Nam, p. 138, 1981
- “If you're receiving me, break quelch [key your radio handset] twice, over.” — James Donahue, Mobile Guerrilla Force, p. 217, 1977

▶ break starch

to put on a fresh uniform US, 1968

- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 5, 1968
- Every day in the Airborne began in a freshly washed and starched pair of cut-down fatigues, and both officer and NCO “broke starch”—put on a fresh pair—once or twice throughout the day. — David H. Hackworth, About Face, p. 442, 1989

▶ break the bank to divide the winnings up among members of a blackjack counting team US, 1991

- — Michael Dalton, Blackjack, p. 34, 1991

▶ break the house in gambling, especially an illegal gambling enterprise, to win a great deal of money from the house US, 1989

- I will never forget watching him stroll across Washburne Avenue after breaking the house. — Odie Hawkins, Men Friends, p. 130, 1989

▶ break the night

to stay up all night US, 1989

- Then Thursday he tried to “break the night,” street slang for staying up until sunrise—in search of a good time. — Newsday (New York), p. 20, 14th May 1989
- “We broke night,” Coco said. From their bed, they watched the morning brighten. — Adrian Nicole LeBlanc, Random Family, p. 69, 2003

▶ break watches

(of a racehorse) to run very fast during a morning workout US, 1951

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 16, 1951

▶ break weak

to back down from a confrontation US, 1992

- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 31, 1992

▶ break wide

to leave US, 1992

- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 48, 1992

breakage noun

in horse racing pari-mutuel betting, the change left over after paying off bets to the nearest nickel, dime, or dollar US, 1947

- — Dan Parker, The ABC of Horse Racing, p. 144, 1947

breakaway noun

1 any piece of equipment or clothing that will tear free from a police officer's body during a fight US, 1962

- — American Speech, p. 267, December 1962: “The language of traffic policemen”

2 in television and movie making, a prop designed to break easily upon impact US, 1990

- — Ralph S. Singleton, Filmmaker's Dictionary, p. 22, 1990

breakbeat noun

in contemporary dance culture, a sampled beat that is looped to create a rhythmic pattern; hence, a musical style US, 1988

- The best-stocked is the Music Factory (1476 Broadway, between 42nd and 43rd), which is jammed with the latest New York-based label rap hits, breakbeat collections (which feature hit songs with extended breaks for rap deejays or record producers).[] — Los Angeles Times, p. 92, 13th March 1988

- intense breakbeat sessions. — Alon Shulman, The Style Bible, p. 42, 1999
- — Gareth Thomas, This Is Ecstasy, p. 43, 2002

breakdown noun

a shotgun US, 1994

- — Ann Lawson, Kids & Gangs, p. 56, 1994: “Common African-American gang slang/phrases”
- — Bill Valentine, Gang Intelligence Manual, 1995 break down verb

to explain something US, 1965

- So I clean out Margo's refrigerator of all its food and drive back over to the Communication Company where is lovely Sam and Cassandra and Claude and Helene who I break it down to. — The Digger Papers, p. 10, August 1968

breaker noun

in horse racing, a horse that starts a race with a great burst of speed US, 1982

- — Bob and Barbara Freeman, Wanta Bet?, p. 288, 1982

breakers noun

in certain games of poker, cards that qualify a player to open betting US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 13, 1988

breakers ahead!

used as a general purpose warning of impending problems US, 1963

Of obvious nautical origin, from the cry of the masthead look-out.

- — Charles F. Hayward, Yankee Dictionary, p. 15, 1963

breakfast club noun

a nightclub operating after other clubs close at 2 a.m., staying open until the early morning when breakfast is served US, 1954

- Wilbur Stump, the noted pianist, opened a “breakfast club” (one of those bring-your-own bottle joints, opening at 2 a.m.) on the second floor at 207 Powell. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 19, 4th September 1954
- But since she began operating Guys and Dolls as a breakfast club last October, the alliances arranged there have been somewhat less permanent, Sgt. Robert Davis of the vice squad charged. — San Francisco News Call-Bulletin, p. 2, 20th February 1965
- Joint police-health department action has dealt almost a knockout blow to San Francisco's after-hours “breakfast” clubs, reducing their number from 14 to only two. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 3, 24th April 1970 breakfast of champions noun

beer US, 1976

- She handed one to Steve, then took a long drink from her own. “Breakfast of Champions” she proclaimed, holding up the can in a mock toast until Steve had taken a drink. — Jack W. Thomas, Heavy Number, p. 53, 1976

breakfast of losers noun

methaqualone, the recreational drug best known as Quaaludes™ US, 1987

- — Carsten Stroud, Close Pursuit, 1987 breaking noun

break dancing, especially its gymnastic and acrobatic aspect US, 1984

- — Bradley Elffman, Breakdancing, p. 11, 1984
- After breakin' died in 1986, b-boys here took revenge against house by breakin' in house clubs, which were the only clubs back then. — William Upski Wimsatt, Bomb the Suburbs, p. 125, 1994 break it off!

give me your money! US, 1997

- Just about a year ago, when Deon Jones was 17, he pulled a green Halloween mask over his face and put a gun to the head of a Fairywood neighbor. “Break it off,” Jones said—street slang for “Hand over your money.” — Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, p. A1, 7th August 1997

break-luck noun

a prostitute's first customer of the day US, 1993

- — Washington Post, p. C5, 7th November 1993

break man noun

a prison guard who orchestrates the opening of cells in the morning US, 1977

- Voices were raised in harsh humor, as over four hundred men joked and argued back and forth. “Break three!” the break man screamed as he reached the third gallery. — Donald Goines, Black Gangster, p. 7, 1977

break off verb

to treat someone harshly US, 2004

- break you off: to deal with harshly, extremely. — J.G. Narum, The Convict Cookbook, p. 158, 2004 break out verb

to leave US, 1997

- — Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 28, 1997

breath noun

in poker, to pass without betting US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 13, 1988

breather noun

1 in sports, a game against a weak opponent US, 1945

From the conventional sense (a rest).

- The coaches used to talk about breathers. That's a sad excuse. There are no breathers today anyway. — San Francisco News, p. 18, 15th November 1945
- Da Grosa also assailed the scheduling of “breathers” as unfair to the paying public. — San Francisco Cann-Bulletin, p. 16, 26th December 1950

- The UCLA Bruins, toppled from No. 1 last week amid the mud and might of Maryland, drew their “breather” tomorrow and are figured to beat Washington State by three or four touchdowns. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 3H, 1st October 1955
- Women Look to Get on Track With Nonconference Breather [Headline]. — Daily Tar Hee (Chapel Hill, North Carolina), 10th February 1995

2 the nose US, 1973

- — Kenn “Naz” Young, Naz’s Underground Dictionary, p. 17, 1973
- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 199, 1990

3 a person who derives sexual pleasure from telephoning someone and breathing heavily when they answer the phone US, 1986

- When I lift up the receiver, at first I think I got a breather. Then a voice says, “Check it out. There was a bullet in Helen Caplet.” — Robert Campbell, Junkyard Dog, p. 75, 1986

breck noun

breakfast US, 1983

- — Concord (New Hampshire) Monitor, p. 17, 23rd August 1983

breec noun

a young woman US, 1992

- — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 235, 1992: “A glossary of Harlemisms”

breed noun

a person who is not white US, 1992

- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 54, 1992

breeder noun

from the homosexual point of view, a heterosexual US, 1979

Usually used as an insult.

- “Hey, what does a breeder know?” Michael grinned. “Where did you learn that word?” The light changed. They proceeded with graceless caution across the pebbly asphalt. “One of the guys at Perry’s,” replied Brian. “He said that’s what the faggots call us.” — Armistead Maupin, Further Tales of the City, p. 167, 1982
- “So we defy them, see?” “Them?” I asked. “Breeders.” — Ethan Morden, Everybody Loves You, p. 209, 1988
- We whispered “breeder” behind your breeder-backs, made fun of your bi-level haircuts, Jordache jeans, and “spare tires.” — Dan Savage, Savage Love, p. 305, 1998
- Butt-banging breeders may even throw their own pride parade. — The Village Voice, 7th March 2000

breeder adjective

heterosexual US, 1997

- “Breeder bitch,” I said happily; but by then she was ignoring me. — Ethan Morden, Some Men Are Lookers, p. 99, 1997
- As a breeder boy put it to me, “It’s easier approaching straight women in gay bars.” — Dan Savage, Savage Love, p. 25, 1998

breeze noun

1 something that is achieved easily and quickly US, 1928

- [T]he boosts are a breeze. — Gone in 60 Seconds, 2000

2 in horse racing, an easy pace during a workout or race US, 1951

- — David W. Nauer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 16, 1951

3 a prison sentence that is nearly completed US, 1962

- — Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World’s Toughest Prison, p. 806, 1962

4 a calm, collected person US, 1992

- — K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 48, 1992

5 used as a term of address US, 1966

- — Current Slang, p. 2, Fall 1966

breeze verb

1 to escape; to go US, 1913

- Any time I breezed down the street, cats would flash me friendly grins and hands would wave at me from all sides, and I felt like I was king of the tribe. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 48, 1946
- Soon as I got the angle on that I breezed. — Hal Ellison, Duke, p. 124, 1949
- Take the dough and breeze. — Raymond Chandler, The Little Sister, p. 62, 1949
- He kept breezing and getting caught and brought back into the detail building. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 142, 1965

2 in pool, to only barely glance the object ball with the cue ball US, 1990

- — Steve Rushin, Pool Cool, p. 6, 1990

breezeway noun

the area in a prison where the most derelict of the convicts gather US, 1984

- — Inez Cardozo-Freeman, The Joint, p. 484, 1984

breezy noun

a young woman US, 2004

- What’s up with you and that breezy. — Rick Ayers (Editor), Berkeley High Slang Dictionary, p. 14, 2004

brew noun

1 beer; a glass, bottle or can of beer US, 1907

- I shook hands with the guy and ordered a brew. — Mickey Spillane, I, The Jury, p. 43, 1947
- [W]ith a few brews my fingers flail and fly less than as usual. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Neal Cassidy, p. 318, 10th June 1951
- Awesome party! Good tunes! Good brew! Good buddies! — Wayne’s World 2, 1993
- MAFADA: Would you like a glass of tea or something? HEALY: You got a brew? — Something About Mary, 1998

2 a Jewish person US, 1997

An abbreviation of “Hebrew.”

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 45, 1997

brewha noun

a glass, bottle or can of beer US, 2001

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 47, 2001

brewski; brewsky noun

beer; a serving of beer US, 1978

Mock Polish.

- — Wesleyan Alumnum, p. 29, Spring 1981
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Spring 1982
- JD: This is Ohio. If you don’t have a brewsky in your hand you might as well be wearing a dress. — Heathers, 1988
- “Brewskie,” he said. “I got some Bud under my bed, man.” — Larry Brown, Dirty Work, p. 49, 1989
- Dig this. They’re charging for brewskies. — Clueless, 1995

briar patch noun

a female’s pubic hair US, 1967

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 32, 1967

Briar Patch nickname

a prisoner of war camp in North Vietnam US, 1991

An allusion to the B’rer Rabbit story by Joel Chandler Harris.

- That 5-iron was struck from a dark, tiny cell in a Vietnamese prisoner-of-war camp nicknamed Briar Patch by the American POW’s. — Duncan Lennard, 112 Miles to the Pin: Extreme Golf Around the world, 2007

bribe noun

in marketing, the initial, attractive offer to join a book or music club US, 1986

- — Rachel S. Epstein and Nina Liebman, Biz Speak, p. 27, 1986

brick adjective

cold US, 2003

If going outside pissed you off because it’s so cold, then it’s brick outside. If you need to warm up your car, then it’s brick outside. — twovisionaries.com, 26th January 2013

- — Connie Eble, Campus Slang: University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Spring 2016

brick noun

1 a person lacking social skills US, 1968

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 88, 1968

2 a die that has been shaved on one face US, 1950

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 27, 1987

3 in poker, a drawn card that fails to improve the hand US, 1996

- — John Vorhaus, The Big Book of Poker Slang, p. 8, 1996

4 ten cartons of stolen cigarettes US, 1982

- — Bill Reilly, Big Al’s Official Guide to Chicagoese, p. 17, 1982

5 a carton of cigarettes US, 1981

- — Maledicta, pp. 266–267, Summer/Winter 1981: “By its slang, ye shall know it: the pessimism of prison life”

- — Reinhold Aman, Hillary Clinton’s Pen Pal, p. 22, 1996

6 a kilogram of, usually compressed, marijuana, or, less commonly, another drug US, 1992

- She had a brick of weed she was sellin’, and she didn’t want to go to the buy alone. — Reservoir Dogs, 1992
- Oh yeah? How much blow you do tonight? I heard they had a fuckin’ brick. — Copland, 1997
- Here was some dude, not even a chemistry major, coming on to you with mikes [microdots], grams, bricks, kilos and hundredweights. — Robert Sabbag, A Way with the Spoon [The Howard Marks Book of Dope Stories], p. 351, 2001

brick verb

1 to fail to deliver as promised US, 1993

- The delivery guy bricked. — Dazed and Confused, 1993

2 to hurl bricks, rocks or other hard objects US, 1972

A word commonly used in the 1960s in American cities during events called “riots” by the dominant power and “uprisings” by leftists.

- — David Claerbaut, Black Jargon in White America, p. 59, 1972

3 to miss a shot; to fail US, 2001

- She threw th’ fuckin’ case, went in the tank, intentionally bricked it. — Stephen J. Cannell, The Tin Collectors, p. 156, 2001

brickhouse noun

in poker, a full house that is not the best hand US, 1996

An allusion built on “brick” as a “useless card.”

- — John Vorhaus, The Big Book of Poker Slang, p. 8, 1996

bricks noun

in prison, the world outside the prison walls US, 1976

- — John R. Armore and Joseph D. Wolfe, Dictionary of Desperation, p. 21, 1976

► hit the bricks

to leave, especially to leave prison US, 1931

- Maybe I could fly one of my magnetized coping kites (high voltage letters) when I hit the bricks, and steal a ‘ho! — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Airtight Willie and Me, p. 3, 1979

- Just say goodbye once, and then hit the bricks, you big-bottomed freaks, you. — Stuart Jeffries, Mrs Slocombe’s Pussy, p. 10, 2000

► on the bricks

working as a street prostitute US, 1981

- “Oh, they might treat you real nice at first, talk to you pretty, show you a good time, buy you pretty things, but before you know what’s happening they got you out on the bricks.” — Alix Shulman, On the Stroll, p. 22, 1981

► to the bricks

extremely, utterly, completely US, 1928

- You sure are getting togged to the bricks, pal. [Freckles and His Friends comic strip] — San Francisco News, 23rd May 1946

- — Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 115, 1970

brick shithouse noun

a woman, or rarely a homosexual man, with a curvaceous figure; a powerfully built man US, 1928

Sometimes euphemized to a simple “house.”

- Janet is something to write home about. Blonde with a shape like a brick shit house. — Donald Goines, Never Die Alone, p. 107, 1974
- She’s a brick house / The lady’s stacked and that’s a fact. — The Commodores, Brick House, 1977
- This guy was built like a brick shithouse, with an elephantine mustache and smoldering brown eyes. — Armistead Maupin, Further Tales of the City, p. 150, 1982
- You with some fine bitch, I mean a brick shithouse bitch—you’re with Jayne Kennedy. — True Romance, 1993

bricktop noun

a red-haired person US, 1856

- Greer, in common with all bricktops, especially those of Irish origin can be a little difficult to handle at times. — San Francisco Examiner, p. II-3, 21st June 1957

brick-topped adjective

red-headed US, 1912

- Whit wondered, as he ate his meal in the huge B.D.R.—boy’s dining room—how this brick-topped cadet officer would go about learning him to like it. — Caryl Chessman, Cell 2456 Death Row, p. 88, 1954

bridal suite noun

a room where police assigned the late night shift can sleep US, 1994

- — Los Angeles Times, p. B8, 19th December 1994

bride’s slide noun

in backgammon, the customary play with a first roll of 6–5: moving a back man 11 points US, 1976

- — Dave Thompson, Play Backgammon Tonight, p. 58, 1976

bridge noun

1 a holder for a marijuana cigarette US, 1955

A common term in the 1950s, largely supplanted by ROACH CLIP in the 1960s.

- — American Speech, p. 86, May 1955: “Narcotic argot along the Mexican border”

2 a slightly curved playing card, altered by a cheat to manipulate the cutting of a deck US, 1991

- — Michael Dalton, Blackjack, p. 34, 1991

3 a group of four in a restaurant or soda fountain US, 1967

An allusion to a bridge party.

- — American Speech, p. 61, February 1967: “Soda-fountain, restaurant and tavern calls”

▶ under the bridge

in a smuggling operation, across a border US, 1956

- — American Speech, p. 98, May 1956: “Smugglers’ argot in the southwest” bridge and tunnel adjective said of a resident of New Jersey who commutes to New York US, 1984

Disparaging.

- I said to the team, “We can’t go to New Jersey. What would they call us, the Bridge and Tunnels?” — Dan Jenkins, Life Its Ownself, p. 18, 1984
- The worst drug calamity, the worst-case scenario, was that you accidentally took too much ecstasy and were actually nice to a Bridge-and-Tunnel person. — James St. James, Party Monster, p. 67, 1990
- Eww! Not a bridge-and-tunnel Jersey dyke! — Chasing Amy, 1997
- I jam it open with my shoe and slide in between a bridge-and-tunnel babe and a lawyer. — Lynn Breedlove, Godspeed, p. 243, 2002 bridge jumper noun

in horse racing, a person who regularly bets on favorites and is distraught if the favorite does not win US, 1951

- — David W. Naurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 16, 1951 bridge man noun

a liaison US, 1986

- When Charley was twenty-one he was transferred to be the bridge man between the mob-owned racetracks around the country and the racehorses they had to keep buying[.] — Richard Condon, Prizzi’s Family, p. 40, 1986

Bridge of Sighs nickname

an overpass connecting the New York City jail with the criminal court building US, 1955

- A borrowing from Venice’s Ponte de Sospiri, romanticized by Lord Byron. He walked me down this long dark corridor and then into a narrower corridor. Now I knew where I was. This was the Bridge of Sighs that led from the court building high up over the street into the old Tombs. — Rocky Garciano (with Rowland Barber), Somebody Up There Likes Me, p. 105, 1955
- Few lawyers alive today remember the old court house or the grey granite, twin-peaked Tombs and the famous “Bridge of Sighs” that rose over Franklin Street to connect the two buildings. — New York Law Journal, p. S-14, 6th May 1991

briefcase noun

a faceless, anonymous businessman US, 2001

- The briefcases stood at attention and took shit, then left. — Dan Jenkins, The Money-Whipped Steer-Job Three-Jack Give-Up Artist, p. 69, 2001

briggity adjective

arrogant, vain, stubborn US, 1884

- Come to think of it, you never hear briggity anymore either. Briggity-britches was one of the insults we used to hurl at one another when we were kids. — Charleston Gazette (West Virginia), p. 4C, 15th August 2003

bright noun

1 morning US, 1941

- Many was the night we sniffed and philosophized, philosophized and sniffed, until the early bright was upon us. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 170, 1946
- — Time Magazine, p. 92, 20th January 1947
- With a pocketful of green I was digging the scene the other bright[.] — Dan Burley, Diggeth Thou?, p. 36, 1959
- Bitch, one of these “brights” you’re going to shoot your “jib” [mouth] off, I’ll curtsy and call you Runt the corpse. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 136, 1969

2 a light-complexioned black person US, 1976

- “Break it down, you even got one set for brights and—” “Brights?” — another for bloods.” She looked at her hands before she answered the question. “Light-skinned niggers.” — Robert Campbell, Boneyards, p. 268, 1992

bright disease noun

the condition of knowing too much for your own good US, 1953

- — Lavada Durst, The Lives of Dr. Hepcat, p. 11, 1953

bright-eyed and bushy-tailed adjective alert and enthusiastic, lively US, 1942

- I’m telling you, he’s bright-eyed and bushy-tailed, none of that sulking, suspicious nature. — Washington Post, p. D1, 28th January 1979
- Alex Rodriguez was the first Yankee at the stadium. He showed up for work ahead of every other ballplayer Thursday morning, although not exactly bright-eyed and bushy-tailed, as his droopy lids betrayed. — Chicago Tribune, p. C2, 9th April 2004

bright eyes noun

a lookout during a criminal venture US, 1962

- Smugglers’ Argot in the Southwest. — American Speech, p. 96, May 1956
- — Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World’s Toughest Prison, p. 792, 1962: “Penitentiary and underworld glossary”

brightlight team noun

in Vietnam, a small group from the special forces sent to rescue American prisoners of war US, 1981

- — Shelby L. Stanton, Vietnam Order of Battle, p. 29, 1981

brights noun

white socks US, 1969

- — Current Slang, p. 5, Summer 1969

brightly adjective

very smart US, 1945

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Live talk Dictionary, p. 8, 1945

brig rat noun

a prisoner US, 1942

- [H]e could imagine Red in the Navy, a brig rat of course, an old white hat, shipping over until the sailors’ home claimed him. — Malcolm Braly, On the Yard, p. 211, 1967

brill adjective

brilliant US, 2002

- We had a long talk, and she said that she doesn’t completely hate me—it was brill! — Balthazar Cohen, Totes Ridictionary, p. 15, 2013

brim noun

1 any hat US, 1965

- — David Claerbaud, Black Jargon in White America, p. 59, 1972

2 a police officer US, 1957

- This was the risky part, the exchange, if the bims should happen along right now. — Herbert Simmons, Corner Boy, p. 54, 1957

bring verb

to compel someone to do something US, 1972

- — Bruce Jackson, Outside the Law, p. 55, 1972

▶ bring it in

in poker, to make the first bet of a hand US, 1990

- — Anthony Holden, Big Deal, p. 298, 1990

▶ bring it on used for challenging an opponent to begin a competition US, 1998

- VICTOR: Game point, cousin, game point. JUNIOR POLATKIN: Bring it on, Victor, bring it on. — Smoke Signals, 1998
- Bring it on, Mum, bring it on! — Dave Haslam, Adventures of the Wheels of Steel, p. 117, 2001

▶ bring pee to frighten someone severely US, 1966

Vietnam war usage.

- — Post (New York), p. 42, 16th July 1966
- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Military Slang, p. 5, 1968

bringdown noun

an event or person that discourages or depresses you US, 1939

- “You’ll have to go home, son,” the doc said. “You’ve got a slight murmur in your heart!” That was a bringdown. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 19, 1946
- And that coming right after a big bug-sized bringdown from the Naxi’s put on him. — William Lord Buckley, Hip Einle, 1955
- We sophisticate our tastes in order to tap dance by hassles and shove the poignancy of “bring downs” into impersonal shadows. — Berkeley Barb, p. 6, 18th November 1966
- Now you say, “Well the world of reality is a bringdown, man. There’s police brutality and there is all this stuff.” — The San Francisco Oracle, 1967

bring down verb

- 1 to depress someone, to deflate someone US, 1935
- “Don’t let us down.” “Or bring us down.” — Chandler Brossard, Who Walks in Darkness, p. 74, 1952
 - What really brought him down was the way Danny Atlas, owner of the Broadway novelty shop called Fun, Inc., gave him the big sloughoff. — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 5, 1954
 - The Hare Krishna boys got up and chanted, bringing most everyone down from the super-high place we had been. — East Village Other, 20th August 1969
 - Don’t let it bring you down, it’s only castles burning. — Neil Young, Don’t Let It Bring You Down, 1970

2 to help ease someone’s return from a difficult drug experience US, 1970

- bring down: help someone come out of a bad drug experience. — Ethel Romm, The Open Conspiracy, p. 242, 1970 bring it, don’t sing it!

- used to invite action instead of words US, 1998
- — Ethan Hilderbrant, Prison Slang, p. 144, 1998

bring out verb

- to introduce someone to homosexuality, to awaken in someone their homosexuality US, 1941
- — Anon., The Gay Girl’s Guide, p. 4, 1949
 - Another exception is the young man who is “brought out” by older, more sophisticated homosexuals. — Stanley Weber, A Study of Sex in Prison, p. 12, 1973

bring up verb

- to try someone on a criminal charge US, 1823
- He’s dirty, for one thing. Twice brought up on assault, the people he beat up failed to show. — Elmore Leonard, Be Cool, p. 179, 1999

brittle adjective

- (used of a computer program) functional, but easily rendered dysfunctional by changes or external stimuli which should not have the effect they have US, 1991
- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 78, 1991

bro noun

- a brother, in the sense of a fellow in a given situation or condition; especially of a fellow black US, 1957
- Crazy, bro. I gotcha. — Nathan Heard, Howard Street, p. 88, 1968
 - “What’s the tab, bro?” — Piri Thomas, Stories from El Barrio, p. 57, 1978
 - Goodnight, bro—good dreams. — Herbert Huncke, The Evening Sun Tinted Crimson, p. 205, 1980
 - Bro? You in the “Mod Squad?” — Copland, 1997
 - If they don’t feel good about me, bro, where I’m coming from, they’re not gonna listen. — Elmore Leonard, Be Cool, p. 8, 1999
 - What are you doin’ to her, dude? Oh my God, bro, dude. — American Pie, 1999

broad noun

- 1 a woman US, 1911
- Somewhere between derogatory and so old-fashioned as to be charming in a hopeless way.
- “I smell Arpege,” said the mama bear to her mate. “Gus, you’ve had a broad here.” — Steve Allen, Boop Fables, p. 8, 1955
 - The only time I went out for TV was to dig the broads on Shindig and Hollywood-A-Go-Go! — Eldridge Cleaver, Soul on Ice, p. 44, 1968
 - Local Women’s Libbers may have been right to equate the tacky term “broad” with “nigger,” and I was wrong to act snappish about it earlier this week. Let’s be friends again, people—and people again, friends. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 35, 21st April 1972
 - This is the end result of all the bright lights and the comped trips, of all the champagne and free hotel suites, and all the broads and all the booze. — Casino, 1995
- 2 a male homosexual who plays the passive sexual role US, 1984
- — Inez Cardozo-Freeman, The Joint, p. 484, 1984
- 3 in a deck of playing cards, a queen UK, 1781
- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 29, 1987
- 4 a queen piece in a chess set US, 2005
- “You’re the first youngster that realized how to beat me without my broad.” — Colton Simpson, Inside the Crips, p. 143, 2005

broadcast verb

- to engage in conversation US, 1959
- — Swinging Syllables, 1959

broadie noun

- a woman US, 1932
- A slightly embellished BROAD.
- She don’t bother no one at all. Not even little broadies going by. — George Mandel, Flee the Angry Strangers, p. 386, 1952
 - One of the broadies (as the driver referred to the madams and girls) had a couple of sixteen-year-olds in her place. — Monroe Fry, Sex, Vice and Business, p. 10, 1959

broad joint noun

- a bar where prostitutes are available along with the drinks US, 1956
- A Broad Joint can furnish you a cooperative-type girl if you’ll make proper financial arrangements. — Robert Sylvester, No Cover Charge, p. 265, 1956

broadski noun

- a woman US, 1967
- I hear you latched on to a broadski. — Malcolm Braly, On the Yard, p. 250, 1967

broad squad noun

- in prison, a group of homosexual men US, 1990
- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 199, 1990

broad tosser noun

- the operator of a three-card monte game swindle US, 1980
- — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 21, 1980

Broadway noun

- in poker, a five-card sequence ending with an ace as the highest card of the sequence US, 1988
- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 13, 1988

Broadway Arab noun

- a Jewish person US, 1946
- The Pavilion catered mostly to Gentiles, and when the manager found out that three of us musicians were Broadway Arabs from the tribe of Israel he wouldn’t let us blow note one. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 86, 1946

Brodie; Brody *noun1 a fall or leap from a great height US, 1899

- An allusion to Steve Brodie, a New York bookmaker who in 1886 claimed to have survived a leap from the Brooklyn Bridge and then opened a tavern which succeeded as a result of the publicity surrounding his claimed leap.
- I wondered if the undertaker had been born yet who was slick enough to paste a sucker’s ass together after a “Brodie” fifteen-stories down. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 165, 1969
- 2 a feigned drug withdrawal spasm US, 1936
- A drug addict’s life is dedicated to cheating, lying, conning, and “conning” to obtain illegal drugs. It’s an obsession. And they’ll go to any length to achieve their purpose. They’ll pull a “Brody” or “Cartwheel” (feigned spasms) to elicit sympathy. — San Francisco News, p. 1, 5th December 1951
 - — David Maurer and Victor Vogel, Narcotics and Narcotic Addiction, p. 392, 1973
- 3 a play that is a complete failure US, 1973
- — Sherman Louis Sergel, The Language of Show Biz, p. 29, 1973

Brodie; Brody *verbto intentionally skid a car US, 1995

- Fulo brodied in close. His headlights strafed Kirpaski. — James Ellroy, American Tabloid, p. 59, 1995
- I was going so fast, I overshot the house and hit the brakes half a block past, squealing rubber as I brodied to a stop. — Stephen J. Cannell, White Sister, p. 89, 2006

brogans *nounheavy work shoes US, 1835

- From the Gaelic. During the US Civil War, the sturdy and durable leather shoes issued to infantrymen were nicknamed Brogans or Jefferson Booties.
- They took one of the opened bottles with them from which Agatson drank continually, brazenly, as he stumbled along in his oversize G.I. brogans. — John Clellon Holmes, Go, p. 219, 1952
 - [M]any of us bought him a beer and a Polish sausage when he came in with his paint-splattered cords and brown brogans, broke as ever. — Oscar Zeta Acosta, The Autobiography of a Brown Buffalo, p. 47, 1972
 - The very next evening, Daddy came home with shoes for Betty, John and me—three pairs of black, sturdy, strong, steel-toed brogans. — Bobby Seale, A Lonely Rage, p. 37, 1978

brogas *nounwork shoes US, 1990

- An abbreviation of BROGANS.
- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 199, 1990

programmer *nounused by computer programmers who think of themselves as sociable and fashionable US

- In tech, some bemoan the rise of “programmer” culture. — www.cnn.com, 7th May 2012
- For geeky men who never fit in socially, programmer culture may be reassuring in a way that more anodyne corporate cultures are not. — Rochelle Kopp, Valley Speak: Deciphering the Argot of Silicon Valley, p. 207, 2016

broke dick *adjectivenon-functioning US, 1975

- I was walking past an old jalopy when this dude gets out looking sharper than a broke-dick dog. — James Carr, Bad, p. 77, 1975
- — Hans Halberstadt, Airborne, p. 130, 1988

broke money *nouna small amount of money given to a gambler who has lost his entire bankroll US, 1950

- — The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, p. 122, May 1950 broken arrow *noun1 an accident involving nuclear weapons US, 1980

- Mr. Affeldt said that he learned of the incident when he received a telephone call from a regional office saying that personnel monitoring radio traffic had overheard a message containing the code word “broken arrow,” which he said indicated “a major accident with a nuclear weapon aboard.” — New York Times, p. A13, 17th September 1980
- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 79, 1991
- It might not have been a “broken arrow” nuclear missile accident, but a mishap that damaged a Bangor Trident submarine ballistic missile and was kept under wraps by the Navy until this week threatens broken trust on an international scale. — Seattle Post-Intelligencer, p. B1, 13th March 2004

2 in computing, an error code on line 25 of a 3270

- terminal US, 1991
- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 79, 1991

broken wrist *nounan effeminate male homosexual US, 1968

- — Mary Swift, Campus Slang (University of Texas), 1968

broker noun

a drug dealer US, 1962

- Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World's Toughest Prison, p. 792, 1962
- William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Upright People, p. 26, December 1970

broket noun

on a computer keyboard, the characters < and > US, 1983

A contraction of "broken bracket."

- Guy L. Steele et al., The Hacker's Dictionary, p. 36, 1983

broly adjective

conforming to surfer etiquette US, 1991

- Trevor Cralle, The Surfin'ary, p. 15, 1991

bronco noun

a young male recently initiated into homosexual sex US, 1967

- Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 33, 1967

Bronx cheer noun

a combination of booing and a derisory farting noise, expressing disgust US, 1922

- I mentioned that maybe he ought to save it—meaning the Bronx cheer—till he started using his title regularly. — J.D. Salinger, Nine Stories, p. 98, 1953
- I kept giving "p-r-r-t" Bronx cheers thru the blanket[.] — Jack Kerouac, Letter to John Clellon Holmes, p. 407, 19th February 1953
- [A] nation of peep freaks who prefer the bikini to the naked body, the white lie to the black truth, Hollywood smiles and canned laughter to a soulful Bronx cheer. — Eldridge Cleaver, Soul on Ice, p. 84, 1968

Bronzeville noun

a city neighborhood with a largely black population US, 1950

- This one concerns chiefly the South Side major settlement, which its residents euphemistically call "Bronzeville." — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Chicago Confidential, p. 32, 1950

Brooklyn clothesline noun

any looped lanyard and pulley system US, 1972

The term evokes pulleyed clotheslines strung outside apartments or houses.

- You may hear the astronauts talking to Mission Control at Houston about a "Brooklyn clothesline." They will be discussing a backup system of ropes and pulleys used to transport film to and from Skylab's huge telescope. — Vidette (Indiana) Messenger, p. 25, 20th June 1972

Brookulino nickname

Brooklyn, New York US, 1985

- Friends, if after this meal I die in Brookulino/ I ask to be buried with my mandolino. — Joseph Bonanno, A Man of Honor, p. 149, 1983

broom noun

1 the person who is assigned to or takes it upon himself to keep a workplace neat US, 1984

Sometimes embellished to "broom man."

- The only person he ever saw making up the bunks, however, was the "broom man," an elderly cop who served as the station-house janitor and sometimes cooked hot meals for the clerical staff on a stove in the basement. — Peter Maas, Serpico, p. 68, 1973
- Sweeping the steps was the precinct "broom," an old-timer no longer eager for street duty and working out retirement doing station-house chores. — Charles Whited, Chiodo, p. 129, 1973
- The stationhouse broom—a thirty-year airbag who in addition to keeping the stationhouse clean was the precinct's gofer—saw his plight and shouted to him. — William J. Cavittz, One Police Plaza, p. 359, 1984

2 a hat US, 1960

- Robert George Reisner, The Jazz Titans, p. 151, 1960

bro's noun

heavy work shoes US, 1994

An abbreviation of BROGANS.

- The "bro's," as we called them, were good fighting shoes, used for landing a hard kick to the nuts or delivering a severe stomping to a fallen foe. — Nathan McCall, Makes Me Wanna Holler, p. 65, 1994

bro's before hos used as a rallying cry for the precedence of male friendship over relationships with females US, 1998

Sometimes seen as the abbreviation BBH.

- When someone makes sexist comments (e.g., "Bros before hos"), uses derogatory terms for women (e.g., bimbo, bitch, slut), or tells demeaning sexist jokes around you, speak up. — Sharon Gmelech, Gender on Campus, p. 56, 1998
- "No," he said, "bros before hos, you're staying." — alt.bitterness, 12th March 1998
- Ben Applebaum and Derrick Pittman, Turd Ferguson & The Sausage Party, p. 6, 2004

brothel creeper noun

a patron of brothels US, 1977

- Maledicta, p. 9, Summer 1977: "A word for it!"

brothel spout noun

a prostitute who is physically and emotionally worn out by her work US, 1993

- J.R. Schwartz, The Official Guide to the Best Cat Houses in Nevada, p. 164, 1993

brother noun

1 a black man US, 1910

- Young bloods wanted to be like these brothers. — H. Rap Brown, Die Nigger Die!, p. 15, 1969
- Both of these brothers were shot in the head. Both Brothers were members of the Central Staff of the revolutionary party. — The Black Panther, p. 14, 19th May 1969

- I wouldn't go so far as to call the brother fat. He's got a weight problem. What's the nigger gonna do, he's Samoan. — Pulp Fiction, 1994
- Because I know all you white folks are pissed off that the studio'd entrust a multi-million-dollar movie to a brother. — Kevin Smith, Jay and Silent Bob Strike Back, p. 112, 2001

2 a fellow member of a counter cultural or underground political movement US, 1968

- Each service should be performed by a tight gang of brothers and sisters whose commitment should enable them to handle an over-load of work with ability and enthusiasm. — The Digger Papers, p. 15, August 1968

3 in carnival usage, a woman's husband or lover US, 1981

- Don Wilmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 35, 1981

4 heroin US, 1990

A rare variant on the common BOY.

- Gilda and Melvin Berger, Drug Abuse A-Z, p. 38, 1990

brother man noun

used as a term of address to establish solidarity, among black men US, 1974

- I understand your problem, brother man, but don't come in here comin' down on me. — Vernon E. Smith, The Jones Men, p. 127, 1974
- Uhhh, say, look, brother man, I know the pussy is exquisite 'n all that but I got a family down in L.A. and they're missing me. Know what I mean? — Odie Hawkins, Lost Angeles, p. 44, 1994

brown noun

1 the anus and/or rectum US, 1916

- Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World's Toughest Prison, p. 792, 1962
- Up your brown with a Roto-Rooter—and spin it! — Maledicta, p. 15, Summer 1977
- Then, I'll wanna pinky you and put it in your friend's brown. — Kevin Smith, Jay and Silent Bob Strike Back, p. 90, 2001

2 heroin, especially if only partially refined US, 1962

- He explained that what addicts refer to as "The Brown" is opium which has been incompletely refined into heroin. Usually, he said, it comes from Mexico. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 4, 6th March 1962

3 an amphetamine tablet US, 1972

- Carl Chambers and Richard Heckman, Employee Drug Abuse, p. 202, 1972

brown verb

to perform anal sex upon someone US, 1933

- Donald Webster Cory and John P. LeRoy, The Homosexual and His Society, p. 262, 1963: A lexicon of homosexual slang
- Let's just say a little friendly browning, OK? — Angelo d'Arcangelo, The Homosexual Handbook, p. 173, 1968

brown Abe noun

a US penny US, 1945

From the engraving of President Abraham Lincoln on the coin.

- Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 22, 1945

brown-bag verb to carry lunch to work, especially in a brown paper lunch bag US, 1968

- He used to brown-bag down from the Bronx in the subway. — Edwin Torres, After Hours, p. 187, 1979

brown bagger noun

a married person US, 1947

From the image of bringing lunch packed in a brown bag to work; originally military usage.

- American Speech, p. 227, October 1966: "More United States Air Force slang"

brown bar noun

in the US Army, a second lieutenant US, 1977

The single brass bar worn by the second lieutenant was camou-flaged in the field and became a single brown bar.

- I was alliteratively known as the "boot brown-bar," slang for a raw second lieutenant. — Philip Caputo, A Rumor of War, p. 31, 1977
- They were all with colonels and didn't want to know no brown bar out of the bush. — Mark Baker, Nam, p. 92, 1981
- Except that the lieutenant, that fucking brown-bar ROTC idiot no more than three days in-country, had to tag along for the ride. — John Skipp and Craig Spector, The Scream, p. 98, 1988

brown bomb noun

a laxative US, 1990

- Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 199, 1990

brown boot Army noun

the army as it once was US, 1968

- Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 6, 1968

brown boy noun

a male who derives sexual pleasure from eating the feces of others US, 1971

- Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 40, 1971

brown cowboys noun

the Mexican Mafia, a Mexican-American prison gang US, 1975

- Report to the Senate, California Senate Committee on Civil Disorder, p. 227, 1975

brown crown noun

a notational sign of one who has failed miserably US, 1966

- John D. Bell et al., Loosely Speaking, p. 3, 1966

brown derby noun

during the Vietnam war, a hot meal that was flown to the troops in the field US

- Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 29, 1991

browned off *adjective*depressed, angry US, 1950

- They tell us good ol' Hap Chandler is plenty browned off at the Hollywood Stars for coming out in those above-the-knee baseball panties. — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 15, 3rd April 1950
- Do you wonder, Charlie, that I get a bit browned off? — Charles Raven, Underworld Nights, p. 56, 1956
- She'd been browned off at him ever since he dug up her tulip bulbs for kicks last spring. — Max Shulman, I was a Teen-Age Dwarf, p. 61, 1959
- — American Speech, p. 235, October 1964: "Student slang in Hays, Kansas"
- — Robert J. Glesing, The Underground Press in America, p. 175, 1970

brown eye *noun*the anus US, 1954

- The video continues as Stag fucks Trinity's brown eye while she finishes reaming North. — Adult Video, August/September 1986
- "Hey baby, when you gonna gimme that brown eye?" — Nathan McCall, Makes Me Wanna Holler, p. 188, 1994
- I stick these little pieces of paper over my brown-eye, and bam—no shit stains in my undies. — Kevin Smith, Jay and Silent Bob Strike Back, p. 13, 2001
- He pushes his naked knob right in her old brown eye. — Lynn Breedlove, Godspeed, p. 39, 2002

brown eyes *noun*the female breasts, especially the nipples US, 1932

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 89, 1968

Brown family *noun*collectively, all passive participants in anal sex US, 1950

- — Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 149, 1950

brown helmet *noun*a notional sign of one who has been rejected in romance US, 1968

- — Fred Hester, Slang on the 40 Acres, p. 17, 1968

brownie *noun1 the anus US, 1927

- She bends over to pick up the suit. Look at that. Taking my picture with her brownie. — Elmore Leonard, Split Images, p. 193, 1981

2 a traffic police officer US, 1987

- — Carsten Stroud, Close Pursuit, p. 269, 1987

3 marijuana US, 1966

- The man at the door was the old dope peddler with his bag of brownie, also known as pot, shit, cannabis, or to the staid, marijuana. — Roger Gordon, Hollywood's Sexual Underground, p. 150, 1966

Brownie *noun*a student, past or present, at Brown University US, 1995

- Tonight I was just another Brownie, partying with student friends. — Heidi Mattson, Ivy League Stripper, p. 218, 1995

Brownie Girls *noun*lesbian mutual oral-anal sex US, 1968

- Analingus, in which one of the partners will be tongued, or playing "Brownie Girls" in which the two take turns upon each other. — L. Reinhard, Oral Sex Techniques and Sex Practices Illustrated, 1968

brownie point *noun*an imaginary award or credit for a good deed US, 1953

- He was tryin' to make brownie points with some of the boys. — Raising Arizona, 1987

brownie queen *noun*a male homosexual who enjoys the passive role in anal sex US, 1968

- A "brownie queen" is a homosexual male interested primarily in being the passive partner in anal intercourse. — James Harper, Homo Laws in all 50 States, p. 147, 1968
- We call that a brownie queen. In prison they call it under-yonder and round-brown. — Bruce Jackson, In the Life, p. 397, 1972 brownies *noun1 dice that have had their spots altered for cheating US, 1950

More commonly known as "busters," which leads to the cartoon character "Buster Brown," which leads to "Brown."

- — The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, p. 122, May 1950

2 brown gloves US, 1993

- Brownies—brown garden gloves worn by gang members for fighting a shooting, hung out of my right back pocket, and a blue flag hung out my left. — Sanyika Shakur, Monster, p. 40, 1993

brown job *noun*oral-anal sex US, 1971

- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 40, 1971

brown-nose *verb*to curry favor in a sycophantic fashion US, 1938

- Don't try and brownnose me Mike. — Hubert Selby Jr., Last Exit to Brooklyn, p. 143, 1957
- No wonder the world was going to hell when a grown man pranced around in a monkey suit, brown-nosing dames who made a big deal out of ordering a belt of booze! — Jim Thompson, The Grifters, p. 78, 1963
- "Nick," she said when I had finished, "six months ago you were just another brownnosing honor student. What happened?" — C.D. Payne, Youth in Revolt, p. 334, 1993
- Now you're gonna brown nose me? Don't be doing me any more favors, Pancho. — Airheads, 1994 brown nose; brown noser *noun*a toady; a sycophant US, 1938

Originally military.

- "I know Stanley is the biggest goddam brown-nose in the platoon[.]" — Norman Mailer, The Naked and the Dead, p. 61, 1948
- I encountered far too often there a type that is familiar to anyone who has built time—the organization man of the penitentiary, the yea-sayer, the brown-nose. — James Blake, The Joint, p. 318, 6th November 1962
- You are such a brown-noser. — Cleavage, 1995
- I'm sorry you've got to eat shit from a hack brownnoser like Krantz[.] — Robert Crais, L.A. Requiem, p. 97, 1999

brownout *noun*a near but not complete loss of consciousness US, 1992

Not quite a "blackout."

- An occasional brownout on a couch where I accidentally sat on a hypodermic needle full of heroin took time too. — Larry Rivers, What Did I Do?, p. 47, 1992

brown out *verb*to drink to the point of partial but not complete memory loss US

- Less intense than the experience of "blacking out" when drunk and not remembering portions (or all) of your night, "brownout" occurs when you don't remember something until someone brings it up. It's not a complete blackout, but partial, because you remember once someone refreshes you. — Urban Dictionary, 24th April 2006
- — Connie Eble, Campus Slang: University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Spring 2014

brown shirt *noun*a police officer US, 1993

- Glass had his arms loaded with three VCRs when Sneak whispered, "Hey, there's some brown shirts outside!" — Bob Sipchen, Baby Insane and the Buddha, p. 118, 1993

brown shoes *noun*a person who does not use drugs US, 1970

- — William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Uptight People, p. 23, December 1970

brown sugar *noun1 grainy, poor quality heroin US, 1971

- But now something new and more deadly has been added to the bazaar's wares—"brown sugar," an opium derivative close to heroin. — Washington Post, p. A22, 26th March 1981
- Chinese-made ammonium chloride, which transforms the morphine into the lower-grade No. 3 heroin, or "brown sugar," as it is popularly known — New York Times, p. SM27, 23rd June 2002

2 a black woman, especially a beautiful one; a black woman's vagina US, 1971

- "Black ones be called brown sugar." — Jess Mowry, Six Out Seven, p. 93, 1993

3 by extension, a sexually desirable black man US, 1996

- Adopted by black women.
- And what about D'Angelo? / I want some of that brown sugar / And watch this rap bitch bust all over ya nuts[.] — Lil' Kim Dreams, 1996

brown trout *noun*feces, when thrown by prisoners from their cells onto guards US, 1992

- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 89, 1992

brown water navy *noun*during the Vietnam war, the US Navy presence on rivers and deltas US, 1961

- The U.S. Navy's riverine forces were commonly referred to as the "Brown Water" Navy in contrast to the Blue Water forces[.] — T.L. Bosiljjevic, SEALS, p. 51, 1990

brown water sailor *noun*a Navy sailor assigned to river or delta duty US, 1985

- He stood out in comic contrast to the brown water sailors, who padded about their boat in cut-off fatigue shorts and a variety of faded shirts, with no helmets or flack vests. — David Donovan, Once a Warrior King, p. 264, 1985

brown wings *noun*experience of anal intercourse, or anal-oral sexual contact, considered as an achievement US, 1971

Originally Hell's Angel usage.

- Most of the Frisco chapter earned their brown wings on this occasion. It was some shindig! The queen never had it so good! — Jamie Mandelkau, Buttons, p. 101, 1971
- But if you're the proud owner of an enormous penis and you still want to get your brown wings, the way is not to ask, it's to do. — GQ, p. 117, July 2001

Bruce *noun*used as a stereotype of an effeminate male homosexual US, 1973

- Too many "Bruce" Jokes [Headline]. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 27, 28th May 1973

bruiser *noun*a rugged physical specimen; a thug UK, 1742

- "Well, it was then this big bruiser decides to wise him up, so he eases up to Scott and kicks him—where it hurts most." — Donald Wilson, My Six Convicts, p. 53, 1951
- If you fell behind with your rent the prince sent a couple of bruisers round to punch seven bells out of you. — John Peter Jones, Feather Pluckers, p. 17, 1964
- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 89, 1968
- "Christ, he'll be an incredible bruiser," I continued. — Erich Segal, Love Story, p. 102, 1970 brush *verb*to introduce marked cards or loaded dice into a game US, 1993

- — Frank Scoblete, Guerrilla Gambling, p. 299, 1993

brusher; brushman noun

a casino employee who tries to lure casino visitors into playing poker US, 1988

- George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 13, 1988

brush-off noun

a rejection US, 1938

- [S]he reminded him of Lindy whom he'd given the brush-off. — Wilda Moxham, The Apprentice, p. 174, 1969
- [H]e got negative responses, distinguished only by hostile looks and shakes of the head from low-rider types who made him for fuzz and annoyed brush-offs from young women who didn't like his style. — James Ellroy, Because the Night, p. 312, 1984

brutal adjective

extremely good, intense US, 1964

- Time, p. 56, 1st January 1965
- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Fall 1987

brutally adverb

very US, 1995

- Christian is brutally hot, and I am going to remember tonight forever. — Clueless, 1995

brute nickname

the McDonnell Douglas F-4 Phantom, a two-set, twin-engine jet interceptor, fighter-bomber US

- Resembling a prehistoric reptile, its two huge General Electric J79 engines bulging its sides, humpbacking its 58-foot fuselage, the "brute" or "monster," as the Phantom was sometimes called, was already the talk of the Navy. — Robert Wilcox, Scream of Eagles, p. 13, 1990

brute force noun

in computing, a simplistic and unsophisticated programing style US, 1991

- Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 80, 1991

bruuh noun

a close friend US

Derived from BRO, in turn derived from BROTHER.

- Urban Dictionary, 5th June 2014
- "Bruuh," a digital album released by Sir Froderick X Adamnt 22nd August 2014

bruz noun

used as a term of address, man to man US, 1958

- Robert S. Gold, A Jazz Lexicon, p. 42, 1964

BS noun

bullshit, in all its senses US, 1900

A euphemism accepted in polite society.

- The absolute B.S. I've been going through is finally over. — Neal Cassidy, Neal Cassidy Collected Letters 1944–1967, p. 141, 12th August 1950: Letter to Diana Hansen Cassidy
- Elijah shared the indulgent smiles of the men who had graciously granted Monkeydude some b.s. time. — Odie Hawkins, Chicago Hustle, p. 7, 1977
- We have more lesbians working there, or they are bisexual. That's because they have to put up with men all night long and listen to all that BS. — Marilyn Suriani Futterman, Dancing Naked in the Material World, p. 57, 1992

BT noun

an inhalation of marijuana smoke filtered through a waterpipe US, 1997

An abbreviation of "bong toké."

- Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 113, 1997

b-t-dubs phrase

by the way A vocalized BTW, with W slanged to dubs US

- A spoken slang for BTW, meaning "by the way," which originated on the internet. Rather than say "bee-tee-double-u" out loud, people began saying "bee-tee-dubs," which became "bt-dubs" when translated back to the internet. — Urban Dictionary, 12th March 2006
- Connie Eble, Campus Slang: University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Spring 2014

BTO noun

an influential and admired person US, 1944

A "big-time operator" — not without overtones of smarminess.

- Cosmopolitan, p. 76, October 1949
- We'd raced tanks down hills, chased big-time operators (BTOs) who tried to screw us in our small-time forays into the black market, fought in the TRUST 15th Tank Company smokers[.] — David H. Hackworth, About Face, p. 219, 1989 used in computer message shorthand to mean "by the way" US, 1991

BTW

- Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 342, 1991
- Orient Road looks like a fucking resort, btw[.] — Eleusis, Lightning on the Sun [The Howard Marks Book of Dope Stories], p. 325, 2001

Bu; the Bu; Mother Bu nickname

Malibu, California US, 1961

- I grabbed my board and toiled down to old mother Bu—meaning Malibu. — Frederick Kohner, Gidget Goes Hawaiian, p. 6, 1961
- Trevor Cralle, The Surfin'ary, p. 16, 1991

BUAG noun

a simple drawing made with computer characters US, 1995

A "big ugly ASCII graphic."

- Christian Crumlish, The Internet Dictionary, p. 27, 1995

hub noun

1 used as a term of address, usually to a stranger and usually in a condescending tone US, 1839

- "Having trouble, bub?" I grinned at him. — Mickey Spillane, I, The Jury, p. 90, 1947
- "Call it a dollar for the shirt and pants," he said. "What size you wear, bub?" — Jim Thompson, Bad Boy, p. 382, 1953
- "Looks like you've got a ticket, bub!" said a voice somewhere behind him. — Terry Southern, The Magic Christian, p. 14, 1959

2 the female breast UK, 1826

- A flask that fits over her buds. — Irving Shulman, The Amboy Dukes, p. 99, 1947
- Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 33, 1967

3 a blue flashing police car light US, 1987

- The blue flashers, called bubbles or buds by the troopers, on top of the cruiser were dead and dark. — Stephen King, The Tommyknockers, p. 675, 1987

4 champagne, sparkling wine US

- You can find me in the club / bottle full of bub. — 50 Cent, "In Da Club," 2003
- Out in the club, and I'm sippin' that bub. — Lady GaGa, "Telephone," 2009

hubba noun

1 a stereotypical white, southern male US, 1982

- American Speech, p. 100, Spring 1993: "Among the new words"

2 marijuana US, 1997

- Jim Emerson-Cobb, Scratching the Dragon, April 1997

bubbie circus noun

a chorus line or other display of multiple women with large breasts US, 1967

- Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 33, 1967

bubbies and cunt noun

a poor woman's dowry US, 1967

- Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 33, 1967

bubble verb

to call, to pass time with friends US, 2004

- We weren't causing any problem. We were just bubblatin'. — Rick Ayers (Editor), Berkeley High Slang Dictionary, p. 14, 2004

bubble brain noun

a distracted, unfocused person US, 1981

- Wesleyan Alumnaus, p. 29, Spring 1981
- [O]r maybe a blond bubble-brain to show the poor niggers that drug bucks could buy what you couldn't score with a high school diploma or a hard-muscled bod. — Jess Mowry, Way Past Cool, p. 25, 1992

bubble butt noun

large, firm buttocks US, 1990

A pornography fetish.

- Catalina follows her boss, swinging her bubble butt from side to side. — Jane Hill, Street Songs 1, p. 147, 1990
- Tony's bubble butt was next and soon he had to sit on every hard cock in the room. — alt.sex.mots, 19th April 1991
- Lexi, who possesses an amazing bubble butt, gets that ass fucked. — Editors of Adult Video News, The AVN Guide to the 500 Greatest Adult Films of All Time, p. 129, 2005

bubble chaser noun

a bombardier on a bomber aircraft US, 1945

A reference to the bubbles in the leveling device used.

- American Speech, p. 310, December 1946: "More Air Force slang" bubbledance verb

to wash dishes US, 1947

- Marcus Hanna Bouliware, Jive and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947

bubble dancer; bubbles dancer noun

a woman who performs a striptease using a bubble or bubbles to mask her nudity US, 1954

- A former bubble dancer, Miss Troy had made the front pages five years before[.] — Earl Wilson, I am Gazing Into My 8-Ball, p. 27, 1945

bubblegum adjective

unimaginative, highly commercial, insincere US, 1963

Usually used to describe music.

- We had an hysterical call from Buddha Records complaining about the way I insulted their bubblegum music. — Screw, p. 17, 4th July 1969
- A coke-jerking rhythm, a Woody Woodpecker voice, a scoopful of cliches from a bin labeled "sweet talk" and you've got—bubble-gum music. — Life, p. 13, 30th January 1970
- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, October 1972
- If Harvey thought getting it on with some bubble-gum rocker was realizing his full human potential, well, that was his prerogative. — Cyra McFadden, The Serial, p. 37, 1977

bubble gum machine noun

the H-13 army helicopter US, 1968

Vietnam war usage.

- Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 7, 1968

bubblegummer noun

a preteenager or young teenager US, 1947

- Not one fan magazine flashbulb popped, not one autograph hound stuck his grimy book under Pete's schnozz and not one bubble-gummer cooed. — Washington Post, p. VI-2, 21st December 1947
- Bubble-Gummer—a square, especially one who's younger than you. — Art Unger, The Cool Book, p. 106, 1961
- William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Uptight People, p. 32, December 1970
- She was the force behind subversive club chapters starting on her high school campus when she was still a bubblegummer. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Blue Knight, p. 78, 1973

- One of the younger Joe Cool types passed by, holding hands with a bubble-gummer. — PJ. Petersen, Good-Bye to Good Ol' Charlie, p. 120, 1987

bubblehead *noun1 a person whose thinking is not grounded in reality US, 1945

- By now it is obvious even to the bubbleheads that we exercised one set of devils from the earth in 1945 only to make room for another equally evil horde. — Daniel V. Gallery, Clear the Decks, p. 221, 1945

2 a submariner US, 1986

- I live in a submarine. I'm a bubblehead, and that gives me a certain point of view. — Mark Joseph, To Kill the Potemkin, p. 81, 1986
- — Seattle Times, p. A9, 12th April 1998

bubbler *nouna water tank or cooler US, 1961

Korean war usage.

- Buck must have carried a filled canteen all the way from Pavuvu. It was brackish. "Why didn't you fill it from the bubblers on the transport?" I asked him. — Russell Davis, Marine at War, p. 50, 1961
- Dryness gripped my throat; I went to a stone drinking fountain and drank from the bubbler. — Frank Hardy, But The Dead Are Many, p. 312, 1975

bubble-top *nounan OH-13 Sioux helicopter, used for observation, reconnaissance, and medical evacuation in the Korean war and the early years of the war in Vietnam US, 1984

So named because of the distinctive plexiglas canopy.

- When the sheriff's helicopter, which looked like the old military bubble-tops, finally got landed on suitable ground, Manny Lopez was ministering to the bandit[.] — Joseph Wambaugh, Lines and Shadows, p. 183, 1984
- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 29, 1991

bubbling noun

the manipulation of photographs of women by placing reverse-bubbles over parts of the photo, creating the illusion that the woman are naked US, 2010

The result is often called "Mormon porn."

- If you never heard of bubbling, the ingenious invention of a young, lonely Mormon man that lets your mind turn innocent bikini shots into porn, now's your chance to get acquainted. — Ashley Feinberg, "The Bubble Porn Video," gizmodo.com, 8th April 2014 bubbling bundle of barometric brilliance *nounused as the introduction for Bobbie the weather girl on AFVN television, Saigon, during the Vietnam war US, 1990

- Officially she served as a secretary for the US Agency for International Aid in Saigon from 1967 to 1969. Her unpaid weather broadcasts, which always ended with the benediction of wishing "everyone a pleasant evening weather-wise and good wishes for other-wise," were greatly appreciated by the men in the field.
- As "Bobbie the Weather Girl" for Armed Forces Vietnam in Saigon, she was a "bubbling bundle of barometric brilliance" with her lighthearted nightly broadcasts to tens of thousands of Americans in Vietnam. — USA Today, p. 11A, 11th November 1993
- When a friend teased Bobbie unmercifully, she decided to go for the audition, and she became the weather girl, the "bubbling bundle of barometric brilliance." — Olga Gruhitz-Hoty, A Time Remembered, p. 238, 1999

bubbly *nounchampagne UK, 1920

- The lush was a complete stranger, having been delivered by a cab-driver who steered for various joints, and Tappy had just gotten around to selling him the first bottle of bubbly. — Robert Sylvester, No Cover Charge, p. 213, 1956
- In the red-lit murk, there was the counterpoint bedlam of profane ribaldry as they loaded their skulls with cocaine and bubbly. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Airtight Willie and Me, p. 26, 1979
- Nabokov only got two-fifty. You're getting top dollar! Break out the bubbly! — Terry Southern, Now Dig This, p. 155, 1991
- Instead, Lefty handed her a cup and poured her some bubbly. — c.d. Payne, Youth in Revolt, p. 132, 1993
- Get Rex some bubbly, whatever. — Empire Records, 1995

bubbly *adjectivecheerful, full of spirit US, 1939

- For weeks he lay in his hospital bed and cursed steadily, cheered only slightly by the bubbly letter which arrived every three days from Maggie. — Max Shulman, Rally Round the Flag, Boys!, p. 17, 1957

bubby *nounthe female breast UK, 1655

Usually in the plural.

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 33, 1967
- Their secondary sex characteristics are simply too conspicuous to pass without insult, and we were unmerciful towards them: tits, boobs, knockers, jugs, bobbies, bazooms, lungs, flaps and hooters we called them, and there was no way to be polite about it. — Screw, p. 6, 3rd January 1972

bubonic *nounpotent marijuana US, 2001

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 48, 2001

bubonic *adjectivepotent, extreme, intense US, 1993

- [A] fat ass J, of some bubonic chronic that made me choke[.] — Snoop Doggy Dogg, Gin and Juice, 1993

buck *noun1 a dollar US, 1856

Originally US but applied in Hong Kong and other countries where dollars are the unit of currency.

- There was no mention of a full or partial refund of my two-hundred-buck fee for said license to said state. — Mickey Spillane, Kiss Me Deadly, p. 33, 1952
- She was here last night. All night. For two lousy bucks. — Harry J. Anslinger, The Murderers, p. 54, 1961

2 one hundred dollars; a bet of one hundred dollars US, 1973

- He'd go a buck and a half a piece for as many as I could get. — George V. Higgins, Friends of Eddie Coyle, p. 10, 1973
- — Don R. McCreary (Editor), Dawg Speak, 2001

3 a young black man US, 1835

Overtly racist; an unfortunate favorite term of US President Ronald Reagan when speaking unscripted.

- We saw one buck pull a razor on his sugar in front of Gamby's. — Jack Lair and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 272, 1951
- — Maledicta, p. 152, Summer/Winter 1978: "How to hate thy neighbor: a guide to racist maledicta"

4 a type of homemade alcoholic drink US, 1951

- To brighten the nights a little, I had started a little bootlegging operation, making "buck" (prison liquor) out of cornbread, cane syrup and water. — James Blake, The Joint, p. 36, 23rd December 1951
- Some pretty good shine we call buck, made of rice or orange juice with some yeast and sugar. We'd have some poor asshole keep it in his cell while it set up. — Elmore Leonard, Maximum Bob, p. 108, 1991
- — Gary K. Farlow, Prison-ese, p. 7, 2002

5 in prison, a sit-down strike by the prisoners US, 1972

- — Bruce Jackson, Outside the Law, p. 55, 1972

6 100 pounds US, 2006

- "So tell me—how much does she weigh?" "A buck forty," Dealey said. — Carl Hiaasen, Nature Girl, p. 26, 2006

buck *verb1 to fight your way through a difficult surfing situation US, 1965

- — John M. Kelly, Surf and Sea, p. 281, 1965

2 to act aggressively US, 1977

- So now some dudes will buck on you. They'll say, "What ten cents? What you talking about?" — John Allen, Assault with a Deadly Weapon, p. 56, 1977

3 to shoot a gun US, 1996

- So once we went in a car by Mozart, a rival, Mozart Park Boys, and started bucking at them. — S. Beth Atkin, Voices from the Street, p. 86, 1996

4 to resist US

- Orlando police have a message for taxi cab drivers in danger of being robbed. Don't buck the jack. — Orland (Florida) Sentinel, 13th April 2011

► buck itin craps, to roll a number that has previously been rolled US, 1974

- — John Scarne, Scarne on Dice, p. 462, 1974

► buck the tigerto play faro, a game of chance that was extremely popular in the C19 and only rarely seen in modern times US, 1849

- She's right here in Atlantic City. She's been bucking the tiger in clubs off the Boardwalk. — Stephen Cannell, King Con, p. 120, 1997

buckeroo *nounone dollar US, 1942

An embellishment of buck.

- Thirty-five thousand buckaroos, lady. — Gerald Petievich, Shakedown, p. 79, 1988 bucket *noun1 a jail US, 1894

- If anybody is found carrying a gun or blackjack, he will be tossed in the bucket. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 1, 30th August 1946
- Those goddamn girls were gigglin', righteously laughin' . . . you know, "Ha, ha, that's one of 'em." So off I went to the bucket, for rape. — Hunter S. Thompson, Hell's Angels, p. 17, 1966
- "Is Earl out of the bucket?" — Leonard Gardner, Fat City, p. 128, 1969
- But I really should be in the bucket with a lot of other guys. — Robert Byrne, McGoorty, p. 76, 1972

2 a cell used for solitary confinement US, 1989

- — James Harris, A Convict's Dictionary, p. 28, 1989

3 the buttocks; the anus US, 1938

- — Ellen C. Bellone (Editor), Dictionary of Slang, p. 5, 1989

4 a car, especially one with bucket seats US, 1939

- — Marcus Hanna Bouliware, Life and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Spring 1992
- [T]hey lurched onto Market Street in a brown Bonneville bucket. — Bob Sipchen, Baby Insane and the Buddha, p. 150, 1993

5 a small car US, 2000

- There's even street slang for stealing cars such as "new buckets are being splacked." Buckets refer to small cars, such as Dodge Neons, and to splack is to steal a car using a screwdriver to break into the steering column and start it. — Tampa (Florida) Tribune, p. 1, 6th May 2000

6 in pool, a pocket that appears receptive to balls dropping US, 1988

- — Mike Shamos, The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Billiards, p. 36, 1993

bucketfull *noun► have a bucket full said of a racehorse that has been fed heavily before a race to decrease its chances of winning US, 1951

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 34, 1951

bucket gunner noun

in carnival usage, a person who from a hidden location operates the mechanisms that determine a game's outcome US, 1981

- Don Willmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 35, 1981

bucket head noun

a socially inept person US, 1906

- Detroit Free Press, 4th November 1979

bucket job noun

an intentional loss in an athletic contest US, 1955

- The Olson-Maxim bout was one of the top bucket jobs since the Carnera trail of hoaxes. — San Francisco News, p. 14, 24th February 1955

bucket of blood noun

a bar or dance hall where hard drinking and hard fighting go hand in hand US, 1915

- My place, before I bought it, was referred to as a bucket of blood. — Helen E. Branson, Gay Bar, p. 52, 1957
- You walk into a nigger bucket-of-blood bar on the wooliest corner in the state and spout stupid insults. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Trick Baby, p. 276, 1969
- This dislike gave the store a bucket-of-blood reputation which warned anyone who wasn't already known by, or friendly with, someone in the establishment, to stay away unless his head was made of concrete. — Emmett Grogan, Ringsolevio, p. 99, 1972
- Peeking into the "430" club, a bucket of blood type establishment with sawdust and ground up bones on the floor.[.] — Odie Hawkins, Black Casanova, p. 184, 1984

bucket of bolts noun

a dilapidated car, truck, boat or plane US, 1942

- Montie Tak, Truck Talk, p. 20, 1971
- If the French had felt so threatened by the Rainbow Warrior (a "bucket of bolts," according to a New Zealand national security official), disabling the ship at sea with a low-charge explosive on the propeller shaft—or even tangled wire—would have been enough covert action to deter its further passage. — American Journal of International Law, p. 15, 1992
- The Marines got me airborne in this piece of  that looked ragged and was shaking like a bucket of bolts. — Stephen K. Scroggs, Amy Relations with Congress, p. 92, 2000
- Many charities can arrange to have that bucket of bolts towed right out of your driveway. — Alameda (California) Times-Star, 12th March 2004

bucket shop noun

an investment office that swindles its clients US, 1879

- "And look at all those so-called business men—these bucket-shop guys and stock swindlers and embezzlers." — Charles Hamilton, Men of the Underworld, p. 312, 1952
- He ran boiler rooms and bucket shops. — Stephen Cannell, King Can, p. 35, 1997

bucket worker noun

a swindler US, 1949

- [M]ush workers and lush workers, catamites and sodomites, bucket workers and bail jumpers, till tappers and assistant pickpockets[.] — Nelson Algren, The Man with the Golden Arm, p. 197, 1949

buck fever noun

in shuffleboard, the anxiety often experienced on the last shot US, 1967

- Omero C. Catan, Secrets of Shuffleboard Strategy, p. 64, 1967

buck-fifty noun

a large gash or knife wound US

- Christopher Jimenez, 19, beat up the man on Luzerne Street early Sunday, police said, then pulled out a knife and promised to give him a "buck fifty." — Scranton (Pennsylvania) Times-Tribune, 4th November 2014

buckle verb

► buckle for your dust

in the Vietnam war, to fight with spirit and determination, thus winning the respect of fellow soldiers US, 1991

- No more Vietnam, no more bush, no more grunts, or medevacs, or having to "buckle for your dust." — We Remember: The Vietnam Stories of the Men of 2nd Battalion, 1st Marines, p. 390, 1993
- Buckle for your dust. To fight furiously. — James Webb, Fields of Fire, 2008

buckle bunny noun

a woman who seeks short-term sexual liaisons with rodeo cowboys US, 1978

- Baseball players call them "Annies." To riders on the rodeo circuit, they are "buckle bunnies." To most other athletes, they are just "the wannabes" or "the girls." — Time Magazine, p. 77, 25th November 1991
- Poem, poem on the range / Where the dudes and buckle bunnies all play. — Denver Westword, 26th August 2004

bucklebuster noun

a line in a performance that is guaranteed to produce loud laughter US, 1973

- Sherman Louis Sergel, The Language of Show Biz, p. 30, 1973

buckled adjective

ugly US, 1993

- People Magazine, p. 73, 19th July 1993

bucko noun

1 a man, especially an unrefined or crude man US, 1883

- But when it came to the belligerent buckos, there'd be a house officer call. — Dev Collins with Stewart Sterling, I was a House Detective, p. 66, 1954

2 a dollar US, 1973

- "[S]till in pretty good shape and all, six hundred buckos left and he likes golf, he's out all day, he feels pretty good." — George Higgins, The Digger's Game, p. 97, 1973

buckra noun

a white person US, 1787

- Whites called them "white trash" and Negroes "po" buckra." — Nelson Algren, A Walk on the Wild Side, p. 8, 1956
- "Buckra? What's that?" "The kind of white folks ain't got time for nuthen but bicken niggers and ass-kissen rich folks," the driver said. — Robert Penn Warren, Wilderness, p. 84, 1961

Buck Rogers gun noun

an M-3 Tommy gun US, 1947

- American Speech, p. 54, February 1947: "Pacific War language"

buck sergeant noun

an ordinary sergeant, lowest pay grade US, 1934

- Here he was, two weeks a buck sergeant. — John Williams, Captain Blackman, p. 234, 1972
- I remember vividly the upcoming buck sergeant in my basic training. — David Cortright, Soldiers in Revolt: GI Resistance During the Vietnam War, p. 170, 1975

buckshot special noun

in sports betting, a game with heavy betting on one team US, 1974

- I raised the line to 8½ before one-thirty, but this game was what I'd heard called "a buckshot special." — Gary Mayer, Bookie, p. 155, 1974

bucks-up adjective

wealthy, ostentatiously wealthy US

- Or maybe she could've met some bucks-up player. — Joseph Wambaugh, Harbor Nocturne, p. 239, 2012

buckwheat noun

a black male US, 1978

- Maledicta, p. 153, Summer/Winter 1978: "How to hate thy neighbor: a guide to racist maledicta"

buckwheats noun

1 abuse, persecution US, 1942

- Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 98, 1950
- He gave me the buckwheats, this sergeant. — Rocky Garciano (with Rowland Barber), Somebody Up There Likes Me, p. 202, 1955

2 diminution of power or standing in an organized crime enterprise US, 1964

- American Speech, p. 306, December 1964: "Lingua cosa nostra"

bucky noun

a shotgun US, 1995

- Bill Valentine, Gang Intelligence Manual, p. 110, 1995

bud noun

1 the flower of the marijuana plant; hence marijuana US, 1978

- Mary Corey and Victoria Westermarck, Fer Shurt!, 1982
- Take a big bone hit/Cause after the bud, My rhymes start flowin.' — Tone Loc, Cheeba Cheeba, 1989
- I used to buy some bud from these Jamaicans on the west side all the time. — Yusufuh, Uprising, p. 179, 1995

2 a girl US, 1965

- Elsewhere, Las Vegas' beautiful little high-school buds in their buttocks-decolletage stretch pants are back on the foam-rubber upholstery of luxury broughams peeling off the entire chick ensemble[.] — Tom Wolfe, The Kandy-Kolored Tangerine-Flake Streamline Baby, p. 12, 1965

3 the female nipple US, 1990

- Your buds is as hard as two frozen huckleberries. — Robert Campbell, Sweet La-Land, p. 175, 1990

4 a friend, a buddy US, 1935

- I'm sorry about the show. Buds? — Wayne's World, 1992
- Aw, be a bud, let me in. I was having a blast. — Airheads, 1994

budded; budded out adjective

intoxicated on marijuana US, 1997

- Judi Sanders, Da Bomb, p. 3, 1997
- Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 30, 1997

buddha noun

1 a marijuana cigarette embellished with crack cocaine US, 1989

- Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 135, 1989

2 potent marijuana, usually of Asian origin US, 1988

Also spelt "buddah" or "buda."

- I hit they' ass like the buddah thats stinkey[.] — Cypress Hill, Stoned Is the Way of the Walk, 1991
- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Spring 2000

Buddha grass noun

marijuana US, 1975

Vietnam war usage.

- In 1968, when heroin found its way into those Buddha grass "Marlboro" joints (eventually turning some 20 to 30 percent of the U.S. military in Vietnam into junkies before you could say "Far out, man"), it would be too late to turn the tide. — David H. Hackworth, About Face, p. 574, 1982

Buddhahead noun

a Japanese person US, 1945

Offensive.

- Chicago Japs refer to those from the old country and Hawaii as "Buddha heads" or "Boochies." — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Chicago Confidential, p. 88, 1950
- Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 41, 1971

- “So now if I wanna get somewhere in the department I gotta be a Buddhahead,” Francis moaned to his partner. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Choirboys, p. 91, 1975
- — Edith A. Folb, runnin’ down some lines, p. 231, 1980
- — Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max, 1981

Buddha zone noun

death; the afterlife US
Just a bit cynical.

- Buddha Zone. Death — Jack Hawkins, Tunnel Warriors, p. 330, 1987

Buddhist barbecue; monk barbecue noun

the suicide by self-immolation by Buddhist monks protesting the war

- “I would clap hands at seeing another monk barbecue show, for one can not be responsible for the madness of others. — New York Times, 14 August 1963: Letter to Editor
- She later referred to these events as Buddhist “barbecues. — Spencer Tucker, The Encyclopedia of the Vietnam War, p. 812, 2011

Buddhist priest!

used as a mock profanity to express surprise, disgust or annoyance during the war in Vietnam US

A region-appropriate evolution of Judas Priest!

- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 30, 1991

buddy noun

1 in homosexual culture, a good friend who may or may not be a lover US, 1972

- “Lots of buddy nights at the baths. I can’t even count the number of times I rolled over in bed and told some hot stranger: ‘You’d like my lover.’” — Armistead Maupin, Further Tales of the City, p. 22, 1982

2 a volunteer companion to a person with AIDS US, 1984

- There also exist buddy programs that team a recently diagnosed person with an HIV-positive person who is more experienced in dealing with the issues. — Darrell Ward, The Amfar AIDS Handbook, p. 15, 1999

buddy-buddy adjective

friendly US, 1944

- A friendly, laconic man—but definitely not the back-slapping, buddy-buddy type—Mr. Cadell politely declined to discuss these episodes. — San Francisco News, p. 2, 26th February 1946
- Joan and my woman probation officer real buddy buddy shaking hands[.] — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Allen Ginsberg, p. 459, 1st January 1955
- I have no respect for a duck who runs up to me on the yard all buddy-buddy, and then feels obliged not to sit down with me. — Eldridge Cleaver, Soul on Ice, p. 47, 1968
- So he tried to be buddy-buddy with me, but I wasn’t buying that either. — H. Rap Brown, Die Nigger Die!, p. 44, 1969

buddy buddy plan noun

an arrangement by which friends who enlist in the armed services together serve together US, 1994

- “We can go in the Marines on the buddy-buddy plan and get stationed together.” — Nathan McCall, Makes Me Wanna Holler, p. 92, 1994

buddy check noun

a last-minute inspection of a parachutist’s gear by his jump partner US, 2000

- — Murry A. Taylor, Jumping Fire, p. 455, 2000

buddy-fuck verb

(of a male) to steal a friend’s date US, 1966

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 89, 1968

buddy poker noun

a game of poker in which two friends are playing as partners, but not in collusion US, 1968

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 30, 1987

buddyroo; buddyroo noun

a pal; used as a term of address for a friend US, 1951

- Be a buddy. Be a buddyroo. Okay? — J.D. Salinger, Catcher in the Rye, p. 28, 1951

buddy system noun

during the Korean war, a plan teaming American and Korean soldiers in the hope of providing one-on-one mentoring and training US, 1968

- This was the much-vaunted “buddy system” under which the Koreans were paired off with Americans who were supposed to give them on-the-job training in the soldier’s craft. — Robert Leckie, The Wars of America, Volume II, p. 353, 1968

buddy window noun

a hole between private video booths in a pornography arcade designed for sexual contact where none is officially permitted US, 1996

- The peep show has lost its popularity. The buddy window, glory hole. — James Ridgeway, Red Light, p. 212, 1996

bud head noun

1 a beer drinker US, 1972

Not confined to drinkers of Budweiser™ beer.

- — David Claerbaut, Black Jargon in White America, p. 59, 1972

2 a frequent marijuana user US, 1997

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 45, 1997

buds noun

1 small female breasts US, 1967

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 34, 1967

2 marijuana, especially the most psychoactive part of the plant US, 1997

Also spelled “budz.”

- — Jim Emerson-Cobb, Scratching the Dragon, April 1997

budsky noun

used as a term of address US, 1984

A meaninglessly decorative “buddy.”

- “Maybe he’s looking for a job? Huh budsky?” — Repo Man, 1984

budtender noun

a cannabis dispensary worker who sells and is knowledgeable about various marijuana products US

- “You can call me the bud tender,” the white-coated Arrow said as he offered patients their choice of 13 different kinds of marijuana, in addition to such goodies as chocolate-flavored cannabis bars. — Henry K. Lee, San Francisco Chronicle, 2nd July 2004

Budweiser crest; Budweiser label noun

the emblem of the Navy SEALs (the sea, air and land team) US, 1992

- Even when I was full commander, wet-behind-the-ears ensigns straight out of the Academy would look at the Budweiser cresty—the eagle, anchor, and trident emblem all SEALs wear—on my uniform blouse and sneer. — Richard Marcinko and John Weisman, Rogue Warrior, p. 147, 1992

buf; buff noun

any large military aircraft like a Grumman A-6, a Boeing B-52, and a Sikorsky CH-33, especially the B-52 Stratofortress US, 1968

An abbreviation of “big ugly fat fucker” or, in polite company, “fellow.”

- And the B-52s, or “Bufs,” for Big Ugly Fuckers. If a grant humping in the boonies heard a plane, he could take comfort: it was his. — Harry Maurer, Strange Ground, p. 365, 1989
- Here’s the story of speckled Buf, Lockheed’s Super R. — Joseph Tusso, Singing the Vietnam Blues, p. 188, 1990: Super Constellation
- When a B-52 takes off, Flinn cocks her head to listen. “There goes a Buf” she announces. She knows not only the nickname of this plane, but its classified secrets[.] — Washington Post, p. D1, 29th April 1997
- Boeing and the Air Force have elicited almost half a century of widely varied service form the Buf by masterful planning. — Walter J. Boyne, The B-52 Story, 2001

BUFE; buffy noun

a ceramic elephant, ubiquitous in souvenir shops in Vietnam during the war US

An initialism and acronym created from “big ugly fucking elephant”.

- A buffy (rhymes with stuffy) is an enormous, glazed ceramic elephant. — New York Post, p. 29, 15 January 1973
- Affectionately known by the acronym “BUFE” (Big Ugly Fucking Elephants, pronounced “buffy”), these statues were big enough to be converted into end tables. — Meredith Lair, Armed with Abundance: Consumerism and Soldiering in the Vietnam War, p. 269, 2011

buff noun

1 a workout with weights US, 1989

- — James Harris, A Convict’s Dictionary, p. 28, 1989

2 a water buffalo US, 1977

- He called Quinn and told him to put the buff out of its misery and take the farmer’s name so the Army could pay him back. — Larry Heinemann, Close Quarters, p. 97, 1977
- The Vietnamese used the buffs for pulling plows and carts. — Gregory Clark, Words of the Vietnam War, p. 555, 1990

3 a graffiti-cleaning machine used on subway cars US, 1987

- They were a good place on which to practice and in periods when the “buff” was operating they presented a convenient alternative to the trains. — Henry Chalfant, Spraycan Art, p. 8, 1987

buff verb

1 in hospital usage, to make notations in a patient’s chart that makes the patient look better than they are and ready for the next stage of their care US, 1994

- — Sally Williams, “Strong” Words, p. 135, 1994

2 to exercise with the aim of developing an athletic body US, 1995

- So when I started buffing with Jimel, I blew up to some twenties [20-inch arms], then I got sick with cancer. — Yusuf Jah, Uprising, p. 27, 1995

buff adjective

1 handsome, excellent US, 1982

- — Lillian Glass with Richard Liebmann-Smith, How to Deprogram Your Valley Girl, p. 29, 1982

2 (used of a body) well-toned, well-exercised US, 1982

- — National Education Association Today, April 1985: “A glossary for rents and other squids”
- Gorgeous, buff, volleyball player’s legs? — Joseph Wambaugh, Floater, p. 149, 1996
- “You’re as titanic as ever. So fucking buff!” — Ethan Morden, Some Men Are Lookers, p. 49, 1997
- “Yeah, you’re big enough. Buff enough, I mean. Real buff.” — Missy Hyatt, Missy Hyatt, p. 112, 2001

buffalo noun

1 an American Indian male with especially long hair US, 1963

- — American Speech, p. 272, December 1963: “American Indian student slang”

2 a five-cent piece US, 1945

From the engraving on the coin.

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Live Talk Dictionary, p. 8, 1945

buffalo verb

to confuse someone, to intimidate someone US, 2003

- I never saw nobody buffalo Bill the way she buffaloesd Bill. — Kill Bill, 2003 buffalo bagels!

used for expressing disapproval US, 2003

A signature line of Colonel Sherman Potter on *M*A*S*H* (CBS, 1972–83). Repeated with referential humor.

- As far as I am concerned this is a bunch of—as Colonel Potter from MASH would say “Horse Hockey” or “Buffalo Bagels.” — Steven Wunderink, Minding Your Spiritual Business, p. 98, 2003

buffalo grass noun

any grass tall enough to hide a soldier US, 2004

- — David Hart, First Air Cavalry Division Vietnam Dictionary, p. 10, 2004

buffalo gun noun

a large caliber gun US, 1989

Korean war usage.

- Then two more enemy soldiers appeared out of the smoke and confusion dragging a .57 caliber antitank “buffalo gun.” — David H. Hackworth, About Face, p. 27, 1989

buffarilla noun

an ugly girl US, 1968

A blend of “buffalo” and “gorilla.”

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 89, 1968

buffed adjective

said of a surface chemically treated to thwart graffiti US, 1994

- Almost none of the walls look buffed. — William Upsi Wimsatt, Bomb the Suburbs, p. 43, 1994

buffed; buffed up adjective

muscular; in very good physical condition US, 1995

- They can tell, just from looking at you all buffed up, that you just got outta jail. — Odie Hawkins, Midnight, p. 20, 1995
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 1, Fall 1996

buffer noun

in the world of crack cocaine users, a woman who will perform oral sex in exchange for crack cocaine or the money to buy it US, 1992

- — Terry Williams, Crackhouse, p. 147, 1992

buffers noun

the female breasts US, 1964

- — Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 23, 1964

buffet flat noun

a party held to raise rent money US, 1982

- — Arnold Shaw, Dictionary of American Pop/Rock, p. 179, 1982

buff up verb

to engage in strenuous exercise with a goal of body conditioning US, 2000

- They had to buff up and get mean. — Bill Valentine, Gangs and Their Tattoos, p. 10, 2000

bufu noun

a male homosexual US, 1982

An abbreviation of BUTTFUCKER.

- — Mary Corey and Victoria Westermarck, Fer Shurt!, 1982
- He’s like Mr. BU-FU (Valley Girl) / We’re talking Lord God King BUFU (Valley Girl). — Moon Unit and Frank Zappa, Valley Girl, 1982 bug *noun1 a hidden microphone or listening device US, 1946

- The Texas officers had put a “bug” (hidden microphone) in the room where Manno was to discuss terms with them.[.] — Alison Smith, Syndicate City, p. 252, 1954

2 in the television and movie industries, a small earphone used by a sound mixer US, 1977

- — Tony Miller and Patricia George, Cut! Print!, p. 184, 1977

3 a malfunction in design, especially of a computer or computer software US, 1978

- — CoEvolution Quarterly, p. 27, Spring 1981
- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 82, 1991

4 a burglar alarm US, 1926

- This joint was bugged up, it was a poison joint, a drugstore. I figured out how to cut through the roof and into the ceiling and beat the bug. — Harry King, Box Man, p. 56, 1972
- There weren’t any bugs or burglar alarms. — Vincent Teresa, My Life in the Mafia, p. 102, 1973

5 an illegal numbers lottery US, 1963

- The numbers game, or, to use the regional term, “the bug,” remains the most lucrative racket. — Saturday Evening Post, p. 72, 9th March 1963

6 in poker, a joker played as an ace or a wild card to complete a flush or straight US, 1967

- — Albert H. Morehead, The Complete Guide to Winning Poker, p. 258, 1967

7 a chameleon US, 1973

Circus and carnival slang.

- — Sherman Louis Sergel, The Language of Show Biz, p. 33, 1973

8 in horse racing, a weight handicap US, 1941

- They’ve got Imarazzo on her. He gets the five-pound bug and she’s running against stiff, except for Green Grip. — Vincent Patrick, The Pope of Greenwich Village, p. 82, 1979

9 a torch US, 1980

Circus and carnival usage.

- — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 21, 1980

10 a sociopathic criminal; a crazy person US, 1951

- “You think a jury would convict even a cat on what a bug like Harry Rudolph says?” he taunted. — Burton Turkus and Sid Feder, Murder, Inc., p. 50, 1951

- “He ties her up and beats on her. She loves it. They’re both bugs.” — Robert Stone, Dog Soldiers, p. 80, 1974
- Telano reached the “Bug” on the street side, his off-duty revolver at the ready now[.] — John Sepe, Cop Team, p. 60, 1975
- “Nobody takes Wick seriously. He’s a fuckin’ bug.” — Ted Conover, Newjack, p. 116, 2000

► have a bug up your ass to be annoyed or angry US, 1949

- “Beeker’s got a bug in his ass,” he said. — Clarence Cooper Jr., The Scene, p. 25, 1960
- Sometimes Moran the cop would get a bug up his ass and grab me or Colorado on the street and put us back in the Home. — Edwin Torres, Carlito’s Way, p. 16, 1975
- Castlebeck’s got a bug up his ass over this guy. — Gone in 60 Seconds, 2000

► put a bug in someone’s ear to hint at something US, 1905

- I’m just saying maybe you should put a bug in her ear all the same. You never know. — Robert Campbell, In a Pig’s Eye, p. 56, 1991

► the bug

HIV US, 1997

- Linda Taylor caught the bug and died in January. — David Simon and Edward Burns, The Corner, p. 148, 1997

► the bug

malaria US, 1947

- — American Speech, p. 54, February 1947: “Pacific War language”

bug *verb1 to bother someone, to annoy someone US, 1947

- You must start reading Balzac, incidentally, but don’t let me rush you and bug you. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Neal Cassidy, p. 126, 13th September 1947
- Don’t bug me with them Christian cats, let them goof off anyway they want to. — William “Lord” Buckley, Nero, 1951
- Goldlocks rolled over and mumbled sleepily, “Jack, don’t bug me.” — Steve Allen, Bop Fables, p. 12, 1955
- You want to bug us till we have to lock you up. — Rebel Without a Cause, 1955

2 to panic, to be anxious US, 1988

- But people came that like, did not R.S.V.P., so I was like, totally buggin’.

— Clueless, 1995

3 to watch something US, 1952

- He sat forward to bug the picture—and again lost himself in fantasy.

— Hal Ellson, The Golden Spike, p. 196, 1952

4 to talk and act in a disassociated, irrational way while under the influence of crack cocaine US, 1992

- — Terry Williams, Crackhouse, p. 147, 1992

5 to arm something with an alarm US, 1919

- The question is whether they got this door bugged or not. — Vincent Patrick, Family Business, p. 209, 1985

6 to attach or install a listening device US, 1919

- [T]hey are even bugging her telephone and just now sent over this tape[.] — Gore Vidal, Myra Breckinridge, p. 133, 1968

7 to dance US, 1968

- — Joan Fontaine et al., Dictionary of Black Slang, 1968

bugaboo noun

an imagined object of terror UK, 1740

- Selling apples on the streets became the great national bugaboo, a coast-to-coast phobia. — Max Shulman, The Zebra Derby, p. 109, 1946

- [W]e are having fish for supper this Friday nite because I mentioned I was Catholic—their bugaboo. — Neal Cassidy, The First Third, p. 219, 1965

bug boy noun

in horse racing, a jockey who has not yet won a race and who is given a five-pound weight allowance US, 1968

Because of the “bug” or asterisk denoting the jockey’s status in the racing program.

- — Don Voorhees and Bob Benoit, Railbird Handbook, p. 44, 1968

bug buster noun

a physician specializing in infectious diseases US, 1984–1985

- — Maledicta, p. 117, 1984–1985: “Milwaukee medical maledicta”

bug cell noun

a prison cell reserved for the mentally ill US, 1949

- The cons up there were either in bug cells or deadlock. — Nelson Algren, The Man with the Golden Arm, p. 205, 1949

bug chaser; bugchaser noun

a person whose unsafe sex practices suggest a suicidal wish US, 2002

- “You’re what they call a bug chaser, aren’tcha. If you wanna die so bad, whyn’tcha just blow yer fuckin’ brains out?” — Lynn Breedlove, Godspeed, p. 181, 2002

bug doctor noun

a psychiatrist US, 1951

- — American Speech, p. 194, October 1951: “A study of reformatory argot”

- — Gary K. Farlow, Prison-ese, p. 7, 2002

bug dope noun

insect repellent US, 1993

- — Mike Doogan, How to Speak Alaskan, p. 16, 1993

bug eye noun

in television and movie-making, a fisheye lens US, 1987

- — Ira Konigsberg, The Complete Film Dictionary, p. 36, 1987

bug flea noun

an epidemiologist specializing in infectious diseases US, 1994

- — Sally Williams, “Strong” Words, p. 135, 1994

bugfuck *adjectivederanged, out of control US, 1994

- When he saw the cat, that old bulldog went bugfuck. — Michael Dalton Johnson, Talking Trash with Redd Foxx, p. 110, 1994

bugged *adjectiveangry US, 1956

- I guess he was bugged also, and when two bugged convicts meet head on, pressure gotta come out. — Piri Thomas, Down These Mean Streets, p. 259, 1967
- What's the point of being bugged if you don't have any power to change anything? — Nat Hentoff, I'm really dragged but nothing gets me down, p. 9, 1968

bugged up *adjective1 equipped with a burglar alarm US, 1972

- This joint was bugged up, it was a poison joint, a drugstore. — Harry King, Box Man, p. 56, 1972

2 anxious, nervous US, 1949

- I wasn't more than two blocks away from Juan's place when I started getting bugged up again. — Hal Elson, Duke, p. 164, 1949

bugger verb

- The way to handle it is to pass the word to some crabby dumb mick of a DA, and he'll bugger it up fast enough. — George V. Higgins, The Friends of Eddie Doyle, p. 65, 1971

bugging *adjectivecrazy US, 1995

- That ccess [marijuana] got me buggin'. — Lois Stavsky et al., A2Z: The Book of Rap and Hip-Hop Slang, p. 18, 1995 buggy *adjectivesilly, insane, or in-between US, 1902

- Now, beat it, you baggy old bitch! Take your buggy boy friend and clear out of here before I forget I'm a lady. — Jim Thompson, Pop, 1280, p. 201, 1964
- Back in New York the place had gone Beatle buggy. — Murray Kaufman, Murray the K Tells It Like It Is, Baby, p. 91, 1966
- "I can tell you right now the sonofabitch weren't never right after that. Got buggy, I guess." — William Brashter, City Dags, p. 60, 1976
- He had no desire to go back up to his cutting room again, get all buggy with his thoughts. — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 435, 1992 buggy whip *nouna long radio antenna on a car or truck US, 1962

- — American Speech, p. 267, December 1962: "The language of traffic policemen"

bughouse *nouna mental hospital US, 1899

- "I told you he was bug-house, didn't I?" Jinx said. — Horace McCoy, Kiss Tomorrow Good-bye, p. 108, 1948
- So they took him to the hospital and when he failed to improve they shipped him to the "bug house." — Caryl Chessman, Cell 2456 Death Row, p. 117, 1954
- I could snap up and get sent to the federal bughouse in Springfield, Missouri, or I could refuse to come out of my cell. — Edwin Torres, Carlito's Way, p. 124, 1975
- "Twelve years in St. Liz's bughouse," Harry said. — Elmore Leonard, Pronto, p. 258, 1993

bughouse *adjectiveinsane, mad US, 1894

- Joe Castillo was, in his words, totally bughouse. — Joseph Wambaugh, Lines and Shadows, p. 135, 1984

bug juice *noun1 an insect repellent US, 1944

The term was coined in World War 2 and has been used since. In Vietnam, there was no shortage of bugs or "bug juice," which was also used to light fires, clean weapons, and heat cans of C-rations.

- Neither fire nor water nor bug juice nor anything except burning the bunks could get rid of them. — Chester Himes, Cast the First Stone, p. 77, 1952
- We never use deodorant, but we do use bug juice. Lots and lots of bug juice. — Ernest Spencer, Welcome to Vietnam, Macho Man, p. 90, 1987

2 Kool-Aid™ or a sugary, powdered, artificially flavored Kool-Aid-like drink US, 1946

- Coined in World War 2, popular in Vietnam, and the title and subject of a rousing Girl Scout song sung to the tune of "On Top of Old Smokey."
- He went up to the wardrobe and got a glass of "bug juice" before he returned to his room. — Gerry Carroll, *North S*A*R*, p. 255, 1991
- Amazingly, it still tasted vaguely like grape bug juice. — Elissa Stein and Kevin Leslie, Chunks, p. 78, 1997

3 medication given those with mental disorders US, 2002

- — Gary K. Farlow, Prison-ese, p. 8, 2002

4 any antibiotic US, 1984

- — Maledicta, p. 117, 1984–1985: "Milwaukee medical maledicta"
- — Sally Williams, "Strong" Words, p. 135, 1994

5 tear gas US, 1950

- — Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 35, 1950

bugle *nounthe nose US, 1865

- George Piccolo, "a guy with a tremendous bugle on him," stumbled on some gang kids in Queens who were armed with chains and switchblades. — Leonard Shecter and William Phillips, On the Pad, p. 84, 1973 bug-out *noun1 any hasty retreat; a dramatic evasive maneuver used by fighter pilots US, 1957

- If the feces really hit the fan, there are three points through which a man can run for the hills—rear exits in the trench called "bug-outs." — Martin Russ, The Last Parallel, p. 116, 1957
- In these "bug-outs" the men sometimes threw away their weapons without firing a shot it was this "bug-out" atmosphere that caused General

Walker to make his "stand-or-die" order. — Don Lawson, The United States in the Korean War, p. 33, 1964

- For those situations in which barrel rolling didn't work, McKeown devised a maneuver called the "bug out." — Robert K. Wilcox, Scream of Eagles, p. 140, 1990

2 a lively, wild time US, 1995

- His parents are away. It's gonna be a bug-out. — Kids, 1995 bug out *verb1 to flee US, 1950

- "Bugging out," a phrase describing unseemly and precipitate flight, was already a battlefield cliché, and one regiment had already adopted "the Bug-Out Blues" as its "theme song." — Robert Leckie, The Wars of America, Volume II, p. 349, 1968
- The troops came up with a better catchword than Vietnamization, phthier, to the point. They were "bugging out." — Walter J. Boyne and Steven L. Thompson, The Wild Blue, p. 533, 1986

2 to go insane US, 1961

- — Francis J. Rigney and L. Douglas Smith, The Real Bohemia, p. xiii, 1961
- Dr. Dre admitted that it "tripped me out, bugged me the fuck out" when he discovered white kids were buying his records[.] — Barney Hoskyns, Waiting For The Sun, p. 337, 1996

bugout unit *nouna military unit with a reputation for running under fire US, 1982

- Korean war usage.
- The 24th Regiment never overcame its reputation as a "bugout" unit—a derivative name GIs gave to troops who broke under fire. — Joseph C. Goulden, Korea, p. 169, 1982

bugs *adjectivecrazy US, 1903

- "He's nutty." "He's bugs," said another. — Robert Gover, The Maniac Responsible, p. 191, 1963 bug ship *nouna Bell UH-1H Huey helicopter converted to spray the chemical defoliant Agent Orange US, 1991

- He served as flight leader on day and night combat assaults and was primary aircraft commander on the unit's "Bug" ship. — Turner Publishing Staff, Vietnam Helicopter Pilots Association, p. 161, 1998

bugsmasher *nouna Beech C-47 Expeditor, a military transport plane used from World War 2 until early in the Vietnam war US, 1991

- Still, he had never actually flown in a Navy plane other than the COD, the Carrier Onboard Delivery Plane, the ugly bugsmasher that carried parts and people. — James Huston, Balance of Power, p. 122, 1999

build *verbto serve time in prison US, 1967

- You mean you've built two big ones in this jailhouse and you still don't know when to leave your cell partner alone for a few minutes? — Malcolm Braly, On the Yard, p. 209, 1967 build-up *nounin horse racing, betting at the track designed to increase the odds on a bet made away from the track US, 1960

- — Robert Saunders Dowst and Jay Craig, Playing the Races, p. 161, 1960

bukkake *nouna photograph or video depicting multiple men ejaculating onto a single woman US, 1997

Japanese slang meaning "splash" used by English-speakers with no further knowledge of Japanese; a popular fetish.

- Bukkake Festival. Does anybody know about these Asian films? — alt.asian-movies, 15th March 1995
- Bizarre rituals such as bukkake videos, which feature as many as 80 men ejaculating one after another into a woman's face while she holds a bowl underneath her chin, pushed the limits even further. — LA Weekly, p. 18, 14th January 2000
- The porn phenomenon known as bukkake shoots homophobia and misogyny right in the face. — Village Voice, p. 144, 20th March 2001

bulbed *adjectivedrunk US, 1960

- We were both really bulbed[.] — Glendon Swarthout, Where the Boys Are, p. 29, 1960
- But when it happened I was so pleasantly bulbed that the implications didn't sink in. — Frederick Kohner, The Affairs of Gidget, p. 113, 1963

bull *noun1 nonsense US, 1902

An abbreviation of BULLSHIT.

- Not the bull they teach you in Sunday school. — John Rechy, City of Night, p. 327, 1963
- "So don't give me a lot of bull. Give me the truth." — Frederick Kohner, The Affairs of Gidget, p. 3, 1963

2 a police officer, especially a detective; a prison guard US, 1893

- It's better you tell me than have the bulls drag you to the station. — Mickey Spillane, I, The Jury, p. 43, 1947
- There were two narcotic bulls on my back. — Jack Gerber, The Connection, p. 69, 1957
- Big Jeff, as usual, was the first bull through the door. Imagine, Augie Robles, cornered, with four, count 'em, four pistols, waiting on you. Shee-it. The bulls killed Augie that night[.] — Edwin Torres, Carlito's Way, p. 17, 1972
- The bulls are across the street. They're watching everything you do. — Goodfellas, 1990

3 an aggressive, mannish lesbian US, 1964

- Some bull pawing over her. — Joe Houston, The Gay Flesh, p. 108, 1965
- Known variously as a bull, a stomper, a bad butch, a hard dresser, a truck driver, a diesel dyke, a bull dagger and a half dozen other soubriquets, she is the one who, according to most homosexual girls, gives lesbians a bad name. — Ruth Allison, Lesbianism, p. 125, 1967

4 in prison, a person who can withstand physical hardship US, 1990

- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 199, 1990

5 an aggressive poker better US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 14, 1988

6 in the circus, an elephant, male or female US, 1921

- [E]lephants are called “bulls” or “pigs.” — Butch Reynolds, Broken Hearted Clown, p. 32, 1953
- — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 21, 1980

7 a battle tank US, 1976

- Get that bull off us, over! — Charles Anderson, The Grunts, p. 119, 1976

8 in a deck of playing cards, an ace US, 1963

- — Irwin Steig, Common Sense in Poker, p. 182, 1963

bull adjective

when describing a military rank, full US, 1973

Korean war usage.

- He finally made bull colonel: he's deserved it a long time. — Walter J. Sheldon, Gold Bait, p. 47, 1973
- The orders came, brawled by a bull sergeant. — Michael Shaara, The Killer Angels, p. 326, 1974

bull artist noun

a person who habitually lies or exaggerates US, 1918

- “Oh, brother!” she said. “What a bull artist!!!” — Jim Thompson, Pop, 1280, p. 209, 1964

bull boss noun

a superintendent US, 1962

- [T]wo roustabouts and the bull boss were killed. — Stephen Longstreet, The Flesh Peddlers, p. 193, 1962

bullcrap noun

nonsense US, 1935

A slightly euphemized BULLSHIT.

- “She’s too good for me,” Chico admitted. Bull-crap, Angel thought[.] — Hal Ellson, The Golden Spike, p. 57, 1952
- “A chance to make a lot of money and with no risk.” “Bullcrap. There’s always risk.” — Burt Hirschfeld, Fire Island, p. 99, 1970

bulldag verb

to perform oral sex on a woman US, 1954

- Cause, whore, I’m gonna sleigh-ride you and bulldag you too. — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 125, 1965

bulldagger noun

a lesbian with masculine affectations and mannerisms US, 1929

A variant of BULLDYKE.

- She dresses like a goddamn bull dagger. — James Baldwin, Another Country, p. 31, 1962
- Now the hostess of the evenin’ was Free-Turn Flor / she brought fifteen bulldaggers to put on the show. — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 148, 1964
- Bev is sometimes a raging bulldagger, sometimes rabidly homophobic. — Michelle Tea, Rent Girl, p. 84, 2004

bull derm noun

any low grade of tobacco issued by the state to prisoners US, 2001

A corruption of Bull Durham™, an RJ Reynolds tobacco brand.

- — AFSCME Local 3963, The Correctional Officer’s Guide to Prison Slang, 2001

bulldog verb

1 (used of a professional insider in horse racing) to falsely claim to have given good information in a completed race US, 1968

- — San Francisco News, 14th February 1968

2 in the illegal production of alcohol, to sweat whiskey out of used barrel staves US, 1974

- — David W. Maurer, Kentucky Moonshine, p. 114, 1974

3 to intimidate someone verbally and/or physically US, 1992

- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 91, 1992

bulldog nose noun

a severe case of gonorrhoea US, 1967

A truly hideous image.

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 34, 1967

bulldozer noun

a poker player whose aggressive betting is not contingent upon holding a good hand US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 14, 1988

bulldrunk noun

a drinking spree US, 1964

- I went to the Republican convention and put on a bulldrunk that scared the shit out of the Observer honchos sent out to put me to work. — Hunter S. Thompson, The Proud Highway, p. 463, 19th August 1964: Letter to Don Cooke

bulldyke; bulldike; bull noun

a lesbian with masculine affectations and mannerisms US, 1931

- You lousy bulldike! — George Mandel, Five the Angry Strangers, p. 386, 1952
- He was torn in two by a bull dike. Most terrific vaginal grip I ever experienced. — William Burroughs, Naked Lunch, p. 91, 1957
- “Well, really, darling,” she said, because I was clearly puzzled, “if it’s not about a couple of old bull-dykes, what the hell is it about?” — Truman Capote, Breakfast at Tiffany’s, p. 21, 1958
- The occasional cigar-smoking leather-jacket bull dyke may bend the regulation. — Roger Gordon, Hollywood’s Sexual Underground, p. 25, 1966

- I looked like a bull dyke or the trick of one, with handcuffs, a leather jacket, metal belts, and Levi 501’s, so I would try to method act. — Jennifer Blowdryer, White Trash Debutante, p. 56, 1997

bulldyker; bulldiker noun

a lesbian with masculine affectations and mannerisms US, 1906

A variant of BULLDYKE.

- The compound bulldiker seems to stem from adjectival use of bull and ram as intensifiers among West Indians. — Peter Tamony, Dike, p. 6, 1972
- Last night some bulldiker tried to stab Apeman when he tried to collect. — Donald Goines, Black Gangster, p. 213, 1977

bullet noun

1 one year of a prison sentence US, 1967

- He had served a bullet ‘n’ a deuce. — Lightnin’ Rod, Hustlers Convention, p. 10, 1973
- Richard, you’re looking at a dime minimum this time. Ten bullets. You think you can handle that? — James Elroy, Blood on the Moon, p. 90, 1984
- What’s another bullet, wild or bowlegged. . . Anyways they have to convict first. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 141, 1990

2 in cards, an ace US, 1807

- “But watch out, punk—that hand beside you is flushin’ ‘n’ that bird with nothin’ but an ace showin’ is gonna cop with three concealed bullets.” — Nelson Algren, The Man with the Golden Arm, p. 10, 1949
- Get rid of that damn ace, that black bullet. — Richard Prather, The Peddler, p. 65, 1952
- The banker spread his hand. A flush. “Four bullets,” Rick said joyously, slapping them down. — John D. McDonald, The Neon Jungle, p. 57, 1953

3 a quart bottle of beer, especially of Budweiser™ beer US, 1967

- — American Speech, p. 61, February 1967: “Soda-fountain, restaurant and tavern calls”

4 a capsule of secobarbital sodium (trade name Seconal™), a central nervous system depressant US, 1972

- — Richard A. Spears, The Slang and Jargon of Drugs and Drink, p. 83, 1986

5 a device that delivers a measured quantity of powdered drug for inhalation UK, 1999

6 a narcotic suppository US, 1984

- — Inez Cardozo-Freeman, The Joint, p. 485, 1984

7 a short surfboard with a rounded nose US, 1991

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin’ary, p. 16, 1991

8 in skateboarding, a riding position: crouching low on the board with arms outstretched US, 1976

- — Laura Torbet, The Complete Book of Skateboarding, p. 105, 1976

9 a bag of heroin packaged for retail sale US, 2006

- On the day that we was killed, Mr. Brown was with a friend when he received a phone call about “five bullets,” street slang for a bag of heroin. — The Capital (Annapolis, Maryland), p. A1, 18th August 2006

► put a bullet in Rover

to stop talking and start listening US, 1992

- The expression “put a bullet in Rover” is common street slang for “shut up and listen,” Mike explained. “It’s an everyday expression, but they don’t know it because they don’t know the streets.” — Orlando (Florida) Sentinel Tribune, p. E1, 23rd July 1992

bulletproof adjective

in computing, able to withstand any change or external stimulus US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 84, 1991

bullet stabber noun

a loader of a combat tank crew US, 1986

- If you weren’t a trained “tread head” when you came to us, Alpha would turn you into a top-grade “bullet stabber” in no time. — Ralph Zumbro, Tank Sergeant, p. viii, 1986

bullet-stopper noun

a soldier in the infantry US, 1998

- — Seattle Times, p. A9, 12th April 1998

bull feathers noun

nonsense US, 1971

- The statement left no room for doubt. “Bullfeathers,” said Charles O. Finley, owner of the Oakland A’s. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 45, 15th June 1971
- Bull feathers. That amounts to bureaucratic blackmail. — San Diego Union-Tribune, p. NC2, 18th October 2003

bullfrog verb

in craps, to make a bet on a single roll of the dice US, 1983

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 30, 1987

bull goose noun

the person in charge of any situation US, 1932

- “Old Foster is the bull goose out at the Army Hospital,” meaning that Colonel Foster was the commandant.” — Vance Randolph, Down in the Haller, p. 231, 1953
- “You the bull goose here?” Dove asked. “I’m lookin’ for boat-work.” — Nelson Algren, A Walk on the Wild Side, p. 81, 1956
- Tara Reid, 26, who plays a student writing about Van at the behest of campus newspaper editor Tom Everett Scott, 31, when she’s not suffering the company of her bull-goose jerk of a boyfriend, Daniel Cosgrove, also 31. — Cincinnati Enquirer, p. 9W, 5th April 2002
- Warren was pretty much bull goose of Magno Clique. — Linden Dalecki, Kid B, p. 23, 2006

bull goose looney noun

the leader of a group of crazy people US, 1962

- Ask him if he’s bull goose looney. — Ken Kesey, One Flew Over the Cuckoo’s Nest, p. 19, 1962
- The air’s filled with sex, and I’m the bulgooselony chicken. — David Henry Sterry, Chicken, p. 48, 2002

bullhead noun

an extremely large penis US, 1973

- I told her to make a guy think he has a bullhead for a dick even if it's not as large as her clitoris. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 167, 1973

bull horrors noun

the terror of the police felt by a drug addict US, 1927

- — Vincent J. Montealeone, Criminal Slang, p. 36, 1949
- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 41, 1971

bulling adjective

very good US, 1953

- — Lavada Durst, The Lives of Dr. Hepcat, p. 11, 1953

bull jive noun

1 insincere talk US, 1971

- — Hermese E. Roberts, The Third Ear, 1971

2 marijuana that has been adulterated with catnip or another leaf-like substance US, 1973

- — David W. Maurer and Victor Vogel, Narcotics and Narcotics Addiction, p. 393, 1973

bull of the woods noun

a college official such as a dean US, 1947

- — Marcus Hanna Boulware, Jive and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947

bullpen noun

1 a holding cell in a courtroom or a jail US, 1880

- I stepped into the bullpen, followed him dumbly. — Chester Himes, If He Hollers Let Him Go, p. 200, 1945
- From there they were sent to the bullpen to await the wagon[.] — Hal Elson, The Golden Spike, p. 240, 1952
- They come from the bullpen to the Tombs up to their floor. — James Mills, The Panic in Needle Park, p. 44, 1966
- The bailiff thrust him into the bullpen. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 145, 1990

2 an open area in an office with desks US, 1983

- The bullpen was a large room in the Field Office which was crammed with rows of gray metal desks facing one another. — Gerald Petievich, To Live and Die in L.A., p. 53, 1983
- — Kathleen Odean, High Steppers, Fallen Angels, and Lollipops, p. 157, 1988

3 in a nightclub, chairs without tables for patrons who want only to listen to the music US, 1956

- These bull pens still exist in bob palaces around the country. — Robert Sylvester, No Cover Charge, p. 275, 1956

bullpup noun

a target pistol, especially one with an elaborate stock US, 1957

- — American Speech, p. 192, October 1957: "Some colloquialisms of the handgunner" bullpup; bull pub noun

the air-to-ground missile (AGM) carried on fighter jets US

- Darrell had a big 1700# bullpup air-to-ground missile and four 500$ bombs. Glenn and I had two small bullpups. — Frank Elkins, The Heart of a Man, pp. 14–15, 20 June 1966

bull roar noun

nonsense US, 1967

- [H]e preached it with a brand of psychology, the sunshine-spreading, and a generous sprinkling of bull roar. — Elaine Shepard, The Doom Pussy, p. 49, 1967

bull-scare verb

(used of the police) to frighten or intimidate someone without arresting them US, 1971

- At four a.m. my man the grifter called to report that the gorilla had been bull scared into taking a train back to New York. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), The Naked Soul of Iceberg Slim, p. 86, 1971

bullshit noun

nonsense US, 1914

- Let's jus leave all this bullshit and beat it. — George Mandel, Flee the Angry Strangers, p. 205, 1952
- Efan was a man who always backed up his bullshit with action, which explains why he was always getting himself in these impossible situations. — Cecil Brown, The Life & Loves of Mr. Jiveass Nigger, p. 62, 1969
- Nearly everything I have ever read or been told about why people gamble is just plain bullshit. — Mario Puzo, Inside Las Vegas, p. 133, 1977
- Carter, Reagan and Anderson. It's all bullshit. (Radio commercial for Barry Commoner). — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 12, 15th October 1980

bullshit verb

to deceive someone, to fool someone US, 1937

- Through the port . . . I climbed out on the bodkin . . . I'm not bullshitting Chris. — Robert S. Close, Love Me Sailor, p. 141, 1945
- I was just bull shittin' her all the way down the line anyway to try to make peace before I get out of the house. — Babs Gonzales, Movin' On Down De Line, p. 126, 1975
- I took the liberty of bullshitting you, okay? — The Blues Brothers, 1980
- I knew he was bullshitting. — Ferris Bueller's Day Off, 1986

bullshit artist noun

a person who habitually lies or exaggerates US, 1942

- He seems likeable enough, but he's a typical Marine bullshit artist—an authority on everything, incapable of saying I don't know. — Martin Russ, Happy Hunting Ground, p. 20, 1968
- In the eyes of many of his colleagues, Apple was a compulsive bullshit artist, the kind of man who could not resist adding $5000-a-year when he told you his salary. — Timothy Crouse, The Boys on the Bus, p. 75, 1974
- He was a wonderful intimidator and bluffer and bullshit artist. — Nicholas Von Hoffman, Citizen Cohn, p. 386, 1988
- Andy would have accepted "con man" or even "bullshit artist" over "comedian." — Bob Zmuda, Andy Kaufman Revealed!, p. 22, 1999

bullshit-ass adjective

rubbishy, awful US, 2002

Combines BULLSHIT (nonsense) with -ASS (an intensifier for the preceding adjective).

- After reading that Mobb Deep [hip-hop artists] article and hearing that bullshit-ass album, I don't know what's going on[.] — The Source, p. 44, March 2002

bullshit black noun

the flat black paint often found on a used car's chassis US, 1962

- — American Speech, p. 267, December 1962: "The language of traffic policemen"

bullshit bomber noun

a plane used in a propaganda-dropping operation US, 1980

- Throughout Southeast Asia everybody referred to them as "bullshit bombers." — Tom Yarborough, Da Nang Diary, p. 22, 1990

bullshit rich adjective

very rich US, 1994

A gem from the slang of miners.

- — Michael Dalton Johnson, Talking Trash with Redd Foxx, p. 120, 1994

bullshitter noun

a liar, a braggart, a bluffer US, 1933

- I'm a bigger bullshitter than any of them. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to John Clellon Holmes, p. 200, 24th June 1949

- What a bullshitter, geez, I never—is he a bullshitter! — Jack Kerouac, Doctor Sax, p. 40, 1959

- He was a real bullshitter, but he was an exciting guy and as long as he wasn't bullshitting me, I didn't mind. — Marilyn G. Haft, Time without Work, p. 172, 1983

- A lot of Greek bullshitters read the coffee cups but I reckon my Aunt Tasia is the real thing. — Christos Tsiolkas, Loaded, p. 16, 1995

bullskate verb

to pretend, to deceive someone, to brag US, 1947

A euphemism for BULLSHIT.

- — Marcus Hanna Boulware, Jive and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947

bull sugar noun

nonsense US, 1963

A cleaned up BULLSHIT.

- "The genuine article. No bullsugar, eh." — Frederick Kohner, The Affairs of Gidget, p. 111, 1963

bull's wool noun

any stolen goods US, 1945

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 22, 1945

bullsworth noun

in circus usage, a lie US, 1981

- — Don Wilmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 37, 1981

bull thrower noun

an eloquent bluffer US, 1987

- I picked him because he was a good bull-thrower, sharp on his feet, and could really handle himself. — Joseph Pistone, Donnie Brasco, p. 39, 1987

bully club noun

a police baton US, 1963

- The beatman held a bully-club in his right hand and used it for short, rapid blows to Dena's head and back[.] — Robert Gover, The Maniac Responsible, p. 160, 1963

bully stick noun

a police baton US, 1990

- Police used bully sticks against the protesters, who rained rocks and bottles on the officers. — USA Today, 29th October 1990

bum noun

1 the buttocks; occasionally and specifically, the anus, the rectum UK, 1387

A good Middle English word that survived in conventional usage until the late C18. The etymology is very uncertain; possibly from Italian bum (the sound of an explosion), and it is suggested (elsewhere) that "bum" is echoic of buttocks slapping a flat surface. What is certain is that it is now in semi-conventional currency. It is not an abbreviation of BOTTOM which is a much later coinage.

- [S]he infuriated a number of men who thought that they should be able to rub her small breasts and round bum simply because she was an Indian. — Leonard Cohen, Beautiful Losers, p. 33, 1966

2 a bag in which classified documents which are to be destroyed are placed US, 1986

- — Department of the Army, Staff Officer's Guidebook, p. 57, 1986

bum verb

1 to beg; to borrow something without the expectation of returning it US, 1857

- Sure, I always got cigarettes. Reason is, I'm a bum. I bum them whenever I get the chance is why my pack lasts longer than Harding's here. — Ken Kesey, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, p. 173, 1962
- Right away he thought, "There's me three suckers over there." So he walked over to them and he bumed them. — John Gimenez, Up Tight!, p. 79, 1967
- I bum a cigarette from one. We're all brothers. — Abbie Hoffman, Revolution for the Hell of It, p. 19, 1968
- His name was Bummer Bob because he was the first person in San Francisco to call panhandling "bumming." — Pamela Des Barres, I'm With the Band, p. 48, 1988

2 to feel poorly or depressed US, 1989

- There I was, bumming about Cassandra, and out of the blue, I meet Bergen, Bjerger Kjerger from Knuergen near the Jbergen Fjords. — Wayne's World 2, 1993

- Something about having to hear the woman you really like going to the toilet always bugged me. — Airheads, 1994
- 3 to have a bad experience with a hallucinogenic drug US, 1972
 - “He’s bumping,” comes Manny’s voice. “We have to get him out,” Shell says. For them, the drug’s spell has ended. And they realize that for Jerry the insane world has spilled into reality. — John Rechy, The Fourth Angel, p. 130, 1972
- 4 in computing, to improve something by removing or rearranging it US, 1983
 - “I bumped the program not to write the file if it would be empty.” — Guy L. Steele et al., The Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 39, 1983

bum adjective

- injured, damaged, faulty US, 1902
 - “That trap door turned out to be a bum lead,” Pat said. — Chester Gould, Dick Tracy Meets the Night Crawler, p. 138, 1945
 - Edgar, her husband, succumbed to “bum kidneys” (his term) on Christmas Eve, 1976. — Armistead Maupin, Further Tales of the City, p. 16, 1982
 - I got a bum prostate [. . .] I had to stop to take a leak. — Janet Evanovich, Seven Up, p. 9, 2001

bum about; bum around verb to wander or live idly US, 1926

- I started bumping around the country, playing poker and shooting dice. — Bruce Jackson, A Thief’s Primer, p. 75, 1972

bum beef noun

- a complaint or accusation lacking merit US, 1976
 - In the old prison flicks, the nice old con or the innocent kid, railroaded on a bum beef, always works in the library.[.] — Malcolm Braly, False Starts, p. 106, 1976
 - “This is a bum beef,” he told the guards there. “Total bullshit.” — Pete Earley, The Hot House, p. 15, 1992

bum-beef verb

- to frame an innocent person US, 1968
 - — Current Slang, p. 12, Fall 1968

bum bend noun

- an unpleasant experience under the influence of a hallucinogen US, 1971
 - — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 42, 1971

bumbershoot noun

- an umbrella US, 1896
 - While the umbrella—or broly or bumbershoot or parasol—has protected people from sun or rain for some 4,000 years, there are apparently a few rude umbrella handlers left on the planet. — Chicago Tribune, 6th April 2003

bumbled up adjective

- drunk to the point of passing out US, 1968
 - — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 91, 1968

bumblefuck noun

- an inept person US, 1990
 - Jettison the bumblefuck into the vacuum of space where no one can hear him scream. — rec.humor, 10th October 1990
 - You didn’t think about patting them down and checking them for gear, did you? Bumblefucks! — William Upski Wimsatt, Bomb the Suburbs, p. 51, 1994
 - “I don’t have time for this bumblefuck.” — Carl Hiaasen, Nature Girl, p. 261, 2006

Bumblefuck noun

- any remote, small town US, 1989
 - — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 26, 1989
 - “So like two goofs from East Bumblefuck, Mort and I put all the pieces together.” — Scott Thurow, Personal Injuries, p. 23, 1999
 - She was certain she would end up in Bumblefuck, Illinois, where she would have to endure the self-righteous monologues of Myra Tuchbaum.[.] — Adam Langer, Crossing California, p. 391, 2004

bum-bust verb

- to arrest someone on false or nonexistent charges US, 1977
 - “He doesn’t look like a bad kid, be a shame the city put him up for a week, he gets bum-busted by some hood case.” — John Sayles, Union Dues, p. 29, 1977

bumbye; bambai adverb

- sometime soon US, 1981
 - Hawaiian youth usage.
 - Bumbye we goin’ ovah Harold’s, get radical. — Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max, 1981

bumfuck verb

- to have anal intercourse, to sodomize someone US, 1866
 - “You wanna be bum-fucked while Don watches?” — Sonia Florens, The Mammoth Book of Women’s Fantasies, p. 82, 2004

Bumfuck, Egypt noun

- a mythical town that is the epitome of remoteness US, 1972
 - With variants.
 - “This . . . ain’t . . . Bumfuck, Egypt.” — Jack Hawkins, Chopper One #2, p. 89, 1987
 - After that, I went to Aberdeen Proving Grounds, and you went to . . . bumfuck Saudi Arabia? — Edward Lee, Ghoulis, p. 202, 1988
 - Well, yes, in a way, but it’s better than being stuck somewhere outside of Bhum Fuk Vietnam in the middle of a bomb crater the size of the Superdome under fire by determinedly hostile forces. — Dannie J. Marvicin and Jerold A. Greenfield, Maverick, p. 205, 1990
 - — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 1, Fall 1993

bum-kicked adjective

- depressed US, 1974
 - Tramp’s drug thing spun out of control and he was found dead from an overdose of Seconal. It happened right after the Hell’s Angels ’69 movie was released. Nobody knows whether he was bum-kicked or was just being his usual reckless self. — Ralph “Sonny” Barger, Hell’s Angel, p. 74, 2000

bummed; bummed out adjective

- depressed, irritated US, 1973
 - “I’m sorry to dump on you like this,” she said, “but it couldn’t even wait for group. That’s how bummed out I am.” — Cyra McFadden, The Serial, p. 97, 1977
 - That fucking mousse-haired, white-skinned, needle-nose scumbag better show up, ‘cause I’m getting bummed. — Howard Stern, Miss America, p. 74, 1995
 - So we follow him to a clearing about a mile away, where they’ve got 2 tents set up and a bunch of bummed ‘heads are standing around. — Scott Meyer, Deadhead Forever, 2001

bummer noun

- 1 a disappointing or depressing event US, 1965
 - — Miss Cone, The Slang Dictionary (Hawthorne High School), 1965
 - But then we came outside and saw all those clippings about us, pasted up like advertisements. Man, it was a bummer, it wasn’t right. — Hunter S. Thompson, Hell’s Angels, p. 89, 1966
 - If you consider that the sheer number of beautiful people struggling against the inclement weather, and basic needs of survival, turned the festival into a Nation dedicated to victory, then the bummers get put in quite a different perspective. — Abbie Hoffman, Woodstock Nation, p. 4, 1969
 - It’s a bummer about your party, man. — Dazed and Confused, 1993
 - CHER: I failed. TAL: Oh, bummer. — Clueless, 1995
- 2 a bad experience with LSD or another hallucinogen US, 1966
 - Is he going to put acid in everything consumable? Does he want to create a big freak out, a big bummer? — The San Francisco Oracle, 1966
 - Some of them had a terrible bummer—bummer was the Angels’ term for a bad trip on a motorcycle and very quickly it became the hip world’s term for a bad trip on LSD. — Tom Wolfe, The Electric Kool-Aid Acid Test, p. 159, 1968
 - Whatever it was, I had a bummer. One of those rare acid trips when everything caves in. I learned enough shit from it, though, that maybe it wasn’t such a bummer after all. — Abbie Hoffman, Woodstock Nation, p. 5, 1969
 - Bummers were when the acid had something in it that didn’t agree with you. — Eve Babitz, Eve’s Hollywood, p. 234, 1974
- 3 a beggar, a tramp, a bum US, 1855
 - Where do you come off knowing a bummer like Billings? — Mickey Spillane, Me, Hood!, p. 29, 1963

bummy noun

- a transient, penniless, dirty person US, 1923
 - “I’m just one more poor blind bummy peddin’ pencils,” he mourned.[.] — Nelson Algren, The Man with the Golden Arm, p. 176, 1949
 - I was carrying the banner down yonder in Atlanta, but watch out, keep out, stay awake—they throw bummys in for thirty days. — John Clellon Holmes, The Horn, p. 160, 1958

bummy adjective

- dirty, wretched US, 1896
 - Young and emaciated kid, dressed in a raggedy trenchcoat, bummy blue prom dress, and bummy Air Jordans—who is also in another world. — New Jack City, p. 28, 1990
 - Strike liked her because she was clean, not bummy, a working woman with a kid, holding down the world. — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 75, 1992
 - “I’m tired of being one of those bummy Raisin in the Sun niggers.” — Paul Beatty, Tuff, p. 44, 2000

bummy-ass adjective

- low, disreputable, shoddy US, 1990
 - Gone are the days of sellin’ on street corners, in dark alleys, or in the bathroom of some bummy-ass bar. — New Jack City, 1990

bum of the month noun

- a person identified as a poor performer US, 1970
 - A term coined in connection with heavyweight boxer Joe Louis, who fought against a series of unworthy contenders.
 - Production picks out the engineer who’ll be the “bum of the month.” — Gene W. Dalton et al., Organizational Structure and Design, p. 78, 1970
 - One concern, according to some of those involved, is that an unfriendly prosecutor could make charges of political corruption a priority. “She might start a “bum of the month” club—you can indict anybody,” said Mr. Diamond. — New York Times, p. 46, 6th September 1981

bum out verb

- to depress someone; to disappoint someone US, 1970
 - Having bummed out almost the entire population of one room, I took my show into another.[.] — Lester Bangs, Psychotic Reactions and Carburetor Dung, p. 232, 1977
 - “Don’t look so bummed out,” Wiley said. — Carl Hiaasen, Tourist Season, p. 101, 1986
 - It would truly bum me out if this turned into a commodification of “girl zines.” — Marion Leonard, Cool Places, p. 108, 1998
 - He gets really bummed out a lot though. — Francesca Lia Block, I Was a Teenage Fairy, p. 95, 1998

bump noun

- 1 in a striptease or other sexual dance, a forceful pelvic thrust US, 1931
 - A lot of white vocalists, even some with the big name bands today, are either as stiff as a stuffed owl or else they go through more wringing and twisting than a shake dancer, doing grinds and bumps all over the place[.] — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 27, 1946
 - Here she stopped, laughed out loud, and flung her hips into a series of “bumps” and “grinds.” — Mark Tryon, Of-G-Strings and Strippers, p. 7, 1953
 - “You do about four bars a bump and grinds while I chew a hunk outta the grass hut.” — Gypsy Rose Lee, Gypsy, p. 182, 1957
 - Traditional stripping involves several dance movements, including the bump, the grind, and the “hootchy-kootchy.” — Marilyn Suriani Futterman, Dancing Naked in the Material World, p. 126, 1992

2 in professional wrestling, a fall to the mat or floor, embellished with grunts, shakes, and body spasms that create the impression that the opponent has truly hurt the victim US, 1990

- bump n. a fall or hit done as a spot (see spot) usually, but not necessarily, by a referee, manager or other non-wrestler. — rec.sports.pro-wrestling, 17th July 1990
- As a pro, Morrus took major bumps when he faced off against another super-heavyweight. — Rampage, p. 33, September 2000
- Even the girls in ECW took crazy bumps. — Missy Hyatt, Missy Hyatt, p. 150, 2001
- I started wrestling right away in addition to managing, because the promoters saw that I could take bumps. — Bobby Heenan, Bobby the Brain, p. 15, 2002

3 a single dose of a powdered drug US, 1985

- I cried out, pitifully, "PLEASE! Just one bump! One little bump, I beg of you." — James St. James, Party Monster, p. 75, 1990
- It's a tongue-in-cheek reference to a "bump," which is a dose of ketamine, or Special K, a surgical anesthetic snorted by clubgoers to magnify dance floor sensations lights, bass, chaos. — Daily News (New York), p. 42, 8th October 1995
- You don't need to do that much. You only have to do bumps with crystal. — Boogie Nights, 1997
- Got a cigarette? Can I have a bump? — Michelle Tea, Rent Girl, p. 171, 2004

bump verb

1 to kill someone US, 1914

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 8, 1945
- But somebody was afraid of what he knew and bumped him. — Mickey Spillane, I, The Jury, p. 24, 1947
- Only six days after they had bumped Bannon they had almost been trapped. — Irving Shulman, The Amboy Dukes, p. 169, 1947
- That don't make me know who bumped him. Lots of cats didn't go for him because he was snitchin'. — Clarence Cooper Jr., The Scene, p. 182, 1960

2 in a striptease or other sexual dance, to thrust the hips forward as if copulating US, 1936

- "Bump, damn it! Bump! Or I'll throw you out in the street the minute you come off that stage!" — Mark Tryon, Of G-Strings and Strippers, p. 58, 1953
- "It just don't bump when I do—and it scratches the hell outta me." — Gypsy Rose Lee, Gypsy, p. 176, 1957
- You can sacrifice your sacro, workin' in the backrow / Bump in a dump till you're dead. — Stephen Sondheim, You Gotta Get a Gimick, 1960
- I continued to bump and grind across the stage, forcing a smile as I unfastened my brassiere[.] — Blaze Starr, Blaze Starr, p. 84, 1974

▶ bump fuzz

(used of a female) to have sex with another woman US, 1997

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 46, 1997

▶ bump heads

to fight US, 1971

- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 42, 1971

▶ bump pussies; bump donuts; bump fur

(used of lesbians) to have sex, especially by engaging in vulva-to-vulva friction US, 1967

- What would we do—bump pussies? — Malcolm Braly, On the Yard, p. 296, 1967
- Two girls can, by interlacing themselves like forks, "bump pussies" as we used to say when I was a lad, and enjoy all of the thrills and chills of intercourse without even fingering themselves. — Angelo d'Arcangelo, The Homosexual Handbook, p. 208, 1968

▶ bump titties

to fight US, 1985

- — Jennifer Blowdryer, Modern English, p. 57, 1985
- — Ann Lawson, Kids & Gangs, p. 56, 1994

▶ bump uglies

to have sex US, 1989

- And Tango adds a phrase to the popular lexicon when Sly's Tango asks Russell's Cash, "Did you bump uglies with my sister?" — USA Today, p. 7D, 22nd December 1989
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Spring 1992

bump and run noun

a crude street robbery US, 1976

- But this time was different, he told himself, no cheap-ass drugstore hit, no bump and run. — William Brasler, City Dogs, p. 124, 1976

bumper noun

the buttocks US, 1963

- While I was taking a turn around the floor with Jim Bacon of the Associated Press, the Prince and I felt our bumpers collide, and he promptly marched off the floor. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 24, 18th April 1963
- I'll moor it on the Chicago River and put on a big sign, "Babes with Big Bumpers Wanted." — Red Rudensky, The Gonif, p. 102, 1970
- He called titties "headlights" and bottoms "bumpers," and we called him "What's Happening Bob[.]" — Pamela Des Barres, I'm With the Band, p. 39, 1988
- In the old days, people had metaphors for what they wanted to say. Even the nasty songs aspired to a certain level of craftsmanship. Remember "Pull Up to the Bumper?" For a song about anal sex, it was pretty tongue-in-cheek. — Chris Rock, Rock This!, p. 213, 1997

bumper kit noun

the female buttocks US, 1995

- — Bill Valentine, Gang Intelligence Manual, p. 75, 1995

bumpers noun

the female breasts US, 1947

- What bumpers on her. — Norman Mailer, The Naked and the Dead, p. 485, 1948
- [S]he strips down to bumpers and beard, then climbs aboard his Oscar Meyer-mobile. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin's Skincyclopedia, p. 188, 2005

bumper tag noun

1 a slight collision between cars, especially a rear end collision US, 1980

- And because the judge was involved in a little bumper tag with a black car that was either a Buick or an Olds. — Elmore Leonard, City Primeval, p. 63, 1980
- Once, while biking on a lonely road near Desert Hot Springs, two dirtbag rednecks in a raggedly pickup truck had played bumper tag, forcing her off the road. — Joseph Wambaugh, Fugitive Nights, p. 54, 1992

2 in pool, a shot that is made off two cushions on the side of the table US, 1990

- Punning on a term commonly used to describe a traffic jam.
- — Steve Rushin, Pool Cool, p. 6, 1990

bumping adjective

excellent US, 1985

- — National Education Association Today, April 1985: "A glossary for rents and other squids"
- — The Washington Post, 15th March 1987
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Fall 1988
- — Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 30, 1997

bump list noun

a list of murder targets US, 1963

- Who's bump list you on now? — Mickey Spillane, Me, Hood!, p. 16, 1963

bumpman noun

in a pickpocket team, a confederate who bumps and distracts the targeted victim US, 1940

- It is understood by the police that a "bump man" or a "hook" does not operate at the Garden under the code long agreed upon between the stadium and the artistes. — Robert Sylvester, No Cover Charge, p. 286, 1956

bump-off noun

a murder US, 1952

- "Why the bump-off?" — Richard Prather, The Peddler, p. 132, 1952

bump off verb

to kill US, 1907

- [T]hey'll get out of here now, all join up in the Air Corps and become heroes and bump off fifty, a hundred, a thousand Japs[.] — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 314, 1946
- Can I help it if somebody bumps off the teacher? — Irving Shulman, The Amboy Dukes, p. 91, 1947
- In it they had written the names of their enemies and the guys they were going to bump off. — Willard Motley, Knock on Any Door, p. 122, 1947
- You can see the processes working in the results: two of the eye witnesses recanted; the third was bumped off. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Chicago Confidential, p. 234, 1950

bumps noun

loud bass notes as amplified on a stereo US, 1997

- Did you hear the bumps coming from that car? — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 46, 1997

bump shop noun

a car body repair shop US, 1978

- "She's out in Pontiac someplace at a bump shop, getting an estimate," Ordell said. — Elmore Leonard, Switch, p. 68, 1978
- Its owner sold it to the owner of the bump shop who sold it to us. — Detroit News, p. 2F, 7th April 2004

bum rap noun

1 an unfair or false accusation or reputation US, 1952

- I'm positive neither bartender's so much as pocketing a wrong tip. Your client may be giving these bartenders a bum rap. — Joseph Wambaugh, Fugitive Nights, p. 118, 1992
- I think to blame that all on Reagan is unfair. It's a bum rap. [Quoting Richard Rosenbaum] — Natalie Datiof et al., Ronald Reagan's America, Vol. 2, p. 634, 1997
- Let me tell you something, doctor. Chicks love a guy with a bum rap. — Cruel Intentions, 1999

2 a false criminal accusation; an unfair conviction US, 1926

- "And also, if I'm workin' for a guy, not to take his bum raps." — Irving Shulman, Cry Tough, p. 30, 1949
- During the trial, LaMotta denied having any part in steering the girl into prostitution, insisting that he had never seen her before and that he was being given a "bum rap" because he had a "big name." — Confidential, p. 29, July 1957
- They demand due process for colleagues beyond all legal necessity because they're so concerned about anyone's getting a bum rap. — Billie Wright Daziech and Linda Weiner, The Lecherous Professor, p. 51, 1984

bum-rap verb

to arrest someone without proof of guilt US, 1947

- I can't ever dream about being bum-rapped. — Bruce Jackson, In the Life, p. 160, 1972
- I was in a schoolyard, fer chrissake, maybe five, ten minutes, when these two cops from the 86th precinct bum-rap me! — Terry Southern, Now Dig This, p. 146, 2001

bum-rush verb

to swarm someone; to attack someone US, 1987

- Homeboys I don't know but they're part of the pack / In the plan against the man, bum rush attack / For the suckers at the door. — Public Enemy Yo! Bum Rush The Show, 1987
- It was on a Sunday. Rick and I were kicking it upon Crenshaw. All these females rolled up in a Rabbit. Everybody started to bum rush them, trying to get their numbers and all. — Boyz n The Hood, 1990
- When we bum-rushed white boys, it made me feel like we were beating all white people on behalf of all blacks. — Nathan McCall, Makes Me Wanna Holler, p. 4, 1994

bumsicle noun

a hypothermic alcoholic US, 1994

- — Sally Williams, "Strong" Words, p. 135, 1994

bum steer noun

a piece of bad advice US, 1924

- [T]hey all knew me pretty well and I had never given them a bum steer. — Wade Hunter, The Sex Peddler, p. 146, 1963

bum trip noun

1 a bad experience with LSD or another hallucinogen US, 1966

- — Richard Alpert and Sidney Cohen, LSD, 1966
- — Joe David Brown (Editor), The Hippies, p. 217, 1967
- See, if you consider the event (Woodstock) as a festival in the traditional sense of the word . . . then three people getting killed, a few thousand injuries, lack of food and water and hundreds of bum trips lead you to draw bad conclusions. — Abbie Hoffman, Woodstock Nation, p. 4, 1969
- Sure, there was some bad shit around and some bum trips were had, but mostly it was ok. — East Village Other, 20th August 1969

2 any bad experience US, 1965

- — Miss Cone, The Slang Dictionary (Hawthorne High School), 1965
- They had been shunted off to a parched meadow nine or ten thousand feet up in the Sierras and it was obviously a bum trip. — Hunter S. Thompson, Hell's Angels, p. 135, 1966
- And I don't want to take my brothers on a bum trip when I go into Lovely Larry and the theory of reincarnation. — Frank Reynolds, Freewheelin' Frank, p. 66, 1967
- Education is another bum trip. — Berkeley Barb, 20th December 1968

bum tripper noun

a person experiencing a psychotic break while using a hallucinogenic drug US, 1967

- In the mornings there would be a sign on the clinic's door: BUM TRIPPERS AND EMERGENCIES ONLY. NO DOCTORS TILL 4 PM. — Nicholas Von Hoffman, We Are The People Our Parents Warned Us Against, p. 12, 1967

bumwad noun

toilet paper, or any material used in place of toilet paper US, 1896

- I would climb onto a truck with seven much older boys (nine months older at least), towing five canoes, hundreds of pounds of supplies and shovels and bumwad[.] — Mario Thomas, The Right Words at the Right Time, p. 96, 2002

bum warmer noun

a car coat US, 1961

- Used to be a time when these jackets, affectionately known as "bum warmers," were for just that! Now they're just status symbols. — San Francisco Progress, p. 2, 18th August 1961

bun bandit noun

the active male in male-on-male anal sex US, 1964

- — Guy Strait, The Lavender Lexicon, 1964

bun-biter noun

a sycophant or toady US, 1961

- School usage.
- — Washington Post, 23rd April 1961

bun boy noun

1 a male homosexual prostitute whose prominent feature is his buttocks US, 1983

- Though it was early in the day, the usual assortment of street hustlers, whores (they all seemed to be wearing straight skirts slit up the side), bun boys (tight jeans, tennis shoes and tropical shirts) and black pimps[.] — Gerald Petievich, To Die in Beverly Hills, p. 82, 1983

2 a sycophantic assistant US, 1988

- I don't want any of your bun-boys around when you and I talk business. — Gerald Petievich, Shakedown, p. 149, 1988

bun buddy noun

a homosexual US, 2004

- A few bun buddies said they'd "seen them around" and no more. — James Ellroy, Destination Morgue, p. 242, 2004

bunch punch noun

sex involving multiple males and a single female US, 1975

- — American Speech, p. 56, Spring – Summer 1975: "Razorback slang"

bunco noun

1 fraud; an act of fraud, especially a swindle by means of card-trickery; a confidence trick US, 1914

- The ingenuity of crooks and swindlers is being constantly exercised in the invention of new forms of bunco games or confidence games. — David Louisell, Cases and Materials on Evidence, p. 759, 1981

2 a squad of police assigned to confidence swindles US, 1947

- The graying captain of bunco was sitting behind his ornate desk in the well-appointed office, sipping coffee. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Long White Con, p. 68, 1977

bunco verb

to swindle someone, to cheat someone US, 1875

- "Don't give me that, man—I've been buncoed by experts!" means "Don't try to deceive me!" — David Powis, The Signs of Crime, 1977

bunco artist noun

a professional swindler US, 1945

- The journal kept up a steady barrage against Cox, making him well known among its readers as a bunco artist. — Dianna Davids Olien et al., Easy Money, p. 125, 1999
- In simple terms, maskirovka combines concealment and misdirection in a way that would be familiar to bunco artists or stage magicians. — Providence (Rhode Island) Journal-Bulletin, p. 8F, 1st March 1998

bunco booter noun

an infrequent smoker US, 1996

- — John Fahs, Cigarette Confidential, p. 302, 1996

bundle noun

a large amount of money US, 1903

From an earlier sense (a roll of money).

- "One guy that owed Kattar a bundle, seventy-five grand, was a character named Willie." — Vincent Teresa, My Life in the Mafia, p. 131, 1973 bundle verb

to make someone incapable of action US, 1976

- — John R. Armore and Joseph D. Wolfe, Dictionary of Desperation, 1976

bun floss noun

a thong-backed bikini bottom US, 1991

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin'ary, p. 39, 1991

bung noun

the anus UK, 1788

- Or, maybe, having me lick her bung? — Joey V., Portrait of Joey, p. 118, 1969
- First, I'll want to tongue your bung while you juggle my balls in one hand and play with my asshole with the other. — Kevin Smith, Jay and Silent Bob Strike Back, p. 90, 2001

bunghole noun

1 the anus UK, 1611

- The way you were banging the bunghole, you damned near fell in. — Jim Thompson, Pop, 1280, p. 192, 1964
- Just a lot of screwballs jumping bare-assed over swords and fire, kissing the master's bunghole. — Robert Campbell, Sweet La-La Land, p. 247, 1990
- Larry urged brutally, slapping Nora's butt-cheeks while he continued to ream her bunghole. — Penthouse Uncensored II, p. 646, 2001
- Butt Freak is a festival of ass and a video show that certainly knows its way around a woman's bunghole. — Editors of Adult Video News, The AVN Guide to the 500 Greatest Adult Films of All Time, p. 50, 2005

2 by extension, a despicable, unlikeable person US, 1968

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 91, 1968
- "And all of this bullshit is gonna go flying through the air, my friend, because this bunghole-hard-ass Hudson decided to grab a guy he doesn't like on a phony charge[.]" — George Higgins, Kennedy for the Defense, p. 197, 1980

bunghole verb

to sodomize someone US, 1939

From the noun BUNGHOLE (the anus).

- "Unless he was looking to get bungholed, or unless he had an appointment." — William Caunitz, Black Sand, p. 221, 1989

bunghole buddy noun

a close and trusted friend US, 1960

- Of course he hung out with the lieutenant all the time and he was supposed to be bunghole buddies with the piano man[.] — George Clayton Johnson, Ocean's Eleven, p. 46, 1960

bunhead noun

a dolt; an outcast US, 1988

- — Michael V. Anderson, The Bad, Rad, Not to Forget Way Cool Beach and Surf Discriptionary, p. 4, 1988

bun-huggers noun

tight-fitting pants US, 1964

- — J. R. Friss, A Dictionary of Teenage Slang (Mt. Diablo High), 1964
- These goddamn Hollywood lawyers with the fag boots and bunhuggers, he thought to himself. — Michael Eberhardt, Body of a Crime, p. 104, 1994

bunk noun

1 nonsense US, 1900

- All that crap they have in cartoons in the Saturday Evening Post and all, showing guys on street corners looking sore as hell because their dates are late—that's bunk. — J.D. Salinger, Catcher in the Rye, pp. 124–125, 1951
- When Mr. Money arrived at the airport, the grifter had him paged, then introduced himself with a bunk story, such as being a friend of hotel manager, who had asked him to pick up the boob. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 277, 1951
- To Johnny, that was bunk from a punk. — Ed Sanders, Tales of Beatnik Glory, p. 77, 1975

2 a weak drug, especially heroin US, 1992

- — Jay Robert Nash, Dictionary of Crime, p. 50, 1992
- — Mark S. Fleisher, Beggars & Thieves, p. 287, 1995

3 a hiding place US, 1950

- I don't see how anybody could know they were there. That's a good bunk we have. — Hal Ellson, Tomboy, p. 24, 1950

4 a prisoner's cell or the area immediately around his bed in a dormitory setting US, 1998

- — Ethan Hilderbrant, Prison Slang, 1998

bunk verb

to sleep, to stay the night US, 1840

Introduces a military or Western feel.

- Or you can bunk out in the Rumpus Room. It doesn't matter to me. — oodie Hawkins, Lost Angeles, p. 203, 1994

bunk adjective

worthless US, 1990

- Noontimes Rooski often hustled bunk hash there and Joe planned to do the same[.] — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 59, 1990

bunker buster noun weapons designed or used to damage underground infrastructure US

- That was when we were going into an area he thought might contain bunkers. They were used as bunker busters. — Christopher Ronnaue, Blood Trails, p. 44, 2006

Bunker City nickname

a large underground enemy complex near the Cambodia-Vietnam border US

- One enemy supply and communication complex was so large, officers of the capturing 1st Cavalry Division called it “Bunker City.” — Albert Garland, A Distant Challenge: The U.S. Infantryman in Vietnam, p. 287, 1983
- 280 Vietcong were killed in the human wave at Bunker City, Cambodia. — Harlan Ellison, The Other Glass Teat, pp. 80–81, 2013

bunk fatigue noun

sleep US, 1915

- Swimming at the beaches and bunk fatigue rounded out the day before evening chow and the usual night at the movie. — Orlando Davidson, The Deadeyes, p. 236, 1947

bunk flying noun

dramatic, on-the-ground discussions of flying exploits US, 1933

- That night in barracks during bunk-flying the five men of Leseur’s squad talked over their instructor. — Frederic Litten, Sinister Island Squadron, p. 117, 2005

bunk; bunkie noun

in jail or prison, a cellmate US, 1858

- Worden rode the roommate hard, seizing on the fact that he was out working while his bunkie was lazing around the house with some new man. — David Simon, Homicide, p. 342, 1991
- “My bunkie in County? Some cretin couldn’t figure out how to open and close his Velcro jumpsuit.” — Richard Price, Samaritan, p. 289, 2003

bunny book noun

a sexually explicit magazine US, 1967

- From the Playboy bunny.
- — Current Slang, p. 7, Fall 1967

bunny boot noun

a large white felt boot, now usually made of rubber with an inflatable air layer for insulation US, 1954

- Bunny boots are the warmest footwear worn in the Northland excepting the Eskimo mukluk. — Robert O. Bowen, An Alaskan Dictionary, p. 10, 1965

bunny cap noun

a fur-lined pile cap US

- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 7, 1968

bunny dip noun

a method of serving bar customers drinks calculated to keep a woman’s breasts from spilling out from a low-cut, tight bodice US, 1985

- A technique perfected by and taught to Playboy Bunnies.
- “In a frosted glass with an umbrella,” Vincent said, as the girl did the bunny dip to place the drink on the table without losing her breasts. — Elmore Leonard, Gltz, p. 112, 1985

bunny fuck verb

to have sex quickly, if not frantically US, 1971

- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 42, 1971

bunny hole noun

an excavation in a fox hole to provide protection from a mortar attack US, 1957

Korean war usage.

- These caves correspond roughly to our “bunny holes,” which are only large enough for one man to huddle in during a mortar barrage. Bunny holes are usually dug so that a man can jump from his fighting-hold into the bunny hole[.] — Martin Russ, The Last Parallel, p. 115, 1957

bunny hop noun

the act of bouncing both wheels of a bicycle off the ground into the air US, 1953

- — William Nealy, Mountain Bike, p. 160, 1992

bunny-hugger noun

an environmental activist US, 1994

- And in the next few years, grass-roots activists will need to pay serious attention to what look like bunny-hugger issues but aren’t. — Andrews Szasz, Ecopopulism, p. 77, 1994
- Stoot’s buddies once called her a bunny hugger because she wasn’t a fan of blood sports. — Carl Haasen, Sick Puppy, p. 5, 1999

buns noun

the buttocks US, 1877

- Her skirt was a short one, almost reaching the bottom of her buns which tended to hang down into her net stockings. — Evergreen, p. 19, 1968
- It was a drag with all the whites looking at a brother getting his buns kicked. — Babs Gonzales, Movin’ On Down De Line, p. 74, 1975
- Cher, I don’t wanna do this any more, and my buns, they don’t feel nothin’ like steel. — Clueless, 1995

bunt noun

the buttocks US, 1967

A blend of “buttocks” and “cunt.”

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 35, 1967

bunter noun

a prostitute US, 1973

- — Ruth Tadosco et al., The Intelligent Woman’s Guide to Dirty Words, p. 2, 1973

buoy noun

a surfer who lingers in the water, rarely catching a wave US, 1991

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin’ary, p. 16, 1991

bupkes; bupkis noun

nothing—used for expressing scorn at something deemed foolish or trivial US, 1942

From the Russian for “beans.”

- I worked on it three hours—and what did he give me? Bupkes! — Leo Rosten, The Joys of Yiddish, p. 55, 1968
- Three go-rounds—zero, zilch, bupkis. — James Ellroy, White Jazz, p. 53, 1992
- While two volunteers said it “does make your lips appear fuller,” the other two noticed “nothing, bupkis, zilch.” — Daily News (New York), p. 62, 15th April 2004

burble noun

in skysurfing, the rough air about the skysurfer US, 1998

- BURBLE The rough air just above a freefalling body. — Shelley Youngblut, Way Inside ESPN’s X Games, p. 65, 1998

burble verb

in computing, to post an inflammatory message that displays the person’s complete ignorance on the subject in question US, 1991

From Lewis Carroll’s 1871 Through the Looking Glass, in which the Jabberwock “burbled” (spoke in a murmuring or rambling manner).

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 85, 1991
- — Christian Crumlish, The Internet Dictionary, p. 28, 1995

’burbs noun

the suburbs US, 1989

- Everybody said we were moving to the ’burbs, and none of my friends wanted us to go where only white people stayed. — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 76, 1989

bureau-drawer special noun

a small, inexpensive handgun US, 1962

- — American Speech, p. 267, December 1962: “The language of traffic policemen”

burg noun

1 a city or town US, 1835

- I’ve got to get out of this burg. — Jim Thompson, The Nothing Man, p. 266, 1954
- “They’re coming in from the burbs, man. Bit shooters and they’re gathering around waiting for orders.” — Mickey Spillane, The Snake, p. 37, 1964
- I want you hogs to let this burg know you’re here. — Lewis John Carlin, The Great Santini, 1979

- That freak who tried to kill me had to have been sent by the Pimp Blimp—who, if he can get at me in the jailhouse, can reach me in this burg. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 115, 1990

2 a burglary US, 1983

- Sometimes he just sets up burg’s. He doesn’t do them himself, but farms out the address and steers the stolen property to his own fencing channels. — Gerald Petievich, To Die in Beverly Hills, p. 113, 1983
- “I’m here at camp ’cause they think I did a burg—a robbery.” — Leon Bing, Do or Die, p. 63, 1991

burger noun

a hamburger US, 1924

- President Bush got pretty cheeky with little Olivia Eoff during a visit to Cotham’s Restaurant in Scott, Ark, yesterday. Cotham’s is known for its 1-pound “Hubcap” burger. — Daily News (New York), p. 24, 31st August 2006

burger jockey noun

an employee in a hamburger restaurant US, 1992

- So you’re a burger jockey. I hope your Mickey D’s down in Edmonton is better than ours up here. — k12 chat senior, 12th January 1992
- I must confess I felt a little nervous gazing at the minimum-wage burger jockeys as I munched my fries. — C.D. Payne, Cut to the Twisp, p. 13, 2001

burgher noun

a townsman US, 1957

- This town hasn’t been occupied since the Revolutionary War, and I’d just as soon not make the burghers any shakier than I have to. — Max Shulman, Rally Round the Flag, Boys!, p. 197, 1957

buried treasure noun

in computing, an unexpected and usually poorly written piece of code found in a program US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 85, 1991

burley; burly noun

burlesque US, 1934

- “Simon, he was always a top banana in burly, but he couldn’t hold anybody alone.” — Stephen Longstreet, The Flesh Peddlers, p. 213, 1962

burleycue; burly-Q noun

burlesque US, 1923

- There was also burly burleycue queen Carrie Finnell, who could make the tassels on her breasts swing in multiple directions. — Samuel L. Letter, The Encyclopedia of the New York Stage, 1940–1950, p. 589, 1992
- On Ruby’s last day as a free citizen that November morning in ’63, he was a paunchy, balding, 52-year-old burly-Q operator. — Josh Friedman, When Sex Was Dirty, p. 112, 2005

burly adjective

1 intimidating US, 1993

A surfer term used to describe a wave, brought into broader youth usage.

- — Judi Sanders, Faced and Faded, Hanging to Hurl, p. 6, 1993
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Spring 2003

2 very cold US, 1991

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin’ary, p. 16, 1991

burly show noun

in carnival usage, a burlesque show US, 1981

- — Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 38, 1981

burn noun

- a swindle US, 1960
- Outside he got in a cab with the Puerto Rican's money and told the driver to take off. The perfect burn, he thought, humming to himself. — Clarence Cooper Jr., The Scene, p. 105, 1960
- There are many stories about marijuana being cut with bay leaves, oregano, etc. and about an increase in the number of "burns" (in which someone who claims he can obtain drugs takes money in advance and never returns.) — Ned Polsky, Hustlers, Beats, and Others, p. 171, 1967
- MR. ORANGE: Look, Eddie, he was pullin' a burn. He was gonna kill the cop and me. And when you guys walked through the door, he was gonna blow you to hell and make off with the diamonds. — Reservoir Dogs, 1992
- if I was really pullin' a burn, I'd have take two out, wouldn't I? — Jackie Brown, 1997

burn verb

- 1 to put someone to death by electrocution US, 1927
 - "Listen, rat"—Benny's face paled—"one more word like that and I'll plug you too. They can only burn me once, and I'd just as soon knock you off to stay alive as not." — Irving Shulman, The Amboy Dukes, p. 85, 1947
 - And if I burn for it, here or anywhere, at least I won't burn like a slave. — Thurston Scott, Cure it with Honey, p. 37, 1951
 - We ain't going to let her die, get me? Not this way. I'm going to see that she burns. — Jim Thompson, The Killer Inside, p. 54, 1952
 - He said, "Forgive this man, he knows not what he did." / I said, "Can that shit, Father, don't let them burn the kid." — Dennis Wepman et al., The Life, p. 120, 1976
- 2 to kill someone US, 1933
 - Do you really want to burn this cat, man? — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 176, 1965
 - The guy who burned the gook gunner was saved by a misfire. — Ernest Spencer, Welcome to Vietnam, Macho Man, p. 141, 1987
- 3 to shoot a gun at someone US, 1953
 - — Dale Kramer and Madeline Karr, Teen-Age Gangs, p. 174, 1953
 - Then the Wolves start burnin'. One of them got a piece. He fire 2 times[.] — Warren Miller, The Cool World, p. 231, 1959
- 4 to cheat, swindle someone UK, 1698
 - I drank all day in a wild poolhall-bar-restaurant-saloon two-part joint, also got burned for a fin (Mexican, 5 pesos, 60 cents) by a connection. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Neal and Carolyn Cassidy, p. 359, 10th May 1952
 - He even cut me into the good drygoods thieves, so that I would never get burned by fences. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 167, 1965
 - Hawaiian Chuck was handing out hepatitis-infected points to friends who'd burned him. — Nicholas Von Hoffman, We Are The People Our Parents Warned Us Against, p. 83, 1967
 - He probably got burned trying to make a drug buy and did have to run for his life. — Joseph Wambaugh, Finnegan's Week, p. 301, 1993
- 5 to expose the identity of a person or place US, 1959
 - He didn't want any dopefiends burning up his house, even though he paid off the vice squad monthly to allow him to operate. — Donald Goines, Dopefiend, p. 37, 1971
 - PARK SWEEP "BURNS" L.A. GAYS. — The Advocate, 24th October 1973
 - "They'd burn me the minute I came inna door." — George Higgins, Cogan's Trade, p. 38, 1974
 - He said I burned one of his sources. — Carl Hiaasen, Tourist Season, p. 201, 1986
- 6 in private dice games, to stop the dice while rolling, either as a superstition or to check for cheating US, 1950
 - — The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, p. 122, May 1950
- 7 while playing blackjack, to place an unplayed card into the discard card holder US, 1982
 - — Thomas F. Hughes, Dealing Casino Blackjack, p. 71, 1982
- 8 to smoke marijuana US, 1964
 - Hey, man, Pickford's got a dube we're about to burn. — Dazed and Confused, 1993
 - I hate standing around when everyone's burning and I ain't got none[.] — Two Fingers, Puff (Disco Biscuits), p. 220, 1996
- 9 to infect someone with a sexually transmitted disease US, 1967
 - — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 35, 1967
 - — Don R. McCreary (Editor), Dawg Speak, 2001
- 10 to masturbate US, 1975
 - BURN.  To masturbate while looking at a provocative picture of a woman. — Miguel Pinero, Short Eyes, p. 123, 1975

burn artist noun

- a cheat, a conman, especially in dealings with drugs US, 1968
- Speed freaks have as bad a reputation as junkies for being thieves, burn artists, liars and generally unreliable and untrustworthy. — Washington Free Press, 29th February 1968
- "That guy's a burn artist." — Brian Boyer, Prince of Thieves, p. 65, 1975
- One of the burn artist's tricks is to take your money, tell you to wait and split with your dough. There are various side show gimmicks each burn artist works. — Abbie Hoffman, Steal This Book, p. 96, 1995
- The Barksdale gang murders people for a variety of reasons: to in-still fear and respect among prospective rivals, to send a message to residents of the projects to mind their own business and keep their mouths shut, to punish thieves and burn artists. — Tri-Valley Herald (Pleasanton, California), 17th August 2002

burn bag noun

- a bag of adulterated or diluted drugs US, 1991
- "He was selling burn bags, you know. He was selling people shit." — David Simon, Homicide, p. 283, 1991
- He's out there on an alien corner, a dark-skinned lampost amid the Pennsie whores and the johns and the other dealers, holding a handful of B-and-Q burn bags[.]. — David Simon and Edward Burns, The Corner, p. 500, 1997

burn cards noun

- in blackjack played in casinos, a few cards taken from the top of a newly shuffled pack and discarded US, 1980
- — Lee Solkey, Dummy Up and Deal, p. 108, 1980

burn down verb

- to overuse and thus ruin something US, 1953
- I've about burned down all the pawnshops in New York. — William Burroughs, Junkie, p. 60, 1953
- Three junkies say that there have been a sharply increased number of sick junkies unable to support their habits at former levels, trying to taper off on such things as Cocinil, and hitting so often that some stores have been totally "burned down," i.e., refuse to supply even non-prescription items to known junkies. — Ned Polsky, Hustlers, Beats, and Others, p. 168, 1967 burned out; burnt out adjective

- exhausted beyond mental or physical capacity US, 1980
- I had no emotions on court. I felt burned out and didn't want to play. — UPI, 15th December 1980
- "I was kind of burned out playing," Colbert said. — The Columbian (Vancouver, Washington), p. B1, 16th April 2004 burned up adjective

- 1 infected with a sexually transmitted infection US, 1971
 - "She is burned up" (has venereal disease). — Charles Winick, The Lively Commerce, p. 43, 1971
- 2 angry US, 1934
 - At first she was shocked, the kid said, then she was burned up. — Joey V., Portrait of Joey, p. 127, 1969 burner noun

- 1 a criminal who specializes in breaking into safes using an acetylene torch US, 1950
 - — Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 37, 1950
 - We were going to need burners for the big stuff, but there wasn't a torch man in the mob. — Charles Hamilton, Men of the Underworld, p. 140, 1952
- 2 a handgun US, 1926
 - "What, your ass don't need a burner?" — Paul Beatty, Tuff, p. 4, 2000
 - I made sure that I had a burner tucked in my sweatpants and Boomer was ready by my side. — Earl "DMX" Simmons, E.A.R.L., p. 181, 2002
 - Gray got caught up in a beef with a group of about 10 Hispanic men, one of whom was boasting about having a burner—street slang for a handgun—and trying to bait him with taunts of "You want it? You want it?" — Boston Herald, p. 14, 23rd June 2002
- 3 a very fast runner US
 - — Bill Shefski, Running Press Glossary of Football Language, p. 21, 1978
 - Can you imagine what it's gonna be like to have them two burners in my backfield? — Dan Jenkins, Life Its Ownself, p. 164, 1984
- 4 an extraordinary person US, 1952
 - "He's a burner, ain't he?" he said. — Chester Himes, Cast the First Stone, p. 76, 1952
- 5 a marijuana smoker US, 1985
 - Only burners like you get high. — The Breakfast Club, 1985
 - Jay and Silent Bob watch as Dante passes. A small group of burners are poised around the store door. — Kevin Smith, Clerks, p. 125, 1994
 - — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 47, 1997
- 6 a complete piece of graffiti art US, 1982
 - A "burner" in an autograph book reflects well on both the artist and the owner of the book. — Craig Castelman, Getting Up, p. 21, 1982
- 7 a knife US, 2002
 - — Jeffrey Ian Ross, Behind Bars, p. 182, 2002; Slammer Slang
- 8 a devoted follower of the Burning Man festival and values US
 - One who pursues a way of life based on the values reflected in the Ten Principles of Burning Man. — <http://burningman.org/culture/glossary/> (accessed 23rd May 2016)

burner phone noun

- a prepaid mobile telephone that cannot be traced to the user, employed in drug deals and other criminal efforts US, 2006
- It used to be that having a burner phone meant you were up to no good. — Business Insider, 30th March 2016
- She called Head on her regular phone, instead of a burner phone he'd given her, per the charges. — Bellingham (Washington) Herald, 23rd May 2016

burnie noun

- a partially smoked marijuana cigarette US, 1952
- — American Speech, p. 24, February 1952: "Teen-age hophead jargon"
- BURNIE, drug connotation, partially smoked marijuana cigarette. — Chicago Tribune, p. C3, 27th December 1998

burnout noun

- 1 a person whose mental capacity has been diminished by extended drug or alcohol use US, 1973
 - Sure he's treated thousands of burn-outs. — Ken Kesey, The Further Inquiry, p. 119, 1990
- 2 an uninhabitable, ruined tenement, whether it has been burnt or not US, 1987
 - — Carsten Stroud, Close Pursuit, p. 270, 1987

burn out verb

- to make a fire in a prisoner's cell as retaliation for real or perceived cooperation with prison authorities US, 1974
- — Paul Glover, Words from the House of the Dead, 1974

burn rate noun

- the speed of a negative cash flow US
- It doesn't matter whether a company's burn rate is $10K per month or $10 million per month, companies die when their burn rates are greater than investor enthusiasm. — Rochelle Kopp, Valley Speak: Deciphering the Argot of Silicon Valley, p. 115, 2016 burn rubber!

- leave me alone! US, 1966
- — Reinhold Aman, Hillary Clinton's Pen Pal, p. 23, 1996

burn squad noun

- the internal affairs division of a police department US
- I'd like to keep it from the troops that I did two years on the Burn Squad. — Joseph Wambaugh, Hollywood Crows, p. 183, 2008

burnt adjective

- exhausted US, 1995
- "I'm feeling kind of burnt," Dirk said. "You can just drop me off." — Francesca Lia Block, Baby Be-Bop, p. 403, 1995

burnt money noun

- a bet in a dice game lost because of a rule violation US, 1997
- — American Speech, p. 398, Winter 1997: "Among the new words"

burp gun noun

- a submachine gun US, 1946
- In general character, this one developed like the second: the same whistles and roll calling to start with, then heavy and inaccurate fire, involving several machine guns and burp guns which sprayed the hedgerow and the fields beyond. — United States War Department, Small Unit Actions, p. 57, 1946
 - Next—and it was in this order—we heard the BRRRR! sound of one Chinese pp-S or "burp gun" as it is called. — Martin Russ, The Last Parallel, p. 107, 1957

burrr noun

- the recurring operating expenses in a circus or carnival US, 1980
- — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 22, 1980

burrrhead noun

- a black person US, 1902
- — Helen Dahlkog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 11, 1972
 - — Maledicta, p. 153, Summer/Winter 1978: "How to hate thy neighbor: a guide to racist maledicta"
 - [J. Edgar] Hoover was apparently convinced that the content of these tapes would "destroy the burrrhead [King]." — Ward Churchill and Jim Vander Wall, Agents of Repression, p. 55, 1988
 - "You shut your mouth, burrrhead!" — Jess Mowry, Six Out Seven, p. 30, 1993

burrito adjective

- cold US, 1997
- From "burrr" as a vocalization of feeling cold.
- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 47, 1997

burrito bag noun

- a mesh restraint used by police to contain a violent person US, 1997
- — Samuel M. Katz, Anytime Anywhere, p. 389, 1997

burro noun

- a racehorse that does not perform well US, 1947
- — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 16, 2nd April 1947

burrr up your ass noun

- a person with a displeased focus on something US, 1960
- I showed up at the rink with a burrr up my ass. [Quoting Billy Smith] — Boston Globe, p. D1, 3rd November 2003

burst noun

- a period of reenlistment in the military US, 1968
- A "burst of six" would thus be reenlistment for six years.
- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 7, 1968

bury verb

- 1 to sentence a criminal to a long or life term in prison US, 1904
 - — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 18, 1992
- 2 in casino gambling, to place a card in the middle of a deck or in the discard pile US, 1997
 - — Michael Dalton, Blackjack, p. 34, 1991

bury the stiffy

- from a male perspective, to have sex US, 1994
- — Michael Dalton Johnson, Talking Trash with Redd Foxx, p. 53, 1994

bury-the-brisket noun

- sex (from a male perspective) US, 1995
- Mr Hoover knew full well that President Kennedy was not playing bury-the-brisket with Marilyn Monroe[.] — James Ellroy, American Tabloid, p. 327, 1995

bus verb

- to shoot a gun at someone US, 1995
- — Bill Valentine, Gang Intelligence Manual, p. 75, 1995

bus one

- to leave US, 1993
- — Washington Post, 14th October 1993

bus and truck adjective

- said of a traveling show, with the cast and crew traveling by bus, with the props and wardrobe in a truck US, 1973
- — Sherman Louis Sergei, The Language of Show Biz, p. 34, 1973
 - "[T]hey forced them to tour in a bus-and-truck Porgy and Bess." — Ethan Morden, How's Your Romance?, p. 73, 2005

bus driver noun

- 1 in poker, the player in a given hand who controls the betting US, 1996
 - — John Vorhaus, The Big Book of Poker Slang, p. 9, 1996
- 2 a pilot, especially the pilot of a military transport aircraft US, 1944
 - Finding pilots wasn't difficult, as all the USAF "bus drivers"—transport pilots—had to qualify regularly in CARP. — Richard Marcinko and John Weisman, Rogue Warrior, p. 47, 1992

bush noun

- 1 pubic hair, especially a woman's pubic hair UK, 1650

A source for endless punning during the US presidential election of 2000; President Bush Jr.'s lack of gravitas opened him up to "bush" puns to an extent that his father did not have to endure.

 - The liberated chick up front appears not to be wearing any underwear and the print reveals what might be construed by some as a hairy bush. — Screw, p. 8, 4th April 1969
 - And then Jayne Kennedy says, "First things first, nigger, I ain't suckin' shit till you bring your ass over here an' lick my bush!" — True Romance, 1993
 - Dude—she had seventies bush. — Kevin Smith, Jay and Silent Bob Strike Back, p. 30, 2001
 - Know what the biggest change is for me? Broads shavin' their bushes. I went over to Silvio's, it's like the Girl Scouts in there. — The Sopranos (Episode 53), 2004
- 2 a sexually active female US, 1966
 - — Andy Anonymous, A Basic Guide to Campusology, p. 5, 1966
- 3 a bushy hairstyle, especially on a black person US, 1972
 - — David Claerbaut, Black Jargon in White America, p. 59, 1972
- 4 marijuana US, 1946
 - As soon as we got some of that Mexican bush we almost blew our tops. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 215, 1946
 - Byron smoked too much potiguaya bush for a lunger. "I was born to smoke bush," he boasted. — Nelson Algren, A Walk on the Wild Side, p. 14, 1956
- 5 the woods US, 1997
 - "What are yez doin' tonight?" "We're gettin' some kortz and goin' upda bush." — Amy and Denise McFadden, CoalSpeak, pp. 2–3, 1997

make bush

- to escape from prison US, 1966
- — Rose Gallombardo, Society of Women, p. 210, 1966: Glossary of Prison Terms

bush verb

- 1 to ambush someone US, 1947
 - You 'bush in this area near that ol' Buddhist temple we passed on the hump in. — Platoon, 1986
- 2 to deceive someone US, 1971
 - "Don't bush me," the man said. "Don't hand me that crap[.]" — George V. Higgins, The Friends of Eddie Doyle, p. 198, 1971

bush adjective

- second-rate, amateurish US, 1959
- Taylor said, "They were bad mouthing our ball players when we were on the way into the locker room. It's bush." — San Francisco Examiner, p. 50, 26th January 1972
 - I'll tell you something, wise-ass, you think you're so fucking clever. You're bush. Homicide lieutenant, all that goes with it, you're still bush. — Elmore Leonard, Split Images, p. 65, 1981
 - You're showing up my pitcher, bush—get your ass in gear. — Bull Durham, 1988

bush Baptist noun

- a religious zealot lacking formal theological training US, 1967
- "I'm only a bush Baptist." — Dean Acheson, Present at the Creation, p. 338, 1969

bushboy noun

- in the context of youth gangs, a coward US, 1962
- Bushboys (or punks). — Howard Polsky, Cottage Six, p. 74, 1962

bush dinner noun

- oral sex on a woman US, 1967
- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 35, 1967

bush head noun

- hair that is in complete disarray after a long bus ride US, 1988
- — Washington Post Sunday Magazine, p. 7, 3rd January 1988

bushed adjective

- very tired US, 1879
- He said, "Cecil, I'm bushed. Goodnight." — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Long White Con, p. 53, 1977
 - You look bushed. What time did you get to bed? — Clerks, 1994 bushel-cunted adjective

- possessing a slack and distended vagina US, 1980
- — Maledicta, p. 184, Winter 1980: "A new erotic vocabulary"

bushes noun

- any place where sexual activity takes place, whether or not an actual bush is involved US, 1975
- To take a girl into the bushes means what it means, but the sense has been generalized. It may be the bushes but it doesn't have to be. — John Gould, Maine Lingo, p. 29, 1975

bush-league adjective

- petty, mediocre, trivial, inconsequential, second-rate US, 1908
- But I now sense that it might be attained without long years of bush-league apprenticeship. — Horace McCoy, Kiss Tomorrow Good-bye, p. 90, 1948
 - "Ton D'Andrea was a bush league bum!" — Donald Wilson, My Six Convicts, p. 221, 1951
 - I had lost my taste even for bush league vindictiveness. — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 5, 1961
 - They were bush-league hoods known only to California cops and a few thousand cycle buffs. — Hunter S. Thompson, Hell's Angels, p. 37, 1966

bush light noun

- in the pornography industry, a light used to illuminate the genitals of the performers US, 1995
- — Adult Video News, p. 50, October 1995

bush mag noun

- a magazine featuring photographs of naked women, focusing on their pubic hair and vulvas US, 1972
- The "tit magazines" of the Fifties and Sixties, which were fit only for the garbage pail, have transformed themselves of late into "bush mags." — Screw, p. 4, 3rd July 1972

bush parole noun

escape from prison US, 1957

- [T]he Wisconsin authorities allowed him to return here to serve out a Florida bit that was interrupted when he took bush parole from a road camp at Pompano. — James Blake, The Joint, pp. 175–176, 1st October 1957
- — Inez Cardozo-Freeman, The Joint, p. 486, 1984

bush patrol noun

sex with a woman US, 1964

The bush in question here is the woman's pubic hair.

- — Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 26, 1964
- — Kenn "Naz" Young, Naz's Dictionary of Teen Slang, p. 17, 1993

bush time noun

during the Vietnam war, the amount of time spent in combat US, 1987

- We didn't go to Nui Dat after our bush time because the Pioneer Platoon had to go bush and we were called to defend Brigid. — Peter Winter, The Year I Said Goodbye, p. 242, 2003

bushwhacker *noun1 a rapist US, 1976

Playing on the sexual meaning of bush.

- — John R. Armore and Joseph D. Wolfe, Dictionary of Desperation, p. 22, 1976

2 a man who enjoys sex in park bushes US, 1966

- We don't tolerate any of those toilet quickies or a job with a bushwhacker. — Johnny Shearer, The Male Hustler, p. 20, 1966

bush whiskey noun

strong, homemade whiskey US, 1999

- — Star Tribune (Minneapolis), p. 19F, 31st January 1999

business *noun1 a syringe employed by intravenous drug users US, 1949

- — Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 39, 1949
- — American Speech, p. 24, February 1952: "Teen-age hophead jargon"

2 the actual cheating move of a card cheat US, 1973

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 32, 1987

▶ do business1 to engage in an illegal activity such as bribery US, 1984

- Coach, you don't think there's even a remote chance an official would do some business. — Dan Jenkins, Life Its Ownself, p. 194, 1984

2 in pool, to intentionally lose a game or other competition US, 1989

- — Mike Shamos, The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Billiards, p. 38, 1993

3 in horse racing, to cooperate in the fixing of a race US, 1951

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 24, 1951

▶ give someone the business; do the business

to have sex US, 1942

- Shimmy's buddy is in the back room giving my date the business. — Irving Shulman, The Amboy Dukes, p. 204, 1947

▶ take care of business

to have sex US, 1966

- — Rose Gialombardo, Society of Women, p. 205, 1966: Glossary of Prison Terms businessman *noun1 any official or witness who will accept a bribe US, 1950

- — Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 37, 1950

2 in horse racing, a jockey who may be persuaded to lose a race intentionally US, 1951

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 17, 1951

businessman's special; businessman's lunch noun

DMT (dimethyltryptamine), a powerful but short-lasting hallucinogen US, 1967

An allusion to the fact that it can be taken, experienced, and recovered from in short order.

- — John Williams, The Drug Scene, p. 111, 1967
- They call this the Businessman's lunch. This is a twenty minute, half-hour psychedelic trip. — Stephen Gaskin, Amazing Dope Tales, p. 174, 1980

bussie noun

a bus driver US, 1967

Common among professional baseball players in the days when bus travel dominated travel between cities.

- Someone asked the bus driver, "How many miles on this baby?" "Don't know," the bussie said. "Thing's broken." — Washington Post, p. D1, 26th February 1983
- — Paul Dickson, The New Dickson Baseball Dictionary, p. 94, 1999

bust *noun1 an arrest US, 1953

- I didn't burn you, Joe, honest . . . I told you it was a bust, honest. — Alexander Trocchi, Cain's Book, p. 150, 1960
- Since a bust does not seem imminent, I climb out the window and go to crew at four. — James Simon Kunen, The Strawberry Statement, p. 35, 1968

2 a complete failure US, 1842

- Don't spend much time here himself. He's a bust. — Marvin Wald and Albert Maltz, The Naked City, 1947
- Them PRs are the reason my old man's gone bust. — Stephen Sondheim, West Side Story, 1957

3 in poker, a worthless hand US, 1963

- — Irwin Steig, Common Sense in Poker, p. 182, 1963
- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 15, 1988

bust *verb1 to arrest someone US, 1940

- "That's because the local pushers probably got busted," Hassan cautioned. — Ross Russell, The Sound, p. 86, 1961

- She told the group how she had been busted. — James Mills, The Panic in Needle Park, p. 33, 1966
- How I came to be busted at Heathrow I don't know. — Doug Lang, Freaks, p. 15, 1973
- A midnight call from a friend: "I've been busted!—the guy propositioned me! Please get me out!" — John Rechy, The Sexual Outlaw, pp. 98–99, 1977

2 to catch someone with evidence of guilt; to report on someone US, 1960

- Oh, that's just great. Are you busted? — Ferris Bueller's Day Off, 1986
- I was sorry for busting you on that. — As Good As It Gets, 1997

▶ bust suds

to wash dishes or clothes by hand US, 1970

- I know you rub-a-dubba-dubba / Mama, bust them suds. — Dr. John, "Wash, Mama, Wash," 1970
- She emphatically "busted her suds," as she said of anything to do with washing. — Katherine Dunham, A Touch of Innocence, p. 207, 1994

▶ bust a box

to break into a safe US, 1966

- Can you bust a box, if you have to? — Robert Edmond Alter, Carry Kill, p. 102, 1966
- I was supposed to be the best box-man in the country and as I look back, I must have busted four hundred boxes and lifted more than a million. — Red Rudensky, The Gonif, p. 6, 1970

▶ bust a cap

1 to shoot a gun US, 1965

- The sister ran out and said, "Call the law!" / And I bust two caps right dead in her jaw. — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 49, 1965
- You better shut up fool! 'N haul ass 'less you want t'get a cap busted in it! — Odie Hawkins, Ghetto Sketches, p. 12, 1972
- Awww shit! Niggas is bustin' caps fuck that[.] — DAS-EFX Hard Like a Criminal, 1992
- Can't go to a movie the first week it opens. Why? Because niggers are shooting at the screen. "This movie is so good I gotta bust a cap in here." — Chris Rock, Rock This!, p. 20, 1997

2 to use drugs US, 1971

- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 43, 1971

▶ bust a few to surf US, 1997

- — Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 32, 1997

▶ bust a grape

in prison, to commit a foolish act as a result of a sense of intense desperation US, 1990

- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 199, 1990

▶ bust a move to make a move; to take action; to dance US, 1984

- — Don R. McCreary (Editor), Dawg Speak, 2001

▶ bust a stop sign to ignore a stop sign US, 1973

- Let's see, did I ever tell you about the big dude I stopped for busting a stop sign out front of your place? — Joseph Wambaugh, The Blue Knight, p. 156, 1973

▶ bust balls

to tease someone relentlessly, provoking their anger US, 1955

- Busting his balls? If I was busting your balls, I'd send you home for your shine box. — Goodfellas, 1990
- The Sheriff's lookin' to bust your balls. — Casino, 1995

▶ bust jungle to break through a jungle with a tank or armored carrier US, 1977

- Vietnam war usage.
- We mounted up and moved off, and while we busted jungle I kept looking back at Stepi[.] — Larry Heinemann, Close Quarters, p. 68, 1977
- They called it "busting jungle" where armored vehicles literally made a road through the forest by knocking trees down. — Tom Clancy with Fred Franks Jr., Into the Storm, 1991

▶ bust laugh to laugh out loud US, 1982

Hawaiian youth usage.

- — Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max Hana Hou, 1982

▶ bust someone's drawers to have sex, seen as a conquest US, 1990

- Yeah, I've bust them draws once. But I just met her. I need time to get to know her. — New Jack City, 1990

▶ bust your buns

to exert yourself; to try hard US, 1964

- Don't be afraid to try the newest sport around / (Bust your buns, bust your buns now). — Jan Berry and Dean Torrance, Sidewalk Surfin', 1964

▶ bust your nut to experience an orgasm US, 1964

- They say, "Make me hot when a sucker get up on top a me and don't make me bust my nut." — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 103, 1964
- After she had bust her nuts three or four times she wanted me to pop it to her in the ass. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 109, 1973
- I became somewhat self-conscious and proceeded to move my butt around, with the head of my penis doubling her hairy lips back into her vagina. I wanted to bust my nuts now. — Bobby Seale, A Lonely Rage, p. 136, 1978
- Which is more important to you: a fortune in diamonds or busting a nut? — Kevin Smith, Jay and Silent Bob Strike Back, p. 94, 2001

bust adjective

without funds US, 1990

- Can't play boys, I'm bust. — Steve Rushin, Pool Cool, p. 6, 1990

busta noun

a person who informs on another US, 2000

- — James Haskins, The Story of Hip-Hop, p. 136, 2000

bust and run noun

a crude burglary US, 1976

- It was just dumb to break ass on weekend jobs, bust-and-run jobs, when real planning, real scheming could lead to something big[.] — William Brascher, City Dags, p. 73, 1976

bust developer noun

a singer who performs during a striptease act US, 1981

- Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 40, 1981

busted, disgusted, and can't be trusted adjective

despondent US, 1994

- He'd shake his head sadly and say, "Bro' Nate, I'm busted, disgusted, and can't be trusted." Cincinnati was so far away from home that he never got visits. — Nathan McCall, Makes Me Wanna Holler, p. 176, 1994

buster noun

1 pleasure, especially sexual pleasure US, 1973

- It's not a thing you rush through, and it's important not to leave a girl hanging. She must reach her busters too. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 164, 1973

2 used as a term of address US, 1866

Lends a self-conscious, old-fashioned tone.

- "You're grounded, buster!" she screamed. — C.D. Payne, Youth in Revolt, p. 130, 1993

3 a firecracker US, 1952

- When the months-old buster blew up, it scattered a profusion of filth everywhere. — John Clellon Holmes, Go, p. 36, 1952

4 in poker, a card that does not improve a hand US, 1961

- Irv Roddy, Friday Night Poker, p. 216, 1961

5 a social outcast, a coward US, 1991

- [H]e needs to know about every other kid who's in here with him: who's a straight killer, who's a buster (a coward), who can't open his mouth to speak without lying. — Leon Bing, Do or Die, p. 4, 1991
- The kids across the street, despite their Raiders caps and blue sweat suits, were just busters, just wannabes. — Bob Sipchen, Baby Insane and the Buddha, p. 15, 1993
- In other words, "Man, you're a real buster," is not a compliment. — Orlando (Florida) Sentinel Tribune, p. E1, 11th May 1995
- "Either you with it, or you get got. And whatever you do, don't be a buster!" "Buster?" I ask. "Coward." — Colton Simpson, Inside the Crips, p. 19, 2005

busters noun

dice that have had their spots altered to aid cheating US, 1962

- Frank Garcia, Marked Cards and Loaded Dice, p. 261, 1962

bust hand noun

in bar dice games, a roll that produces no points for the player US, 1971

- Jester Smith, Games They Play in San Francisco, p. 103, 1971

bust-head noun

potent whiskey or beer, especially if manufactured illegally US, 1857

- I got so drunk I couldn't see. They were using this homemade beer, they used to call it "busthead" in Keokuk [Iowa]. — Evergreen Review, p. 137, 1957
- Ramon Adams, The Language of the Railroader, p. 25, 1977

bus therapy noun

keeping a problem prisoner in transit in prison transport between prisons US, 1975

- This "bus therapy" is famous in the California pens; anyone who's hard to handle without committing violent acts gets to see a lot of the state. — James Carr, Bad, p. 186, 1975
- When there were problems—race hassles, drugs, violence, whatever—in San Quentin, they'd grab everybody and ship 'em out, keeping their actual location in bureaucratic limbo. "Bus therapy" was another name for moving the problem rather than solving it. — Ralph "Sonny" Barger, Hell's Angel, p. 194, 2000

busticate verb

to break US, 1916

- We make fun of learned or formal vocabulary by inventing and using such words as discombulate, busticate, ruction, rambunctious (and the verb formed on the last-mentioned, rambunct). — Robert A. Hall, Leave Your Language Alone!, p. 126, 1950

bus ticket noun

a transfer from one prison to another US, 1989

- James Harris, A Convict's Dictionary, p. 29, 1989

bust in verb

in a dice cheating scheme, to introduce altered dice into a game US, 1963

- John S. Salak, Dictionary of Gambling, p. 35, 1963

bustle rack noun

on a tank, welded pipe framework on the turret used as a sort of roof rack, storing food, drinks, and supplies US, 1986

- Ralph Zumbro, Tank Sergeant, p. 189, 1986; Glossary
- I reached down into the bustle rack, grabbed a bottle, and scrambled back onto the ground. — Matthew Burden, The Blog of War, p. 177, 2006

bust off verb

to experience orgasm US, 1996

Derives from BUST YOUR NUTS.

- And watch this rap bitch bust all over ya nuts[.] — Lil' Kim Dreams, 1996
- [W]ant to bust off[.] — Kool Keith Sex Style, 1997

bust on verb

to shoot someone US, 2001

- "And then we pull heat and bust on 'em." I interrupt to ask if that means to shoot. "Shoot, yeah. Bust a cap." — Rolling Stone, p. 82, 12th April 2001

bust-out noun

1 a bankruptcy forced upon a business by organized crime, usually a lending enterprise owed money by the head of the business US, 1969

- In recent years, bankruptcy has become a major source of income for the underworld. New York hoodlums call it "bust-out;" in Chicago it is known as a "scam." — Ovid Demaris, Captive City, p. 84, 1969
- He said he had a Jewish guy, we called him Billy, who was a genius at setting up a bust-out. — Vincent Teresa, My Life in the Mafia, p. 99, 1973
- Forced bankruptcy is the newest golden pot. In some cities it's called scam and in some bust-out. — Robert Campbell, Juice, p. 238, 1988

2 in a dice cheating scheme, the substitution of altered dice for the legitimate dice; the altered dice US, 1954

- Max smiled and whispered to me as he rattled them together, "Bust-outs," meaning that nine out of ten times a seven would show up. — Harry Grey, The Hoods, p. 174, 1952
- It's an honest game, no "bust-out or flats." — Alson Smith, Syndicate City, p. 208, 1954

3 an escape from confinement US, 1951

- "A bust-out! They take the deputy an' one of the doctors." — Donald Wilson, My Six Convicts, p. 296, 1951

bust out verb

1 to take over a legitimate business, exploit its credit to the maximum, and then liquidate all assets US, 1962

- "The whole idea behind buying and fixing this place up was to burn it down and bust it out." — Vincent Teresa, My Life in the Mafia, p. 101, 1973
- And, finally, when there's nothing left, when you can't borrow another buck from the bank or buy another case of booze, you bust the joint out. — Goodfellas, 1990

2 in a dice cheating scheme, to remove altered dice from a game and reintroduce the legitimate dice US, 1963

- John S. Salak, Dictionary of Gambling, p. 35, 1963

bust-out adjective

1 in gambling, dishonest or part of a cheating scheme US, 1937

- That way I'll know up front if he's switched in bust-out cards of his own. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Doom Fox, p. 48, 1978

2 without money, broke US, 1965

- If this syllogism holds true, the bust-out junkie will say to his cellmate: "I am a heroin addict. I started smoking marijuana and then naturally I graduated to heroin." — Lenny Bruce, How to Talk Dirty and Influence People, p. 129, 1965

bust-out joint noun

a casino or gambling establishment that cheats gamblers US, 1959

- Bust-out joints, of which there are some two dozen in Newport, got their name from the recognized practice of not letting a customer out until he's "bust," one way or another. — Monroe Fry, Sex, Vice, and Business, p. 8, 1959
- I started in this business behind the bar in bust-out joints on Third Street. Strippers hustling drinks between their numbers. — Vincent Patrick, The pope of Greenwich Village, p. 151, 1979
- Frank Scoblete, Guerrilla Gambling, p. 299, 1993

bust-out man noun

in a dice cheating scheme, the confederate whose special skill is the switching of tampered dice with the legitimate dice US, 1950

- The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, p. 122, May 1950

bust-out mob noun

a group of confederates gambling with altered dice US, 1972

- I do—and this is a divergence with what I just said—work with what they call a "bust-out" mob. Craps in conventions, picnics, things like that. There you work eight- or ten-handed. — Bruce Jackson, In the Life, p. 176, 1972

bus' up verb

to wreak havoc US, 1981

Hawaiian youth usage.

- Junior's face all bus' up form da fight! — Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max, 1981 busy adjective

1 actively searching for, or engaged in, a sexual liaison US, 1965

Homosexual usage.

- "I'm busy, dear; talk to you later . . ." If this latter is said over the phone, it always means, "I'm in the middle of sex . . ." (nothing more). — The Guild Dictionary of Homosexual Terms, p. 6, 1965

2 (used of a card in poker) producing a pair or otherwise improving a hand US, 1988

- George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 15, 1988

► get busy

1 to have sex US, 1989

- Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 138, 1989

2 to rob someone US, 1987

- Carsten Stroud, Close Pursuit, p. 272, 1987

busy bee noun

phencyclidine, the recreational drug known as PCP or angel dust US, 1994

- US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994

butch noun

the person fulfilling the masculine role in a homosexual relationship US, 1954

- Billy, the butch, squares off, putting up her fists. — Willard Motely, Let No Man Write My Epitaph, p. 248, 1958
- As in most homosexual encounters, the roles of the "butches" and "queens" were not strictly adhered to. — Roger Blake, Love Clubs, Inc., p. 56, 1967

- A stone butch, she had a cute li'l chick, Sarita, she used to abuse for days. — Edwin Torres, After Hours, p. 323, 1979
- After I saw teenagers Tatum O'Neal and Kristy McNichol in Little Darlings (the perfect butch-femme dyke couple), I couldn't wait to—not to lose my virginity to Matt Dillon, but to have a sex slumber party with those two cuties. — The Village Voice, 17th June 2002

butch *adjective1 overtly masculine US, 1936

- "And when we got into bed, that tough butch number—he turned over on his stomach and I—... a score had told me about a very masculine young man I had seen on the streets. — John Rechy, City of Night, p. 59, 1963
- I can remember when, years back, they shunted you through the side door, admitting only those who appeared "butch enough." — John Francis Hunter, The Gay Insider, p. 74, 1971
- Eleanor didn't wear thongs, she wore men's underwear like a normal butch girl. — Michelle Tea, Rent Girl, p. 217, 2004

2 fulfilling the masculine role in a male or female homosexual relationship US, 1941

Originally applied to male and female homosexuals, but later predominantly to lesbians.

- — Donald Webster Cory and John P. LeRoy, The Homosexual and His Society, p. 262, 1963: "A lexicon of homosexual slang"
- — Florida Legislative Investigation Committee (Johns Committee), Homosexuality and Citizenship in Florida, 1964: "Glossary of homosexual terms and deviate acts"
- I had to run out to catch the end of the Sunday-afternoon-Saturday-night recover bout at Julius"—where the oldest college sophomores in the world gather and everyone still pretends to be so butch that she just dropped in famished for one of those greasy hamburgers. — Screw, p. 15, 22nd December 1969
- In spite of the fact that butch was not a friendly designation, it was, for the most part, adopted by the lesbian peoples. — Monique Wittig and Sande Zeig, Lesbian People, p. 23, 1979

3 heterosexual US, 1949

- — Anon., The Gay Girl's Guide, p. 4, 1949

butch broad noun

an aggressive lesbian with masculine affectations US, 1966

- Ordinarily, he wouldn't have gotten away with this behavior among the butch-broads[.] — Nathan Heard, Howard Street, p. 229, 1968

butch dike noun

an aggressive, mannish lesbian US, 1969

- Rumors have it that a truly "butch dike" can whip any muscleman with her little finger. — Screw, p. 18, 27th June 1969

Butcher Brigade nickname

the 11th Infantry Brigade of the American Division, US Army US, 1991

- So named after the Brigade's role in the massacre at My Lai became known.
- Was this another incident like the one Calley and his Butcher Brigade perpetrated at My Lai? — Eric Van Lustbader, The Kaisho, p. 180, 1993 butcher charts noun

large pieces of paper used during a briefing or brainstorming session US, 1986

Named because the paper used is similar to the paper used by butchers to wrap meat.

- — Department of the Army, Staff Officer's Guidebook, p. 57, 1986 butcher shop noun

a hospital casualty department or operating room US, 1918

- — American Speech, p. 267, December 1962: "The language of traffic policemen"

butch it up verb

to act in an aggressive, manly manner US, 1963

Homosexual usage, male and female.

- — Donald Webster Cory and John P. LeRoy, The Homosexual and His Society, p. 262, 1963: "A lexicon of homosexual slang" butch number noun

a manly homosexual man desired by others as a partner in

sex US, 1967

- He is very masculine, and he has been described recurrently in homosexual jargon as "a very butch number"[.] — John Rechy, Numbers, p. 16, 1967

butch out verb

(used of a woman) to affect a mannish appearance US, 1999

- I went over to the window and gazed down on a group of girls butched out in buzz cuts and work boots. — Rita Ciresi, Pink Slip, p. 11, 1999

butch pad noun

an apartment or house where lesbians congregate US, 1973

- Then you can lay up in those butch pads with a bunch of bull daggers and a pack of smelly houses cats and drop pills and shoot junk[.] — Joseph Wambaugh, The Blue Knight, p. 148, 1973

butch queen noun

a decidedly masculine male homosexual US, 1966

- — Kenneth Marlowe, The Gay World of Kenneth Marlowe, p. 3, 1966

butch trade noun

a seemingly heterosexual man who consents to homosexual sex in the male role, receiving orally or giving anally US, 1970

- They want their men to be "butch trade." — Screw, p. 18, 22nd June 1970

butchy adjective

overtly masculine in affectation and mannerisms US, 1956

- Then she started buying and sending me presents—slacks and jackets, suits cut and tailored like a man's with butchy accessories. — Billie Holiday with William Dufty, Lady Sings the Blues, p. 86, 1956

- "The public conception of a lesbian is that she's a butchy kind of person—an aggressive dyke," said Dr. Fort. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 22, 30th June 1969
- No Birkenstocks or butchy buzz cuts here. — Record (Bergen County, New Jersey), p. E1, 18th January 2004

but, I digress used as a humorous end to a wandering thought US, 1961

A catchphrase attributed to author Max Shulman in cigarette advertisements of the 1950s.

- But—like Max Shulman in those clever cigarette advertisements—I digress. — Robert Gover, One Hundred Dollar Misunderstanding, p. 12, 1961

But really though phrase used for showing agreement US

- "The amount of homework in this class is insane." "But really though." — Connie Eble, Campus Slang: University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Spring 2014

butt *noun1 the buttocks UK, 1720

- "you can't tell it none now but her butt was twice as big last summer." — Sylvia Wilkinson, A Killing Frost, p. 29, 1967
- It's the perils of coaching. You work your butt off, and then get kicked in it. — Honolulu Advertiser, 27th April 2003

2 by extension, the tail end of anything US, 1970

- — Current Slang, p. 15, Winter 1970

3 the tail end of a prison sentence; the final morning in prison US, 1949

- — Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 40, 1949
- When we were getting short and someone asked how long we had left, we said "Six days and a butt." "Four days and a butt." The butt is your last morning. — Malcolm Braly, False Starts, p. 199, 1976

4 a cigarette US, 1902

- "Now ya can buy butts, kid," Chirechillo said. — Nathan Heard, Howard Street, p. 107, 1968
- I took packs of butts to the coal pile the next day. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 260, 1969
- "I quit smoking, right? You remember that? I got off the butts." — George Higgins, The Digger's Game, p. 50, 1973
- It drove Rocco nuts; guys would buy ten loose cigarettes on ten trips for a dollar fifty when they could have bought a pack—twice as many butts for the same price. — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 264, 1992

butt verb

in tiddlywinks, to knock a wink off a pile US, 1977

- — Verbatim, p. 525, December 1977

butt boy noun

a sycophant; a toady US, 1950

- [H]e's the only one I can point to and say I'm sure I hate. Him and his butt boys. — Mickey Spillane, My Gun is Quick, p. 90, 1950
- Let little Eddie, the butt boy, shake him out of it. — Georgia Sothern, My Life in Burlesque, p. 284, 1972
- He's nothing but a pipe-smoking draft-dodging, headquarters-carted butt-boy. — Gerald Petievich, To Die in Beverly Hills, p. 26, 1983
- The subcommittee's chairman, Minnesota Republican Norman Coleman, is one of the administration's leading butt boys. — Al Franken, The Truth With Jokes, p. 262, 2005

butt can noun

any improvised ashtray US, 1968

- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 7, 1968

butt-chugging noun

rectal ingestion of alcohol US, 2011

- Butt chugging—in case you were blissfully unaware—allows the alcohol to bypass the liver's filtering and metabolic processes. — "Things I Learned From Butt Chugging," vice.com, 12th October 2012

butt drop noun

a backwards fall while snowboarding US, 1990

- Are you perfecting your butt drop? — Elena Garcia, A Beginner's Guide to Zen and the Art of Snowboarding, p. 120, 1990

butter noun

crack cocaine US, 1998

- Frank Sarubbi, 20, of 106 Prospect St., allegedly walked up to an undercover officer and asked if he was "looking to buy butter," street slang for crack. — Hartford (Connecticut) Courant, p. B5, 23rd December 1998

butter-and-egg man noun

an unsophisticated free spender US, 1924

Coined by 1920s nightclub performer Texas Guinan for a shy, middle-aged man so flattered by her friendliness that he paid the steep cover charge for every guest in the house and pressed $50 notes on all the entertainers. When he said he was in the dairy business, she introduced him as "the big butter-and-egg man."

- He puffed on the big cigar like he always had stuck in his face and posed back like a big butter-and-egg man. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 69, 1946

butter and eggs noun

an illegal lottery US, 1973

Most commonly known as NUMBERS game.

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 32, 1987

butterball noun

a fat person or animal US, 1941

- Anna, sister of Hulda Purdick, was a rolypoly and a butterball, with pink-and-white plump cheeks. — Sinclair Lewis, The God-Seeker, p. 137, 1949
- Start your little butterball on her new diet by mixing small amounts of the canned kitten food with her dry. — Albuquerque (New Mexico) Journal, p. C3, 29th March 2004

butterbar noun

a second lieutenant in the US Army US, 1973 Vietnam coinage, from the gold-bar insignia.

- On April 25, 117 marched out as “butterbars”—Second Lieutenants of Marines. — Washington Post Magazine, p. 24, 25th May 1980
- Barbara’s father pinned the gold bars—“butter bars” of a second lieutenant on the collars[.] — Lynda Van Devanter, Home Before Morning, p. 65, 1983
- A crusty old Sergeant major is not going to accept the indignity of becoming a “butterbar” second lieutenant. — Christopher Bassford, The Spit-Shine Syndrome, p. 141, 1988

butter-brain noun

a person of limited intelligence US, 1968

- So it constantly amazed him, and left him feeling much abused, to hear such nonsense—twerp, creepo, butter-brain. — Tim O’Brien, Going After Cacciato, p. 36, 1978

battered up adjective

dressed up US, 2002

- “I have to go get battered-up for the party tonight.” — Dictionary of New Terms (Hope College), 2002

butterfingers noun

a clumsy person, prone to dropping things UK, 1837

After the adjective.

- Those soggy chunks kept slipping out of my hands before I got them two inches off the ground. Slap my wrist and call me Butterfingers. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 36, 1946 butterfly verb

to engage in promiscuous sex US, 1946

- — American Speech, p. 120, May 1960: “Korean bamboo English”
- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 31, 1991

butterfly girl noun

a prostitute US, 2004

- — David Hart, First Air Cavalry Division Vietnam Dictionary, p. 10, 2004

butterhead noun

a stupid person, especially a stupid black person US, 1963

- Other black terms for blacks are implicitly or overtly derogating, such as butterhead for an embarrassingly stupid person. — Irving Lewis Allen, The Language of Ethnic Conflict, p. 111, 1983

buttermilk noun

beer US, 1977

- — Bill Davis, Jawjacking, p. 25, 1977

butt floss noun

a thong or string bikini with only a slender piece of fabric passing between the cheeks of the buttocks US, 1991

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfinary, p. 17, 1991
- — Judi Sanders, Kickin’ like Chicken with the Couch Commander, p. 4, 1992
- Young girls who sported thong swimsuits—known to Southern Californians as “butt floss” were “victims of a denigrating narcissistic society[.]” — Mark Sullivan, Hard News, p. 47, 1995

butt fuck noun

1 an act of anal sex US, 1981

- Well-hung males looking for a fix or a butt fuck—those are becoming my readers. — Robert Olen Butler, The Alleys of Eden, p. 151, 1981
- Tom Byron gives Francesca Le a resounding butt-fuck in a swimming pool sequence. — Editors of Adult Video News, The AVN Guide to the 500 Greatest Adult Films of All Time, p. 159, 2005

2 a despicable person US, 2005

- “So you’re fired, buttfuck. Turn in your paintbrush and split.” — Peter Fenton, Eyeing the Flash, p. 60, 2005

buttfucker noun

a homosexual male US, 1989

- “I was called boof, buttfucker, faggot, and queer.” — Gilbert Herdt, Gay and Lesbian Youth, p. 168, 1989

butt fucking noun

anal sex US, 1999

- The Back Door Boys go for all the fag subtext of these homoerotic groups, exploring their interpretation of the hit song “I Want It That Way”—it’s all about butt fucking. — The Village Voice, 5th October 1999
- I could not decide whether to give her the vigorous butt-fucking she so obviously craved[.] — Neal Stephenson, The Confusion, p. 35, 2004

buttfuck motel noun

jail or prison US, 1995

- “One phone call,” said Whitmark, “and you’re on your way to the buttfuck motel.” — Carl Hiaasen, Stormy Weather, p. 178, 1995

butthead noun

a generally unlikeable, disagreeable, dimwitted person US, 1973

- MURTAUGH: Tell Martin what you think of crooks. CARRIE: Buttheads. They’re buttheads. — Lethal Weapon, 1987
- “Why they don’t stick around.” “Because they’re buttheads.” — Armistead Maupin, Maybe the Moon, p. 44, 1992

butthole noun

1 the anus US, 1951

- [T]he man ain’t never licked a female butthole! — Richard Meltzer, A Whole Just Like the Rest, p. 259, 1970
- He led the fellow away, got a canteen of water, washed the streak of shit off his cheek and then proceeded to wash the youth’s butthole[.] — H.L. Stryker, Obsessed!, p. 118, 1984
- My pink butthole widened with each probing. — Dennis Cooper, Closer, p. 74, 1990

- Doggie style gives you a clear view of the butthole[.] — Tristan Taormino, Pucker Up, p. 151, 2001

2 by extension, a despicable or offensive person US, 1962

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 93, 1968
- Dad says you’re late again, you butthole! — Fast Times at Ridgemont High, 1982
- This sucks more than anything has ever sucked before. We must find this butthole that took the TV. — Mike Judge and Joe Stillman, Beavis and Butt-Head Do America, p. 2, 1997

butt hut noun

1 a building set aside for smoking in an otherwise no-smoking atmosphere US, 1996

- We just go to the “Butt-hut” (a weird little hutch that leaks when it rains) to smoke and get all the best gossip from around the hospital. — alt.showbiz.gossip, 20th May 1996
- Your butt hut is an embarrassment. Building a fancy tent for your cigar addiction glamorizes smoking and violates California’s clean indoor air law. — smokefree.net/arnold, 2007

2 a building or room where colonoscopies are performed US, 1999

- We had a variety of names for it, but the “Butt Hut” was the most prevalent. — alt.fan.mark-brian, 4th January 1999

3 a brothel US, 2003

- I think it ought to be regulated and monitored. The problem is that people don’t want a “butt hut” in their neighborhood. — talk.politics.misc, 25th November 2003
- Thanks for the laugh, Eddy. I haven’t heard the term Butt hut for 21 years or so. They don’t seem to be a problem in Nevada. — talk.politics.misc, 25th November 2003

buttsniski; buttsnisky

a meddler; a person who interferes in the affairs of others US, 1902

- It is said that one night a buttsnisky in the audience said to her, “Say, aren’t you Dorothy Parker?” — Earl Wilson, I Am Gazing Into My 8-Ball, p. 82, 1945
- Look who’s talking about stickin’ noses. You’re the God-damndest buttsniski I ever run into! — Garson Kanin, Born Yesterday, p. 131, 1946
- Are you going to let your coach have a free hand or are you going to be a buttsnisky and keep trying to make him use your ideas? — San Francisco Examiner, p. 19, 20th December 1948
- You’re a buttsnisky, a guy who sticks his nose in places he shouldn’t stick his nose. — Robert Campbell, Junkyard Dog, p. 120, 1986
- To some, Diane Vollmer is a buttsniski. To others, she’s the Lady Bird Johnson of her north Denver neighborhood. — The Denver Post, p. B1, 9th March 1997

buttleger noun

a person who smuggles cigarettes from states with low or no cigarette taxes to states with high cigarette taxes US, 1976

- — New York Times, p. 2–13, 31st December 1976

buttledding noun

the smuggling of cigarettes from states with low or no cigarette taxes to states with high taxes US, 1977

- — Miami Herald, p. 1, 4th July 1977

butthead noun

a large amount US, 1991

- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Spring 1991
- I don’t have time to fight. We have to find out what kind of algorithm we need here. I have to write a butthead of code. — Gary Dorsey, Silicon Sky, p. 144, 1999

buttlly adjective

very ugly US, 1989

A blend of “butt” and “ugly.”

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 27, 1989

buttmunch noun

a contemptible person US, 1996

- He looks irritated and says, “Cut it out butt-munch!” — Mike Judge and Joe Stillman, Beavis and Butt-Head Do America, 1996
- I figure it don’t take Colombo to find me guilty as charged of being a paranoid buttmunch. — Bob Janis, Displcic, p. 98, 2002

button noun

1 a police badge US, 1929

- He said, “Folks, you got that button? Those Mau Mau are going to maim our damn-fool host.” I reached under the seat and got the fake detective badge. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Trick Baby, pp. 44–45, 1969

2 by extension, a police officer US, 1953

- It was pretty obvious that the buttons in the prowl car were about ready to drop the hook on him, so I went over there fast and took hold of his arm. — Raymond Chandler, The Long Goodbye, p. 6, 1953

3 a person who acts as lookout US, 1992

- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 40, 1992

4 in organized crime, a person who kills on the orders from above US, 1966

Sometimes expanded as “button man” or “button guy.”

- Two apartments were set up in the city and furnished with mattresses for the button men to sleep on. — Mario Puzo, The Godfather, p. 253, 1969
- Pete says to this button-guy with him. — Edwin Torres, Carlito’s Way, p. 23, 1975
- Vincent was arrested twice; and his three capi and about two hundred of his button men, as if they were moving through a revolving turnstile. — Richard Condon, Prizzi’s Honor, p. 233, 1982
- The buttons had driven over from Las Vegas where they worked as freelance muscle. — Stephen Cannell, Big Con, p. 251, 1997

5 a small quantity of an item to be smuggled US, 1956

- — American Speech, p. 97, May 1956: “Smugglers’ argot in the southwest”

6 the edible, psychoactive portion of a peyote cactus US, 1953

- Peyote is a small cactus and only the top part that appears above the ground is eaten. This is called a button. — William Burroughs, Junkie, p. 122, 1953

- 7 the clitoris UK, 1900
- [T]hose who felt that the ladies should have big bursts but could have them only in that highly localized surface nodule known in the trade as the vestigial phallus, or button, or boy in the boat. — Bernard Wolfe, The Magic of Their Singing, p. 93, 1961
 - — Robert A. Wilson, Playboy's Book of Forbidden Words, p. 58, 1972
- 8 the chin US, 1920
- Boxing jargon, usually in the phrase “on the button,” describing a blow right on the chin.
- “I hit him right on the button. They used to stay down when I hit ‘em like that.” — William Kennedy, Billy Phelan's Greatest Game, p. 194, 1983
- 9 in the television industry, a dramatic or funny climax to a scene US, 1990
- — Ralph S. Singleton, Filmmaker's Dictionary, p. 24, 1990

button verb

- ▶ button your lips to stop talking US, 1947
- — Marcus Hanna Boulware, Jive and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947
 - When the teacher closes the door, the signal that class has begun, button your lips and open your ears. — Judith Scott, The Art of Being a Girl, p. 225, 1963

- button-dicked adjective possessing a small penis US, 1994
- — Michael Dalton Johnson, Talking Trash with Redd Foxx, p. 63, 1994

- buttons noun
a messenger US, 1962
- — Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World's Toughest Prison, p. 793, 1962

- button up verb to close completely US, 1941
- Instead, his comrades killed the North Korean who shot him, and with that the rest of the tanks shot the pass, roaring down the road fully buttoned up and firing wildly as they went. — Robert Leckie, The Wars of America, Volume II, p. 340, 1968
 - Also, he never learned to button up when he gets him, so if you two can get a good shot at him once, you can hurt him. — M*A*S*H, 1970
 - The crew then “buttons up”—closes the blast doors and switches to emergency air and power. — Peter Pringle and William Arkin, S.I.O.P., p. 166, 1983
 - But for now, why not put everyone on full security alert and have NIS button up your house. — Richard Marcinko and John Weisman, Rogue Warrior, p. 306, 1992

- butt out verb
to stop interfering US, 1906
Generally as an imperative.
- “Oscar, butt out!” her voice was a shriek and her eyes were swimming with tears. — Max Shulman, Rally Round the Flag, Boys!, p. 191, 1957
 - “Will you listen if I tell you to butt out?” — Sue Grafton, O is for Outlaw, p. 149, 1999

- butt pirate noun
an anal sex enthusiast US, 1997
- “I’m no butt pirate! I want women! Gazongas! Ass!” — Kelly Winters, Walking Home, p. 56, 2001
 - Francesca lived for butt-pirate porn and the old slap and tickle. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin's Skincyclopedia, p. 402, 2005

- butt plant noun
a backwards fall while snowboarding US, 1993
- — Doug Werner, Snowboarders Start-Up, p. 111, 1993

- butt plug noun
- 1 a container such as a cigar tube, containing contraband, hidden in the rectum US, 1992
 - The most common spot for prisoners to hide keys, drugs, and even hacksaw blades was inside metal cigar tubes—called “butt plugs”—inserted in the rectum. — Pete Earley, The Hot House, p. 56, 1992
 - 2 a device that is inserted into the anus during sex, sometimes to retain an enema and sometimes simply for the sensation US, 1989
 - Even today I still get a major hard-on watching Harry Reems (as “the Teacher”) stick a butt plug slowly into Splevin’s hot, willing anus. — Anthony Petkovich, The X Factory, p. 8, 1997
 - 3 an offensive, unlikeable person US, 1993
 - TED: But you said she was a sparkplug? HEALY: I said buttplug. She’s heinous. — Something About Mary, 1998

- buttsecks noun
anal intercourse US, 2003
- I believe you were the one who initiated the, er, buttsecks. — Leslie Kelly, Insatiable, p. 134, 2015

- butt slut noun
a male homosexual who takes a passive sexual role US, 1992
- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 58, 1992
 - Sometimes she likes to violate me and make me her “Butt slut.” — Maxim Jakubowski, The Mammoth Book of Sex Diaries, p. 395, 2005

- butt tuck noun
cosmetic surgery reducing and lifting the buttocks US, 1984
- Big Barb was a regal brunette with the Rolls-Royce of face lifts and butt-tucks. — Dan Jenkins, Life Its Ownself, p. 92, 1984
 - “Half the girls get boob jobs and butt tucks,” Kara Lynn said. — Carl Haasen, Tourist Season, p. 259, 1986

- butt-twitcher adjective revealing the shape of the wearer’s buttocks US, 1951
- So we went and after they gave us our skates, they gave Sally this little butt-twitcher of a dress to wear. — J.D. Salinger, Catcher in the Rye, p. 129, 1951

- butt ugly adjective
very ugly US, 1986
- If I want to know the latest slang, if I want to talk about “caps” and “marks” and “icy clothes” and “butt-ugly boys,” I’ll have to do it with the Other Emma. — Los Angeles Times, p. 5–1, 25th May 1988
 - Let me tell you something, Diana Ross is butt ugly to me. — Karen A. Callaghan, Ideals of Feminine Beauty, p. 150, 1994
 - [T]he street was lined with butt-ugly attached brick houses with tall stoops and no front lawns. — Jason Starr, Lights Out, p. 22, 2006

- buttwipe noun
- 1 toilet paper US, 1971
 - — Helen Dahlsgog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 12, 1972
 - 2 a despicable or offensive person US, 1979
 - The buttwipe was sore, that’s what. He couldn’t beat Jimmy Carter. — Tom Tiede, Welcome to Washington, Mr. Witherspoon, p. 120, 1979
 - Freeze, butt-wipe! — Mike Judge and Joe Stillman, Beavis and Butt-Head Do America, p. 3, 1997
 - That was a New Guinea Peaberry, you Folger’s-crystals-slurping buttwipe. — Ten Things I Hate About You, 1999
 - We all got around to agreeing that Knut Thorsson was a universal buttwipe, perhaps the all-time. — Dan Jenkins, The Money-Whipped Steer-Job Three-Jack Give-Up Artist, p. 205, 2001

- but why?
used humorously with varying meanings US, 1963
For example, a teacher might ask the class to pass in their homework, whereupon at least one member of the class will mutter, “But why?”
- — American Speech, p. 275, December 1963: “American Indian student slang”

- buy noun
a purchase of illicit merchandise, especially drugs US, 1906
- [O]ur agents made a number of “buys” of opium at Chinese establishments. — Harry J. Anslinger, The Murderers, p. 30, 1961
- ▶ buy it to die; to become a casualty UK, 1825
World War 1 and 2.
- Perry Chops was a long-dead narcotics pusher who bought it in a five-floor fall from a rooftop[.] — Mickey Spillane, Last Cop Out, p. 73, 1972
 - By the time I gave it to the meat wagon, the ants had bought it! — Joseph Wambaugh, Finnegan's Week, p. 133, 1993

- ▶ buy the farm to die US, 1958
- But over half the people lost over here “bought the farm” [were killed] on something foolish. — Bill Adler, Letters from Vietnam, p. 34, 16 December 1965
 - Whooie! Plenty dinks bought the fuken farm last night. — Larry Heinemann, Close Quarters, p. 230, 1977
 - “Rik Meacham’s been shot down. He bought the farm” — Tom Yarrowborough, Da Nang Diary, p. 48, 1990

- ▶ buy the rack in horse racing, to bet on every possible combination of winners in a Daily Double bet US, 1947
- — Dan Parker, The ABC of Horse Racing, p. 144, 1947

- ▶ buy the ranch to die US, 1976
- A primary euphemism used by US soldiers in Vietnam.
- How can I hide my girl’s pictures so no NVA ever puts his dirty commie gook hands on them if I buy the ranch? — Charles Anderson, The Grunts, p. 136, 1976

- buy-and-bust noun
a police operation in which an undercover officer buys an illegal drug and then immediately arrests the seller US, 1987
- Typically, what an undercover cop will do, in a buy-bust situation, is try to buy something from you. — Joseph Pistone, Dannie Brasco, p. 52, 1987
 - Officers of the San Diego Police Department were also there working an undercover “buy-bust” operation. — Bob Sipchen, Baby Insecure and the Buddha, p. 346, 1993
 - An undercover narcotics detective who minutes before had bought $30 worth of heroin in a buy-and-bust operation in Brooklyn yesterday shot and killed a man who tried to rob him, the police said. — New York Times, p. B3, 21st October 2000
 - Before Reg went in, there was no TNT, no buy-and-bust program. — 50 Cent, From Pieces to Weight, p. 87, 2005

- buy-down noun
a bribe paid to a police officer to release a criminal or to reduce the severity of the charges against him US, 2001
- You think it’s some kinda buy-down? Some bullshit collars-for-dollars scheme? — Stephen J. Cannell, The Tin Collectors, p. 174, 2001

- buy money noun
the money used to buy contraband US, 1981
- I will show you my ten grand buy money before you show me the funny money. — Gerald Petievich, Money Men, p. 5, 1981

- buzz noun
- 1 a rumor; gossip; news UK, 1821
 - It’s out two days here and there, L.A., the Bay Area, San Diego today, and the buzz is better than expected. — Elmore Leonard, Be Cool, p. 335, 1999
 - Because if the buzz is any indication, the movie’s gonna make some huge bank. — Kevin Smith, Jay and Silent Bob Strike Back, p. 18, 2001
 - 2 an immediate sensation of a drug or alcohol US, 1849
 - Everybody looked like they’d got in a good buzz. There was liquor all over the place and women. — Hal Elison, Duke, p. 111, 1949
 - I don’t get strung out on any speed; there’s no chemical I need. I like the buzz. I like the rush. — Nicholas Von Hoffman, We are the People Our Parents Warned Us Against, p. 151, 1967
 - Cold is nice going down, but I’ve swilled enough warm, now, so that it don’t mean much. A buzz is a buzz. — Larry Heinemann, Close Quarters, p. 141, 1977
 - See, that almost destroyed my buzz. — Clueless, 1995

- 3 a telephone call US, 1930
- I'll give you a buzz in the morning, Yvonne. — Philip Wylie, Opus 21, p. 106, 1949
 - I started toying with the idea, while I kept standing there, of giving old Jane a buzz—I mean calling her long distance at B.M., where she went, instead of calling up her mother to find out when she was coming home. — J.D. Salinger, Catcher in the Rye, p. 63, 1951

buzz verb

- 1 to telephone someone; to summon someone by buzzer US, 1929
- That's why you buzzed me so fast. — Mickey Spillane, I, The Jury, p. 10, 1947
 - I buzz the attendant and he tells me that he notes the license number of every car he parks[.] — Gerald Petievich, To Die in Beverly Hills, p. 229, 1983
 - When I got there, I buzzed her for at least five minutes. — Sandra Bernhard, Confessions of a Pretty Lady, p. 100, 1988
 - A few days later the guy comes back and this time Tommy's there. She buzzes him, says the guy's here who left the photo. — Elmore Leonard, Be Cool, p. 183, 1999
- 2 to call for someone US, 1946
- For three or four days I lived on fluids, and I got so raving hungry I was ready to chew on the bedclothes. Finally I buzzed Big Buster, a colored boy who worked in the hospital kitchen, and he took pity on me. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 38, 1946
- 3 to kiss someone US, 1945
- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 8, 1945
- 4 to fly very close to an object US, 1944
- I am told that Soviet fighter planes are buzzing our air lift. — Philip Wylie, Opus 21, p. 146, 1949
 - When he flew his plane behind a waterfall, then buzzed the diamond and broke up a baseball game. — Elaine Shepard, The Doom Pussy, p. 57, 1967
- 5 (used of a computer program or operation) to run without any sign of progress US, 1987
- — CoEvolution Quarterly, p. 27, Spring 1981
- 6 to activate a remote device unlocking a door US, 1997
- From the buzzing sound the device often makes.
- I'm always afraid of those stores where they have to buzz you in. I'm concerned they won't buzz me in. Then I'll just have to stand there feeling like shit. — Chris Rock, Rock This!, p. 11, 1997
- 7 to anger someone; to alienate someone; to annoy US, 1952
- It's your brother. I don't want to buzz him, you understand. — Hal Ellson, The Golden Spike, p. 30, 1952

buzzard noun

- the eagle insignia of a full colonel or the Women's Army Corps US, 1931
- An eagle for the cap was also designed, less intricate than the Army eagle and later to be familiarly known to Waacs, for reasons connected with its appearance, as "the buzzard." — Mattie E. Treadwell, The Women's Army Corps, p. 39, 1954

buzzard detail noun

- a military unit assigned to recover and process bodies US, 1949
- "Then why didn't you get hooked up with a body-snatching outfit? You look like a natural for the buzzard detail." — Audie Murphy, To Hell and Back, p. 3, 1949

buzzard's roost noun

- the highest seats in a movie theater balcony US, 1920
- We sat upstairs in the buzzard's roost 'cause it only costs a dime[.] — Louise Meriwether, Daddy Was a Number Runner, p. 94, 1970

buzz bomb noun

- a person rendered emotionally unstable due to long incarceration US, 1976
- — John R. Armore and Joseph D. Wolfe, Dictionary of Desperation, p. 23, 1976

buzz boy noun

- a fighter pilot US, 1944
- — American Speech, p. 310, December 1946: "More Air Force slang"

buzz-cut noun

- a very short haircut; a person with a very short haircut US, 1977
- Perhaps from the sound of the electric clippers.
- She looked around, sure there would be a government sedan with two buzz-cuts somewhere nearby watching, but she saw nothing. — Stephen Cannell, Big Con, p. 339, 1997

buzzed adjective

- drug-intoxicated US, 1972
- STACY is getting more buzzed by the minute. He takes a drag from a big, fat joint[.] — Menace II Society, 1993
 - She be buzzed on somethin' most the time. — Lois Stavsky et al., AZZ: The Book of Rap and Hip-Hop Slang, p. 16, 1995

buzzer noun

- 1 a badge US, 1914
- Next time ask to see the buzzer. — Raymond Chandler, The Little Sister, p. 19, 1949
 - I flashed my buzzer. So did Velda. — Mickey Spillane, One Lonely Night, p. 91, 1951
 - Grave Digger fished a felt-lined leather folder from his side coat pocket and showed his buzzer. — Chester Himes, Come Back Charleston Blue, p. 19, 1966
 - I flashed my buzzer, is all. — Joseph Wambaugh, Fugitive Nights, p. 206, 1992
- 2 in a hospital casualty department, a defibrillator paddle US, 1994
- — Sally Williams, "Strong" Words, p. 135, 1994
- 3 in horse racing, a battery-powered device used illegally by a jockey to shock a horse during a race US, 1942
- Jockey Gets "Life" for Using Buzzer [Headline]. — San Francisco News, p. 19, 26th May 1950
 - — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 17, 1951

buzzing adjective

- 1 drunk US, 2003
- — Recorded by Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, November 2003

2 manic, hyperactive US, 1994

- — Sally Williams, "Strong" Words, p. 135, 1994

buzz job noun

- the flying of an aircraft low to the ground to impress or scare those on the ground US, 1943
- Class was interrupted when a Mosquito night fighter gave us a good buzz job. That is a beautiful aircraft. We got quite a thrill out of it. — Calvin L. Christman et al., Lost in the Victory, p. 62, 1998

buzz-kill noun

- anything that suddenly deflates enjoyment US, 1990
- So the free 60 minutes may not be as much as your hoping. Just a little buzz-kill. — comp.dcom.telecom, 24th March 1990
 - And the National Guard! How much more of a creative buzz-kill could you get? — Isabel Rose, The J.A.P. Chronicles, p. 176, 2005
 - Brooklyn was such a wasteland, such a downer, such a total buzz kill. — Jason Starr, Lights Out, p. 189, 2006
 - Hinrich aims his camera at the woman covered in shaving cream. That's when he spots a serious buzz kill coming his way. — Pitch Weekly (Kansas City), 31st August 2006

buzz off verb

- to go away UK, 1914
- He was drunk. Andy told him to buzz off. — Vincent Teresa, My Life in the Mafia, p. 165, 1973

buzztrack noun

- in the television and movie industries, a sound track without modulations US, 1960
- — Oswald Skilbeck, ABC of Film and TV Working Terms, p. 22, 1960

BW *nounan obese hospital patient US, 1994

- An abbreviation of BEACHED WHALE.
- — Sally Williams, "Strong" Words, p. 134, 1994

BW nickname

- the Black Warriors prison gang US, 2000
- Borrowing from the AWs, the blacks were now organizing under the name the Black Warriors (BWs). — Bill Valentine, Gangs and Their Tattoos, p. 11, 2000

BWOC noun

- a popular and visible college girl; a big woman on campus US, 1947
- — Marcus Hanna Boulware, Jive and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947

BY adjective

- (of a telephone line) busy US, 1968
- EMORY: B.Y. MICHAEL: It's busy? EMORY: Lorraine is probably talking to her mother. — Mart Crowley, The Boys in the Band, p. 149, 1968 bye Felicia!

- used for inviting someone to leave US, 2004
- From the film Friday.
- — Ben Applebaum and Derrick Pittman, Turd Ferguson & The Sausage Party, p. 10, 2004
 - — Popularized from Ice Cube's 1995 comedy "Friday" and then by "Bad Girls Club" and "RuPaul's Drag Race."
 - — Connie Eble, Campus Slang: University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Fall 2014

by golly!

- used as a euphemism for by God! US, 1833
- Betcha by golly, wow / You're the one that I've been waiting for forever — The Stylistics, Betcha By Golly Wow, 1971
 - By golly, it's clean clear to Flagtown. — C.W. McCall, Convoy, 1976

by guess and by gosh adjective

- without planning, relying on serendipity US, 1914
- Success in tactical field communications, Tully believed, was apt to be a "by guess and by gosh" proposition, amid the general lack of advanced information. — George Raynor Thompson, The Signal Corps, p. 384, 1957 by jumbo!

- used as a substitute for an oath US, 1959
- "You've got to look ahead in this man's game," he emphasized at the first conference, "or by jumbo you're up crap creek without a paddle!" — Terry Southern, The Magic Christian, p. 50, 1959

by me

- in poker, used for expressing a player's decision not to bet US, 1988
- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 16, 1988

BYO

- a request that guests "bring your own" US, 1968
- — Current Slang, p. 13, Fall 1968
 - It will commence with a BYO lunch, with gas barbecues available and plenty of off-street parking. — Messenger, p. 2, 1st May 1991

BYOB

- used in invitations as an instruction to bring your own booze or bottle US, 1968
- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 73, 1968

byplay noun

- a device on a dishonest carnival game that can be activated to let players win US, 1950
- — American Speech, p. 235, October 1950: "The argot of outdoor boob traps"

Cc

C noun

- 1 the Viet Cong; a member of the Viet Cong US, 1966
 - Vietnamese Communists, we call them Vietcong, we call them VC and C and Charlie and all the usual names[.] — William Wilson, The LBJ Brigade, p.31, 1966
- 2 cocaine US, 1921
 - The guy and the girl are both plenty loaded with C and feeling high. — William J. Spillard and Pence James, Needle in a Haystack, p.74, 1945
 - When you shoot C in main line—no other way of taking it gives the real C kick—there is a rush of pure pleasure to the head. — William Burroughs, Letters to Allen Ginsberg 1953–1957, p.27, 7th April 1954
 - He was a junkie for sure. He would know where to cop “C,” and probably gangster for the runt. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p.126, 1969
 - When the “C” hit us we started to rapping. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p.162, 1973
- 3 one hundred dollars US, 1839
 - The two C’s got him. — Mickey Spillane, Kiss Me Deadly, p.78, 1952
 - I rolled her for a C, man. — John Rechy, City of Night, p.140, 1963
 - A fin for a number-five cap. A sixteenth for a “C.” A piece for a grand. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p.128, 1969
- 4 a person in a company whose title begins with “Chief” US
 - The only C’s with “real” power are the CEO, CFO, and, occasionally, COO. — Rochelle Kopp, Valley Speak: Deciphering the Argot of Silicon Valley, p.17, 2016

C-47 noun

- a clothespin US, 2003
Used by television and movie crews, mocking the formality of the official jargon of their craft.
- —Collected from Discovery Channel television crew in Los Angeles, January 2003.

cab noun

- take a cab to die US, 2000
- [H]is character suffers such a vicious beating that, as they say in New York, he took a cab. That is Big Apple street slang for saying that a person has breathed his last. — San Diego Union-Tribune, p.E10, 8th September 2000

caballo noun

- heroin US, 1970
Spanish for “horse.”
- —Richard Horman and Allan Fox, Drug Awareness, p.464, 1970

cabaret verb

- 1 to lie in bed masturbating US, 1950
 - You better knock off reading that hot stuff and going carabreting or you’ll wind up bugged. — Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p.39, 1950
- 2 to use an addictive drug in a semicontrolled pattern US, 1958
 - Only he and Extra Black Johnson could cabaret—have their morning and evening fix and then take some whenever they felt like taking off and really getting charged up. — Willard Motley, Let No Man Write My Epitaph, p.119, 1958

cabbage noun

- 1 money US, 1903
 - Claims he’s a human juke box and can lead the rats away if he gives the right tune which he’ll do if the top squatters will put up the cabbage. — Harry Haenigsen, Jive’s Like That, 1947
 - [H]e spent the winters in Miami and dropped a wad of cabbage at the tables there. — Mickey Spillane, Kiss Me Deadly, p.114, 1952
 - On seeing me, he had said, Look, kid, ya gotta make the cabbage before you can carry the torch. — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p.433, 1961
 - Made a little cabbage on the Tommy Bell fight too. — Raging Bull, 1980
- 2 the vagina US, 1967

Perhaps from the image of leaves peeling back.

 - — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p.39, 1967
- 3 a coronary artery bypass graft US, 1994

A loose pronunciation of the acronym CABG.

 - — Sally Williams, “Strong” Words, p.136, 1994

cabbaged adjective

- under the influence of MDMA, the recreational drug best known as ecstasy UK, 1991
- Ecstasy (a combination of mescaline and amphetamine) and LSD were a big help in reaching the ultimate state of “getting cabbaged.” — The Commercial Appeal (Memphis), p.1C, 10th June 1994

cabbage-eater noun

- a German or Russian immigrant US, 1942
Offensive.
- He did not live there, for the apartment was kept by Israel Amter, the cabbage-eater, and his wife. — Benjamin Gitlow, The Whole of Their Lives, p.111, 1948
 - — Irving Lewis Allen, The Language of Ethnic Conflict, p.66, 1983 cabinet noun

- a safe that is easily opened by thieves US, 1972
- Some of these safes you can actually open with a can opener. We call them cabinets. — Harry King, Box Man, pp.30–31, 1972

cable noun

- a chain necklace US, 2005
 - Suddenly he’s coming back with cables, a car, Gucci gear. — RZA, The Wu-Tang Manual, p.32, 2005

caboodle noun

- all of something US, 1848
- It wasn’t the money, mind you—he was dead set against the whole caboodle. — Frederick Kohner, Gidget, p.23, 1957
 - I left the whole caboodle under a bench in Washington Square. — Mary McCarthy, The Group, p.174, 1963

caboose noun

- 1 the buttocks; the anus US, 1919
 - “As a matter of fact, you got what railroading folk call a mighty trim caboose.” — Nelson Algren, A Walk on the Wild Side, p.87, 1956
 - He cussed her as he drove his needle-toed shoe into her wide caboose several times. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p.168, 1969
 - Kitty bemoaned, “She’s got a sexy caboose.” — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p.135, 1990
 - Nice knockers, plus some dark crotch and caboose. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin’s Skincyclopedia, p.13, 2005
- 2 the final participant in serial sex US, 1970

From the phrase PULL A TRAIN used to describe the practice.

 - — Current Slang, p.14, Spring 1970
 - More common was the spontaneous act of gang sex: “pulling a train” on a drunken girl at the party—the boy’s rank in the gang determined if he was the engine, the caboose, or somewhere in between[.] — Gini Sikes, 8 Ball Chicks, p.103, 1997
- 3 the soldier at the rear of an infantry patrol US
 - It was a thrill to get out of walking the point position until I was relocated as a caboose, the very last guy in the column. That was unbelievably creepy. — Christopher Ronnau, Blood Trails, p.68, 2006

cabron noun

- a guy, especially a brutish or dim-witted one US, 1974
Border Spanish used in English conversation by Mexican-Americans.
- — Dagoberto Fuentes and Jose Lopez, Barrio Language Dictionary, p.23, 1974

ca-ca noun

- 1 excrement US, 1952

Probably from Spanish children’s speech; used by non-Spanish speakers. Sometimes seen spelt as “kaka” or other such variations.

 - All right, he made a kahkah, call a policeman. — Lenny Bruce, How to Talk Dirty and Influence People, p.123, 1965
 - Midget, you’re doing a doo-doo job. You’re fucking up. It’s shit. Ca-ca. — Mo’ Better Blues, 1990
- 2 nonsense US, 1980
 - It was nothing but pure caca far as I could tell—boring isn’t a good enough word. — Arturo Islas, La Mollie and the King of Tears, p.20, 1986
- 3 heroin, especially low quality heroin US, 1986
 - — Richard A. Spears, The Slang and Jargon of Drugs and Drink, p.90, 1986
 - — Gilda and Melvin Berger, Drug Abuse A-Z, p.40, 1990
- 4 drugs, not necessarily heroin US, 1995
 - — Gang Intelligence Manual, p.40, 1995

cakc; cak; kack verb

- to fall asleep US, 1959
- — Robert George Reisner, The Jazz Titans, p.153, 1960
 - — Robert S. Gold, A Jazz Lexicon, p.46, 1964

cackies noun

- pants, especially khakis US, 1990
- So I then go into my Mack Daddy mode cause I’m getting a woodie in my cackies y’know. — Boyz n The Hood, 1990

cackle verb

- 1 to confess and/or to inform on others US, 1949
 - — Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p.41, 1949
- 2 as part of a controlled roll of dice, to give them the appearance and sound of being shaken while actually preventing their turning US, 1963
 - — John S. Salak, Dictionary of Gambling, p.37, 1963

cackle factory noun

- a mental hospital US, 1950
- I didn’t want to end up in the cackle factory with my meds and all. — Gerard Kuc, Red Sex, White Drugs, Blue Rock ‘N Roll, p.60, 2005

cacky adjective

- in the language of striptease, overtly if not excessively sexual US, 1981
- — Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p.41, 1981

cactus noun

- in hospital usage, a severely burnt patient US, 1994
- — Sally Williams, “Strong” Words, p.136, 1994

cactus juice noun

- tequila; mescal US, 1971
- If tequila spin-doctors can transform cactus juice into snob central, why not gin? — Riverfront Times (St. Louis), 21st January 2004

cadaver cadet noun

- a necrophile US, 1986–1987
- — Maledicta, p.178, Summer/Winter 1986–1987: “Sexual slang: prostitutes, pedophiles, flagellators, transvestites, and necrophiles”

caddie shack noun

any small building where gold caddies congregate and wait for work US, 1953

- Later in the day, when the jobs were being passed out, you would engage in profane and bloody struggle behind the caddie shack. — Jim Thompson, Bad Boy, p. 341, 1953

caddy blackjack noun

a private game of blackjack US, 1981

- — Michael Dalton, Blackjack, p. 35, 1991

cadet noun

1 a pimp US, 1904

- — Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 39, 1920

2 a new drug user US, 1949

- — Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 41, 1949

cadge verb

to beg; to wheedle something from someone US, 1812

- Joe told him he only needed to find Rooski this morning, who often cadged Demerols from Hymie's migraine script. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 59, 1990

cadillac noun

1 cocaine US, 1953

- "Are the Marmon and Cadillac working tonight?" "Yeah." "That Marmon's an eight, isn't it? And Cadillac's a twelve?" — William J. Spillard and Pence James, Needle in a Haystack, p. 145, 1945

2 phencyclidine, the recreational drug known as PCP or angel dust US, 1994

- — US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994

3 a cup of coffee with cream and sugar US, 1989

- — James Harris, A Convict's Dictionary, p. 29, 1989

4 a note-and-string based method of communication in prison US, 2000

- [O]r using a cadillac [a line with the attached message and a weight that is whipped down the tier along the floor from one cell to another]. — Bill Valentine, Gangs and Their Tattoos, p. 38, 2000
- "I'm gonna make us a righteous Cadillac so we can score a couple of rolleys from my dawg Big Bear." — Jimmy Lerner, You Got Nothing Coming, p. 90, 2002

5 the maximum amount which may be spent at a prison canteen US, 1989

- — James Harris, A Convict's Dictionary, p. 29, 1989

6 in the language of the homeless, a shopping cart US, 1997

- — Jim Crotty, How to Talk American, p. 262, 1997

7 the US Army M-1 tank US, 1991

- The generic nickname for the Army's M-1 Abrams tank is Cadillac. But most tankers give their own tank a name, too. — Houston Chronicle, p. 7A, 20th January 1991

8 a large surfboard used for big-wave conditions US, 1965

- — D. S. Halacy, Surfer!, p. 215, 1965

Cadillac bunk noun

a single prison bed in a setting where most beds are two-tiered bunk beds US, 1989

- — James Harris, A Convict's Dictionary, p. 29, 1989

cage noun

1 an abandoned house US, 2000

- Jackson considers herself lucky that she never had to resort to sleeping in "cages," the street slang for abandoned houses. — Clarion-Ledger (Jackson, Mississippi), p. 1, 24th January 2000

cahoots *noun▶ in cahoots with conspiring or planning with someone US, 1829

- O'Connor, however, is the Democratic leader of the Maryland organization, which is in cahoots with one of the tightest and biggest Mafia concentrations in the country. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 201, 1951
- Was she in cahoots with some Puerto Rican pusher who was about to make his entrance in my life? — Philip Roth, Portnoy's Complaint, p. 180, 1969
- [B]ecause when your father finds out your spent that money on drugs, he's gonna think I'm in cahoots with you, and then he's gonna forgive you and kill me. — Kenneth Lonergan, This Is Our Youth, p. 88, 2000

caine; cane noun

1 cocaine, crack cocaine US, 1983

- I said, "Listen homeboy, what you talkin' about? / You're mistakin' my pad for a rockhouse / Well, I know to you we all look the same / But I'm not the one slingin' caine." — Toddy Tee, Batterram, 1985
- He's got a scale on the table, with some cut foil, some 'caine, and a bag full of money. — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 106, 1989
- I don't wanna be like my brother and shit, hanging out not doing shit, end up dealing cane just like him. — Boyz n The Hood, 1990
- What d'ya know. A kilo of 'caine. — The Bad Lieutenant, 1992

Cajun microwave noun

a large outdoor charcoal cooker US, 1986

- One kitchen, on the lower level, will be close to the outdoor barbecue and to an outdoor oven with indirect heat that he calls a Cajun microwave. — Chicago Tribune, p. C7, 19th March 1987

cake noun

1 a beautiful girl or young woman US, 1941

- What's on your mind, Jim-Jam? Thinkin' about that new cake you pulled from Baxter Terrace, huh? — Nathan Heard, Howard Street, p. 63, 1968
- — Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 34, 1997

2 the vagina US, 1967

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 39, 1967

3 a meal provided as compensation in addition to wages US, 1973

- — Sherman Louis Sergej, The Language of Show Biz, p. 39, 1973

4 money; a good deal of money US, 1965

- Extends, perhaps, from BREAD (money) but "cake" has traditionally been associated with wealth. "Qu'il mangent de la brioche"—"Let them eat cake," attributed to Queen Marie-Antoinette (1755–93) on being told that her people had no bread.

- — Hermese E. Roberts, The Third Ear, 1971

- She hated the job but she loved the cake. — Alix Shulman, On the Stroll, p. 137, 1981

- But you'd go out with her if you had the cake? — Ten Things I Hate About You, 1999

5 a round disc of crack cocaine US, 1994

- — US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994

▶ get your cake

to date your girlfriend US, 2001

- Brooks and his colleagues also provide police with glossaries of street slang—"Agent Scully" = "oral sex," "getting my cake" = "dating my girl." — Washington Post, p. A1, 20th August 2001

cake adjective

easy US, 1968

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 93, 1968

- — AFSCME Local 3963, The Correctional Officer's Guide to Prison Slang, 2001

- "His schedule this semester is cake." — Dictionary of New Terms (Hope College), 2002

cake boy noun

an attractive, usually younger homosexual male US, 1995

- Are you bitches blind or something? Your man, Christian, is a cake-boy. — Clueless, 1995
- — Ethan Hilderbrant, Prison Slang, p. 21, 1998

cake cutter noun

a wide-tooth comb with a horizontal handle US

- In 1972, there were two important developments in the design of African American combs. The first was a comb that became known as the "cake cutter," designed by Anthony R. Romani. — Mwamilu J. Shujaa, The SAGE Encyclopedia of African Cultural Heritage in North America, 2015 cake-cutting noun

short-changing US, 1993

- On the midway, he learned the art of "cake cutting," or shortchanging customers, using "sticks"—carnies posing as customers pretending to win a big prize—and "gaffs"—concealed devices such as magnets used to ensure that the house always won. — Kim Rich, Johanny's Girl, p. 37, 1993

cake-eater noun

1 an effeminate young man, who may or may not be homosexual US, 1916

An important word of the flapper era, but seldom heard thereafter.

- And Three-Star Hennessey, the lousy little cake-eater who used to rob girls' pocketbooks while he danced with them. — James T. Farrell, Saturday Night, p. 31, 1947

2 a person who enjoys performing oral sex on women US, 1967

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 39, 1967
- — Robert A. Wilson, Playboy's Book of Forbidden Words, p. 58, 1972
- — Helen Dahlsgog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 12, 1972

cake hole noun

the mouth UK, 1943

Also heard as "cake 'ole".

- Jeremy asks no one in particular, as he jams a slab of lox into his cake hole. — Anthony Petkovich, The X Factory, p. 183, 1997
- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 106, 1997

cakes noun

the female breasts US, 1967

- What they want is shows where one guy kicks another guy in the belly while a dame leans over 'em with her cakes falling out of her negligee. — Max Shulman, Rally Round the Flag, Boys!, p. 67, 1957

cakewalk noun

an easy or overwhelming success US, 1897

Originally a boxing term for an easy victory, then expanded to general use.

- They came out of the chute with fire in their eyes and a tiger in their tank and turned this old-fashioned, gut-bustin' sidewinder into a cakewalk! — Dan Jenkins, Life Its Ownself, p. 219, 1984
- Solving Iraq will not be easy, and it won't be quick. This is not a cakewalk. — Baltimore Sun, p. 16A, 21st April 2004

calaboose noun

a jail, especially a local one US, 1792

From the Spanish calabazo (dungeon).

- [T]hey'll find you and kick you out and you'll wind up in a Mexican calaboose boy. — Jack Kerouac, The Dharma Bums, p. 101, 1958
- Jail, man! The fuckin' calaboose. — Joseph Wambaugh, Finnegan's Week, p. 51, 1993 calamity howler noun

a person who predicts disaster US, 1892

- All those calamity-howlers who have been taking it for granted that downtown San Francisco is ready to fold up have been given the kind of jolt they deserved. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 32, 22nd March 1954

Calamity Jane noun

in a deck of playing cards, the queen of spades US, 1988
 Martha Jane “Calamity Jane” Canary (1852–1903) was a legendary figure in the settling of the western US.

- George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 16, 1988

calculator noun

1 in horse racing, a pari-mutuel clerk who calculates odds

- US, 1976*
- Tom Ainslie, Ainslie's Complete Guide to Thoroughbred Racing, p. 329, 1976

2 in poker, a player skilled at assessing the hands of other players US, 1988

- George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 16, 1988

calendar noun

a prison sentence of one year US, 1926

- “Rough as a cob. ‘Specially for you—many calendars as you pulled.”
- Malcolm Braly, It's Cold Out There, p. 39, 1966

calf noun

a young teenage girl US, 1959

- Look, p. 49, 24th November 1959

Cali noun

California US, 1930

- With a flash of the Krylong emergency symbol, writers from Philly, New York, Atlanta, and Cali will be here in minutes[.] — William Upski Wimsatt, Bomb the Suburbs, p. 50, 1994
- Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 49, 1997

Califas nickname

California US, 1974

Border Spanish used in English conversation by Mexican-Americans.

- Dagoberto Fuentes and Jose Lopez, Barrio Language Dictionary, p. 27, 1974
- Some had ended up in Texas and others in Califas[.] — Jim Sagel, El Santo Queso, pp. 187–188, 1988
- Even Texans are surprised at California's vehemence and, being more experienced, are wooing Mexican business away from Califas. — Los Angeles Times, p. B7, 5th May 1995

California bankroll noun

a single large-denomination bill wrapped around a small-denomination bill, giving the impression of a great deal of money US, 1980

- Edith A. Folb, runnin' down some lines, p. 231, 1980

California coffee noun

inexpensive wine US, 1976

- Elementary Electronics, Dictionary of CB Lingo, p. 55, 1976

California cornflakes noun

cocaine US, 1976

- Elementary Electronics, Dictionary of CB Lingo, p. 55, 1976

California Crybaby Division nickname

in the Korean war, the 40th California National Guard Division US, 1989

- [A]ll of these had only reinforced the unit's reputation as a sorry, undisciplined, ineffective fighting force. Its nickname—the California “Crybaby” Division—spoke for itself. — David H. Hackworth, About Face, p. 225, 1989

California pimping noun working as a pimp in a relaxed, low-pressure style US, 1972

- California pimpin' is the relaxed style of pimping peculiar to the Golden State, also known as the slow track. — Christina and Richard Milner, Black Players, p. 48, 1972

California quail noun

a tablet of the recreational drug methaqualone, the recreational drug best known as Quaaludes™ US, 1997

- Providence (Rhode Island) Journal-Bulletin, p. 6B, 4th August 1997

Californicator noun

a Californian, especially one who has moved to Oregon or Washington state US, 1978

- Maledicta, p. 153, Summer/Winter 1978: “How to hate thy neighbor: a guide to racist maledicta”
- Watching some Californicator build a log mansion on the creek where your Dad used to take you fishing. — Arthur Kroker, Digital Delirium, p. 13, 1997

calipers noun

dice that are true to an extremely minute tolerance, approximately 1/1000th of an inch US, 1950

- The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, p. 122, May 1950

call noun

the initial flooding of sensations after injecting heroin US, 1973

- David Maurer and Victor Vogel, Narcotics and Narcotic Addiction, p. 394, 1973

call verb▶ call Earl

to vomit US, 1968

- Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 93, 1968

▶ call for the butter to have completed a task or arrived at your destination US, 1975 Fishing skippers who claimed the ability to locate fish by the taste of the bottom mud would smear butter on a lead weight, lower it to the bottom, and then taste the mud brought to the surface on the buttered lead.

- John Gould, Maine Lingo, p. 30, 1975

▶ call it on to challenge another gang to a gang fight US, 1955

- New York Times, p. 2, 15th May 1955

▶ call one-nine used as a dismissal of a complaint US

The functional equivalent of “go see the chaplain,” with 19 as the code for a chaplain.

- True Magazine, p. 4, July 1966
- Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 30, 1968

call book noun

a list, formal or highly informal, kept by a pool hustler, of locations where money can be made playing pool US, 1990

- Steve Rushin, Pool Cool, p. 7, 1990

call boy noun

a male prostitute whose clients book his services by telephone US, 1942

- There are clandestine call boy rings, operated by discreet male madams (often called “mistress” in Miami) who supply male prostitutes to guests at beach hotels. — Johnny Shearer, The Male Hustler, pp. 123–124, 1966
- The frequent performance of fellatio on customers raises the question for the call boy of what to do with the fluid at ejaculation. — George Paul Csicsey (Editor), The Sex Industry, p. 32, 1973
- Students and middle-class youngmen [...] become callboys (the callboy faction being safer, more “conservative”)[.] — John Rechy, The Sexual Outlaw, p. 152, 1977
- I've witnessed various liaisons with hustlers over the years, the street kind as well as the call-boy elite[.] — Ethan Morden, I've a Feeling We're Not in Kansas Anymore, p. 34, 1985

call girl noun

a prostitute who makes bookings with customers by telephone US, 1922

- The girl actually was—a professional tart A call girl. — Philip Wylie, Opus 21, p. 62, 1949
- The aristocrats among prostitutes are expensive call-girls who work for fancy fees and keep their pimps in luxury. — John M. Murtagh and Sara Harris, Cast the First Stone, p. 1, 1957
- I worked as an independent and could not imagine why a $100-a-night call girl like myself or Blossom would want or need a pimp. — Sara Harris, The Lords of Hell, p. 31, 1967
- Coz says he's been beefing up his East Coast staff, in part by hiring Richard Gooding, who broke the 1996 story about Dick Morris's call girl for the rival Star. — Washington Post, p. C1, 26th February 2001

call house noun

a brothel from which prostitutes are procured by telephone US, 1913

- It's the telephone number of a call house. — Mickey Spillane, I, The Jury, p. 61, 1947
- The call houses that specialize in sixteen-year-old virgins are doing a land-office business. — Raymond Chandler, The Little Sister, p. 1, 1949
- Then somebody will suggest the call houses. Address books with lists of cryptic phone numbers will be consulted. — Dev Collins with Stewart Sterling, I was a House Detective, p. 152, 1954
- Then Fullenwider asked, “Did you ever conduct a call house there?” Again MacInnis objected: “What is a call house? What does that phrase mean?” — San Francisco News, p. 8, 21st October 1955

Calley Hall nickname

the Officers Candidate School, Fort Benning, Georgia US

- Lt. William Calley graduated from Fort Benning's OCS.
- Each day, I got up at seven-thirty, got dressed, and drove in a Volkswagen to “Calley Hall.” — William Lewis Calley, Lieutenant Calley: His Own Story, p. 149, 1971
- I got dressed, I drove to “Calley hall,” and I sat down there. — Sharon Breakstone, Front Lines, p. 54, 1975

calling card noun

1 a fingerprint US, 1949

- Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 42, 1949
- Calling cards, in the form of fingerprints left at the scene of East bay holdups, led today to the arrest of two suspected big-shot partners in crime. — San Francisco News, p. 1, 21st March 1953

2 needle marks on a drug user's arm US, 1971

- Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 45, 1971

3 during the Vietnam war, a printed card identifying the unit, left on the bodies of dead enemy soldiers US, 1990

- Their “calling card” featured an eagle holding the crest of the 101st ABN, and a thunderbolt. — Gregory Clark, Words of the Vietnam War, p. 137, 1990

calling station noun

in poker, an unskilled player who calls bets prematurely US, 1979

- John Scarne, Scarne's Guide to Modern Poker, p. 274, 1979

call money noun

a demand for payment of a debt US, 1989

- Max's friends began to call him to tell him his brother was creating heavy debt, and asking Max for “call money.” — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 122, 1989

call out verb

to challenge someone to a fight US, 1980

- Edith A. Folb, runnin' down some lines, p. 231, 1980

Calvin Klein special noun

a mixture of cocaine and the recreational drug ketamine US, 1995 a back formation from the initials.

- Users pay from $20 to $40 per dose, or “bump,” usually to be mixed with heroin or cocaine and snorted (the coke/ketamine combo is called CK or the “Calvin Klein Special”). — The Record [Bergen County, New Jersey], p. A1, 5th December 1995

Calvins noun

blue jeans or underwear designed by Calvin Klein US, 1982

- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Spring 1982
- Rock and Rap Stars Show Their Calvins. — Rolling Stone, 4th June 1999

Cambo adjective

Cambodian US, 1976

- In May 1970, for example, when US troops in Vietnam pushed into Cambo. — EBSCO Publishing, Discover, p. 57, 1980

Cambode noun

Cambodia US, 1986

- Snipings had increased radically, and raids near the Cambode border had expanded to the point where A Company’s particular brand of expertise was needed. — Ralph Zumbro, Tank Sergeant, p. 99, 1986

Cambodian red noun

marijuana from Cambodia US, 1973

Named after its reddish hue.

- Cambodian Red was what most of the drug experimenting GI’s called an “eye popping killer weed.” — Richard Swartzlander, Welcome Home: A Salute to the Forgotten Vietnam War Heroes, p. 156, 2002

Cambodie adjective

Cambodian US, 1964

Vietnam war usage.

- [W]e kept smoking our Cambodie smokes and took turns trying to nap and swatted flies. — Larry Heinemann, Close Quarters, p. 240, 1977 camel noun

1 in twelve-step recovery programs such as Alcoholics Anonymous, a person who maintains sobriety US, 1998

From the sense of “dry as a camel.”

- — Christopher Cavanaugh, AA to Z, p. 65, 1998

2 a marijuana cigarette US, 1976

- — John R. Armore and Joseph D. Wolfe, Dictionary of Desperation, p. 23, 1976

camel driver noun

an Arab US, 1984–1985

- — Maledicta, p. 117, 1984–1985: “Milwaukee medical maledicta”

camelfucker noun

an Arab US, 1994

Offensive.

- “Just make sure the girl and the camel-fucker are well done.” — Bill Branon, Let Us Prey, p. 195, 1994
- Look at our current situation with that camelfucker in Iraq—pacifism is not something to hide behind. — The Big Lebowski, 1998
- The feds culled camel fuckers in custody. — James Ellroy, Destination Morgue, p. 372, 2004

camel head noun

an Arab US, 2004

- The feds culled camel fuckers in custody. Said camelheads confirmed the contretemps. — James Ellroy, Destination Morgue, p. 372, 2004

camel jockey; camel jock noun

an Arab; anyone mistaken for an Arab US, 1967

Used with contempt.

- The Vice President’s lengthy preoccupation with that Pakistani camel-jockey, Bashir Ahmed.] — Reno (Nevada) Evening Gazette, p. 4, 11th June 1961
- — Andy Anonymous, A Basic Guide to Campusology, p. 5, 1966
- — Current Slang, p. 14, Spring 1970
- Clement couldn’t picture this skinny camel-jockey-looking guy shooting anybody anyway. — Elmore Leonard, City Primeval, p. 145, 1980
- So it must be disconcerting, and scary, for Arab-Americans and Muslims to hear Savage and his kind refer to them as “towel heads” and “camel jockeys.” — Corpus Christi (Texas) Caller-Times, p. A7, 28th January 2004

camel toe noun

the condition that exists when a tight-fitting pair of pants, shorts, bathing suit, or other garment forms a wedge or cleft between a woman’s labia, accentuating their shape US, 1993

- Beef curtains, vertical smile, flesh taco, whiskerbiscuit, cooter, cum dump, mound, camel toe. — alt.sex.bestiality, 15th April 1993
- Camel lips, an offensive name from the ‘50s when women wear their pants too tight. Also known as camel toes. The pants were designed to capitalize on that. — USA Today, p. 1D, 12th April 1994
- When you put them back on you knew they were tight enough if you could see the outline of your pussy, which, with the seam going up the crotch, made it sort bulge on each side, vaguely reminding one of a camel’s toe. — Editors of Ben is Dead, Retrahell, p. 31, 1997
- “They’re too tight, too revealing, and the source of both visible panty lines and camel toe”—an unsightly affliction[.] — New York Post, p. 12, 9th October 2003

camera-eye dick noun

a police officer with a good memory for faces from photographs of wanted criminals US, 1972

- But the minute you sit down they’ll get you because it’s the bull’s job to know all the thieves in that town. That’s what make them smart dicks. They call these guys “camera-eye dicks.” — Harry King, Box Man, p. 106, 1972

Camille noun

1 a homosexual man who moves from one unfortunate, failed love affair to another US, 1972

- — Bruce Rodgers, The Queens’ Vernacular, p. 40, 1972

2 a melodramatic hospital patient who always feels on the verge of dying US, 1994

From the novel by Alexandre Dumas.

- — Sally Williams, “Strong” Words, p. 136, 1994

cammies; camies noun

a camouflage uniform US, 1971

- Hey you . . . you in the camies. — Ronald J. Glasser, 365 Days, p. 201, 1971
- The uniforms may well be necessary. Even though women are barred from combat jobs, many open specialties require “cammies.” — Insight, 28th November 1988
- A strack-looking E-6 in jungle cammies stepped up to the platform at the head of the formation[.] — Gary Linderer, The Eyes of the Eagle, p. 24, 1991
- Some “ground pounders” wearing “chocolate chip cookie cammies” even talk of an “Adopt-a-Pilot” campaign and cheer when the jets roar overhead. — Shreveport (Louisiana) Journal, p. 4B, 1st February 1991

cammo stick noun

an applicator for camouflage makeup US, 2001

- — James Kirschke, Not Going Home Alone, p. 239, 2001: Glossary

camo noun

camouflage US, 1984

- A pair of bearded soldiers armed with matt black machine pistols, and wearing berets and desert camo uniforms, appeared from out of a tent along the side of the road. — T.E. Cruise, Wings of Gold III, p. 300, 1989
- Okay. Was the shooter wearing camo gear? — Andrew Vachuss, Blossom, p. 200, 1990
- Today he wore camo fatigues. — Carl Hiaasen, Strip Tease, p. 208, 1993

camouflage noun

the disguise and staged personality assumed by an expert card counter playing blackjack in a casino in the hope of avoiding detection and ejection US, 1991

- — Michael Dalton, Blackjack, p. 25, 1991

camp noun

1 ostentation, flamboyant behavior; extravagance of gesture, style etc.; also, deliberately overt effeminacy used to signal homosexuality US, 1932

May be further refined (or otherwise) as HIGH CAMP or LOW CAMP.

- Detractors dismiss Barlett/Brommfield collaborations as outdated high camp. — John Clum, Still Acting Gay, p. 348, 2000

2 a dramatically effeminate homosexual man US, 1923

In Australia not necessarily a flagrantly effeminate homosexual.

- Still, when this assistant prop man, crew-cut kid, fit, floppy wrists and puffy lips, what they called rough trade, a real camp, when he’d begun stroking Biff’s elbows and saying how gone he was on him, Biff hadn’t come down with the immediate kyawkyaws. — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 202, 1954

3 jail US, 1968

- — Hy Lit, Hy Lit’s Unbelievable Dictionary of Hip Words for Groovy People, p. 7, 1968

camp verb

to exhibit humorously exaggerated, dramatic, effeminate mannerisms (usually but not exclusively of a homosexual male) US, 1925

Variants are “camp around,” “camp about” and “camp it up.”

- She can neither act, nor even camp the role. — Sidney Bernard, This Way to the Apocalypse, p. 147, 1964
- So then years later they meet a fresh bloke like me who’s not afraid to camp a bit. — Antony James, America’s Homosexual Underground, p. 80, 1965
- They screamed and camped when they got on it. — Phil Andros, Stud, p. 39, 1966
- That’s exactly what I’m talking about, Emory. No camping! — Mart Crowley, Boys in the Band, p. 51, 1968

camp bitch noun

an overtly, extravagantly effeminate male homosexual US, 1964

- — Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 28, 1964

Camp Cupcake noun

any minimum security prison US, 1996

This term was widely heard during the months of Martha Stewart’s incarceration.

- In coming home for the holiday from a prison known among regulars as Camp Cupcake, Sarault sent a message to criminals everywhere that it is better in the long run to steal in Brooks Brothers than in Levi Strauss. — Providence Journal Bulletin, p. 1B, 12th January 1996

Camp Faith nickname

a prisoner of war camp in North Vietnam US, 1991

- Those included, but were not limited to the Zoo, Alcatraz, the Plantation, the Powerplant, the Briarpatch, Camp Faith, and Son Teay. — Henry Mark Holzer, Aid and Comfort: Jane Fonda in North Vietnam, p. 57, 2002

Camp Hope nickname

a North Vietnamese prisoner of war camp US, 1991

The official name of the camp is not known.

- We had relocated to Camp Hope only a few months earlier. — Lee Ellis, Leading Talents, Leading Teams, Aligning People, p. 12, 2003

Camp Unity nickname

a section within the Hoa Lo prisoner of war camp US, 1991

- Our swollen ranks in each of the large rooms of the adjacent buildings of Camp Unity did wonders for our spirits. — Chicken Soup for the Veteran’s Soul, p. 166, 2001

- Afterwards the Vietnamese moved all prisoners from small outlying detention camps into Camp Unity at the Hanoi Hilton. — Heien Maw, Freedom is for Those Willing to Defend it, p. 217, 2002
- Once the civilian section of Hoa Lo, Camp Unity became a POW holding facility after the U.S. Special Forces stormed an empty Son Tay prison in 1971. — John Sherwood, Afterburner: Naval Aviators and the Vietnam War, p. 129, 2004

campy adjective

- melodramatically and blatantly homosexual US, 1965
- The rest were largely “campy” homosexuals who enjoyed dressing up in women’s clothes and performing dirty sketches and singing off-color songs. — Antony James, America’s Homosexual Underground, pp. 83–84, 1965

can noun

- 1 a Navy destroyer US, 1946
- “I just took for granted that I’d get on a can or a wagon or a carrier right in the middle of it.” — Thomas Heggen, Mister Roberts, p. 65, 1946
- 2 a combat tank US, 1986
- “Well, then, round up three savages and put them back in their cans.” — Ralph Zumbro, Tank Sergeant, p. 108, 1986
- 3 a jail or prison US, 1912
- The day he got out of the can he was in business in Union Station again and still was at this writing, though arrested again and out on bail. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 130, 1951
 - Once you lose the hatred, then the can’s got you. — Piri Thomas, Down These Mean Streets, p. 263, 1967
 - You’re gonna spend eight years in the can—minimum—and for what? — King of Comedy, 1976
 - So there I am in the can, and not the one that says “gentlemen” on the door. I’m talking about jail. — Raging Bull, 1980
- 4 a toilet; a bathroom or water closet US, 1914
- In the corner I spied a bucket coated with two inches of lime inside and out, with no cover; from the tip-off my nose gave me, I figured this was the can. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, pp. 33–34, 1946
 - I didn’t have anything special to do, so I went down to the can and chewed the rag with him while he was shaving. — J.D. Salinger, Catcher in the Rye, p. 26, 1951
 - “He sits when he goes to the can, doesn’t he?” he asked philosophically. — Evan Hunter, The Blackboard Jungle, p. 28, 1954
 - You mean if I go into latrine to relieve myself I should take along at least seven buddies to keep me from brooding on the can? — Ken Kesey, One Flew Over the Cuckoo’s Nest, p. 158, 1962
 - Only man in history who ever found fulfillment in the ladies’ can of a Boston and Maine Railroad car! — M*A*S*H, 1970
- 5 the buttocks US, 1914
- Yeah, sitting on your can. Ever think of working? — Hal Ellson, The Golden Spike, p. 22, 1952
 - Sat around on our cans all evening, Brownie. — Jim Thompson, The Nothing Man, p. 209, 1954
 - Hey motherfucker! / All you do is sit on your can / Get out in the streets and prove you’re a man! — Lester Bangs, Psychotic Reactions and Carburetor Dung, p. 103, 1972
 - Mr. Preston overheard him ask Miss Pliny how long she’d been “parking her pretty can at Regressive Plywood.” — C.D. Payne, Youth in Revolt, p. 184, 1993
- 6 an imprecise amount of marijuana, usually one or two ounces US, 1967
- Derived from the practice in the 1940s of selling marijuana in Prince Albert tobacco cans.
- We bought three cans of reefer for fifty dollars, and split the rest of the money. — Donald Goines, Whoreson, p. 36, 1972
 - So frequently when you’d be going to cop a few joints or a can—a Prince Albert can of the best pot you ever smoked in your life! — Herbert Huncke, Guilty of Everything, p. 27, 1990

7 a car US, 1970

- — William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Uptight People, p. 5, December 1970

8 a safe US, 1949

- — Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 42, 1949
- “He and two others planned a safe robbery with Decker opening the can while the others were lookouts or drove.” — Mickey Spillane, The Big Kill, p. 22, 1951

► in the can

- not trying to win US, 1951
- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 37, 1951
 - Somebody on the golf tour used to be a hustler who went in the can and intentionally lost a lot of amateur tournaments one time. — Dan Jenkins, Dead Solid Perfect, p. 47, 1986

can verb

- to stop something, to cease something US, 1906
- “Let’s just can the comedy and come on, huh?” said Grady. — Max Shulman, Rally Round the Flag, Boys!, p. 217, 1957
 - Can that Uncle Tom crap. — Chester Himes, The Real Cool Killers, p. 99, 1959
 - “Can the brochure, daddy,” I said, surprising myself by the Fifties jargon that so amused Myron but rather repelled me. — Gore Vidal, Myra Breckinridge, p. 52, 1968
 - RIGGS: Oh, brother. This is good. I like this. MURTAUGH: Can it, Martin. — Lethal Weapon, 1987

Canadian noun

- a Jewish person US, 1950
- — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Chicago Confidential, p. 301, 1950

can of worms noun

- a can of C-ration spaghetti US, 1991
- Can of worms Spaghetti. — Allen Rubin, Handbook of Military Social Work, p. 519, 2012

can opener noun

- a bulldozer tank US
- “Have you got the can opener with you?” “That’s roger,” came Hiemes’s clipped voice. “We got a new hydraulic pump and the blade is working fine. — Ralph Zumbro, Tank Sergeant, p. 37, 1986: Glossary

Canadian bouncer noun

- the central nervous system depressant Seconal™, manufactured in Canada US, 1971
- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 46, 1971
 - — Jay Robert Nash, Dictionary of Crime, p. 55, 1992

Canadian passport noun

- a hairstyle in which the hair is worn short at the front and long at the back US, 2000
- Most commonly known as a MULLET.
- — Ben Sharpe, Scotter Crazy, p. 41, 2000
 - — Don R. McCreary (Editor), Dawg Speak, 2001
 - It’s called the ape drape. The Tennessee top hat. The hockey head. The Kentucky waterfall. The Canadian passport. — New York Times, p. G11, 8th March 2001
 - — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 4, Spring 2001

canary noun

- 1 a female singer UK, 1886
- — Arnold Shaw, Lingo of Tin-Pan Alley, p. 9, 1950
 - But Jan Du Mond, a five-foot-three night club canary, pianist and composer, drives a cab by day. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 83, 1951
 - [A] socially connected, prominently married carpet muncher with a yen for nightclub canaries was prime meat for the four-star Herald. — James Ellroy, Hollywood Nocturnes, p. 270, 1994
 - At a time when it was hip to be cool and well-tailored, and female singers were still referred to as “songbirds” and “canaries,” the Playboy Club became the most popular nightclub in town. — Kathryn Leigh Scott, The Bunny Years, p. 58, 1998
- 2 a police informer US, 1929
- Canaries sing, as do informers.
- Jails are no sanctuaries for canaries. — Burton Turkus and Sid Feder, Murder, Inc., p. 163, 1951
 - “You know,” Varga says very slowly, “a show-off is only a few steps away from being a canary.” — Charles Perry, Portrait of a Young Man Drowning, p. 167, 1962
 - Scott was carrying on like the MC in a lounge act, like here he is, the one and only made-guy canary in captivity. — Edwin Torres, Carlito’s Way, p. 130, 1975
- 3 a person who is perceived to bring bad luck US, 1974
- [A]nybody who is a carrier of such disasters is known in Las Vegas as a “canary.” The word canary is derived from the Yiddish word, kinnahora, which means evil eye. — Edward Lin, Big Julie of Vegas, p. 255, 1974
- 4 a capsule of pentobarbital sodium (trade name Nembutal™), a central nervous system depressant US, 1973
- — David W. Maurer and Victor Vogel, Narcotics and Narcotic Addiction, p. 394, 1973

canary verb

- to inform to the police US, 1958
- He was going to canary and the pusher went around to jail and told him, “Don’t talk.” — Willard Motely, Let No Man Write My Epitaph, p. 381, 1958 cancel verb

- to end a relationship US, 2007
- “I cancelled that nigga a long time ago.” — Treasure E. Blue, A Street Girl Named Desire, p. 153, 2007
- cancel someone’s ticket to kill someone US, 1970
- If he uses a knife you use a gun and cancel his ticket then and there. — Joseph Wambaugh, The New Centurions, p. 11, 1970

cancelled stick noun

- a tobacco cigarette that has been emptied of tobacco and refilled with marijuana US, 1970
- — Mr., p. 8, April 1966: “The hippie’s lexicon”
 - — William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Uptight People, p. 5, December 1970
 - — Richard A. Spears, The Slang and Jargon of Drugs and Drink, p. 92, 1986

Cancer Alley noun

- any area with high levels of environmental carcinogens US, 1981
- Similar threats exist in East St. Louis, in Louisiana’s “Cancer Alley,” on Navaho lands where uranium is mined, and in farmworker communities where laborers and their families are routinely poisoned by pesticides. — Robert D. Bullard and Benjamin Chavis, Confronting Environmental Racism, p. 4, 1993 cancer center noun

- a cigar store US, 1955
- — American Speech, p. 302, December 1955: “Wayne University slang”

cancer stick noun

- a cigarette US, 1958
- Dally searched his pocket for a cigarette, and finding none, said, “You gotta cancer stick, Johnny-cake?” — S.E. Hinton, The Outsiders, p. 71, 1967
 - Later on she was lighting another cancer stick and I leaned over to get a light. — Babs Gonzales, Movin’ On Down De Line, p. 67, 1975
 - [Y]our pussy’s been tampered with / Did you show him that new trick of how you can make it smoke a cancer stick? — Dr De, Fuck You, 2001

C and E noun

- in craps, a bet on any craps and eleven US, 1985
- — Steve Kuriscak, Casino Talk, p. 9, 1985

C and H *nouncocaine and heroin US, 1980

A borrowing of a branded name for sugar; sometimes used with the sugar company's advertising slogan: "pure cane sugar from Hawaii."

- Edith A. Folb, runnin' down some lines, p. 231, 1980

candlestick bird *nicknamethe Fairchild C-123 Assault Transport aircraft US, 1990

- These guys were pilots on C-123s, known as "Candle Stick" birds. — Tom Yarborough, Da Nang Diary, p. 175, 1990 can-do *adjectiveconfident, optimistic US, 1921

- The Belgian battalion, for example, was attached to the U.S. 15th Infantry Regiment which proudly called itself the "Can Do" outfit. — Don Lawson, The United States in the Korean War, p. 24, 1964

candy *noun1 the female genitals US, 2005

- All the freaky things I fantasized about doing with a brother who was interested in licking my candy all night long. — Noire, Candy Licker, p. 136, 2005

2 any barbiturate capsule US, 1969

- William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Upright People, p. 2, December 1970
- Donald Wesson and David Smith, Barbiturates, p. 121, 1977

3 cocaine US, 1931

- Me he caught with some bad candy at a party years back[.] — Edwin Torres, Carlito's Way, p. 53, 1975

4 a sugar cube treated with LSD US, 1972

- Helen Dahlsgog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 12, 1972

5 inexpensive plastic or acrylic jewelry US, 1949

- Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 42, 1949
- American Speech, p. 96, May 1956: "Smugglers' argot in the Southwest"

6 cash US, 2003

- Candy, markers, ammo, liners, stocking stuffer, sweetener, garnish, and pledges are all terms for cash. — Henry Hill and Byron Schreckengost, A Good Fella's Guide to New York, p. 123, 2003

7 anything good or enjoyable US, 1984

- Inez Cardozo-Freeman, The Joint, p. 487, 1984

8 a girl with extremely conservative sexual mores US, 1961

- Washington Post, 23rd April 1961

9 benzodiazepine, a type of tranquilizer US

- Candy Xanies. Vals. These are some of the street or slang names for a category of prescription medications called Benzodiazepines. — Crawfordsville (Indiana) Journal Review, 24th February 2012

candy *verbto enhance a marijuana cigarette with another drug US, 1982

- Ernest L. Abel, A Marijuana Dictionary, p. 21, 1982
- Jay Robert Nash, Dictionary of Crime, p. 56, 1992

candy-ass *nouna weak person US, 1967

- "A candy-ass is a— is a— is a— a candy-ass," he explained. — Elaine Shepard, The Doom Pussy, p. 124, 1967
- Get yourselves squared away, candy-asses. — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, p. 102, 1970
- He (Nixon) said something to the effect, well, if Schultz thinks he's been put over there to be some sort of candy ass, he is mistaken. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 10, 25th July 1974
- There are places you can coach and get by, by being a candy ass (wimp). Buffalo is not one of those places. — Buffalo (New York) News, p. B1, 15th January 2004

candy-ass; candy-assed *adjectiveweak, ineffective, timid US, 1952

- I just couldn't see myself growing old and telling my children that during the war I'd been a member of such a candy-assed organization. — David H. Hackworth, About Face, p. 225, 1989
- Michael Dalton Johnson, Talking Trash with Redd Foxx, p. 98, 1994

candy-bar punk; candy-bar fag *nouna male prisoner whose sexual favors are bought with purchases from the prison store US, 1972

- There are two classes of homos in here. You have what they call the "original" or "square" and you have what they call the "candy-bar punk"[.] — Bruce Jackson, In the Life, p. 359, 1972

candycaine; candycane *nouncocaine US, 1989

- Punning on the Christmas hard peppermint "candy cane" and "cocaine." — Ellen C. Bellone (Editor), Dictionary of Slang, p. 6, 1989

candy maker *nouna male homosexual who masturbates a partner to ejaculation and then licks and swallows the semen US, 1964

- Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 29, 1964
- Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 40, 1967

candyman *nouna drug dealer, especially a cocaine dealer; a heavy cocaine user US, 1969

- Hear they had to bring the coke in a wheelbarrow. He's a real candy man, our boy Bobby Tex. — Edwin Torres, Q & A, p. 21, 1977
- Also there was Taffy Boyd, Helena's candy man, who'd come early in the day to ask why Pachoulo wouldn't extend Helena any more credit and was still hanging around. — Robert Campbell, Juice, p. 203, 1988

candy stick *nouna cigarette with a menthol filter US, 1984

- Look at that sissy, smokin' a candy stick, just like a woman. — Ken Weaver, Texas Crude, p. 106, 1984

candy store *nouna casino with rules that favor gamblers US, 1991

- Michael Dalton, Blackjack, p. 35, 1991

candystore dice *nounmass-produced dice that are imperfect even when unaltered by a cheat US, 1974

- Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 219, 1987

candy wrapper *nouna hundred-dollar bill US, 1983

Probably because of its association with the snorting of cocaine, or "nose candy."

- Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 3435, 1987

can house *nouna brothel US, 1906

- The Roamer Inn was like a model of all the canhouses I ever saw around Chicago[.] — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 22, 1946
- "Down by the railroad tracks and the flop houses and the can houses." — Willard Motley, Knock on Any Door, p. 77, 1947 canister *noun1 a jail or prison US, 1952

- More successful was Jack Black, whose thirty years as a burglar and robber netted him about $50,000 and a total of fifteen years in the canister. — Charles Hamilton, Men of the Underworld, p. 81, 1952

2 a safe US, 1950

- Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 40, 1950

canned goods *noun1 a virgin US, 1967

- Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 40, 1967
- Anon., King Smut's Wet Dreams Interpreted, 1978

2 a male who has never experienced passive anal sex US, 1972

- Bruce Rodgers, The Queens' Vernacular, p. 21, 1972

canned heat *nouna gel formed with liquid ethanol and saturated calcium acetate solution; when ignited, the alcohol in the gel burns US, 1950

Used as a source of fuel in portable cooking stoves and as a source of alcohol by truly desperate derelicts.

- Dope is sold everywhere, as are denatured alcohol, bay rum, canned heat, fermented cider and anything else that will produce a jag. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Chicago Confidential, p. 60, 1950
- I was one of them, a guy who could talk knowingly of Four-Trey Whitey and the Half-a-Half Pint Kid, who knew how to filter canned heat through a handkerchief and rubbing alcohol through dry bread[.] — Jim Thompson, Roughneck, p. 65, 1954
- He drank quarts of it a day. Any kind. Gallo, sneaky pete, the distillation of canned heat. — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 238, 1961
- And the wino cringes from the canned-heat binges / And finds his grave in the sNOW. — Dennis Wepman et al., The Life, p. 80, 1976

cannibal *nouna person who performs oral sex US, 1916

- Head-hunters, cannibals and kid-fruits are fellators[.] — New York Mattachine Newsletter, p. 6, June 1961
- Two to one, he is a "Cannibal" who ate her before she ate him. — Robert deCoy, The Nigger Bible, p. 128, 1967
- Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 34, 1970

cannon *noun1 a large handgun US, 1846

- When Diamond came back he had a pitchfork. But Legs had a cannon. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 161, 1948
- If you do that, we can stow these damn cannons and arm bands in a locker. — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, p. 37, 1970
- About this time, four detectives come out of an unmarked car with their cannons out. — Edwin Torres, Carlito's Way, p. 73, 1975
- Listen, you motherfucker, you tried to kill me with a fucking cannon. — Traffic, 2000

2 a large surfboard designed for big-wave conditions US, 1965

- John M. Kelly, Surf and Sea, p. 297, 1965

3 a muscular arm US, 1989

- Ellen C. Bellone (Editor), Dictionary of Slang, p. 6, 1989

4 a pickpocket US, 1909

- Jake, a con man, a cannon or a fake of any kind / make a C or so, the day after tomorrow you serving time. — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 141, 1965
- A "cannon" with a tired horse face took the vacant stool on my right. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 91, 1969
- The cannon is the guy who actually goes in the guy's pocket. — Leonard Shecter and William Phillips, On the Pad, p. 159, 1973

cannon *verbto pick pockets US, 1960

- "You're too small to cannon the street cars." — Nelson Algren, The Neon Wilderness, p. 101, 1960

cannon-cocker noun

a member of an artillery unit US, 1952
Vietnam war usage.

- “You’re zapped, you cannon-cocking, Texas, shitkicker, zapped by the world’s greatest jungle-fighter.” — Philip Caputo, A Rumor of War, p. 245, 1977
- The efforts of the cannon cockers were rewarded. — Harold Coyle, Team Yankee, p. 94, 1997

canoë verb

1 (used of a marijuana cigarette) to burn only on the top US, 1989

- Masterrap, puffing on a cocaine-laced cigarette, complains to Charlie, “Hey, it’s canoëing”—burning only on top so the unburnt paper looks like a canoë. — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 86, 1989

2 to smoke a marijuana cigarette unevenly, leaving it partly unburned US, 2003

- If you’re worried about canoëing the joint right from the start I suggest lighting the twisted tip without drawing through the joint. — “When I light a Joint it ALWAYS canoës,” grasscity.com, 16th July 2013

canoë inspection noun

a medical inspection of a woman’s genitals for signs of a sexually transmitted disease US, 1964

- — Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 30, 1964
- — Robert A. Wilson, Playboy’s Book of Forbidden Words, p. 60, 1972

canoë-maker noun

a forensic pathologist US, 1970

From the image of the body on the autopsy table, opened up to resemble a canoë.

- [T]he old canoë maker at the autopsy today claimed she punctured the aorta with a three and a half inch blade. — Joseph Wambaugh, The New Centurions, p. 58, 1970

Canoe U nickname

the US Naval Academy at Annapolis US, 1963

The 1998 Naval Academy yearbook included a CD-ROM supplement entitled Canoe U, providing a virtual tour of the Naval Academy.

- A Naval Academy graduate, this “tough guy from Canoe U” so impressed Guarino that he hid his own suffering. — Craig Howes, Voices of the Vietnam POWs, p. 87, 1993
- “Yeah, well, Canoe U has always been a little bizarre in its nomenclature.” — P.F. Deuterermann, Sweepers, p. 102, 1998
- Graduates of the Naval Academy, according to their rivals, are alumni of “Canoe U.” — Carol Bruke, Camp All-American, Hanoi Jane, and the High-and-Tight, p. 108, 2004
- A graduate of Canoe U. A destroyer sailor. — Stewart Harris, Shore Duty: A Year in Vietnam’s Junk Force, p. 244, 2009

can of gas noun

a small butane torch used in the preparation of crack cocaine US, 1992

- — Terry Williams, Crackhouse, p. 147, 1992

can of whip-ass; can of whup-ass noun

a notional repository for a physical beating US, 1984

- She started it back in the days when I, me, Billy Clyde Puckett, your basic all-pro immortal, was expected to go out there every Sunday and crack open a 220-pound can of whipass. — Dan Jenkins, Life Its Ownself, p. 15, 1984
- “I remember when we were losing at halftime (Cougar All-America guard Mike) Utley said to get out a can of whip ass,” he said. — Lewiston (Idaho) Morning Tribune, p. 1C, 7th July 1991
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 6, Spring 1994
- So go open a can of whup-ass on that little fuck, and get me his game! — Kevin Smith, Jay and Silent Bob Strike Back, p. 25, 2001

canonical adjective

in computing, in the usual and accepted form US, 1981 Literally, “according to religious law.”

- — CoEvolution Quarterly, p. 27, Spring 1981
- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 88, 1991

can opener noun

1 a bulldozer tank US, 1986

- — Ralph Zumbro, Tank Sergeant, p. 190, 1986; Glossary

2 a curved bar used by criminals to pry open a safe US

- — Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 42, 1949
- — Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 40, 1950

can or no can used for expressing the decision-making process used by a big-wave surfers US, 1991

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin’ary, p. 18, 1991

cans noun

the female breasts US, 1959

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 93, 1968
- Cans up to her chin and an ass like a brick shithouse. — Oscar Zeta Acosta, The Autobiography of a Brown Buffalo, p. 112, 1972
- What’s your breast size? I know it sounds crazy but my grandmother told me as she breathed her last breath: “Only talk to ladies with huge cans.” — Howard Stern, Miss America, 1995
- — Judi Sanders, Da Bomb, p. 3, 1997
- Campbell and her cans were invited to perform full time for a two-year stint as a favorite Baywatch balloon smuggler. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin’s Skincyclopedia, p. 93, 2005

can shooter noun

a criminal who specializes in breaking into safes US, 1949

- — Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 42, 1949

cantaloupe noun

a misfit; an outcast US, 1985

- “Clyde”—a loser, a shmendrick. Also, “a cantaloupe.” — Washington Post, p. B1, 17th January 1985

cantaloupe; cantaloupes noun

large female breasts US, 1964

- One of the cantaloupes bounces higher than the other. — Jerome Charyn, Once Upon a Droshky, p. 71, 1964
- [H]e took 1 gander at those bouncing cantaloupes and gave “Bebe” the Bye-Bye. — Leo Rosten, Dear Herm, p. 104, 1974
- I stopped right before I gathered both of her cantaloupes to together to taste. — Franklin White, Money for Good, p. 181, 2007

canteen punk noun

a prisoner who engages in sexual acts for payment in goods bought at the prison canteen or shop US, 1974

- — Paul Glover, Words from the House of the Dead, 1974

can’t-miss noun

in horse racing, a racehorse that is a sure thing to win a race to the extent that a sure thing is a sure thing US, 1951

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 18, 1951

can to can’t all day, from early morning (when you can just see) to late evening (when you can’t see) US, 1919

- His aunt worked from can to can’t, and by the time she got home at night she was too tired to bend over the scrub board to wash out some clothes for J.S. to wear every day. — H. Rap Brown, Die Nigger Die!, p. 20, 1969
- “He’s trying to learn day trading now, sits at his laptop from can to can’t.” — Richard Price, Samaritan, p. 211, 2003

Canuck noun

a Canadian, especially a French-Canadian US, 1835

Insulting. Most likely to be heard in portions of the US bordering Canada. During the 1972 campaign for US President, a newspaper in New Hampshire printed an anonymous letter accusing candidate Senator Muskie of having used the term “Canuck” to describe the state’s French-Canadian population. The sound and fury created by the accusation stunned Muskie, and by the time it was learned that the letter had been a concoction of President Nixon’s election campaign the damage had been done.

- “For God’s sake, isn’t it enough that we’ve got a whole colony of Polacks and Canucks working in the mills without letting the Greeks in?” — Grace Metalious, Peyton Place, p. 136, 1956
- I am a Canuck. I could not speak English till I was 5 or 6[.] — Jack Kerouac, The Subterraneans, p. 3, 1958
- At a heated juncture, I made the unfortunate error of referring to their center as a “fucking Canuck.” — Erich Segal, Love Story, p. 17, 1970
- Fucking Canucks. Worse than guineas. — Robert Campbell, Juice, p. 149, 1988

Canuck adjective

Canadian US, 1955

Insulting.

- Reassure Canuck painter too. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Allen Ginsberg, 1st January 1955
- [A]nd then, hunch over, holding the money close to the glove-compartment light, to look at it. “What’s this, all Canuck?” “Most of it.” “It’s pretty but, shit, what’s it worth?” — Elmore Leonard, Killshot, p. 31, 1989

can-up noun

a particularly bad fall while skiing US, 1963

- — American Speech, p. 205, October 1963: “The language of skiers”

canvasback noun

a boxer or fighter whose lack of skills leads him to find himself on his back US, 1955

- It’s a train hijack, canvasback. — James Ellroy, Hollywood Nocturnes, p. 138, 1994 canyon noun

the vagina US, 1980

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin’ down some lines, p. 231, 1980

canyon-dive noun

oral sex performed on a woman US, 1980

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin’ down some lines, p. 231, 1980

Can you . . . not? Phrase used for expressing annoyance US

- — Urban Dictionary, 25th December 2005
- — Connie Eble, Campus Slang: University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Spring 2014

cap noun

1 a bullet; a shot US, 1925

- But before he got within ten feet of the door / I dropped him with a cap from my Colt .44. — Dennis Weptman et al., The Life, p. 42, 1976

2 a capsule of drugs US, 1929

- Local street sales of narcotics are concentrated on Pennsylvania Avenue in the Negro district, where individual caps of heroin, morphine and reefer are available cheap. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 271, 1951
- Lots of jive and goofballs, maybe a couple caps of Horse. — George Mandel, Flee the Angry Strangers, p. 56, 1952
- M-a-a-n, I’m drug by that son of a bitch MacDoug with all his routines about how he ain’t got enough money for one cap[.] — Jack Kerouac, The Subterraneans, p. 29, 1958
- We bought one cap and we split it, y’know. It was a giant cap, it was supposed to be five hundred grams, micrograms or something. — Leonard Wolfe (Editor), Voices from the Love Generation, p. 172, 1968

- 3 a decorative tooth cap US, 2006
- The teeth caps are alternately called grills, fronts, shines, plates, or caps, and these glittering decorative pieces are the latest hip-hop culture trend making its way into the mainstream. — Boston Globe, p. C1, 31st January 2006
- 4 a psychoactive mushroom US, 1999
- Conventionally, the domed upper part of a mushroom; possibly an abbreviation of “liberty cap,” the name given to psilocybin mushrooms.
- I took three, she ate the other twenty-two caps[.] — Eminem (Marshall Mathers), My Fault, 1999
- 5 the amount of marijuana that will fit into the plastic cap of a tube of lip gloss US, 1989
- James Harris, A Convict's Dictionary, p. 29, 1989
- 6 used as a term of address for someone whose actions are provoking physical violence US, 1982
- Hawaiian youth usage; an abbreviated form of “capillary.”
- Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max Hana Hou, 1982
- 7 captain US, 1759
- The cap got all pissed off and had another shit fit, and we didn't get going again until after daybreak. — Larry Heinemann, Paco's Story, p. 22, 1990
- 8 in casino gambling, a chip of one denomination on top of a stack of chips of another denomination US, 1991
- Michael Dalton, Blackjack, p. 35, 1991
- cap verb
- 1 to package a drug in capsules US, 1952
- “We got a little capper to do,” Buster told the Dinch. — George Mandel, Flee the Angry Strangers, p. 248, 1952
 - They cut it, cap it, and retail it at about a hundred percent profit. — John D. McDonald, The Neon Jungle, p. 61, 1953
 - If you're a good capper and cap it yourself and sell part of it and use the rest yourself you can double your money. — Willard Motley, Let No Man Write My Epitaph, p. 122, 1958
 - Clayton also taught me how to cap. — John Allen, Assault with a Deadly Weapon, p. 160, 1977
- 2 to shoot someone US, 1970
- They said he got capped by a junkie; shit, but didn't die. — Elmore Leonard, Glitz, p. 57, 1985
- 3 to insult someone in a competitive, quasi-friendly spirit; to outdo someone US, 1944
- “Sing it you sweet cowl!” some fellow shouted from the table next to ours. The chick that was with him capped this with “Yeah baby, he can't help it, it's the way you do it.” — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 26, 1946
 - I would remark to Jessie that I was ready to pimp, but she would only laugh and cap: “You think you know to talk slick, boy, but that ain't the key!” — Donald Goines, Whoreson, p. 37, 1972
 - There are many different terms for playing the dozens, including “bagging, capping, cracking, dissing, hiking, joning, ranking, ribbing, serving, signifying, slipping, sounding and snapping.” — James Haskins, The Story of Hip-Hop, p. 54, 2000
- 4 to steer business to someone US, 1973
- Herb was fired for capping for a bail bondsman and had a nice thing going until they caught him. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Blue Knight, p. 123, 1973
- 5 in casino gambling, to add to an existing bet, usually illegally US, 1980
- Lee Solkey, Dummy Up and Deal, p. 109, 1980
- Cape Cod turkey noun
- salt cod US, 1865
- Along Cape Cod Bay in Massachusetts cod fish is sometimes called Cape Cod Turkey. — George Earle Shanks, American Nicknames, p. 74, 1955
 - Charles F. Hayward, Yankee Dictionary, p. 24, 1963
- caper noun
- 1 a criminal undertaking, especially a swindle or theft US, 1925
- It always seems that way when a guy's going on a caper. — Jim Thompson, A Swell-Looking Babe, p. 79, 1954
 - He was always and forever cooking up deals, figuring the angles, plotting his caper, with a mournful, long-faced and unhappy expression as though he knew someone would catch him. — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 355, 1961
 - No more chickenshit two- and three-grand capers that cost two or three years. — Gerald Petievich, Money Men, p. 85, 1981
 - Finally, someone comes up with the idea, wait a minute, while we were planning this caper, all we did was sit around and tell fucking jokes. — Reservoir Dogs, 1992
- caper verb
- to commit a criminal undertaking, especially a swindle or theft US, 1976
- During the years of his cruising around the country, Leo would caper and regularly send money through Joanie to his attorney[.] — Emmett Grogan, Final Score, p. 22, 1976
 - Harold and Joe had capered together on the streets, though petty boosting only[.] — Seth Morgan, Honeyboy, p. 89, 1990
- caper car noun
- a car used for a crime and then abandoned US, 1981
- It's a caper car, for sure. — Gerald Petievich, Money Men, p. 99, 1981
- capisce?; capeesh?
- do you understand? US, 1977
- Thanks to gangster films and television programs, almost always a blatant affectation with an organized, Sicilian ring to it.
- Mr. Colucci has got my ass dragging with all our troubles with Tat Taylor's Warriors and other serious trouble I can't talk about. Capisce? — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Death Wish, p. 12, 1977
 - In this enterprise you do as I say. Obey me, and you'll escape unscathed. Capeesh? — Jonathan Gash, The Ten Word Game, p. 74, 2003
- As anyone who's seen the mob melodrama knows, loose lips are likely to result in a major loss of blood, capisce? — The News-Press (Fort Myers, Florida), p. 8E, 6th February 2004
- capital adjective
- attractive, good-looking US, 2001
- Don R. McCreary (Editor), Dawg Speak, 2001
- capital prize noun
- a sexually transmitted infection US, 1948
- Nitti, like Capone, had picked up in his travels the occupational malady of the underworld euphemistically known as the capital prize, or big casino. — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 14, 24th February 1948
- cap man noun
- a confederate in a swindle US, 1971
- Jackson's cap man (confederate) heckled the mark to blow close to a C note to Jackson with such violent enthusiasm that the mark woke up. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), The Naked Soul of Iceberg Slim, p. 123, 1971
- capo noun
- a leader of a Mafia organization US, 1952
- That was an operation for any local capo, not the boss. — Mickey Spillane, Last Cop Out, p. 114, 1972
- capon noun
- an effeminate or homosexual male US, 1945
- Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 8, 1945
- cap on verb
- to look at someone or something US, 1971
- Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 46, 1971
- capper noun
- 1 a clincher; something that beats all others UK, 1960
- Robert S. Gold, A Jazz Lexicon, p. 48, 1964
 - You know, like the capper on a bad fuckin' day. — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 381, 1992
- 2 in a drug-selling enterprise, a person who fills capsules with a drug US, 1958
- If you're a good capper and cap it yourself and sell part of it and use the rest yourself you can double your money. — Willard Motley, Let No Man Write My Epitaph, p. 122, 1958
- 3 in a confidence swindle, a person who lures the victim into the swindle US, 1753
- From the verb cap.
- “I understand you guys are looking for a capper to rope a mark,” she said as she hugged John, but only looked over at Beano. — Stephen Cannell, King Con, p. 138, 1997
- capsule con noun
- a prisoner convicted on drug charges US, 1970
- To me, he didn't look like a capsule con. — Red Rudensky, The Gonif, p. 17, 1970
- Captain Hicks noun
- in craps, the number six US, 1941
- Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 44, 1949
 - Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 36, 1987
- captain of the head noun
- an orderly assigned to latrine duty US, 1947
- American Speech, p. 54, February 1947: “Pacific War language”
- captain's man noun
- a police officer designated to pick up bribes from criminals for his superior officers US, 1972
- Precinct commanders who received graft almost always designated a patrolman, “the captain's man,” to make their pickups[.] — The Knapp Commission Report on Police Corruption, p. 76, 1972
- capun noun
- capital punishment US, 1992
- William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 104, 1992
- cap work noun
- the alteration of dice for cheating by making them resilient on certain surfaces, which makes them more likely to bounce off the altered sides US, 1950
- The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, p. 122, May 1950
- car noun
- 1 a clique of prisoners US, 1989
- James Harris, A Convict's Dictionary, p. 29, 1989
 - “We the L.A. Crip car, cuz. You wanta get in the car?” — Bob Sipchen, Baby Insane and the Buddha, p. 183, 1993
 - He takes care of the Car's laundry and runs contraband from one cellblock to another. — Jimmy Lerner, You Got Nothing Coming, p. 216, 2002
- 2 a radio US, 2002
- Gary K. Farlow, Prison-ese, p. 10, 2002
- caramel adjective
- mixed race US, 1994
- I noticed a lot of Jungle Fever action, with people describing themselves as “vanilla” or “chocolate” or “caramel.” — Anka Radakovich, The Wild Girls Club, p. 43, 1994
- carbolic dip noun
- the bath or shower with carbolic dip given to prisoners when they arrive at a prison US, 1950
- Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 40, 1950

carbos *nouncarbohydrates US, 1977

- She knew she shouldn't be munching out on carbos like this; substitute gratification wasn't the answer. — Cyra McFadden, The Serial, p. 87, 1977
- Three days before the Ironman "I ate carbos. Bread. Spaghetti. Anything." — Washington Post, p. E1, 3rd November 1982

carburetor noun

a tube with holes used for smoking marijuana; a hole that is designed to let air into a pipe used for smoking marijuana US, 1976

As its automotive namesake forces a mixture of fuel and oxygen into an engine, the marijuana-related carburetor forces a mixture of marijuana smoke and air into the smoker's lungs.

- — High Times, May 1976

car clout noun

a thief who breaks into and steals the contents of cars US, 1962

- — American Speech, p. 267, December 1962: "The language of traffic policemen"

card verb

to ask someone for proof of age before selling or serving them alcohol US, 1975

- — Sue Black, The Totally Awesome Val Guide, p. 21, 1982
- Whoa, he didn't even card us. — Bill and Ted's Excellent Adventure, 1989
- I never get carded either, have to show any proof. — Elmore Leonard, Maximum Bob, p. 3, 1991

card-carrying *adjectivedevout, dedicated US, 1927

First used in the late 1940s to describe fervent leftists in the US as "card-carrying Communists," the term was given new life in 1988 when Democratic presidential candidate Michael Dukakis described himself as a "card-carrying member of the American Civil Liberties Union."

- Donald, you are a real card-carrying cunt. — Mart Crowley, The Boys in the Band, p. 42, 1968
- But people in politics remembered the Communist history of the word and were careful not to apply it to a left-leaning noun. A card-carrying hawk offended nobody, but a card-carrying dove was an insult. — The New York Times Magazine, p. 20, 18th September 1988
- They pursued liberals, pinkos and others they suspected of being card-carrying commies[.] — The Chicago Tribune, p. C3, 30th September 1988
- Only a card-carrying shithhead would show his face at a nudie joint in an election year. — Carl Hiaasen, Strip Tease, p. 11, 1993

cardenales *nounbarbiturates US, 1997

From the Spanish for "cardinal" (a red bird).

- — Providence (Rhode Island) Journal-Bulletin, p. 68, 4th August 1997 card mob noun

two or more card cheats working together US, 1979

- — John Scarne, Scarne's Guide to Modern Poker, p. 274, 1979

cards speak noun

in high-low poker, the rule that players need not declare whether they are playing for a low or high hand US, 1996

- — Peter O. Steiner, Thursday Night Poker, p. 409, 1996

card surfing noun

a criminal act in which a criminal closely observes a person using an automatic cash machine (by looking over his or her shoulder) and notes the personal identity number that is entered on the keypad US, 1992

Also known as "shoulder surfing."

- Mostly it starts with what is called "shoulder surfing." While you're holding your credit card at a pay phone, especially in a large public area, people can stand at your shoulder and get your card number. — Atlanta Journal and Constitution, p. H10, 10th May 1992
- In fact, "shoulder surfing" is an outdated, low-tech approach. Thieves no longer need to steal a debit card to gain access to a bank account through an ATM. They simply make the cards themselves. — Baltimore Sun, 15th April 2003

CARE package noun

a box of treats and/or necessities, sent to someone away from home with the hope of cheering them up US, 1962

Suggested by CARE packages sent by the United Nations.

- [H]e paid the priest for the funeral, arranged a CARE package for Jack in the Sierra (Hersheys and khaki socks).[.] — Richard Farina, Been Down So Long, p. 256, 1966
- I'm sorry to say that neither Aunt Margaret's nor Laura's CARE packages have ever caught up with me. — Don Bishop, Letters Home: Vietnam, p. 111, 17 March 1969
- Some of the guys got "care" packages. That's what we call a big package from home with lots of food and other goodies. — Vietnam Skytroopers Diary, 9 February 1970
- "Motherfuck," he said, coming back. "No care package." — William Pelfrey, The Big V, p. 58, 1972
- He loves to eat, so we feed him from our care packages. — Ernest Spencer, Welcome to Vietnam, Macho Man, p. 42, 1987

careware noun

computer software offered free by its developer, with the request that the user make a contribution to a charity in place of paying a fee for the software US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 89, 1991

carga *nounheroin US, 1968

Border Spanish used in English conversation by Mexican-Americans.

- Depending on who is listening, heroin can be referred to as carga (heroin), la chiva (the thing), or la madre (the mother). — George R. Alvarez, Semiotic Dynamics of an Ethnic-American Sub-Cultural Group, p. 4, 1965
- — Current Slang, p. 14, Fall 1968
- [Y]ou take your first hit of carga before you get laid. — Oscar Zeta Acosta, The Revolt of the Cockroach People, p. 90, 1973
- — Dagoberto Fuentes and Jose Lopez, Barrio Language Dictionary, p. 29, 1974

carhop noun

1 an employee in a drive-in restaurant who serves customers in their cars US, 1923

- I drove on past the gaudy neons and the false fronts behind them, the sleazy hamburger joints that look like palaces under the colors, the circular drive-ins as gay as circuses with the chipper hard-eyed car-hops[.] — Raymond Chandler, The Little Sister, p. 79, 1949
- [A] fancy dog palace sprawled along the highway with tables inside and out, car-hop service and a small bar if you wanted one for the road. — Mickey Spillane, The Long Wait, p. 120, 1951
- When he got his discharge papers he made tracks for Laguna Beach, where he landed a job as a carhop in a drive-in beanery. — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 159, 1954
- "And it's easier than being a carhop." — Madam Sherry, Pleasure Was My Business, p. 15, 1963
- It was a big year for a drive-in restaurant carhop. — Merle Haggard, The Way It Was in '51, 1975
- They don't have carhops there, they have a radio speaker into which you call your order. — Mort Sahl, Heartland, p. 61, 1976
- Son of a carhop in an all-night dive. — Rodney Crowell, Ain't Livin' Long Like This, 1978

2 a girl who chooses partners on the basis of their car US, 1995

- — Bill Valentine, Gang Intelligence Manual, p. 75, 1995

carnal noun

among Mexican-Americans, a very close male friend US, 1950

Border Spanish used in English conversation by Mexican-Americans.

- — George Carpenter Baker, Pachuco, p. 41, January 1950
- — Dagoberto Fuentes, Barrio Language Dictionary, p. 29, 1974
- [T]hey automatically became members of La Erme, the so-called Mexican Mafia, and were now sworn carnales, the Hispanic term for homeboys. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 176, 1990
- A carnal had to be prepared to fight at all times. — Bill Valentine, Gangs and Their Tattoos, p. 33, 2000

carnation noun

used as a humorous substitute for "damnation" US, 1974

- "Why in carnation is Hermie Klitcher writing me?" — Leo Rosten, Dear Herm, p. 2, 1974 carnival croquet noun

the shell game US, 1966

- Here we are, ladies and gentlemen! Carnival croquet, the preacher's pastime. — Robert Edmond Alter, Carny Kill, p. 34, 1966

carnival louse noun

a person who follows a carnival from town to town and associates with carnival employees, but is not one himself US, 1981

- — Don Willmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 44, 1981

carny noun

any person employed by or associated with a traveling carnival US, 1939

- Itinerant short con and carnny hype men have burned down the croakers of Texas. — William Burroughs, Naked Lunch, p. 13, 1957
- — American Speech, p. 279, December 1966: "More carnny talk from the West Coast"
- This girl, I think the most important thing in her background was that her family was carnies. — Bruce Jackson, In the Life, p. 196, 1972
- Trailers were a carnny status symbol. — Peter Fenton, Eyeing the Flash, p. 111, 2005

carny Bible noun

the Amusement Business magazine US, 1985

- The Amusement Business magazine is such an integral tool to a carnny that it is referred to as the "Carnny Bible." — Gene Sorrows, All About Carnivals, p. 5, 1985

carny divorce noun

an arrangement in which a man and woman who are living together without benefit of a wedding end their relationship, often consisting of one ride backward around on a ferris wheel US, 1985

- — Gene Sorrows, All About Carnivals, p. 12, 1985

carny's Christmas noun

Labor Day US, 1981

- — Don Willmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 45, 1981

carny wedding noun

an arrangement in which a man and woman live together without benefit of a wedding, often consisting of one ride around on a ferris wheel US, 1980

- — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 23, 1980
- — Gene Sorrows, All About Carnivals, p. 12, 1985

Carolina noun

in craps, a nine US, 1950

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 37, 1987

Carolina pancake noun

a mixture of lye and bacon fat or Crisco™, heated and thrown at someone with the intent of burning them badly US, 1985

- What happened was that this guy was involved in a family fight and some cops showed up. He had made a Carolina pancake. — Mark Baker, Cops, p. 287, 1985

carp noun

1 anchovies as a pizza topping US, 1996

- — Maledicta, p. 99, 1996: “Domino’s pizza jargon”

2 a black prisoner US, 1989

- — James Harris, A Convict’s Dictionary, p. 29, 1989

carpenter noun

an orthopedist US, 1994

- — Sally Williams, “Strong” Words, p. 136, 1994

carpenter’s dream noun

a flat-chested woman US, 1974

- Natalie Wood, a carpenter’s dream. “Flat as a board an’ easy to screw.” — Richard Price, The Wanderers, p. 27, 1974
- — Michael Dalton Johnson, Talking Trash with Redd Foxx, p. 79, 1994

carpet and drapes that match applied to a person, usually a woman, whose hair is neither bleached nor dyed US, 1999

A jocular suggestion that the hair on the head is of the same natural shade as the public hair.

- Gwen Stefani’s wild pink hair. “Does the carpet match the drapes? Heh, heh, heh.” — OC (Orange County, California) Weekly, p. 6, 22nd October 1999
- She then described how she and a friend discuss whether another woman’s hair color is truly natural. “What do you think: Does the carpet match the drapes?” she said with a cocked eyebrow. — Marion (Ohio) Star, p. 1A, 17th November 2003
- Annette indulged in more bed-top squirming, was carried like a sack of stripped potatoes, posed totally reviewed from the standing rear, and dared to reveal that the carpet did not match the drapes. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin’s Skincyclopedia, p. 57, 2005

carpet burger noun

oral sex performed on a woman US, 2001

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 52, 2001

carpet burn noun

a rawness of the skin due to frictional contact with a carpet US, 1986

On the model of “rope-burn.” Tends to be used mainly of knees and elbows and generally in the context of wounds received in the course of unconventionally located love-making.

- No fight. No shoving. Not so much as a carpet burn. — Los Angeles Times, p. 1 (Part 6), 15th August 1986 carpet game noun

a swindle in which the swindler holds and then steals the wallet of a customer going to see a nonexistent prostitute US, 1967

- He settled back and found himself listening to Henry Jackson describing his arrest for something he called “carpet game.” — Malcolm Braly, On the Yard, p. 24, 1967

carpet joint noun

a fancy, high-class casino US, 1961

- [S]etting up shop in the various “carpet” joints on the Strip and “sawdust” joints downtown. — Ovid Demaris, The Last Mafioso, p. 57, 1981
- And he saw the “carpet joint” for what it was—an institution designed with neither windows, doors, chairs, nor wall clocks in order to mesmerize the tourists therein trapped into losing track of time and place as they squandered money. — Gerald Petievich, Shakedown, p. 64, 1988
- I used to only work carpet joints ‘cause the ritzy casinos didn’t float the dice. — Stephen Cannell, Big Con, p. 215, 1997

carpet muncher noun

a cunning linguist; hence, and especially, a lesbian US, 1994

- [A] socially connected, prominently married carpet muncher with a yen for nightclub canaries was prime meat for the four-star Herald. — James Ellroy, Hollywood Nocturnes, p. 270, 1994
- Lesbians and straight women are insulted as “carpet-munchers.” — New York Post, p. 18, 13th February 1999

carpet slashing noun

a dance party US, 1947

From the more common CUT A RUG.

- One night at a carpet slashing Romeo got a gander at Julie. — Harry Haenigsen, Live’s Like That, 1947

Carrie; Carrie Nation; Carry; Carry Nation noun

cocaine US, 1993

- — American Speech, p. 86, May 1955: “Narcotic argot along the Mexican border”
- — Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, 1993 carrier pigeon noun

a messenger or courier US, 1933

- We relied on “carrier pigeons”—other Korean agents who would take messages back and forth. Damnably dangerous work but necessary. — Joseph C. Goulden, Korea, p. 470, 1982 carrot eater; carrot snapper noun

a Mormon US, 1968

Offensive.

- In and around the state of Utah, Mormons have been called carrot-eaters or carrot-snappers. — Irving Lewis Allen, Unkind Words, p. 50, 1990 carrot-top noun

a red-headed person US, 1889

- Arthur Godfrey is going to have the whole Buckeye State after his carrot top for what he did to Miss Ohio last night. — San Francisco News, p. 12, 6th November 1956
- Another carrot-top had been dead for over a year. — Gerald Petievich, Money Men, p. 97, 1981
- If only the carrot top kook were hunkered beside him on the grass. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 190, 1990 carrot-topped adjective

redheaded US, 1899

- [S]he’s particularly tasty in Please Don’t Eat My Mother (1972), in which just before her carrot-topped deliciousness gets fed to a giant flesh-eating plant, she provides an up-close organic study of her pink-tipped booby bulbs[.] — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin’s Skincyclopedia, p. 191, 2005

carry noun

any victim of a crime who must be taken from the scene by stretcher US, 1958

- — New York Times Magazine, p. 87, 16th March 1958

carry verb

1 to carry a firearm US, 1971

- I’d get three Hail Marys and the priest’d ask me confidentially if I could get him something light he could carry under his coat. — George V. Higgins, The Friends of Eddie Doyle, p. 7, 1971
- Turn around a lift your tail. All right, you ain’ carryin’. — Robert Campbell, In La-La Land We Trust, p. 173, 1986

2 to lead or be in charge of something US, 1972

- — Bruce Jackson, Outside the Law, p. 56, 1972

carry it to the door to serve all of a prison sentence US, 2002

- — Gary K. Farlow, Prison-ese, p. 11, 2002

carry someone’s bags to be romantically involved with someone US, 1973

- — Sherman Louis Sergel, The Language of Show Biz, p. 107, 1973

carry the banner

to stay up all night US, 1947

- “Are you carrying the banner too, kid?” When Nick looked puzzled, he said, explaining, “Sitting up all night.” — Willard Motley, Knock on Any Door, p. 144, 1947
- — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 23, 1980

carry the bug

in circus usage, to work as a night watchman US, 1981

- From BUG (a flashlight).
- — Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 46, 1981

carry the mail to commit a murder for hire US, 1971

- I hear they used to call up from Providence whenever they had a particularly bad piece of work and get ahold of Artie Van to carry the mail. — George V. Higgins, The Friends of Eddie Doyle, p. 101, 1971

carry the silks

in horse racing, to race for a particular owner US, 1951

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 18, 1951

carry the stick to live without a fixed abode; to live in someone else’s room US, 1971

- “Anybody that don’t have a room of their own and bunks in with somebody else for free is carrying a stick, just like a tramp.” — Robert Deane Pharr, S.R.O., p. 181, 1971
- Carrying the stick means not having a fixed address. — Burgess Laughlin, Job Opportunities in the Black Market, pp. 13–2, 1978

carry the target

in horse racing, to run in the last position for an entire race US, 1976

- — Tom Ainslie, Ainslie’s Complete Guide to Thoroughbred Racing, p. 329, 1976

carry; carry along verb

in professional wrestling, to try to make your opponent look like they are putting up a good fight US, 1957

- When one man has the ability to knock the other off in a hurry, he is asked to “carry along” the other fellow for a certain length of time to give the fans their money’s worth. — Helen Giblo, Footlights, Fistfights and Femmes, p. 241, 1957

carry-away noun

a robbery in which a safe is taken and opened at leisure away from the crime scene US, 1958

- — Jack Webb, The Badge, p. 220, 1958

carry day noun

in television and movie making, a day in which the cast and crew are paid but do not have to work US, 1990

- — Ralph S. Singleton, Filmmaker’s Dictionary, p. 28, 1990

Carter’s Little Liver Pills noun

any central nervous system stimulant US, 1976

- — Elementary Electronics, Dictionary of CB Lingo, p. 56, 1976

carton-pusher noun

a person who sells cigarettes that have been stolen or smuggled from a state with lower taxes US, 1978

- The “carton pusher” is the other kind of retailer. He attracts customers by selling below the price for legal cigarettes. — Burgess Laughlin, Job Opportunities in the Black Market, pp. 10–9, 1978

car trick noun

- an act of sex between a prostitute and customer in a car US, 1968
- Sue never let Sadie have another room—to pay her money out finished their relationship. Now most of Sadie's tricks were car tricks. — Nathan Heard, Howard Street, 1968

cartwheel noun

- 1 a feigned drug withdrawal spasm US, 1936
- A drug addict's life is dedicated to cheating, lying, conniving, and “conning” to obtain illicit drugs. It's an obsession. And they'll go to any length to achieve their purpose. They'll pull a “Brody” or “Cartwheel” (feigned spasms) to elicit sympathy. — San Francisco News, p. 1, 5th December 1951
- 2 an amphetamine tablet US, 1966
- I asked what they were and somebody beside me said, “Cartwheels, man. Bennies. Eat some, they'll keep you going.” — Hunter S. Thompson, Hell's Angels, p. 216, 1966
 - — Donald Louria, The Drug Scene, p. 189, 1971
 - Army officers pass out “cartwheels”—20-milligram dextroamphetamine pills—to keep their men alert and moving on patrol duty. — The San Francisco Chronicle, p. 12, 24th June 1971
- 3 a silver dollar piece US, 1949
- — Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 44, 1949
 - — Steve Kuriscak, Casino Talk, p. 10, 1985

carve verb

- 1 in skateboarding, to take a turn sharply US, 1976
- — Albert Cassorla, The Skateboarder's Bible, p. 199, 1976
 - Carve: To make a long, curving turn while skating. For old dudes. — Shelley Youngblut, Way Inside ESPN's X Games, p. 39, 1998
- 2 in surfing, to change the course of the surfboard by digging it into the water US, 1980
- — John Grissim, Pure Stoke, p. 156, 1980
- 3 in mountain biking, to travel at great speed around corners US, 1996
- I put a lot of weight on it and carve the turn. — Mountain Bike Magazine's Complete Guide To Mountain Biking Skills, p. 148, 1996
- 4 to outplay another musician in a competition of solos US, 1970
- — Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 35, 1970
- ▶ carve some beef
- to grant sexual favors; to consent to sex US, 2001
 - “So what's the deal, then? She carving you some beef?” Another gangbang sexual reference. — Stephen J. Cannell, The Tin Collectors, p. 34, 2001

▶ carve someone's knob

- to make someone understand US, 1953
- — Lavada Durst, The Lives of Dr. Hepcat, p. 12, 1953

carved up adjective

- (used of a bodybuilder) without fat US, 1984
- — American Speech, p. 198, Fall 1984: “The language of bodybuilding”

car wash noun

- during the Vietnam war, an establishment in Vietnam where a man went for a haircut, bath, massage and sex US, 1969
- And finally the convoy would crank and crash past the strip of car-wash and hand-laundry whorehouses outside the Tay Ninh Base Camp gate, where the housecats got laid. — Larry Heinemann, Close Quarters, p. 95, 1977
 - Some of us would sneak off to Tu Duc Phuc's #1 Souvenirs and Car Wash in town and get laid. — Larry Heinemann, Paco's Story, p. 116, 1990

casabas noun

- the female breasts US, 1970
- What ever happened to comparing breasts to fruit—casabas, melons, peaches? [Letter to Editor] — New York Times, p. 20 (Section 6), 19th September 1993
 - Kelly Bundy toplessly tongue-kisses a dude whose damn hands cup her naked casabas and thereby conceal them from the rest of us. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin's Skincyclopedia, p. 23, 2005

case verb

- 1 to look over a place or person, especially in anticipation of criminal activity US, 1914
- [A]nd probably was frightened either for the idea I'd bust right in and pull a holdup on the spot, or was merely casing for later. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Neal Cassidy, p. 277, 3rd January 1951
 - Bud, after critically if surreptitiously “casing” the boy, decided to have a try at examining Sam. — Arthur V. Huffman, New York Mattachine Newsletter, p. 6, July 1961
 - Another principal need is someone able to “case” these places' physical layouts—to determine means of entry, the best getaway routes, and so forth. — Malcolm X and Alex Haley, The Autobiography of Malcolm X, p. 140, 1964
 - I went out and cruised around to case the city. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 91, 1969
- 2 to tease someone, to scold someone US, 1971
- — Hermese E. Roberts, The Third Ear, 1971

case game noun

- in pool, a situation in which each player can win with their next shot US, 1985
- — Mike Shamos, The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Billiards, p. 42, 1993

case note noun

- 1 a one-dollar bill US, 1962
- — Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World's Toughest Prison, p. 794, 1962
- 2 a gambler's last money US, 1962
- — Frank Garcia, Marked Cards and Loaded Dice, p. 261, 1962

case of the ass noun

- anger; frustration US, 1968
- Vietnam war usage.
- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 8, 1968
 - “That kind of stuff really gave us a case of the ass about Colonel Lucas.” — Keith Nolan, Ripcord, p. 126, 2000

case of the jaws noun

- a harsh reprimand US, 1968
- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 27, 1968

case out verb

- to engage in sexual foreplay US, 1963
- — American Speech, p. 273, December 1963: “American Indian student slang”

caser noun

- 1 a skilled card-counter in blackjack US, 1983
- A good caser can track every card played in a six-deck shoe. — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 38, 1987
- 2 in poker, the last card in a particular rank or suit in a deal US, 1963
- A term borrowed from the card game of faro.
- — Irwin Steig, Common Sense in Poker, p. 183, 1963

Casey Jones noun

- 1 in poker, a player who draws the last card of a rank, the case card US, 1988
- John Luther “Casey” Jones (1864–1900) was an American locomotive engineer whose death in a train accident made him a legend celebrated in ballad and song.
- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 17, 1988
- 2 in pool, a case game (one that either player can win with their next shot) US, 1993
- — Mike Shamos, The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Billiards, p. 42, 1993

cash verb

- 1 to finish consuming something US, 2001
- Usage is in the context of drug or alcohol consumption.
- — Don R. McCreary (Editor), Dawg Speak, 2001
- 2 to pass counterfeit money US, 1985
- “Before big-money holidays like Easter and Mother's Day, instead of going to school I'd go ‘cashing’ with Johnny Mazzolla.” — Nicholas Pileggi, Wise Guy, p. 18, 1985

cash cow noun

- any business or business sector that provides a steady cash flow US, 1972
- The scrap-heaps of business are littered with concepts which went—to use the Boston Group matrix—from being question marks to dogs, without the intervening periods of star and cash cow status. — Fiona Czerniawska, Corporate-Speak, p. 224, 1997

cashed adjective

- completely consumed, empty US, 1997
- — Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 34, 1997
 - The keg was cashed at 10 o'clock so we decided to go uptown earlier than usual. — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 1, Spring 2001

cashew noun

- a psychiatric patient US, 1994
- — Sally Williams, “Strong” Words, p. 136, 1994

cash in verb

- to die US, 1891
- A shortened form of “cash in your chips.”
- She must have died. She must have cashed in. — Harry J. Anslinger, The Murderers, p. 175, 1961
 - “You got boo-koo [many] years before you cash in,” Young Joe whispers. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Doom Fox, p. 135, 1978

cashola noun

- money US, 1977
- This is just from ticket sales, not concessions, and still you're talking three hundred and forty thousand. Cash-ola. — Carl Hiaasen, Native Tongue, p. 394, 1991
 - Mickey Cohen is Skidsville, U.S.A., and he needs moolah, gelt, the old cashola. — James Ellroy, White Jazz, p. 7, 1992
 - I had living quarters, cashola, a job[.] — Paolo Hewitt, Heaven's Promise, p. 120, 1999

cash register noun

- the vagina US, 1966
- — Rose Giallombardo, Society of Women, p. 206, 1966: Glossary of Prison Terms

cash sale noun

- a US Marine newly arrived in Vietnam and inexperienced in combat US, 1990
- Cash Sales was the name of an outlet found on marine bases in the US; a marine newly arrived in Vietnam looked like and smelled like a Cash Sales outlet.
- When somebody was new, we said they smelled of Cash Sales. — Harry Maurer, Strange Ground: An Oral History of Americans in Vietnam, p. 198, 1998

casino-hop verb

- to move from one casino to another US, 1993
- I tried a white blouse under the blue gown, but concluded I looked like a nun out for an evening of casino-hopping in Las Vegas. — C.D. Payne, Youth in Revolt, p. 442, 1993

casino perfects noun

high quality dice used in casinos US, 1997

The dice are almost certain to roll true because they are milled to a very precise tolerance.

- Besides letter “imperfections,” the Sabre Bay casino perfects probably also have black-light marks or some other identifying device. — Stephen Cannell, Big Con, pp. 192–193, 1997

casper noun

a very pale white person, especially a tourist at the beach US, 1991

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin'ary, p. 19, 1991

Casper; Casper the ghost noun

crack cocaine US, 1994

Based on the cartoon-strip character Casper the Friendly Ghost; from the cloud of smoke produced when smoking the product.

- — US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994

cast verb▶ cast an eyeball to look US, 1958

Teen slang.

- — San Francisco News, p. 6, 25th March 1958

▶ cast the runes

in computing, to operate a program that will not work for anyone else US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 90, 1991

casters-up mode adjective

in computing, broken US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 90, 1991

casting couch noun

the notional or real sofa in a director's office, used for sex with an actor hoping for a part US, 1931

Based on the commonly held belief that a sexual performance is all the audition required.

- “I don't care if you go over Niagara Falls in a barrel with it,” Betsy said. “You and your casting couch.” — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 7, 1954
- [O]nce he starts making a living he'll be off with the cute young chicks, leaving poor old Letitia to her Scotch and casting couch. — Gore Vidal, Myra Breckinridge, p. 219, 1968
- Both agents profess to being proud family men who never ran casting couches. — Josh Alan Friedman, Tales of Times Square, p. 38, 1986
- And he, this purveyor of porn, gets her on a casting couch at first callback in an office in Midtown, the oldest gambit in the business of show. — Jim Carroll, Forced Entries, p. 104, 1987

cast iron college noun

a local jail US, 1968

Carnival usage.

- — E.E. Steck, A Brief Examination of an Esoteric Folk, p. 11, 1968 castle noun

a house or apartment US, 1953

- — Lavada Durst, The Lives of Dr. Hepcat, p. 12, 1953

Castro clone noun

a homosexual who conforms to a clean-cut, fashionable image US, 1986

The Castro is a predominantly gay neighborhood in San Francisco.

- If the Castro Clone* look of self-conscious masculinity, for example, seems to be the image of choice among San Francisco gay men, there is still a greater awareness that those gender symbols are assumed not inherent. (“The short hair, trimmed moustache and athletic build currently popular among many gay men in the Castro district of San Francisco.” — Wendy Chapkis, Beauty Secrets, p. 136, 1986
- Most of the gay men in S.F., except for my friends, were going through this generic lumberback period, and were called “Castro Clones” because they all lived or hung out in the Castro. — Jennifer Blowdryer, White Trash Debutante, p. 58, 1997

casual noun

a private party for a group of men, featuring sexual entertainment US, 1964

- The reason the casual does not receive much advertisement is obvious. The entertainment almost always is several steps beyond what the law allows. — Lois O'Conner, The Bare Facts, p. 45, 1964

casual adjective

excellent, fashionable, trendy US, 1963

Youth usage.

- — San Francisco Examiner: People, p. 8, 27th October 1963

cat *noun1 a man US, 1920

- I don't want to sound square or anything, but you don't look like my grandmother at all. You look like some other cat. — Steve Allen, Bop Fables, p. 46, 1955
- Man, he'd be blasting with every mad cat he could find. — Jack Kerouac, On the Road, p. 158, 1957
- The sharp-dressed young “cats” who hung on the corners and in the poolrooms, bars and restaurants, and who obviously didn't work anywhere, completely entranced me. — Malcolm X and Alex Haley, The Autobiography of Malcolm X, p. 43, 1964
- A strong trio of serious business-oriented cats should develop this liberation of space within the cities[.] — The Digger Papers, p. 15, August 1968

2 a black person US, 1972

- Where we grew up, you never came in contact very often with many cats. — Dan Jenkins, Semi-Tough, p. 11, 1972

3 in circus and carnival usage, a trouble-making southern rustic US, 1981

- — Don Wilmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 47, 1981

4 heroin US, 1993

- — Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 34, 1993

5 methcathinone US, 1995

- The recipe for cat, based on (widely available) ephedrine, has been widely disseminated on the Internet. — Steven Daly and Nathaniel Wice, alt. culture, p. 148, 1995

6 a hydraulic catapult on an aircraft carrier US, 1962

- On the first hop, Jan of VF-111 ejected from his F-8 just a little off the cat. — Frank Elkins, The Heart of a Man, p. 86, 23 August 1966

▶ on the cat

staying away from home at night US, 1965

- When I was on the cat, I knew that I was going to get caught sooner or later, but I just didn't want to get caught before I had stolen a new suit. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 69, 1965 cat *verb1 to stay away from home overnight, prowling for sin US, 1949

From the alleycat as a role model for behavior.

- “But you was away?” “Catting out. I holed up with a rich lady for a while.” — Hal Ellson, Duke, p. 154, 1949
- The older guys had been doing something called “catting” for years. That catting was staying away from home all night was all I knew about the term. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 18, 1965
- He staggered into the Picket Arms to cat on Gloria and never again drew a sober breath. — Robert Deane Pharr, S.R.O., p. 396, 1971

2 to pursue someone in the hopes of sexual relations US, 1946

- She was catting, getting me all bothered. — Hal Ellson, Duke, p. 112, 1949
- — Robert S. Gold, A Jazz Lexicon, p. 48, 1964

catalog man noun

a gambling cheat whose superficial knowledge of cheating is acquired from studying catalogues of cheating devices US, 1945

A derivative term when used by cheats who carefully hone their craft.

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 40, 1987

catapult noun

in the language of wind surfing, a high-speed exit from the board assisted by high winds US, 1985

- — Frank Fox, A Beginner's Guide to Zen and the Art of Windsurfing, p. 149, 1985

catatonia noun

in computing, the condition that exists when a computer is in suspended operation, unable to proceed US, 1981

- — CoEvolution Quarterly, p. 27, Spring 1981

catatonic adjective

(of a computer) caught in an inextricable operation and thus suspended beyond reach or response US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 91, 1991

catawampus adjective

crooked, bent US, 1851

- Poor Buster and Sybil's trials and tribulations in building their comically catawampus house and then seeing it tossed about in a twister and finally leveled by a train build to a small masterpiece of slapstick[.] — Tulsa (Oklahoma) World, p. H3, 13th July 2003

catbird seat noun

an advantageous position US, 1942

Coined or at the very least popularized by humorist James Thurber in 1942.

- — American Speech, December 1954
- Hell, they were all finished and he was in the catbird seat now. — Mickey Spillane, Last Cop Out, p. 154, 1972
- “Gee, that's a shame,” Harvey said, “sitting where you are, right there in the catbird seat.” — Elmore Leonard, Stick, p. 115, 1983
- He is in the catbird seat, with time on his hands and plenty of money and handsome Danny Quayle to take his place, if anything goes wrong. — Hunter S. Thompson, Songs of the Doomed, p. 249, October 1988

cat box *noun1 the Middle East US, 1998

- — Seattle Times, p. A9, 12th April 1998

2 a small interrogation room in a police station US, 2004

- Cool Cal Eggers—couched in a cat box—an 8 by 12 interview room. — James Ellroy, Destination Morgue, p. 291, 2004

catcall noun

a derisive jeer US, 1839

- “There's no comparison to this rivalry,” A-Rod had said before the game, while steeling himself for the inevitable boing and catcalls he was to get from the Fenway rabble[.] — Daily News (New York), 17th April 2004

catch *noun1 a prostitute who has been recruited to work for a pimp US, 1973

- It was time for me to get another good catch and I found this edge full of fine whores. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 74, 1973

2 in Keno, the number of winning numbers that a player has marked US, 1972

- — John Mechigan, Encyclopedia of Keno, p. 111, 1972

3 a hidden condition or consequence US, 1855

- What's the catch? — New Jack City, 1990

catch verb

- 1 (used of a pimp) to recruit a prostitute to work for him; to recruit a woman to work as a prostitute US, 1972
- I said, "What are you doing down here?" and he said, "I'm trying to catch." I said, "There's lots of women out here." — Christina and Richard Milner, Black Players, p. 238, 1972
 - Today he had a pocketful of bills from last week's three-card monte game: enough to catch a bitch if his luck held out. — Alix Shulman, On the Stroll, p. 7, 1981
- 2 (used of a prostitute) to engage a customer US, 1968
- Never know it t'find her at the bar in her catchin' clothes[.] — Robert Gover, JC Saves, p. 112, 1968
- 3 to play the passive sexual role in a homosexual relationship US, 1966
- They say, if you pitch, you'll catch. Any truth in that? — Malcolm Braly, On the Yard, p. 250, 1967
 - — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 46, 1971
 - The young man walked over and leaned in through the window. "It's thirty; head only, pitch or catch." — James Ellroy, Blood on the Moon, p. 133, 1984
 - Elaine caught his slight grin and was sure Chili did too. He said, "You pitch or catch, Elliot?" "Mostly pitch." — Elmore Leonard, Be Cool, p. 269, 1999
- 4 to take calls or complaints called in to a police station; to be assigned a case US, 1958
- — New York Times Magazine, p. 87, 16th March 1958
 - Gee, Blackjack's catching that case, and he's off for a couple of days. — Peter Maas, Serpico, p. 76, 1973
 - You start out the tour with him saying, "Are you catching?" — Mark Baker, Cops, p. 288, 1985
- 5 in an illegal number gambling lottery, to win US, 1949
- — American Speech, p. 191, October 1949
- 6 in gin, to draw a card US, 1971
- — Irwin Steig, Play Gin to Win, p. 138, 1971
- ▶ catch (some) lead
to be shot US, 1970
- Smitty apparently caught some lead and headed out of town to recover. — Red Rudensky, The Gonif, p. 113, 1970
- ▶ catch a bullet
to be shot US, 1992
- But even if that was true, the woman had to be crazy, since anybody could catch a bullet. — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 209, 1992
- ▶ catch a buzz
to smoke marijuana and become intoxicated US, 1997
- — Jim Emerson-Cobb, Scratching the Dragon, 1997
- ▶ catch a crab
in rowing, to err in a stroke, disrupting the timing and momentum of the rowing US, 1949
- The famous "crab" which University of Washington oarsmen caught when they lost to California in a driving finish in Seattle is subject of a communication from Don McNary, Cal '46. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 1H, 24th June 1949
 - "Well . . . you haven't been catching any crabs, but you haven't had your back in the stroke all the time." — John D. MacDonald, The Deceivers, p. 182, 1958
- ▶ catch a dummy
in prison, to refuse to speak US, 1990
- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 200, 1990
- ▶ catch a fish
in poker, after making a small bet with a good hand (the bait), to lure another player into increasing the bet US, 1988
- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 18, 1988
- ▶ catch a hit
to be scolded or harshly criticized US Marine usage.
- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 37, 1991
- ▶ catch a run to wet one side of a marijuana cigarette to promote even burning US, 1997
- — Jim Emerson-Cobb, Scratching the Dragon, 1997
- ▶ catch a stack
to rob someone with a lot of cash US, 1987
- — Carsten Stroud, Close Pursuit, p. 270, 1987
- ▶ catch air
to become airborne while skateboarding or surfing US, 1987
- — Mitch McKissick, Surf Lingo, 1987
 - — Macon Telegraph and News, p. 9A, 18th June 1989
- ▶ catch it to be killed US, 1982
- Ask your people if they ever saw this woman on the night Louis Palo caught it. — Richard Condon, Prizzi's Honor, p. 169, 1982
- ▶ catch one to drink or use drugs to the point of mild intoxication US, 1997
- — Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 34, 1997
- ▶ catch some to engage in heavy sexual caressing US, 1968
- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 94, 1968

▶ catch squeals

- to take calls or complaints called into a police station US, 1969
- The detective who picks up the phone (this activity is called "catching squeals") is the man on the case, and will hold this distinction forever. — Martin Meyer, All You Know is Facts, p. 107, 1969

▶ catch the bumps

- in a striptease act, to synchronize the dancer's pelvic thrusts with the drum and cymbal beat US, 1981
- — Don Wilmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 47, 1981

▶ catch thrills

- to engage in an activity that excites or stimulates US, 1982
Hawaiian youth usage.
- — Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max Hana Hou, 1982

▶ catch time

- to be sentenced to jail US, 1947

- "They're in the can. He caught time for jackrolling." — Willard Motley, Knock on Any Door, p. 173, 1947

▶ catch tricks

- (used of a drummer in a performance) to create sound effects on sight US, 1973

- — Sherman Louis Sergei, The Language of Show Biz, pp. 44–45, 1973

▶ catch wreck

- to achieve respect for your actions US, 1995

- My sun moon sets and catches wreck, when we be cruisin. — Digable Planets, The May 4th Movement, 1995
- "If I get on the stage before the other man, I'm taking all that energy, just to make sure he don't catch wreck." [Quoting Busta Rhymes] — Daily News (New York), p. 35, 7th April 1996
- [S]killed rhyme animals who stalk the stage ready to "catch wreck" at a moment's notice. — Nelson George, Hip Hop America, p. 113, 1998

▶ catch the bus

- to commit suicide US

- Many do go there specifically to gather information on surefire ways to "catch the bus," or CTB, as suicide is known. — Nadya Labi, "Are you sure you want to quit the world?" <http://www.gq.com/story/suicide-nurse-mark-drybrough-chatrooms-lai-doo>, 15 March 2011

catch 22 noun

- a self-cancelling dilemma US, 1955

Coined by Joseph Heller for his 1955 novel Catch-22, which was originally to be titled "Catch 18"—until Mila 18 by Leon Uris was published.

- The law was one of those Catch-22 things that put you in jail. If you complied with the federal law to buy stamps, then the state law got you for being a bookmaker. If you didn't buy the stamps, the feds jugged you. — Mario Puzo, Inside Las Vegas, p. 291, 1977
- In other words, it was established that the [Smothers] Brothers could do what they wanted, but so could the network. In other words, grok Catch-22. — Bill Cardoso, The Maltese Sangweech and Other Heroes, p. 237, 1984
- It's such a Catch-22 that I'm not sure it ain't gonna kill me. — Marilyn Suriani Futterman, Dancing Naked in the Material World, p. 67, 1992
- It's not gonna happen. This is a Catch-22. — Boogie Nights, 1997

catch driver noun

- in harness racing, a driver hired on the day of the race US, 1994

- — Igor Kushyshyn et al., The Gambling Times Guide to Harness Racing, p. 112, 1994

catcher noun

- 1 the passive partner in homosexual sex US, 1966

- I've been known to pitch, but I'm no catcher. — Malcolm Braly, On the Yard, p. 149, 1967
- "Who would be the top man in that combination? Aren't they both natural catchers?" — Ethan Morden, Everybody Loves You, p. 163, 1988
- Hey, hey! I'll play your victim, but not your catcher. — Chasing Amy, 1997
- Frank found one the day he arrived at Folsom—a big black-bearded "pitcher" (in prison jargon, the active sexual partner) whose last "catcher" (passive partner) had been paroled several weeks before. — Lora Shaner, Madam, p. 74, 1999

- 2 a peripheral member of an illegal drug enterprise hired to retrieve drugs hurriedly thrown out of a window to avoid confiscation and arrest US, 1989

- Chillie has hired the fourteen-year-old son of the building super-intendent as a "catcher"—he is on call to retrieve any cocaine thrown out the window during a bust. — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 28, 1989

catcher's mitt noun

- a dense jungle area with a heavy Viet Cong and North Vietnamese presence northeast of Phu Loi US

Based on a vague resemblance between the area and a catcher's mitt on a map.

- — Gregory Clark, Words of the Vietnam War, p. 89, 1990

catch you later

- used as a farewell US, 1947

- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, March 1979
- Catch you men later. Enjoy yourselves. — Platoon, 1986

Cat City nickname

- Cathedral City, California US, 1981

A resort town just south of Palm Springs in the Coachella Valley.

- I don't know, but he's got a cousin up there, in Cat city. — James Ellroy, Brown's Requiem, p. 184, 1981
- Our seniors have never beaten Cat City and we haven't beaten Brawley in six years. — Desert Sun (Palm Springs, California), p. 1C, 25th October 2003

caterpillar noun

during the war in Vietnam, a convoy of non-combat vehicles on a passably secure road US

- Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 37, 1991

caterpillar verb

in mountain biking, to pedal with a fluctuating, inefficient cadence US, 1992

- William Nealy, Mountain Bike!, p. 160, 1992

Caterpillar Club noun

a club of fliers who had survived ejections from aircraft US, 1991

The silk of the parachutes suggests the caterpillar.

- The Irvin Company was not alone in the manufacture of parachutes or in the sponsoring of the Caterpillar Club. — John Neal, Bless You, Brother Irvin: The Caterpillar Club Story, p. 8, 2005
- Moreover, Booth, though entitled to them, had never received his Caterpillar Club lapel pin or Goldfish Club cloth badge. — Wayne Ralph, Aces, Warriors and Wingmen, p. 104, 2006
- A drink that night in their officers' club during the initiation into the "Caterpillar Club" (Military aircrew who've experienced emergency egress by parachute). — David Walker, Cyclops in the Jungle: A One-eyed LRP in Vietnam, p. 66, 2010

cat fever noun

1 catarrhal gastroenteritis, suffered by troops in the field in Vietnam US, 1945

- Cat fever caused diarrhea and cramping. — Gregory Clark, Words of the Vietnam War, p. 89, 1990
- They tell us it's for "cat fever" (whatever the hell that is). — Michael Helms, Proud Bastards, p. 27, 2004

2 any set of achy symptoms that a Navy doctor cannot readily diagnose US, 1943

- [T]here were only three: constipation, fungus infection, and what the Navy calls cat fever. — Thomas Heggen, Mister Roberts, p. 38, 1946

catfish

to assume a deceptive online identity, especially to attract romantic partners US, 2010

- In the wake of the Manti Te'o scandal, it's easy to fear being duped by an online relationship. To avoid being "Catfished"—the term comes from both the 2010 doc, "Catfish," which examined a deceitful online relationship, and the MTV show that followed—be sure to follow smart online-dating guidelines. — "How to Avoid Being 'Catfished,'" eHarmory.com, 18th February 2013

catfish noun

a person who speaks too much and thinks too little US, 1954

- Jerry Robertson, Oil Slangue, p. 35, 1954

catfish row noun

a black neighborhood in a southern city US, 1944

For the setting of his 1935 folk opera Porgy and Bess, George Gershwin used Catfish Row, a fictionalization of an alleyway named Cabbage Row off Church Street in Charleston, South Carolina.

- I think perhaps the spades are better off here, the weather is kinder, and certainly there is something softer about the Catfish Row type of thing as contrasted with the grim phalanxes of tenements one sees in Chicago. — James Blake, The Joint, p. 136, 22nd August 1956
- It's a night for temptation, the kind of temptation one might see on Catfish Row at the end of the cotton season on the weekend. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 315, 1965
- No lights, not even porch lights in this catfish row-alley section of Augusta. — Odie Hawkins, Men Friends, p. 60, 1989

cat head noun

a biscuit US, 1961–1962

- Frank Mewitt and Francis Schaeffer, Vacaville Vocabulary, 1961–1962

cat hole noun

a one-time, one-man field latrine dug by the user in Vietnam US, 1978

- Back to the regular cat hole, slit trench, or whatever you want to call it. — House Committee on Appropriations, Military Construction Appropriations for 1979, p. 265, 1978
- If troops were moving through an area the cat hole was dispensed with. — Gregory Clark, Words of the Vietnam War, p. 89, 1990
- A fitful night had been punctuated by several trips to his cat-hole latrine and a terrifying visit by a sand viper. — Robin Moore, The Wars of the Green Berets, p. 187, 2007

Catholic aspirin noun

a tablet of Benezdrine™ (amphetamine sulfate), a central nervous system stimulant US, 1973

From the cross scores on the white tablet.

- David Maurer and Victor Vogel, Narcotics and Narcotic Addiction, p. 395, 1973

catthouse noun

a brothel US, 1850

- She looked as if she might have worked half those years in a cat house. — Chester Himes, If He Hollers Let Him Go, p. 19, 1945
- Just a while ago you were as hard as a little boy's peter in a fifty-cent cat house. — Clarence Cooper Jr., The Scene, p. 199, 1960
- [S]he changed back and bided her time between cat houses in Saratoga and in other towns where Eddie was riding. — Madam Sherry, Pleasure Was My Business, p. 118, 1963

- We're in transit, the three of us, and we could sure use the services of a decent cathouse that don't hate G.I.'s. — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, p. 121, 1970

cat lapper noun

a lesbian; someone who enjoys performing oral sex on women US, 1967

- There are harsher and more widely used expressions: "Bulldyke," "Amy-John," "Cat-lapper," "Les," and so on. — L. Reinhard, Oral Sex Techniques and Sex Practices Illustrated, 196
- Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 41, 1967

cat-lick; cat-licker noun

a Roman Catholic US, 1942

- I remember in the third grade the kids calling me "cat licker" because I was Catholic and "four eyes" because I wore glasses. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 29, 14th January 1974
- He viewed such casual insults as signs of good fellowship, the easy, rude, irreverent ways of family, fellow soldiers, brothers-in-combat, laughing when they called him a harp or a cat-lick. — Robert Campbell, Boneyards, p. 10, 1992
- A rich kid whose big house we passed by every day in walking to and from school started calling us "cat lickers, cat lickers" and "sissies" from, he thought the safety of his front lawn. — Chicago Sun-Times, p. 5, 19th June 1994

catnap noun

a short jail or prison sentence US, 2002

- Jeffrey Ian Ross, Behind Bars, p. 183, 2002; Slammer Slang

catnip noun

poor quality, adulterated or entirely fake marijuana US, 1962

Catmint, the botanical genus nepeta, known in the US as "catnip," may be passed off as marijuana to the unsuspecting, or mixed with genuine marijuana.

- Anthony Romeo, The Language of Gangs, 1962

cat officer noun

a naval officer with responsibility for operation of the launching catapult on an aircraft carrier deck US

- The cat officer twirled his index finger: Run 'em up! I advanced the throttles. — Charlie Plumb, I'm No Hero, p. 42, 1973

cat pack noun

a loosely defined group of wealthy, famous, and fashionable people US, 1971

- This kind of kinship between fashion and society that not too many years ago produced the Beautiful People also characterizes the newest social species on the New York scene—the Cat Pack. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 23, 1st December 1971

cat rack noun

a game concession in a carnival in which a player throws balls at stuffed cats on a platform or fence US, 1952

- This is the cat rack, with three stuffed cats just waiting to be knocked over. Even Bobby Feller couldn't win this one when it's rigged. — Charles Hamilton, Men of the Underworld, p. 178, 1952
- Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 47, 1981

cat's ass noun

an extraordinarily good or extraordinarily bad example of something US, 1967

- After working on the tactical unit of the high-crime Fillmore District, protecting languorous women in bikinis was a nice change of pace. "Believe me, it was the cat's ass," Delaney digresses. — Chicago Tribune, p. C12, 6th March 1994
- Chiefs vs. Raiders. In football, this one is the cat's ass. — Sporting News, p. 6, 22nd September 2003

cat's eyes noun

in craps, a roll of three US, 1945

- Lou Shelly, Hepcats Live Talk Dictionary, p. 22, 1945

cat shit noun

used as a basis for comparison when describing someone who is mean US, 1970

- Almost anyone who has known me for a week or so will reiterate that I'm as mean as cat shit on a pump handle. — Laurie Harper, Don Sherwood, p. 295, 2003 cat shot noun

a take-off from an aircraft carrier assisted by a catapult US, 1959

Vietnam war usage.

- Its squadrons of Phantoms and A-6 Intruders practiced "cat shots" (catapulted takeoffs) and landings all day long. — James W. Canan, The Superwarriors, p. 36, 1975

cat's nut noun

an extraordinary thing or person US, 1928

- If I ever saw a babe who's the cat's nuts, it's you. — James T. Farrell, Ruth and Bertram, p. 100, 1955

cat's pajamas noun

anything very good, superlative or exceptional; someone who is considered the best by themselves or others US, 1922

- Coined by, or inspired by, an illustration by New York Journal sports cartoonist Thomas Aloysius "TAD" Dorgan (1877–1929).
- Leroy Middleton groaned. "Oh boy, this is the living end, this is really the cat's pajamas, this is sweet, oh this is really dynamite, oh we did it." — John Nichols, The Milagro Beanfield War, p. 301, 1974 cat's paw noun

the member of a group of burglars who enters a building and lets the rest of the group in US, 1976

- The police, finding nothing on me, toyed with the notion I was a cat's paw for a gang of larger boys who had sent me to make the entry and open the door for them[.] — Malcolm Braly, False Starts, p. 13, 1976

cattle call noun

a mass audition US, 1952

- Well, let's say I go to one of those cattle calls, a try out[.] — Klute, 1971
- One method used in casting is called the cattle call. Everybody who wants to be in your picture shows up at the specified time, and you see each person on a first-come, first-served basis. — Stephen Ziplow, The Film Maker's Guide to Pornography, p. 46, 1977
- I went to one of the early huge cattle calls, although I had never thought of myself as glamorous or particularly pretty. — Kathryn Leigh Scott, The Bunny Years, p. 137, 1998
- But the Generals are not cattle calls. Actors are cut off—"Time!" only if they surpass their three-minute limit. — San Francisco Chronicle, 27th February 2001

catty adjective

sly, spiteful, mean-spirited UK, 1886

- He and another prissy lad were in our cocktail lounge one evening, drinking, making catty and audible cracks about other patrons[.] — Dev Collans with Stewart Sterling, I was a House Detective, p. 105, 1954

catty-cat noun

the vagina US, 1980

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin' down some lines, p. 232, 1980

cauliflower ear; cauliflower noun

an ear that has been damaged and deformed by blows US, 1896 Originally and still used as a boxing term.

- All he had now were his job as a houseman, his cauliflower ears and broken nose, his precious scrapbook, the bitter memories of his former glory, and an insane temper. — Irving Shulman, The Amboy Dukes, p. 53, 1947
- Down the stairs a cauliflower-eared gen played doorman with a nod, a grunt and an open palm. — Mickey Spillane, My Gun is Quick, p. 65, 1950
- But it was a while before the hard guys turned their cauliflower ears toward the jazz bandstands[.] — Robert Sylvester, No Cover Charge, p. 84, 1956
- Big Tom was quizzical and oblique and had a cauliflower ear from the Peekskill riot. — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 66, 1961 cause verb▶ cause a vacancy in poker, to win a hand that drives a player from the game US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 18, 1988

cav adjective

cavalier US, 1995

In the pornography industry, an attitude towards sexually transmitted disease.

- — Adult Video News, p. 42, August 1995

cave noun

a deep sore at the site of repeated drug injections US, 1973

- — David Maurer and Victor Vogel, Narcotics and Narcotic Addiction, p. 395, 1973

cave verb

to have sex with someone US, 1973

- And Carri with your class and swiftness you can cave the bellboys and save the four outta ten[.] — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 84, 1973 cave bro noun

a white person adapting black style and mannerisms US, 2006

- "Cool, cave bro." Cave bro being another way to say wigger. — Linden Dalecki, Kid B, p. 73, 2006

caveman adjective

obsolete US, 1974

- Their computer is caveman. — Robert Kirk Mueller, Buzzwords, p. 51, 1974

cav of the cav nickname

the First Squadron of the Ninth US Cavalry US

Organized in 1866, the Ninth Cavalry saw action in every war through to Vietnam.

- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 37, 1991

caviar noun

1 residue in whatever utensils are used for manufacturing crack cocaine US, 1993

- — Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 36, 1993

2 a mixture of marijuana and crack cocaine prepared for smoking in a cigarette US, 1989

- — Geoffrey Froner, Digging for Diamonds, p. 33, 1989

cavvy noun

high-quality crack cocaine US, 1991

- "I sell Yay-o, Cavvy—caviar crack—fo' my money, and on a good day I can make like six, seven hundred dollars." — Leon Bing, Do or Die, p. 63, 1991

Cax noun

the Cocksaxie Correctional Facility, a prison in upstate New York US, 1975

- When I was in Cax—it was terrible up there. — Miguel Pinero, Short Eyes, p. 74, 1975

cazooled adjective

drunk US, 1968

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 94, 1968

CB noun

used as an abbreviation for "cockblock" US, 1980

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin' down some lines, p. 231, 1980

CB adjective

could be US, 1994

Used in tentative diagnoses, such as "could be lupus."

- — Sally Williams, "Strong" Words, p. 136, 1994

CC noun

1 Canadian Club™ whisky US, 1971

- You had about two hundred cases of C.C. on that truck[.] — George V. Higgins, The Friends of Eddie Doyle, p. 14, 1971
- Canadian Club is a brand of rye. Not to be confused with "hockey stick," another kind of Canadian club. — Will Ferguson, How to be a Canadian, p. 63, 2001

2 cocaine offered as a gift by a dealer US, 1989

- Generally, cocaine dealers come to after-hours clubs with "C-C," or calling card cocaine, to give out. — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 97, 1989

CCW noun

the criminal charge of carrying a concealed weapon US, 1973

As the US moved to the right, gun enthusiasts have been successful in enacting legislation in many states that permit—not forbid—carrying concealed weapons, changing the meaning of the acronym to "concealed-carry weapon."

- He saw dozens of c-c-w cases come through the courtroom, and he knew that had Chester been white, he'd have been given a small bond or released on his own personal word. — Donald Goines, White Man's Justice, Black Man's Grief, p. 30, 1973
- "We have a ton of CCW (carrying concealed weapon) cases with these exact facts," McCarty said. — Plain Dealer (Cleveland, Ohio), p. 4B, 8th May 1994

Cecil B. DeMille noun

any large job that evolves into a chaotic mess US, 1997 New York police slang.

- — Samuel M. Katz, Anytime Anywhere, p. 387, 1997

ceiling bet noun

the highest bet permitted in a given game or situation US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 18, 1988

celeb noun

a celebrity US, 1916

- [S]ome juvenile half-wits plant themselves outside the hotels when such celebs are in town. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 132, 1951
- I don't mean the celebs and the legit high rollers, he's got to take care of them, and he loves it. — Elmore Leonard, Giltz, p. 119, 1985
- Messy-haired rock stars are the celeb squeeze of choice[.] — Sky Magazine, p. 8, May 2001

celebrity-fucker noun

a person who seeks out sexual relationships with famous people US, 1969

- She was always such a celebrity fucker. It must be said of Lillian that when the chips were down she'd always go for the guy who had the most clout. — George Plimpton, Truman Capote, p. 269, 1997
- Should I tell them that he deserves the grant because every gifted young artist does, or throw the information request back in their faces, screaming that they're just youth-hungry celebrity-fuckers like the rest of this disgusting country? — Village Voice, p. 119, 4th August 1998

celestial discharge noun

death in a hospital US, 1994

- — Sally Williams, "Strong" Words, p. 136, 1994

celfie noun

a self-portrait photograph taken with a mobile phone US

- — Urban Dictionary, 22nd March 2014
- It's her newest Instagram selfie, but she's calling it a "celfie" with an accent mark over the first "e." This new way of saying the word "selfie" is more fashionable as it appears on many t-shirts on Pinterest and Etsy NOW. — Rosalyn Oshmyansky, "Kim Kardashian Exposes Cleaves in New 'Celfie', etonline.com, 6th September 2014

cell verb

to occupy a prison cell US, 1901

- [T]he good news is that I'm now celling alone & shall do so for the balance of my sentence. — Neal Cassidy, Grace Beats Karma, p. 162, 10th January 1960: Letter to Carolyn Cassidy
- It was bad enough trying to cell with someone halfway regular, let alone some knickknacking nut. — Malcolm Braly, On the Yard, p. 205, 1967
- But, nine times out of ten, after they cell with the guy a while, after this relationship goes on for a while, they quit it. — Bruce Jackson, In the Life, p. 379, 1972
- George didn't approve of any convict preying on a weaker convict, but if Little wanted to cell with George, it was okay by him. — Pete Earley, The Hot House, p. 62, 1992

cellar dealer noun

a card cheat who deals from the bottom of a deck US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 18, 1988

cell block noun

a school classroom US, 1958

Teen slang.

- — San Francisco News, p. 6, 25th March 1958

cell buddy *noun*a cellmate US, 1949

- That evening as I sat on the floor of my cell I got acquainted with Halfpint, my cell buddy. — John Dollard, Criteria for Life History, p. 193, 1949
- Absolute knowledge, I have none. But my rap-buddy's cell buddy told me one. — Stanley Mayer, Fantasy, 1969
- I watched one cell buddy learn to paint. — Malcolm Braly, False Starts, p. 240, 1976

cellie; celly *noun1 in jail or prison, a cellmate US, 1966

- What do yeh got, a bear for a celly? — Paul Glover, Words from the House of the Dead, 1974
- He had hurt lots of people, but the Trashbag Man had been his cellie at Attica and the headaches had started about then[.] — James Ellroy, Because the Night, p. 329, 1984
- Robert "Robot" Salas, a Sureno from a street gang called Big Hazard, and Hector Padilla, a Norteno, were cellies[.] — Bill Valentine, Gangs and Their Tattoos, p. 24, 2000
- Charlie's old greaser cellie from Terminal Island recalls Manson as a no-good young punk motherfucker. — Bill Landis, Sleazoid Express, p. 257, 2002

2 a cellular telephone US, 1999

- [T]he play-by-play via cellie from 7-year-old Patrick's first ball season did it. — Spotting News, p. 7, 20th September 1999
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 3, October 2002
- Forty-nine percent use a "cellie" to make plans with friends. — Chicago Daily Herald, p. 1, 9th September 2003

cell-shocked *adjective*deranged from life in prison US, 1990

- An obvious, although sharp, play on "shell-shocked."
- He's cellshocked. Done so much time he can only concentrate long enough to tie his shoe. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 211, 1990 cell warrior *noun1 a prisoner whose actions outside his cell do not match his aggressive words uttered in the safety of his cell US, 2001

- — Jim Goad, Jim Goad's Glossary of Northwestern Prison Slang, 2001
- Cell warrior: talks boldly in cell, actions don't match up. — J.G. Narum, The Convict Cookbook, p. 158, 2004

2 a prisoner whose courage is limited to threats made from the safety of his cell US

- An inmate that puts on a tough front or runs their mouth when locked in their cell, but is submissive or cowardly when interacting with other prisoners in the open. — Matt Soniak, "50 Prison Slang Words to Make You Sound Like a Tough Guy," mentalfloss.com, 17th October 2012

cement arm *noun*an intravenous drug user's arm that is toughened with scar tissue over the veins US, 1973

- — David Maurer and Victor Vogel, Narcotics and Narcotic Addiction, p. 395, 1973 cement funeral *noun*disposal of a murder victim's body by pouring cement around the feet and dumping the body in water US, 1975

- "So a little while later, Bugsy gave Sam Bloom a cement funeral." — Martin Gosch, The Last Testament of Lucky Luciano, p. 103, 1975

cementhead *noun*a stupid person US, 1949

- For example, throwing office supplies and constantly calling women "assholes," "morons," and "cementheads" probably would not have been considered part of the hostile environment[.] — Wisconsin Women's Law Journal, p. 397, Summer 1997

cement mixer *noun1 a dancer who rotates her pelvis in a simulation of sexual intercourse US, 1957

- Belly down she's a cement mixer. — Thurston Scott, Cure it with Honey, p. 152, 1951

2 a loud car or truck US, 1914

- — Mary Etling, Trucks at Work, 1946
- — Judi Sanders, Da Bomb!, p. 6, 1997

cement overshoes *noun*concrete poured around a person's feet, used to weigh them down when their body is disposed of in a body of water US, 1962

- For example, a defense lawyer who double-crosses a drug lord during the defense of an underling may end up in cement overshoes. — Harvard Law Review, p. 693, January 1992
- Onlookers whisper jokes about bumping into Jimmy Hoffa's cement overshoes. — USA Today, p. 6D, 30th June 2003 cent *noun*a dollar US, 1957

- "Four cents for the plunge, and it's lemonade." — Herbert Simmons, Corner Boy, p. 55, 1957
- One cent is a dollar. — Willard Motley, Let No Man Write My Epitaph, p. 148, 1958
- Red came toward Bernie, menacing. "You don't understand, I gotta have twenty cent, like I tell you." Twenty cent meant twenty dollars; Red always spoke of dollars in amounts under one hundred as cents; perhaps it expressed his contempt for money. — Ross Russell, The Sound, p. 157, 1961
- Man, like how many times some cat's come up to me with his old man's watch or sister's coat and swap for a three-cent bag. — Piri Thomas, Down These Mean Streets, p. 206, 1967

centerfield *noun1 in craps, a field bet on the nine US, 1985

- — Steve Kuriscak, Casino Talk, p. 11, 1985

2 in blackjack played in casinos, the seat directly across from the dealer US, 1985

- — Steve Kuriscak, Casino Talk, p. 11, 1985

century *noun1 a $100 bill US, 1859

- I took them out and riffled them. Ten centuries. All new. All nice. An even thousand dollars. — Raymond Chandler, The Little Sister, p. 239, 1949
- The next bag had bigger bills, and the last bag had nothing but centuries—sparkling $100 greens. — Red Rudensky, The Gonif, p. 118, 1970

2 one hundred yards US, 1989

- I always ran when I was with Leonard, maybe it had something to do with the fact that he was a natural 440 man and I had the dashes covered up to the century. — Odie Hawkins, Men Friends, p. 117, 1989

3 one hundred miles US, 1956

- Years ago, there used to be bicycle clubs, meeting Sundays, who had what was termed "century" runs. — San Francisco Progress, p. 4, 1st August 1956 century note *noun*a one-hundred dollar bill US, 1908

- He ended up borrowing a century-note from them. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 278, 1951
- "Oh, hell, then, let's make it for a lousy century note." — Sam Snead, The Education of a Golfer, p. 172, 1962

cess *noun*marijuana, possibly of inferior quality US, 1995

- That cess got me buggin'. — Lois Stavsky et al., AZZ: The Book of Rap and Hip-Hop Slang, p. 18, 1995
- [S]moke a pound of cess a day[.] — Eminem (Marshall Mathers), Rock Bottom, 1999

CFB *adjective*very clear indeed US, 1980

- An abbreviation of "clear as a fucking bell."
- It wouldn't be long now until the visibility was CFB (clear as a frapping bell) and the Jolly Greens would be chattering in. — William C. Anderson, Bat 21, p. 77, 1980

CFM *adjective*sexually suggestive US, 1989

- An abbreviation of COME-FUCK-ME.
- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 28, 1989

CFNM *noun*a pornographic and sexual fetish—clothed female, naked male US, 2005

- CFNM clothed female naked male fans will like this movie. — groups.google.com/group/cfnmhandjobs, 19th June 2005

C-H *noun*a cheating scheme in poker involving two players; if one player signals that he is holding a good hand, his confederate raises the bet US, 1988

- An abbreviation of "crooked-honest."
- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 18, 1988

cha *adjective*fashionable, trendy, stylish US, 1992

- [T]he cha ("very cool") words include: "winded" for hung over; "craftsman" for a complete idiot; and "ass" for awful. — Washington Times, p. C3, 26th August 1992

chabobs *noun*the female breasts US, 1962

- McMurphy starts. "She's got one hell of a set of chabobs," is all he can think of. — Ken Kesey, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, p. 174, 1962

cha-cha *verb*to have sex US, 1980

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin' down some lines, p. 232, 1980

chain *noun1 a bus or van used to transport prisoners US, 1984

- — Inez Cardozo-Freeman, The Joint, p. 487, 1984

2 a necklace US, 1985

- The girl wasn't going along with it, so he said, "To hell with it, I'll take your chains." So he ripped off her jewelry. — Mark Baker, Cops, p. 117, 1985

3 a group of prisoners being transferred US, 1954

- These transfers, incidentally, are referred to as "loads" or "chains." — Cary Chessman, Cell 2456 Death Row, p. 299, 1954
- Chain: a group of new inmates arriving on a bus. — J.G. Narum, The Convict Cookbook, p. 158, 2004

▶ off the chainexcellent US, 2001

- — Don R. McCreary (Editor), Dawg Speak, 2001
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 7, November 2003
- "You and the Krew were off the chain." — Linden Dalecki, Kid B, p. 202, 2006

▶ pull your chainto tease you; to mislead you US, 1962

- He realized after a few weeks that the guy had been pulling his chain about the women, but that was all right. — Elmore Leonard, The Big Bounce, p. 111, 1969
- He's pulling your chain. And the fact that you even bought it for a second makes you look like an idiot. — Chasing Amy, 1997

▶ The Chainthe Aleutian Islands US, 1886

- Many a ship has been lost in The Chain, and many a man lies there with no gravestone. — Robert O. Bowen, An Alaskan Dictionary, p. 11, 1965

- Traveling to the Aleutians is commonly called “going out on The Chain.” — Mike Doogan, How to Speak Alaskan, p. 20, 1993 chain-drink verb

to drink one beverage after another, barely pausing between drinks US, 1976

- Fueled by the coffee he chain-drinks, he likes to get going before dawn and often goes with little sleep. — Washington Post, p. D1, 22nd December 1982

chainsuck noun

in mountain biking, a condition that occurs when the bicycle chain doubles back on itself and gets jammed between the frame and the chain rings US, 1996

- Muddy water washes the lube from the chain, which leads to chainsuck, so lube your chain before and after every ride[.] — Mountain Bike Magazine's Complete Guide To Mountain Biking Skills, p. 126, 1996

chair noun

the electric chair; the death penalty US, 1895

- I'm going to get that louse that killed you. He won't sit in the chair. He won't hang. He will die exactly as you died[.] — Mickey Spillane, I, The Jury, p. 7, 1947
- A little later, just about half dead already, they put Irvin in the chair and turned on the juice. — Haywood Patterson, Scottsboro Boy, p. 43, 1950
- The whole town knows that if he'd been a little older he'd have gone to the chair instead of reform school. — Jim Thompson, The Killer Inside, p. 19, 1952
- Tell us the truth, Black, and you might beat the chair. — Clarence Cooper Jr., The Scene, p. 226, 1960

chairbacker noun

an unordained, self-taught preacher US, 1955

- “Chairbacker” (a preacher whose pulpit was a common chair in a slave cabin) and “floor preacher” became common appellations[.] — Mechal Sobel, Tabelin' On, p. 160, 1988

chairborne adjective

in the military, assigned to a rear-echelon support job US, 1943
A pun on “airborne,” applied to “chairborne commandos,” “chairborne generals,” the “chairborne infantry,” “chairborne rangers,” etc.

- Mission demands led Brig. Gen. John Iffland, 146th Airlift Wing commander, to fly the 36-year-old plane, stepping away from dealing with personnel and paperwork—what GIs call the chairborne division. — Ventura County (California) Star, p. A1, 22nd November 1998

chairborne ranger noun

a rear-echelon support troop US

- Meaning you are a worthless clerk who gets to work in an office: Ball Bearing WAC. Chairborne Ranger. — James Slosson, Unmailed Letters from an REMF, p. 11, 2009

chair cheeks noun

the buttocks US, 2005

- [H]er exquisitely formed chair cheeks and her perfecting thrusting, ever-so-slightly swaying top tier are impossible to look away from? — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin's Skincyclopedia, p. 64, 2005

chairwarmer noun

an idler, a loafer US, 1960

- He added “do-nothing” and “chairwarmer” to rhetorical blasts at a news conference, even as he urged Sundquist to devote half the campaign to daily debates at towns across the state. — Knoxville (Tennessee) News-Sentinel, p. A4, 9th August 1994

chale!

no! never! US, 1950

Border Spanish used in English conversation by Mexican-Americans.

- — George Carpenter Baker, Pachuco, p. 41, January 1950
- “Chale, chalee. Quit being a sergeant,” I said. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Blue Knight, p. 58, 1973

chalk noun

1 a white person US, 1945

Not flattering.

- If it wasn't for Uncle Tom ass dudes like me, niggers like you wouldn't be havin' a chance to eat all the chalk pussy you want, or nothin' else, for that matter! — Odie Hawkins, Chicago Hustle, p. 138, 1977

2 methamphetamine or amphetamine US, 1966

- — J. L. Simmons and Barry Winograd, It's Happening, p. 173, 1966
- The most common drugs in use in industry, according to the police sergeant, are amphetamine sulfate compounds and barbiturates, known among workers in the plants as “chalk,” “whites,” “bennies,” “reds,” “jackets,” “blue heavens” and “rainbows.” — The San Francisco Chronicle, p. 5, 11th October 1966
- He was really in a bad way and begged me for some chalk or anything. — Anonymous, Go Ask Alice, p. 85, 1971

3 a potent homemade “wine” made from yeast, sugar, water, and rice or fruit US, 2001

- — AFSCME Local 3963, The Correctional Officer's Guide to Prison Slang, 2001

4 in sports betting, the contestant or team favored to win US, 1991

- — Bay Sports Review, p. 8, November 1991
- “You would bet against the chalk? Eighteen to one, your long shot.” — John Ridley, Love is a Racket, p. 41, 1998

5 chocolate syrup US, 1946

- — American Speech, p. 88, April 1946: “The language of West Coast culinary workers”

chalk verb

1 to chemically lighten the color of cocaine for buyers who believe that the white color reflects purity US, 1989

- — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 136, 1989

2 to observe something or someone US, 1959

- “Shhhh,” Choo-Choo cautioned. “Chalk tbe walking Jeffs.” — Chester Himes, The Real Cool Killers, p. 120, 1959

3 to ban a gambler from a table, game or casino US, 1950

- — The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, p. 122, May 1950

4 to steal something US, 2001

- — Rick Ayers (Editor), Slang Dictionary, p. 6, 2001

chalk-eater noun

in horse racing, a better who consistently bets on favorites US, 1951
From the old custom of a bookmaker chalking odds on a blackboard.

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 18, 1951

chalked up adjective

under the influence of cocaine US, 1955

- — American Speech, p. 86, May 1955: “Narcotic argot along the Mexican border”

chalk hand noun

in poker, a hand that is almost certain to win US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 18, 1988

chalk horse noun

in horse racing, the favorite in a race US, 1951

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 18, 1951

chalk man noun

the police employee who chalks the outline of a corpse where it has fallen before the body is removed US, 1992

- — Lewis Poteet, Car & Motorcycle Slang, p. 46, 1992

chalk people noun

people who live far from the ocean US, 1991

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin'ary, p. 20, 1991

chalk stick noun

a cigarette US

- — Art Unger, The Cool Book, p. 107, 1961

chamber of commerce noun

1 a toilet US, 1960

A pun on “chamber pot.”

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 22, 1945
- — Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 35, 1970

2 a brothel US, 1949

- — Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 47, 1949

champ noun

a drug addict who does not inform on others when questioned by the police US, 1960

- A champ is a junkie who won't snitch or inform, although no such animal exists. — Clarence Cooper Jr., The Scene, p. 55, 1960
- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 47, 1971

champagne noun

human urine in the context of a sexual fetish US, 1987

- — Thomas E. Murray and Thomas R. Murrell, The Language of Sadomasochism, p. 50, 1989

champagne blonde noun

a woman with pale blonde hair UK, 1904

- As these words were being typed, a nineteen-year-old champagne blonde snatched $1500 from a Las Vegas bank and was caught only because she was so beautiful no one could forget her police description. — Lee Mortimer, Women Confidential, p. 25, 1960

champagne drug noun

cocaine US, 1998

- Cocaine prices dropped dramatically from 1980 onwards as the drug cartels successfully expanded their client base, bringing in many people who previously could not afford to use the “champagne drug.” — Richard Rudgley, The Encyclopedia of Psychoactive Substances, p. 67, 1998
- After years of decline, prompted by rocketing prices and the fashion for LSD and speed, coke resurfaces and gains a reputation as the “champagne drug.” — Drugs: An Adult Guide, p. 16, December 2001

champagne trick noun

a wealthy, big-spending customer of a prostitute US, 1973

- The call girl who earns $100 for a “champagne trick” views the streetwalker with contempt. — Ruth Rosen, The Lost Sisterhood, p. 171, 1982

chance 'em verb

while surfing, to decide to ride a big wave US, 1991

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin'ary, p. 20, 1991

chancr mechanic noun

a military medic, especially one assigned to diagnose and treat sexually transmitted infections US, 1944

- [H]e had been doc of Baker Company, survivor of the Makin Raid, as opposed to your typical natty, run-of-the-mill chancr mechanic. — W.E.B. Griffin, The Corps Book II, p. 339, 1987
- “After that first day,” says the 1st Battalion surgeon Ben Sullivan, “we were no longer pill rollers or chancr mechanics. We were all beloved.” — Gerald Astor, Battling Buzzards, p. 130, 1993

chandelier sign noun

a dramatic reaction to being touched in a painful area US, 1994

It is said that the patient “hits the ceiling” or “hits the chandelier.”

- — Sally Williams, “Strong” Words, p. 136, 1994

chanel *nouncocaine US, 1976

A slightly forced formation, playing on the name of designer Coco Chanel.

- Robert Sabbag, Snowblind, p. 271, 1976

change verb▶ change waterto engage in an unproductive activity US, 1975

From lobstermen, who refer to the hauling and baiting of an empty trap as “changing water.”

- John Gould, Maine Lingo, p. 47, 1975

▶ change your luck(used of a white person) to have sex with a black person; to have sex with a person of the sex with whom one would not ordinarily have sex US, 1916

- The Harlem community accepts—though it despises—these Caucasians who cross the color line, or as it is known above 110th Street, “change their luck” or “deal in coal.” — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 161, 1948
- Go to bed with a nigger and change your luck. — Willard Motley, Let No Man Write My Epitaph, p. 327, 1958
- “Sometimes we go over to Little Harlem,” he said, and smacked his lips. “You know, when the luck’s running bad there’s nothing as good as changing it.” — Irving Shulman, The Short End of the Stick, p. 26, 1959
- Hey, Flo, gonna take the little monkey home with you, change your luck? — Dick Gregory, Nigger, p. 10, 1964 change artist *noun*a swindler who gives customers too little change US, 1960

- We will assume that the change artist is behind the cash register, and you are the customer; you hand him a bill and he takes the change from the drawer. — W.M. Tucker, The Change Raisers, p. 17, 1960 change machine *noun*a prostitute who charges very little for sex US, 1963

- DARLING DOLLY DANE: “Two miserable bitches!” LOLA: “You’ve gone for less, dear.” DARLING DOLLY DANE, wiggling: “This ain’t no change-machine, Mae.” — John Rechy, City of Night, p. 114, 1963 change of luck noun(used of a white person) sex with a black person US, 1916

- I know you, you after a change of luck. — Bernard Wolfe, The Magic of Their Singing, p. 103, 1961 change raiser *noun*a swindler who tricks cashiers into giving him too much change US, 1960

- Change raisers deliberately confuse the victim by repeatedly handling the change back and forth, then they throw the change out of balance. Then they balance it again, but in the process a good portion of the change sticks to their own fingers. — W.M. Tucker, The Change Raisers, p. 7, 1960

changes *noun*difficulties US, 1973

- She really worked me over good, she was a credit to her gender / She put me through some changes Lord, sort of like a Waring blender. — Warren Zevon, Poor Poor Pitiful Me, 1973
- “He’s going through changes.” — Cyra McFadden, The Serial, p. 84, 1977

channel noun

a vein, especially a prominent vein suitable for drug injection US, 1994

- US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994

channel-surf *verb*to browse distractedly through a variety of television programs, switching from channel to channel US, 1994

- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Spring 1994
- The TV was on for 11 hours. She channel-surfed, flicking backwards and forwards never watching anything properly. — Sally Cline, Couples, p. 203, 1998

chapped *adjective*1 depressed US, 1990

- Surfing, p. 43, 14th March 1990

2 irritated, angry US, 1966

- Current Slang, p. 2, Fall 1966

chapped off *adjective*very angry US, 1963

- Carol Ann Preusse, Jargon Used by University of Texas Co-Eds, 1963

character *noun*a person with an underworld lifestyle US, 1958

- The only pistol you can count on is a revolver. Every real character [criminal] knows that. — Ned Polsky, Hustlers, Beats, and Others, p. 136, 1967
- I mean somebody who makes a living without a legitimate job. Their income is not legitimate. He might be a pimp—he’s a character. — Bruce Jackson, Outside the Law, p. 144, 1972 charge *noun*1 intense excitement US, 1960

- Ooh man! This is a great charge — William “Lord” Buckley, Martin’s Horse, 1960

2 marijuana US, 1941

From an earlier sense meaning “drugs in general”; it contains a charge—produces a kick.

- “Do you have any charge? Do you Diane? Dincher?” as he sat at her sister’s elbow. “Do you have any hemp you could leave me?” — George Mandel, Flee the Angry Strangers, p. 259, 1952

- “This is really great charge. The best I know.” — Chandler Brossard, Who Walks in Darkness, p. 11, 1952

- Some were quietly trying to borrow money from other guests while some became intoxicated as others smoked “charge” or ate pigs feet in the kitchen at $1.10 apiece. — Dan Burley, Diggeth Thou?, pp. 45–46, 1959

3 an injection of a drug US, 1925

- She applied the needle herself, jabbed quickly and gasped, then pumped the charge and drew it back with her blood[.] — George Mandel, Flee the Angry Strangers, p. 379, 1952
- “Why don’t you let me get my charge from you?” — Herbert Simmons, Corner Boy, p. 56, 1957
- If he tried mainlining with the sugar in the capsule he’d find out in a hurry he had nothing going for him and would do a crazy dance to get a charge. — Mickey Spillane, Return of the Hood, p. 104, 1964 charge *verb*to go surfing US, 1991

- Let’s charge it bro, the waves are sweet. — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin’ary, p. 20, 1991

▶ charge it to the rain and let the dust settle itto pay for something on credit without fully expecting to pay the charge US, 1946

- Look. Charge it to the dust and let the rain settle it. — Brian Pera, Troublemaker, p. 54, 2000 charged; charged up *adjective*drug-intoxicated US, 1942

- Mae was charged to the gills and Marcia looked as if she’d been at the bottle the entire time. — Polly Adler, A House is Not a Home, p. 117, 1953
- Half marijuana, half tobacco. And he was always charged up. — Willard Motley, Let No Man Write My Epitaph, p. 108, 1958
- He had them confused, but they were so charged up, they could as easily knife him or accept him. — Phil Hirsch, Hooked, pp. 117–118, 1968 charge ’em!used as an exhortation to action US, 1982

Hawaiian youth usage.

- Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max Hana Hou, 1982

charity fuck noun

sexual intercourse engaged in by one partner as an act of generosity US, 1978

- He described the awkward union which he terms “the charity fuck.” — John D. Macdonald, The Empty Copper Sea, p. 47, 1978
- I sort of stumbled into her. I reckon it must have been a charity fuck, to be honest. From Sally’s point of view, that is. — Alan Wall, The School of Night, p. 268, 2001 charity girl *noun*an amateur prostitute or promiscuous woman US, 1916

- Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 42, 1967

charity goods noun

a promiscuous woman who does not expect payment for

sex US, 1966

- Rose Giallombardo, Society of Women, p. 206, 1966; Glossary of Prison Terms charity stuff noun

a woman who, while promiscuous, does not prostitute herself US, 1950

- Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 42, 1950

Charles *noun*a Viet Cong; the Viet Cong US, 1966

- It seems that Charles (the NVA) had somehow managed to sneak inside the perimeter. — Don Bishop, Letters Home: Vietnam, p. 24, 23 December 1968
- There’s no doubt that Charles knows you’re there and is waiting to get enough men to overrun you. — Bernard Edelman, Dear America, p. 71, 15 November 1969; Letter from George Olsen
- Charles was tearing our ass up in front. — Harry Maurer, Strange Ground, p. 215, 1989
- Charles may or may not have had time to scream as he died in a hail of shot. — Cherokee Paul McDonald, Into the Green, p. 78, 2001

charley horse *noun*a muscle cramp US, 1888

- Sure, I’m fine now, Sugar Tit. Just a bitch-kitty charley horse in the foot. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Death Wish, p. 196, 1977
- He jerked LaVerne up again, his muscles screaming protest, trying to knot into charley horses. — Stephen King, Skeleton Crew, p. 300, 1985

charleys *noun*the testicles US, 1964

- Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 33, 1964

Charlie Alpha *noun*combat assault US

- We moved by helicopter, in what is known as a “Charlie Alpha,” or Combat Assault. — Don Bishop, Letters Home: Vietnam, p. 59, 19 January 1969
- The Charlie alpha scheduled for this morning has been called off. — Patrick Wageman, Crossing the Rubicon, 2010

Charlie *verb*in the circus or carnival, to dump posters or advertising leaflets that have not been distributed or posted US, 1980

- Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 25, 1980

Charlie; charlie *noun1 cocaine US, 1935

- The phonetic alphabet uses “Charlie” for “C” in use from around the same time that “charlie” for “cocaine” first appears. Also spelt “charley.”
- More specifically, it was classified as M, C, and H—Mary, Charlie, and Harry—which stood for morphine, cocaine, and heroin. — William J. Spillard and Pence James, Needle in a Haystack, pp. 147–148, 1945
 - “When you shoot Henry [heroin] and Charley, you can smell it going in. — William Burroughs, Junkie, p. 84, 1953
 - We all know what a lummock Franklymton was to mess with hard drugs like Henry and charlie, after all, they took his life. — Richard Meltzer, A Whore Just Like the Rest, p. 65, 1970

2 a member of the Viet Cong US, 1965

- So you have to look for it, you have to check every damn hootch, even if it’s been burned to the ground. Cause maybe Charlie is down in a hole. — John Sayles, Union Dues, p. 255, 1977
- “Charlie was always a gook? But a gook wasn’t always Charlie?” Farley smiled for the first time. “You never knew when a gook was Charlie.” — Nelson DeMille, Word of Honor, p. 414, 1985
- He wore a string of ears right across his chest / Just to show Charlie he was always the best. — Sandee Shaffer Johnson, Cadences, p. 139, 1986
- Wanna kill those Chinese Charlies! — William T. Vollman, Whores for Gloria, p. 124, 1991

3 the Viet Cong US, 1966

- We love to dine by candlelight / Since Charlie blew the power plant. — Ken Melvin, Sorry ‘Bout That, p. 50, 1966
- “How do you spot the elusive Charlie from the air?” — Elaine Shepard, The Doom Pussy, p. 24, 1967
- Charlie don’t surf. — Apocalypse Now, 1979

4 a white man, or white men in general US, 1928

- I am perplexed and hard pressed in finding a solution or reason that will adequately explain why we are so eager to follow Charlie. — George Jackson, Soledad Brother, p. 67, July 1965
- “You know Charlie and Miss Ann ain’t going to sit still for that—their kids in the same classroom with black kids.” — John Williams, The Man Who Cried I Am, p. 235, 1967
- So you going back to Charlie country. — Cecil Brown, The Life & Loves of Mr. Jiveass Nigger, p. 206, 1969
- Sapphire is the world’s foremost authority on Charlie. She has borne his children, been his servant, his mistress, his confidante, and the recipient of perversion for hundreds of years. — Carolyn Greene, 70 Soul Secrets of Sapphire, p. 32, 1973

5 the penis US, 1969

- Also, if you get caught eating at the table after a game with Charley uncovered, that costs a dollar. — Jim Bouton, Ball Four, p. 152, 1970

6 a dollar US, 1924

- Hey, man, you got a couple charlies you can lend me? — Piri Thomas, Down These Mean Streets, p. 106, 1967
- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 48, 1971

7 in poker, the third player to the left of the dealer US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 16, 1988

▶ the night belongs to Charlie used as an appreciation of the tactical advantage enjoyed by the Viet Cong after dark US

- “Things can happen pretty fast around here,” Brown says. “The night belongs to Charlie Cong.” — Fred Brown, Vietnam War Diary, p. 233, 1998
- “The night belongs to Charlie” had been the catch phrase then. The SEALs had been among the first U.S. units in-country to challenge the enemy on their own ground, in the jungle and at night. — H. Jay Riker, SEALS: The Warrior Breed, p. 93, 1999
- “Because the night belongs to Charlie,” Red explained. “During the day, they tend to go underground.” — Randy Zahn, Snake Pilot, p. 52, 2003
- These kinds of nights belong to Charlie, aka, Victor Charlie, or the VC. — Lee Alley, Back from War, p. 49, 2007

Charlie-Charlie adjective

command and control US

- I radioed Dillon in the Charlie-Charlie [command-and-control] ship and told him to get them moving. — Harold Moore, We Were Young Once . . . And Soldiers, p. 134, 1993
- In his command-and-control chopper, the “Charlie Charlie” ship, Barker sat at a homemade console of radios. — Andrew Rotter, Light at the End of the Tunnel, p. 223, 2010

Charlie bird noun

during the Vietnam war, a helicopter used by a tactical commander US, 1974

- Charlie Bird—Command and control helicopter. — William Peers, Report of the Department of Army Review, 1974
- “Punchbowl Three, this is Firefly Four-Four. We got a Charlie bird down on Lima-Zulu Firefly. — Gil Parker, Quest for Glory, p. 84, 2003

Charlie Chan noun

a Chinese-American who curries favor with the dominant white culture US, 1969

- We want her replaced with a Third World person who is absolutely responsible to Third World and poor students, not to House Nigger, Uncle Tom, Tio Taco, or a Charlie Chan. — House Committee on Education and Labor, Campus Unrest, p. 15, 1969

charlie-charlie bird noun

a command and control aircraft US, 1982

- “You tell that muthafucka in that Charlie-Charlie bird fuck hisself.” — John Del Vecchio, The 13th Valley, p. 287, 1982
- “They hated the commanders flying around in their charlie-charlie birds giving orders without a clue as to what it was like on the ground.” — Keith Nolan, Ripcord, p. 205, 2000
- “Is your LZ secure enough for a touch down by a Charlie-Charlie bird now?” — Paul Morgan, The Parrot’s Beak, p. 194, 2000

Charlie Cong noun

the Viet Cong; a Viet Cong US, 1970

- In the iconology of the Vietnam war, drugs occupy as significant a role as B-52s, napalm, free fire zones, and Charlie Cong. — Washington Post, p. 3 (Book World), 30th October 1983
- “Back in Oakland he told us how he wasted some Charlie Cong in a fire-fight.” — Fred Brown, Vietnam War Diary, p. 29, 1998

Charlie Country noun

territory controlled by the Viet Cong US

- There I sat, all by myself, in the middle of Charlie Country. — 1st Lieutenant War Letter, 4 February 1968
- That was Charlie country all the way, but it was a better place to finish my tour than a rear area like Nha Trang. — James Robert Wilson, Landing Zones, p. 68, 1990
- During the day, the area was nominally under government control. At night it was Charlie country if Charlie wanted it to be. — David S. Holland, Vietnam, a Memoir, p. 67, 2005

Charlie hole noun

a foxhole dug by the Viet Cong US

- About that time we realized they had dug in, Charlie holes or Charlie positions. — Ron Steinman, The Soldiers’ Story, p. 210, 1999

Charlie Noble noun

an exhaust stack or chimney US, 1940

Originally nautical, referring to a ship’s smokestack.

- [I]n addition to which they are often to leeward of exhaust pipes and Charlie nobles and are slammed mercilessly from side to side when lying ahull to a windless seaway. — Emiliano Marino, Sailmaker’s Apprentice, p. 99, 2001

Charlie rats noun

US Army c-rations US, 1982

A combination of the phonetic alphabet and an abbreviation of “rations.”

- Ham and lima beans. Taste like shit. Worst Charlie Rat there is. — John M. Dei Vecchio, The 13th Valley, p. 47, 1982
- PFC Eric R. Shimer, a grenadier in third squad, 3rd Platoon, dumped the paraphernalia from it and reshouldered it with only his last can of warm beer, a can of Charlie rats, and thirty rounds of ammunition. — Keith Nolan, Death Valley, p. 140, 1987
- We ate C rations or “Charlie Rats,” as they were often called. The olive-drab cans contained approximately eleven ounces of solid food such as frankfurters and beans, ham and lima beans, spaghetti and meat balls, sausage patties, and corned-beef hash. — Robert W. Black, Rangers in Korea, p. 131, 1989

Charlie Ridge noun

a ridge in the mountainous region west of Da Nang at the base of Ba Na Mountain; during the Vietnam war, also used as a jocular, generic term for any piece of landscape in Vietnam US, 1980

- He pulled back onto “Firebase Polar Bear,” located on “Charlie Ridge.” — Senate Committee on Veterans’ Affairs, Vietnam Veterans’ Readjustment, p. 237, 1980
- I could see almost the entire area of my unit, the 1st Marine Division—from Elephant Valley out Route 37 in the north, stretching south past Ba Na Mountain, Charlie Ridge, and the Arizona Territory. — William Capps, The Vietnam Reader, p. 290, 1991

Charlie rockets noun

a marine contraption in Korea, a small cart with 144 tubes that fire 42-pound projectiles over a range of approximately 5,200 yards US, 1957

- The marines have a unit called “Charlie rockets.” — Martin Russ, The Last Parallel, p. 280, 1957

Charlie the Gooner noun

the collective forces of the North Vietnamese Army and the Vietcong US, 1992

- The message was brought home quickly: Charlie the Gooner will fight us and fight us nose to nose, when he has to. — Bob Stoffey, Cleared Hot!, p. 34, 1992

charm verb

to talk to someone US, 1989

- All the Kids would rap, charm (talk to), or game to impress girlfriends; hang it up (insult) or fresh (compliment) male friends by using special words. — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 90, 1989

Charmin’ noun

a timid prisoner US, 1976

From the advertising slogan for Charmin™ toilet paper—“Please don’t squeeze the Charmin.”

- — John R. Armore and Joseph D. Wolfe, Dictionary of Desperation, p. 24, 1976

charm school noun

any leadership training course US, 1971

Originally applied to officer training in the military.

- Until 1978, women attended a separate OCS, nicknamed the “charm school,” at Quantico. — Washington Post Magazine, p. 24, 25th May 1980
- The airline picked him to head what we pilots called a charm school—a program of a couple of days that taught how to conduct oneself as an airline captain. — Atlanta Journal-Constitution, p. 6B, 23rd March 2004

Chas noun

a Viet Cong; the Viet Cong US

Also spelt “chaz.” One of not a few variants of CHARLIE.

- Charlie: The letter C in the military phonetic alphabet; the enemy, as in Victor Charlie for Viet Cong, also known as Charles, Chuck, or Chas. — Stanley Beesley, Vietnam: The Heartland Remembers, p. 182, 1988
- These depended on the unit, the region, the period of the war, and the degree of professional familiarity and/or appreciation: Charlie, Charles,

Chas, Chuck, Old Clyde. — Philip Beidler, Late Thoughts on an Old War: The Legacy of Vietnam, p. 11, 2004

chase verb

in poker, to play against an opponent's superior hand US, 1963

- Irwin Steig, Common Sense in Poker, p. 183, 1963

▶ chase the bag to engage yourself in a near constant search for drugs to buy US, 1970

- William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Uptight People, p. 5, December 1970
- Geoffrey Froner, Digging for Diamonds, p. 16, 1989

▶ chase the dragon to inhale heroin smoke, especially from heroin burnt on a piece of aluminum foil US, 1961

- David Maurer and Victor Vogel, Narcotics and Narcotic Addiction, p. 396, 1973
- Geoffrey Froner, Digging for Diamonds, p. 16, 1989
- It was well known that Binion liked to “chase the dragon” or smoke heroin. — Jeff German, Murder in Sin City, p. 120, 2001

▶ chase the nurse; chase the white nurse to become addicted to morphine US, 1992

- Jay Robert Nash, Dictionary of Crime, p. 62, 1992

chase shadows

to arrive at an event after its climax US

- Dashing across the playa in pursuit of brightly burning objects, only to arrive after the crescendo, or when the object has already burned to ashes, and then doing it again and again to the point of exhaustion. — <http://burningman.org/culture/glossary/> (accessed 23rd May 2016)

▶ chase your losses

when losing at gambling, to bet more and more and with less discretion in an increasingly frustrating attempt to win back what has been lost US, 1998

- Christopher Cavanaugh, AA to Z, p. 67, 1998

chaser noun

1 a drink taken immediately after another US, 1897

- Boilermaker. This is a shooter followed by a chaser. — Mardee Regan, The Bartender's Best Friend, p. 93, 2003

2 a military police officer assigned to escort prisoners in transport US, 1927

- Short for “brig chaser.”
- In August of 1969, shortly before coming home, I was made a “brig chaser” and told to escort another 19-year-old to the brig in Da Nang. — Providence (Rhode Island) Journal-Bulletin, p. 1E, 20th April 2000

3 a crack cocaine user with obsessive compulsive behaviors US, 1992

- Terry Williams, Crackhouse, p. 147, 1992

chassis noun

1 a human body US, 1930

- She had the kind of chassis that gallant men died for, but, despite her terrific good looks and her knockout shape, she was starting to become a hell of a drag. — Morton Cooper, High School Confidential, p. 37, 1958
- He dropped his own drink in the act of catching her lax chassis[.] — David Gregory, Flesh Seller, p. 73, 1962
- “She got a real sweet chassis filling up a tight sheath dress[.]” — Roger Blake, Love Clubs, Inc., pp. 143–144, 1967

2 the female breasts US, 1957

- They really had no idea what was coming off—even though Barbara had a couple of fangled chassis that would put Jayne Mansfield to shame. — Frederick Kohner, Gidget, p. 39, 1957

3 the skull US, 1994

- Sally Williams, “Strong” Words, p. 136, 1994

chastity belt noun

in gambling, the loss limit that players some impose on themselves US, 1996

- John Vorhaus, The Big Book of Poker Slang, p. 9, 1996

chastity rig noun

a skin-colored patch worn over a woman's vulva to give the appearance of nudity US, 1970

- Feral's hands, gripping her bottom, covered the adhesive strips which secured her chastity rig[.] — Terry Southern, Blue Movie, p. 208, 1970

Chattanooga choo-choo noun

a marijuana cigarette made with two or three rolling papers laid longways US, 1997

- Jim Emerson-Cobb, Scratching the Dragon, 1997

chatter noun

the flexing of a surfboard riding over choppy water or the slapping sound created US, 1963

- Grant W. Kuhns, On Surfing, p. 114, 1963

chatterbox noun

a typewriter US, 1950

- Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 42, 1950

chawbacon noun

an unsophisticated country dweller US, 1834

- It's a rule in these parts, so black chawbacons don't git took unawares! — George MacDonald Fraser, Black Ajax, p. 68, 1997

cheap Charlie noun

1 a small, neighborhood candy store US, 1979

- Every street had a “Cheap Charlie.” — Samuel Chotzoff, A Lost Paradise, p. 75, 1979
- One of the most popular among the younger generations was the candy store, or “Cheap Charlie.” Every street had a “Cheap Charlie.” — Mario Maffi, Gateway to the Promised Land, p. 85, 1991

2 a cheapskate US, 1972

- “Hoa, numah fucking ten!” the kid yelled. “Cheap Charlie.” — William Pelfrey, The Big V, p. 17, 1972
- You number fucking ten cheap charlie G! cocksucker! — Maledicta, p. 257, Summer/Winter 1982
- Only a few give us the underhand, come-here wave meaning they want us to buy them a Tea—guess they can tell the lookers (Cheap Charlies) from the buyers. — James Slosson, Unmailed Letters from an REMF, p. 39, 2009

cheap heart noun

a Purple Heart award resulting from a minor combat wound US, 1990

- A “cheap heart” was a very minor wound, not requiring medical evacuation, hospitalization or any major treatment; any combat wound was grounds for a Purple Heart. — Gregory Clark, Words of the Vietnam War, p. 417, 1990

Cheap John adjective

shoddy, inferior US, 1855

- “Cheap John” jewelry salesmen gulled naive countrymen with their suavity and faked generosity. — Thomas D. Clark, The Southern Country Editor, p. 38, 1948

cheapo adjective

inexpensive US, 1972

- It's a cheapo takeoff on porn flicks and movie musicals that might have been expected to die unheralded of its own terminal ineptitude. — Washington Post, p. B4, 5th September 1977
- [W]ith cheapo bullets like these it don't all the time go clear around. — Jess Mowry, Way Past Cool, 1992

cheap physical stuff noun

sexual activity short of intercourse US, 1958

- Ninety-five percent of the guys here—at least for the weekend dates—are just looking for that “cheap physical stuff.” — Otto Butz, The Unsilent Generation, p. 88, 1958
- Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 95, 1968
- No kissy-face-huggy-bod, there's plenty of time for the cheap physical stuff later. — J.C. Pollock, Crossfire, p. 271, 1985

cheap play noun

in dominoes, a move that scores one point US, 1959

- Dominic Armanino, Dominoes, p. 16, 1959

cheapshit adjective inexpensive, shoddy US, 1978

- “He handed her a pair of panties. Cheapshit dimestore panties.” — Tony Aridzone, In the Name of the Father, p. 208, 1978
- He was continuously and unceremoniously evicted from cheapshit apartments[.] — Bill Landis, Sleazoid Express, p. 81, 2002

cheap shot noun

1 a petty, unfair insult US, 1971

- I resent his cheap shot at Dan Quayle. Dan Quayle has been viciously smeared by the media and comedians for spelling potato with an “e” at the end. — Telegraph Herald (Dubuque, Iowa), p. A4, 12th March 1999
- She also called the flap on Bush's inability to answer questions on foreign leaders a cheap shot. Bush could not name the leaders of Chechnya, India and Pakistan. — Lansing (Michigan) State Journal, p. 1B, 19th November 1999
- Why aren't there more black quarterbacks? The old racistlander was that they weren't smart enough. Having had that lie thrown in their faces, the cheap-shot artists like Limbaugh would now say, Well, maybe they're good, but they're not as good as that. — Baltimore Sun, p. 1B, 10th October 2003
- Arianna said, “Let me finish. Let me finish. Let me finish. You know this is completely impolite and”—here's the kicker—“we know how you treat women.” “Okay, Arnie, so it was a cheap shot.” — Washington Post, p. A25, 27th September 2003

2 in sports, an unnecessary, unprovoked act of violence US, 1970

- [I]f anything goes wrong, if there's any cheap shots, I'll be right there for them. — Sun-Sentinel (Fort Lauderdale, Florida), p. 3C, 29th October 2003

cheat verb

in the entertainment industry, to move slightly to create a better camera angle US, 1991

- The word is cheat: “Cheat your left leg out a little,” or “Open to the camera.” — Robert Stoller and I.S. Levine, Coming Attractions, p. 121, 1991

cheater five noun

while surfing, the toes of one foot extended over the nose of the board only because the surfer has stretched his leg far forward US, 1965

- Ross Olney, The Young Sportsman's Guide to Surfing, p. 88, 1965

cheaters noun

1 eye glasses US, 1908

- Tesch mumbled in his signifying way, cocking his sorrowful eyes over those hornrimmed cheaters. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 177, 1946
- The eyes behind the rimless cheaters flashed. — Raymond Chandler, The Little Sister, p. 5, 1949
- “Take those cheaters off,” Sheik said. — Chester Himes, The Real Cool Killers, p. 46, 1959

2 dark glasses US, 1938

- Robert S. Gold, A Jazz Lexicon, p. 54, 1964

3 padding that enhances the apparent size of a female's breasts US, 1945

- Millions and millions of men were being deceived, hoodwinked, and betrayed by scientific gadgets known as "falsies," "gay deceivers," "pads," and "cheaters." — Earl Wilson, I Am Gazing Into My 8-Ball, p. 70, 1945
- — Helen Dahlkog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 12, 1972

4 metal skis US, 1963

- When metal skis were first introduced by racers, they were called cheaters because of their easier maneuverability. — American Speech, p. 205, October 1963: "The language of skiers"

cheat sheet noun

1 a written memory aid, usually but not always clandestine US, 1957

- — Time Magazine, p. 46, 24th August 1959
- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 95, 1968
- He [Socrates] reads from a cheat sheet under his toga. — Bill and Ted's Excellent Adventure, p. 93, 1989

2 in casino gambling, a listing of the payoffs for a particular ticket US, 1982

- — Jim Claussen, Keno Handbook, p. 17, 1982

cheat spot noun

an establishment that sells alcohol after closing hours US, 1963

- Few racketeers could afford to operate a cheat spot if every time a liquor-law violation was proven the court imposed the maximum penalties. — Saturday Evening Post, p. 72, 9th March 1963

cheat throat noun

oral sex performed on a man in which the person doing the performing simulates taking the penis completely into their mouth without actually doing so US, 1995

A play on DEEP THROAT, the real thing.

- — Adult Video News, p. 48, August 1995

check noun

a gambling token US, 1974

- And then a rush for the cage to cash in the chips (which, for whatever this information may be worth, are always called "checks" by the people who work in the casinos and "chips" by everybody else). — Edward Lin, Big Julie of Vegas, p. 23, 1974
- Griffin, the quiet Irishman, was fascinated by the way I handled chips—"checks" in dealers' slang. — Jimmy Snyder, Jimmy the Greek, p. 16, 1975

check artist noun

a criminal adept at forging checks US, 1959

- [M]y cell partner is a check artist from Maryland who has been ostensibly rehabilitated to the extent that he is leaving on parole next week. — James Blake, The Joint, p. 227, 25th June 1959

checkbook adjective characterized by a seemingly unlimited ability and will to pay for something US, 1975

Applied most commonly to journalism (paying for news), but also to enterprises such as baseball.

- While this was unfolding, Police Chief Charles Gain was hit with accusations of checkbook detective work. — Bill Cardoso, The Maltese Sangweech and Other Heroes, p. 13, 1984

check cop verb

to use an adhesive placed on a cheater's palm to steal chips while sliding a pile of chips in a poker game to the winner US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 19, 1988

check day noun

the day each month when welfare checks are delivered US, 1971

- I did all the buying; everybody else was broke because this was the day before Checkday and everyone's last check was long since spent. — Robert Deane Pharr, S.R.O., p. 120, 1971
- Today was check day; he would take it in person from the carrier and hustle down to the currency exchange. — William Brashler, City Dogs, p. 94, 1976
- On the first day of April, she's out on the stoop, same as she ever was, watching the check-day traffic at Mount and Fayette. — David Simon and Edward Burns, The Corner, p. 179, 1997

check-hiker

a forger US, 1979

- "Hobart Slocum was one of the most artistic check hikers in the greater Manhattan area." I unbutton my jacket and put my elbows out to the side and raise them. "Am I healed?" — Leo Rosten, Silkyl!, p. 55, 1979

check in verb

1 to place yourself in protective police custody US, 2001

- — Don R. McCreary (Editor), Dawg Speak, 2001

2 to be initiated into a youth gang US, 1994

- — Ann Lawson, Kids & Gangs, p. 55, 1994

check out verb

1 to leave prison US, 1950

- — Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 42, 1950

2 to die US, 1927

- — Sally Williams, "Strong" Words, p. 137, 1994

3 to commit suicide while in prison US, 1992

- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 104, 1992

check, please!

used as a humorous suggestion that a conversation is at an end US, 1971

Popularized by Keith Olberman on ESPN, used by Woody Allen in Annie Hall and Catherine Keener in Being John Malkovich.

- — Hermese E. Roberts, The Third Ear, 1971
- — Keith Olberman and Dan Patrick, The Big Show, p. 13, 1997

check writer noun

a criminal who passes bad checks US, 1972

- And they just do not worry about check writers because they are too numerous. — Bruce Jackson, Outside the Law, p. 78, 1972

check you later; check ya later

used as a farewell US, 1982

- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 1, Fall 1982
- — Washington Post Magazine, p. 17, 2nd August 1988

cheddar noun

money US, 1998

- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Spring 1998
- "And then I'd like to know, who in their right fucking mind walks out on that kind of cheddar, comes to Dempsy fucking New Jersey with their hands in their pockets whistling Dixie." — Richard Price, Samaritan, p. 49, 2003

cheeba; cheeb noun

a potent marijuana, now a generic term US, 1994

- — Judi Sanders, Mashing and Munching in Ames, p. 4, 1994
- Pot, grass, weed, herb, cheeba, chronic, trees, indo, doja—whatever they called it then, whatever they call it now, and whatever they'll call it in the future, it was marijuana. — 50 Cent, From Pieces to Weight, p. 5, 2005
- A lot of hip-hoppers puff cheeb, man. — The Source, p. 56, November 91

cheech noun

a leader of an Italian-American criminal organization US, 1977

- And the guy belonged to some downtown cheech. There was a hell of a row with the mob and with the department. — Edwin Torres, Q & A, p. 157, 1977

cheese noun

1 smegma, matter secreted by the sebaceous gland that collects between the glans penis and the foreskin or around the clitoris and labia minora US, 1927

From the dull whitish color of this substance.

- — Donald Webster Cory and John P. LeRoy, The Homosexual and His Society, p. 262, 1963: "A lexicon of homosexual slang"
- We pushed heavily on the new moral outlook: get a VD test often or face the fact that you're just as dirty as a person who never washes the cheese off his uncircumcised cock[.] — Screw, p. 13, 6th November 1972
- "Some places I've worked, some guys will come in real cruddy, you know, their penis hasn't been clean for weeks. They call it 'cheese,'" she says graphically, wriggling up her nose. — George Paul Csicsery (Editor), The Sex Industry, p. 8, 1973

2 an attractive young woman US, 1959

- I got into the habit of studying at the Radcliffe library. Not just to eye the cheese, although I admit that I liked to look. — Erich Segal, Love Story, p. 2, 1970

3 in pool, a situation where a player needs to make only one shot to win US, 1993

- — Mike Shamos, The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Billiards, p. 49, 1993

4 money; a gambler's bankroll US, 1985

A locution popularized by Minnesota Fats, as in, "I never lost when we played for the cheese."

- — Mike Shamos, The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Billiards, p. 49, 1993
- All these niggas want cheese, is we mice or men, word up. — RZA, The Wu-Tang Manual, p. 164, 2005

5 freebase cocaine US, 1992

- — Jay Robert Nash, Dictionary of Crime, p. 63, 1992

6 an amphetamine user US, 1993

- — Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 38, 1993

7 nonsense US, 1989

- Joe Flaherty nailed the essence of TV monster movie cheese without even using a real word from the English language[.] — Frank Zappa, The Real Frank Zappa Book, p. 168, 1989

8 luck US, 1990

- — Steve Rushin, Pool Cool, p. 10, 1990

9 a powdery concoction containing heroin, designed for beginning users US, 2006

- A new heroin-laced powder known as "cheese" is popping up in middle and high schools in Texas. — USA Today, p. 1, 27th April 2006

cheese verb

to leave US, 1955

- He's going to cheese, I tell you. Nobody arrested him! — Rebel Without a Cause, 1955
- Cheese it! Here comes the socialite man. — Mart Crowley, The Boys in the Band, p. 85, 1968 cheese and crackers!

used as a nonprofane oath US, 1924

A euphemistic "Jesus Christ!"

- Cheese and crackers, pal! — Leo Rosten, Dear Herm, p. 117, 1974

cheeseball noun

a corny, socially inept person US, 1990

- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Spring 1992
- You don't need to come to a place like Lookout Point and spout off all those cheeseball lines to be romantic. — American Pie, 1999

cheesebox noun

a telephone device used to transfer calls received by an illegal operation US, 1952

So named, according to Maas, because the first one was found by police hidden in a cheese box.

- — Life, p. 39, 19th May 1952
- Next he would install the cheesebox, an electrical device that connected the lines of the two phones. — Peter Maas, Serpico, p. 112, 1973

Cheesebox nickname

the Stateville Prison in Joliet, Illinois US, 1992

- — Jay Robert Nash, Dictionary of Crime, p. 63, 1992

cheeseburger noun

a quarter pound of marijuana US, 2007

- A criminal complaint, based in part on conversations from 500 telephone calls made by Hardy from jail or in the visiting booths at the jail, portrays Hardy as acutely interested in the sale and purchase of “cheeseburgers,” at least every other day, at a cost of about $270 each. A “cheeseburger” was the dealer’s jargon for a quarter-pounder, or four ounces of marijuana, the complaint alleges. — Wisconsin State Journal, 20th April 2011

cheeseburger nickname

an extremely powerful BLU-82 bomb US

- Often referred to in Vietnam as the “Daisy Cutter” and sometimes as the “Cheeseburger,” this super bomb is delivered by C-130E aircraft (of the 463rd Wing of the Seventh Air Force flying out of Can Ranh Bay air base). — Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, Prohibiting Military Weather Modification Hearings, p. 122, 1972
- Bomber crews have nick-named it either “daisy cutter” or “cheeseburger.” The bomb explodes just before touching the ground. — New Scientist, p. 685, 30 March 1972

cheesecake noun

a scantily clad woman as the subject of a photograph or artwork US, 1934

- “Hey, how about some leg shots, Georgia—some cheesecake?” — Georgia Sothern, My Life in Burlesque, p. 142, 1972
- Afterwards, he talked to me about posing for what he called “cheesecake photographs.” — Tempest Storm, Tempest Storm, p. 129, 1987
- I had done only cheesecake photos before—never anything nude—but I did the centerfold for December 1959 because I knew it would please him. — Kathryn Leigh Scott, The Bunny Years, p. 73, 1998

cheesedog noun

a socially inept person who perceives himself in somewhat grandiose terms US, 1997

- — Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 36, 1997

cheese eater noun

an informer US, 1886

Playing on RAT.

- The legendary “silence” of prisons (“death to the squealer,” and all) does not apply here. The joint is full of cheese-eaters and the Man usually knows what you’re doing before you do. — James Blake, The Joint, p. 36, 23rd December 1951
- — Kenn “Naz” Young, Naz’s Underground Dictionary, p. 20, 1973
- — John Scarne, Scarne on Dice, p. 463, 1974
- “Slade was a cheese-eater.” — Stephen J. Cannell, White Sister, p. 51, 2006

cheese-eating noun

an act of informing on others or betrayal US, 1951

- To report these unsavory and totally lost creatures is of course a violation of the rigid convict code, and is called “ratting” or “cheese-eating.” — James Blake, The Joint, p. 21, 15th April 1951

cheese-eating surrender monkeys noun

the French; anyone who does not support American imperialism US, 2000

Coined on The Simpsons television show as a parody of American arrogance; often used by arrogant Americans unaware of the irony of their use.

- If these old gasbags really prefer to live in a nation of cheese-eating surrender monkeys (Groundskeeper Willie’s delicious phrase from “The Simpsons”) because they cannot lower themselves to accept the democratic judgment of their fellow Americans, then bon voyage, jerks. — New York Post, p. 4, 7th November 2000

cheesehead noun

a resident of the state of Wisconsin, especially a fan of the Green Bay Packers US, 2001

Playful but not particularly kind.

- The term “Cheesehead” to denote a Packer fan had not yet been labeled. — Gary Vasquez, Packer Passion, p. 22, 2001 cheese off!

go away! US, 1996

- — Maledicta, p. 99, 1996: “Domino’s Pizza jargon”

cheeser noun

a police informer US, 1979

- — H. Craig Collins, Street Gangs, p. 222, 1979

cheesy adjective

of poor quality, inexpensive, shoddy US, 1863

- The driver asked us whether we had had fun. We said not too much, and pretty cheesy. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Chicago Confidential, p. 63, 1950
- Jammed between a grimy-windowed bookstore and a cheesy luncheonette was the marquee of a tiny art theater[.] — Philip Roth, Goodbye, Columbus, p. 22, 1959

- I started up the car and cruised along Ogden Boulevard until I found an open bar, a cheesy, small place called John’s On. — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 358, 1961
- “Faith Domergue was an Oscar hopeful when making This Island Earth, one of the most opulently cheesy sci-films ever.” — Ethan Morden, Some Men Are Lookers, p. 111, 1997

chemical noun

crack cocaine US, 1994

- — US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994

chemist noun

a person who uses a mainframe computer for the academic purposes for which it was designed, depriving the speaker of the chance to use it for more interesting, less academic purposes US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 93, 1991

chemo noun

chemotherapy, a cancer treatment US, 1978

- Personal memos were returned to him with “chemo” written in, he said. — Washington Post, p. B1, 2nd December 1978
- At night the kids play video games in the den and gossip about their doctors and their current regimen of what they call “chemo.” — New York Times, p. 27 (Section 2), 9th May 1981

cheroot noun

a large marijuana cigarette US, 1993

- — N. Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 38, 1993

cherry noun

1 the hymen; virginity (male or female); the state of sustained sexual abstinence US, 1918

Combines with a variety of verbs (bust, crack, pop) to indicate the ending of a virgin condition.

- But I felt that bragging to other fellas about how many cherries I’d cracked or how many panties came down on rooftops or backyards was nobody’s business but my own[.] — Piri Thomas, Down These Mean Streets, p. 15, 1967
- Some “cherries” completely close the cunny hole and have to be opened by surgery. — Screw, p. 9, 29th December 1969
- The good girls held on to their cherry. And it was a big deal. — Edwin Torres, Carlito’s Way, p. 11, 1975
- I drove around the desolate southern perimeter of the city while Willie muliecked her and blew off his jail cherry[.] — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Airtight Willie and Me, p. 8, 1979

2 a soldier newly arrived in combat US, 1946

An extension of the broader sense of innocence and inexperience.

- From there I was sent to the 1st Cavalry rear area in Bien Hoa for a week of Cherry School which also gives the new guys (known as “cherries” by anyone who had been in country for awhile) time to get used to the very hot climate. — Vietnam Skytroopers Diary, 2 February 1970
- They didn’t have time to get acclimated. That’s why so many of em had their shit scattered. They weren’t comin in as one cherry among one hundred dudes with time in-country. — John M. Del Vecchio, The 13th Valley, p. 95, 1982
- And nobody wanted to see me because I was a new guy. Nobody wanted a “cherry” out there. — Al Santoli, To Bear Any Burden, p. 127, 1985
- “Hey you bunch of cherries,” “the cat calling continues,” if some gung-ho Hershey Bar tells ya to take the hill, tell him to kiss your ever-lovin’...” — Fred Brown, Vietnam War Diary, p. 39, 1998

3 a virgin; someone who because of extenuating circumstances has abstained from sex for a long period US, 1942

- A no-poot green cherry. — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 30, 1954
- “I don’t think any of my damned sisters were cherries since they were thirteen anyway.” — Robert Newton, Bondage Clubs U.S.A., p. 69, 1967
- “Yeah man, they ain’t never had no cherry before, and they think this is a cherry they’ll be getting,” Prince replied, and laughed. — Donald Goines, Black Gangster, p. 23, 1977
- BRIAN: I’m not a cherry. BENDER: When have you ever gotten laid? BRIAN: I’ve gotten laid lotsa times. — The Breakfast Club, 1985

4 by extension, any innocence that can be lost US, 1956

- He had no idea he was talking to a young man who cracked his cherry in the thievery business with forty times that at Ludwig’s. — Red Rudensky, The Gelfin, p. 76, 1970
- I’ve talked about it to other guys who’ve lost their cherry, and we all agree: You appreciate different things. — James Ellroy, Blood on the Moon, p. 33, 1984
- [As Henry leaves court after his first arrest] You broke your cherry! You broke your cherry! — Goodfellas, 1990
- Folks do not want to hear about Alpha Company—us grunts—busting jungle and busting cherries from Land Zone Skator-Gator to Scat Man Do (wherever that is). — Larry Heinemann, Paco’s Story, p. 5, 1990

5 by extension, someone who is completely inexperienced US, 1946

- “They should a never done it, throwing a cherry in with hardened sailors like us,” says Mule. — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, p. 74, 1970
- “I’m not going to say he had some cold beans and motherfuckers for breakfast, took some shots from the other guys about being a cherry and then went out and got blown into fifty million pieces—which is what happened.” — Mark Barker, Nam, p. xi, 1981
- We were cherries. It was my third day in-country. — Harry Maurer, Strange Ground, p. 148, 1989

6 of a male, the “virginity” of the anus US, 1997

- MISTRESS: [...] Now let’s dress you—let’s get you ready for your defloration. DAMEN [a male “slave”]: I’m going to lose my cherry. MISTRESS: You’re just a little girl, an innocent thing[.] — Terence Sellers, Dungeon Evidence, p. 55, 1997

- 7 an entry-level youth gang member US, 1981
- When he was old enough he hoped to be a cherry, then a cutdown, then finally, after he'd been shot and stabbed ten times and was too old to fight, a veterano. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Glitter Dome, p. 109, 1981
- 8 in pool, an extremely easy shot US, 1993
- Mike Shamos, The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Billiards, p. 49, 1993
- 9 in horse racing, a horse that has yet to win a race US, 1951
- David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 19, 1951
- 10 a female nipple US, 1964
- Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 34, 1964
- 11 the flashing red light on top of a police car US, 1973
- [T]he squad car came tooling down the alley, its outraged cherry blazing. — Joe Eszterhas, Charlie Simpson's Apocalypse, p. 109, 1973
 - Warren Smith, Warren's Smith's Authentic Dictionary of CB, p. 59, 1976
- ▶ cop a cherry
- to take someone's virginity US, 1971
 - A young man's sexual initiation by a prostitute ("copping a cherry") was once more frequent than it is today. — Charles Winick, The Lively Commerce, p. 189, 1971
- ▶ pop a cherry
- to have sex with a virgin US, 1973
 - "If I were to have a son, I would definitely pop his cherry." — Xaviera Hollander, Xaviera, p. 21, 1973

cherry adjective

- 1 virginal US, 1933
- Don't forget she's cherry. — Norman Mailer, The Naked and the Dead, p. 551, 1948
 - I know a waitress. She ain't cherry. — Willard Motley, Let No Man Write My Epitaph, p. 179, 1958
 - I know you thought I was cherry, your number-one size / But I was balling Tony, and you weren't wise. — Dennis Wepman et al., The Life, p. 142, 1976
- 2 without a criminal record US, 1980
- "You lied to me, Darrold," sounding a little hurt—"try to tell me you're cherry and they got a sheet on you, man." — Elmore Leonard, City Primeval, p. 58, 1980
- 3 inexperienced US
- They'd say that they'd come from the World as a cherry unit and the whole unit would be moved to a villa to someplace to defend and they'd be there the day they arrived. — John Del Vecchio, The 13th Valley, p. 95, 1982

cherry bomb noun

- a virgin US, 2001
- "A lot of 'em like little girls. And if I tell 'em I'm a cherry bomb . . . a virgin." — J.T. LeRoy, The Heart Is Deceitful Above All Things, p. 92, 2001

cherry boy noun

- 1 a male virgin US, 1974
- "How long you been Vietnam?" "Two days." "Ooh. You cherry boy." — Bo Hathaway, A World of Hurt, p. 96, 1981
 - Some are revealed as male models and others as adolescent, self-confessed virgins who have never kissed before. "Cherry boys," the host-comics leer to the squeals of young women in the audience. — BPI Entertainment News Wire, 2nd May 2000
 - "Me number one cherry boy in Vietnam." — Trent Young, And That's the Way it Was, p. 162, 2005
 - "How long you be in Vietnam?" "About one week," I answered. "Maybe you be cherry boy." — Al Aldridge, Those Damn Flying Cows!, p. 118, 2005
 - I was a cherry boy. Most cherry boys went on point. — Reading the American Past: Volume II, p. 285, 2012
- 2 a recent arrival to combat US, 1984
- "You're like old Jacobs, goddamned cherry boy." — William Pelfrey, The Big V, p. 133, 1972
 - I was still a cherry boy—and that's what you stay until you get 90 days in country. — Wallace Terry, Bloods, p. 239, 1984

cherry farm noun

- a prison, or the section of a prison reserved for first-time offenders US, 1966
- Current Slang, p. 2, Winter 1966
 - Helen Dahlsgog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 13, 1972

cherry fine adjective

- excellent US, 1966
- Andy Anonymous, A Basic Guide to Campusology, p. 5, 1966

cherry girl noun

- a virgin US, 1982
- I'm still a "cherry girl" when I go live with Mac. He be the first man I go home with, first man I sleep with. — Steven DeBonis, Children of the Enemy, p. 163, 1995

cherry juice noun

- hydraulic fluid in a tank turret traversing system US
- Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 40, 1991

cherry kicks noun

- the first drug injection enjoyed by someone just released from prison US, 1971
- Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 48, 1971

cherry menth; cherry meth noun

- the recreational drug GHB US, 1995
- Police have identified a substance that left three people unconscious and close to death on a Fillmore sidewalk last month as a legal yet potentially dangerous drug known as "Cherry Meth." — Los Angeles Times, p. B2, 4th November 1995
 - GHB has been marketed as a liquid or powder and has been sold on the street under names such as Grievous Bodily Harm, Georgia Home Boy, Liquid Ecstasy, Liquid X, Liquid E, GHB, GBH, Soap, Scoop, Easy Lay, Salty Water, G-Riffick, [and] Cherry Menth. — Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report, p. 281, 4th April 1997

cherry orchard noun

- a woman's college US, 1966
- Current Slang, p. 2, Winter 1966
 - Helen Dahlsgog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 13, 1972

cherry patch noun

- a poker game being played by a group of poor players, ripe for the taking by a good professional US, 1982
- David M. Hayano, Poker Faces, p. 186, 1982

cherry picker noun

- 1 a person who targets virgins for seduction US, 1960
- They call me Rap the dicker the ass kicker / The cherry picker the city slicker the titty licker. — H. Rap Brown, Die Nigger Die!, p. 28, 1969
- 2 a crane US, 1987
- Ira Konigsberg, The Complete Film Dictionary, p. 47, 1987

cherry pie noun

- 1 in the entertainment industry, extra money earned for something other than ordinary work US, 1955
- American Speech, pp. 310–311, December 1955: "Cherry pie"
 - Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 51, 1981
- 2 in circus and carnival usage, extra work for extra pay US, 1981

cherry-popping noun

- the act of taking someone's virginity US, 1972
- I believe there was such a thing as "cherry-popping"—an occasion when a father would send his adolescent son along to an understanding prostitute for an introduction to sex. — Xaviera Hollander, The Happy Hooker, p. 201, 1972

chest noun

- a woman's breasts US, 1986
- Another great chest on parade in Big Bust #5 is that of Barbara Alton, a diminutive little vixen who obviously loves fondling, squeezing, licking and just generally fiddling with her two tremendous tits[.] — Adult Video, p. 54, August/September 1986
 - "Yeah, nice, healthy chest," Letch said, leering. — Joseph Wambaugh, Floater, p. 155, 1996

chest cutter noun

- a thoracic surgeon US, 1983
- Lynda Van Devanter, Home Before Morning, p. 378, 1983: Glossary

Chester and Esther noun

- in craps, a bet on any craps and eleven US, 1985
- A back formation from the initials "c" and "e."
 - Steve Kuriscak, Casino Talk, p. 67, 1985

Chester the Molester; Chester noun

- a lecherous man US, 1977
- From a cartoon character regularly featured in Hustler magazine.
 - They also have an ad for "Chester the Molester" T-shirts. — United States Congress, Sexual Exploitation of Children, p. 7, 1977
 - Hustler used to run a regular kiddie corner called "Chester the Molester" — Jeanne Ballantine, Sociological Footprints, p. 248, 1982
 - Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 29, 1989
 - The girl remained clothed the entire time, but Jenkins had manipulated her into various poses that revealed his Chester the Molester ways. — Alafair Burke, Missing Justice, p. 164, 2004

chestnuts noun

- the testicles US, 1971
- Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 48, 1971

chew noun

- chewing tobacco US, 1990
- The uncles toil good-naturedly in the kitchen ("It beats the shit out of the old country," they'd tell you if they could), singing Caruso and arias and spitting chew on the floor. — Larry Heinemann, Paco's Story, p. 105, 1990

chew verb

▶ chew face

- to kiss US, 1980
- "Who can tell me what petting means?" asked substitute teacher Sharon Simon, who has a master's degree in psychology. "You mean chewing face?" queried one student. — Los Angeles Times, pp. 2–6, 3rd February 1986

▶ chew it

- in skateboarding, to fall from the board US, 1976
- Albert Cassorla, The Skateboarder's Bible, p. 199, 1976

▶ chew the fat

- to gossip, to chatter idly US, 1907
- The farmers were chewing the fat in feed and hardware stores, the women were chopping their gums in Five-and-tens and department stores[.] — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Caroline and Paul Blake, p. 143, 16th March 1948
 - [I]n the course of chewing the fat we told each other all about our form. — Charles Raven, Underworld Nights, p. 148, 1956
 - We stood around the De Soto and chewed the fat a while. — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 258, 1961
 - Now I want to create the illusion that this is just Mickey and I chewin' the fat all by ourselves. — Natural Born Killers, 1994

▶ chew the scenery

- to over-act in a dramatic performance US, 1973
- Sherman Louis Sergej, The Language of Show Biz, p. 48, 1973
 - I see scenery and / chew it, chew it / that's how I do it[.] — Gerard Alessandrini, Chew It [Forbidden Broadway Volume 3], 1993

- Johnny Depp and rival pirate Geoffrey Rush, both chewing the scenery with such abandon it's a wonder their vessels don't spring a leak[.] — Bang, p. 64, August 2003
- A surprisingly entertaining high-seas actioner with Perkins chewing the scenery as the leader of a group of terrorists who have taken over a supply ship. — David Beller, TLA Video & DVD Guide 2004, p. 206, 2004

► chew the sugar cane

to gossip US, 1978

- The family was in the living room chewing the sugar cane on what was happening in Puerto Rico. — Piri Thomas, Stories from El Barrio, p. 118, 1978

► chew your tobacco more than once to repeat yourself US, 1893

- — Shirley Brice Heath, Ways with Words, back matter, 1983

chewers noun

the teeth US, 1970

- — Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 36, 1970

chewies noun

crack cocaine US, 1994

- — US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994

chew out verb

to rebuke someone harshly US, 1929

- John Wayne chewed me out for that one. "Never play a rapist and never die in a picture," he said. — Burt Reynolds, My Life, p. 203, 1994

chew out; chewing out noun

a rebuke US, 1964

- Yet instead of forty lashes, or even a thorough chewing out, she had given them her car. — Max Shulman, Anyone Got a Match?, p. 55, 1964

chewsday noun

Tuesday US, 1877

Humorous.

- "I don't know how come I didn't git dere Chewsday like I promise." — Kate Chopin, At Fault, p. 19, 2002

Chi nickname

Chicago, Illinois US, 1895

- The news spread across an amused United States. WRITING IN SKY PANICS CHI. — Philip Wylie, Opus 21, p. 204, 1949
- It's in a bus envelope so he must have taken a bus as far as Chi then switched to rail. — Mickey Spillane, One Lonely Night, p. 52, 1951
- I arrived in Chi quite early in the morning[.] — Jack Kerouac, On the Road, p. 14, 1957
- Hours before that, we'd watched the third night of the days of Rage in Chi. — Paul and Meredith, Chamisa Road, 1971

chiba noun

marijuana US, 1981

Spanish slang embraced by English-speakers.

- 11 of 12 tracks are dedicated to the joys of boo, tea, dope, grass, ganga, chiba, the doob—whatever street you're on. — Riverfront Times (Missouri), 21st November 2001

chiba-chiba noun

marijuana, especially potent marijuana from Colombia or Brazil US, 1979

- Over the past few years in New York, the magic moniker has been successively, Chiba-Chiba, wacky, red, red wacky, gold and Santa Marta. — Hi Life, p. 15, 1979
- Chiba-Chiba—a Brazilian form of pot, usually compressed into bricks. — Nick Brownlee, This Is Cannabis, p. 151, 2002

chibs; chips noun

the buttocks US, 1957

- I had a couple a sweet kids but they didn't have chips like this, patting her again on the ass and looking at the others, smiling, and waiting for them to smile in appreciation of his witticisms. — Hubert Selby Jr., Last Exit to Brooklyn, p. 44, 1957
- I ain't a profane cat, but I had to say, "Thank you God, for them fine chibs." — Edwin Torres, Carlito's Way, p. 94, 1975

Chicago bankroll noun

a single large denomination bill wrapped around small denomination bills, giving the impression of a great deal of money US, 1966

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin' down some lines, p. 232, 1980
- In the right pocket was something known in the trade as a "Chicago bankroll." This consisted of one twenty wrapped around the outside of a roll of sixty ones and secured with a rubber band. — David McCumber, Playing Off the Rail, p. 27, 1996

Chicago contract noun

a binding oral agreement, secured by honor US, 1992

- So we make a Chicago contract. Nothing on tape. Nothing on paper. No outside witnesses. We don't ever have to spit on our palms and shake. — Robert Campbell, Boneyards, p. 53, 1992

Chicago G-string noun

a g-string designed to break open, revealing the dancer's completely naked state US, 1981

- — Don Wilmetth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 51, 1981
- Margia Hart, for instance, is said to have worked with a Chicago G-string that could be stripped off in a trice during her show. — David Scott, Behind the G-String, p. 210, 2003

Chicago leprosy noun infections, scars, and abscesses caused by prolonged intravenous drug use US, 1992

- — Jay Robert Nash, Dictionary of Crime, p. 63, 1992

Chicago piano noun

an anti-aircraft gun or other automatic weapon US, 1941

- A submachine gun is a Chicago piano. — Austin (Texas) American-Statesman, p. A15, 4th December 1999
- Floyd Farragut recalled the South Pacific and the war there, the anti-aircraft guns they called "Chicago pianos." — Florida Times-Union, p. B1, 31st May 1999

Chicago pill noun

a bullet US, 1949

- — Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 48, 1949

Chicago typewriter noun

a fully automatic weapon US, 1963

- His weapon of choice was the "Chicago typewriter," the submachine gun prized by warring Chicago mobs. — Boston Globe, p. A29, 24th September 1989

Chicano noun

a Mexican-American US, 1947

Originally a slur; by the later 1960s a term of self-identification and pride.

- "What business has a Chicano got to love a man like you?" — Thurston Scott, Cure it with Honey, p. 209, 1951
- His name is Oscar Acosta; he's a Chicano lawyer who's heavily involved in that action. — Hunter S. Thompson, Fear and Loathing in America, p. 83, 24th May 1968: Letter to Jim Bellows
- A few frames of Chicano heroes highlighted the corners: Cesar Chavez, the father of the United Farm Workers. — Denise Chavez, Loving Pedro Infante, p. 136, 2001

Chicano time noun

used for denoting a lack of punctuality US, 1972

- "He's keeping C.P. time—colored people and Chicano time" one of the postal academy sign carriers cried[.] — San Francisco Examiner, p. 6, 24th May 1972
- Sonny knew they were going to be late for the opening pitch. What the hell, it was summer and they were operating on Chicano time. — Rudolfo Anaya, Zia Summer, p. 260, 1995
- I got there "Chicano time," late. — Gary Soto, The Afterlife, p. 130, 2003

chichi man noun

a lookout US, 1977

- The chichi man, he's outside watching. — John Allen, Assault with a Deadly Weapon, p. 38, 1977

chi-chis noun

a woman's breasts US, 1961

- "Oh yeah," I said, seeing only a blur and feeling one of those heavy chi-chis resting on my shoulder. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Blue Knight, p. 24, 1973
- Still astride him after sex in their sixdollar room at the Jupiter Hotel overlooking the Strip, she laughed: "Big ass and chichis is all you love." — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 20, 1990
- I, on the other hand, seize the synchronous opportunity to stare at those Monster Chi-Chis for ninety splendid minutes. — Marty Beckerman, Death to All Cheerleaders, p. 125, 2000
- Maria's first English-language role consisted of her plump and perky chi-chis doing the talking[.] — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin's Skincyclopedia, p. 475, 2005

chick noun

1 a young woman US, 1899

- To give you an idea of what a sweet thing she was, children, I'll just say she was not only a lovely little girl; she was a fine chick. — Steve Allen, Bop Fables, p. 36, 1955
- I met chicks who were fine as May wine, and cats who were hip to all happenings. — Malcolm X and Alex Haley, The Autobiography of Malcolm X, p. 56, 1964
- Says that he lived in North Beach and all that, and that he has this chick who writes him who is a member of the DuBois Club in Frisco. — Eldridge Cleaver, Soul on Ice, p. 46, 1968
- [S]pace should be available for chicks to sew dresses, make pants to order, recut garments to fit, etc. — The Digger Papers, p. 15, August 1968
- — Washington Post Magazine, p. W8, 3rd February 1991

2 cocaine US, 1990

- One of many variations on the cocaine-as-female theme. — Gilda and Melvin Berger, Drug Abuse A-Z, p. 43, 1990

chicken noun

1 a young prostitute US, 2002

- Sunny put me in charge of making a chicken out of her, and I was taking my responsibility seriously. — David Henry Sterry, Chicken, p. 153, 2002

2 a woman US, 1981

- Three of the groping, licking, grinding pairs of cops and chickens had managed everything but penetration. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Glitter Dome, p. 2, 1981

3 a boy, usually under the age of consent, who is the target of homosexual advances UK, 1910

- The drug-pitch skulls would rather tear off with a wallet than transact an actual exchange, and they make the chicken fags seem like the most discreet commodity on the street. — Josh Alan Friedman, Tales of Times Square, p. 51, 1986
- Like seeing a big new car with Ohio plates come driving up in front of that skinny little ten-year-old chicken selling his tender ass for a night's bed and board. — Robert Campbell, Alice in La-La Land, p. 9, 1987
- And feature—him and that bottle-blond fruitcake are porking in trailers every chance they get, and chasing chicken down at the Fern Delle toilets. — James Ellroy, White Jazz, p. 59, 1992

4 a test of wills in which two cars drive directly at each other until one driver—the loser—veers off course US, 1950

- Below in “chicken” drivers race at each other; first to turn aside is “chicken.” — Whisper Magazine, p. 23, May 1950; Flaming Youth Rides Again
- I used to play “chicken” on Miceltorena when I was a kid. Rebel Without A Cause had just come out and chicken was in. — James Ellroy, Blood on the Moon, p. 160, 1984

5 marijuana US, 1997

- Jim Emerson-Cobb, Scratching the Dragon, April 1997

chicken adjective scared, cowardly, afraid US, 1933

- “You’re chicken,” Sheik said contemptuously, sucking another puff. — Chester Himes, The Real Cool Killers, p. 49, 1959
- What are ya, chicken, Charlie? — The Hustler, 1961
- It was true that he was becoming afraid, but he was even more afraid of being called “chicken” if he refused to go with them. — Nathan Heard, Howard Street, p. 62, 1968
- If you passed it [a joint] on, no-one would call you chicken or anything[.] — Macfarlane, Macfarlane and Robson, The User, p. 32, 1996

chickenbird colonel noun

a full colonel US, 1973

- I want you to understand that I was a big, chickenbird colonel and that I loved the army and loved being a soldier. — Walter Sheldon, Gold Bait, p. 26, 26

chickenboard noun

an armored chest protector US

- I carried an armored chest protector (called a “chickenboard”), a flak jacket, ballistic helmet, bowie knife, two pistols, two big boxes of pistol ammo, a survivor radio, and a survival kit. — Chuck Carlock, Firebirds, p. 56, 1995

chickenbone special noun

any small, local railroad US, 1970

- After all, the Chickenbone Special ran both ways. The Dixie Highway goes south from Ohio as well as north to it. — John Shelton Reed, My Tears Spoiled my Aim, p. 108, 1993

chicken bus noun

a troop transport bus US

From the chicken wire that covered the windows in the hope of keeping enemy grenades outside the bus.

- I caught a “chicken bus” with wire mesh over the windows to keep out grenades. — Craig Roberts, The Walking Dead: A Marine’s Story of Vietnam, p. 121, 1989

chicken colonel noun

in the US Army, a full colonel US, 1918

From the eagle insignia of the rank.

- That was the first time anybody ever told me they’re proud of me, and it’s a full chicken colonel in the U.S. Army! — Rocky Garciano (with Rowland Barber), Somebody Up There Likes Me, p. 235, 1955
- But I’ve seen the Air Force turn out generals and chicken colonels in brigade strength to welcome junketing congressmen. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 27, 9th April 1966

chicken coop noun

a women’s jail or prison US, 1949

- Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 49, 1949

chicken crank noun

an amphetamine fed to chickens to accelerate their egg-laying US, 1989

- Geoffrey Froner, Digging for Diamonds, p. 68, 1989

chicken dinner noun

a pretty woman US, 1946

- When we saw one of buddies blowing his top over some chicken dinner we pitied him for going tangent[.] — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 78, 1946
- Kenn “Naz” Young, Naz’s Underground Dictionary, p. 20, 1973

chickenfeed noun

1 a less than generous amount of money US, 1836

- Marcus Hanna Boulware, Life and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947
- He comes from one of the few states where there is no gangsterism except in picayune city and county affairs, and in those the Republicans share the chicken-feed rewards. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 195, 1951
- Harry would turn up his nose and say: “Chickenfeed. Not interested.” — Charles Raven, Underworld Nights, p. 101, 1956

2 methamphetamine US, 1964

- She believes crystals are a form of Methedrine and that “they’re called chicken feed because they’re actually given to chickens.” — San Francisco News Call Bulletin, p. 3, 17th February 1964

chicken fink noun

an unlikeable, disloyal person US, 1973

- You chicken fink! — American Graffiti, 1973

chickenguts noun

braided military decorations US, 1943

- Resplendent in feathers and loops of gold braid known locally as “chicken guts,” his personal staff included Hungarians and Italians. — Albuquerque (New Mexico) Journal, p. 5, 1st September 2000

chickenhawk noun

1 during a war, someone who supports the war but avoids military service themselves US, 1988

Most high-profile members of the US government (President Bush and Vice President Cheney being the most prominent) and right-wing radio entertainers (Rush Limbaugh being the most prominent) who supported the 2003 invasion of Iraq avoided active military service in Vietnam during their youth, a fact which gave the term a second life.

- Vann had warned Komer that if he arrived with less authority and access, he would be eaten by the chicken hawks. — Neil Sheehan, A Bright Shining Lie, p. 656, 1988
- What do you get when you cross a chicken and a hawk? A Quayle. — Maledicta, p. 256, 1988–1989
- Here’s a list of pro-war Republicans who had better things to do than serve in the military: Dick Cheney, Bill Frist, Tom DeLay, Dennis Hastert, Pat Buchanan, Newt Gingrich, George Will, and a couple of talk-show geeks I’ll call Rust Lambug and Shame Han[.] — Leaf-Chronicle (Clarksville, Tennessee), p. 13A, 20 April 2003
- Limbaugh is a prime example of what is known as a Chicken Hawk—a noisy, preening master of the martial art of talking who, back when it was a question of getting anywhere near harm’s way for the sake of his country, discovered that he had (as Vice President Cheney once put it, explaining his own absence from the fray) “other priorities.” — New York, p. 39, 27th October 2003

2 a mature homosexual man who seeks much younger men as sexual partners US, 1965

- Basically the Flamingo Isles was a dive for pimps, chicken hawks, and hookers. — Carl Hiaasen, Tourist Season, p. 33, 1986
- [A]nd instead of a chicken hawk flagging him inside with a twenty-dollar bill, his old mother, wrapped in furs and flashing newly capped teeth, comes rushing out. — Robert Campbell, Alice in La-La Land, p. 9, 1987
- [W]e three go up there frequently, proud to still elicit, in our postteen years, the lurid howls of chickenhawks as we pass on by. — Jim Carroll, Forced Entries, p. 7, 1987
- The next day Jules was in several adult magazine and book shops in downtown San Diego looking for chickenhawk and pedophile publications. — Joseph Wambaugh, Finnegan’s Week, p. 18, 1993

3 by extension, a woman who seeks out young male lovers US, 1978

- “She’s a chickenhawk!” Natalie sneered. “These kids come and go hourly through her zoo.” — Joseph Wambaugh, The Black Marble, p. 306, 1978

chickenhead noun

1 a person performing oral sex on a man US, 1996

Also “chickhead.” From the bobbing motion.

- Thinkin’ of this chickenhead I stuck my dick in. — Originoon Gunn Clapaz, Elite Fleet, 1996
- Rap made slang aimed at women like “skeezer,” “hootchie,” “chickenhead,” and the ubiquitous “bitch”[.] — Nelson George, Hip Hop America, p. 186, 1998

2 an aggressive or violent woman US, 1980

- Edith A. Folb, runnin’ down some lines, p. 232, 1980

3 a foolish, frivolous person US, 1906

- Your reviewer, who never put any chips on [bet on] the old chickenhead anyWay[.] — Lester Bangs, Psychotic Reactions and Carburetor Dung, p. 162, 1976
- Don R. McCreary (Editor), Dawg Speak, 2001

chickenkiller noun

a Cuban or Haitian US

From the stereotype of Cubans and Haitians as voodoo practitioners sacrificing chickens in religious rites; insulting.

- Somebody who thought American but worked for the chickenkillers. — Elmore Leonard, Stick, p. 86, 1983

chicken out verb

to lose courage and retreat from an endeavor US, 1934

- I hope he points out that Chicago Yippies also signed the permit request and all the local Yippies, even those who chickened out, are working on the Festival harder than ever. — Abbie Hoffman, Revolution for the Hell of It, p. 110, 1968
- I was wondering if he had chickened out again, when he came down the sidewalk and got in the Buick beside me. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Trick Baby, p. 223, 1969

chicken pimp noun

a pimp who works with young male prostitutes US, 2002

- “He certainly doesn’t look like a chicken pimp.” — David Henry Sterry, Chicken, p. 43, 2002

chickenplate noun

a steel vest that helicopter and other aircrew wore in the Vietnam war, designed as bulletproof US, 1971

- We don’t even have the armour plate for our chests—“chicken plate”—that the helicopter pilots did in Vietnam. — Orson Scott Card, Endor’s Game, p. xxiii, 1985
- Before we climbed in, Terzala grabbed him. “Major,” he said, “today you need to wear your chicken plate. You are not getting on this helo until you put it on.” Franks didn’t usually wear the chicken plate, but he took Terzala’s advice and put it on. — Tom Clancy with Fred Franks Jr., Into the Storm, p. 58, 1991
- We did have what we called chicken plates, ceramic plates that we wore as a vest. It had Velcro that went around your chest. They were relatively small, but supposedly would protect your vitals from a small-caliber round. — Ron Steinman, The Soldiers’ Story, pp. 231–231, 1999
- [H]e fingered the scar on the side of his face where the AK-47 round had settled in his teeth after rifling through the small observation helicopter, up across his “chicken plate.” — Kregg Jorgenson, Very Crazy G.I., p. 77, 2001

chicken powder noun

amphetamine in powdered form US, 1971

- Edward R. Bloomquist, Marijuana, p. 336, 1971

chicken queen noun

a mature male homosexual who is especially attracted to boys or young men US, 1963

- Donald Webster Cory and John P. LeRoy, The Homosexual and His Society, p. 262, 1963: “A lexicon of homosexual slang”
- I hope you’re not a chicken queen. I’m twenty-six. — Armistead Maupin, Tales of the City, p. 134, 1978

- Natch, he eventually leaves her for girls his own age and poor Lola becomes an anxiety ridden chicken queen. — John Waters, Crackpot, p. 113, 1986
- Boy prostitutes are typically referred to on the streets as chickens, while homosexual men that solicit young male prostitutes are known as chicken hawks or chicken queens. — R. Barri Flowers, Runaway Kids and Teenage Prostitution, p. 139, 2001

chicken ranch noun

a rural brothel US, 1973

Originally the name of a brothel in LaGrange, Texas, and then spread to more generic use.

- Hey, you don't make a thousand bucks tax-free by staying in bed unless you're working at one of those chicken ranches in Nevada. — Joseph Wambaugh, Fugitive Nights, p. 43, 1992

chickenshit noun

a coward US, 1929

- [A]ll the Richard Hells are chickenshits who trash the precious gift too blithely[.] — Lester Bangs, Psychotic Reactions and Carburetor Dung, p. 267, 1977
- When did they start hiring chickenshits like you on Robbery-Homicide, Krantz? — Robert Crais, L.A. Requiem, p. 44, 1999

chickenshit adjective

cowardly US, 1934

- They after my job, the chickenshit bastards! — Ralph Ellison, Invisible Man, p. 228, 1947
- "They want to destroy religion. They're chickenshit," Marty said. — James T. Farrell, Saturday Night, p. 35, 1947
- He got mad at the guys from acting too cagey—too chicken-shit, he called it. — Ken Kesey, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, p. 113, 1962
- Then cut to me talking about the two chickenshit psychiatrists and straight in Dr. Reinghold laughing. — Natural Born Killers, 1994

chicken skin noun

the sensation and physical manifestation of the chills US, 1981

- Hawaiian youth usage, instead of the more common "goose bumps."
- When we wen kees, ah got chicken skin! — Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max, 1981 chicken switch noun

a switch that will abort a mission; a notional switch that will end a project US, 1960

- A quick-thinking sailor hit the "chicken switch" in the control room, which blew the main ballast tanks and brought the Edison to the surface. — Chicago Tribune, p. C1, 9th January 1991
- And a switch, the chicken switch. The purpose was that if anything at all went wrong, we could disconnect. — Providence (Rhode Island) Journal-Bulletin, p. 1A, 16th July 1995

chick flick noun

a movie that is designed to appeal to a female audience US, 1993

- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Spring 1998
- Boys and young men will simply refuse to see the "chick flicks" their girlfriends and wives want to attend, while females will accommodate their boyfriends and husbands. — National Review, 16th June 2001 chickie!

used as warning US, 1934

- Then, almost before it began, it was over, for a lookout on the corner heard sirens, and yelled, "Chickie, the nabs!" — Hal Ellison, Tombay, p. 110, 1950
- [A]s he was jumping off the fender Angus shouted chickie! — Gilbert Sorrentino, Steelwork, p. 53, 1970

chickie; chick noun

1 a lookout or decoy US, 1934

- Not having anyone to lay chickie for me, I had to do it quicker than most of the time. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 31, 1965
- They searched for a money belt and ripped his shoes from his feet while Butch and Brother played chickie. — Nathan Heard, Howard Street, p. 67, 1968
- You don't have to take part, play chickie. — Miguel Pinero, Short Eyes, p. 92, 1975
- I went in but now I had nobody to lie chickie for me[.] — Herbert Huncke, Guilty of Everything, p. 102, 1990

2 a young girl US, 1919

- Teen slang.
- "Don't scream, chickies, or try leaving this place." — Georgia Sothern, My Life in Burlesque, p. 161, 1972
- Shit never been his pleasure, but as you say, maybe it's for some chickie friend. — Elmore Leonard, 52 Pick-up, p. 146, 1974

chickie poo noun

a young and beautiful girl US, 1981

Recorded in the usage of counterculturalists associated with the Rainbow Nation.

- You didn't come home last night. What were you up to, out messing around with all the chickie-poops? — John Nichols, The Nirvana Blues, p. 90, 1981
- If I was a cute young chickie-poo with big boobs, I would be seen as flirtatious, looking for action. — St. Petersburg (Florida) Times, p. 1F, 13th April 2003

chick with a dick noun

a transsexual or, rarely, a hermaphrodite US, 1989

Almost always plural.

- They got a "Chicks with Dicks" sex show I'd like to check out before I order my corn-beef sandwich with a side of potato salad. — Scott Sommer, Still Lives, p. 199, 1989
- Asserting that neither the "glamorized" movie stars nor the queens are desirable (they are "asexual," despite the evidence of star fan clubs and Chicks-with-Dicks phone sex numbers) Bersani condemns them to/for masturbation. — Diana Fuss, Inside/Out, p. 39, 1991
- All right, but you're missing out. Chicks with dicks. — Clerks, 1994
- Chicks with dicks are a heavy date. — Ethan Morden, Some Men Are Lookers, p. 37, 1997

chicle noun

heroin US, 1994

Spanish for "gum," alluding to the gummy nature of heroin that has not been processed to powder form.

- — US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994

chiclet keyboard noun

a computer keyboard with small plastic keys US, 1991

A visual allusion to a branded chewing gum.

- Customers rejected the idea with almost equal unanimity, and chiclets are not often seen on anything larger than a digital watch any more. — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 94, 1991

Chicom noun

a soldier from the People's Republic of China; a Chinese communist US, 1967

- On a three-hundred-mile front, countless thousands of Chinese Communists—"Chicoms," as MacArthur's headquarters had begun to call them, had howled down from what the General had previously described as "a rugged spinal mountain range" too precipitous to shelter troops. — William Manchester, American Caesar, p. 726, 1978

Chicom adjective

Chinese communist US, 1964

- He had apparently never seen a "Chicom" grenade before[.] — Martin Russ, Happy Hunting Ground, p. 204, 1968
- The American side wanted the British to support United States political policy on China, while noting that this would "make it easier to meet the British views on some of the trade matters and the alignment of the Cocom and Chicom lists." — Michael A. Guhlin, John Foster Dulles, p. 296, 1972
- [A] young man or a boy who wore a cap with a short visor and held a Chicom machine gun across his skinny knees[.] — Elmore Leonard, Mr. Majesty, p. 146, 1974
- We grabbed the weapons. I gave them a quick once-over. They were Chicom AK-47s. — Richard Marcinko, Rogue Warrior, p. 116, 1992

chief noun

1 LSD US, 1966

- — Donald Louria, Nightmare Drugs, p. 45, 1966
- — Steve Salaets, Ye Olde Hipnionary, 1970

2 used as a term of address US, 1935

- Jocular, sometimes suggesting deference.
- Roll up your sleeve, chief. — Clerks, 1994

chief verb

in a group smoking marijuana, to hog the cigarette or pipe US, 1997

- — Jim Emerson-Cobb, Scratching the Dragon, April 1997

chief cook and bottle washer noun used as a humorous title for someone with important duties and responsibilities US, 1840

Often, not always, used with irony.

- Mother as "chief cook and bottle washer," responsible for all tasks that she cannot effectively delegate. — Howard Becker, Family, Marriage and Parenthood, p. 545, 1948
- Suppose you had a father like me—chief cook and bottle-washer at sea, and jack-of-all-trades on land. — S.N. Behrman et al., Fanny, p. 127, 1955
- G.M. Allen, cocolorum firechief, the town's chief cook and bottle washer, got up and spoke with hawkshaw eloquence. — Joe Eszterhas, Charlie Simpson's Apocalypse, p. 23, 1973
- The dads wore aprons that said "Chief Cook and Bottle Washer," and they grilled burgers and hot dogs on backyard barbecues. — Caroline Kettlewell, Skin Game, p. 36, 1999

chief itch and rub noun

an organization's key leader US, 2001

- Do all successful athletic teams need an on-the-field leader, or leaders? If so, who are UTEP's chief itch and rubs this football season? — El Paso (Texas) Times, p. 1C, 22nd August 2001

chief of dicks noun

a police chief US, 1972

- There was a guy named Dick Shopus, he's dead, he was a chief of dicks [Chief of Police Detectives] in Portland and he was a dirty rotten bugger. — Harry King, Box Man, p. 44, 1972

chief of heat noun

a noncommissioned officer commanding an artillery battery US, 1988

- — Hans Halberstadt, Airborne, p. 130, 1988

chief of staff noun

a soldier's girlfriend back home US, 1965

Vietnam war usage.

- Yeah, I believe you numbah one soldier 'cuz you write chief of staff in states alla time. — Tony Zidek, Choi Oi, p. 123, 1965

Chieu Hoi ticket noun

a flyer offering safe passage for Vietnamese sympathetic to the US, including ex-Viet Cong US

- Of course, the bastard had a Chieu Hoi ticket on him. — Christopher Ronnau, Blood Trails, p. 256, 2006

chile pimp noun

a pimp, especially a Mexican-American pimp, who has no professional pride and only mediocre success in the field US, 1972

- Black pimps never solicit for their women if they are "true pimps," and call a man who does a cigarette pimp, popcorn pimp, or chile pimp. — Christina and Richard Milner, Black Players, p. 33, 1972

- After Vietnam they had taken up where they'd left off. Bessie working, Free Lee chili pimpin' and trying to be nickel slick[.] — Odie Hawkins, The Busting Out of an Ordinary Man, pp. 137–138, 1985
- chili adjective
- Mexican US, 1936
- “No es un problema, chiquita,” he said confidently, flashing a little chili chatter he'd picked up in the tomato fields of the Youth Authority. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 64, 1990
- chili bean noun
- a Mexican or Mexican-American; any Spanish-speaking person US, 1980
- Derogatory.
- — Edith A. Folb, runnin' down some lines, p. 232, 1980
- chili belly noun
- a Mexican or Mexican-American US, 1967
- Junior snarls, “Lissen to the chili bellies cheer that lucky fart.” — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Doom Fox, p. 179, 1978
- chili bowl; chili-bowl haircut noun
- an untapered haircut that looks as if the barber simply placed a bowl on the person's head and trimmed around the edge of the bowl US, 1960
- A group of boys with mohawks sporting leather and chains would be more likely to be asked to “leave the premises” before a bunch of boys with chili-bowl haircuts and blue jeans. — Tulsa (Oklahoma) World, 15th January 1999
- chili chaser noun
- an agent of the US Immigration and Naturalization Service Border Patrol US, 1956
- — Maledicta, p. 166, 1979: “A glossary of ethnic slurs in American English”
- chili choker noun
- a Mexican or Mexican-American US, 1990
- Derogatory.
- That same night the niggers and chilichokers dragged that boy back to the showers[.] — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 152, 1990
- chili chomper noun
- a Mexican or Mexican-American US, 1970
- Derogatory.
- — Current Slang, p. 15, Spring 1970
- chili eater noun
- a Mexican or Mexican-American US, 1911
- Derogatory.
- Mexican officials accused the Canadian catcher, Alex Andreopoulos, of provoking their players by calling them “chili-eaters.” — Los Angeles Times, p. C8, 11th August 1991
- chill noun
- death US, 1975
- But they got him into the hospital and they saved jack Fox from the chill. — James Carr, Bad, p. 139, 1975
- chill verb
- 1 to kill someone US, 1947
- — Marcus Hanna Boulware, Live and Stang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947
 - Remember the night Stein got chilled out front? — Raymond Chandler, The Little Sister, p. 247, 1949
- 2 to calm down; to be calm US, 1979
- Chill, brah. You know who this is? — Point Break, 1991
 - “Griff,” Todd said, “just chill, man.” — Francesca Lia Block, I Was a Teenage Fairy, p. 109, 1998
- 3 to idle US, 1972
- [E]ver since I first sat chilling and rocking to things like John Coltrane's Africa / Brass[.] — Lester Bangs, Psychotic Reactions and Carburetor Dung, p. 104, 1972
 - All are talking, drinking and chilling. — Boyz N The Hood, p. 67, 1990
- chill like a megavillain
- to relax US, 1992
- Especially effective in the participle form—“chillin.”
- — Surfer Magazine, p. 30, February 1992
- chill the beef; chill the rap
- to escape prosecution by bribery or intimidation of witnesses US, 1950
- — Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 43, 1950
- chill adjective
- 1 calm, unexcited US, 1987
- — Washington Post Magazine, p. 17, 13th September 1987
- 2 excellent US, 1989
- We were sniffing all night long. It was chill. — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 33, 1989
- chilled adjective
- calm, relaxed US, 1992
- He had a big .45 Army pistol and generally just flashing it kept the kids chilled and shit to a minimum. — Jess Mowry, Way Past Cool, p. 31, 1992
- chill factor noun
- a notional measure of fashionability and popularity US, 1993
- “Sides, man, chill factor in this hood be directly proportional to the long of your green.” — Jess Mowry, Six Out Seven, p. 17, 1993
- chill out verb
- 1 to calm down, to relax US, 1983
- We just chillin' out, drinkin' a little Bird, that's all. — Odie Hawkins, Great Lawd Buddha, p. 11, 1990
 - JULES: Tell that bitch to be cool! Say, bitch be cool! Say, bitch be cool! PUMPKIN: Chill out, honey! — Pulp Fiction, 1994
 - Chill out, Phil. Four deputies and you, I can live with that. — Natural Born Killers, 1994
- 2 to calm (someone) down US, 1988
- But it chills me out. I sit down in the folding chair and relax, empty my mind of all the crap. — Jay McInerney, Story of My Life, p. 8, 1988
- chill pill noun
- a mythical pill that will induce calm US, 1982
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 8, Spring 1982
 - “I ain't gonna be messin around, cuz. I'm on a chill pill.” — Bob Sipchen, Baby Insane and the Buddha, p. 188, 1993
 - Okay, you got it. Just take a chill pill, for Christ's sake. — Jackie Brown, 1997
- chill time noun
- time to relax US, 2004
- I gotta have some chill time too. — Hustle and Flow, 2004
- chill with you later
- used as a farewell US, 1987
- — Washington Post Magazine, p. 17, 13th September 1987
- chilly adjective
- 1 excellent, fashionable, desirable US, 1971
- I was a chilly homeboy, yes / I was down because I came to school just to mess around. — All for Love, School, 1985
- 2 cold-hearted US, 1971
- That's awful chilly, I tol' her. — Joseph Nazel, Black Cop, p. 144, 1974
- chilly most adjective
- calm and collected US, 1992
- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 48, 1992
- chime noun
- an hour US, 1946
- At the Mexican's we could at least get loaded on good hay and forget our misery for a couple of chimes. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 164, 1946
 - — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 235, 1948: “A glossary of Harlemisms”
- chimer noun
- a clock or watch US, 1973
- I asked him what time was it just to see if my chimer was right[.] — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 128, 1973
- chimp verb
- while taking digital photographs, to review every photo taken on the camera display screen US
- This leads to a lot of “Chimping”, 5 or 6 of us looking at our preview screens to examine each backhand.” — Robert Deutsch, “Open & Shut Case,” Sports Shooter, 27th September 1999
- chin noun
- gossip, idle conversation UK, 1862
- Call me sometime and we'll have a good chin. I'm in the book. — Max Shulman, Rally Round the Flag, Boys!, p. 209, 1957
- chin verb
- to talk idly US, 1872
- They used to spend more time chinning than cheating, around here. — Philip Wylie, Opus 21, p. 112, 1949
 - One night in Hutton's, Kiefer had started chinning about Leo's interest in missing heirs. — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 208, 1954
 - I've got nothing to do except sit around chinning with little girls like you. — John M. Murtagh and Sara Harris, Cast the First Stone, p. 45, 1957
- chin; chin bubble noun
- a downward facing window on the front of a helicopter or fixed-wing aircraft US
- They had so many, in fact, that they kept the extras up in the chin bubbles. — Robert Mason, Chickenhawk, p. 402, 1983
 - An Antonov An-12 Cub, alright, with a glass chin for the navigator to peer out of. — Stephen Coonts, Final Flight, p. 369, 1988
- china noun
- teeth; false teeth US, 1942
- — John R. Armore and Joseph D. Wolfe, Dictionary of Desperation, p. 24, 1976
- China cat noun
- strong heroin US, 1994
- — US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994
- china chin noun
- (of a boxer or fighter) a vulnerability to blows on the chin US, 1940
- “Lennox has a china chin,” Dundee said. — Los Angeles Times, p. 4 (Sports Section), 21st June 2003
- China circuit noun
- in the language of traveling performances, a circuit of small, unsophisticated towns US, 1973
- Named after the Pennsylvania towns of Pottstown, Pottsville and Chambersburg, all of which were home to chamber pot manufacturing concerns.
- — Sherman Louis Sergel, The Language of Show Biz, p. 49, 1973
- China clipper noun
- a dishwasher, human or mechanical US, 1966
- Vietnam war usage.
- — Columbus (Ohio) Citizen-Journal, p. 14, 21st July 1966
 - — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 9, 1968

Chinaman *noun1 an addiction to heroin or another opiate US, 1948

- Is getting that Chinaman off his back, too. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Neal Cassidy, p. 175, 8 December 1948
- You know, man, Win's just about got the Chinaman off her back! — John Clellon Holmes, Go, p. 81, 1952
- The Chinaman's riding you, huh? — Willard Motley, Let No Man Write My Epitaph, p. 91, 1958
- She just kicked, she ain't got to worry about the Chinaman no more. — Donald Goines, Dopefiend, p. 130, 1971

2 in politics, a mentor or protector US, 1973

A term from Chicago, a major cradle of machine politics in the US.

- Chinaman (Polit.)—Political sponsor. Your personal clout, your man upstairs. — Bill Reilly, Big Al's Official Guide to Chicagoese, p. 21, 1982
- Then comes my Chinaman—who is called a rabbi in New York, a mentor in the colleges and a political sponsor elsewhere—Delvin, who has plenty of jobs to give out since the shit has to be kept moving. — Robert Campbell, Junkyard Dog, pp. 7–8, 1986

Chinaman's chance; Chinaman's nounan absence of luck, no real chance at all US, 1911

Reflecting the status of the Chinese population of early C20 US.

- But I remember when I started running, my opponent's campaign headquarters had a sign with a quote: TOM DOESN'T HAVE A CHINAMAN'S CHANCE. — Culture Clash, Culture Clash in America, p. 21, 2003

Chinamat *noun*an inexpensive Chinese restaurant US, 1979

- — Maledicta, p. 155, 1979: "A glossary of ethnic slurs in American English"

China white *noun*heroin; less frequently, cocaine US, 1974

The presumed location of the drug's origin (although it's just as likely to come from Pakistan, Afghanistan or Thailand) plus the color.

- China White they called it when they had first seen the stuff from New York City. — Donald Goines, Never Die Alone, p. 53, 1974
- DEALER: Hey, man. You wanna cop some blow? / JUNKIE: Sure, watcha got? Dust, flakes or rocks? / DEALER: I got China White, Mother of Pearl... I reflect what you need. — Grandmaster Flash and The Furious Five featuring Melle Mel, White Lines, 1983
- They're dealing China white out of the place like they had a license. — Gerald Petievich, The Quality of the Informant, p. 57, 1985
- Though China White is often packaged by refiners in 700-gram bricks, known as units, the universal measure in the global narcotics business is the 1,000-gram kilo. — New York Times, p. SM27, 23rd June 2002

chinch; chintz *noun*a bedbug UK, 1625

- I found out then that chinchies never die. When they get tired of scuffling for their chow and want to retire, they just go and live happily forever after in the Band House. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 34, 1946
- We called them chinchies, and they were all over the place, hardbiting armies in constant battle formation[.] — Ethel Waters, His Eye is on the Sparrow, p. 9, 1951
- One night as I awoke a little wee chintz spoke to me as I raised my head / He said, "Don't you get rough and don't you get tough, for you and I both must share this bed." — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 211, 1966
- Her dead didn't feel too good and her mouth tasted like she had been eating Harlem chinchies. — Robert Deane Pharr, S.R.O., p. 187, 1971 chin check *verb*to test someone's willingness to fight by punching them in the chin US

- — Matt Soniak, "50 Prison Slang Words to Make You Sound Like a Tough Guy," mentalfloss.com, 17th October 2012

chin-chin *exclamation*a toast used when drinking US

- She held her glass up to his and said, "Chin-chin," which a makeup artist that Nate used to date said was "the cry of the Hills birds," meaning the women of the Hollywood Hills. — Joseph Wambaugh, Hollywood Hills, p. 61, 2010

chin-chin man *noun*a male homosexual US, 1990

- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 200, 1990

chinch pad *noun*an inexpensive, shoddy boarding house or hotel US, 1958

- — Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 36, 1970
- Vermin-infested flops were also called flea houses, flea boxes, flea traps, bug houses, louse traps, louse cages, scratch houses, and chinch pads. — Irving Lewis Allen, The City in Slang, p. 156, 1993

chinchy *adjective1 cheap; parsimonious, stingy UK, 1400

- I guess when you get into the atom-bomb class of brains, you get pretty chinchy everywhere else. — Philip Wylie, Opus 21, p. 351, 1949
- "You all are so chinchy," Lowry lectured company officials. — Daniel J. Clark, Like Night & Day, p. 60, 1997
- Spending by a few board members does seem high, and billing the state $151.21 for attending the funeral of a legislator's wife seems especially chinchy. [Editorial] — Charleston Daily Mail (West Virginia), p. 4A, 2nd March 2000

2 infested with bedbugs US, 1961

- What in the world would these important big-time musicians want to hang around a chinchy old uptown joint like this for? — Ross Russell, The Sound, p. 216, 1961

chinee *noun1 a free ticket to a sporting event US, 1981

- — Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 52, 1981

2 a Chinese person US, 1871

- [A] little Chinee impression of Judge Ito. — Howard Stern, Miss America, p. 138, 1995

Chinese *noun*in circus and carnival usage, hard work, especially hard work without payment US, 1981

- — Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 52, 1981

Chinese *adjective*in horse racing, said of blurred numbers on the tote board US, 1947

- — Dan Parker, The ABC of Horse Racing, p. 144, 1947

Chinese ace *noun*a pilot who makes a landing with one wing lowered; a pilot who has a reputation for crashing planes on landing *US, 1928*After CHINESE LANDING.

- — Maledicta, p. 156, 1979: "A glossary of ethnic slurs in American English"
- He called me a "damned Chinese ace"—a term developed from the reputation Chinese pilots had in those days for crashing more of their own planes than they shot down of the enemy's. — Carroll V. Glines, I Could Never Be So Lucky Again, p. 51, 1991
- A "Chinese ace" was someone who accidentally managed to destroy five planes belonging to his own air force. — Winged Victory, p. 384, 1993

Chinese auction *noun*a charity auction, in which a buyer is selected at random for each item US, 1997

- — Amy and Denise McFadden, CoalSpeak, p. 4, 1997

Chinese copy *noun*a reproduction that captures the original's defects as well as its strengths US, 1979

- — Maledicta, p. 156, 1979: "A glossary of ethnic slurs in American English"

Chinese cure *noun*an all-natural treatment for the symptoms associated with withdrawal from heroin addiction US, 1953

- A variation of it is known as the Chinese cure, which is carried out with hop and Wampole's Tonic. — William Burroughs, Junkie, p. 63, 1953

Chinese dolly *noun*in the television and movie industries, a dolly on slanted tracks US, 1987

- — Ira Konigsberg, The Complete Film Dictionary, p. 47, 1987

Chinese fashion *adverb*sex with both participants lying on their sides, the active male lying behind his partner US, 1980

- — Maledicta, p. 198, Winter 1980: "A new erotic vocabulary"

Chinese fire drill *noun1 any situation in which confusion reigns *US, 19462 From a prank loved by generations of American youth in which a car full of people stops at a red light and the passengers suddenly leap from the car, run around it, and get back in as the light turns green US, 1972

Frequent use in the Vietnam war.

- "We're doing nothing but running a fucking Chinese fire drill." — Charles Henderson, Goodnight Saigon, 2008

Chinese landing *noun*the typical angling of an airplane when it lands in Antarctica, with one wing low US, 1918

Humor based on the premise that "one wing low" has a certain Chinese ring to it.

- — Cool Antarctica, 2003: "Antarctic slang"

Chinese needlework *noun*intravenous use of narcotics US, 1942

- — Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 49, 1949
- Do you go for Chinese needlework, reindeer dust [powdered drugs], Texas tea [marijuana]—that kind of stuff? — Douglas Rutherford, The Creeping Flesh, p. 49, 1963
- — Maledicta, p. 156, 1979: "A glossary of ethnic slurs in American English"

Chinese rocks *noun*relatively pure heroin US, 1975

- Wanna go cop / Wanna go get some Chinese Rock / I'm livin' on Chinese Rocks — Dee Dee Ramone and Richard Hell, Chinese Rocks, 1975

Chinese rong *noun*a nonexistent disease suffered by soldiers US, 1947

- — American Speech, p. 305, December 1947: "Imaginary diseases in army and navy parlance"

Chinese rot *noun*any unidentified skin disease or sexually transmitted infection US, 1940

- Imagine the worst of the fungoid-type skin diseases you have ever encountered—ringworm, Dhobie itch, athlete's foot, Chinese rot, saltwater itch, seven year itch. — Logic of Empire, (reprinted in The Green Hills of Earth), p. 225, 1951

Chinese tobacco *noun*opium US, 1951

- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 49, 1971
- — Maledicta, p. 156, 1979: "A glossary of ethnic slurs in American English"

chingazos *noun*fisticuffs; blows US, 1965

Border Spanish used in English conversation by Mexican-Americans.

- Calo has terms for activities, such as eating (refinar), drinking (pistiar), fighting (chingazos), and dancing (borlotear). — George R. Alvarez, Semiotic Dynamics of an Ethnic-American Sub-Cultural Group, p. 10, 1965
- — Dagoberto Fuentes and Jose Lopez, Barrio Language Dictionary, p. 47, 1974

chingon *noun*an important person; a leader US, 1974

Border Spanish used in English conversation by Mexican-Americans.

- — Dagoberto Fuentes and Jose Lopez, Barrio Language Dictionary, p. 48, 1974

Chink *noun1 a Chinese person US, 1878

Derives from “ching-ching,” the phonetic interpretation of a Chinese courtesy, adopted as a racist term, now obsolete; this abbreviated, still derogatory, variation is much used in Britain and the US. Variants are “Chinkie” and “Chinky.”

- “Sometimes a chink or wetback gets into the city with some; it doesn’t last long.” — Clarence Cooper Jr., The Scene, p. 83, 1960
- Only junk comin’ in is with the chinks and niggers, behind them spook Air Force sergeants from Nam. — Edwin Torres, After Hours, p. 169, 1979
- That’s no NVA man. That’s a chink—look at him, the cocksucker’s six and half feet tall. — Platoon, 1986
- Close up he looked like a light-skinned brother with a little Chinese or something in him. Strange-looking dude, Chink with nappy hair. — Elmore Leonard, Bandits, p. 199, 1987

2 a Vietnamese person US, 1970

- — Current Slang, p. 15, Summer 1970

Chink *adjective1 Chinese US, 1957

Old Pete men suck the black smoke in the Chink laundry back room[.]

- — William Burroughs, Naked Lunch, p. 6, 1957
- “I don’t have time to waste bringing in guys whose idea of a big score is hitting a Chink laundry for change of a dollar.” — John Ridley, Love is a Racket, p. 204, 1998

2 Vietnamese US, 1970

- — Current Slang, Summer 1970

chinkie; chinky; chink *noun*a Chinese meal US, 1948

- Hey, I got an idea. Feel like eating Chink? — Max Shulman, Anyone Got a Match?, p. 109, 1964

chink ink *noun*an indelible ink used by card cheats to mark cards US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 20, 1988

Chinks *noun*Chinese food US, 1949

- “Where we gonna eat?” “Wherever you want. Spaghetti. Chinks. Steaks.” — Irving Shulman, Cry Tough, p. 30, 1949

Chinktown *noun*an Asian neighborhood US, 1996

- I churned through Chinktown. — James Ellroy, Destination Morgue, p. 189, 2004 chin music *noun*gossip, idle conversation UK, 1826

- “Cut out all that chin music!” he would holler. — Bobby Seale, A Lonely Rage, p. 5, 1978 chin pubes *noun*sparse facial hair US, 1995

- You don’t want to be the last one at the coffee house without chin pubes. — Clueless, 1995

chinstrap *noun*a beard that follows the jawline from one ear to the other US

- Connor Cruise hit the beach on the Mexican Riviera . . . and was almost unrecognizable with dreadlocks and a chinstrap. — www.t TMZ.com, 8th May 2014

chintz *noun*a cheapskate US, 1949

- — American Weekly, p. 2, 14th August 1955

▷ see: CHINCH

chintzy *adjective*cheap, miserly, stingy UK, 1902

- There are the 1919 Chicago White Sox, infamously known as the Black Sox, who threw the World Series to make some money and to spite their chintzy owner, Charles Comiskey. — Chad Millman, The Odds, p. 38, 2001

chip *verb*to use drugs occasionally or irregularly US, 1964

Applied to all narcotics but especially heroin.

- Well, all the studs I knew was on stuff now, and their habits was a good mile long / but I thought I could chip and never get hooked, for my will was strong. — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 91, 1964
- He was only “chipping,” using drugs occasionally when they were handy, and had not yet acquired a habit. — James Mills, The Panic in Needle Park, p. 29, 1966
- Prince whistled. “He sure ain’t chippin’ then. That’s a goddamn oil-burner!” — Donald Goines, Black Gangster, p. 128, 1977
- I don’t mind chipping when I know I’m chipping—that was what we called just biting off a corner of a tab just for the buzz. — Stephen Gaskin, Amazing Dope Tales, p. 20, 1980

Chip; Chippie; Chippy *noun*a member of the California Highway Patrol US, 1977

Thanks to the 1977–1983 television series CHIPS.

- “CHIPS” stands for California Highway Patrol. The “i” was added because “CHPs” is hard to pronounce and the guys don’t like being called “Chippies.” — The Washington Post, p. D13, 15th September 1977
- He couldn’t understand what the Chippy wanted. Maybe he’d better pull over. Then an extraordinary thing happened. The Chip yelled at him so loudly it hurt. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Gitter Dome, p. 11, 1981
- The Chippie, frequently interrupted by Nelson’s “Whadhesay?” learned that the husky bald man had stashed the stolen car[.] — Joseph Wambaugh, Fugitive Nights, pp. 69–70, 1992

chip along; chip in *verb*in poker, to make the minimum bet required US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 20, 1988

chip dip *noun*an adhesive placed on a cheater’s palm, enabling him to steal chips as he helpfully slides a pile of chips in a poker game to the winner US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 19, 1988

chip head *noun*a computer enthusiast US, 1993

- — Merriam-Webster’s Hot Words on Campus Marketing Survey ’93, p. 2, 13th October 1993

chippy *verb*to use drugs occasionally and not habitually US, 1924

Applied particularly to heroin.

- “Hoss was his Boss.” He had chipped around and gotten hooked. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 63, 1969 chippy; chippie *noun1 a person who uses addictive drugs occasionally withoutdeveloping a habit US, 1924

- She’s no chippie, man. — Alexander Trocchi, Cain’s Book, p. 29, 1960

2 a modest drug addiction US, 1964

- At the moment, like Sammy, he had only a chippy, and got most of the heroin he needed by hanging around other addicts who occasionally turned him on with a taste[.] — James Mills, The Panic in Needle Park, p. 35, 1966

3 a young woman, usually of loose morals, at times a semi-professional prostitute US, 1886

- That was some other quick-trick chippy. — Thurston Scott, Cure it with Honey, p. 143, 1951
- I deserve it for acting like a two dollar chippie! — John Clellon Holmes, Go, p. 134, 1952
- [W]hy would I fool around with some chippy when I had you? — Jim Thompson, The Killer Inside, p. 61, 1952
- A guilty furtiveness in the gray eyes. The cast of weakness across the mouth, with its sullen swollen lips. The look of the chippy. — John D. McDonald, The Neon Jungle, p. 26, 1953
- Also, he had gotten into the habit of falling in love with teen-age girls, like this Chippy on the Strip, for whom he had just bought a new cloth coat. — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 3, 1961

4 a person in a gambling casino who tries to hustle or stealchips US, 2003

- — Victor H. Royer, Casino Gamble Talk, p. 32, 2003

5 an inexperienced gambler US, 1985

- — Steve Kuriscak, Casino Talk, p. 12, 1985

▷ see: CHIP

chippy; chippie *verb*to be unfaithful sexually US, 1930

- “You ever chipped on your wife?” “Never.” “Never.” “Never chipped on your wife one time in eighteen years?” “Never.” — Lenny Bruce, How to Talk Dirty and Influence People, p. 104, 1965
- But Momma’s an alcoholic, chipping on Dad. — Christina and Richard Milner, Black Players, p. 264, 1972
- They will avoid bars and restaurants that are patronized by girls who, they feel, have inferior status as professionals or whom they consider amateurs just “chipping around”[.] — Harold Greenwald, The Call Girl, p. 18, 1978
- Prince Rainier and Princess Grace couldn’t have afforded to get caught chipping around, but it’s different here. — Joseph Wambaugh, Fugitive Nights, pp. 8–9, 1992 chips *noun*money US, 1840

- So when the big day rolled around I spent my last chips on a taxi. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 152, 1946
- Nay, old dude, I don’t need chips. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 41, 1973

▷ in the chips

well funded US, 1842

- If you’re in the chips and Burroughs feels good, all three of you could come out here for kicks sometime. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Neal Cassady, p. 115, 26th August 1947

chips and whetstones *noun*odds and ends US, 1927

- You’re like as not famished, Mr. Birdwell, delivering trees all day and feeding and chips and whetstones. — Jessamyn West, The Friendly Persuasion, p. 154, 1945

chirp *noun*a female singer US, 1944

- — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 235, 1948: “A glossary of Harlemisms.”
- — Robert S. Gold, A Jazz Lexicon, p. 56, 1964

chisel noun▶ on the chiselinvolved in a swindle US, 1958

- My old man owns the company. He'd be pretty sore if I was on the chisel. — Raymond Chandler, Playback, p. 44, 1958

chisel *verb1 to cheat UK, 1808

- And he was proud of his chiseling. He felt the crisp five-dollar bill in his pocket. — James T. Farrell, Saturday Night, p. 18, 1947
- Can you imagine people that can afford to drive thirty- and forty-thousand-dollar cars chiseling an insurance company for five hundred bucks? — Gerald Petievich, To Die in Beverly Hills, p. 209, 1983
- Serenity never tried to chisel her girls and wouldn't stand for it in return. — Joseph Wambaugh, Floater, p. 13, 1996

2 to place small, conservative bets US, 1950

- — The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, p. 122, May 1950

chiseled *adjective*without fat, well sculpted US, 1984

- — American Speech, p. 198, Fall 1984: "The language of body building"

chiseler *noun1 a cheat, a petty swindler US, 1918

- "I don't like competition from amateur chiselers," Dopey said. — James T. Farrell, Saturday Night, p. 27, 1947
- "Amboy Dukes are supposed to be regular guys"—she wept and clutched her purse with both hands—"not a bunch of chiselers." — Irving Shulman, The Amboy Dukes, p. 43, 1947
- [M]any a fearful and repentant chiseler has been fleeced by smart operators who told him they were wonder-workers. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 161, 1951
- Two of the worst chiselers I ever seen. Why, I'd never seen the characters before, and they tried to put the bite on me! — Jim Thompson, Roughneck, p. 144, 1954

2 a gambler who places small, conservative bets US, 1950

- — The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, p. 122, May 1950

chisme *noun*gossip; rumors US, 1974

- Border Spanish used in English conversation by Mexican-Americans. — Dagoberto Fuentes and Jose Lopez, Barrio Language Dictionary, p. 48, 1974

chit-chat *noun*small talk UK, 1605

- Maybe later, if things cooled out a little, they could manage a little chit-chat[.] — Gurney Norman, Divine Right's Trip (Last Whole Earth Catalog), p. 87, 1971
- Well, enough chit-chat. Let's get to work. — Armistead Maupin, Tales of the City, p. 52, 1978

chit-chat *verb*to engage in small talk UK, 1821

- [W]e stand in the checkout line, chit-chattin'. — Odie Hawkins, Ghetto Sketches, p. 126, 1972

Chitlin Circuit *noun*the notional collection of ghetto bars and nightclubs where black musicians perform in the hope of having a hit that will launch them into better venues US, 1967

- A term attributed to black singer Lou Rawls.
- He [Rawls] used to sing on what he calls "the chitlin' circuit"—"Places so small you had to dress in the men's room." — Times Recorder (Zanesville, Ohio), p. 2-B, 28th May 1967
- Got me tourin' the chitlin' circuit all through the summer. — Hustle and Flow, 2004
- He's booked solid through next August and is first starting to play cities off the "chitlin' circuit," his affectionate name for the small blues clubs. — Billboard, 3rd December 1966

Chitlins 101 *noun*any black studies course US, 1998

A derogatory term, drawing from "chitterlings," a dish made with pork innards.

- "Normally, when people think of a black institution, they think of 'Chitlins 101'—something not very sophisticated," he added. — Chicago Tribune, p. C11, 22nd July 1998

Chi-town *nickname*Chicago, Illinois US, 1922

- By the time we hit that "Chi-town" / Them bears were a-gettin' smart[.] — C.W. McCall, Convoy, 1976
- We gotta book. We're catching a bus to Chi-town. — Chasing Amy, 1997

chiva *noun*heroin US, 1967

From the Spanish of Mexican-Americans.

- Depending on who is listening, heroin can be referred to as carga (heroin), la chiva (the thing), or la madre (the mother). — George R. Alvarez, Semiotic Dynamics of an Ethnic-American Sub-Cultural Group, p. 4, 1965
- — Dagoberto Fuentes, Barrio Language Dictionary, p. 48, 1974
- — Geoffrey Frorer, Digging for Diamonds, p. 18, 1989
- Next to the highgrade chiva he dealt, La Barba was proudest of his lowrider. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 57, 1990

chiz *noun*in circus and carnival usage, a swindler *US, 1981*An abbreviation of CHISELER.

- — Don Willmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 52, 1981

choad *noun1 the penis US, 1968

- [N]obody to my knowledge spoke of "choad," "rod," "stem" or any other more strictly pornographic term. — Screw, p. 5, 3rd January 1972
- — Christian Crumlish, The Internet Dictionary, p. 34, 1995

2 a person who is easily despised US, 1998

Sometimes spelled "chode."

- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Spring 1998
- "Break up with that choad," he said. — Megan McCafferty, Second Helpings, p. 207, 2003

choc beer *noun*an unfiltered ale, sweeter and fruitier than traditional beer, brewed in Oklahoma US, 1954

From the Choctaw Indians, who are said to have taught immigrant Italians the recipe for the beer.

- A sign behind the latter fixture announced that choc beer was fifteen cents, whiskey two shots for a quarter. — Jim Thompson, Roughneck, p. 90, 1954

chock *noun*home-fermented, vegetable-based alcohol US, 1972

- I'll tell you about chock. They used to make it here all the time. — Bruce Jackson, In the Life, p. 301, 1972

chockablock; chocka *adjective*jammed close together, crammed full UK, 1840

From C19 nautical slang.

- I know, for example, that he was the creepiest guy in our office (which, believe you me, was choc-a-bloc full). — Terry Southern, Now Dig This, p. 31, 1975
- It took me forever to wend my way back south. Traffic was chocka. — Diran Abedayo, My Once Upon A Time, p. 93, 2000
- Portland is chockablock with beautiful, historic houses, and on the right day, you can walk right in the front door. — Chuck Palahniuk, Fugitive and Refugees, p. 39, 2003

chocolate *noun*a black person US, 1906

- — Anon., The Gay Girl's Guide, 1949

chocolate *adjective*of African heritage US, 1906

- I noticed a lot of Jungle Fever action, with people describing themselves as "vanilla" or "chocolate" or "caramel." — Anka Radakovich, The Wild Girls Club, p. 43, 1994

chocolate bunny *noun*a Vietnamese prostitute who favored black American soldiers over white American soldiers US

- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 42, 1991

chocolate chips *noun*desert camouflage uniforms US, 1991

- Some "ground pounders" wearing "chocolate chip cookie cammies" even talk of an "Adopt-a-Pilot" campaign and cheer when the jets roar overhead. — Houston Chronicle, p. 15, 24th January 1991
- — Army, p. 48, November 1991

chocolate highway *noun*the anus and rectum US, 1977

- "You ever been fucked up the chocolate highway, Irish?" — John Gregory Dunne, Dutch Shea, Jr., p. 37, 1982
- I rode her chocolate highway in eighth gear. — Zane, Caramel Flava, p. 237, 2006

chogie!move out of here! US, 1982

Korean war usage.

- — Frank Hailey, Soldier Talk, p. 13, 1982

chogie verb▶ cut a chogieto leave quickly US

Originally Korean war usage.

- — Frank Hailey, Soldier Talk, p. 13, 1982
- Chogie, cut a chogie. To move out quickly. Korean term brought to Vietnam by U.S. soldiers who had served in Korea. — Shelby Stanton, Vietnam Order of Battle, p. 354, 2003
- Cut a chogie—to move out quickly. — Eugene Basilico, Hunting with Tigers, 2008

choice *adjective*excellent US, 1958

- — Washington Post, 23rd April 1961
- — J. R. Friss, A Dictionary of Teenage Slang (Mt. Diablo High), 1964
- — Miss Cone, The Slang Dictionary (Hawthorne High School), 1965
- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin'ary, p. 21, 1991

choiceamundo *adjective*excellent US, 1991

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin'ary, p. 21, 1991
- — Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 38, 1997

choirboy *noun*a newly initiated member of a youth gang US, 1956

- — American Speech, p. 99, May 1956: "Smugglers' argot in the southwest" choir practice *noun*an after-hours gathering of policemen, involving liberal amounts of alcohol and sex, usually in a remote public place US, 1975

- The first choir practice in MacArthur Park took place in the early spring when the nights became warm enough. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Choirboys, p. 25, 1975
- According to Hart, many officers participate in a rite of passage in many police departments—the so-called "choir practice" or heavy after-hours drinking. — Boston Globe, p. 16, 30th October 1991

- I can tell you this much: these cops are having choir practice with first-string girls and two guys from the mayor's staff. — Stephen J. Cannell, The Tin Collectors, p. 231, 2001
- They used to call it choir practice when a squad would go out together after their shift. They would hang out, blow off steam, try to pick up women, whatever. — The Journal News (Westchester County, New York), p. 1A, 2nd September 2001

choke *noun1 a swallow or drink of alcohol US, 1958

- Have a choke, man. Like it might loosen up your right hand so you can really blow. — John Clellon Holmes, The Horn, p. 192, 1958

2 a Mexican-American US, 1990

- Derogatory. A shortened form of CHILI CHOKER.
- That's Flaco de la Oilslick, a Nester General. One evil choke, yeah. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 185, 1990

▶ pull your choke*to masturbate US, 1992

- [M]asturbation—"pulling your choke"—becomes something to brag about. — Pete Earley, The Hot House, p. 42, 1992

choke *verb1 to forget US, 1968

Especially in the imperative.

- — Joan Fontaine et al., Dictionary of Black Slang, 1968

2 to fail to perform under pressure US, 1986

- A lot of pros in my position would already be thinking about the $130,000 check for winning, and they'd choke quicker on that than they would on their name in a history book. — Dan Jenkins, Dead Solid Perfect, p. 75, 1986

3 in computing, to reject data input US, 1991

- I tried building an EMACS binary to use X, but cpp(1) choked on all those #defines. — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 94, 1991

▶ choke the chicken*(of a male) to masturbate US, 1976

- He likes killin' . . . the way you like chokin your chicken. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 124, 1990
- "Guest home" meant "fuck pad" meant Howard Hughes left to choke his own chicken. — James Ellroy, White Jazz, p. 57, 1992
- Spanking the monkey. Flogging the bishop. Choking the chicken. Jerking the gherkin. — American Beauty, 1999

▶ choke your chauncy*(of a male) to masturbate US, 1989

- Who's sitting by himself in a room choking his chauncy to a bunch of videotapes, Graham? — Sex, Lies and Videotape, 1989

▶ choke your mule*(of a male) to masturbate US, 1992

- I get to choke my mule on the Mighty Man Agency's time. — James Ellroy, White Jazz, p. 111, 1992

choke *adjectivemany US, 1982

Hawaiian youth usage.

- Wow, get choke pakalolo until Green Hahvest! — Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max Hana Hou, 1982

choke and chew *nouna roadside restaurant US, 1976

- — Elementary Electronics, Dictionary of CB Lingo, p. 57, 1976

choked down *adjective1 (of a racehorse) experiencing difficulty breathing during a race US, 1994

- — Igor Kushyshyn et al., The Gambling Times Guide to Harness Racing, p. 114, 1994

2 well-dressed US, 1980

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin' down some lines, p. 232, 1980

choked up tight *adjectivedressed up, especially with button-down collars US, 1976

- He was choked up tight in a white-on-white / And a cocoa front that was down. — Dennis Wepman et al., The Life, p. 54, 1976

choke lover noun

a white person who maintains decent relationships with Mexican-Americans US, 1976

"Choke" is an abbreviation for PACHUCO.

- "You fucking Choke lover, you better learn who your own people are." — Malcolm Braly, False Starts, p. 53, 1976

choke out verb

to render someone unconscious through a choke hold that cuts off cerebral blood flow at the carotid artery in the neck, usually applied with a police officer's baton across the throat US, 1985

- Don't . . . don't never try to choke out a . . . a hard-core street cop! — Joseph Wambaugh, The Secrets of Harry Bright, p. 199, 1985
- Once, when he'd choked out a San Bernardino County deputy D.A. who'd stopped at a minimarket to buy some nonprescription sleeping pills. — Joseph Wambaugh, Fugitive Nights, p. 31, 1990

choker *nouna necktie US, 1945

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 8, 1945
- — Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 37, 1970
- [H]er warm hands are unloosening my choker and unbuttoning my collar. — Leo Rosten, Silkyl, p. 38, 1979

choke rag *nouna necktie US, 1944

- "Well, that's the first time I ever saw you with a choke rag on." — Francis Harper, Okefinokee Album, p. 171, 1981

choke up *verbto lose your composure; to totter on the verge of tears US, 1941

- And the whole damned United States gets choked up and goes into mourning. — Philip Wylie, Opus 21, pp. 7–8, 1949

cholly *nouncocaine US, 1970

- — William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Uptight People, p. 6, December 1970

cholo *nouna young, tough Mexican-American US, 1971

Border Spanish used in English conversation by Mexican-Americans.

- The language of East L.A. is a speedy sort of cholo mixture of Mexican Spanish and California English. — Hunter S. Thompson, Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas, p. 230, 1971
- — Dagoberto Fuentes and Jose Lopez, Barrio Language Dictionary, p. 49, 1974
- The cholo shaded his eyes squinting into the Mission forenoon. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 57, 1990
- He saw a group of cholos in their oversized white T-shirts and baggy pants making their way through the yard. — Michael Connelly, The Black Ice (in The Harry Bosch Novels), p. 379, 1993

chomo *nouna child molester US, 1992

- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 35, 1992
- Like the "chomos" (child molesters) and rapists, he [Charles Manson] needed protection. — Edward George, Taming the Beast, p. 6, 1998
- "Back in the pen in Kansas we threw the fucking Chomos off the top tier, y'unnerstan?" — Jimmy Lerner, You Got Nothing Coming, p. 59, 2002

chomp *verbto eat US, 1968

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 96, 1968

chompers *nounthe teeth; false teeth US, 1950

- "Jesus, he had fake teeth," Julia said, staring at the pink and super-white upper and lower chompers smiling up from the carpet. — Richard Condon, Prizzi's Money, p. 111, 1994
- I've heard those horror stories about folks with false teeth who tossed their net and watched their expensive store-bought chompers go sailing into the water with it. — Tampa Tribune, p. 11, 6th July 2003

chooch *nouna person US, 2002

- Count this crazy chooch out another dime. — David Chase, The Sopranos: Selected Scripts from Three Seasons, p. 152, 20th September 1999

choo-choo *nouna train US, 1898

Formed from the child's imitation of a steam whistle.

- "No, the choo-choo comes in, we get mostly appliances," Ordell said. — Elmore Leonard, Switch, p. 18, 1978

choo-choo cherry *nounred-colored smoke US

From the name of a Funny Face drink mix.

- It pops and begins to spew its deep red smoke. "Roger, two-two kilo, I identify choo-choo cherry. Over." — Fred Brown, Vietnam War Diary, p. 122, 1998

choose up *verbsaid of a prostitute, a select a pimp US

- One car—a blue-silver minivan—showed a logo of Bugs Bunny grabbing Jessica Rabbit with the words "choose up" written on the side. — Denver Post, 24th May 2011

choose *verb(of a prostitute) to agree to work for a pimp US, 1972

- This bitch come over talkin' about she gon' choose me. — Christina and Richard Milner, Black Players, p. 87, 1972
- I was behind him with my hand in my pocket gripping the gun when Rose looked at him and said, "Ace, I've chosen Stonewall for my man." — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 145, 1973 choosing money *nounthe money a prostitute pays a pimp to join his fold US, 1972

- Then get your choosin' money ready 'cause I don't chippy around. — Christina and Richard Milner, Black Players, p. 42, 1972

chop *noun1 approval US, 1992

- He taught me the intricacies of getting a superior's "chop," or approval on a draft memo that the superior might in fact not like at all. — Richard Marcinko and John Weisman, Rogue Warrior, p. 150, 1992

2 a scathing, cutting remark or joke US, 1957

- Very funny. What a chop. Ha, ha, ha. — American Graffiti, 1973

3 food US, 1982

US military usage during the Vietnam war.

- — Maledicta, p. 253, Summer/Winter 1982: "Viet-speak"

chop *verb1 to shoot someone to death US, 1933

- They were taking the two downtown to the D.A.'s and somebody chopped them. — Mickey Spillane, Kiss Me Deadly, p. 108, 1952

- 2 to approve something US, 1992
- We would scramble to do the research and draft an answer. Our superiors would “chop,” or approve, our work and pass it up the ladder. — Richard Marcinko and John Weisman, Rogue Warrior, p. 190, 1992
- 3 to adulterate a powdered drug US, 1970
- You buy, you chop, you mix, you measure, then bag and sell. — Lance Fehintola, Charlie Says . . . , p. 14, 2000
- 4 (of dice in a crap game) to pass once and then not pass US, 1987
- Don't count on it, they have been chopping. — N. B. Winkless, The Gambling Times Guide to Craps, p. 92, 1981

chop-chop noun

- 1 food US, 1951
- The Vietnamese children are cute and all ask for cigarettes or “chop chop” (food). — Marlene Marchaesi, 1968 Vietnam Letters and Memories of a Marine, p. 45, 10 January 1968. Letter from Peter Marchaesi
 - You know the chop-chop you sent me. I make a scrumptious meal from them. — Fred Brown, Vietnam War Diary, p. 241, 2 March 1968. Letter Home
 - We knew guys didn't yet have any “chop chop.” — Roger Hayes, On Point, p. 17, 2000
 - They ran to the roadside shouting “chop-chop.” That was their way of asking for food. — Christopher Ronnau, Blood Trails, p. 61, 2006

2 oral sex performed on a man US

- From the vocabulary of Vietnamese prostitutes, taken and used by US soldiers.
- — Gregory Clark, Words of the Vietnam War, p. 172, 1990

chop-chop verb

- during the Korean war, to eat US, 1951
- Chop-chop in World War II meant hurry up, snap into it, get on the ball, etc. In Korea, chop chop is most natives' term for eat, and many GI's are picking it up. — The Baltimore Sun, 24th June 1951

chop-chop adverb

- immediately; in an instant UK, 1836
- Pidgin or mock pidgin, sometimes used as an imperative.
- Boy, bring us three Reverend Davidsons. And boy: chop-chop! — Max Shulman, Anyone Got a Match?, p. 110, 1964
 - At the sound of which word Little Cousin Norman would take off chop-chop at a chubby little scamper for the house. — Robert Gover, Poorboy at the Party, p. 102, 1966
 - Wilson, take him and brief him. Chop-chop. — Airheads, 1994

chop house noun

- a restaurant US, 1956
- [H]e conferred with three captains of waiters who were yearning to desert the fabled chophouse of James “Dinty” Moore. — Robert Sylvester, No Cover Charge, p. 99, 1956

chop it up verb

- to engage in enthusiastic group conversation US, 2001
- — Rick Ayers (Editor), Slang Dictionary, p. 7, 2001

chopped *adjective1 marijuana-intoxicated US, 1995

- — Maria Hinojas, Crews, p. 167, 1995

2 ugly US, 1993

- — Washington Post, 14th October 1993

chopped liver noun

- something of no consequence US, 1954
- MURTAUGH: Jesus. Maybe I should call for backup. RIGGS: What am I, chopped liver? — Lethal Weapon, 1987

chopped off adjective

- annoyed, angry US, 1963
- — American Speech, p. 276, December 1963: “American Indian student slang”

chopped rag noun

- a parachute which has been altered US
- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 43, 1991

chopped top noun

- a hot rod that has had its roof removed US, 1960
- Agular stared at the street as a three-window '35 Ford Coupe with a chopped top rolled past. — Los Angeles Times, p. 3 (Calendar), 22nd June 1966

chopper noun

- 1 a machine gun; an assault rifle US, 1929
- Time was when you stood behind a chopper yourself, now you let a college kid do your blasting. — Mickey Spillane, I, The Jury, p. 18, 1947
 - [Y]ou did not have to be twenty-one to press the trigger on a chopper. — Paul Gallico, Trial By Terror, p. 88, 1951
 - Witnesses told police Neight pointed at Abernathy and said: “My boy's coming with a chopper.” — Miami Herald, p. B3, 7th November 2006
- 2 a pistol US, 1957
- — American Speech, p. 193, October 1957: “Some colloquialisms of the handgunner”
- 3 a hacksaw; a hacksaw blade US, 1950
- — Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 44, 1950
- 4 a sawed-off shotgun US
- Some of the weapons the church took in that year were “choppers.” — Charlotte (North Carolina) Observer, 25th December 2013
- 5 a helicopter US, 1951
- I was told there will be a chopper going down to Nhatrang tomorrow with the mission. — Richard Tregaskis, Vietnam Diary, p. 16, 1963
 - It lasted for about fifteen minutes, and then the Choppers came along with Sky Raiders and Phantom Jets and they mopped them up. — Bill Adler, Letters from Vietnam, p. 17, 10 February 1966
 - Well, the rain finally ceased enough for the choppers to get in and get us out to our regiment. — Paul O'Connell, Letter Home, 19 October 1968
 - There aren't more choppers coming? — *M*A*S*H*, 1970

- Our choppers can see them from miles away / Those guys at “Reach” will then relay. — Sandee Shaffer Johnson, Cadences, p. 147, 1986
- The Vietcong had no helicopters (generally referred to as “choppers,” by the way); those were American aircraft that accidentally shot up their own men. — National Review, 10 November 1989

chopper verb

- 1 to fly by helicopter US, 1977
- They choppered me along with 8 others to the hospital here. — Michael Alan McAninch, Letter to Mother and Dad, 9 June 1969
 - “We can chopper you back to base-camp hospital in like twenty minutes.” — Michael Herr, Dispatches, p. 15, 1977

2 to transport something by helicopter US, 1968

- From CHOPPER (a helicopter).
- Well, we are still on this operation; and tomorrow we are supposed to get choppered up to Alligator Lake for a vacation. — Paul O'Connell, Letter Home, 19 June 1969

chopper chick *nicknamea female volunteer in the Red Cross Supplemental Recreation Activities Overseas program US

- The Red Cross workers in Vietnam were called donut dollies as well, another name, “chopper chicks,” was also used. — Karen Zeinert, The Vietnam Women of the Vietnam War, p. 41, 2000
- Although the name “donut dolly” stuck, in Vietnam SRAO women were also called “chopper chicks” and “Kool-Aid kids.” — Jimin Park, Narratives of the Vietnam War by Korean and American Writers, p. 55, 2007

chopper coppers *nounthe police in helicopters US, 1958

- Quoted as a term used by residents of Berkeley, California.
- Chopper coppers are helicopter fliers. — New York Times, p. 34, 20th October 1958
 - That game's halftime show will include an exhibition by LAPD's Special Weapons and Tactics (SWAT) unit, as well as helicopter-borne officers flying into the stadium and rappelling from the “copper choppers” to a simulated crime scene on the Coliseum floor. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. D6, 24th January 1990
 - There's a new breed of police officer on the hunt for the menacing motorists who make highway travel an unwelcome hell ride: the chopper copper. — Boston Herald, p. 5, 9th June 2001

chopper jockey *nouna motorcycle enthusiast US, 1971

- Only in Hollywood's know-nothing biker movies do you see chopper jockeys in starched blue jeans and freshly ironed shirts. — Arthur Blessitt, Turned On to Jesus, p. 121, 1971

choppers *noun1 the teeth US, 1944

- He was smiling, grim through his cheap false choppers and blurred alcoholic face[.] — Gilbert Sorrentino, Steelwork, p. 153, 1970
- [A]n avenging old witch whose gorgeous smile and girlish face were courtesies of a five grand set of upper and lower choppers and a New York face lift[.] — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Doom Fox, p. 100, 1978

2 the female legs US, 1963

- — American Speech, p. 273, December 1963: “American Indian student slang”

chops *noun1 the teeth or mouth UK, 1589

- He spit blood on the floor. “Boss, suh, please be careful with my chops—they're tender.” — Chester Himes, The Real Cool Killers, p. 71, 1959
- A clout in the chops is what they deserved after dropping their Austin-Healey in the drink last night[.] — Max Shulman, Anyone Got a Match?, p. 54, 1964
- If I'd been on the outside, not being able to play until my chops healed, I'd probably have brooded the time away. — Nat Hentoff, Jazz Country, p. 141, 1965
- Maybe Mailer punches Vidal in the chops, maybe Vidal kicks Mailer in the cozies. — Robert Campbell, Alice in La-La Land, p. 52, 1987

2 musical ability US, 1968

- Man, your chops must've been really tight. — Elmore Leonard, Be Cool, p. 108, 1999

► bust your chops; break your chopsto harass or provoke someone US, 1953

- Okay, Reggie, start bustin' my chops. Tell me how great you were with that chick. — 48 Hours, 1982
- They would like to laugh and break other other's chops. — Joseph Pistone, Donnie Brasco, p. 90, 1987
- Jimmy's busting my chops. — Goodfellas, 1990
- Dad, have you been busting Ted's chops? — Something About Mary, 1988

chop shop *noun1 an autopsy room US, 1991

- Walking into the autopsy room on one occasion, Donald Waltemeyer made the mistake of wishing all the ghouls in the chop shop a fine good morning. — David Simon, Homicide, p. 410, 1991

2 a car body repair shop where stolen cars are altered or parts are stripped for sale separately US, 1977

- Jimmie (The Bomber) Cataura, 72, was assassinated yesterday in what police called a continuing chop-shop stolen auto parts vendetta. — Washington Post, p. A7, 29th July 1978
- Pachoulo owned a piece of a chop shop on Alameda, near Olive Avenue Park over in Burbank, where stolen cars were dismembered with acetylene torches and the parts parceled out for sale. — Robert Campbell, Juice, p. 116, 1988
- The chop shop. Where are the stripped cars? The rolled-back odometers? The part bins? — Gone in 60 Seconds, 2000
- The only BMW's you see around here are from the chop shop. — Alisa Valdes-Rodriguez, The Dirty Girls Social Club, p. 204, 2003

chopsocky noun

oriental martial arts; low-budget martial arts films US, 1978
Probably a blend of chop suey (a popular Chinese dish) and sock (to hit).

- [Stan Shaw] got to play bone-crushers on TV cop shows, a martial arts maestro in a chopsocky melodrama called "TNT Jackson." — The Washington Post, 10th February 1978
- Bright spot here is Kriel, a South African star who dressed up the James Ryan chopsocky hit "Kill and Kill Again" a decade ago. — Daily Variety, 27th June 1990

chop suey adjective

mixed up US, 1981
Hawaiian youth usage.

- "I get Japanese, Chinese, Filipino, Irish, German, Hawaiian, French—" "Real chop suey, yeah?" — Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max, 1981

choptop noun

- a crewcut haircut US, 1959
- — Edd Byrnes, Way Out with Kookie, 1959

chord-ially

used as a humorous closing in letters between singers US, 1975 • — American Speech, p. 296, Autumn–Winter 1975: "The jargon of barbershop" chorine noun

a member of a theatrical chorus US, 1922

- Makes a change from those cottage queen chorines[.] — The cast of Aspects of Love, Prince of Wales Theatre, Palace for Beginners, 1989–92
- It was what looked like twelve Las Vegas chorines crowded in with one old boy who was wearing the biggest cowboy hat and the darkest Foster Grants I'd ever seen. — Stephen King, Nightmares & Dreamscapes, p. 41, 1993
- Composing his daily letter to Maura Zell, his mistress, who was a chorine in the road company of Pearls of Broadway. — Michael Chabon, The Amazing Adventures of Cavalier & Clay, p. 81, 2000
- With Steven Tyler, John Entwistle and Joan Jett in attendance, Jimmy Stoma marries a chorine turned professional wrestler in Las Vegas. — Carl Hiaasen, Basket Case, p. 3, 2002

chorizo noun

the penis US, 1995

- One girl said Castro had a 12" chorizo. — James Ellroy, American Tabloid, p. 352, 1995
- "A big Latino with his chorizo grande in your mouth and a hot Latina licking your pretty little hairless conyo." — Ken Alibertsen, Lali's Passage, p. 158, 2001

chota noun

the police; a police officer US, 1974

- Border Spanish used in English conversation by Mexican-Americans. — Dagoberto Fuentes and Jose Lopez, Barrio Language Dictionary, p. 49, 1974

chovies noun

anchovies US, 1996

- — Maledicta, p. 9, 1996: "Domino's Pizza jargon"

chow noun

food US, 1856

- "What the hell, roomy," he said. "Let's go to chow." — Ralph Ellison, Invisible Man, p. 106, 1947
- You tried to hurry good chow and you'd screw it up sure as hell. — Jim Thompson, The Nothing Man, p. 245, 1954
- Privacy exists because you pretend nothing else is there and in a chow joint you're expected to obey the rules of the game. — Mickey Spillane, Return of the Hood, p. 82, 1964
- "Then we go to chow." Ag had written him, not only wondering about his schedule but whether he was getting enough to eat. — Dale Jueter, Vietnam Sons: For Some, the War Never Ended, p. 93, 2007
- This was also much like the mess in the States, only larer and served by comparison the best chow I had in the army. — Dean Muehlberg, REMF "War Stories": 17th CAG - Nha Trang, Vietnam - 1969, p. 32, 2010

chow verb

to eat US, 1900

- You want something to chow? — Airheads, 1994

chowderhead noun

a fool UK, 1819

- — Helen Dahlkog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 13, 1972
- Does this chowderhead really believe Time magazine wants to hire him? — Carl Hiaasen, Tourist Season, p. 200, 1986 chow down verb

to set to eating US, 1945

- Originally military, then spread into widespread, if affected, use.
- When we get to the end I will open my C-ration and chow down. — Fred Brown, Vietnam War Diary, p. 229, 28 February 1968: Letter Home
- Most people would chow down on cheese and cold cuts before heading upstairs. — Armistead Maupin, Tales of the City, p. 128, 1978

chowhound noun

an enthusiastic eater US, 1917

- Not to mention such obvious rhymings as the charge-of-quarters' morning wakey-wakey call, "Okay, men. Drop your cocks and grab your socks!" or chowhound or shit list or walkie-talkie or the favorite term for those unhappy in the army, nervous in the service. — Paul Fussell, Wartime, p. 256, 1989
- Now you know why Marco Polo—a real chowhound—traveled clear up Rainier Avenue South to discover Aurora Avenue North. — Seattle Post-Intelligencer, p. E2, 31st March 2004

chowmeinery noun

in circus and carnival usage, a Chinese restaurant US, 1981

- — Don Wilmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 52, 1981

Chriss, Chris noun

Crystal champagne US

- In the back of the club with mama / Poppin' bottles of Chris with mama. — R Kelly, "Fiesta," 2000

chrissey noun

crystal methamphetamine US

- On the West Coast, speed and its more potent relative crystal methamphetamine (aka "chrissey" or "crystal meth") took over. — Simon Reynolds, Generation Ecstasy, p. 309, 1999

christer noun

a Christian who proclaims his beliefs to all, whether they wish to hear or not US, 1921

- "Why don't you get the hell out of here and go clean up or something?" "What are you—a christer?" — John Nichols, The Sterile Cuckoo, p. 219, 1965
- Bush is a Christer. He takes every opportunity to inform the American people that he is in touch with the Lord and therefore that, by deduction, what he does is the Lord's work. — Chattanooga (Tennessee) Free Press, p. B9, 10th September 2003

Christian crank noun

coffee US

- "Time to brew up good ol' pot of Christian crank and knock this one out for good." — Urban Dictionary, 16th September 2008
- Talking politics, real estate gossip, and sports, swallowing heart medicine, and sipping cups of hot Christian crank between jokes about the runts in the town's local litter. — Tom Calderon, Loserman, p. 283, 2012

Christians in Action nickname

the US Central Intelligence Agency US, 1992

Reverse engineered from the agency's initials.

- They worked for my brothers-in-arms from the organization we fondly called Christians in Action—the CIA. — Richard Marcinko and John Weisman, Rogue Warrior, p. 126, 1992

Christine noun

cocaine US, 1968

Another in a long series of personifications of drugs based on the drug's first letter.

- "What is this?" I asked. "It's 'her', man. 'Christine.' Cocaine." — Phil Hirsch, Hooked, p. 9, 1968
- He got up, dressed, we took a few more toots of Christine and Henry (pineapple) and split. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 71, 1973

Christ-killer noun

a Jewish person UK, 1861

Offensive.

- Through the centuries, the Church has, wittingly and unwittingly, helped to nurture hate for the Jew, the "Wandering Jew," the "Christ Killer." [Letter to the editor] — Life, p. 13, 14th January 1946
- "No, I'm different. (Pause) I'm Jewish." ("Shocked) Christ-killer!" — Raymond Mungo, Famous Long Ago, p. 58, 1970

Christless adjective

curled, damned US, 1912

- Talk about a Christless mess. And for what? — Indianapolis (Indiana) Star, p. 1B, 28th November 1999

Christmas present noun

in tiddlywinks, a stroke of good luck US, 1977

- — Verbatim, p. 525, December 1977

Christmas roll noun

a multi-colored assortment of barbiturate capsules US, 1973

- — David W. Maurer and Victor Vogel, Narcotics and Narcotic Addiction, p. 397, 1973

Christmas tree noun

1 a busy telephone switchboard US, 1958

- A busy switchboard at Police Headquarters is, by poetic touch, a Christmas tree. — New York Times, p. 34, 20th October 1958

2 a bank of red and green-colored lights that are part of an instrument panel US, 1945

- Captain Rogers? I have a green Christmas tree on board. — Edwin Corley, The Jesus Factor, p. 167, 1970
- First, we waited for the "Christmas tree," the bank of indicator lights showing the status of all hull openings, to change from red to green to all green, signaling that they were closed. — Richard O'Kane, Clear the Bridge, p. 14, 1977

3 in the car sales business, a car loaded with accessories and gadgets US, 1953

- — Cars, p. 40, December 1953

4 in the television and movie industries, a cart used for storing and carrying lighting equipment US, 1977

- — Tony Miller and Patricia George, Cut! Print!, p. 51, 1977

5 in the television and movie industries, a stand with more than one light mounted on it US, 1987

- — Ira Konigsberg, The Complete Film Dictionary, p. 47, 1987

Christmas tree lights; Christmas trees noun

a capsule of amobarbital sodium and secobarbital sodium (trade name Tuinal™), a combination of central nervous system depressants US, 1968

- — Donald Louria, The Drug Scene, p. 189, 1968
- A brother and sister from Michigan, eighteen and sixteen years old, whispered to me that they were turned on with CTL—Christmas Tree Lights. — Arthur Blessitt, Turned On to Jesus, p. 233, 1971

- Tuiinal is what I like. Some people call them Christmas Trees. That's the underworld slang for them because they're a kind of a green and kind of a red[.] — Bruce Jackson, Outside the Law, p. 110, 1972
- Whites to wake up, yellow jackets to sleep, and a special present she called a Christmas Tree, a cap filled with red and green spangles. — Malcolm Braly, False Starts, p. 267, 1976

Christ on a bike!; Jesus Christ on a bike!

used as a register of shock or amazement US, 1986

- Brian Keyes removed the rum and dumped the ice cubes over Wiley's naked chest. "Christ on a bike!" Wiley sat up like a bolt. — Carl Hiaasen, Tourist Season, p. 163, 1986

Christ on a crutch!

used for expressing exasperation US, 1928

- Christ on a crutch, man: if you people are as hard up for writers as you appear to be, then you need help in the worst way. — Hunter S. Thompson, The Proud Highway, p. 113, 31st March 1958: Letter to Down Beat Magazine
- But Christ on a crutch, the news that Britney Spears and Fred Durst are hitting it has blown nearly every other coherent thought right out of our little peanut brains. — Seattle Weekly, p. 46, 22nd January 2003

chrome noun

1 handguns US, 2006

- "I been dealin' chrome to kids. You know, junior high, that kinda shit." — Jason Starr, Lights Out, p. 130, 2006
- "I don't allow no chrome in here." — Stephen J. Cannell, White Sister, p. 46, 2006

2 in computing, software features that attract buyers but add little functionally US, 1991

- The 3D icons in Motif are just chrome but they certainly are pretty chrome. — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 95, 1991

chrome dome noun

1 a bald man; a bald head US, 1962

- Hose Nose / Chrome Dome / Mr. Absent Offenhauser. — Ron Padgett, New and Selected Poems, p. 78, 1995
- Last month in Dallas, an Associated Press photographer at a political fund-raiser captured Bush grabbing the chrome dome of an unidentified supporter so forcefully you can see indentation marks. — Austin (Texas) American-Statesman, p. E1, 7th August 2003

2 a fiber helmet used between April and October in Vietnam to protect soldiers from the sun US, 1991

- Aluminum paint gave rise to the "chrome".
- The chrome dome was the liner for the old steel pot helmet. — Frederick Fenwick, Lasting Visions: With the 7th Marines in Vietnam, p. 75, 2010
- The "boot" wears the silver-painted "chrome dome" helmet liner, and carries all his new belongings in a seabag. — Oscar Gilbert, US Marine Corps Tank Crewman 1965–1970: Vietnam, p. 10, 2012

chrome-plated adjective

1 nicely dressed US, 1961

- High school student usage, borrowing from car vocabulary.
- — San Francisco Examiner, p. 21, 12th December 1961

2 dressed up US, 1961

- — Art Unger, The Cool Book, p. 106, 1961

chrome to the dome noun

a pistol held to the head US, 1998

- — Ethan Hilderbrand, Prison Slang, p. 146, 1998

chrondo noun

potent marijuana US, 1997

- A blend of CHRONIC and INDO.
- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 51, 1997

chroned out adjective suffering from a hangover US, 2001

- — Don R. McCreary (Editor), Dawg Speak, 2001

chronic noun

1 potent marijuana US, 1993

- A word popularized in hip-hop usage. "The Chronic" by Dr Dre (1992) is one of the biggest-selling rap albums of all time.
- Beeitch, if you ain't got no kinda chronic, yo punk ass gots to go! — Snoop Doggy Dogg, A Day in the Life of Snoop Doggy Dogg (Cover art), 1993
- Smoking a spliff of high-octane chronic (street talk for pot) in the back room, he explains his bond to Dre. "He's the bomb," says Snoop. — People, p. 77, 23rd May 1994
- Gimme a taste of the mothafuckin' chronic. — Kids, 1995

2 marijuana mixed with crack cocaine US, 1998

- [A] fat ass J, of some bubonic chronic that made me choke[.] — Snoop Doggy Dogg, Gin and Juice, 1993

chronic bubonic noun

marijuana that is more potent than simple "chronic" or simple "bubonic" US, 2001

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 54, 2001

chub noun

a moderately overweight person UK, 1838

- [Y]ou can be sure that plump women such as myself and many of my "chub" friends all over the country, who perhaps are contemplating weight loss, will never enter a Jenny Craig office. [Letter to the editor] — Virginian-Pilot (Norfolk, Virginia), p. 14, 9th January 2000

chubbies noun

large female breasts US, 1964

- — Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 35, 1964
- — Current Slang, p. 3, Winter 1971

chubby noun

1 an overweight man as a homosexual object of desire US, 1971

- If you dig chubbies and are good-looking, white male, 23—40, and groove on affection, I'm your boy. — Emile Nytrate, Underground Ads, p. 99, 1971
- Are there any straight bars for chubbies and chubby-chasers? — Screw, p. 11, 2 August 1971

2 an erection US, 1997

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 51, 1997
- I woke up with a chart-busting chubby. — James Ellroy, Destination Morgue, p. 235, 2004
- You'll be sporting chubbies from the first glimpse of every rubberwarped aerola. — Editors of Adult Video News, The AVN Guide to the 500 Greatest Adult Films of All Time, p. 309, 2005

chubby-chaser noun

a person who is sexually attracted to overweight people US, 1971

- Are there any straight bars for chubbies and chubby-chasers? — Screw, p. 11, 2 August 1971
- — Maledicta, p. 227, Winter 1980: "Lovely, blooming, fresh and gay": the onomastics of camp"
- — American Speech, p. 19, Spring 1985: "The language of singles bars"
- Watching Buffy Davis and Tammy White going at it with a dildo in between them is a chubby-chaser's delight. — Adult Video, p. 50, August/September 1986
- While there are some people out there who revel in obesity (they're called chubby-chasers), they are few and far between. — John Preston, Hustling, p. 48, 1994
- Chuckie's a chubby chaster that likes fat chicks. — James Ellroy, Destination Morgue, p. 231, 2004

chub rub noun

a rash from anywhere that fat body part meets fat body part US, 1998

- Has anyone experiences (sic) cysts or boils on inner thighs and underarms? I always thought they were just a symptom of "chub rub" though they weren't always just where I chafe. — alt.support.pco, 13th September 1998
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 3, Fall 2005

chuc; chuke noun

a Pachuco, or young Mexican-American with a highly stylized sense of fashion and a specialized idiom US, 1963

The Pachuco was the Mexican zoot-suiter of the 1940s, and his legacy is seen today in Mexican-American culture. The term can be used either as a term of pride or as a term of derision.

- — San Francisco Examiner: People, p. 8, 27th October 1963
- They came in Packards, two of them, they dig big white cards; twelve, maybe thirteen chucs in all. — Richard Farina, Been Down So Long, p. 63, 1966
- — Current Slang, p. 15, Spring 1970

Chuck noun

1 a white man US, 1965

- A diminutive of Charles or Charlie.
- For black soldiers in Vietnam the enemy was now Charles, a term that could refer either to Charlie (the Viet Cong) or to Chuck (the white man). — Milton Bates, The Wars We Took to Vietnam: Cultural Conflict and Storytelling, p. 60, 1996
- — Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 37, 1970
- A few years ago, Civil Rights workers took to calling White "Chuck." — Roger Abrahams, Positively Black, p. 32, 1970

2 the Viet Cong US, 1981

- Chuck, Charlie, Mr. Charles, VC, Viet Cong, Victor Charlie. Whom are we talking about? — Nelson DeMille, Word of Honor, p. 131, 1985

chuck verb

1 to over-eat during withdrawal from a drug addiction US, 1966

- — Rose Giallombardo, Society of Women, p. 206, 1966: Glossary of Prison Terms

2 to throw something UK, 1593

- Robert Jr. and I got to be tight friends—by chucking rocks at a tin can, the next day in the courtyard. — Bobby Seale, A Lonely Rage, p. 25, 1978
- 3 to throw something away, to discard something US, 1911
- We all decided to chuck the idea because I'd have trouble making friends. — Heathers, 1988
- Well maybe I should just chuck it all and go sell derby hats to women in Bolivia. — Joseph Wambaugh, Finnegan's Week, p. 11, 1993

chuck habit noun

the strong appetite of an addict withdrawing from drug use US, 1953

- He had developed the familiar "chuck habit." — Phil Hirsch, Hooked, p. 95, 1968
- But Gloria's stomach protruded slightly and I knew that this was only temporary, coming from her recently acquired "chuck habit." — Robert Deane Pharr, S.R.O., p. 53, 1971

chuck horrors noun

the painful symptoms and craving for sweets experienced during withdrawal from drug addiction US, 1926

- Back on the street at last, he'd gotten the chuck horrors; for two full days he'd eaten candy bars, sweet rolls and strawberry malteds. — Nelson Algren, The Man with the Golden Arm, p. 59, 1949
- So you might as well get yourself set for the steel-and-concrete and the chuck horrors. I had 'em. — The New American Mercury, p. 711, 1950
- "You look like you've got the chuck horrors," he commented[.] — Morton Cooper, High School Confidential, p. 58, 1958

chucklehead noun

a fool UK, 1731

- I enjoy a good har-dee-har-har as much as the next chucklehead[.] — San Francisco Bay Guardian, 4th December 2002

chuckleheaded adjective simple, dim-witted UK, 1768

- A chuckleheaded, no-talent cook shovels food around a burned-out griddle with a warped spatula in one hand and a beat-up barbecue fork in the other, pouring sweat into the food for all to see. — Larry Heinemann, Paco's Story, p. 104, 1990

chuckle sticks noun

nunchaku sticks US, 1988

- "We went over and this guy pulls out these chuckle sticks [nunchaku, two wooden batons joined with a chain] like he was going to do us in." — James Vigil, Barrio Gangs, p. 132, 1988

chucks noun

1 a powerful craving for food associated with withdrawal from heroin addiction US, 1953

Also "chuckers."

- After eight days I got the "chucks" and developed a tremendous appetite for cream puffs and macaroons. — William Burroughs, Junkie, p. 40, 1953
- When you're kicking, you get what we call the chucks, and after that you're hungry all the time. — Billie Holiday with William Dufty, Lady Sings the Blues, p. 134, 1956
- This excessive desire for sweets is the beginning of what is known as the chucks, an enormous hunger which addicts experience in the last stages of withdrawal[.] — Emmett Grogan, Ringolevio, p. 63, 1972

2 the craving for food that follows the smoking of marijuana US, 1970

- — William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Uptight People, p. 6, December 1970

chuck you, Farley!

used as an expression of derision US, 1976

- An intentional Spoonerism "Fuck you, charley!"
- "Chuck you, Farley," she said. "Don't you wish," Donald Ray said. — William Brashler, City Dogs, p. 145, 1976

chuco noun

a tough, urban Mexican-American youth US, 1978

An abbreviation of PACHUCO.

- The "chucos" spoke their own argot, a Spanish with words and phrases unintelligible to the outsider. — Joan W. Moore, Homeboys, p. 57, 1978

chud noun

a disgusting person US, 1986

From the film Cannibalistic Humanoid Underground Dwellers.

- Besides being the perfect film for study, it can drive home the message that these "CHUDS" ain't nothing compared to some of the people you'll have to meet in the movie business. — John Waters, Crackpot, pp. 131–132, 1986
- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 30, 1989

chuff noun

1 the anus AUSTRALIA, 1945

- [M]y mouth was munching and sucking her whole fur-pie, and my nose was probing her chuff like a mole trying to get into an ant hill. — Joey V., Portrait of Joey, p. 94, 1969

2 pubic hair US, 1967

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 43, 1967

chug verb

1 to swallow a drink in a single draught US, 1989

An abbreviation of CHUGALUG.

- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Fall 1989
- DeChooch chugged three fingers and got some color back into his face. — Janet Evanovich, Seven Up, p. 277, 2001

2 in computing, to operate slowly US, 1991

- The disk is chugging like crazy. — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 95, 1991

chugalug; chuglug verb

to drink without pausing to breathe US, 1936

- Chug-a-lug, chug-a-lug / Make you want to holler hi-de-ho / Burns your tummy, don'tcha know / Chug-a-lug, chug-a-lug. — Roger Miller, Chugalug, 1964
- Pooks, I couldn't care less how fast Schoons can chug-a-lug a beer. — John Nichols, The Sterile Cuckoo, p. 163, 1965
- A little drunk, very happy, she chugalugged a beer someone handed her up, yelled "G7!" and proceeded to divest herself of veil, dress, slip, and bra. — Anne Steinhart, Thunder La Boom, p. 189, 1974
- Paco fetching another bursting-full bus pan of dishes in the meantime, chugalugging his coffee, going to take a whiz[.] — Larry Heinemann, Paco's Story, p. 112, 1986

chumbolone noun

a fool US, 2007

- "I don't wanna look like a "chumbolone," an idiot," said Doyle, using street slang. — Jeff Coen, Chicago Tribune, p. Metro 1, 24th August 2007

chum buddy noun

a close friend US, 1952

- Don't forget when you gather your chum-buddies for your Friends watch party that tonight's episode has been "supersized." — Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, 12th February 2004

chummified adjective

drunk US, 1968

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 96, 1968

chump noun

a fool; a naive person who is easily duped US, 1875

- I'd acted like a chump. — Jim Thompson, The Killer Inside, p. 9, 1952
- Don't be a chump. Don't bet any more money on that damn fool shot. — The Hustler, 1961
- He said, "Gonzi, Miles and Vernon were trying to use me so I burned both them chumps." — Babs Gonzales, Movin' On Down De Line, p. 63, 1975
- I don't want to do any coke. It's a terrible drug. It's for chumps. — Kenneth Lonergan, This is Our Youth, p. 47, 2000

chump verb

1 to act foolishly US, 1946

- Most pimps chump off their money. They blow it on drugs, clothes, jewelry, cars and in chrome and leather cesspools. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), The Naked Soul of Iceberg Slim, p. 68, 1971

2 to swindle someone, to cheat someone US, 1930

- He wouldn't be rimmed no sir, not him, because he wasn't the kind of a chump who allowed himself to be chumped by a cheap kike auctioneer. — James T. Farrell, Willie Collins, p. 107, 1946

chump change noun

a small amount of money US, 1968

- — Current Slang, p. 15, Fall 1968
- They said that Western whores were lazy and were satisfied with making "chump change." — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 285, 1969
- Why should they keep their job as a delivery boy for "chump change" when they could be making big money? — Christina and Richard Milner, Black Players, p. 141, 1972
- He pays you chump change. Know what a real driver gets for haulin' poison waste? — Joseph Wambaugh, Finnegan's Week, p. 39, 1993

chump down verb

to intimidate someone into backing down US, 1994

- I calmed down and pulled the gun away, satisfied that I'd publicly chumped him down. — Nathan McCall, Makes Me Wanna Holler, p. 64, 1994

chump educator noun

1 a trade newspaper or magazine used to educate outsiders on the industry's secrets US, 1981

- — Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 53, 1981

2 in the circus or carnival, Billboard magazine US, 1980

- — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 26, 1980

chump expenses noun

minor expenses US, 1969

- At least she'd make enough scratch for chump expenses. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 252, 1969

chump heister noun

a carnival ferris wheel US, 1980

- — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 26, 1980

chump job noun

a legal, legitimate job, especially a low-paying and menial one US, 1972

- Why should I work a chump job for chump change when I can make real money and be independent of the Man? — Christina and Richard Milner, Black Players, p. 257, 1972

chump life noun

a conventional, law-abiding life US, 1993

- Sometimes he could almost envision himself living the chump life. — Bob Sipchen, Baby Insane and the Buddha, p. 223, 1993

chump off verb

to better or out-insult someone in a verbal duel US, 1972

- — David Claerbaut, Black Jargon in White America, p. 60, 1972
- "Sergeant Stranger tells me you chumped him off in front of the assistant warden." — Jimmy Lerner, You Got Nothing Coming, p. 201, 2002

chump twister noun

a carousel US, 1961

- — Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 53, 1981

chunck verb

in pinball, to hit the ball into a scoring bumper with such force that the bumper fails to respond US, 1977

- — Bobby Claire Natkin and Steve Kirk, All About Pinball, p. 111, 1977

chunder noun

in poker, a weak hand that wins US, 1996

- — John Vorhaus, The Big Book of Poker Slang, p. 10, 1996

chunk noun

a large amount US, 1889

- WADE: Well, seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars is a lot. JERRY: Yah, well, it's a chunk. — Fargo, 1996

chunk verb

1 to throw something US, 1835

- "You know how to make pigeons fly?" Sonny hesitated. "Chunk rocks at 'em?" — Chester Himes, The Real Cool Killers, p. 51, 1959
- "Hey, quit chunkin' them balls, you little dumb-asses," Coach Popper yelled. — Larry McMurtry, The Last Picture Show, p. 36, 1966
- Everybody's mother knew a little boy "got his eye put out like that," whether we were chunkin' rocks at each other or fighting with homemade bullwhips. — Ken Weaver, Texas Crude, p. 107, 1984

2 in Americans casinos, to bet a great deal, especially to do so unwisely US, 1985

- — Steve Kuriscak, Casino Talk, p. 12, 1985

3 to engage in a fist fight US, 1990

- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 201, 1990
- — Rick Ayers (Editor), Berkeley High Slang Dictionary, p. 16, 2004

chunk down *verb*to eat US, 1968

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 96, 1968

chunker *noun*an M79 grenade launcher US, 1975
Vietnam war usage.

- — Maledicta, p. 259, Summer/Winter 1982: “Viet-speak”
- It was also called “chunker,” “thump gun,” “79,” “blooker,” “blooper,” and “bloop tube.” The latter three names were derived from the distinctive sound generated when a round popped out of its muzzle. — Peter Kokalis, Soldier of Fortune, p. 57, July 1992: Bloop Tube
- “Use your chunker!” the team leader yelled to Bruce Judkins who nodded and brought the short, compact weapon up to fire. The chunker was actually an M-79 grenade launcher, a six-pound, single-shot break-open weapon like a fat sawed-off shotgun that could fire a 40mm high-explosive round up to four hundred yards. — Kregg P. Jorgenson, LRRP Company Command, p. 121, 2000

chunk of changea lot of money US, 2002

- But believe me when I say the whole thing isn't just about a chunk of change. — Christopher Brookmyre, The Sacred Art of Stealing, p. 238, 2002
- — Victor H. Royer, Casino Gamble Talk, p. 33, 2003

chunt *noun*a Mexican national US, 1988

- Mexican nationals are referred to as chuntaros or “chunts.” — James Vigil, Barrio Gangs, p. 119, 1988

church is outan opportunity has passed US, 1966

- — Current Slang, p. 2, Summer 1966

church key *noun*a can and bottle opener US, 1951

- With the advent of pull-ring (1962), the pop-top (1963), and the stay-on tab can (1974), the device and term all but disappeared.
- She hooked the church key over the top of each bottle and with a sharp rap of her hand that made a sharp, sucking pok, opened the bottles and handed them up. — Larry Heinemann, Close Quarters, p. 70, 1977
- The real hoods, the serious ones who'd been up the night before fighting with churchkeys and tireirons or knocking up “cheap” girls, spent the days dozing fully clothed[.] — Eve Babitz, Eve's Hollywood, p. 59, 1984 church mouse *noun*in prison, a convict assigned to work in the chapel US, 1957

- Working in the Chapel is rather peaceful (us Chapel employees are referred to as “church mice”). — James Blake, The Joint, p. 177, 10th November 1957

Church of England *noun*in craps, a bet that the next roll will be 1, 2, 11 or 12 US, 1983
A back-formation from C AND E, itself the initials of “crap-eleven,” the conventional name of the bet.

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 44, 1987

church tramp *noun*a student who changes his church affiliation as necessary to attend various church social functions US, 1963

- — American Speech, p. 272, December 1963: “American Indian student slang”

churn *verb► churn butterto have sex US

Slang based on visual images.

- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 43, 1991

chute *noun1 the rectum US, 1976

- [S]lim blonde anal lover Chrissy Ann, who lets Cal Jammer slide up her chute. — Adult Video News, p. 56, February 1993
- He deliberately drove back onto my hand, my thumb up his chute. — Jack Hart, My First Time, p. 168, 1995
- Moving harder than ever against the tank barrel, with my finger jammed up her chute, she started to growl passionately. — Penthouse International, Letters to Penthouse XV, p. 148, 2002

2 the coin slot on a pinball machine US, 1977

- — Bobbye Claire Natkin and Steve Kirk, All About Pinball, p. 111, 1977

3 in sailing, a spinnaker US, 1990

- “Okay!” Winnie shouted. “Let’s pop the chute!” — Joseph Wambaugh, The Golden Orange, p. 286, 1990

4 in the usage of youthful model road racers (slot car racers), a straight portion of track US, 1997

- — Phantom Surfers, The Exciting Sounds of Model Road Racing (Album cover), 1997

► down the chutea bomber plane’s dive toward its target US

- The dive to the target was known as “coming down the chute,” and I was conditioned to looking just above the horizon. — Tom Yarborough, Da Nang Diary, p. 32, 1990

chutzpah; chuzpah *noun*gall, intestinal fortitude, extreme self-confidence US, 1892

One of the known Yiddish words in the US.

- Next to his adroitness in fleeing the philanthropic sheep was his chutzpah, his unmitigated impudence. — Nathan Ausubel, A Treasury of Jewish Folklore, p. 267, 1948
- The gall, the chutzpah, her bringing a girlfriend along[.] — Sol Yurrick, The Bag, p. 214, 1968
- It takes chutzpah as well as millions to win the America’s Cup. — Joseph Wambaugh, Floater, p. 267, 1996
- I’m talking about Vice President Dick Cheney. For him to be questioning Sen. John Kerry’s ability and/or willingness to protect this nation takes, well, chutzpah. — Oakland Tribune, 2nd May 2004

’cid; cid; sid *noun*LSD *US, 1986*An abbreviation of ACID.

- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, October 1986
- — US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994

cig *noun*a cigarette or cigar US, 1894

- [T]hey heard him say to Polly, “Have a cig?” while offering a silver cigarette-case with a flourish. — Norman Lindsay, Halfway to Anywhere, p. 44, 1947
- I see her standing, with her black velvet slacks, handsapockets, thin, slouched, cig hanging from lips[.] — Jack Kerouac, The Subterraneans, p. 50, 1958
- We carried the tax stampless cigs down into the cellar in the nick of time. — Ed Sanders, Tales of Beatnik Glory, p. 29, 1975
- When we finished Susie went for the john, I went for my cigs. — Larry Heinemann, Close Quarters, p. 187, 1977

cigar *noun*in circus and carnival usage, any compliment US, 1981

- — Don Wilmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 53, 1981

cigar!correct! US, 1991

An extrapolation from “Close, but no cigar.”

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin’ary, p. 21, 1991

cigarette *noun*an untalented or personality-free roller derby skater US, 1999

- The cigarette lagged back in the pack, hence the punning term.
- Skaters who were washed up, problem children looking for a way back in, and rookies who would probably never amount to anything were cigarets. Virtually every team had at least one. — Keith Pollage, Roller Derby to Rollerjam, p. 126, 1999 cigarette pimp *noun*a pimp whose lack of professional pride leads him to solicit customers for his prostitutes US, 1972

- Black pimps never solicit for their women if they are “true pimps,” and call a man who does a cigarette pimp, popcorn pimp, or chile pimp. — Christina and Richard Milner, Black Players, p. 33, 1972
- — Burgess Laughlin, Job Opportunities in the Black Market, p. 2, 1978

cigarette roll *noun*a type of parachute malfunction US, 1962

- The cigarette roll was a rigging error which caused the parachute to unfold, but not fill with air, not opening to full deployment. — Gregory Clark, Words of the Vietnam War, p. 498, 1990
- The main parachute of an experienced jumper failed to open; it streamed upward in what was known as a cigarette roll. — Robert W. Black, A Ranger Born, p. 44, 2002 cigarette with no name *noun*a marijuana cigarette US, 1980

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin’ down some lines, p. 232, 1980

ciggy; ciggie *noun*a cigarette US, 1915

- The youngsters eat at Walgreen’s drugstore, 44th Street and Broadway, and the drugstore, in the Astor; instead of cocktails they sip cookes and smoke ciggies. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 39, 1948
- Marijuana (we hear) is now peddled in the form of phony cigars. Called “atomics.” A box (less conspicuous than ciggies) sells at $35[.] — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 8G, 11th March 1953
- “You got a ciggy?” The messenger gives him a cigarette and Billy puts one hand beneath his head and smokes. — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, p. 3, 1970
- “Do you know what’s in those boxes?” “First-quality ciggies. You want some?” — Janet Evanovich, Seven Up, p. 57, 2001

ciggyboo; ciggieboo *noun*a cigarette UK, 1958

- The ciggyboos are kept in counter under the trash locked behind a wooden board. — Allen Ginsberg, Journals, p. 204, 5th May 1961
- — Andy Anonymous, A Basic Guide to Campusology, p. 6, 1966
- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 96, 1968

cinch *noun*in horse racing, a horse that is virtually certain to win US, 1960

- — Robert Saunders Dowst and Jay Craig, Playing the Races, p. 161, 1960

Cincy; Cincinnati *nickname*Cincinnati, Ohio US, 1899

- We were in Cincy in April and had a free day on our hands because this exhibition game was called off. — Bernard Malamud, The Natural, p. 47, 1952
- Keep out of Cincy in the fall—mean cops. — John Clellon Holmes, The Horn, p. 160, 1958
- Cinci, just another forlong border-south Queen City, the Gateway to something or other. — Bill Cardoso, The Maltese Sangweech and Other Heroes, p. 175, 1984

Cinderella liberty noun

a short release from military duty and from base restrictions US, 1961

- Wagoner said yes, ten percent of the battalion would be allowed Cinderella liberty (ending at midnight) in Danang. — Philip Caputo, A Rumor of War, p. 129, 1977
- Large signs were strategically placed along the way that stated the penalty for being caught out in town after midnight, when curfew began for all enlisted men holding the pay grade of E-5 or below, and remained in effect until 5:00 a.m. This was commonly known as “Cinderella Liberty.” — Bruce H. Norton, Force Recon Diary, p. 5, 1992
- “NoFuck Virginia.” Recruits learn to say “NoFuck” on their first Cinderella liberty when they have to be back on base by midnight without getting “any.” — Maria Flook, My Sister Life, p. 62, 1998

ciphering noun

arithmetic US, 1905

- I liked ciphering all right, but I didn’t care much for spelling and studying the Bible and memorizing psalms. — James Lincoln Collier, My Brother Sam is Dead, p. 66, 1974

circle noun

1 a group of close and trusted friends US, 2006

- On the street, the circle was your group of tights—your buddies. — Stephen J. Cannell, White Sister, p. 139, 2006

2 any group of people playing footbag US, 1997

- — Jim Crotty, How to Talk American, p. 122, 1997

circle verb▶ circle a game

(of a bookmaker) to limit the amount that may be bet on a given game or race when the bookmaker suspects that the game or race is fixed US, 1978

- — Burgess Laughlin, Job Opportunities in the Black Market, p. 5, 1978

▶ circle the drain

1 to be near death US, 1994

- — Los Angeles Times, p. B1, 19th December 1994

2 by extension, said of a project or enterprise that is nearing collapse US, 1997

- — Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 38, 1997

circled adjective

married US, 1960

- — San Francisco Examiner, p. III-2, 22nd March 1960

circle jerk noun

1 group male masturbation, sometimes mutual and sometimes simply a shared solitary experience US, 1958

- The “circle jerk,” or mass masturbation, is a common sex activity. — Harrison E. Salisbury, The Shook-up Generation, p. 32, 1958
- He is also a participant in the circle-jerks held with the shades pulled down in Smolka’s living room after school. — Philip Roth, Portnoy’s Complaint, p. 194, 1969
- If there are several persons present, and somehow it has been determined that all are “O.K.,” a circle jerk will result. — John Francis Hunter, The Gay Insider, p. 191, 1971
- Sometimes the event [a college fraternity hazing] is a circle-jerk, with each guy fisting the cock of the guy next to him. — Drummer, p. 73, 1977

2 any non-productive, time-wasting exercise US, 1973

- It all sounded unreal to me, a vicious faggot circle-jerk. — Xaviera Hollander, Xaviera, p. 35, 1973
- The grand jury is off on a giant circle jerk. They’ve got nothing. — Steven Paul Martini, The Judge, p. 42, 1995
- Reality was troubling and deeply relevant, a refreshing departure from the usual circle jerk of undergraduate publishing. — Tom Perrotta, Joe College, p. 36, 2000

3 a series of exit consoles on websites that link back on themselves, creating an infinite loop US, 2004

- — www.adultquarter.com/blossary.html, January 2004

circle-jerk verb

to participate in group male masturbation US, 1971

- [S]ucking, fucking, circle-jerking, all anonymously performed. — John Francis Hunter, The Gay Insider, p. 26, 1971

Circle K noun

the recreational drug ketamine US, 1998

- A punning allusion to a US national chain of convenience stores.
- The stolen drugs include pentobarbital, Valium, and ketamine—known on the streets as “Circle K.” — Press Journal (Vero Beach, Florida), p. A3, 14th March 1998

circuit noun

a series of homosexual parties held each year around the US, with participants flying from city to city for the festivities US

- — Kevin Dillalo, The Unofficial Gay Manual, p. 238, 1994
- The gay urban scene today encompasses what has come to be known as the “circuit,” a series of large gay dance parties that occur throughout the year in cities around the country and around the world, attended by tens of thousands of gay men. — Michelangelo Signorile, Life Outside, p. xxiv, 1997

circuit girl noun

a traveling prostitute US, 2002

- Laticia says the pimps use “tudge boys,” street slang for hired enforcers, not only to rough up circuit girls who get out of line, but also to patrol Colfax, looking for crack whores out of bounds. — Denver Westward, 2nd May 2002

circuit queen noun

a male homosexual who follows the circuit from party to party US, 1994

- — Kevin Dillalo, The Unofficial Gay Manual, p. 238, 1994
- Whether you’re a circuit queen or a suburban dad, just coming out or stoically postgay, Drama Queen takes you kindly by the hand and leads you on an exploration of the unique and oft-misunderstood dynamics of our daily lives. — Patrick Price, Drama Queen, p. xviii, 2001

circular file noun

a wastebasket US, 1947

- Cladny is one of many who has loaded the circular file with fundraising literature from organizations to which he has already contributed. — Washington Post, p. C14, 24th December 1981
- It’s going right into the old circular file as soon as I make a couple routine calls to the feds. — Carl Hiaasen, Tourist Season, p. 21, 1986

circus noun

1 sexual behavior that is public, fetishistic or both US, 1878

- [B]aby spotlights were focused on the three naked women who were participating in the circus. — Irving Shulman, Cry Tough, p. 176, 1949
- If they desire the kind of entertainment most ordinarily referred to as a sex circus, they do their booking through a pimp or out of a brothel. — Lois O’Conner, The Bare Facts, p. 45, 1964
- When I came in here, our deal included no circuses, no shows, no peeping. — Robert Leslie, Confessions of a Lesbian Prostitute, p. 66, 1965
- I mean, we all decided with Gwenie we could now handle “trio tricks” and put on more “shows” and “circuses” and stuff like that. — Joey V., Portrait of Joey, p. 131, 1969

2 feigned spasms by a drug addict to convince a doctor to prescribe a narcotic US, 1949

- [T]he junkie was throwing a regular circus for the boys, tossing himself about on the floor. — Nelson Algren, The Man with the Golden Arm, p. 206, 1949
- — J.E. Schmidt, Narcotics Lingo and Lore, p. 30, 1959

circus bees; circus squirrels noun

body lice US, 1981

- — Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 54, 1981

circus simple adjective

obsessed with the circus US, 1975

- — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 26, 1980

circus tent noun

an apartment or house where customers pay to view sexual exhibitions US, 1959

- And behind the respectable-looking facades of the apartment buildings were the plush flesh cribs and poppy pads and circus tents of Harlem. — Chester Himes, The Real Cool Killers, p. 61, 1959

citizen noun

1 an ordinary person outside a gang or club US, 1987

- Mob guys or fences I recognized were mixed in with ordinary customers, what wiseguys call “citizens,” people not connected with the mob. — Joseph Pistone, Donnie Brasco, p. 46, 1987
- As Hell’s Angels, we lived in our own underground world, barely part of the citizens’ world and having as little to do with them as possible. — Ralph “Sonny” Barger, Hell’s Angel, p. 109, 2000

2 a fellow member of a youth gang US, 1953

- — Dale Kramer and Madeline Karr, Teen-Age Gangs, p. 174, 1953
- [C]hicken, smart money man, citizen, and many more. — Howard Polsky, Cottage Six, p. 24, 1962

3 a prisoner who has earned the respect of other prisoners US, 1989

- — James Harris, A Convict’s Dictionary, p. 30, 1989

cits noun▶ the cits

Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minnesota US, 1966

- — John D. Bell et al., Loosely Speaking, p. 4, 1966

City *nounThe City

San Francisco, California US, 1955

Uniformly used by northern Californians, who shun FRISCO.

- [F]rom LA I ride the freight on up to the City and en route I want to visit the Buddhist Monastery at Santa Barbara. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Malcolm Crowley, pp. 502–503, 19 July 1955

-city suffix

a good example of the precedent noun US, 1930

- Fat City: an extremely favorable situation. — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 115, 1968
- “One of my prize suckers is taking a cue stick from the rack to make the trip to trim city.” — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Trick Baby, p. 183, 1969
- This has never failed. Poon City! You are there! — Terry Southern, Now Dig This: The Unspeakeable Writings of Terry Southern 1950–1995, p. 5, 1986
- The reporters ignored him—snore city. — James Ellroy, White Jazz, p. 64, 1992

city block noun

in horse racing, a large margin of victory or a large lead US, 1951

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 19, 1951

city college noun

a jail, especially the New York City jail UK, 1796

- He was sent first to the Tombs, a jail his old gangster friends called City College. — Rich Cohen, Tough Jews, p. 79, 1999 civilian noun

- 1 anyone who is not a member of the group with which the speaker identifies, especially a motorcycle gang US, 1946
- Ricky finished his glass of red while they argued who was meaner, dirtier, who'd stomped more civilians, hit more cops, got brought up on more charges. — Elmore Leonard, Gitz, p. 240, 1985
 - "Keep the suit pressed, the shoes shined, and let them think you are a civilian." — Richard Condon, Prizzi's Family, pp. 32–33, 1986
 - Generally, they held themselves to a higher standard of honesty and commitment than most civilians I knew. — Peter Coyote, Sleeping Where I Fall, p. 112, 1998
- 2 a non-regular officer US, 1947
- Patton recommended only seven full colonelcies—four Regulars, three "civilians." — Robert S. Allen, Patton's Third U.S. Army, p. 45, 1947
- 3 in twelve-step recovery programs such as Alcoholics Anonymous, a person who is not involved in and does not need to be involved in a recovery program US, 1998
- — Christopher Cavanaugh, AA to Z, p. 68, 1998

civil serpent noun

- used as a humorous synonym for "civil servant" US, 1980
- If not corrupted or manipulated by development interests, pandering politicians or civil serpents, the boards hold the promise of a planning process more sensitive to the needs and desires of the city's diverse neighborhoods. — Los Angeles Times, p. 2 (Part 8), 23rd November 1986

civvies noun

civilian clothes UK, 1889
Military usage.

- Probably an admiral in civvies, spying out the next war. — Philip Wylie, Opus 21, p. 142, 1949
- As a matter of fact, blues, 1505's or civvies must be worn when going into Saigon, and they encourage civvies. — Bryan Dubois, Reflection of Home, pp. 9, 31 October 1965: Letter Home
- Last but not least fill the refrigerator, get the civvies out of mothballs and fill the car with gas. Because the kid is coming home . . . — Rick Holt, Letter Home, 24 11 1971
- When she saw Harry walk in wearing his pre-war civvies, his wrists and ankles sticking out like Huck Finn's, she promptly burst into laughter. — Max Shulman, Rally Round the Flag, Boys!, p. 24, 1957
- He slammed a plastic bag down on the counter. "These are the civvies you came in with. Put 'em on." — Gerald Petievich, One-Shot Deal, p. 157, 1981

c-jame noun

cocaine US, 1968

- — Current Slang, p. 15, Fall 1968

CK noun

- 1 a member of a youth gang that is a rival of the Crips US, 1991
An abbreviation of "Crip Killer"
- "He say somethin' like 'C.K.' to me and I'm like, 'What, nigger? Fuck slobst!'" — Leon Bing, Do or Die, p. 23, 1991
- 2 Calvin Klein™ clothing US, 2000
Favored by members of the Bloods youth gang, to whom the initials also stand for "Crip Killer"
- — Bill Valentine, Gangs and Their Tattoos, p. 77, 2000
- 3 a mixture of cocaine and the recreational drug ketamine US, 1995
- Users pay from $20 to $40 per dose, or "bump," usually to be mixed with heroin or cocaine and snorted (the coke/ketamine combo is called CK or the "Calvin Klein Special").] — The Record [Bergen County, New Jersey], p. A1, 5th December 1995

clack verb

to rattle the dice when switching altered dice in or out of a game; always inadvertent and usually disastrous to the cheat US, 1950

- — The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, p. 123, May 1950

clacker noun

- 1 a dollar US, 1918
- Commencing shortly after the first of the year, he'll get some 25,000 clackers per annum.[.] — San Francisco Examiner, p. 19, 20th December 1945
 - In Alameda County, where the officials have a thrifty eye toward the public clacker, the Supervisors and their lawyers have been recovering assessment losses. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 35, 3rd February 1966
- 2 a triggering device for claymore mines US, 1990
- I took out a couple of frags and placed them on the ground next to the clacker, the firing device for the claymore mine. — Larry Chambers, Recondo, p. 58, 1992

clackers noun

the teeth; false teeth US, 1950

- [R]emembering my father's ugly pink clackers soaking in their bedside glass of water. — Leonard Garment, Crazy Rhythm, p. 265, 2000

claim verb

- to self-identify as a youth gang member US, 1993
- "He claim?" Jaus asked. "He's West Coast. He's OK." — Bob Sipchen, Baby Insane and the Buddha, p. 234, 1993
 - "It was good to see some old friends, kids I knew in elementary school before I claimed Crip." — Gini Sikes, 8 Ball Chicks, p. 83, 1997
 - "Me and Smiley want him to claim the set," T.J. says. — Colton Simpson, Inside the Crips, p. 19, 2005

claimer noun

a crime victim US, 1993

- "You look like a claimer. A mark." — Bob Sipchen, Baby Insane and the Buddha, p. 94, 1993 claiming noun

a method of casino cheating, in which a cheat claims that a slot machine malfunctioned and they received no payment or inadequate payment from a win US, 1985

- It is informally called claiming and can occur in a variety of situations in which the players falsely claim that the slot machine has malfunctioned. — Jim Regan, Winning at Slot Machine, p. 67, 1985

clam noun

- 1 the vagina US, 1916
- I was gobblin' her clam like it was the last supper. — Richard Price, The Wanderers, p. 37, 1974
 - Imagine bein' the lucky guy lucky enuff to remove her straps before nuzzlin' her knockers and then proceeding south to dig for clam! — Richard Meltzer, A Whore Just Like the Rest, p. 367, 1977
 - I will not shake my clam in front of a tragically hip East Village audience for $35 a night when I can be doing the same in Jersey for $300 a night. — James Ridgeway, Red Light: Inside the Sex Industry, p. 153, 1996
 - [A] hot and humid shower scene that steams Genevieve straight down to her clam. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin's Skincyclopedia, p. 88, 2005
- 2 the anus US, 1983
- — Maledicta, p. 197, 1983: "Ritual and personal insults in stigmatized subcultures"
- 3 the mouth; the lip US, 1825
- "You better open your clams and talk." — Herbert Simmons, Corner Boy, p. 225, 1957
- 4 a dollar US, 1886
- I take him for fifty clams a day. — Horace McCoy, Kiss Tomorrow Good-bye, p. 354, 1948
 - Oh, it ain't going to cost nothing, like something like little old two million clams. — William "Lord" Buckley, Hip Eerie, 1955
 - "So I beat him for about ten thousand clams," he told Bea finally. — George Clayton Johnson, Ocean's Eleven, p. 102, 1960
 - Thousand, yes, bones or clams or whatever you call them. — The Big Lebowski, 1998
- 5 a betting chip in a poker game US, 1988
- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 21, 1988
- 6 in a musical performance, a missed cue or an off-key note US, 1955
- — Robert S. Gold, A Jazz Lexicon, p. 58, 1964
 - — David Shenk and Steve Silberman, Skeleton Key, p. 39, 1994

clam; clam up verb

to stop talking US, 1916

- I haven't got enough to lean on you and make you open up, but you can believe it that I'm going to get something that'll make you give this clammung up another thought. — Robert Campbell, The Cat's Meow, p. 113, 1988
- Phil, I'm just scared he's gonna clam up on me with all these sheriffs all over the place. — Natural Born Killers, 1994

clambake noun

a session in which jazz musicians collectively improvise US, 1937
From CLAM (a missed note).

- — Arnold Shaw, Lingo of Tin-Pan Alley, p. 9, 1950
- — Robert S. Gold, A Jazz Lexicon, p. 58, 1964

clambaking noun

smoking marijuana with a group in an enclosed space US, 2002

- clam baking—Burning and inhaling of marijuana openly in an enclosed area with multiple people. — Dictionary of New Terms (Hope College), 2002

clam-diggers noun

calf-length pants US, 1947
The suggestion is that the pants are an appropriate length for digging for clams in mud flats.

- They go over any skirt and top off all the shorts, clam-diggers and slacks combinations you have for the summer. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 11, 15th June 1947
- Mario Villalobos watched the bearded young vice cop, who wore a tank top and clam diggers[.] — Joseph Wambaugh, The Delta Star, p. 17, 1983

clam gun noun

a shovel or other digging implement US, 1927

- — Russell Tabbert, Dictionary of Alaskan English, p. 165, 1991

clamp verb

► clamp it to
to have sex US, 1963

- "Generally, I talk about clamping it to some old girl, because you start talking about sex around here and half these guys lose their minds." [Interview with Walt Grove] — Playboy, p. 130, May 1963

clam-shell verb

► to get clam-shelled to be engulfed by a wave while surfing US, 1991

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfn'ary, p. 21, 1991

clam squirt noun

vaginal secretions US, 1974

- Anyways, I get this knife an' some bread and I stuck the knife up her ol' patoot, got a nice gob of clam squirt, an' I spread it on the bread. — Richard Price, The Wanderers, p. 37, 1974

Clan noun

► the Clan
a group of performers and friends surrounding Frank Sinatra in the 1950s and 60s US, 1960
Better known as the Rat Pack.

- "The Clan," as they've been dubbed by others, possess talent, charm, romance, and a devil-may care nonconformity that gives them immense popular appeal. — Playboy, p. 34, June 1960

clanger noun

in poker, a drawn card that does nothing to improve your hand US, 1996

Also known as a “clang.”

- John Vorhaus, The Big Book of Poker Slang, p. 10, 1996

clangers noun

the testicles UK, 1961

- You like real clangers? I'll show you a pair that gong like Big Ben! — Joseph Wambaugh, The Secrets of Harry Bright, p. 47, 1985

clank verb

1 to be nervous US, 1955

- For a fellow down to his last fuel, it's “bingo.” If he “clanks,” he's nervous and if he “augers in” he crashed. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 10 (II), 2nd June 1957

2 to reject a romantic overture or partner US, 1959

- Time Magazine, p. 46, 24th August 1959

clap noun

gonorrhoea UK, 1587

From old French clapoir (a sore caused by venereal disease); the term was normal register for centuries, slipping into colloquial or slang in mid-C19.

- But all the way out west, to Washington, he kept worrying about whether he was going to get a clap. — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 135, 1961
- But how do you get the clap? By doing it, and anybody who does that dirty thing obviously deserves to get the clap. — Lenny Bruce, How to Talk Dirty and Influence People, p. 54, 1965
- There is an awful lot of clap in the U.S.—and while rubbers are a drag, the clap is something else again. — Berkeley Barb, p. 10, 2nd June 1967
- Joy, there's no way you can get the clap unless you go to the Heart O'Texas Motel with Roy Kennerdine or Billy Bob Simpson or any of those other off-brand, drop-case guys you hang around with in the afternoons. — Dan Jenkins, Dead Solid Perfect, p. 77, 1986

clap verb

to kill someone US, 2002

- Check reportedly screamed obscenities at the woman and threatened to “clap” her and her sister. “Clap” is street slang for murder, police said. — Connecticut Post, p. 1, 8th April 2002

clap checker noun

a member of the Medical Corps US, 1984

Vietnam war usage, identifying medics by the least glorious of their duties.

- Terms for enlisted men of the Medical Corps include bedpan commando, chancre mechanic, clap checker. — John Etling et al., A Dictionary of Soldier Talk, p. 196, 1984

clap clinic noun

a medical practice that treats all sexually transmitted diseases US, 1976

- Susan Quist, On the Way to the Clap Clinic, 1976
- You were down the clap clinic so many times last season you were on first-name terms with all the doctors. — Colin Butts, Is Harry on the Boat?, 1997

clap out verb

to kill US

- Craig said the threat was worded in street slang: “We need to clap him out.” — Detroit News, 24th February 2014

clappy adjective infected with a sexually transmitted infection, especially

gonorrhoea US, 1937

- Before I'd touch your slimy thighs / which a thousand crabs has bit / I'd drink a gallon a drunkard's puke / and suck a clappy dick. — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 124, 1964

claps noun

gonorrhoea US, 1965

Largely black usage.

- “She had the claps,” he said, “and those Texas claps got bigger monster bugs.” — Christina and Richard Milner, Black Players, p. 72, 1972
- [T]hese beast ain't got NO IDEA how to help a man get rid of the claps. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 62, 1973
- John A. Holm, Dictionary of Bahamian English, p. 43, 1982

clap shack noun

a clinic or hospital ward where sexually transmitted infections are treated US, 1952

- The place their unfortunate owners are sent for treatment is the clap shack. — Paul Fussell, Wartime, p. 257, 1989

clap sticks noun

in the television and movie industries, the clapboard used for synchronizing sound and picture US, 1987

- Ira Konigsberg, The Complete Film Dictionary, p. 52, 1987

claptrap noun

a brothel with a high incidence of sexually transmitted infections US, 1986–1987

- Maledicta, p. 150, Summer/Winter 1986–1987: “Sexual slang: prostitutes, pedophiles, flagellators, transvestites, and necrophiles”

claret noun

blood US, 1962

- Floyd Janney balefully bubbled, spitting out a mouthful of broken teeth and claret[.] — David Gregory, Flesh Seller, p. 119, 1962

Clarisse noun

used as a term of address among male homosexuals US, 1965

- Fact, p. 26, January-February 1965

clarity noun

MDMA, the recreational drug best known as ecstasy US, 1989

- Bruce Eisner, Ecstasy, p. 1, 1989
- Miramonte High School Parents Club Newsletter (Orinda, California), p. 1, 26th November 2001

clary noun

a clarinet US, 1942

- Robert S. Gold, A Jazz Lexicon, p. 59, 1964

classic adjective

1 excellent US, 1964

- John Severson, Modern Surfing Around the World, p. 166, 1964
- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Spring 1990

2 handsome, well-dressed US, 1998

- Ethan Hilderbrant, Prison Slang, p. 25, 1998

classy chassis noun

an attractive female body US, 1955

- American Weekly, p. 2, 14th August 1955
- Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 37, 1970
- Joe Fabrini tells a waitress, played by Ann Sheridan, that she has a “classy chassis” and that he likes the way she “fills out” her clothes. — Thaddeus Russell, Out of the Jungle, p. 119, 2003
- Raven De La Croix is one of the most stacked classy chassis in history. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin's Skincyclopedia, p. 139, 2005

claw noun

a pickpocket US, 1914

- Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 44, 1950
- Don Wilmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 55, 1981

clay eater noun

a poor rural dweller US, 1841

- “Clay-eaters” was a term often applied to far-flung denizens of the unsettled South. — Jim Goad, The Redneck Manifesto, p. 85, 1997

claymore clacker noun

the triggering device for a claymore antipersonnel mine US, 1994

- He squeezed the claymore clacker briskly, heard an explosion, and saw the side of the house shake as though struck by a flaming tornado. — T. Michael Booth, Retribution, p. 270, 1994
- “I checked my rifle and laid in on my lap, made sure the claymore clacker was close at hand, and then settled in to watching the jungle in front of me.” — Kregg Jorgenson, Very Crazy G.I., p. 43, 2001

clay pigeon noun

a person who is easily victimized US, 1972

- Helen Dahlskog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 13, 1972

clean verb

1 to rid yourself of altered dice, altered cards, or any evidence of cheating US, 1950

- The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, p. 123, May 1950

2 in mountain biking, to succeed in negotiating an obstacle or set of obstacles without accident US, 1996

- [A] series of five to seven small obstacles that I know I can clean without much thought. — Mountain Bike Magazine's Complete Guide To Mountain Biking Skills, p. 41, 1996

▶ clean it up to clarify or explain something US, 1942

- William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 14, 1942

▶ clean out the kitchen; clean up the kitchen to perform oral sex on a woman US, 1941

- Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 51, 1964

▶ clean the books to induce a criminal to confess to a series of unsolved crimes US, 1984

- Inez Cardozo-Freeman, The Joint, p. 488, 1984

▶ clean someone's bones to thrash or defeat someone soundly in a fight US, 1963

- American Speech, p. 276, December 1963: “American Indian student slang”

▶ clean someone's clock to severely defeat someone, physically or in a competition US, 1908

- [S]ince Turnipseed had got his clock cleaned in his own cell it wasn't difficult to determine who deserved the credit. — Malcolm Braly, On the Yard, p. 202, 1967

- “We played poker,” added Jeremiah-Dumpling. “Cleaned his fucking clock.” — Carl Hiaasen, Native Tongue, p. 356, 1991

▶ clean the pipes

to ejaculate; to masturbate US, 1998

- DOM: You know, clean the pipes. TED: Pipes? What are you talking about? DOM: You jerk off before all big dates, right? — Something About Mary, 1998

▶ clean the slate

to confess to unsolved crimes in hopes of winning better treatment from the police US, 1972

- So to make it easier for everybody we'd just what we called “clean the slate” for them. — Harry King, Box Man, p. 97, 1972

▶ clean the table

- in pool, to shoot all of the remaining balls in one turn US, 1989
 ● — Mike Shamos, The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Billiards, p. 51, 1993

▶ clean up your hands

- in prison, to stay out of trouble US, 1970
 ● First they do this by staying out of trouble, “cleaning up their hands.” — John Irwin, The Felon, p. 70, 1970

▶ clean yourself

- to make sure that you are not being followed while driving US, 1987
 ● Obviously Guido had just been cleaning himself, making sure nobody was following him, with the run to Staten Island. — Joseph Pistone, Dannie Brasco, p. 98, 1987

▶ clean the wing

- to drop all of a plane's bombs simultaneously US
 ● They could either “clean the wing”—pickle off all the bombs at the same time—or drop them in pairs, or one at a time. — Christopher Robins, Ravens: The Men Who Flew in America's Secret War in Laos, p. 402, 1987 clean adjective1 clean free US, 1949

- “Look, I kicked. I'm clean, I tell yah!” Fay repeated. — Alexander Trocchi, Cain's Book, p. 156, 1960
- I was thinkin' 'bout askin' you to see what you can do for me. I mean, like, when I get clean. — Nathan Heard, Howard Street, p. 79, 1968
- “If I don't get anything else out of all this,” he said, “I'm going to get clean.” — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 102, 1990
- I have to take a drug test every six months to make sure I'm clean. — American Beauty, 1999

2 innocent; free of suspicion; without a trace of guilt; without a criminal record US, 1925

- This is clean shit. No serial numbers and never been used. — 48 Hours, 1982
- I've been picked up a couple times. Loan sharking. Racketeering. But I was never convicted. I'm clean. — Get Shorty, 1995

3 not subject to police surveillance US, 2003

- If some punk asks you if your ride is “clean,” he wants to know if it was tailed or not. — Henry Hill and Byron Schreckengost, A Good Fella's Guide to New York, p. 13, 2003

4 (used of an illegal betting operation) unafraid of police intervention because of bribes paid to the police US, 1951

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 20, 1951

5 excellent, fashionable, stylish US, 1963

- — San Francisco Examiner, p. 8, 27th October 1963
- It was the one who had a Thunderbird, and some clean vines. — H. Rap Brown, Die Nigger Die!, p. 9, 1969
- It was lowered to da ground, had twice-pipes, candy-apple red and button top. Ooo, clean! — Cheech Marin and Tommy Chong, Santa Claus and his Old Lady, 1971
- Now we were big-time pimps from the New York scene / And believe me, Jim, we were both real clean. — Dennis Wepman et al., The Life, p. 36, 1976

6 (used of a theatrical performance) completely sold out US, 1973

- — Sherman Louis Sergei, The Language of Show Biz, p. 49, 1973

7 in circus and carnival usage, without value US, 1981

- — Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 55, 1981

8 (of an object ball in pool) directly into the pocket without touching a cushion or another ball US, 1993

- — Mike Shamos, The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Billiards, p. 51, 1993

clean and ready adjective

- prepared; dressed nicely US, 1980
 ● — Edith A. Frob, runnin' down some lines, p. 232, 1980

cleaner noun1 a hired killer US, 2000

- Tiny stars placed on the arm in any fashion indicate that the wearer is a hitter (also known as a “cleaner” or “torpedo”). — Bill Valentine, Gangs and Their Tattoos, p. 36, 2000

2 in circus and carnival usage, the person who retrieves money from paid players who have been allowed to win a concession game to drum up business US, 1981

- — Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 55, 1981

clean freak noun

- a person who is obsessed with cleanliness US, 1967
 ● He blamed his affliction on dirt, and he was a tireless clean freak who liked the cell spotless. — Malcolm Braly, On the Yard, p. 7, 1967

cleaning crew noun

- the members of a criminal enterprise who rid the crime scene of possible evidence and at times any bodies resulting from the crime US, 1997

- Tommy had decided not to use a contracted cleaning crew. On some hits a crew of “sanitation specialists” would follow in right behind to wash the crime scene down with detergents and vacuum the carpets, eliminating trace evidence. — Stephen Cannell, King Con, p. 20, 1997

cleaning kit noun

- the equipment needed to rid a crime scene of possible evidence US, 1997

- “Okay,” Texaco said, “looking at the cleaning kit in a Gucci leather suitcase beside him.” — Stephen Cannell, King Con, p. 20, 1997

clean peeler noun

- to a surfer, a perfect wave US, 1997
 ● — Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 38, 1997

cleansleeve noun

- a low-ranking military recruit US, 1909
 ● Yet only five years after graduating—“clean sleeve,” with no rank chevrons—Davison had commanded a battalion in France. — Rick Atkinson, The Long Gray Line, p. 65, 1989

clean-the-kitchen noun

- corned beef hash US, 1946
 ● — American Speech, p. 89, April 1946: “The language of west coast culinary workers” clean time noun

- the amount of time that has passed since a prisoner was last in trouble US, 1975

- I spent six months in the Paso Robles Hole because I couldn't get enough clean time together. — James Carr, Bad, p. 42, 1975
- — James Harris, A Convict's Dictionary, p. 30, 1989

clean-up noun1 a good alibi US, 1990

- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 201, 1990

2 a wave that breaks seaward of most surfers, causing them to lose their boards and thus cleaning up the area US, 1964

- — John Severson, Modern Surfing Around the World, p. 166, 1964

cleanup team noun

- the members of a criminal enterprise who rid a crime scene of any possible evidence and at times bodies resulting from the crime US, 1997

- Problem was, you had to know the cleanup team was solid. — Stephen Cannell, King Con, p. 20, 1997

clean works noun

- a new needle and syringe US, 1993
 A concept and term new in the age of AIDS.
 ● — Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 41, 1993 clear verb▶ clear the channel

- to stop talking US, 1962
 ● — Dobie Gillis Teenage Slangage Dictionary, 1962

clear gravy noun

- an unexpected bonus or profit US, 1975
 An embellishment of the more common GRAVY.
 ● — John Gould, Maine Lingo, p. 52, 1975

clearinghouse noun

- an illegal lottery US, 1951
 More commonly known as a NUMBERS game.
 ● — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 44, 1987 clear light noun

- a stage in some LSD experiences in which the user feels receptive to enlightenment US, 1971
 ● — Edward R. Bloomquist, Marijuana, p. 336, 1971

Clem noun

- in the circus or carnival, a fight with customers US, 1891
 ● — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 26, 1980

clerk noun

- in American casinos, an exceptionally skilled dealer US, 1980
 ● — Lee Solkey, Dummy Up and Deal, p. 109, 1980
 ● — Steve Kuriscak, Casino Talk, p. 12, 1985

clerks and jerks noun

- clerical support personnel and officers US, 1975
 Vietnam war usage. The high degree of cynicism about officers found in enlisted men was even more intense in Vietnam.
 ● Running a god-damned club when there's nobody on the rear except clerks and jerks. — John M. Del Vecchio, The 13th Valley, p. 461, 1982
 ● [T]he second plane was filled with the clerks and jerks—the Ranger support company, whose weapons probably weren't even loaded. — Richard Marcinko, Rogue Warrior, p. 329, 1992
 ● “When operations gets really strapped for door gunners, they even let some of the clerks and jerks tag along!” — Richard Burns, Pathfinder, pp. 123–124, 2002

Cleveland portrait noun

- a one-thousand-dollar bill US, 1952
 ● “A couple of those Cleveland portraits will do it.” — Harry Grey, The Hoods, p. 141, 1952

cleverly adverb

- (used of a racehorse winning a race) easily US, 1960
 ● — Robert Saunders Dowst and Jay Craig, Playing the Races, p. 161, 1960

click noun1 a gang US, 1879

- A corrupted spelling of “clique.”
 ● You know there's a lot of streets where a whole “click” is made out of punks who can't fight.[.] — Piri Thomas, Down These Mean Streets, p. 49, 1967
 ● I'd been hearing about him on the street in Harlem, he was the war counselor of some click uptown on Lenox Avenue. — Edwin Torres, Carlito's Way, p. 20, 1975
 ● Just remember, if you join a prison tip or click, you'll never fit in out there again. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 153, 1990
 ● Everyone in here is associated in “clicks” or gangs. Since I am an outsider to these “clicks” I live a fearful existence. — Miles Harvey, The Island of Lost Maps, p. 213, 2000

2 a kilometer US, 1962

Also spelt “klick” or “klik”.

- “The second objective is two clicks below the first objective, and five clicks to the east.” — Richard Tregaskis, Vietnam Diary, p. 258, 1963
- The groups would always be two or three clicks from another. — Corinne Browne, Body Shop, p. 33, 1973
- I saw some bodies about half a klick this side of Phy Cam Canal. — Full Metal Jacket, p. 120, 1990
- But six clicks can seem like a hundred miles / When you’re walking in Charlie’s land. — Thomas Bowen, The Longest Year, p. 40, 1990 clicker *noun1 crack cocaine mixed with phencyclidine, the recreational drug known as PCP or angel dust US, 1994

- — US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994

2 a brick US, 1989

- — Ellen C. Bellone (Editor), Dictionary of Slang, p. 7, 1989

3 in circus and carnival usage, a free pass US, 1981

- — Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 55, 1981

clicks and mortar; C&M noun

a business that combines trading from traditional business premises with Internet-based commerce US, 1999

A play on “bricks and mortar”, a traditional business.

- He struck a chord with his audience by saying companies that learn how to seamlessly blend virtual and physical assets will emerge as big winners in what he called the new “clicks and mortar” economy. — Washington Post, p. E1, 22nd July 1999
- Such “clicks and mortar” retailers give customers the option to purchase or order on-line and then pick up the product at a bricks-and-mortar branch. — Harvard Business Review, Harvard Business Review on Marketing, p. 61, 2001

Cliffie noun

a student or alumna of Radcliffe College, Harvard University US, 1961

- Obviously the Cliffie who greeted me read the Crimson and knew who I was. — Erich Segal, Love Story, p. 25, 1970

C light noun

in the pornography industry, a light used to illuminate the genitals of the performers US, 1991

“c” as in cunt.

- This is Randy’s dick here. We lit it so it wouldn’t look so white and unreal: a little light called the C light. — Robert Stoller and I.S. Levine, Coming Attractions, p. 131, 1991
- The c-light is a light shined directly on the action (whether you want to call it crotch or cookie or cunt). It helps us see the “c” better. Makes the “c” brighter. — The Village Voice, 3rd April 2001

cling *verb▶ cling to the belt

(used of South Vietnamese troops) to stay close to US troops US, 1988

- [T]he Vietnamese did all they could to keep the killing on an infantry-against-infantry basis by staying as close to the Americans as possible, a tactic they called “clinging to the belt.” — Neil Sheehan, A Bright Shining Lie, p. 574, 1988 clinging to the belt noun phrase a battlefield tactic in which North Vietnamese troops stayed very close to American troops US

- The close quarters deprived Moore’s men of the advantage of air and artillery, and the Vietnamese did all they could to keep the killing on an infantry-against-infantry basis by staying as close to the Americans as possible, a tactic they called “clinging to the belt.” — Neil Sheehan, A Bright and Shining Lie, p. 574, 1988 clinic *noun1 a poker game characterized by over-analysis of each hand US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 21, 1988

2 a poker game played by doctors US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 21, 1988

clink noun

a jail; a police station UK, 1785

Originally an infamous prison in Southwark, London, and then by the mid-C19 applied to any jail, prison, or cell.

- Mom left a big hole in his life, which he filled by marrying Betty Bugbee when she got out of the clink. — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 301, 1954
- I heard that after the fracas in Harlem she landed in the clink[.] — Ross Russell, The Sound, p. 287, 1961
- [T]he western lead will be Rusty Godowsky who is aimed for stardom if he stays out of the clink[.] — Gore Vidal, Myra Breckinridge, p. 102, 1968
- He just laughed and said he’d probably see me in the clink before he got out. — Oscar Zeta Acosta, The Revolt of the Cockroach People, p. 253, 1973
- There were interviews with black neighborhood residents who said the police had to start hooking the kids up and throwing them in the clink. — Elmore Leonard, Switch, p. 100, 1978
- Rings was like, Wow, I never thought to find love in the clink! — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 83, 1990
- In those days, simply being a suspicious character could land you in the clink for three days without charges being pressed, a handy method for dealing with undesirables. — Kim Rich, Johnny’s Girl, p. 47, 1993

clinker *noun1 in the entertainment industry, a failure US, 1961

- This is, mind you, the definitive list of clinkers released in 1973. — San Francisco Examiner and Chronicle, Sunday Scene, p. 12, 13th January 1974

2 a wrong note in a musical performance US, 1937

- — Kenn “Naz” Young, Naz’s Underground Dictionary, p. 20, 1973
- — Arnold Shaw, Dictionary of American Pop/Rock, p. 79, 1982

3 a mistake US, 1937

- — Robert S. Gold, A Jazz Lexicon, p. 59, 1964

clinkeroo *noun1 jail or prison US, 1949

- “You are going downtown to the clinkeroo.” — Gene Fowler, Skyline, p. 35, 1961

clip *noun1 an occurrence or instance US, 1979

- Since then, I been on half a dozen scores—three, four thousand a clip—when I’m pressed to the wall. — Vincent Patrick, The Pope of Greenwich Village, p. 30, 1979

2 a swindle or other act of dishonest trickery US, 1941

- He felt it expedient to do so each day after he had put a hard clip on some sucker who might be inclined to wake up sober and call for the bluecoats. — Robert Sylvester, No Cover Charge, p. 208, 1956
- [G]uys sitting around talking about the clip they’d made. — Herbert Huncke, Guilty of Everything, pp. 43–44, 1990

3 a string of bottles containing doses of crack cocaine US, 1992

- She could carry two clips down in her panties, another two up top, and the Fury couldn’t do anything unless they pulled her into the precinct for a strip search. — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 5, 1992

4 in the circus or carnival, a patron US, 1980

- — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 26, 1980

clip *verb1 to steal something; to swindle someone; to win something, especially through cheating US, 1922

- Generally a runner made plenty for himself, taking a chance that the dough he clipped wasn’t on the number that pulled in the shekels. — Spillane, I, The Jury, p. 46, 1947
- I just clip a buck here and a buck there. It mounts up, but nobody gets hurt. — Jim Thompson, The Grifters, p. 72, 1963
- I clipped a dance moll for a swab, it paid a troy or a fin. — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 85, 1965
- Boy, you clipped me for ten grand and the others for at least another five. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Airtight Willie and Me, p. 112, 1979

2 to kill someone, especially by gunshot US, 1928

- “We’ve got to clip this guy.” — Robert Daley, Prince of the City, p. 103, 1978
- “You are the only one who can get close enough to her to do it,” his father said. “Zotz her? Clip Irene?” — Richard Condon, Prizzi’s Honor, p. 304, 1982
- [S]ick or no fuckin’ sick, you knew people were gonna get clipped. — Casino, 1995
- Hey, guys like Joe Loop get clipped all the time. It’s what they do, man, they get pissed off about something or bored and shoot each other; it’s their fate. — Elmore Leonard, Be Cool, p. 284, 1999

3 to hit someone US, 1855

- And I haven’t had to really clip a young Negro in years. — Ralph Ellison, Invisible Man, p. 144, 1947

clip and clean adverb

completely US, 1975

- The jolt took out his front tooth clip and clean. — John Gould, Maine Lingo, p. 53, 1975

clip-a-nines noun

a 9 mm ammunition clip US, 2001

- I’ve seen fifteen-year-olds roll pipe bombs under taxis and peel a clip-a-nines at a passing squad car. — Stephen J. Cannell, The Tin Collectors, p. 34, 2001

clip joint; clip dive noun

a bar, gambling house, or other business where customers are routinely cheated US, 1932

- Baltimore clip-dives operate more closely to the orthodox custom. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 283, 1951
- About the only real aggravation in those days, Watkins remembers, was a parking lot which separated the “legitimate” Stables from a clip joint a few yards East. — Robert Sylvester, No Cover Charge, p. 82, 1956
- “[M]ost of these night-clubs are just clip joints.” — Monroe Fry, Sex, Vice, and Business, p. 65, 1959
- Ralph got a job in a clip joint on West 49th Street and soon acquired a good reputation among the whores he protected from tricks complaining about being robbed. — Babs Gonzales, I Paid My Dues, p. 104, 1967

clipped dick noun

a Jewish person US, 1960

Derogatory.

- He thought about his wife sitting on that clipped-dick’s lap and his face twisted at the memory. — Lorraine Despres, The Scandalous Summer of Sissy LeBlanc, p. 331, 2001

clipper *noun1 a thief US, 1965

- No security staff could hope to beat this army of clippers without a lot of help. — I Was a House Detective, p. 120, 1954
- — Woman, 11th December 1965

2 a person who collects movie clips, usually of a single subject US, 1978

- — American Speech, p. 53, Spring 1978: “Star trek lives: trekker slang” clique up verb

to form small groups US, 1972

- There’s other characters, as soon as they walk in the wing, they’ll just clique right up with a group. — Bruce Jackson, Outside the Law, p. 155, 1972

clit noun

the clitoris US, 1958

- Why, I've only to give my clit a tiny flick right now and I'd be sopping. — Terry Southern, Candy, p. 49, 1958
- I'll blip her clit up and I'll blip it down, and I'll blip it east and west[.] — Robert Gover, Poorboy at the Party, p. 82, 1966
- She told me her clit was so sensitive when I got through that she didn't think she could touch it for a week. — Roger Blake, What you always wanted to know about porno-movies, p. 244, 1972
- Kitt shows tit and mits her clit, masturbating full-frontally nude while she knows someone is watching. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin's Skincyclopedia, p. 445, 2005

clit-licking noun

oral sex on a woman, focused on her clitoris US, 2004

- Normally, I can't come from clit licking alone. — Diana Cage, Box Lunch, p. 88, 2004

clit ring noun

a piece of jewelry for a clitoral piercing US, 1995

As body piercing became more popular through the 1990s this prosaically named ornamentation, based on an abbreviation of "clitoris" became a familiar possibility.

- Even Madonna can be shocked as one of the lesbians shows her clit ring and laughs as the star grimaces with surprise and disgust. — Linda Grant, Sexing the Millennium, p. 246, 1995

clit tease noun

a heterosexual woman who socializes with lesbians without revealing that she is heterosexual US, 1993

- As the boy-toy turned clit tease, she played out the notion of the gaze. — Arlene Stein, Sisters, Sexperts, Queens, p. 124, 1993
- — Amy Sohn, Sex and the City, p. 154, 2002
- "Are you just a clit-tease, Kinkade?" — Kathy Lette, Deadly Sexy, p. 84, 2005

clitty

the clitoris UK, 1866

- We got chocolate clitty onstage for ya now. — Josh Alan Friedman, Tales of Times Square, p. 65, 1986
- She may want you to use your best soft, sloppy tongue for caressing her clit, or if she has a tough li'l clitty, a firm tongue might be just fine. — Jamie Goddard, Lesbian Sex Secrets for Men, p. 142, 2000

cloak verb

to send an electronic message in a manner that disguises the true origin of the message US, 1997

- — Andy Ihnatko, Cyberspeak, p. 40, 1997

cloak-and-dagger adjective

very secret; pertaining to espionage US, 1944

- The capital is overrun by snoops and spies, not only using every cloak-and-dagger device for foreign transmission, but assigned and trained to catch and report inter-bureau information, rumors included. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 245, 1951

cllobber verb

1 to strike someone forcefully US, 1944

- For no reason they were going to cllobber us. — Nat Hentoff, Jazz Country, p. 54, 1965

2 in computing, to overwrite a program US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 96, 1991

cllobbered adjective

drunk US, 1951

- You know. Drunk, stewed, cllobbered, gone, liquored up, oiled, stoned, in the bag. — Max Shulman, Guided Tour of Campus Humor, p. 106, 1955
- — American Speech, p. 156, May 1959: 'Gator (University of Florida) slang

clock verb

1 to catch sight of or notice someone or something; to watch someone or something US, 1929

- Big, gap-toothed smile of surprise, like we wasn't clocked before we came in the door, comes up from the pool table. — Edwin Torres, After Hours, p. 170, 1979
- When you walked in, Eddie, did you clock the two chinks? — Vincent Patrick, The Pope of Greenwich Village, p. 36, 1979

2 to keep track of a slot machine in an effort to make an educated guess as to when it will pay off US, 1984

- There's machine I'm clocking. Jackpot's getting up where it's getting interesting. — J. Edward Allen, The Basics of Winning Slots, p. 56, 1984

3 to keep track of the money involved in a game or an enterprise US, 1977

- — Robert C. Prus and C.R.D. Sharper, Road Hustler, p. 169, 1977

4 to figure something out, to evaluate something US, 1961

- I mean, he was already in Vegas a couple of years and he had the fuckin' place clocked. — Casino, 1995

5 to earn something US, 1989

- — Ellen C. Bellone (Editor), Dictionary of Slang, p. 7, 1989

6 to sell drugs on the street US, 1992

- This kid Strike is now out there on the streets clocking for Rodney, like his lieutenant or something, OK? — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 447, 1992 clock in to visit your boyfriend or girlfriend only out of a sense of duty US, 2004

- I'd love to drink and throw stuff off the roof with you guys, but I have to clock in with the boss or she'll cut me off. — Ben Applebaum and Derrick Pittman, Turd Ferguson & The Sausage Party, p. 13, 2004

clock in the green room while surfing, to take a long ride inside the hollow of a breaking wave US, 1991

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin'ary, p. 21, 1991

clock the action to understand what is happening and what is being said US, 1962

- — Dobie Gillis Teenage Slangue Dictionary, 1962

clocker noun

1 a street drug dealer, especially of crack cocaine US, 1992

- Strike's clockers got jumpy if they thought they were being watched. — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 5, 1992
- Daymond, Omar gave up, had done very well for himself, moving from clocker to pusher. — John Ridley, Everybody Smokes in Hell, p. 38, 1999

2 a watchman or guard, especially one who punches a time clock while making his rounds US, 1949

- — Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 52, 1949
- — Jay Robert Nash, Dictionary of Crime, p. 69, 1992

3 an onlooker US, 1976

- He bounced over and they giggled and kissed and performed a young lovers' routine for the benefit of the clockers and watchers in all the other cars. — Emmett Grogan, Final Score, p. 220, 1976

clock out verb

to act in a psychotic manner US, 1989

- — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 136, 1989

clockworks noun

the brain US, 1947

- — Marcus Hanna Boulware, Jive and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947

clocky noun

sudden waving arm movements of a surfer trying to get his balance US, 1991

- The judges took off half a point for each of those clockies you did on take-off. — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin'ary, pp. 21–22, 1991

clod noun

a stupid person UK, 1605

- You also need to convince yourself that there is nothing worse than stupid clods who ask pointless unnecessary questions. — Mad Magazine, Mad About the Sixties, p. 129, 1995

clodhopper noun

a person with big feet; big feet or big shoes UK, 1836

Evoking the image of a plowman with large, coarse boots.

- [S]o the Negro's supposed to lie down and let the paddy climb upon his chest with his clodhoppers. — Piri Thomas, Down These Mean Streets, p. 126, 1967
- He shifts his clodhopper feet as he exhales tension relief to discover her apparently innocent. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Doom Fox, p. 150, 1978

clone noun

1 a highly stylized, fashion-conscious homosexual male US, 1979

- [T]he Castro Street lot (often called clones) has a typical admixture of leather queens mostly "South of Market types." — Maledicta, p. 247, 1979
- First attracting attention as a definite type, it seems, in San Francisco and New York's Greenwich Village, the gay clone wears short hair and a clipped mustache, and (if possible) sports a sculpted chest with prominent pectorals. — Wayne Dynes, Homolexis, pp. 31–32, 1985
- It's always queens, by the way: clones don't start these scenes[.] — Ethan Morden, Buddies, p. 90, 1986

2 a personal computer that closely duplicates the functions and operations of a leading brand US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 96, 1991
- I am writing this in the tenuous privacy of my bedroom on my annoyingly obsolete AT clone. — C.D. Payne, Youth in Revolt, p. 3, 1993

clone verb

to reconfigure a stolen cell phone so that an existing subscriber is charged for all calls US, 1994

- To clone a regular cellular telephone, thieves steal the over-the-air electronic signal that identifies each cellular caller for billing purposes. — Newsday (New York), p. 3, 9th January 1994

close adjective

skilled US, 1959

- "Like he's close, man" (he is quite capable) and "touches home" (really makes sense). — Look, p. 49, 24th November 1959

close but no cigar; no cigar incorrect US, 1935

From carnival games giving cigars as prizes.

- I show him the picture of Helen in the summer dress. "Still no cigar," he says. — Robert Campbell, Junkyard Dog, p. 163, 1986
- The red-tail youngster went after the mouse, but it scurried away—close, but no cigar. — Marie Winn, Red-Tails in Love, p. 229, 1999

closed adjective

subject to strict law enforcement; unfriendly to criminal enterprises US, 1969

- Here I was with four idle whores in a closed town where I had fallen [been arrested] three times. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 279, 1969

closed door noun

a surf condition where waves are breaking simultaneously all along a beach, creating no shoulder to ride US, 1963

- — Grant W. Kuhns, On Surfing, p. 115, 1963

close out verb

(of waves) to become unsuitable for surfing, either because of their size or their breaking pattern US, 1991

- It's closing out completely. Let's call it. — Point Break, 1991

closer noun

in a sales team, the individual responsible for the final stages of negotiations US, 1906

- MASTER: Told them the job was free. Then you sent in your closer with some cover story about how you had suffered a nervous breakdown, and a sale was ultimately made for $2375.00. — Tin Men, 1987 closet noun▶ in the closet

hidden, not avowed US, 1967

Almost always applied to homosexuality.

- Do you know what it means to be "in the closet?" — Mart Crowley, The Boys in the Band, p. 169, 1968
- While gays who are prominent in businesses or professions in Manhattan many live in the closet in the city, they tend to be most relaxed and casual and open while in residence in The Hamptons[.] — John Francis Hunter, The Gay Insider, p. 253, 1971
- It sure puts you guys in the closet for a while. — George V. Higgins, The Friends of Eddie Doyle, p. 46, 1971
- Okay. So he's in the closet. — Edwin Torres, Q & A, p. 111, 1977

▶ out of the closet

avowed, open US, 1971

- So come on out of the closet, James[.] — Lester Bangs, Psychotic Reactions and Carburetor Dung, p. 115, 1973
- Yeah, well the only woman of the Indians we ran into was shackled up with her dyke girlfriend. I guess she went with him before she came outta the closet. — 48 Hours, 1982
- Especially with priests coming out of the closet and saying they're queer[.] — Robert Campbell, The Cat's Meow, p. 51, 1988

closet adjective

hidden, not admitted US, 1952

Most often but not always, and not first, used in conjunction with homosexuality.

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 45, 1967
- "Well," she said, "a closet intellectual." — Walter Tevis, The Color of Money, p. 52, 1984
- He was a middle-aged closet pervert from over in the Valley. He thought we didn't know. — Robert Campbell, Alice in La-La Land, p. 77, 1987
- Debbie thought I was just a frustrated closet bull dyke, and hung around all night, spitefully, I felt. — Jennifer Blowdryer, White Trash Debutante, p. 78, 1997

close-talker noun

a person who speaks to others without respecting the usual cultural protocols on not standing too close to someone you are talking to US, 1994

- A term popularized on Jerry Seinfeld's television program in an episode called "The Raincoat Party" first aired on 28th April 1994.
- Jake had to back away a couple of feet because Alan was a close-talker, and his breath smelled like sardines. — Jason Starr, Lights Out, p. 38, 2006

closet case noun

1 a person who is secretly homosexual US, 1969

- [Someone from Dallas—I think he's a closet case—wrote a horrible letter, from a Christian point of view. — Dan Woog, Jocks, p. 211, 1998
- Oh he's the biggest closet case walking. — Michelle Tea, The Passionate Mistakes and Intricate Corruption of One Girl in America, p. 38, 1998

2 someone to be ashamed of US, 1954

Teen slang, without any suggestion of the homosexuality later associated with the term.

- — Look, p. 88, 10th August 1954

3 a potential romantic interest whom you are keeping away from your friends US, 1955

- [F]raternity and sorority has its share of closet cases. — Max Shulman, Guided Tour of Campus Humor, p. 75, 1955
- — McCall's, April 1967

closeted adjective living with an unrevealed fact, especially homosexuality US, 1992

- It's not like he can't change. I was closeted once myself. — Armistead Maupin, Maybe the Moon, p. 220, 1992

close to the door adjective about to be released from prison US, 1989

- — James Harris, A Convict's Dictionary, p. 30, 1989

closet queen noun

a male homosexual who conceals his sexual orientation US, 1957

- All the fairies in her town were closet queens or pinkteas[.] — Hubert Selby Jr., Last Exit to Brooklyn, p. 60, 1957
- They call them "closet queens." The implication is queen. It derives from the English word for lavatory, water closet. — Antony James, America's Homosexual Underground, p. 66, 1965
- Have you heard the term "closet queen?" — Mart Crowley, The Boys in the Band, p. 169, 1968
- These are the "closet queens," the "aunties" and the furtive, secretive types. — Screw, p. 14, 25th April 1969

close work noun

sexual activity US, 1957

- That boy up on the stage singing to them from his heart is clearly country, even as they are, and they find it not at all unthinkable that he might be available for some close work after the show. — Max Shulman, Rally Round the Flag, Boys!, p. 164, 1957

cloth noun▶ down to the cloth

(used of a player in a game of poker) almost out of money US, 1982

- — David M. Hayano, Poker Faces, p. 186, 1982

clotheshorse noun

a person who pays a great deal of attention to fashions and the clothing they wear US, 1850

- Everybody in a Technicolor movie seems to feel obliged to wear a lurid costume in each new scene and to stand around like a clotheshorse with a lot of very green trees[.] — Sylvia Plath, The Bell Jar, p. 42, 1971
- "Don't see no reason to be a clotheshorse." Hawk was wearing white Puma track shoes with a black slash on them. White linen slacks, and a matching white linen vest with no shirt. — Robert Parker, Promised Land, p. 82, 1976

clothes queen noun

a homosexual man who is drawn to ostentatious, flamboyant clothing US, 1963

- — Donald Webster Cory and John P. LeRoy, The Homosexual and His Society, p. 263, 1963: "A lexicon of homosexual slang"

cloud noun

1 crack cocaine US, 1994

From the thick white smoke produced when smoked.

- — US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994

2 the intoxication from smoking freebase or crack cocaine US, 1992

- — Terry Williams, Crackhouse, p. 147, 1992

cloud nine noun

1 a condition of perfect happiness, euphoria US, 1935

Probably derives as a variation of CLOUD SEVEN; possibly from US weather forecasting terminology which divides clouds into nine types, the highest being number nine; or, less likely, a spiritual possibility: of the ten names for Buddha, the ninth is "enlightened one." It is probable that the US radio adventure series Johnny Dollar, 1949–62, popularized the term's usage.

- Depressed and down-hearted, I took to Cloud 9. / I'm doing. ..(fine) / Up here. (On cloud nine) / Listen one more time. / I'm doing. ..(fine) / Up here. (On cloud nine) — The Temptations, Cloud Nine, 1969
- Frank is, of course, delirious way past Cloud Nine. — Stephen King, On Writing, p. 245, 2000

2 crack cocaine US, 1994

- — US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994

clout verb

1 to steal; to rob US, 1972

- We would have left if he had just went out but we knew when he clouted this stuff that we had no rank. — Harry King, Box Man, p. 43, 1972
- "[T]he only thing they're gonna find out's that it got clouted in Plymouth about three days or so before." — George Higgins, Cogan's Trade, p. 109, 1974
- "Some shitbird clouted the Hollywood Federal at Santa Monica and Cole four days ago[.]" — James Ellroy, Destination Morgue, p. 228, 2004

2 to rob or steal something UK, 1708

- In the reformatory. They tried to clout a color TV among other things, and got busted for it. They'd been playing that caper for quite a while. — Hugh Garner, The Intruders, p. 83, 1976
- The Prizzis had been clouted for a gang of money! — Richard Condon, Prizzi's Honor, p. 59, 1982
- A black-white stick-up gang had been clouting markets and juke joints on West Adams[.] — James Ellroy, Hollywood Nocturnes, p. 127, 1994

clouter noun

a thief who steals from parked cars US, 1993

- — Kenn "Naz" Young, Naz's Dictionary of Teen Slang, p. 23, 1993
- A recent Associated Press story described a car clouter who dressed like a hiker and used his walking stick to break windows at a trailhead in a national park, snatching $9,400 worth of valuables the day he got caught with the goods. — Statesman Journal (Salem, Oregon), p. 1D, 18th July 2003

clover noun

money US, 1951

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 21, 1951

clown noun

a fool, an incompetent person US, 1898

- Lieutenant Colonel Henry Braymore Blake. One of them regular army clowns. — *M*A*S*H, 1970*
- My voice shook, talking with this clown was doing me a lot of good. — Jim Thompson, Savage Night, p. 3, 1985
- Least of all the pushy broad, the smart Jew, and the Harvard clown. — A Few Good Men, 1992

clown alley noun

on a circus lot, the area of tents where performers, especially clowns, dress and live US, 1956

- "The old-fashioned clown alley ended after the 1997 season," said Renee Story, the circus's vice president for administration. — New York Times, p. G11, 12th August 1999
- In clown alley, Felix Adler was preparing for the walkaround. — Stewart O'Nan, The Circus Fire, p. 70, 2000

club noun

in pool, a heavier-than-usual cue stick US, 1990

- — Steve Rushin, Pool Cool, p. 10, 1990

club verb

- to spend an evening in a nightclub or several nightclubs US, 1964
 - The few who stayed, and the tourists, kept to the Gay White Way as they used to name it, clubbing, bar hopping or taking in a show. — Mickey Spillane, Return of the Hood, p. 80, 1964
 - The status-conscious dress codes of '80s clubbing dissolved in all-night raves[.] — Steven Daly and Nathaniel Wice, alt.culture, p. 2, 1995
 - At nights we'd go clubbing and spend time in the bathroom snorting and giggling. — Cleo Odzer, Goa Freaks, p. 69, 1995

Club 14 noun

Nuestra Familia, a Mexican-American prison gang US, 1975
 "N" is the 14th letter of the alphabet.

- Report to the Senate, California Senate Committee on Civil Disorder, p. 228, 1975

club crawl verb

to move as a group of friends from one nightclub to another US, 1994

- But instead of club crawling, she's been spending her nights working as a second assistant director[.] — Vogue, p. 86, June 1994

Club Fed noun

a minimum-security, well-equipped federal prison housing white-collar criminals, especially the federal prison camp in Lompoc, California US, 1985

- A punning reference to Club Med, a group of vacation resorts.
- Big Springs has no walls and is called Club Fed by critics because of its elaborate recreational facilities and college dormitory atmosphere. — Washington Post, p. A1, 8th September 1985
- That was Lompoc FPC, federal prison camp, the one they used to call Club Fed. No fence, no guys with shanks or razor blades stuck in toothbrush handles. The worst that could happen to you, some guy hits you over the head with a tennis racket. — Elmore Leonard, Out of Sight, p. 45, 1996
- Hopefully, you'll never experience the pleasures of a "Club Fed vacation." — Suroosh Alvi et al., The Vice Guide, p. 223, 2002

club-fight verb

to engage in youth gang warfare US, 1949

- I ain't club-fighting no more. I ain't sham-battling or nothing else. I'm out. — Hal Ellson, Duke, p. 144, 1949

club-hop verb

to move from one nightclub to another, especially with a group of friends US, 1972

- We club-hopped until dawn. — Georgia Sothorn, My Life in Burlesque, p. 260, 1972
- Sophomore year. I'm going down on Cynthia Slater in her dorm room after we went club-hopping. — Chasing Amy, 1997

club kid noun

a young clubgoer in the late 1980s and early 1990s, known for flamboyant costumes and heavy drug use US, 1990

- The epithet "club kids" gained currency in 1988, when a New York magazine cover story featured a posse of young nightcrawlers who managed to parlay their exhibitionist antics and fondness for glitzy, flamboyant get ups into budding careers. — Steven Daly and Nathaniel Wice, alt.culture, p. 42, 1995

club sandwich noun

sex involving three people at once US, 1970
 Surviving in the shortened form of a simple "sandwich."

- Current Slang, p. 5, Winter 1970

clubzine noun

a single-interest fan magazine published by a fan club US, 1982

- American Speech, p. 24, Spring 1982: "The language of science fiction fan magazines"

cluck *noun1 a gullible fool US, 1906

- Some other time, baby. I got to go find that cluck. — Philip Wylie, Opus 21, p. 288, 1949
- I find myself eating at some greasy spoon next to a liquor store and talking to the most embittered cluck this side of the Continental Divide. — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 134, 1961
- Don't a one of you clucks know what I'm talking about enough to give us a hand? — Ken Kesey, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, p. 136, 1962
- Guy that's worth, easy, forty fifty million, he cheats on a hundred-dollar round of golf and all the clucks, the guys that play with him, know it. — Elmore Leonard, Cat Chaser, p. 27, 1982

2 a crack cocaine user US, 1994

- US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994
- Mark S. Fleisher, Beggars & Thieves, p. 288, 1995

3 counterfeit money US, 1949

- Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 53, 1949

cluck and grunt noun

ham and eggs US, 1972

- Helen Dahliskog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 13, 1972

clucker *noun1 a crack cocaine addict US, 1993

- He knew that chumps who got mired in cocaine's quicksand of euphoria and depression were called "cluckers" by Seattle's gangsters. — Bob Sipchen, Baby Insane and the Buddha, p. 391, 1993

2 in the urban drug culture, someone who brings buyers to sellers US, 2002

- Detroit News, p. 5D, 20th September 2002

3 a fool US, 1945

- Lou Shelly, Hepeats Live Talk Dictionary, p. 8, 1945

cluckhead *nouna crack cocaine addict US, 1991

- "Cluckheads just be wanderin' around, looking for more dope to smoke, anyway." — Leon Bing, Do or Die, p. 54, 1991
- Bill Valentine, Gang Intelligence Manual, p. 75, 1995

clue; clue in verb

to inform someone, to update someone UK, 1948

- Newsweek, p. 28, 8th October 1951
- "I'll clue you," said Grady. "There's gotta be a rumble." — Max Shulman, Rally Round the Flag, Boys!, p. 231, 1957
- Well's she's out of your price range, man. My brother's been out with her. He clued me in. — American Graffiti, 1973

clueless adjective unaware, especially of fashion, music and other social trends UK, 1943

- USA Today, 29th September 1983
- Would you look at that girl? She is so adorably clueless. — Clueless, 1995

clunker *noun1 an old, beat-up car US, 1942

The original military usage in the 1940s applied to any old vehicle or machine. By the 1960s, applied almost exclusively to a car.

- The parking lot at Devil's Slide was jammed with vehicles: flowered hippie vans, city clunkers, organic pickups with shingled gypsy houses, and a dusty pack of Harley-Davidsons. — Armistead Maupin, Tales of the City, p. 99, 1978
- Banged up, pounded out, dented-in old clunkers with "21" or "99" or "45" painted haphazardly on their doors and tops. — San Francisco Examiner and Chronicle, p. 6, 1st July 1979
- He had made friends with the few attractive women who had wandered in, deciding he was more interesting than the rusting clunkers he was selling. — Stephen Cannell, Big Con, p. 28, 1997

2 an inferior item US, 1971

- [O]ne of the all-time clunkers of history[.] — Lester Bangs, Psychotic Reactions and Carburetor Dung, p. 14, 1971

clunkers noun

the testicles US, 1976

- If you don't print this letter or pic, I'll cut your clunkers off! — Punk, July 1976

clunkhead noun

a dolt US, 1952

- The minute I ever decided to become a clunkhead enough to take a shot, the real big boys would goose me out of business[.] — Morton Cooper, High School Confidential, pp. 115–116, 1958
- The people in the Department of State are equally convinced that if they don't watch those clunkheads in the field who are so immersed in the problem, they will disregard policy and get everyone in trouble. — Washington Post, p. 5 (Book World), 13th February 1983
- There is a clique of right-wing cranks, yahoos and assorted clunkheads who make a career and a living off direct-mail propaganda in complaining about public broadcasting. — Boston Globe, p. 17, 20th January 1995
- Some wonder aloud why UTEP doesn't look for coaches like Don Haskins, who win and still stick around all 38 years of their career. Clunkheads, all. — El Paso Times, p. 1C, 26th December 2003

clusterfuck *noun1 group sex, heterosexual or homosexual US, 1966

- Oh, those big cluster fucks! I can't stand them. I think it's revolting, you know, more or less getting punked by anybody who happens to be standing near you, man, woman, child, or dog. — Nicholas Von Hoffman, We Are The People Our Parents Warned Us Against, p. 182, 1967
- You may see many of the people at your "do" only at other "cluster fucks," having nothing in common with them but a taste for orgies. — Angelo d'Arcangelo, The Homosexual Handbook, p. 115, 1968
- If Chris likes an occasional clusterfuck, and feels he has to do this "masculine" sex thing for himself (with the girls), remember he is doing it partly for you too. — Screw, p. 8, 18th August 1969
- The last scene shot was the Clusterfuck, beginning around 11 p.m. — Cult Movies No. 17, p. 47, 1996

2 a disorganized, chaotic situation US, 1969

- Now what's happenin'? We gonna get this clusterfuck in the air? — John M. Del Vecchio, The 13th Valley, p. 137, 1982
- "Another clusterfuck," said Patrick O'Meara under his breath as the lieutenant walked away. — Cherokee Paul McDonald, Into the Green, p. 125, 2001

clusterscrew noun

chaos; monumental lack of organization US, 1976

- You saw what a clusterscrew that outfit was. It only took ten gooks to fuck that Company up bad. — Charles Anderson, The Grunts, p. 65, 1976

clutch noun

in poker, a hand that is certain to win US, 1967

- Albert H. Morehead, The Complete Guide to Winning Poker, p. 259, 1967

clutch *adjective1 Serving as a replacement US, 1957

Korean war usage.

- We have been standing "clutch duty" lately, which means that we are on call as reinforcements or replacements for the front-line troops. — Martin Russ, The Last Parallel, p. 143, 1957

2 unkind US, 1991

- "I bet the witch child ran away!" he said. Cherokke began to cry. "I've been so clutch to her!" — Francesca Lia Block, Witch Baby, p. 136, 1991

clutch-butt noun

sex US, 1967

- "That big old gal is ready for some rib-rattling clutch butt," said Nails. — Elaine Shepard, The Doom Pussy, p. 113, 1967

clutched adjective scared, anxious, emotional US, 1952

- First, the ocean. If you come from the Midwest and you've never seen it you are really clutched, that is, seized by emotion. — Glendon Swarthout, Where the Boys Are, p. 5, 1960

Clyde noun

1 a misfit; an outcast; a naive, easily cheated person US, 1950

- To the swinger there are two types of people: swingers and "clydes." He looks down his nose at the clydes[.] — William and Jerry Breedlove, Swap Clubs, p. 58, 1964
- I registered the unconscious contempt of the barkers for the Alvins and the Clydes who strolled the midway, fat silly sheep who thought it fun to be fleeced[.] — Malcolm Braly, False Starts, p. 69, 1976
- You hear that, Clyde? That's got to be the most spooky-ass question I've ever heard. — Heathers, 1988

2 during the Vietnam war, a Viet Cong or North Vietnamese regular US, 1966

- VICTOR CHARLIE. Viet Cong. VC. Also shortened to "Charlie," "Clyde," etc. — Ken Melvin, Sorry 'Bout That, p. 96, 1966: Glossary
- These depended on the unit, period of the war, and the degree of professional familiarity and/or appreciation: Charlie, Charles, Chas, Chuck, Old Clyde. — Philip Beidler, Late Thoughts on an Old War: The Legacy of Vietnam, p. 11, 2004

3 used to refer to any object the name of which you cannot remember or do not know US, 1992

- — Lewis Poteet, Car & Motorcycle Slang, p. 53, 1992

C-man noun

a sexually successful male student US, 1968

An abbreviation of "cunt-man" or COCKSMAN.

- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 93, 1968

C-note noun

1 a one hundred dollar bill US, 1930

- Van shrugged. "I expect I'm out one C-note." — Ross Russell, The Sound, p. 65, 1961
- You could find a dozen punks in Harlem who'd kill him for a C-note. — Chester Himes, Cotton Comes to Harlem, p. 15, 1965
- She seemed to wake up, staring at that C-note. — Elmore Leonard, Glitz, p. 30, 1985
- [P]ast the jag-off guard who gets an extra c-note a week just to watch the door[.] — Casino, 1995

2 a prison sentence of 100 years US, 1990

- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 201, 1990

C-note Charlie noun

in a casino, a gambler who insists on betting with hundred-dollar bills, not betting chips US, 1949

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 45, 1987

coal noun

a marijuana cigarette US, 1993

- I like a blunt or a big fat coal/But my double-barrel bong is gettin' me stoned. — Cypress Hill, Hits from the Bong, 1993

► burn coal; deal in coal

(of a white person) to have sex with a black person US, 1922

- The Harlem community accepts—though it despises—these Caucasians who cross the color line, or as it is known above 110th Street, "change their luck" or "deal in coal." — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 101, 1948
- Antoine, my contract says no niggers. I don't . . . burn . . . coal. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 155, 1990

coal candy noun

hard black licorice US, 1997

- — Amy and Denise McFadden, CoalSpeak, p. 4, 1997

coal chute nickname

the Harbor Freeway South in Los Angeles US, 2004

- Cops call it the "Coal Chute." It's a jungle-bunny juggernaut and a sleaze sluice. It connects Darktown with White Man's L.A. — James Ellroy, Destination Morgue, p. 327, 2004

coal cracker noun

a resident of the anthracite coal region of northeastern Pennsylvania US, 1997

- — Amy and Denise McFadden, CoalSpeak, p. 4, 1997

coalminer's breakfast noun

a shot of whiskey served in a glass of beer US, 1990

- [A] "Coalminer's Breakfast;" or "Depth Charge" (when a shot of whiskey is dropped into a glass of beer). — Roger E. Axtell, The Do's and Taboos of Hosting International Visitors, p. 76, 1990

coal oil noun

kerosene US, 1980

- — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 26, 1980

Coaly noun

the devil US, 1950

- "Okay, the first thing I want to do is decide on a model juror." "Black," said Lucien. "Black as old Coaly's ass," said Harry Rex. — John Grisham, A Time to Kill, p. 329, 1989

Coast *noun► the Coast

the west coast of the US US, 1930

- He came from the Coast. He saw a way to get back East without arousing suspicion. — Mickey Spillane, My Gun is Quick, p. 150, 1950

- But I'll never forget one night when we were coming in by plane from the Coast. — Billie Holiday with William Dufty, Lady Sings the Blues, p. 169, 1956
- Sophia's husband was away on one of his trips to the coast when I told her and her sister. — Malcolm X and Alex Haley, The Autobiography of Malcolm X, p. 141, 1964
- You can tell they're not from the coast. — Nicholas Von Hoffman, We Are The People Our Parents Warned Us Against, p. 13, 1967

coast verb

1 to idle; to relax US, 1981

- — Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max, 1981
- — San Jose Mercury News, 11th May 1999

2 to relax and experience the effects of a drug US, 1969

- All I wanted to do was bang "H" and "coast." — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 99, 1969
- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 52, 1971

coaster noun

someone who lives near the beach; a surfer US, 1982

- Like you know, this beastly coaster goes, "You wanna bag some rays?" and like I totally go, "Bag your face, surf punk." — Mary Corey and Victoria Westermark, Fer Shurr! How to be a Valley Girl, 1982

Coastie; Coasty noun

a member of the US Coast Guard; a Coast Guard ship

US, 1970

- And when the Strike Team Coasties have done their duty and cleaned up a mess that somebody else made, they get homage from a grateful news media[.] — Hans Halberstadt, USCG, p. 89, 1986
- Get the XO to set up a track to rendezvous with the Coastie. — ꞑꞑ. Deuterermann, Scorpion in the Sea, p. 122, 1992

coast-to-coast noun

a powerful amphetamine or other central nervous system

stimulant US, 1969

Purportedly strong enough to keep a truck driver awake long enough to drive the 3,000 miles from coast to coast.

- — American Speech, p. 203, Fall 1969: "Truck driver's jargon"

coaxer noun

in horse racing, a battery-powered device used illegally by a jockey to shock a horse during a race US, 1951

- Frank Wolverton of Santa Rosa, Cal., "a track follower," today was suspended by the Lone Oak Racing Track Board of Stewards for manufacturing electrical "coaxers" allegedly used to stimulate horses in TWO RACES. — San Francisco News, p. 21, 7th September 1951

cob noun

the penis, literally and in the figurative sense of a disagreeable man US, 1954

- The president, a fairly rough old cob, said just a little angrily, "Look, don't be so surprised." — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 141, 1961

► off the cob

overly sentimental US, 1935

A play on words to achieve "corny."

- — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 236, 1948

COBOL Charlie noun

in computing, a COBOL programmer who can use the language but does not fully understand how it works US, 1990

- — Karla Jennings, The Devouring Fungus, p. 218, 1990

cocaine bugs noun

psychosomatic itching experienced by some heavy users of cocaine US, 1902

- The most common cocaine-induced hallucination is the so-called "cocaine bugs," which gives the user the sensation that there are sharp little insects crawling beneath the skin. — Ethnic NewsWatch, p. 1, 26th April 1996

cock noun

1 the penis UK, 1450

Probably from "cock" (a male bird).

- The success of Allen is due to the fact that no one since Henry Miller has had the guts to say cock and cunt in public. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Lucien Carr, p. 563, 24th February 1956
- Jesus she was hot! I thought she'd tear the cock off me. — Henry Miller, Tropic of Cancer, p. 102, 1961
- What he's doing is staring at Johnny's cock[.] — John Rechy, Numbers, p. 41, 1967
- A hand on your cock is more moral—and more fun—than a finger on the trigger. — Richard Neville [quoting Lawrence Lipton], Play Power, p. 71, 1970

2 the vagina US, 1867

- Say, "Yes, your mama got a cock big as a whale is true / And your sister got a big cock, too!" — Roger Abrahams, Positively Black, p. 90, 1970
- Cock mean pussy down here, boy, so don't you go takin' no offense, y'hear. — Emmett Grogan, Ringolevio, p. 159, 1972
- To them, Coco said, cock meant "pussy." — Gini Sikes, 8 Ball Chicks, p. 63, 1997

3 used as a male-to-male term of address UK, 1837

Decidedly casual.

- "Is that Father Christmas?" "There was a night-light burning beside the bed." "Yes, cock—I mean Sonny," hissed Sapphire[.] — Charles Raven, Underworld Nights, p. 207, 1956

4 a man who fights without restraint US, 1964

- — R. Frederick West, God's Gambler, p. 223, 1964

► get cock

to have sex US, 1972

- — Bruce Jackson, Outside the Law, p. 57, 1972

cock *verb1 to have sex US, 1973

- — Malachi Andrews and Paul T. Owens, Black Language, p. 111, 1973
- “You listening? You don’t cock me without a glove.” — John Ridley, Love Is a Racket, p. 297, 1998

2 to prepare an aircraft for take-off US, 1986

- When the crews were not preflighting the airplanes, “cocking” them for instant takeoff, they were flying the simulator[.] — Walter J. Boyne and Steven L. Thompson, The Wild Blue, p. 265, 1986

cockadau *verbto kill someone US, 1987

- On loan from Vietnamese.
- “Cockadau!” Harris suddenly yelled in Vietnamese. He sounded a little nuts. “Cockadau means kill,” Sampson told me. — James Patterson, Four Blind Mice, p. 313, 2002

cockalize; kokalize *verbto thrash someone US, 1947

- I kokalized him in Scranton. — Marvin Wald and Albert Maltz, The Naked City, p. 107, 1947

cockamamie; cockamamy *adjectiveimplausible, not credible US, 1941

- Neither Yiddish nor Hebrew, but born of Jewish immigrants in the US.
- “How could Helen Lawrence like our cockemamie act?” — Jacqueline Susann, Valley of the Dolls, p. 23, 1966
- Did you ever hear such a cockamamy story? — Leo Rosten, The Joys of Yiddish, p. 94, 1968
- Through some cockamamie appeal you’re back on the street. — Edwin Torres, After Hours, p. 387, 1979
- I couldn’t for the life of me figure out where he had gotten that cockamamy idea[.] — Rita Ciresi, Pink Slip, p. 75, 1999

cock and bull story *nouna fanciful, exaggerated or outright untrue story US, 1795

- I debated about going back with some cock-and-bull story, anything to forestall her tipping him off to my deception. — Sue Grafton, J is for Judgment, p. 170, 1993
- Taylor shot me a look that asked, Are you going to back up this cock-and-bull story? I gave him a sheepish smile and nodded my head. — Douglas C. Waller, The Commandos, p. 184, 1994

Cockbang *nounBangkok, Thailand US, 1991

Offensive to Thai people. A near-Spoonerism that aptly describes Bangkok’s reputation and role as a sex destination.

- Cockbang Bangkok, Thailand. — Jack Hawkins, Payback, p. 327, 1988
- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 46, 1991

cock bite *nounan unpleasant person US, 1971

- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 53, 1971

cockblock *verbto interfere with someone’s intentions to have sex US, 1971

- So you both jus’ gonna set dere and cock block and neither one o’ you gonna get nothin’. — Geneva Smitherman, Talkin that Talk, p. 85, 1999
- I wanted to tell her how pissed I was that she had cock-blocked me, but I didn’t feel like we knew each other well enough for me to have a right to be mad. — Amy Sohn, Run Catch Kiss, p. 82, 1999
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Spring 1999
- Every night when I try to think of someone else, Javon cockblocks me. — Carol Taylor (Editor), Brown Sugar, p. 26, 2001

cock book *nouna sexually explicit book US, 1968

- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 10, 1968

cock cheese *nounsmegma UK, 1961

- — Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 38, 1964

cock corpsman *nouna military doctor or medic who inspects male recruits for signs of sexually transmitted disease US, 1964

- — Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 39, 1964
- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 119, 1967

cock crazy *nounobsessed with sex with men US, 1979

- He had a dong like a horse, and that Betsy Ann was cock crazy. — Bruno Skoggard, China Hand, p. 12, 1979
- “So, out flopped the Great American Flagpole, and suddenly the neat and controlled man in the suit goes cock-crazy and blows his self-esteem and marches out of here with my career in a shambles.” — Ethan Morden, Some Men Are Lookers, p. 118, 1997

cock-diesel *adjectivemuscular US, 1988

- Or “Stupid cock diesel!”—slang for a boy who was muscular from lifting weights. — Tom Wolfe, Hooking Up, p. 1, 2000

cock diesel *nouna muscular man US

- The rear cock diesel, for chicks they were kickin’. — A Tribe Called Quest, “Scenario,” 1991

cokeater *nouna person who enjoys performing oral sex on men US, 1967

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 45, 1967

cocked *adjectivedrunk US, 1737

- — J.E. Lighter, Historical Dictionary of American Slang, Volume 1, p. 446, 1994

cocker *noun1 the penis US, 1967

- Those black cockers are the longest, the fattest, the hardest in the world. — John Folger, Black on White, p. 27, 1967

2 a man US, 1946

From the Yiddish kakker; used with a lack of kindness.

- Yeah, I know the old Cocker. Lives across the Avenue in those apartments. — George Pelecanos, A Firing Offense, p. 23, 1992

cock-eyed *adjectivedrunk US, 1737

First recorded by Benjamin Franklin.

- There, one night, cockeyed, he shot two inoffensive customers. — Jack Lairt and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 160, 1948
- Thursday night I took a bottle up to my room with me, and I got half cockeyed. — Jim Thompson, Savage Night, p. 124, 1953
- “Sit here and drink myself cockeyed.” — John Conway, Love in Suburbia, p. 56, 1960

cock eyes *nounin craps, a three US, 1968

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 45, 1987

cockfest *nouna party with many more males than females in attendance US, 2001

- — Don R. McCreary (Editor), Dawg Speak, 2001

cock hound *nouna man obsessed with sex US, 1947

- “An’ you’re jus’, jus’ an old cock hound, Wilson. You’re the goddamnedest ole lecher. . . .” — Norman Mailer, The Naked and the Dead, p. 202, 1948
- He was a cockhound, and all his bitches were white. — John Williams, The Man Who Cried I Am, p. 136, 1967
- “Those who do go to town don’t go to find a woman, even the cockhounds.” — Donald Duncan, The New Legions, p. 67, 1967
- Everyone in Hollywood knows my father as a real cockhound. Once when I came home from boarding school he had these two Puerto Rican women in his bedroom. — Gerald Petievich, To Die in Beverly Hills, p. 48, 1983

cock jacket *nouna reputation for sexual prowess US, 1984

- Me, I had a cock jacket. They thought every broad that rode my bike, with the exception of my mother, got laid. — Joseph Wambaugh, Lines and Shadows, p. 51, 1984

cock-knocker *nouna despised person US, 1959

- Goggles so big you can’t see his motherfuckin’ face. Spooky old cock-knocker, ain’t he? — Stephen King, The Stand, p. 504, 1978
- The little shit. The little brass-balled cock-knocker. Screw him. — Pat Cadigan, Synners, p. 281, 1991
- He started it! Fucking cock-knocker! — Chasing Amy, 1997

cocklicker *nouna despicable person US, 1967

- “Bunch of wet-nose cock lickers,” obviously pleased with the way this younger generation is shaping up. — Ken Kesey, Kesey’s Jail Journal, p. 34, 1967
- “Cock licker! Shit eater!” Joris bellowed. — Roberta Gellis, The Rope Dancer, p. 121, 1986

cockmaster *nouna male proud of his sexual prowess US, 1951

- In a jiff I was in; but for some strange reason I couldn’t come; all 19-year-old cockmasters can’t come, you know this as well as I do. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Neal Cassady, p. 299, 10th January 1951

cockmeat *nounthe penis, specifically or as a generality US, 1995

- Hey girls, who needs some cockmeat from a real man? — Howard Stern, Miss America, p. 15, 1995

cock movie *nouna pornographic film US, 1967

- — American Speech, p. 228, October 1967: “Some special terms used in a University of Connecticut men’s dormitory” cockpit *noun1 the vagina UK, 1891

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 45, 1967

2 the clitoris US, 1982

- — Maledicta, p. 131, Summer/Winter 1982: “Dyke diction: The language of lesbians” cock ring *nouna device worn on the penis to enhance sexual performance US, 1977

- The other man wears a cock ring—a current fad, a ring of metal, like his, or of studded leather, around the base of the cock and balls, supposedly insuring harder hard-ons, better orgasms. — John Rechy, The Sexual Outlaw, p. 202, 1977

cockroach *verbto steal something US, 1981

- Hawaiian youth usage.
- Who wen cockroach da cookies? — Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max, 1981

cockroach castle noun

a dirty, messy place US, 1990

- After seven years in that Texas cockroach castle, I was, I think, madam, qualified to make some judgments, even some harsh ones. — Ken Kesey, The Further Inquiry, p. 116, 1990

cockroach killers noun pointed shoes or boots US, 1970

- Cockroach killers: a street term that arose to describe the narrow, pointed, and sometimes hand-tiled needle-nose boots worn in the 1960s and early 1970s. — Tyler Beard, Art of the Boot, p. 154, 2006

cock rock noun aggressively macho heavy rock music performed with pelvic-thrusting posturing US, 1971

Combines cock (the penis) and “rock.”

- As much as I hate heavy music, cock rock, macho rock, or whatever the current name for it is—I have to admit to having every Blue Cheer album ever made[.] — Creem, May 1971
- You get straight-up funk, vintage Seventies cock-rock, anarchic hard-core and enough psychedelia to make this the pot-smoking album of the year. — Phoenix (Arizona) New Times, p. 97, 23rd December 1992
- The typical guitar oriented thrashy pop would at times evolve into a sound described perfectly by the band as “cock rock.” — Beat, p. 46, 9th July 1996

cock rot noun

an unspecified sexually transmitted disease US, 1990

- Warnings about the dreaded Vietnamese cock-rot came to mind. “Sometimes amputation is the only cure” was one description of its severity. — Robert Mason, Chickenhawk, 2005
- She then proceeded to curse me into hell, accusing me of not knowing my father, and hoping I succumbed to galloping cock rot. — Kevin Noble, Baghdad Trucker, p. 143, 2006
- I wasn’t interested in any form of sex or the risk of contracting a dose of “cock rot.” — Richard Ingelido, It’s Not About the War, p. 88, 2009

cocksman noun

1 a man who prides himself on his sexual prowess US, 1896

- The adolescent cocksman having made his conquest barely broods at home the loss of the love of the conquered lass[.] — Jack Kerouac, The Subterraneans, p. 18, 1958
- “I come to visit the girl I love and find her laying on the sand with this dumb-ass cocksman.” — Burt Hirschfeld, Fire Island, p. 505, 1970
- You know that guy, that guy is the cocksman of Bay Ridge. — Saturday Night Fever, 1977
- Allen was still so unsure of himself and here was Neal the confident cocksman if there ever was one. — Herbert Huncke, Guilty of Everything, p. 92, 1990

2 a male prostitute US, 1970

- — Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 38, 1970

cocksmith noun

a sexually expert man US, 1959

- He standin’ in the door comin’ back from Lu Ann. Cowboy a cocksmith. — Warren Miller, The Cool World, p. 105, 1959
- Nevertheless, the latter scene is one of the most scorching four-ways ever committed to film with Siffredi proving to be arguably the best living cocksmith in the business. — Adult Video News, p. 48, February 1993
- Seeing Persia getting boned up the dark side of the moon (by cocksmith supreme Sean Michaels) is mighty fine incentive to stick with the program. — Editors of Adult Video News, The AVN Guide to the 500 Greatest Adult Films of All Time, p. 208, 2005

cockstrong adjective

overtly masculine and strong US, 2000

- “Cockstrong nigger, nice with the hands like Tuffy, catch you right, forget about it.” — Paul Beatty, Tuff, p. 79, 2000

cocksuck noun

an act of oral sex on a man US, 1940

- He’d grin grotesquely, rolling his eyes and darting his tongue in and out of his cadaverous mouth—more in an approximation, or so it seemed to me, of clit-lick than of cock-suck. — Terry Southern, Now Dig This, p. 33, 2001

cocksuck verb

to perform oral sex on a man US, 1977

- She cocksucked him like crazy, and then he lost all control. — Roy Hawkins, Bimbos by the Bay, p. 105, 1977

cocksucker noun

1 a person who performs oral sex on a man, especially a male homosexual UK, 1891

The most well-known use of the term in the US is in a statement attributed to former President Richard Nixon, who upon learning of the death of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover on 2nd May 1972, is reported to have said “Jesus Christ! That old cocksucker!” Nixon was reflecting the widespread belief that Hoover was homosexual.

- I know I have always been a beat cocksucker in your imagination. — Allen Ginsberg, Letter to Carolyn Cassidy, p. 128, 30th May 1952
- Later, in his apartment, he said, “Why are you so nervous, ain’t you been with a cocksucker before?” — John Rechy, City of Night, p. 28, 1963
- “Homosexual” is a kind of neutral, scientific term which might in a given context itself have a freight of significance or beauty or artistic merit. But it’s less likely to than the word “cocksucker” which is closer to colloquial, idiomatic expression. — Lenny Bruce, How to Talk Dirty and Influence People, p. 117, 1965
- With an expert cocksucker, a rubber is no barrier to pleasure. — Letters to Penthouse V, p. 155, 1995

2 used as a generalized term of abuse for a despicable person US, 1978

- I don’t see how these cocksuckers could have done a better job trying to fuck me up as a first & second novelist if they had laid out a blueprint in an attic. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Neal Cassidy, pp. 239–240, 3rd December 1950
- I said, what if the three months comes at a time when the writing is going well? Marty said, “Cocksucker.” — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 46, 1961
- He died on account of this silly cocksucker here. So I promised him I’d have this silly cocksucker shot after the war. — Kurt Vonnegut, Slaughterhouse Five, p. 141, 1969
- All the way to the station house I was called 110 cocksuckers, etc. — Babs Gonzales, Movin’ On Down De Line, p. 55, 1975

3 a person who performs oral sex on a woman US, 1942

- The man said, “I’m a cocksucker [a performer of cunnilingus].” — Roger Abrahams, Positively Black, p. 104, 1970

4 a leech US, 1991

Especially the huge, reddish-black, slimy leeches of the Mekong Delta.

- Shit fuckin’ leech pull the fucker off my leg fuckers head busted all the way off shit gonna have to dig the cocksucker out don’t mean nothin’.
- Sandie Frazer, I Married Vietnam: A Novel, p. 87, 1992
- “I got a fuckin’ leech on my dick!” He starts clawing at it with both hands. Edwards runs over to him. “Jesus, Race, don’t yank your fuckin’ dick off!” “Fuck you, Edwards. Look at the cocksucker.” — Dennis Manksar, A Bad Attitude: A Novel from the Vietnam War, p. 206, 2002

cocksucker red adjective

a bright red shade of lipstick US, 1982

Not a brand name. Garish and conveying a low-life, whorish image.

- [S]o I said just let me handle this because my grandma is getting nothing less than Cocksucker Red when they put her in the ground. . . — Armistead Maupin, Further Tales of the City, p. 74, 1982
- — Adult Video News, p. 42, August 1995

cocksucker’s teeth noun

used as the epitome of uselessness US, 1972

- — Robert A. Wilson, Playboy’s Book of Forbidden Words, p. 73, 1972

cocksucking noun

oral sex performed on a man UK, 1895

- I don’t know what it is, but the Trailways and the Greyhound people have done more to popularize impersonal cocksucking than Army chaplains. — Angelo d’Arcangelo, The Homosexual Handbook, p. 47, 1968
- Frank’s dick was almost fully hard from the cock-sucking; it stuck halfway up from his naked lap. — Roy Hawkins, Bimbos by the Bay, p. 9, 1977
- Though I enjoyed sucking David’s dick, it’s true that I considered cocksucking to be strictly foreplay and not the main course. — Letters to Penthouse V, p. 58, 1995

cocksucking adjective despicable, loathsome US, 1902

- But these next five years are not to be wasted “waiting” for these cocksucking bastards with their sheep’s brains who will some day come bleating all over my premises. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Neal Cassidy, p. 173, 8th December 1948
- “Look out for those cocksucking cops!” — Heather Robertson, Grass Roots, p. 149, 1973

cocktail noun

a marijuana cigarette, partially smoked and inserted into a regular cigarette US, 1971

- — Mr., p. 9, April 1966: “The hippie’s lexicon”
- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 53, 1971
- As the cigarette began to burn his finger, Prince put the reefer out and made a cocktail out of the roach. — Donald Goines, Black Gangster, p. 224, 1977

cocktail verb

to insert a partially smoked marijuana cigarette into a tobacco cigarette US, 1960

- The bomber in her hand was now a “roach.” I cocktailed it for her. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 182, 1969
- Marlene sighed impatiently and cocktailed the roach, waited for a light and took a deep hit before passing it on. — Odie Hawkins, Amazing Grace, pp. 142–143, 1993
- I cocktailed the last of a roach I had now three days in my wallet, smoked it, a mellow high, boss shit from North Africa, I think the dude said. — Clarence Major, All-Night Visitors, p. 54, 1998

cocktailery noun

a cocktail lounge US, 1981

- — Don Willmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 56, 1981

cocktail hour noun

the time when all patients in a hospital ward are given medication US, 1946

- — American Speech, p. 154, April 1946: “GI words from the separation center and proctology ward” cocktail party noun

the use of Molotov cocktails US, 1979

- — H. Craig Collins, Street Gangs, p. 222, 1979

cocktease noun

a cockteaser US, 1981

- He wanted to hit the supercilious little cocktease. — John Nichols, The Nirvana Blues, p. 426, 1981

cocktease verb

to tempt a man with the suggestion of sex UK, 1957

- — Angus Wilson, A Bit Off the Map, 1957
- I knew I couldn’t cocktease him any lower without walking off the lot[.] — Rita Ciresi, Pink Slip, p. 310, 1999

cockteaser noun

- a sexually attractive woman who flaunts her sexuality UK, 1891
 - Nobody likes a cockteaser. Either you put out or you don't. — Hubert Selby Jr., Last Exit to Brooklyn, p. 107, 1957
- The bad thing about a cockteaser like Angela is she turns her man loose on the world and lets a lot of other women in for trouble. — John Updike, Couples, p. 125, 1968
- JOAN: My little boy is sick, and I really should be getting home. BERNIE: Cockteaser. JOAN: I beg your pardon? BERNIE: You heard me. JOAN: I have never been called that in my life. BERNIE: Well, you just lost your cherry. — David Mamet, Sexual Perversity in Chicago, p. 21, 1974
- He was still with Cindy of the blond hair and cute ass. Cockteaser was a name invented specially for Cindy. — Jackie Collins, Chances, p. 130, 1980

co-co *nouncocaine US, 1997

- My girl at Chase says Figsy was missing payments—what with the his and her co-co problems and whatnot. — Copland, 1997

coconut *noun1 a Mexican-American who rejects his heritage and seeks to blend in with the white majority US, 1974

- Like a coconut, brown on the outside but white on the inside. — Dagoberto Fuentes and Jose Lopez, Barrio Language Dictionary, p. 32, 1974
- Shot full of holes, he apparently only had one worry: that these coconut assholes might accidentally drop him over a cliff and kill him. — Joseph Wambaugh, Lines and Shadows, p. 138, 1984
- Multicultural Management Program Fellows, Dictionary of Cautionary Words and Phrases, 1989

2 a clod, a dolt US, 1965

- Miss Cone, The Slang Dictionary (Hawthorne High School), 1965

coconuts *noun1 cocaine US, 1952

- American Speech, p. 25, February 1952: "Teen-age hophead jargon"

2 money US, 1981

- Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 58, 1981

coconut telegraph *nounthe informal way in which news travels in the tropics US, 1961

- Any way you slice it, the coconut telegraph had transmitted this coup-de-something in no time around the islands and it had become history ever since. — Frederick Kohner, Gidget Goes Hawaiian, p. 49, 1961
- Kirk can get in touch with me on the Coconut Telegraph and I will meet you there. — Jimmy Buffett, Tales from Margaritaville, p. 61, 1989

code brown *nounused as a vaguely humorous notification that a hospital patient has defecated US, 1988–1989

- An allusion to the color code jargon heard in hospitals. — Maledicta, p. 31, 1988–1989: "Medical maledicta from San Francisco" code red *nounin the military, punishment meted out by a group of soldiers to a nonconforming peer US, 1992

- Sir, a Code Red is a disciplinary engagement. — A Few Good Men, 1992

codger *nouna pleasantly eccentric old man UK, 1756

- Often found as "old codger:"
 - My grandfather was a tough old codger, but that's one thing you can say for him, he was always a believer in giving folks a second chance. — Gurney Norman, Divine Right's Trip (Last Whole Earth Catalog), p. 49, 1971
- When Bobbie questioned Fin about the age of all the fun-loving fogies, coots, geezers, codgers, duffers and oldests she'd met in the saloon, he didn't know how to tell her that the oldest fossil in the joint wasn't fifteen years his senior. — Joseph Wambaugh, Finnegan's Week, p. 230, 1993

cods *noun1 the testicles UK, 1632

- He don't have cods enough to steal and all he wants to do is stand around and whip some gal, you know. — Bruce Jackson, Outside the Law, p. 157, 1972
- She stepped aside, reaching out and cupping his cock and cods in her lump, liver-spotted hand. — Earl Thompson, Tattoo, p. 195, 1974

2 courage, daring US, 1972

- Synonymous with BALLS.
 - He don't have cods enough to steal and all he wants to do is stand around and whip some gal, you know. — Bruce Jackson Outside the Law, p. 157, 1972

coffee *nounLSD US, 1967

- A euphemism created in Boston, alluding to the fact that LSD was often sold in Cambridge coffee houses. — Richard Lingeman, Drugs from A to Z, p. 47, 1967

coffee-and *nouna light meal US, 1901

- Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 46, 1950
- They sprawled at the counter and at the tables and ordered coffee and. — Hubert Selby Jr., Last Exit to Brooklyn, p. 239, 1957
- I drank coffee in Skid Row coffee houses, South Main Street, coffee-and, seventeen cents. — Jack Kerouac, The Dharma Bums, p. 93, 1958

coffee-and *adjectivesmall-time, insignificant US, 1937

- "That coffee-an' mac you got," a French girl would crack to a straight one, and then it was on—hair came out by the handful. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 23, 1946
- "I'm not makin' more than coffee-an' money!" — Irving Shulman, Cry Tough, p. 31, 1949
- [Coffee-and habit: a small drug habit.] — Richard A. Spears, The Slang and Jargon of Drugs and Drink, p. 113, 1986 coffeehouse *verbin poker, to try to deceive your opponents by idle speech and deliberate mannerisms US, 1949

- Albert H. Morehead, The Complete Guide to Winning Poker, p. 259, 1967
- Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 46, 1987

coffee pot *nouna lively party guest US, 1961

- Coffee Pot—the life of the party. — Art Unger, The Cool Book, p. 109, 1961 coffin *noun1 in skateboarding, a maneuver in which the rider lies completely horizontally on the board, feet first US, 1964

- You can do the tricks the surfers do / Just try a Quasimodo or The Coffin too. — Jan Berry and Dean Torrance, Sidewalk Surfin', 1964
- Albert Cassoria, The Skateboarder's Bible, p. 199, 1976

2 a case housing weapons US, 1978

- In the trunk of the squad car was a wooden box known as the coffin. It contained two Remington 12-gauge automatic shotguns, with ammunition[.] — Jon A. Jackson, The Blind Pig, p. 7, 1978

3 in poker, the smallest possible raise in a game with a limited number of raises permitted US, 1967

- Albert H. Morehead, The Complete Guide to Winning Poker, p. 256, 1967

4 an armored personnel carrier US

- An APC is a large steel and aluminum box sometimes called a coffin, Miller's Cave, a trap, or any other name the crew feels like painting on the side. — Bill Adler, Letters from Vietnam, p. 58, 13 August 1966: Letter from John Norwood
- So I got out the deuce-and-a-half truck and went with him. This thing was three times as big as a coffin. — Ron Steinman, The Soldiers' Story, p. 147, 1999

coffin corner *nounin battle, a vulnerable position US, 1995

- I ain't surprised. We're flying in coffin corner to start with. And we were so goddamn low by the time we jumped that the squadron had already left us behind. — Greg Iles, Black Cross, p. 138, 1995

coffin nail *nouna cigarette US, 1900

From the link between smoking cigarettes and death. In the C19, it referred to "a cigar."

- "Say, got a fag?" asked Buddy. "Here's a coffin nail," Phil said, talking out of the side of his mouth and extending a pack to Buddy. — James T. Farrell, Saturday Night, p. 28, 1947
- And that's what the so-called Surgeon General has going for him—a black hat: cigarettes. Coffin nails, gaspers—a black hat if ever there was one. — Max Shulman, Anyone Got a Match?, p. 42, 1964
- It's why I didn't take a drink or smoke a coffin nail or lay a broad until I was nineteen. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Doom Fox, p. 199, 1978
- IF I had just turned twenty-two, I wouldn't be suckin' on these ol' coffin nails myself, but I ain't got a thing to lose, not at my age. — Odie Hawkins, The Busting Out of an Ordinary Man, p. 143, 1985

coffin tank *nouna customized gas tank on a motorcycle, often shaped somewhat like a coffin US

- Dick Latsky of Atlas Precision modified the frame and built the coffin gas tank, the oil bucket, and the tall sissy bar. — K. Randall Ball, Terry The Tramp, p. 70, 2011
- The bike has a coffin tank with custom skull gas cap and mounted coffin flask. — Hot Bike Magazine, 12th July 2011

cogs *nounsunglasses US, 1945

- Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 8, 1945

cohete *nouna handgun US

Used in English conversation by Spanish speakers; the literal translation is "firecracker".

- The roommate then told Pouw that Blackwell said "I busted my cohete at one of those kids, and I hit one of them." — Modesto (California) Bee, 24th July 2013 coin *nounmoney UK, 1820

- If you intend to seek coin or a career here (or just a job) do not come at all[.] — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 122, 1948
- Man it just spendin' money when what I need is big coin so I can put some away for buyin' the Colt. — Warren Miller, The Cool World, p. 86, 1959
- "You're going to blow the coin?" he asked, incredulously. "You don't have to if you don't want to." — James Simon Kunen, The Strawberry Statement, p. 76, 1968
- Because it's not just the money I deserve. It's not just the coin. — Jerry Maguire, 1996 coin *verbto earn an amount of money US, 1946

- [W]ith the chuck-luck and Indian-dice games at the cigar counter I was coining at least two C-notes a week. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 44, 1946

coinkidink *nouna coincidence US, 1979

- Multiple creative spellings are to be found.
 - Is it just more of what Kendall calls "coincidence-a-dinkies?" — Beatrice Sparks (writing as "Anonymous"), Jay's Journal, p. 54, 1979
- NOT AN item but a heckuva coinkydink: Winifred Giannini, whose car bears plates reading "2 VJH 135," parked and 19th and Ocean behind a car with plates "2 VJH 124." — San Francisco Chronicle, p. E1, 6th March 1992
- What struck me as a little "coinkydinky." Colonel, is that three times in the space of ten days, you were witness to some sort of cover-up there. — Real Time with Bill Maher, 13th February 2004

coin-op noun

- a coin-operated pool table US, 1990
- Steve Rushin, Pool Cool, p. 10, 1990

cojones noun

the testicles; courage US, 1932
From Spanish.

- It had been raining like a bastard, and the baseball field was mud up to your cojones. — Truman Capote, In Cold Blood, p. 331, 1965
- [A]nd would be if the anthropologists had a shred of imagination or the dimmest sense of wonder, or the cojones, the bollocks to look at the big picture, to help focus and enlarge the big picture. — Tom Robbins, Fierce Invalids Home from Hot Climates, p. 74, 2000

coke noun

cocaine US, 1903

- H and coke. You can smell it going in. — William Burroughs, Junkie, p. 66, 1953
- I've got some Coke. What's you think we're celebrating for? Coke and champagne, Kitty, get champagne for everyone. — Susan Hall, Gentleman of Leisure, p. 130, 1972
- Wow, I don't believe it. You mean to tell me you guys have never snorted coke? — Annie Hall, 1977
- Here were two coke fiends who came into court because their marriage didn't seem to be working and the children were getting nervous. — Hunter S. Thompson, Songs of the Doomed, p. 197, 1983

cokebottle noun

in computing, any character that is not found on a normal computer keyboard US, 1983

- A program written at Stanford, for example, is likely to have a lot of "control-meta-cokebottle" commands, that is, commands that you can only type on a Stanford keyboard. — Guy L. Steele et al., The Hacker's Dictionary, p. 44, 1983

Coke bottle glasses noun

eyeglasses with very thick lenses US, 1986

- [S]ome skinny jerk-off with Coke-bottle glasses. — Carl Hiaasen, Strip Tease, p. 4, 1993
- A few weeks earlier, Senator Pothole [D'Amato] had been on the Imus radio show and done an over-the-top Japanese stereotype impression of Judge Ito. It was real Jerry-Lewis-bucktooth-Coke-bottle-glasses stuff. — Al Franken, Rush Limbaugh is a Big Fat Idiot, p. 189, 1996

Coke bottles noun

a person with poor eyesight and thick glasses US, 1997

- The labels were cruel: Gimp, Limpy-go-fetch, Crip, Lift-one-drag one, etc. Pint, Half-a-man, Peewee, Shorty, Lardass, Pork, Blubber, Belly, Blimp. Nuke-knob, Skinhead, Baldy, Four-eyes, Specs, Coke bottles. — San Francisco Examiner, p. A15, 28th July 1997

Coke club noun

a club with live sexual performances, including soda pop douches US, 1966

- Afterward, the girl partner would douche by using the bottle and contents of a well known commercial drink for which the club was named. Since then, the so-called "Coke clubs" have received no small amount of publicity. — Victor J. Banis, Small Town Sex Today, p. 28, 1966

coked; coked out; coked up adjective cocaine-intoxicated US, 1924

- I was real hungup on it two years ago, you understand—coked most of the time. — John Clellon Holmes, Go, p. 121, 1952
- They're coked to the gills. — Edwin Torres, Q & A, p. 98, 1977
- "You look just like David Bowie," Alana, who is obviously coked up out of her mind, tells Daniel. — Bret Easton Ellis, Less Than Zero, p. 16, 1985
- "There was a BC party, everyone coked up, and he was sitting on the floor with this BC Chick, Patty!" — Gini Sikes, 8 Ball Chicks, p. 130, 1997

Coke girl; cola girl noun

a Vietnamese woman who sells soda US

- The Cola girls had exclusive territories. — Robert Mason, Chickenhawk, p. 343, 1983
- I ran into a "Coke girl," our name for one who sold coca-Cola. I bought a bottle from her. — Roger Hayes, On Point, p. 173, 2000

cokehead noun

a cocaine addict US, 1922

- On one occasion when I was playing the role of a very dumb cokehead, a flash little racketeer called me. — Maurice Helbrant, Narcotic Agent, p. 10, 1981
- [H]ard-core, career dope fiends, and even the cokeheads like the number runners from way back—Cisco Kid and Billy Bucks—be comin' into the clubs to get a taste of the base. — New Jack City, 1990
- You were never an alky, you were a cokehead. — Something About Mary, 1998
- He's a psycho-cokehead-hitman. — Traffic, 2000

coke house noun

a building or dwelling where cocaine is sold US, 1989

- I told two of my old roomies about the coke house, but I didn't say I worked here or nothing. — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 40, 1989

coke out verb

to use cocaine to an excess US, 1995

- The ritual was to coke out every night, for the whole night, and not to stay too long with any particular group. — Cleo Odzer, Goa Freaks, p. 39, 1995

coke, smoke, and a puke noun

a fighter pilot's breakfast US, 1986

- United States Naval Institute Proceedings, p. 108, October 1986

coke whore noun

a person who trades sex for cocaine US, 1984

- "I don't do needles and I don't fuck coke whores." — John Updike, Rabbit at Rest, p. 160, 1990

- After all, who many coke whore-snitches are there in Spokane who set up dates for other coke whore-snitches if the client asks them to suggest other girls? — Burt Barer, Body Count, p. 114, 2002

cokie noun

1 a frequent user of cocaine US, 1916

- A competitor in the same block was Wilbur Kenny, known to the cokies merely as "Y." — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 51, 1951
- "Why, I wouldn't dream of teaming up with a 'cokey!'" — Charles Hamilton, Men of the Underworld, p. 213, 1952
- The girls never bother the alkies and cokies of the street with their joke. — John M. Murtagh and Sara Harris, Cast the First Stone, p. 4, 1957
- "Now I was a cokey pure and simple when Joey got loosed last time, but I haven't had a snort since she came home." — Robert Deane Pharr, S.R.O., pp. 50–51, 1971

2 a junior member of a youth gang US, 1949

- I see one of their cokies standing in a doorway with his hands in his pockets. — Hal Elison, Duke, p. 39, 1949

Cokomo Joe; Kokomo Joe; kokomo noun

a cocaine user US, 1938

- J.E. Schmidt, Narcotics Lingo and Lore, p. 98, 1959

cold adjective

1 heartless, cruel US, 1962

- That's pretty cold, ain't it, lady? — Basic Instinct, 1992
- "If you do something to offend someone, then that's cold," said Ryan Hoskin, 17, a senior at Stuart. — The Washington Post, 19th March 2002

2 bad US, 1934

- And the bitch had cuffs on at the time, but I being the warm and he being the cold, I was able to get her to give up the source of her supplier which was all we wanted from the jump. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 131, 1973

3 absolute US, 1973

- "They don't want their wives to know they're cold freaks," she explains. "They bring their sex hang-ups to us." — George Paul Csicsery (Editor), The Sex Industry, p. 9, 1973

4 not capable of being traced to an owner US, 1992

- Back-formed from hot (stolen).
- "He could feel the bump of Dan's service revolver, unwrapped and loaded now against his leg. A cold piece, its registry lost in a mountain of old records somewhere if they existed at all. — Robert Campbell, Boneyards, p. 276, 1992

5 in gambling, unlucky US, 1997

- Duffy ended up being the only player shooting at table three because he was so cold he had become a plague on everybody's luck. — Stephen Cannell, Big Con, p. 202, 1997

6 used as a substitute for "cool" in any of its senses US, 1968

- The dress Mary's wearing today is too cold. — Joan Fontaine et al., Dictionary of Black Slang, 1968
- Columbia Missourian, p. 8A, 19th October 1968
- Julian Johnson, Urban Survival, p. 258, 2003

7 (used of a take-off from an aircraft carrier) failed, resulting in a crash US, 1959

- What had it been? A "cold-cat" shot, whatever that was, from a carrier. A crash at take-off, anyway, into the waters off Iwo-Jima. — Hank Searls, The Big X, p. 221, 1959

cold adverb

suddenly, completely US, 1889

- Talking about a stretch in Atlanta, where he kicked a habit cold: "Fourteen days I was beating my head against the wall." — William Burroughs, Junkie, p. 68, 1953
- They had me cold. — Clarence Cooper Jr., The Farm, p. 63, 1967 cold and hot noun cocaine and heroin combined for injection US, 1986

- Based on the initials.
- Richard A. Spears, The Slang and Jargon of Drugs and Drink, p. 115, 1986

cold biscuit noun

1 a female who does not respond to sexual overtures US, 1972

- Helen Dahlsgog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 14, 1972

2 a person lacking any apparent sex appeal US, 1961

- High school usage.
- Washington Post, 23rd April 1961

cold-blooded adjective

1 competent; admirable US, 1992

- Also shortened to "cold."
- William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 31, 1992

2 in horse racing, said of any horse that is not a thoroughbred US, 1960

- Robert Saunders Dowst and Jay Craig, Playing the Races, p. 161, 1960

cold bluff noun

in poker, a large bet on a poor hand designed to mislead other players US, 1980

- Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 46, 1987

cold-bust verb

to catch someone in the act; to reveal your own guilt inadvertently US, 1986

- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Fall 1986
- It was too late to make a run for it. We were cold busted. — L.L. Cool J., I Make My Own Rules, p. 56, 1997
- "I figured I was cold busted so I pulled over and was ready to give myself up," Andreas said. — Mike Seate, Streetbike Extreme, p. 81, 2002

cold caper noun

- a crime with relatively little risk of being observed US, 1972
- One night I took this girl out and it was what we called a cold caper. The safe was in a back room. — Harry King, Box Man, p. 13, 1972

cold cat noun

- a launch from an aircraft carrier in which too little pressure has been set into the launching device US
- What had it been? A “cold-cat” shot, whatever that was, from a carrier. A crash at take-off, anyway, into the waters off low Jima and a quick rescue in a destroyer. — Hank Searls, The Big X, p. 221, 1959
- The US-3 doesn't have ejection seats, so if you get a “cold cat shot”—not enough steam to get you airborne—there's a pretty good chance you will not survive the crash. — William LaBarge, Hornet's Nest, p. 186, 1991
- I loved their stories of flying told in a unique language of aerial maneuvers like “octafloogarons” and “whifferdills” and technical jargon like “ramp strikes,” “cold cat shots,” and “Intruder weather.” — Dorothy Perkins, Memories of a Vietnam Navy Pilot's Wife, http://americanradioworks.publicradio.org/features/vietnam/scrapbook/entries/51_250.html, 1 May 2000

coldcock verb

- to hit someone without warning, especially with a blow to the head that knocks the person to the ground US, 1918
- You killed her. You coldcocked her and set fire to her. — Jim Thompson, The Nothing Man, p. 172, 1954
- I wish he was a wise-ass messcook who coldcocked a commander and went over the hill. — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, p. 148, 1970
- Jackie got up and cold cocked him with two punches and then announced, “Let ‘em roll.” — Babs Gonzales, Movin' On Down De Line, p. 47, 1975 cold comfort noun

- in necrophile usage, sexual activity with a corpse US, 1986–1987
- Maledicta, p. 180, Summer/Winter 1986–1987: “Sexual slang: prostitutes, pedophiles, flagellators, transvestites, and necrophiles”

cold croch noun

- the application of an ice pack on the scrotum of a man who has overdosed on heroin US, 1993
- Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 45, 1993

cold-cunt verb

- (used of a woman) to treat someone with hostility US, 1982
- [E]ven my female helpers if detected as not sympatica have been cold-cunted and brushed off. — Maledicta, p. 134, Summer/Winter 1982

cold deck noun

- in card games, a stacked deck of cards US, 1857
- Lou Shelly, Heapsack's Live Talk Dictionary, p. 23, 1945
- Was back in thirty-two when times were hard/I had a sawed-off shotgun and a cold deck a cards. — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 50, 1964
- Jim Glenn, Programmed Poker, p. 155, 1981

cold-deck verb

- to introduce a stacked deck into a game of cards US, 1962
- “They caught his blackjack dealers cold-decking, didn't they?” — Stephen Longstreet, The Flesh Peddlers, p. 273, 1962

cold dope noun

- in horse racing, information based on empirical evidence US, 1951
- David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 21, 1951

cold feet noun

- fear or a reluctance to proceed US, 1896
- Maybe he just got cold feet. — Michael Chabon, The Amazing Adventures of Kavalier & Clay, p. 495, 2000

cold finger work noun

- picking the pocket of a man preoccupied with sex US, 1948
- The woman goes through the man's clothes while he is in no frame of mind to keep his hands on his pockets. This is subtly known in Harlem as “cold finger work.” — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 99, 1948

cold fish noun

- an unfriendly person US, 1924
- He's a cold fish all right. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Carolina Kerouac Blake, p. 89, 14th March 1945
- But I know I have to talk to Chichi if I want any kind of emotional angle, a point of view, because Robbie's such a cold fish. He thinks he's Mr. Personality, but he's basically a very dull person. — Elmore Leonard, Split Images, p. 213, 1981

cold in hand adjective

- without money In 1925, Luis Armstrong and Bessie Smith recorded “Cold in Hand Blues” US, 1925
- Did you ever dream lucky and wake up cold in hand? — James Fraher, The Blues is a Feeling, 1998

cold in the dong noun

- gonorrhoea US, 1981
- Maledicta, p. 228, Summer/Winter 1981: “Sex and the single soldier”

cold meat party noun

- a funeral or wake US, 1908
- My favorite euphemism for a funeral wake is cold meat party, partly because the attempt at euphemistic disguise (deliberately) fails. — Andrew Goatly, Critical Reading and Writing, p. 109, 2000

cold one noun

- a cold beer US, 1927
 - Hurry up Jack. Give us a carton and a cold one. I'm in a hurry. — Sam Weller, Old Basters I Have Met, p. 22, 1979
 - “You want a cold one?” The guy stared at him. “That means a beer. You want one? You like beer?” — Elmore Leonard, Bandits, pp. 106–107, 1987

- an empty wallet, purse or safe US, 1962

- Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World's Toughest Prison, p. 795, 1962

cold-plate verb

- to attach a legitimate license plate to a stolen vehicle that matches the description of the vehicle to which the license plate belongs US, 1993
- The shop in Old Town might be in cahoots with Tijuana thieves who steal trucks and cold-plate them. — Joseph Wambaugh, Finnegan's Week, p. 132, 1993

cold-read verb

- (used of a fortune teller) to tell a fortune without background information on the customer, relying on observations and the customer's answers for the predictions US, 1989
- A term borrowed from acting, where it means “to read a script out loud without having studied it.”
- Lindsay E. Smith and Bruce A. Walstad, Sting Shif, p. 115, 1989

cold shake noun

- a method of preparing pills for injection by crushing and then dissolving them in cold water instead of heating with a flame US, 1989
- Geoffrey Froneer, Digging for Diamonds, p. 20, 1989

cold spot noun

- a glass of iced tea US, 1967
- American Speech, p. 61, February 1967: “Soda-fountain, restaurant and tavern calls”

cold storage noun

- a morgue US, 1949
 - Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Lang, p. 55, 1949
- solitary confinement US, 1949
 - Marlene Freedman, Alcatraz, 1983

cold turkey noun

- an act of withdrawing from addictive drugs suddenly; the time period of that withdrawal US, 1919
 - If you didn't bring a trained nurse with you, you're just sneezed down, and it's piddle and cold turkey for you. — The New American Mercury, p. 711, 1950
 - “Cold Turkey?” I nodded. “That's taking kind of a chance, isn't it?” — Polly Adler, A House is Not a Home, p. 121, 1953
 - “I've tried, Tom. Honestly I have. But no-one knows what a spell of cold turkey is like—” “Cold turkey?” “Trying to kick the habit.” — Douglas Rutherford, The Creeping Flesh, pp. 83–84, 1963
 - I'm clean now. On my children. Believe me! Two weeks cold turkey waiting for bail got my head together. — Goodfellas, 1990
- in blackjack, a hand comprised of two face cards US, 1980
 - Lee Solkey, Dummy Up and Deal, p. 110, 1980
- in poker, two kings dealt consecutively US, 1988
 - George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 22, 1988

cold turkey verb

- to withdraw from a habit or addiction suddenly and without any tapering off US, 1949
- Two days later, Chico told himself, “I'm going to cold turkey it. That's the hard way but the only way to bust my habit.” — Hal Ellison, The Golden Spike, p. 47, 1952
- “You gonna cold-turkey it!” Dincher yelled on his feet. — George Mandel, Fire the Angry Strangers, p. 250, 1952

cold turkey adjective

- (used of an attempt to break a drug addiction) sudden and complete without narcotics or medication to ease the withdrawal symptoms US, 1953
- Mae said she'd prefer to get the agony over with as quickly as possible so I might as well give her the Cold Turkey cure. — Polly Adler, A House is Not a Home, p. 155, 1953

cold turkey adverb

- (used of an attempt to break a drug addiction) suddenly and completely without narcotics or medication to ease the withdrawal symptoms US, 1922
- Included as a medical record from the hospital when he had made her go cold turkey, which is dope-addict talk for an all-out cure. — Mickey Spillane, I, The Jury, p. 12, 1947
- They just throw you in the hospital by yourself, take you off cold turkey, and watch you suffer. — Billie Holiday with William Dufty, Lady Sings the Blues, p. 131, 1956
- Like the worst habit I ever had was $135 a day. And I kicked that one cold-turkey 'cause I didn't know what I was in for. — James Mills, The Panic in Needle Park, p. 99, 1966
- I kicked the habit “cold turkey” in city jail. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 101, 1969 cold weather indicators noun

- a woman's nipples US, 2001
- Don R. McCreary (Editor), Dawg Speak, 2001

collar noun

- an arrest US, 1871
 - One of the cops, the handsomest, made the pick-up, and his confederates were supposed to crash in five minutes after he entered the room, which would give both time to disrobe, and that is enough evidence to make a collar. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 23, 1951

- In those days one big collar and you were in the Detective Bureau. — Edwin Torres, Q & A, p. 17, 1977
- Cocaine. Dirty cops. Hollywood. This is Crocket and Tubbs all the way. And we found it, so we want the fucking collar. — True Romance, 1993

2 an improvised seal between a dropper and needle used to inject drugs US, 1960

- Siphoning up the liquid again, applying the needle with its collar (a strip from the end of a dollar bill) to the neck of the dropper, twisting it on, resting the shot momentarily while he ties up[.] — Alexander Trocchi, Cain's Book, p. 81, 1960
- The hypodermic needle is secured to a common eyedropper by means of a narrow cardboard "collar." — Leonard Cohen, Beautiful Losers, pp. 238–239, 1966

collar verb

1 to grab someone by the collar, literally or figuratively; to arrest someone UK, 1613

- We collared everybody on campus; we applied all possible pressures. — Max Shulman, The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis, p. 34, 1951
- And being a girl, I supposed they figured they'd collar me. — James Mills, The Panic in Needle Park, p. 101, 1966
- Didn't I tell you, when I collared you, your next step was going to be the place where they're so concerned about whether you get nightmares, that they keep guards around all night? — George V. Higgins, The Rat on Fire, p. 178, 1981
- He didn't look like a guy who shot alligators or collared offenders. — Elmore Leonard, Maximum Bob, p. 94, 1991

2 to understand something, to grasp something US, 1938

- I began to collar that all the evil I ever found came from ounce-brain white men who hated Negroes and me both, while all the good things in life came to me from the race. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 44, 1946

3 in horse racing, to run neck and neck US, 1951

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 21, 1951

▶ collar a hot to eat a meal US, 1947

- — Marcus Hanna Boulware, Live and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947

▶ collar the jive

to understand what is being said US, 1947

- — Marcus Hanna Boulware, Live and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947

collars and cuffs noun

▶ matching collars and cuffs; collars and cuffs that match applied to a person, usually a woman, whose hair is neither bleached nor dyed US, 1984

A jocular suggestion that the hair on the head is of the same natural shade as the pubic hair.

- — Ken Weaver, Texas Crude, p. 81, 1984
- "Do the collars match the cuffs?" "What?" "Do the curtains match the carpets?" "I don't understand." "Your pubic hair. Does it match the color of the hair on your head?" — Andrew Lewis Conn, P: A Novel, p. 16, 2003 collars-for-dollars noun

a situation in which an arresting officer trades the criminal's release for a share of the proceeds of the crime US, 2001

- You think it's some kinda buy-down? Some bullshit collars-for-dollars scheme? — Stephen J. Cannell, The Tin Collectors, p. 174, 2001

collect call noun

a citizens' band radio message for a specific named person US, 1976

- — Elementary Electronics, Dictionary of CB Lingo, p. 58, 1976

college noun

jail UK, 1699

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Live Talk Dictionary, p. 9, 1945
- — Hy Lit, Hy Lit's Unbelievable Dictionary of Hip Words for Groovy People, p. 9, 1968

College Eye noun

a Lockheed EC-121 Warning Star aircraft US Vietnam war usage.

- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 46, 1991

College Joe noun

a quintessential college student US, 1961

- In come this trick by hisseff. College Joe. — Robert Gover, One Hundred Dollar Misunderstanding, p. 19, 1961
- Being and acting like the typical college Joe seemed downright childish. — Friends' Historical Association, Quaker History, p. 70, 1962

college try noun

a sincere effort, despite the likelihood of failure US, 1918

Especially common as "the old college try."

- He thought of everything in terms of the old college try, and he had told students to attack their studies, their sports, religious waverings, sexual maladjustments, physical handicaps and a constellation of other problems with the old college try. — John Knowles, A Separate Peace, p. 174, 1954
- WAYNE: You can't escape like this. MICKEY: Probably not, but we're gonna give it the old college try. — Natural Born Killers, 1994
- You gave it the old college try. No hard feelings. — Stephen Cannell, Big Con, p. 44, 1997

college widow noun

a woman who lives in or near a college town and dates men from the college year after year US, 1900

- She made me think of a college widow. Actually, she was a serious girl, in her own inscrutable way. — Mary McCarthy, Memories of a Catholic Girlhood, p. 174, 1957

Colombian noun

extremely potent marijuana from Colombia US, 1971

- I think you better hit on a couple pounds of good Colombian. — Elmore Leonard, City Primeval, p. 107, 1980

Colombian necklace noun

a form of execution intended to set an example in which the victim's throat is slit US, 2001

Probably formed after the more elaborate COLOMBIAN NECKTIE.

- If I'd given them what they wanted I'd have been found in my cell wearing a very drippy Colombian Necklace years ago. — Carrie Lieber, Buzz, p. 144, 2001

Colombian necktie noun

a form of execution intended to set an example in which the victim's throat is slit and the tongue pulled down through the gaping wound US, 1997

From a well-dressed image in which the tongue replaces a tie.

- [T]he "Colombian necktie" in which the victim's throat is cut and his tongue is brought out through the wound. Something like that. — John E. Douglas and Mark Oshaker, Journey into Darkness, p. 342, 1997
- [J]ust before she kneed him in the balls and tried to give him a Colombian necktie[.] — Cherry Adair, Kiss and Tell, p. 59, 2000

Colonel Klink noun

any high-ranking prison officer US, 2002

A reference to Hogan's Heroes, a popular television comedy of the late 1960s.

- — Gary K. Farlow, Prison-ese, p. 14, 2002

Colonel Sanders noun

a mature male homosexual who is especially attracted to boys or young men US, 1979

An allusion to the founder of the Kentucky Fried Chicken™ franchise.

- — Maledicta, p. 220, 1979: "Kinks and queens: Linguistic and cultural aspects of the terminology for gays" color noun

1 in roller derby, any type of theatrics that would make the skater stand out to fans US, 1999

- — Keith Coppage, Roller Derby to Rollerjam, 1999

2 in a casino, any betting token worth more than one dollar US, 1977

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 47, 1987

colorado noun

a red barbiturate capsule, especially if branded Seconal™ US, 1971

From Spanish colorado (the color red). Often abbreviated to "colie."

- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 54, 1971
- Got any colorados, chico? — Lois Stavsky et al, A2Z: The Book of Rap and Hip-Hop Slang, p. 22, 1995

Colorado Kool Aid noun

Coors™ beer US, 1972

Brewed in Colorado, and for several decades not marketed nationally.

- "Oh, he'll drink that Colorado Kool-Aid," said Jim Tom "He don't like it any more than he likes gettin' fed and fucked before sundown." — Dan Jenkins, Semi-Tough, p. 24, 1972
- Well, I was sittin' in this beer joint down in Houston, Texas / Was drinking Colorado Kool-Aid and talkin' to some Mexicans. — Johnny Paycheck, Colorado Kool Aid, October 1977
- — Ellen C. Bellone (Editor), Dictionary of Slang, p. 7, 1989

colored people's time noun

used for denoting a lack of punctuality US, 1912

One of the very few instances in which the former ameliorative "colored people" is still used in the US.

- Their lives run by a clock that keeps C.P.T., Colored People's Time, which assumes that appointments won't be kept, work promised won't be delivered, jobs found won't be gone to, since those are all part of the outside world. — Paul Jacobs, Prelude to a Riot, p. 12, 1967
- CPT—Colored People's Time (i.e., on time when they WANT to be, otherwise NOT). — San Francisco Examiner, p. 33, 9th May 1967
- I be trying to hook you up, mama. So cut all the hoorah, we ain't on colored people's time here. — Stephen Cannell, Big Con, p. 49, 1997
- "Well, now, I don't rightly know de answer to dat. Counselor Tubbs, he operates on C.P.T.:" Colored People's Time. — Tom Wolfe, A Man in Full, p. 21, 1998

colored showers noun

a sexual fetish involving urination on your partner US, 1993

- — J.R. Schwartz, The Official Guide to the Best Cat Houses in Nevada, p. 164, 1993

colored town noun

a neighborhood with a large population of black people US, 1964

- Colored town. It's on fire. — Jim Thompson, Pop, 1280, p. 150, 1964

color for color adverb

in American casinos, the method of paying bets—no denomination at a time US, 1980

- — Lee Solkey, Dummy Up and Deal, p. 110, 1980

color me verb

used ironically in conjunction with an adjective for describing a personal condition US, 1962

- Color me Naive. — Erma Brombeck, At Wit's End, p. 121, 1967
- Color me gone. — Michael Herr, Dispatches, p. 250, 1977
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Spring 1980
- HEATHER CHANDLER: Grow up, Heather. Bulimia's so '86. HEATHER MCNAMARA: Color me nauseous. — Heathers, 1988

color of money noun

a green smoke grenade US, 2000

- Green was the color of money. — Paul Morgan, The Parrot's Beak, p. 205, 2000

colors noun

1 insignia that identify group membership, especially in motorcycle gangs US, 1966

- All that remained was the gathering of any loose money or marijuana that might be lying around, lashing the sleeping bags to the bikes and donning the infamous "colors." The all-important colors . . . the uniform as it were, the crucial identity.[.] — Hunter S. Thompson, Hell's Angels, p. 8, 1966
- Though I was in jail, I had my colors on, for permission had been given. — Frank Reynolds, Freewheelin' Frank, p. 14, 1967
- "Can't fly my colors. I don't want trouble with The Man." — Arthur Blessitt, Turned On to Jesus, p. 121, 1971
- We got to play out of town twice, once in an ex-biker club in Sacramento that thrilled me by making me take off my Harley Wings because they were "colors" [.] — Jennifer Blowdryer, White Trash Debutante, p. 78, 1997

2 the colored clothing worn as a signal of gang affiliation US, 1989

- So we pulled off our jackets and showed them our colors.[.] — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 60, 1989

color-struck adjective

overly conscious of skin color US, 1965

- I ain't got nothin' against dark-skin girls. I ain't never been color struck, and I never try to let none-a-my chillun be color struck. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 133, 1965
- You just color-struck, that's your you givin' your money to a white man.[.] — Nathan Heard, Howard Street, p. 143, 1968
- Either you want a black man, or it's really true that you done got color-struck and you won't be satisfied unless you get your own white owl. — Donald Goines, Whoreson, p. 260, 1972

color up verb

in casino gambling, to trade chips of one denomination for chips of a higher denomination US, 1991

- — Michael Dalton, Blackjack, p. 39, 1991

combat fishing noun

sport fishing at a crowded fishing spot US, 1993

- — Mike Doogan, How to Speak Alaskan, p. 22, 1993

combat-happy adjective

deranged by the horrors of combat US, 1962

- And Leo's Duval-like portrayal, though sometimes over the top, is an interesting study of a combat-happy maniac whose unstable emotional state is exacerbated when he's given virtual carte blanche to kill in the name of his country. — Denver (Colorado) Westword, 26th November 1998

combat ineffective adjective dead or wounded US

- If he became combat ineffective, a subtle way of saying wounded or killed, Uleski, the XO, would have to be able to fight the Team within the framework of the battalion's battle plan as effectively as Bannon. — Harold Coyle, Team Yankee, p. 46, 1987

combat jack noun

an act of masturbation by a combat soldier to relieve the tension or boredom of combat US, 2003

- After surviving their first ambush at Al Gharraf, a couple of Marines even admitted to an almost frenzied need to get off combat jacks. — Rolling Stone, 24th July 2003

Combat Zone nickname

an unsavory area in downtown Boston, dominated by sex shops, bars, and drug dealers US, 1971

- Get-down time in the Combat Zone and Inez was waiting to draw first blood. — John Sayles, Union Dues, p. 180, 1977
- By 1979, I had worked in Boston's Combat Zone for three years. — Lauri Lewin, Naked is the Best Disguise, p. 13, 1984
- The wheelchair-bound friends and the then teenaged boys ended up at a girlie show in the Combat Zone. — Boston Herald, p. 23, 13th January 2004

comber noun

a large wave that breaks on a reef or a beach US, 1961

- Canoe Surf is where the kookes hang out and where you get the first feel of Hawaiian combers before you set out for the real thing—Makaha or Sunset. — Frederick Kohner, Gidget Goes Hawaiian, p. 48, 1961
- — Gary Fairmont R. Filosa II, The Surfer's Almanac, p. 183, 1977

combo noun

1 a combination of anything physical or abstract US, 1921

- I just told you, she's half Asian, half American. They're all good looking. You could mate Don Rickles and Yoko Ono and they're going to have a gorgeous kid. It's a foolproof combo. — Something About Mary, 1998

2 a small jazz band US, 1924

- Some skinny joker with scald burns on his face was fronting a combo. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 95, 1969

3 in pool, a combination shot, or one in which the cue ball is shot into a numbered ball that then hits the object ball US, 1990

- Balls shot in combination are preceded by the call of "combo," much the same as a basketball player cries "glass" to acknowledge that he intends to make his shot off the backboard. — Steve Rushin, Pool Cool, p. 10, 1990

come; cum noun

1 semen US, 1923

- — Donald Webster Cory and John P. LeRoy, The Homosexual and His Society, p. 263, 1963: "A lexicon of homosexual slang"
- "Well, dammit, it was full of his come!" she retorted with an indignant toss of her head. — Nathan Heard, Howard Street, p. 20, 1968
- Jim feels the other's warm cum on his stomach, and his own cock stretches.[.] — John Rechy, The Sexual Outlaw, p. 32, 1977

- He saw the Jimi poster in my room and goes, "That nigger looks like he's got a mouth full of cum." — Francesca Lia Block, Baby Be-Bop, p. 391, 1995
- I touch her pussy now, the dry hair. My sperm dry on it. Little streaks of dry cum. — Clarence Major, All-Night Visitors, p. 4, 1998

2 an orgasm US, 1967

- [W]hat these broads—the good-looking ones, that is—were after was a damned good come. — Joey V., Portrait of Joey, p. 117, 1969
- [In Cairo, 1992] the price was about 50 piastres (8p) for one come whether you took a minute or hours. — Fiona Pitt-Kethley, Red Light Districts of the World, p. 42, 2000

come; cum verb

to experience an orgasm UK, 1600

- In a jiff I was in; but for some strange reason I couldn't come; all 19-year-old cockmasters can't come, you know this as well as I do. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Neal Cassidy, p. 299, 10th January 1951
- "Who's talking about go?" demanded Liv. "The girls want to come! Am I right, Can?" — Terry Southern, Candy, p. 49, 1958
- "You came, Boston," he remarked with the air of a satisfied instructor. — Mary McCarthy, The Group, p. 37, 1963
- He was afraid she would come too soon; he was afraid he might come too soon. — Cecil Brown, The Life & Loves of Mr. Jiveass Nigger, p. 75, 1969

come down like trained pigs in horse racing, to finish a race exactly as predicted US, 1951

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 21, 1951

come from to emanate from; to expose the philosophical basis for a statement or action US, 1978

Another vague term of the 1960s.

- If you can check where I'm coming from, I'm talking about the class struggle. — Bobby Seale, A Lonely Rage, p. 295, 1978 come home early in horse racing, to establish and hold an early lead to win a race US, 1951

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 21, 1951

come hot in a confidence swindle, to complete the swindle which the victim immediately understands to have been a swindle US, 1985

- — M. Allen Henderson, How Con Games Work, p. 218, 1985

come out the side of your neck to speak foolishly US, 1975

- You know I don't stand for no lame coming out the side of his neck with me. — Miguel Pinero, Short Eyes, p. 13, 1975

come across verb

1 to have sex as the result of persuasive insistence US, 1921

- He had gone dancing there a week ago, picked up a dame, shot her a line, and she had come across. — James T. Farrell, The Life Adventure, p. 182, 1947
- "Yeah," another one agreed, "a babe would have to come across to ride in that car with me." — Irving Shulman, The Amboy Dukes, p. 52, 1947
- Jazz groupies in those days came across as weird but did not necessarily come across. — Larry Rivers, What Did I Do?, p. 50, 1992

2 to agree to become an informer US, 1973

- You'd better realize that if you come across, you've got to come across all the way; we don't want to hear anything from you that isn't true just because you think we'd like to hear it. — Leonard Shecter and William Phillips, On the Pad, p. 50, 1973 come again?

please repeat or restate what you just said US, 1970

- — Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 39, 1970

come-along; cum-along noun handcuffs with a chain lead US, 1974

- His pockets contained a billfold with a dozen credit cards in different names, a key ring with a great many keys on it, a Mexican switchblade, and chain manacle known to the police as a "come along." — Robert Stone, Dog Soldiers, p. 101, 1974

comeback noun

1 revenge US, 1964

- — American Speech, p. 306, December 1964: "Lingua cosa nostra"

2 an adulterant used to dilute crack cocaine US, 1989

- A chemical that when baked looks, smells, and tastes like CRACK.
- Max's recipe calls for an "eighth" of cocaine (1/8 kilo, or 125 grams), 60 grams of bicarbonate of soda (ordinary baking soda) and 40 grams of "comeback," an adulterant that has allowed Max to double his profits from crack. — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 17, 1989
- And like you Gee Money I have also been doing some experimenting and discovered by cutting the caine with comeback we make more product not less. — New Jack City, 1990

come back verb

to reply to a citizens' band radio broadcast US, 1976

- From the opening whistle, he'd be as mad as a redneck truckdriver who'd heard a fog come back on his CB. — Dan Jenkins, Life Its Ownself, p. 18, 1984

comeback kid noun

a thief who breaks into a hotel room where he has previously stayed, using a key he failed to return US, 1954

- A comeback kid was a room-rifler who operated by the simple procedure of checking in and checking right out again the next day but "forgetting" to turn in the room key when he left. — Dev Collins with Stewart Sterling, I was a House Detective, p. 11, 1954

come-back money noun

in horse racing, money from off-track betting operations that is wired to a race track just before a race US, 1957

- David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 21, 1951

come chugger noun

a person who performs oral sex on men US, 1999

- He's not a fudgepacker. Cum chugger yes, but not a fudgepacker. — Cruel Intentions, 1999 come day, go day; come day, go day, God sendSunday adjective laid back, unruffled US, 1918

- "Come day, go day, God send Sunday" is more the motto of the free and go-easy life of the Boyds. — Edward L. Ayers, Southern Crossing, p. 19, 1995

comedown noun

a person, thing or event that dampens your spirits or depresses you US, 1952

- Well, this is really a comedown. — John Clifton Holmes, Go, p. 143, 1952

come down verb

1 to experience the easing of drug intoxication US, 1959

- — Burton H. Wolfe, The Hippies, p. 203, 1968
- You're high and you need to come down. Sleep it off, Dirk. — Boogie Nights, 1997

2 to arrive in prison US, 1972

- You take a lot of guys that when they come down the first or second time to the penitentiary, they come down with a good reputation from the streets[.] — Bruce Jackson, Outside the Law, p. 170, 1972

come freak; cum freak noun

a person who is obsessed with sex US, 1966

- Maybe I'm turning into a come freak. — Malcolm Braly, On the Yard, p. 326, 1967
- — Current Slang, p. 19, Fall 1968
- A pimp does not want a promiscuous woman, a "come-freak," who "lives only on the physical plane." — Christina and Richard Milner, Black Players, p. 89, 1972
- Body have to be stuck with a mean case of horniness to even think about it in this weather, much less do anything about it. Have to be a stone come-freak. — John Sayles, Union Dues, p. 180, 1977

come-fuck-me adjective sexually alluring US, 1986

An embellished FUCK-ME.

- Then Paco hears Cathy and Marty-boy leave her apartment (the two of them dressed for a hot day's traveling; Cathy in one of her famous low-cut, summary "come-fuck-me" dresses). — Larry Heinemann, Paco's Story, p. 187, 1986
- I buy a pair of shoes like Tiffany's—come-fuck-me shoes—with heels high as candy canes. — Cathi Hanauer, My Sister's Bones, p. 24, 1996
- Does Madonna walk around the house in cone bras and come-fuck-me bustiers? — Steven Pressfield, The War of Art, p. 86, 2002
- [T]he woman had looked away from her sketch long enough to favor him with a come-fuck-me stare so blatant it allowed for no other interpretation. — David Cray, Partners, p. 148, 2004

come gum; cum gum noun chewing gum with a liquid center US, 1985

- — Maledicta, p. 284, 1984—1985: "Food names"
- Around the same time, there was a gum designed with a liquid center, so it would squirt fluid in your mouth when you bit into it. It was popularly known among teenagers as . . . you guessed it. "Come gum." — museumthoaxes.com, 14th September 2005 come-here noun

a tourist or summer visitor US

- On the Eastern Shore of Virginia and Maryland, the come-heres are pitted against the from-heres. — Ben Zimmer, "Beach-Blanket Lingo," New York Times, 5th August 2010
- I'm a Come-Here. Doug and (Sherry) own The Cedars Bed and Breakfast in Snow Hill, Maryland. We moved to Snow Hill in 1999. — "I'm a Come-Here," cedarsnowbnb.com, 3rd August 2015

come-in noun

in a circus, the hour period before the performance, during which patrons are allowed to enter the big top US, 1980

- — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 27, 1980

come-off noun

an event or result US, 1887

- By this time, the Hotsy Totsy Club "come off;" as the hoodlum expression describes such unfortunate occurrences, was making both press and police forget the irritating lack of an arrested culprit[.] — Robert Sylvester, No Cover Charge, p. 16, 1956

come-on noun

1 an invitation, especially unspoken and especially sexual US, 1942

- Can't a man say a woman is attractive without it being a come-on? — When Harry Met Sally, 1989
- She had the talent, she had the cool expression on her face, like a good stripper who doesn't overdo it, just gives you enough of a come-on. — Elmore Leonard, Be Cool, p. 53, 1999

2 a woman who uses her sexuality to induce customers to buy drinks at a bar US, 1971

- A B-girl (also called a "come-on" or "percentage girl" or "drink rustler") often spends six to seven hours in a bar every evening. — Charles Winick, The Lively Commerce, p. 171, 1971

come on verb

1 to demonstrate sexual interest US, 1959

- Now Johnny Rio is not coming on with this queen—although he spoke to her and winked. — John Rechy, Numbers, p. 69, 1967
- This fucking pervert just came on to Nance! — Something About Mary, 1998
- Some of our customers—wealthy, older men—felt free to come on to us. — Kathryn Leigh Scott, The Bunny Years, p. 74, 1998
- But I saw her last week and she was coming on to me all over the place. — Kenneth Lonergan, This Is Our Youth, p. 34, 2000

2 (of drugs) to start having an effect US, 1946

- I make Koolaid that makes purple Owlsey come on like piss. — Apocalypse Now, 1979
- She hung out with me while I was coming on when I had been dosed by what I think was something approaching 3500 mikes[.] — Stephen Gaskin, Amazing Dope Tales, p. 115, 1980 come on snake, let's rattle!

let's dance! US, 1958

Teen slang.

- — San Francisco News, p. 6, 25th March 1958

come on worm, let's wiggle

let's dance US, 1954

- — This Week Magazine, New York Herald Tribune, p. 47, 28th February 1954

come out verb

to declare your homosexuality openly or publicly US, 1941

- Not all homosexuals are "gay." That term is applied especially to those who are just "coming out" or acknowledging their membership in a minority group. — Helen P. Branson, Gay Bar, p. 9, 1957
- — Donald Webster Cory and John P. LeRoy, The Homosexual and His Society, p. 263, 1963: "A lexicon of homosexual slang"
- I was 16 when I really "came out." — Antony James, America's Homosexual Underground, p. 110, 1965
- I didn't come out until I left college. — Mart Crowley, The Boys in the Band, p. 37, 1968
- When we first "came out" we spent many happy and exciting times in gay bars from one coast to the other. — Screw, p. 8, 24th November 1969
- When any male anywhere "comes out" he is faced with the problem of where to find sex partners and/or lovers. — John Francis Hunter, The Gay Insider, pp. 5–6, 1971
- "Dig on this: Carol's come out." "Come out of what?" Kate asked, after a pause. "Her tube top?" "Not to joke," Sylvia said. "She's gay." — Cyra McFadden, The Serial, p. 88, 1977

comer noun

a promising prospect US, 1879

- Bana was twenty-seven and a comer. His foot was on the ladder. — Robert Campbell, Alice in La-La Land, p. 195, 1987

come shot; cum shot noun

a scene in a pornographic film or a photograph of a man ejaculating US, 1972

- The film [Deep Throat] features a couple of ass-fucking sequences and three come shots, two in that wonderful mouth. — Screw, p. 21, 19th June 1972
- What you see now is the "cum shot," and it has become a big item in sexflicks. You can watch his jism jettison, and this removes all doubt that there is anything simulated about this sex scene. — Adam Film World, p. 58, 1977
- "You know what a cum shot is?" Sabrina said she did not. Erin explained. "Yukky." — Carl Hiaasen, Strip Tease, p. 335, 1993
- What do you want to do to the come shot? We could go to the stock footage, get a close-up. — Boogie Nights, 1997

come the revolution

at some unknown point in the future everything will change for the better US, 1970

Not without irony, even at the time.

- "Come the revolution," he went on, "and you report me to the Committee, try to remember that the pressures to conform are tremendous in a small town." — Ethan Morden, Buddies, p. 81, 1986
- When disputes erupted, "Come the revolution!" could mean "Later for that—much later." — Todd Gitlin, The Sixties, p. 346, 1987

come-through noun

in a big store confidence swindle, the stage when the victim learns that he has been swindled and goes after the swindlers US, 1997

- Dakota has to remain behind after we run so she can tell the tale to Tommy and control the come-through. — Stephen Cannell, Big Con, p. 193, 1997

come-up noun

1 a robbery US, 2003

- In two expletive-laced calls to friends Jan. 5, two days after his arrest, Rawls admitted he knew Ramirez was planning a "come up," which is street slang for a robbery. — The Oregonian, p. B2, 10th November 2003
- One of the men, Cedrick Hudson, asked an acquaintance if he knew of any "come-ups." — Los Angeles Times, 20th November 2014

come up verb

to feel the psychoactive effects of a drug US

- It takes approximately an hour to "come up"; the senses light up, you start "rushing," and for a short while the experience can be overwhelming. — Simon Reynolds, Generation Ecstasy, p. 83, 1999

comical adjective used as a humorous synonym for "chemical" US, 1968

- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 10, 1968

comic strip noun

- a person with many tattoos US, 1997
- Los Angeles Times Magazine, p. 7, 13th July 1997

coming down!; coming through!

- used as a warning by a surfer to other surfers that he is starting a ride on a wave US, 1991
- Trevor Cralle, The Surfin'ary, p. 23, 1991

coming out party noun

- discharge from prison US, 1983
- Marlene Freedman, Alcatraz, 1983

command bird noun

- the aircraft carrying a unit commander US
- Far below the colonel's command bird, an unarmed Medevac Huey makes a low weaving run and pauses briefly like a bee sipping honey. — Life, p. 24, 2 April 1971
- I fired up my own command bird and headed south. — Benjamin Harrison, Hell on a Hill Top: America's Last Major Battle in Vietnam, p. 137, 2004

commando noun

- a person with rough sexual tastes US, 1964
- Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 43, 1964

commando *adjective▶ go commando

- to wear no underwear US, 2001
- Commandos are always ready for action.
- I took my shirt, shoes, and socks off, and clad only in jeans (I'd been going commando all day). — Jack Hart, Twink, p. 93, 2001
- "I bet you go commando." Lula and Connie fanned themselves in the backseat. — Janet Evanovich, To the Nines, p. 153, 2004

commando style adverb

- without contraception US, 2002
- "You need a condom? Or do you like to fuck your bitches commando style?" — Marty Beckerman, Generation S.L.U.T., p. 158, 2004 commercial *noun1 a male homosexual prostitute US, 1949

- Commercial—One who is a male prostitute, whether brazenly or discreetly, homosexual or not. — Anon., The Gay Girl's Guide, p. 5, 1949
- Guy Strait, The Lavender Lexicon, 1964

2 a sex scene in a pornographic film US, 1995

- An intentionally misleading term which makes a public discussion about the production of pornography possible without offending those nearby.
- Adult Video News, p. 42, August 1995

commie noun

- a Communist, literally or approximately US, 1939
- I had one, good, efficient, enjoyable way of getting rid of cancerous Commies. I killed them. — Mickey Spillane, One Lonely Night, p. 175, 1951
- Now there are no more dirty Japs; there are dirty Commies! — Lenny Bruce, How to Talk Dirty and Influence People, p. 17, 1965
- Aunt Sadie, long hair is a commie plot! Long hair gets people uptight—more uptight than ideology, cause long hair is communication. — Jerry Rubin, Do It!, p. 93, 1970
- Grenada Island here I come / To save you from the Commie scum. — Sandee Johnson, Cadences: The Jody Call Book, No. 2, p. 146, 1986

commish noun

- a Commissioner US, 1910
- "Commish," he pleaded, "don't get us wrong.[]" — Harry J. Anslinger, The Murderers, p. 101, 1961

commissary punk noun

- a male prisoner who engages in homosexual activity in return for goods bought at the prison commissary US, 1972
- Bob had become a commissary punk, a boy literally bought by a wealthy convict for the extra food and few luxuries he's able to provide. — Malcolm Braly, False Starts, p. 105, 1976

committee joint noun

- an honest carnival concession or game US, 2005
- A half-dozen "Committee Joins"—honest, straightforward games like the Milk Bottle Throw or Ring Toss, operated by local civic groups—completed the midway. — Peter Fenton, Eying the Flash, p. 133, 2005

commo noun

- a military radio; communications US, 1964
- Now I have been reinstated in commo and will operate the teletype equipment as best I can with some on-the-job training. — Chris Gaynor, Letter to Dad, 12 October 1966
- "While we were on the attack my commo (radio) went out," said one soldier to a center observer. "Then by a miracle, I got my commo back." — Houston Chronicle, p. 4A, 20th March 1989

commo wire noun

- electrical wire used for a wide variety of tasks US, 1986
- Jones (Jonesy for short, James) had thirty-nine pairs of blackened, leathery, wrinkly ears strung on a bit of black commo wire and wrapped like a garland around that bit of turned-out brim of his steel hat. — Larry Heinemann, Paco's Story, p. 7, 1986

community chest noun

- a sexually available girl US, 1968
- Boys look down on a "community chest," meaning a promiscuous girl. — Joe David Brown, Sex in the '60s, p. 19, 1968

commute verb

- to take DMT, a short-lasting hallucinogen US, 1970
- William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Uptight People, p. 9, December 1970

comp noun

- a complimentary benefit given to valued customers US, 1977
- Comps, the giving away of food, rooms, drink, girls, free airplane tickets, and show entertainment, started in Vegas in the 1940s. — Mario Puzo, Inside Las Vegas, p. 285, 1977
- "You're gonna be a comp." "Yeah? What's that, Vincent, a comp?" "Like the champagne, a gift. You're gonna get handed out, passed around." — Elmore Leonard, Glitz, p. 77, 1985

comp *verb1 to issue something on a complimentary basis US, 1961

- This is the end result of all the bright lights and the comped trips[.] — Casino, 1995
- I play long enough and hard enough to get a comped room and put food in my stomach. — Hard Eight, 1996

2 to accompany someone musically US, 1949

- Robert S. Gold, A Jazz Lexicon, p. 63, 1964

compa *nouna very close friend US, 1974

- Border Spanish used in English conversation by Mexican-Americans; from the more formal compadre (godfather to one's child).
- Dagoberto Fuentes and Jose Lopez, Barrio Language Dictionary, p. 33, 1974

compadre *nouna close and trusted male friend US, 1833

- From the Spanish word (the godfather of your child).
- [T]he slim blond boy continued to run like a streak toward his friends, his long lost compadres, his School pals. — James Patterson, When the Wind Blows, p. 340, 1998 company *nounsex US, 1991

- Used as a euphemism by prostitutes soliciting customers.
- William T. Vollman, Whores for Gloria, p. 139, 1991 company girl noun

- a prostitute hired to enliven a corporate event or outing US, 1960
- Whores are now "call girls," "party girls" or "company girls." Instead of visiting them, they come to see you. — Lee Mortimer, Women Confidential, p. 140, 1960

company patsy noun

- the person within an organization who is blamed for everything that goes wrong US, 1973
- Sherman Louis Sergel, The Language of Show Biz, p. 56, 1973

comp list noun

- a list kept at the door of a club or concert, identifying those who are to be admitted free of charge US, 1999

- Chili was on his way in, waiting for the doorman to find his name on the comp list, as Hy Gordon was coming out and they stopped to say hello. — Elmore Leonard, Be Cool, p. 51, 1999

comprende?do you understand? US, 1994

- Spanish used by English speakers without regard to their fluency in Spanish, and with multiple variations reflecting their lack of fluency.
- Fuck with me, bitch, even a little bit, even a little bit, you're gonna get accidentally shot! Comprende? — Natural Born Killers, 1994

comps *nouncomprehensive college examinations US, 1961

- I spent most of my time boning up for my final examination, the "comps." — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 407, 1961

compute *verbto make sense US, 1964

- Almost always heard in the negative – "does not compute." Popularized in the 1960s television situation comedy My Living Doll, in which the robotic character played by Julie Newmar would respond to anything that she did not understand by saying "That does not compute."
- Because good news does not compute for me right now. — Anna Quindlen, One True Thing, p. 151, 1994
- On the very next page, we find out that in the 71 days since combat operations ended in Iraq, 77 American soldiers have died. This does not compute! [Letter to Editor] — Times Herald (Port Huron, Michigan), p. 9AQ, 18th July 2003 computer geek noun

- a person whose life is centered around computers to the exclusion of all other outlets US, 1991

- Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 102, 1991

computer nerd noun

- a student whose enthusiasm for computers has interfered with the development of a well-rounded personality US, 1985
- I'm not at all impressed by those movies about computer nerds in high school who triumph in some improbable way over the jocks[.] — Washington Post (reprinted from The Nation), p. C5, 22nd December 1985

compy?do you understand? US, 1947

- A complete corruption of the French or Spanish.
- Marcus Hanna Bouliware, Jive and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947

comrat noun

a political liberal US, 1951

A derogatory play on the communist use of the term “comrade.”

- The Nat'l Lawyers Guild (listed as a commy front by the Congprobers) is trying to find some way to intervene in the proceedings against the comrats by the McCarran Act. — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 11, 12th June 1951

comred noun

a political liberal US, 1953

A play on the term “comrade.”

- What this cultural group did not select is an ex-Commy such as Chambers, Budenz, Bentley, Rushmore and other one-time Reds, who proved their loyalty to the U.S. by publicly named comreds. — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 60, 3rd February 1953

comsymp noun

a liberal; a communist sympathizer US, 1964

- Therefore, the defeat of that proposal put forward by those wild-eyed comsymps in Welfare, due to come before the board at Monday's meeting, was the big skyhook[.] — Robert Gover, Here Goes Kitten, p. 91, 1964

con *noun1 a convict or ex-convict US, 1888

- Shortie was a con and he was more than anxious to stay away from murder. — Mickey Spillane, My Gun Is Quick, p. 57, 1950
- I listen to the other cons making with the patter—kidding each other about the great things they're going to do to celebrate release. — Colin Johnson, Wild Cat Falling, p. 4, 1965
- I was astonished to see the old grizzled cons playing marbles. — Eldridge Cleaver, Soul on Ice, p. 43, 1968
- In the recreation room there were some fifty gas ranges that cons used to cook on. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 128, 1973

2 a convention US, 1978

Especially popular among fans of science fiction and comic books.

- — American Speech, p. 53, Spring 1978: “Star Trek lives: trekker slang”
- I swear—the next con I attend and they ask me to be on the minority panel, if I see your name anywhere near the list, I'm passing. — Chasing Amy, 1997

con verb

to subject someone to a confidence trick; to dupe the victim of a criminal enterprise US, 1892

- He's been associated with race tracks and track people and had a great deal of school difficulties. He was quite proficient in “conning” people. — San Francisco News, p. 4, 5th June 1959
- But you better try and try hard. And don't try to con the parole board. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 36, 16th April 1966
- She was going to con a con man. Ha! — Edwin Torres, Carlito's Way, p. 36, 1975

Con-Air noun

any airplane flown by the federal Bureau of Prisons to transport prisoners US, 1996

- — Reinhold Aman, Hillary Clinton's Pen Pal, p. 25, 1996

con artist noun

a skilled confidence swindler US, 1937

- Every con artist that has ever lived had to gain the mark's confidence during the scam. — Dennis M. Marlock, How to Become a Professional Con Artist, p. 34, 2001

con-con noun

the residue that remains after smoking freebase cocaine US, 1992

- — Terry Williams, Crackhouse, p. 147, 1992

concrete overcoat noun

the covering of a corpse with concrete to facilitate its disposal in a body of water US, 1971

- I see a few wrinkles in this scheme now (the words “concrete overcoat” come to mind), but I did not then. — Joan Didion, The White Album, p. 182, 1979

concrete overshoes noun

concrete poured around a person or body's feet to facilitate disposal in a body of water US, 1976

- We guessed that most of them were where you couldn't see them, at the bottom of Lake Michigan, wearing concrete overshoes. — Richard Peck, A Long Way from Chicago, p. 1, 1998

condom *noun1 in computing, the plastic bag that protects a 3.5 inch disk US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 103, 1991

2 in pool, a removable rubber sleeve for a cue stick US, 1993

- — Mike Shamos, The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Billiards, p. 56, 1993

condominiums noun

in bar dice games, a roll from the cup in which some dice are stacked on top of others, invalidating the roll US, 1976

- — Gil Jacobs, The World's Best Dice Games, p. 201, 1976

conductor noun

the second active participant in serial sex with a single passive partner US, 1975

From PULL A TRAIN (serial sex).

- Carolina Moon announced that she was going to take her blanket into the bushes and pull the train. “I'm first! I'm the engineer!” cried Harold Bloomguard. “I'm second! I'm conductor!” cried Spencer Van Moot. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Choirboys, p. 333, 1975 cone *noun► give cone

to perform oral sex US, 1982

- — Mimi Pond, The Valley Girl's Guide to Life, p. 57, 1982

conehead noun

a socially inept person US, 1990

From a recurring skit on Saturday Night Live, first appearing in 1983; Dan Ackroyd played alien Beldar Conehead and Jane Curtin his wife Prymaat.

- — Elena García, A Beginner's Guide to Zen and the Art of Snowboarding, p. 121, 1990

Coney Island noun

any room in a police station where suspected criminals are forcefully interrogated US, 1949

- — Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 57, 1949
- — Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 47, 1950

Coney Island whitefish noun

a used condom US, 1984

The most prominent use of the term is probably in the title of the 1979 Aerosmith song “Bone to Bone (Coney Island White Fish Boy).”

- Abrams spotted a flaccid rubber sheath that in his youth had been called a Coney Island whitefish. — Nelson DeMille, The Talbot Odyssey, p. 346, 1984
- Coney Island also gave its name, probably in the 1930s, to the Coney-Island whitefish, a used condom floating in the water at the bathing beach—a common sight then and now. — Irving Lewis Allen, The City in Slang, p. 102, 1993
- I recall how surfers objected to sharing their waves with the schools of “Coney Island whitefish,” the name we gave used condoms that drifted east, along Long Island's South Shore, from the city sewer system. — Russell Drumm, In the Slick of the Cricket, p. 212, 1997
- In Brooklyn, in what many people have been taught by crack journalists to call “a more innocent time,” floating condoms were often called “Coney Island whitefish.” — Gilbert Sorrentino, Little Casino, p. 35, 2002 conference noun

a poker game US, 1988

An intentionally misleading euphemism.

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 24, 1988

confidencer verb

an electronic device that screens out background noise from a telephone mouthpiece US, 1985

- — M. Allen Henderson, How Con Games Work, p. 219, 1985

congrats noun

congratulations UK, 1984

- This one's received with no fanfare or congrats. — Josh Alan Friedman, Tales of Times Square, p. 122, 1986

conk verb

1 to straighten hair using any number of chemical processes US, 1935

- The face of a colored youth with slick conked hair and beardless cheeks stared up. — Chester Himes, The Real Cool Killers, p. 25, 1959
- Everybody understood that my head had to stay kinky a while longer, to grow long enough for Shorty to conk it for me. — Malcolm X and Alex Haley, The Autobiography of Malcolm X, p. 51, 1964
- He had his hair conked, but around his ears and at the nape of his neck were the hard, tight burrs he wanted so much to hide. — Nathan Heard, Howard Street, p. 86, 1968
- Then you had a pimp name of Red Conk on account of he conked his hair red (hair was straight in them days one way or other—Dixie Peach or Sulfur 8). — Edwin Torres, Carlito's Way, p. 13, 1975

2 to kill someone US, 1918

- He was yellow. That's what caused him to get conked. — Horace McCoy, Kiss Tomorrow Good-bye, p. 41, 1948

conk; konk *noun1 the head US, 1870

- The halo that started to shape up around my conk was so big and bright, I felt like an overgrown glow-worm. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 89, 1946

2 a hairstyle in which naturally curly hair is chemically straightened; hence, the hair straightening process; the chemical preparation required US, 1942

- Even the solid cats in their pancho conks didn't ruffle me. — Chester Himes, If He Hollers Let Him Go, p. 43, 1945
- I couldn't get over marveling at how their hair was straight and shiny like white men's hair; Ella told me this was called a “conk.” — Malcolm X and Alex Haley, The Autobiography of Malcolm X, p. 43, 1964
- He'd drop by the school and be vined down. He was clean, Jim. Had him a conk then and he knew he was ready. — H. Rap Brown, Die Nigger Die!, p. 24, 1969
- I went to a barber shop way up in the wilds of the South Bronx, recommended by some walking exponents of one hair-straightening process known as the “konk.” — Piri Thomas, Stories from El Barrio, p. 50, 1978

conkbuster verb

inexpensive, potent whiskey US, 1947

- — Marcus Hanna Bouliware, Jive and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947

conk out; konk out; clonk out verb to fall asleep; to pass out; to stop operating UK, 1917

- I don't conk out on grape! — Dan Burley, Digbeth Thou?, p. 34, 1959
- The Plymouth conked out on La Brea avenue, and we had to take three buses out to Boyle Heights. — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 65, 1961
- He just crawled into the back seat, said “West 45th Street,” and conked out. — Taxi Driver, 1976
- At this point Iris lay back in her chair and conked out on him. He could slap her face all he wanted, throw water in it, hold her under the shower—he could see she wasn't about to come around for the rest of the night.

—Elmore Leonard, Glitz, p. 190, 1985

con merchant noun

a confidence swindler US, 1959

- In short, since a con merchant must swindle his clients under those circumstances where clients appreciate that a confidence game could be employed, the con man must forestall the immediate impression that he might be what in fact he is. —Erving Goffman, The Presentation of Self in Everyday Life, p. 225, 1959

connect noun

a connection from which an illicit substance may be obtained; a drug dealer US, 1960

- The connect ain't come through the last week, and the Man's downtown. —Clarence Cooper Jr., The Scene, p. 23, 1960
- "If my connect gets the wire I gave his name to somebody," he said, "splittin' ain't going to help me none." —Charles W. Moore, A Brick for Mister Jones, p. 34, 1975
- The price is going up, because the connect wants thirty [$30,000] for each [kilo] package, and I got to make at least ten on each package for myself. —Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 34, 1989
- Because it's my connect. I'm providing the connect. —Kenneth Lonergan, This Is Our Youth, p. 37, 2000

connect verb

to make a sexual conquest US, 1985

- —American Speech, p. 19, Spring 1985: "The language of singles bars"

connected adjective associated with, if not a formal part of, organized crime US, 1968

- [O]ne day he comes up to me and says there are these guys out on Long Island who asked him if he was connected, meaning mobbed up. —Peter Maas, The Valachi Papers, p. 140, 1968
- You can't print me. I'm, a connected guy. —Edwin Torres, Q & A, p. 157, 1977
- No, I never heard that name. He could be connected, but I can tell you he's not family. —Elmore Leonard, Killshot, p. 230, 1989

connection noun

1 a drug dealer; a drug deal US, 1928

- "I need a jolt," one addict might remark. "I gotta see my connection." —William J. Spillard and Pence James, Needle in a Haystack, p. 148, 1945
- I drank all day in a wild poolhall-bar-restaurant-saloon two-part joint, also got burned for a fin (Mexican, 5 pesos, 60 cents) by a connection. —Jack Kerouac, Letter to Neal and Carolyn Cassidy, p. 359, 27th May 1952
- I'd better go see my connection. —Piri Thomas, Down These Mean Streets, p. 203, 1967
- Is there a connection around, man? I have to cop. I'm alright, but my old lady is getting sick. —Herbert Huncke, The Evening Sun Turned Crimson, p. 72, 1980

2 a sexual partner US, 1985

- —American Speech, p. 19, Spring 1985: "The language of singles bars"

connections noun

in horse racing, a horse's owner, trainer and the trainer's assistant US, 1960

- —Robert Saunders Dowst and Jay Craig, Playing the Races, p. 161, 1960

connectors noun

in poker, several sequenced cards that might be improved to a five-card sequenced straight US, 1990

- —Anthony Holden, Big Deal, p. 299, 1990

conneroo noun

a confidence swindler US, 1949

- Glenn made Jack feel as he had around his stepfather—a master barroom conneroo who would afterwards deride those who always stood him a drink. —Earl Thompson, Tattoo, p. 227, 1974

Connie's army noun

the flotilla of supporters of the racing yacht Constellation in the 1962 America Cup races US, 1964

An obvious allusion to "Arnie's army."

- "Connie's Army," the spectator fleet which stayed close to the leading Constellation, affected both boats with their wakes and the British were informed that the Coast Guard would study how to remedy the situation today. —San Francisco News Call-Bulletin, p. 56, 19th September 1964

con safos used as a warning not to deface the writer's graffiti US, 1970

- In Spanish, literally means "with safety."
- Of course at the bottom of the wall was the inevitable "CON SAFOS," the crucial gang incantation not to be found in any Spanish dictionary. —Joseph Wambaugh, The New Centurions, p. 105, 1970

consig noun

in an organized crime enterprise, a trusted adviser US, 1985

- Shortened from the Italian consigliere.
- Now they say he's like an honorary consig, a counsellor, reactivated while Sale's doing his two years. —Elmore Leonard, Glitz, p. 170, 1985

constipated adjective

in tiddlywinks, said of a position in which your winks are tied down and useless US, 1977

- —Verbatim, p. 525, December 1977

constitutional noun

a drug addict's first injection of the day US, 1959

- —J.E. Schmidt, Narcotics Lingo and Lore, p. 33, 1959

contact high noun

a vicarious, sympathetic experience caused by witnessing another person's drug-induced experience US, 1955

- —J. L. Simmons and Barry Winograd, It's Happening, p. 168, 1966

- —Edward R. Bloomquist, Marijuana, p. 157, 1968

content-free adjective

said of a computer message that adds nothing to the substance of a discussion or to the reader's knowledge US, 1991

- Though this adjective is sometimes applied to flamage, it more usually connotes derision for communication styles that exalt from over substance or are centered on concerns irrelevant to the subject ostensibly at hand. —Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 104, 1991

contour adverb

(used of an aircraft) at treetop level US, 1988

- There would be no warning beyond a minute or two if the pilots flew "contour"—that is, at treetop level—for the last few miles, which they did whenever they could. —Neil Sheehan, A Bright Shining Lie, p. 74, 1988

contract noun

1 an order to kill someone or a reward offered to anyone who kills the target US, 1941

- —American Speech, p. 306, December 1964: "Lingua cosa nostra"
- "We'll let a contract out on him," Teddybear says. (The Haight thinks gangsters talk this way.) —Nicholas Von Hoffman, We Are The People Our Parents Warned Us Against, p. 45, 1967
- "I told him the whole story. 'Look, kid,' he told me, 'your name's in the hat for what you did. New Jersey wants to whack you out and Jerry's got the contract.'" —Vincent Teresa, My Life in the Mafia, p. 107, 1973

2 a promise made by one police officer to do a favor for another US, 1958

- —New York Times Magazine, p. 87, 16th March 1958

control C verb

to stop what it is that you are doing US, 1991

A borrowing from the command used on many computer operating systems to interrupt a program.

- —Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 105, 1991

control freak noun

a person with an obsessive need to control people and events US, 1977

- You know that, Mike? You're a maniac control freak. —The Deer Hunter, 1978
- Oh, so that was it. Control freak. —Francesca Lia Block, I Was a Teenage Fairy, p. 77, 1998
- And why worry about the ending anyway? Why be such a control freak? —Stephen King, On Writing, p. 161, 2000
- John McGraw, obsessive control freak that he was, reviewed the hotel dinner checks to see what his players were eating. —Bill James, The New Bill James Historical Baseball Almanac, p. 426, 2001

controller noun

a mid-level operative in an illegal gambling enterprise who is in charge of a number of runners US, 1964

- A controller might have as many as fifty runners working for him, and the controller got five percent of what he turned over to the banker. —Malcolm X and Alex Haley, The Autobiography of Malcolm X, p. 85, 1964
- A lot of the junkies started sticking up the numbers writers and sticking up the controllers. —Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 191, 1965
- A banker usually has working for him several "controllers," each of whom in turn controls a number of runners. —The Knapp Commission Report on Police Corruption, p. 79, 1972
- Then you got to be an administrator; then you got labor problems—what controller is humpin' what runner's wife. —Edwin Torres, Carlito's Way, p. 30, 1975

control O verb

to stop talking US, 1991

From the character used on some computer operating systems to abort output but allow the program to keep on running. Generally means that you are not interested in hearing anything more from that person, at least on that topic.

- —Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 105, 1991

convict noun

in circus usage, a zebra US, 1926

An allusion to the zebra's striped coat, evocative of a prison uniform.

- —Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 63, 1981

convincer noun

1 the stage in a confidence swindle when the victim is fully committed to the scheme US, 1940

- White grifters call it the convincer. When con is played for money alone, it's that point at which the sucker is hooked or convinced by actual or paper profits that he can reap a bonanza. —Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Trick Baby, p. 55, 1969

2 a weapon US, 1979

- "That's a holster," I explain. "With a little convincer tucked in." —Leo Rosten, Silky, p. 54, 1979

con wise adjective

extremely sophisticated in the ways of the world based on lessons learned in prison US, 1972

- Why didn't he tell his jailers about this? He was an ex-con. No conwise con squeals. —San Francisco Examiner, p. 4 (II), 4th August 1957
- Hence, expressions among the "con-wise" as, "Do your own time," meaning stay clear of another's tension. —Neal Cassidy, Grace Beats Karma, p. 42, 20th August 1958: Letter to Carolyn Cassidy
- He's con wise, told me what I already know. —Gerald Petievich, Money Men, p. 56, 1981

cooch noun

the vagina; sex with a woman US, 2001

- There are hundreds of queer women who work as porn stars, strippers, and sex workers, but there are a lot fewer of us willing to fork over cash for cooch. — The Village Voice, 7th August 2001
- [T]he classic scene were Jen pets Gina's cooch and diddles her dingle really hits the nail on the head. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin's Skincyclopedia, p. 202, 2005
- Janine presses her breasts against her reflection in the mirror, working a vibe in and out of her cooch. — Editors of Adult Video News, The AVN Guide to the 500 Greatest Adult Films of All Time, p. 111, 2005

coocher noun

a sexually suggestive dancer US, 1927

- [I]mmediately after each coocher has given her exhibition, your waitress solicits you for her. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Chicago Confidential, p. 60, 1950
- Coochers is the term applied to the solo dancers. It derives from hootchee cootchee, a descriptive label traced to Little Egypt's belly dancing at the 1893 Chicago World's Fair. — William Green, Strippers and Coochers, p. 161, 1977

coochie noun

the vagina; sex with a woman; a woman as a sex object US, 1999

- She ain't giving up no coochie. — Lois Stovsky et al., AZ: The Book of Rap and Hip-Hop Slang, p. 22, 1995
- So what you had your little coochie in your dad's mouth? — Eminem (Marshall Mathers), My Fault, 1999
- There are '80s goths and foppish glam boys and women dressed like schoolgirls and schoolgirls dressed like solo dancers. It derives from hootchee cootchee, a descriptive label traced to Little Egypt's belly dancing at the 1893 Chicago World's Fair. — Patrick Neate, Where You're At, p. 50, 2003

coochie block verb

to thwart a person's attempt to seduce someone US, 1999

- "What did I do?" "Always coochie blocking." "I do not coochie block." — Eric Jerome Dickey, Cheaters, p. 292, 1999

cook noun

a musician who plays with great passion and energy US, 1962

- — Robert S. Gold, A Jazz Lexicon, p. 65, 1964

cook verb

1 to melt a powdered narcotic, especially heroin, in water, prior to injecting or inhaling US, 1952

The drug is "cooked up" and "cooked down."

- Angel watched him begin preparations again and didn't move until all six caps were in the spoon, ready to be cooked. — Hal Ellson, The Golden Spike, p. 7, 1952
- I finally got enough to get me a ten-dollar bag. I came home and cooked my stuff. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 259, 1965
- So cook me up when you're good and ready / And you won't remember if you're Johnnie or Eddie. — Dennis Wepman et al., The Life, p. 171, 1976
- Hey, man, gimme something cooked! — The Bad Lieutenant, 1992

2 to boil dynamite to extract nitroglycerine US, 1992

- — Jay Robert Nash, Dictionary of Crime, p. 79, 1992

3 to prepare crack cocaine, heating a mixture of cocaine, lidocaine, baking soda, and other chemicals to remove the hydrochloride US, 1992

- — Terry Williams, Crackhouse, p. 147, 1992

4 to excel, to excite people US, 1942

- You're cooking when you can play everything that jumps into your mind. — Nat Hentoff, Jazz Country, p. 25, 1965
- I got there at 1 PM, and he took me down in the basement and staked me in the game. Between shows all that day, I really "cooked." — Babs Gonzales, I Paid My Dues, p. 28, 1967
- The boys proved once again this week that they can cook in the South and especially North Carolina. (From "Summer Tour News," 7/14/91). — Scott Meyer, Deadhead Forever, 2001

5 to execute someone by electrocution US, 1932

- [H]e was still going to cook in the hot squat up the river. — Mickey Spillane, Kiss Me Deadly, p. 139, 1952
- I think most of the guys my age looked upon them as heroes when they were getting cooked at Sing Sing. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 220, 1965

▶ cook on the front burner to excel; to go fast US, 1956

- — American Speech, p. 227, October 1956: "More United States Air Force slang"

▶ cook with gas

- to perform successfully, especially after a period of trying and failing; to do very well US, 1941
- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, 1945
- He goes to the juke to watch and wait and cut a rug with a solid gate he snatches a quail with hep and class and they go to town cooking with gas! — Harry Haenigsen, Jive's Like That, 1947

▶ cook your goose

- to drink to the point of being drunk US, 1964
- — R. Frederick West, God's Gambler, p. 223, 1964

cookbook noun

in computing, a book of code segments that can be used to enhance programs US, 1991

- Cookbooks, slavishly followed, can lead one into voodoo programming, but are useful for hackers trying to monkey up small programs in unknown languages. — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 105, 1991

cooked adjective

1 in trouble US, 1956

- When I saw who was on the bench I knew I was cooked. — Billie Holiday, Lady Sings the Blues, p. 26, 1956
- I knew she would soon make her choice and I would be cooked for good and all. — Max Shulman, I Was a Teen-Age Dwarf, p. 28, 1959

2 embalmed US, 1986–1987

- — Maledicta, p. 180, Summer/Winter 1986–1987: "Sexual slang: prostitutes, pedophiles, flagellators, transvestites, and necrophiles"

cooker noun

1 in an illegal drug enterprise, a person who tests the purity of a drug US, 1967

- His father was a "cooker"—a tester who finds out how pure the imported heroin is before it gets distributed to dealers. — John Gimenez, Up Tight!, p. 50, 1967

2 any object used to heat heroin preparatory to injecting it US, 1958

- The cookers are metal caps off wine bottles with the cork lining taken out. — Willard Motley, Let No Man Write My Epitaph, p. 157, 1958
- A gland in his neck was making the ducts in his mouth water at the thought of drugs: cooker, matches, needle, eye-dropper, and pacifier. — Clarence Cooper Jr., The Scene, p. 15, 1960
- When he awakes in the morning, he reaches instantly for his "works"—eyedropper, needle ("spike," he calls it), and bottle top ("cooker"). — James Mills, The Panic in Needle Park, p. 14, 1966
- Joe Green, better known to his friends and acquaintances as Jo-Jo, poured the rest of the heroin out of a small piece of tin foil into the Wild Irish Rose wine bottle top that had been converted into what drug users call a cooker. — Donald Goines, Crime Partners, p. 7, 1978

3 a person who prepares crack cocaine US, 1992

- — Terry Williams, Crackhouse, p. 147, 1992

4 a person or thing that excels or excites US, 1943

- Baby, this is Bernie, Bernie is a real heavy cooker on piano. — Ross Russell, The Sound, p. 190, 1961 cookie noun

1 a person US, 1917

- There's your answer. He's a smart cookie. — Horace McCoy, Kiss Tomorrow Good-bye, p. 207, 1948
- When that girl comes back she be one mad cookie, you bet! — Mickey Spillane, One Lonely Night, p. 146, 1951
- He was a sharp cookie, West, and Miller was just as sharp. — Evan Hunter, The Blackboard Jungle, p. 64, 1954
- Now the smart cookies line up their weekend dates on Thursdays, at the latest. — Frederick Kohner, The Affairs of Gidget, p. 55, 1963

2 the vagina US, 1970

- — Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 40, 1970
- I promise you, kiddo, if you can't get a boner, I'll let you cop a feel of my cookie. — Thomas Sanchez, The Zoot Suit Murders, p. 58, 1978

3 a material reward or inducement; money US, 1973

- Cookies are the prizes to be won in a game, and the term usually refers to money. — Christina and Richard Milner, Black Players, p. 48, 1972
- Now that you're on the streets, you'll need cookies in your kick [wallet], and always try to keep some there. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 30, 1973

4 a large chunk of processed crack cocaine US, 1993

- Cocaine had to be turned into what we called a cookie. Then you could break it off and sell it as rocks. — Menace II Society, 1993
- I didn't even let the crack cookies dry. — 50 Cent, From Pieces to Weight, p. 52, 2005

5 a file that an Internet webpage leaves on the hard drive of a user's computer, that is retrieved whenever the user returns to that webpage US, 1993

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 117, 1993
- — Andy Ihnatko, Cyberspeak, p. 40, 1997

6 a blood clot traveling through the arteries US, 1994

- — Sally Williams, "Strong" Words, p. 137, 1994

7 in television and movie-making, a light screen designed to cast shadows US, 1990

- — Ralph S. Singleton, Filmmaker's Dictionary, p. 91, 1990

▶ get your cookies

- to experience pleasure, especially in a perverted way US, 1956
- A fart smellier, way over in the corner, grabbed them, started sniffing, getting his cookies. — Steve Cannon, Groove, Bang, and Jive Around, p. 71, 1969

▶ that's the way the cookie crumbles that's how things turn out US, 1955

- — Independent Record (Helena, Montana), 27th November 1955
- "How do the kids say it?" Sam continued to pat his daughter's hand; how beautiful she was in sadness! "That's the way the cookie crumbles?" — Irving Shulman, College Confidential, p. 168, 1960
- Well, you know what they say, that's the way the cookie crumbles sometimes. — Odie Hawkins, Ghetto Sketches, p. 179, 1972
- [I]f the conversation happens to turn to gossip about sex in the office, well, that's the way the cookie crumbles. — Michael Crichton, Disclosure, p. 223, 1993

cookie cop noun

a private security officer US, 2004

- Then up popped two swoll cookie cops. I mean, they were just fat old security guys and not real police with guns and stuff. — Linden Dalecki, Kid B, p. 108, 2006 cookie cutter noun

in circus and carnival usage, a police badge US, 1926

- — Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 63, 1981

Cookie Division nickname the 9th Infantry Division US

- The 9th Infantry Division was called Flower Power or Cookie Division, for the resemblance of its unit patch to these two objects. — Roger Hayes, On Point, p. 44, 2000

cookie duster noun a mustache US, 1930

- One's ten, the other's four and half, living up there with their mom and a real estate man she married name of Gary, has a little cookie-duster mustache. — Elmore Leonard, Riding the Rap, p. 9, 1995

cookies noun

the contents of a person's stomach US, 1927

- "You can lose your cookies later." — Christopher Lane, Tanopah, p. 370, 1999
- The body's response to fear is simple: fight or flight. Either lose your cookies while scampering off to safety, or hope to find an incontinence pad before being embarrassed to death[.] — Karen Moline, No Parachutes [Tart Noir], p. 49, 2002

▶ blow your cookies

to vomit US, 1976

- My lunch—a tahini-and-bean-sprout pita—came back into my throat, and I practically blew my cookies all over my calendar. — Rita Ciresi, Pink Slip, p. 54, 1999

▶ pop your cookies

to vomit US, 1960

- "Popped my cookies!" he congratulated himself, awe-struck by his deed. "Flashed the old hash all over Twenny-second." — Nelson Algren, The Neon Wilderness, p. 164, 1960

▶ toss your cookies

to vomit US, 1941

- Children's vocabulary.
- The cab I had was a real old one that smelled like someone'd just tossed his cookies in it. — J.D. Salinger, Catcher in the Rye, p. 81, 1951
- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 99, 1968

cooking adjective

1 in shuffleboard, used for communicating the fact that a disk is in the kitchen US, 1967

- — Omero C. Catan, Secrets of Shuffleboard Strategy, p. 65, 1967

2 (used of surf conditions) excellent US, 1977

- — Gary Fairmont R. Filosa II, The Surfer's Almanac, p. 183, 1977

cook off verb

(used of ammunition) to explode because of heat from a surrounding fire US, 1985

- I was also worried about any ordinance on board the Spad that could still cook off. — Tom Yarborough, Da Nang Diary, p. 168, 1990
- The supplies are all burning, and the oil, the gas, the drums of oil, they're all burning, big billows of smoke. The ammo dump started cooking off. — Ron Steinman, The Soldiers' Story, p. 94, 1999
- I had left my bandolier back where we had taken our break, and the brushfire caught up with it. The rounds inside my seven magazines were cooking off. — Roger Hayes, On Point, p. 126, 2000

cooks and bakers noun

any and all military support personnel US, 1921

- "Cooks and bakers," the battalion XO in the operations clerk called them, a mixture of clerk-typists, supply workers, mail clerks, and stranded combat marines[.] — Robert A. Anderson, Cooks & Bakers, p. 168, 1982

cook up verb

1 to concoct something; to fabricate something; to falsify something UK, 1817

- Often in the form "cook up a story."
- "What you got cooked up?" he asked. — Chester Gould, Dick Tracy Meets the Night Crawler, p. 168, 1945
- The Man be cooking up the conspiracies again, but the sentences are gonna be a motherfucker—I ain't jiving you. — Edwin Torres, Carlito's Way, p. 66, 1975

2 to manufacture amphetamine US, 1985

- They cook up speed in those shacks, but it's almost impossible to get probable cause to bust them. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Secrets of Harry Bright, p. 108, 1985

cool noun

1 self-control, composure, style US, 1953

- An Open Letter to Tom Jones—YOU BLEW YOUR COOL, TOM JONES [Full-page advertisement]. — Record Beat, p. 9, 12th April 1966
- Then Our Mayor hotly blew his cool and launched the now-historic raids on the North Beach nudie nooks. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 29, 8th July 1966
- There was a big numbers man named James, and for a long time I dug his cool. — John Allen, Assault with a Deadly Weapon, p. 4, 1977

2 a truce between street gangs US, 1958

- A "cool" was negotiated by street club workers. But it was an uneasy truce, often broken. — Harrison E. Salisbury, The Shook-up Generation, p. 38, 1958

cool verb

1 to please US, 1953

- "Do you like bop?" "It cools me," he said. — Irving Shulman, The Short End of the Stick, p. 203, 1953

2 to calm down; to become less dangerous US, 1972

- Jim will last out the cops. He'll go to the hustling bar a few streets away, until the street cools. — John Rechy, The Sexual Outlaw, p. 48, 1977

3 to idle; to pass time doing nothing US, 1990

- I was coolin' with Rick. — Boyz n The Hood, 1990

4 to kill, or at least immobilize someone US, 1962

- — American Speech, p. 268, December 1962: "The language of traffic policemen"

5 to die US, 1994

- — Sally Williams, "Strong" Words, p. 137, 1994

▶ cool it to unwind, to calm down; to slow down, to ease off; to stop whatever activity you are engaged in US, 1953

Often used in the imperative.

- Let's cool it. — Lavada Durst, The Lives of Dr. Hepcat, 1953
- "Man, we'd be sitting over there in the bar," said one, "just coolin' it around the pool table with a few beers[.]" — Hunter S. Thompson, Hell's Angels, p. 40, 1966
- [T]he black friends of the white power structure issued a pamphlet with the headline COOL IT, BABY! — Eldridge Cleaver, Soul on Ice, p. 90, 1968
- [S]he insisted on carrying [drugs] even after I warned her to cool it while I was heavy into my dealing changes. — Robert Bingham, Planted, Burnt, and Busted [The Howard Marks Book of Dope Stories], p. 339, 1970
- "Cool it. The guard's coming," I whispered. — Bobby Seale, A Lonely Rage, p. 263, 1978
- Meaning we'll have to cool it for a while, right? — Sex, Lies and Videotape, 1989

▶ cool it back to become calm and composed under pressure US, 1984

- — Inez Cardozo-Freeman, The Joint, p. 489, 1984

▶ cool your heels

to rest UK, 1633

- A half hour later Rocco walked into the amber glow of the old Juvie annex behind the Western District station house and found four kids cooling their heels[.] — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 591, 1992

▶ cool your jets

to calm down; to back off US, 1973

- I'm just going to cool my jets, no matter what! — Beatrice Sparks (writing as "Anonymous"), Jay's Journal, p. 62, 1979
- WURLITZER: How 'bout Mallory? SCAGNETTI: Coolin' her jets in a holding cell. — Natural Born Killers, 1994

cool adjective

1 fashionable, attractive, admired US, 1947

- The word "cool" has shown remarkable staying power, never waning in the affection of young people since its entry on the scene in the 1950s. In 2005, the term faced its biggest challenge, when copies of affectionate notes from Harriet Miers, briefly nominated as Justice on the Supreme Court, to then-Governor George Bush surfaced. In one card, Miers wrote to Governor Bush, "Hopefully Jenna and Barbara recognize that their parents are 'cool'—as do the rest of us." After this near-miss, cool survived.
- — Marcus Hanna Boulware, Live and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947
- He had been half-heartedly trying to explain to her what was suggested by the term "cool," as hipsters used it. — John Clellon Holmes, Go, p. 173, 1952
- I learned the new hipster vocabulary: "pot" for weed, "twisted" for busted, "cool," an all-purpose word indicating anything you like or any situation that is not hot with the law. — William Burroughs, Junkie, p. 120, 1953
- [N]ow it is no longer 1948 but 1953 with cool generations and I five years older, or younger[.] — Jack Kerouac, The Subterraneans, p. 9, 1958

2 acceptable, agreeable US, 1994

- BUTCH: So we're cool. MARSELLUS: Yeah man, we're cool. — Pulp Fiction, 1994
- I guess he's pretty, huh, racially pretty cool. — The Big Lebowski, 1998
- "I'm sure you've got a million things you want to do to me, and I'm very cool with that, and I'll probably love it, okay?" — Dennis Cooper, The Sluts, p. 180, 2006

3 used for emphasizing an amount of money UK, 1728

- Depending on the size of the casino and the day of the week, that sum can fluctuate between a half-million and a cool million dollars, sheer cash. — Edward Lin, Big Julie of Vegas, p. 80, 1974 cool beans!

used as an expression of intense approval US, 1987

- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Spring 1987
- — Merriam-Webster's Hot Words on Campus Marketing Survey '93, p. 3, 13th October 1993
- — Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 40, 1997
- Cool beans, Scotty—now where's my cameo? — Bruce Campbell, If Chins Could Kill, p. 337, 2002

cool breeze adjective

calm, collected US, 1967

- Good when I'm cool breeze and bad when I'm down. — Piri Thomas, Down These Mean Streets, p. 48, 1967

cool breezer noun

a carefree, casual surfer US, 1988

- — Michael V. Anderson, The Bad, Rad, Not to Forget Way Cool Beach and Surf Discretionary, p. 4, 1988

cool car noun

a car used by robbers for escape after leaving the scene of the crime in another car US, 1993

- [T]hey transferred the guns and bags of cash into a stolen Mazda RX-7 that they'd planted as their cool car. — Bob Sipchen, Baby Insane and the Buddha, p. 5, 1993

coolcrack verb

to kill someone US, 1947

- Give it to him, Maceo, coolcrack the motherfouler! — Ralph Ellison, Invisible Man, p. 488, 1947

cool dad noun

a well-dressed, popular male US, 1959
College student usage.

- Time Magazine, p. 46, 24th August 1959

cooleo adjective

good, fun US, 2005

- They thought it was cooleo until one of them caught my log upside his head when I snaked him on the next wave. — Joseph Wambaugh, Hollywood Crows, p. 82, 2008

cooler noun

1 a jail or prison US, 1872

- [I]mmediately he sounded as if he weren't so hot about sitting in the cooler overnight after all. — Nelson Algren, The Man with the Golden Arm, p. 6, 1949
- I was in cooler with poor Spick husbands for 30 mins. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Neal Cassady, p. 326, 1 October 1951
- "Any analysis, any time spent in any other institutions?" "Well, counting state and county coolers—". — Ken Kesey, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, p. 44, 1962
- While Gigi cooled his heels in the cooler, a private detective named Whelan, a retired homicide cop, was out working on his behalf. — Leonard Shetter and William Phillips, On the Pad, p. 214, 1973

2 a cell used for solitary confinement; a segregation unit US, 1899

- This little scuffle cost me my fifteen days off for good behavior and caused me to get tossed in the cooler. — Billie Holiday, Lady Sings the Blues, p. 28, 1956
- John M. Murtagh and Sara Harris, Cast the First Stone, p. 259, 1957

3 an infirmary US, 1983

Where one's social activities are "put on ice."

- Concord (New Hampshire) Monitor, p. 17, 23rd August 1983

4 a morgue US, 1994

- Sally Williams, "Strong" Words, p. 137, 1994

5 a silencer attached to a hand gun US, 1962

- Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World's Toughest Prison, p. 795, 1962

6 a cigarette laced with cocaine US, 1994

- US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994

7 a stacked deck of cards used by a cheat US, 1935

- I don't care how smart you were, Joe could set up a cooler [stacked deck] in front of you and you'd never spot it. — Vincent Teresa, My Life in the Mafia, p. 215, 1973

8 in horse racing, a horse that is not expected to win the race US, 1935

- Dan Parker, The ABC of Horse Racing, p. 145, 1947

cool head main thing!

used for urging others to calm down US, 1972

Hawaiian youth usage.

- Elizabeth Ball Carr, Da Kine Talk, p. 128, 1972
- Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max, 1981

coolie noun

1 a loner; a person who refuses to join a gang US, 1958

- The concept of the coolie is common to all the street gangs. The coolie is a boy who does not belong to a street club. — Harrison E. Salisbury, The Shook-up Generation, p. 29, 1958
- Coolies don't swing with the gang. They are out and by themselves alone. — Warren Miller, The Cool World, p. 9, 1959
- Coolies is something like whores, you know. Can't stop nothing because they all alone in the world. — Sara Harris, The Lords of Hell, p. 128, 1967

2 a hip, street-smart person US, 1967

- "I hear you 104th Street coolies are supposed to have heart," I said. — Piri Thomas, Down These Mean Streets, p. 49, 1967

3 a cigarette to which crack cocaine has been added US, 1967

- Terry Williams, Crackhouse, p. 147, 1992

coolie-do noun

the vagina US, 1972

- Helen Dahlsgok (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 15, 1972

cooling tank noun

a cold holding cell US, 1993

- Later, after what seemed like hours in the cooling tank—a deliberately chilled holding cell designed to keep its occupants freezing and uncomfortable—I was transported to Los Padrinos Juvenile Hall. — Sanyika Shakur, Monster, p. 68, 1993

cool Muther John noun

a boy who is fashionable, knowledgeable and trendy US, 1955

- American Weekly, p. 2, 14th August 1955

cool off verb

to kill US, 1972

- They got a joint and the thieves there are afraid to do it because they'll cool 'em off [kill them] if they catch them. — Harry King, Box Man, p. 28, 1972

cool-off man noun

in a confidence swindling or cheating scheme, the member of the swindling group who stays with the victim calming him down after he learns that he has been swindled US, 1953

- "To do this you had to have mechanics who could control the games, broads who would entertain the suckers, and a cool-off man who, after a sucker had been stripped of his money, could calm the sucker down and make him feel like he'd had a good run for this money." — Vincent Teresa, My Life in the Mafia, p. 214, 1973

cool-out noun

in police interrogations, the practice of leaving the accused alone in the interrogation room before the interrogation begins US, 1997

- I know this routine, guys. I pulled this cool-out a hundred times myself. — Stephen Cannell, Big Con, p. 320, 1997

cool out verb

1 in police interrogations, to perform a cool-out on someone US, 1997

- She'd been a prosecutor for five years, so she knew that there were basically two reasons why cops cool out a suspect like this. — Stephen Cannell, Big Con, p. 320, 1997

2 (used of a confidence swindler or a tout who has given bad tips) to calm a bettor who has lost US, 1957

- David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 22, 1951
- Robert C. Prus and C.R.D. Sharper, Road Hustler, p. 169, 1977

cool water noun

strong, illegally manufactured whiskey US, 1999

- Star Tribune (Minneapolis), p. 19f, 31st January 1999

coon noun

a black person US, 1834

Offensive.

- "Ring the bell before Jackson kills him a coon!" someone boomed in the sudden silence. — Ralph Ellison, Invisible Man, p. 22, 1947
- Heard these little coons are hung like horses[.] — Dick Gregory, Nigger, p. 10, 1964
- White people always associated watermelons with Negroes, and they sometimes called Negroes "coons" among all the other names[.] — Malcolm X and Alex Haley, The Autobiography of Malcolm X, p. 15, 1964
- "That coon knows his place, Zeke," Jamie answered weakly. — Donald Goines, Swamp Man, p. 16, 1974

coon verb

1 to steal something; someone to cheat US, 1964

- [S]ome of us boys would slip out down the road, or across the pastures, and go "cooning" watermelons. — Malcolm X and Alex Haley, The Autobiography of Malcolm X, p. 15, 1964
- Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 40, 1970
- Charlie broke a window in the principal's office one night, cooned in, stumbled through the darkness, grabbed the telephone, gave it a smiling vicious tug, and ripped it from the wall. — Joe Eszterhas, Charlie Simpson's Apocalypse, p. 65, 1973
- Monkey said, "Find a stump to fit your rump / And I'll coon you till your asshole jump." — Dennis Weppman et al., The Life, p. 33, 1976

2 to bet US, 1947

- Marcus Hanna Boulware, Jive and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947
- Say, "Why don't you get you a deck of cards where I can coon you some?" — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 175, 1962

coon-ass noun

a resident of Louisiana; a Cajun US, 1943

Often, not always, considered a slur.

- How a coon ass like me merits the time and patience of two such eminent editors is hard to figure. — James Carville, We're Right, They're Wrong, p. x, 1996
- He talks like a coon-ass. — James Lee Burke, Sunset Limited, p. 174, 1998
- When he called the name Terry Hubert, I whispered, "A-Bear, Sir, not Hubert. That's a coon-ass name, Sir!" — Franklin D. Rast, Don's Nam, p. 42, 1999

coon bottom noun

a poor part of town, especially one where poor black people live US, 1968

- Others suggest that these sections are not urban at all but intolerably countrified: Frogtown and Goosetown (3 responses each), Gooseville, Coontown, and Coon Bottom (1 each). — Erin McKean (Editor), Verbatim, p. 37, 2001

cooney noun

a white resident of Louisiana US, 1975

A diminutive of COON-ASS.

- American Speech, p. 57, Spring–Summer 1975: "Razorback slang"

coon killer noun

a club US, 1982

- Ralph de Sola, Crime Dictionary, p. 31, 1982

coon's age noun

a long time US, 1843

- Hell, I haven't been in a brawl in a coon's age. — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, p. 77, 1970
- "If it ain't Bertha Grimmit—you ain't been in here in a coon's age," Cleve Goins shouted. — Pat Conroy, The Great Santini, p. 173, 1976
- I found this old address book in a jacket I ain't worn in a coon's age. Toby what? What the fuck was her last name? — Reservoir Dogs, 1994
- "I have a sneaking suspicion you haven't sat in a coon's age." "However the hell long that is," said Switters. — Tom Robbins, Fierce Invalids from Hot Climates, p. 130, 2000

coon stopper noun

a powerful gun US, 1977

- "And this, Wifto," he said pointing to Condo's revolver, "is a Colt Trooper .357. The kind you stop coons with. A coon-stopper." — John Sayles, Union Dues, p. 313, 1977

Coon Town noun

a neighborhood populated largely by black families US, 1987

Offensive.

- Maledicta, p. 52, 1986–1987: "A continuation of a glossary of ethnic slurs in American English"

- [W]e cross the railroad tracks into Coon Town, as my schoolmates at George Wallace Elementary School call it. — David Henry Sterry, Chicken, p. 97, 2002

coop noun

1 a house or apartment US, 1947

- [S]cams on ahead to grandma's coop[.] — Harry Haenlgen, Live's Like That, 1947

2 a police stationhouse US, 1962

- — Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World's Toughest Prison, p. 795, 1962

3 a place where police sleep or idle during their shift US, 1958

- Any spot that takes a policeman out of the rain is a coop, or a heave. — New York Times, p. 34, 20th October 1958
- First, though, he went down to his little coop, a room in the basement of an apartment house where police could, while on duty, rest, sleep, play cards, use a toilet, hide from the sergeant. — Leonard Spector and William Phillips, On the Pad, p. 91, 1973

Coop noun

in craps, a roll of 12 US, 1983

An abbreviated nickname of Gary Cooper, star of the Western film High Noon.

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 90, 1987

coop verb

to sleep or relax while on duty US, 1962

- When policemen sleep on duty in New York, they "coop"; when they sleep in Washington, they "huddle." — New York Times, 15th February 1970
- As a rookie cop, Serpico was also introduced to the fine art of "cooping," or sleeping on duty, a time-honored police practice that in other cities goes under such names as "huddling" and "going down." — Peter Maas, Serpico, p. 63, 1973
- A big four cops—and two of them moonlight days driving cabs, so they spend half their shift cooping. — Vincent Patrick, The Pope of Greenwich Village, p. 37, 1977
- He's in there with the guy who takes your quarter, drinking. Cooping, they call it in the city, in New York. — John Sayles, Union Dues, p. 367, 1977

coop delight noun

the body of a murder victim US, 1976

From the Latin corpus delicti.

- — John R. Armore and Joseph D. Wolfe, Dictionary of Desperation, p. 25, 1976

coosie noun

a Chinese person or other South Asian US, 1949

- — American Speech, p. 30, February 1949: "AV.G. lingo"

coot noun

1 a harmless simpleton, especially an old one; a fellow US, 1766

- Probably from the behavioral characteristics of the bird.
- I hunched behind the wheel when I began thinking of the old coot who took the easy way out. — Mickey Spillane, One Lonely Night, p. 144, 1951
- After Howard Blakely wandered away, the old coot sat there, scattering crumbs and listening to the pings from the shooting gallery across the way. — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 33, 1954
- This coot was maybe sixty; tall and stooped, with a beaklike nose drooping in a straight line from his high liverspotted pate. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 168, 1990
- When Bobbie questioned Fin about the age of all the fun-loving fogies, coots, geezers, codgers, duffers and buddies she'd met in the saloon, he didn't know how to tell her that the oldest fiddle in the joint wasn't fifteen years his senior. — Joseph Wambaugh, Finnegan's Week, p. 230, 1993

2 the vagina; a woman as a sex object; sex with a woman US, 1975

- — American Speech, p. 57, Spring–Summer 1975: "Razorback slang" cootch dancer; cooch dancer noun

a woman who performs a sexually suggestive dance US, 1910

A shortened form of HOOCHEY KOOCHEY.

- A good colored singer doesn't have to wrap her sex in a package and peddle it to the customer like a cootch dancer in a sideshow. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 27, 1946
- In sentencing the Cootch-Dancer Schmidt to 15 years for manslaughter (Time, Feb. 2), the judges had chided her for "appearing nude on the deck of [Mee's] yacht like a nymph," and for "swimming naked in [Havana] Bay." — Time, 11th October 1948
- [W]e furnished hot competition for the cootch dancers[.] — Ethel Waters, His Eye Is on the Sparrow, p. 83, 1951
- "And I thought it was a kootch dancer from a carnival." — Helen Gibleo, Footlights, Fisticuffs and Femmes, p. 104, 1957

cootchy-coo; kootchy-koo; kitchy-koo noun used as a lexicalization of talk used with babies UK, 1984

From Irish dialectal kitchy, kitchy, kaw.

- The clerk gave the baby a hunched-up kootchy-koo, impervious to Rodney's rage. — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 571, 1992

cooter noun

the vagina US, 1986

- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Fall 1986
- And then they shoved frozen polar bear sperm pencils up their cooters. — Tony Kushne, Angels in America, p. 34, 1994

cootie catcher noun

a somewhat intricately folded piece of paper, manipulated by the fingers, used by children to tell fortunes or to catch imaginary cooties US, 1996

- To American children, the salt cellar construction is traditionally known as a "cootie catcher." — Eric Kennaway, Complete Origami, p. 154, 1987
- Folk toys can be made by children themselves, in which case they are often temporary ("cootie catchers" and paper folded into a specific form and used to tell fortunes). — Jan Harold Brunvand, American Folklore, p. 712, 1996

- [A] playmate's folding paper toy (we used to call them "cootie catchers") unfolded to show him the words "dream is destiny." — Roger Ebert, Roger Ebert's Movie Yearbook, p. 652, 2002

cooties noun

an imaginary disease or infestation that could be transmitted by close contact, thus creating a stigma for the person who is said to have it US, 1971

A children's corruption of the older sense of the term (a body louse).

- Get your cooties off me. — American Graffiti, 1973
- Pretend you're a missionary saving a colony of cootie victims. — Heathers, 1988
- More than mouthwash would be required to slay those cooties. — C.D. Payne, Youth in Revolt, p. 39, 1993
- You can use my straw, I don't have kooties. — Pulp Fiction, 1994

cooze; coozie noun

1 the vulva; the female genitals US, 1927

- — The Guild Dictionary of Homosexual Terms, p. 9, 1965
- Maybe it's just something to hold on to . . . an extension of her thing, you know, her cooze. — Terry Southern, Blue Movie, p. 37, 1970
- "Snatch," "hole," "koozie," "slash," "pussy" and "crack" were other terms referring variously to women's genitals, to women as individuals, or to women as a species. — Screw, p. 5, 3rd January 1972
- "Let me see a little more cooze, sweetie." — Tina Russell, Porno Star, p. 23, 1973
- She also possesses a truly attractive cunt: cooze lips which aren't flappy, crinkly, or rundown[.] — Anthony Petkovich, The X Factory, p. 16, 1997

2 a woman, especially a promiscuous woman US, 1921

- "Who's that fine-looking coozie?" hollered another one. — Frederick Kohner, Gidget, p. 15, 1957
- See, in the lounge, they got these coozie that carry lights, take you to a table. — Robert Gover, Here Goes Kitten, p. 25, 1964
- Brad says you're being a real cooze. — Heathers, 1988
- Let me tell ya what "Like a Virgin's" about. It's about some cooze who's a regular fuck machine. — Reservoir Dogs, 1992

cooze light noun

in the pornography industry, a light used to illuminate the genitals of the performers US, 1995

- — Adult Video News, p. 50, October 1995

coozie stash noun

contraband, especially drugs, hidden in the vagina US, 1992

- — Jay Robert Nash, Dictionary of Crime, p. 79, 1992

cop noun

1 a police officer US, 1859

False etymologies abound, with formation suggestion of "copper badges," "copper buttons," or an initialism of "Constable On Patrol" at the head of the unruly pack. The verb sense "to grab" leads to the verb sense "to arrest" which leads to COPPER which was shortened to "cop." No buttons, no badges, no initialisms.

- J. Edgar Hoover, director of the F.B.I., recently tried to enlist the help of a television program in what seems to be a campaign on the part of certain high-ranking cops to eliminate a word from the language. The word is "cop," as a noun, in its most popular usage. — New Yorker, p. 51, 18th July 1959
- The first thing he said to me, "We are police officers." I said, "You're cops to me." — Herbert Huncke, Gully of Everything, p. 22, 1990
- You were doing good here. You did that nice short thing on the gay cop. — Anna Quindlen, One True Thing, p. 36, 1994
- Setups with regional police became routine, sparked by America's historic phobia about "niggers with guns," and in the aftermath, some thirty-eight Panthers were shot down by racist cops. — Mumia Abu-Jamal, Live from Death Row, p. 147, 1996

2 in carnival usage, a small prize won at a game concession US, 1980

- — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 27, 1980
- — Don Wilmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 64, 1981

3 winnings from gambling US, 1930

- Put that heavy cop in your mitt flat against your thigh furthest from the mark. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Trick Baby, p. 93, 1969

4 a plea in a criminal case US, 1977

- The D.A. offered me a cop to a robbery charge, but I wasn't accepting nothing. — John Allen, Assault with a Deadly Weapon, p. 120, 1977

cop verb

1 to obtain, to take or to purchase something, especially drugs US, 1867

- Slicker Morrie made more dames and copped more cherries than any lad in the history of Louisa Nolan's dance hall. — James T. Farrell, Saturday Night, p. 30, 1947
- "Get ready to cop," I said, and dropped the caps into his hands. — William Burroughs, Junkie, p. 56, 1953
- Cowboy went to cop and got copped. — Jack Gerber, The Connection, p. 28, 1957
- [T]his is the way they have been living for months, for years, some of them, across America and back, on the bus, down to the Rat lands of Mexico and back, sailing like gypsies along the Servicecenter fringes, copping urinations[.] — Tom Wolfe, The Electric Kool-Aid Acid Test, p. 16, 1968

2 to seduce someone, to have sex with someone US, 1965

- I played stickball, marbles, and Johnny-on-the-Pony, copped girls' drawers and blew pot. — Piri Thomas, Down These Mean Streets, p. 13, 1967
- A pimp brought a girl to me and said he'd copped her—which means he's gotten her to join his group. — Susan Hall, Ladies of the Night, p. 165, 1973
- Copped regular after that. Her desk, Kleinfeld's desk, broom closet, even on the washbasin. — Edwin Torres, After Hours, p. 220, 1979
- Billy Woods, like most of the dudes in and around the neighborhood wanted to cop Phyllisine. — Donald Goines, The Busting Out of an Ordinary Man, p. 19, 1985

3 to inform; to betray someone US, 1895

- Louis went up without copping—naming any names to have his time cut—and was respected among the population, all the homeboys up at Starke, where he met Bobby Deo. — Elmore Leonard, Riding the Rap, p. 55, 1995

4 (used of a rigged carnival game) to malfunction, allowing a player to win US, 1985

- — Gene Sorrows, All About Carnivals, p. 14, 1985

▶ cop a breeze

to leave, especially without calling attention to yourself US, 1950

- — Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 49, 1950

▶ cop a feel

to touch someone sexually without their consent US, 1935

- Despite her anger she had to laugh, for the boys were gentle with her, no one took advantage and copped a feel. — Irving Shulman, College Confidential, p. 104, 1960
- DENOUNCE the poor Nigger male who cherishes his whiteness, and allows the Caucasian male's "copping-a-feel" his own black wife's ass, at a social. — Robert deCoy, The Nigger Bible, pp. 132–133, 1967
- Is this what they call copping a feel? — American Graffiti, 1973
- But would a company yes-man (who I suspected would never dare cop a feel unless it was written into the annual strategic plan) really risk so much to show his interest in me? — Rita Ciresi, Pink Slip, p. 85, 1999

▶ cop a heel

to leave; to run away; to escape US, 1977

- Kid said, "Then cop a heel and pee." She muttered an inaudible expletive as she gave him a filthy look and stomped away. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Long White Con, p. 20, 1977
- — M. Allen Henderson, How Con Games Work, p. 219, 1985

▶ cop a mope

to escape US, 1951

- — American Speech, p. 194, October 1951: "A study of reformatory argot"

▶ cop a nod

to sleep US, 1947

- — Marcus Hanna Boulware, Jive and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947
- — Robert S. Gold, A Jazz Lexicon, p. 69, 1964

▶ cop a plea

to enter a guilty plea to a criminal charge US, late 1920s

- Only plea I ever copped cost me three years in the slams. — Edwin Torres, Carlito's Way, p. 10, 1975

▶ cop deuces

to assume a submissive or defensive position US, 1976

- — John R. Armore and Joseph D. Wolfe, Dictionary of Desperation, p. 25, 1976

▶ cop someone's joint

to perform oral sex on a man US, 1962

- — Guy Strait, The Lavender Lexicon, 1 June 1964
- [S]he smiles and says, "How about if I cop your joint instead?" — Terry Southern, Blue Movie, p. 149, 1970
- Turned out she climbed in beside me and copped my joint for forty-five cents. — Robert Byrne, McGoarty, p. 124, 1972
- I kept my hands on my private parts, broke a boy's arm tried to cop my joint and came out [of prison] a two hundred and five pound virgin. — Elmore Leonard, Gold Coast, p. 17, 1981

copacetic; copasetic adjective

good, excellent; safe; attractive US, 1919

Etymology unknown; Chinook jargon, French, Italian and Yiddish sources have been suggested.

- — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 189, 1954
- It was not copasetic / It was not right. — The Rulers, Copasetic, 1966
- Good bread coming in. Everything was copasetic. Too good to last. — Edwin Torres, Carlito's Way, p. 29, 1975 cop and blow noun

the rule of thumb governing a pimp's modus operandi, acquiring and losing prostitutes US, 1967

- He reconciled himself to the name of the game, "Cop and Blow" (win and lose) and made his way uptown[.] — Babs Gonzales, I Paid My Dues, p. 101, 1967
- I bombarded him with street logic and begged him to recognize the hard pimp law of "cop and blow": somebody has to lose when somebody wins. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), The Naked Soul of Iceberg Slim, p. 123, 1971
- Cop and blow is the name of the game. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 100, 1973
- "Bitch, you ain't no lame, you know the Game / They call it cop and blow!" — Dennis Wepman et al., The Life, p. 86, 1976
- With most chicks it was cop and blow, cop one week and blow the next. — Alix Shulman, On the Stroll, p. 109, 1981

cop and blow verb

to acquire something and then leave US, 1972

- But he had no hangups or any peculiarly excessive style of stealing like his two partners—his way was simply to cop and blow. — Emmett Grogan, Ringolevio, p. 46, 1972

cop and hold; cop and lock verb

(of a pimp) to acquire and retain a prostitute US, 1972

- My regulars—whom I've copped and locked—that's Sandy and Kitty and Linda—they each made around seventy-five thousand last year. — Susan Hall, Gentleman of Leisure, p. 13, 1972

cope verb

to function in normal situations while under the influence of a hallucinogenic drug US, 1966

- — J. L. Simmons and Barry Winograd, It's Happening, p. 169, 1966

Copenhagen capon noun

a transsexual US, 1972

Homosexual usage; an allusion to the sex-altering operation performed on Christine Jorgensen in Denmark.

- — Bruce Rodgers, The Queens' Vernacular, p. 201, 1972

cop house; cop factory noun

a police station US, 1928

- I have to go to the cop house just about now. — Raymond Chandler, Playback, p. 152, 1958

copilot noun

a tablet of dextroamphetamine sulfate (trade name Dexedrine™), or any other central nervous system stimulant US, 1965

- — Donald Louria, Nightmare Drugs, p. 28, 1966
- Some of the names describe the drugs' effects, such as "helpers," "copilots," "Los Angeles turn arounds," or their shape, color and markings—"hearts," "footballs," "blackjacks," "crossroads." — Phil Hirsch, Hooked, pp. 51–52, 1968
- — American Speech, p. 203, Fall 1969: "Truck driver's jargon"
- Jackie slipped me a couple of cop-pilots in English when she passed out the test papers. — Anonymous, Go Ask Alice, p. 94, 1971

cop man noun

a low-level drug dealer who must pay cash to the supplier for the drugs to be sold US, 1989

- Many are taken on in a variety of tangential roles and work as steers, touts, guards, runners, and "cop men"—dealers whom suppliers will only sell to on a cash basis. — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 33, 1989

cop-out noun

a drastic compromise of principle US, 1956

- I considered crossing over to the other side of the highway and trying to get back to New Haven for a bus. But that would be an incredible cop out. — James Simon Kunen, The Strawberry Statement, p. 81, 1968
- Kesey has sold out to keep from getting a five-year sentence or worse. Next he'll nail it down by calling all the kids to Winterland and telling them to stop taking LSD . . . Freaking cop-out . . . — Tom Wolfe, The Electric Kool-Aid Acid Test, p. 336, 1968

cop out verb

1 to avoid an issue by making excuses; to go back on your word US, 1952

- [O]ff we go, 2 girls and me and Neal, bleary, driving into woods of California for orgy, but one girl cops out[.] — Jack Kerouac, Letter to John Clellon Holmes, p. 339, 8th February 1952
- I'm not trying to cop out, but I was playing it too safe that afternoon at your house. — Nat Hentoff, Jazz Country, p. 32, 1965
- Even Flo Kennedy, our chief lawyer, copped out—though some of the younger legal-beagles (women, bless 'em) were ready to carry the fight to the floor of the Pageant[.] — Screw, p. 14, 13th October 1969
- The line between madness and masochism was already hazy; the time had come to pull back . . . to retire, hunker down, back off and "cop out," as it were. — Hunter S. Thompson, Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas, p. 81, 1971
- All the way over here I was telling you how he would cooperate. Now, he's just copping out. — Donald Goines, Inner City Hoodlum, p. 60, 1975

2 to confess; to enter a guilty plea US, 1938

- I copped out on the larceny charges, figuring to get six months at the most[.] — James Blake, The Joint, p. 13, 25th February 1951
- "She's gonna cop out," Davis told him. — Clarence Cooper Jr., The Scene, p. 115, 1960
- I was supposed to take a jury trial, but the lawyer told me he'd get me eighteen months if I'd cop out. — Henry Williamson, Hustler, p. 141, 1965
- I copped out to attempted larceny and was given one to two years in the state prison at Jackson, Michigan. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 59, 1973

copper noun

a police officer UK, 1846

- [T]here was a chance that either the police might walk in on me or the little guy get suspicious enough of my being away so long he'd call a copper. — Mickey Spillane, I, The Jury, p. 58, 1947
- Now how did I know you were a copper? — Marvin Wald and Albert Maltz, The Naked City, 1947
- Sheik looked dazed. "Can't no copper hurt me," he muttered thickly[.] — Chester Himes, The Real Cool Killers, p. 92, 1959
- And every copper is on the take, you know, up and down the line. — Sara Harris, The Lords of Hell, p. 117, 1967

copper verb

in craps, to bet that the shooter will lose US, 1950

- — The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, p. 123, May 1950

copper chopper noun

a police helicopter US, 1979

- Most of it was growing outside on a porch, clearly visible to anybody at a higher elevation, such as, say, a snooping copper chopper. — Larry "Ratso" Sioman, Reefer Madness, p. 420, 1979
- That game's halftime show will include an exhibition by LAPD's Special Weapons and Tactics (SWAT) unit, as well as helicopter-borne officers flying into the stadium and rappelling from the "copper choppers" to a simulated crime scene on the Coliseum floor. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. D6, 24th January 1990

copper jitters noun

an excessive fear of contact with the police US, 1953

- Pushing junk is a constant strain on the nerves. Sooner or later you get the "copper jitters," and everybody looks like a cop. — William Burroughs, Junkie, p. 58, 1953

copper time noun

the reduction of a prison sentence for good behavior US, 1992

- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 25, 1992

copping clothes noun

unusually “stylish” clothes worn by a pimp who is trying to entice a prostitute to work for him US, 1981

- So instead of partying, he’d got his copping clothes cleaned and pressed, had a manicure, a shave, and a shine, and prepared the rest for flashing. — Alix Shulman, On the Stroll, p. 8, 1981

copping neighborhood noun

a neighborhood where buyers and sellers know that drugs are sold US, 1990

- The street corners were literally teeming with sick addicts in the copping neighborhoods. — Herbert Huncke, Guilty of Everything, p. 130, 1990

copping zone noun

an area in a city where buyers and sellers of drugs known to congregate and do business US, 1989

- It was a place to “cop” (buy), a “copping zone.” — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 14, 1989
- — Terry Williams, Crackhouse, p. 147, 1992

cop shop noun

a police station UK, 1941

- Outside, down the street, round a couple of corners, and I was in the local cop-shop. — John Wain, Contenders, p. 263, 1958
- The underworld and the cop shop (as some are wont to call police headquarters) buzzed with whispers of suicide and even murder. — Phil Hirsch, Hooked, p. 79, 1968
- They filed out of the local cop shop. — Chris Miller, The Real Animal House, p. 167, 2006 cop’s rub noun

a frisking or pat-down for weapons or contraband US, 1973

- They ordered the white guys out of the car, put the cop’s rub on ‘em, then asked them to open the trailer. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 8, 1973

cops’ tank noun

a jail cell reserved for policemen/criminals US, 1985

- O.A. Jones mumbled, hoping that he would get put in the cops’ tank at the county jail[.]. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Secrets of Harry Bright, p. 33, 1985

cop-stop verb

(said of police) to stop someone for questioning US, 1965

- Because as soon as they were cop-stopped, it was a matter of the club touching on their kidneys and asses and the backs of their legs[.]. — Sol Yurrick, The Warriors, p. 28, 1965

copy verb

to understand what has been said US, 1984

- Shortwave radio slang that spread well outside the world of radio. I want no firing, period, unless your hear shots. Copy that, Mace? — Airheads, 1994

cords noun

corduroy pants US, 1926

- In the 1960s, Los Angeles radio disc jockey Dick “Huggy Boy” Hugg called teenagers to dances at the El Monte Legion Stadium with a charged “Guys wear ties, gals dress nice—no cords or levis please.”
- [M]any of us bought him a beer and a Polish sausage when he came in with his paint-splattered cords and brown brogans, broke as ever. — Oscar Zeta Acosta, The Autobiography of a Brown Buffalo, p. 47, 1972

corduroy noun

in surfing, a swell lined up like ribbing US, 1991

- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin’ary, p. 24, 1991

core adjective

said of pornography that shows penetration US, 1995

- A shortened HARDCORE.
- — Adult Video News, p. 42, August 1995

corflu noun

correction fluid, especially the fluid used for correcting mimeograph stencils US, 1982

- — American Speech, p. 25, Spring 1982: “The language of science fiction fan magazines”

Corine noun

cocaine US, 1967

- — John B. Williams, Narcotics and Hallucinogenics, p. 111, 1967

cork *noun► pull the cork to inform, to betray US, 1964

- “Like a lot of big ones that went bust,” he said, “somebody pulled the cork. The department got a call.” — Mickey Spillane, The Snake, pp. 115–116, 1964

cork off verb

to sleep US, 1959

- Pa blew up the mattress and corked off for a couple of hours while I read the book[.]. — Max Shulman, I was a Teen-Age Dwarf, p. 4, 1959

cork top noun

a surfer US, 1963

- — Paradise of the Pacific, p. 27, October 1963

corn noun

1 something that is excessively sentimental US, 1936

- Originally applied to all music that was not jazz in the 1930s, and then extended to general usage.

- [A]nd, to top off the ridiculous and embarrassing performance, she threw on the corn. — Jim Thompson, The Grifters, p. 12, 1963

2 sentimental, maudlin, mawkish music US, 1936

- I thought George was going to knock out some of the usual corn. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 25, 1946

3 whiskey US, 1967

- If “Harry Belafonte” could make it after being a restaurateur, I can sure do alright “pouring the corn.” — Babs Gonzales, I Paid My Dues, p. 157, 1967

4 a hard scar produced by repeated drug injections US, 1971

- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 58, 1971

cornball noun

an old-fashioned, unsophisticated person US, 1952

- “Don’t be a cornball. You’re a girl. They wouldn’t take you.” — Mary Chase, Mrs. McThing, p. 34, 1954
- “That’s because you’re a cornball, Dad,” he said. — Malcolm Braly, The Protector, p. 11, 1979

cornball adjective

clichéd; overly sentimental US, 1948

- Will you stop this cornball stuff. — Jack Gerber, The Connection, p. 24, 1957
- I was half tempted but decided that would have been too cornball. — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 353, 1961

corn belt noun

the midwestern United States US, 1955

- [Z]igzagged through corn belts and cotton belts (this is not too clear, I am afraid, Clarence, but I did not keep any notes[.]). — Vladimir Nabokov, Lolita, p. 154, 1955
- Setting out on a tour of the Corn Belt in a tubercular jalopy, Oscar informed the suckers that research had disclosed that they were descendants of the illegitimate Drake boy. — San Francisco Examiner, American Weekly, p. 17, 24th May 1959
- In addition, those photographs could earn those corn-belt clods a fortune in some photographic contest. — John Kennedy Toole, A Confederacy of Dunces, pp. 231–232, 1980
- Dean could have come out of the Corn Belt with a dismal third-placing showing. But finish third and appear un-presidential in the process? — Arizona Republic, p. 10B, 28th January 2004

cornbread noun

1 a simple, rural southern black person US, 1954

- Cornbread is a staple in the diet of poor rural southerners, black and white.

2 old fashioned music US, 1957

- Kenny liked boogie-woogie and Scar was not in the mood for digging corn bread. — Herbert Simmons, Carner Boy, p. 162, 1957

corner noun

1 the block in a prison where the cells for solitary confinement are found US, 1962

- — Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World’s Toughest Prison, p. 795, 1962

2 a prisoner’s group of friends US, 2002

- — Jeffrey Ian Ross, Behind Bars, p. 184, 2002: Slammer Slang

3 a youth gang US, 1974

- They did not like to be called “gangs,” but referred to themselves as “cliques” in New York and “corners” in Philadelphia. — James Haskins, Street Gangs, p. 124, 1974

► around the corner

in poker, said of a sequence of cards that uses the ace as both a high and low card US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 6, 1988

corner boy noun

1 an urban youth who idles in the street US, 1971

- — Hermese E. Roberts, The Third Ear, 1971
- Another dealer, “Donnie,” 16, and his corner crew laughed when asked about murder. Donnie is proud of being a “corner boy.” — Philadelphia Daily News, p. Local 3, 27th December 2006

2 a fellow prisoner from a prisoner’s neighborhood US, 1991

- — Lee McNelis, 30 + And a Wake-Up, p. 1, 1991

corner man noun

a person who is not part of the criminal underworld but whose sympathies lie with the underworld in its constant strife with law enforcement US, 1964

- — R. Frederick West, God’s Gambler, p. 223, 1964

cornet player noun

a cocaine user US, 1977

- I can see you are a heavy cornet player, Roger. — Edwin Torres, Q & A, p. 114, 1977

corn-fed adjective

unsophisticated, simple, rustic US, 1924

- Certainly it generated televised images of a feminized home front—small Midwestern towns waving with yellow ribbons and corn-fed women trying to keep back the tears. — Feminist Studies, p. 72, 1994

cornfield clemency noun escape from a rural prison US, 1950

- — Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 50, 1950

corn game noun

in a carnival, a Bingo game US, 1980

- — American Speech, pp. 308–309, December 1960: “Carnival talk”
- — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 27, 1980
- — Don Wilmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 64, 1981

cornhead noun

a long-haired adherent to the racist, fascist philosophy espoused by shaved-head skinheads US, 2000

- Today, most skinheads continue to wear close-cropped hair; however, there are long-haired skinheads, who are referred to as “cornheads.” — Bill Valentine, Gangs and Their Tattoos, p. 59, 2000

cornhole noun

the anus US, 1922

- They may want you to show your corn hole. A lot of them are very anal. — James Ridgeway, Red Light, p. 153, 1996

cornhole verb

1 to take the active role in anal sex US, 1938

- “Now look are you going to cooperate?”—three vicious diddles—“or does the . . . does the Man cornhole you???” — William Burroughs, Naked Lunch, p. 196, 1957
- “I bet you were cornholed in kindergarten before you ever knew what it was about.” — Reginald Harvey, Park Beat, p. 31, 1959
- Jus’ take your pants down an’ we jus’ do a li’l corn-holin’ with you-all. — Piri Thomas, Down These Mean Streets, p. 161, 1967
- Al had never “cornholed” before. — James Harper, Homo Laws in all 50 States, p. 177, 1968

2 to victimize someone; to force someone into submission US, 1974

- A figurative use of the previous sense.
- I guess he felt safe, ninety miles away, but he was about to be cornholed by yours truly[,] — Howard Stern, Miss America, p. 272, 1995

cornpone noun

an unsophisticated, crude rural southerner US, 1919

Poet Lawrence Ferlinghetti regularly referred to US President Lyndon B. Johnson as “Colonel Cornpone” in his poems; cartoonist Al Capp created General Jubilation T. Cornpone, master of grabbing defeat from the jaws of victory.

- Consequently, I head Dan Rather, CBS’s king of cornpone, begin the evening with his now infamous promise. — Commonweal, p. 1, 12th January 2001

corn row noun

hair tied in tight braids separated by rows of bare scalp US, 1946

- — American Speech, Fall – Winter 1971
- After several trips to Africa he decided to give up his “natural” and wear what the black brothers call “corn rows.” — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 54, 5th June 1972
- — Edith A. Folb, runnin’ down some lines, p. 233, 1980
- As we speak, they’re braiding each other’s hair into corn rows. — John Berendt, Midnight in the Garden of Good and Evil, p. 293, 1994

corn-row verb

to fix hair in tight braids US, 1971

- — American Speech, Fall – Winter 1971
- Sapphire knows how to corn-row hair. — Carolyn Greene, 70 Soul Secrets of Sapphire, p. 25, 1973

corny adjective

mawkish, sentimental, hackneyed US, 1932

- The piano player in the band was an old maid about forty-five who knew every song that had been published in the last hundred years and could play in any key you named, each one cornier than the other. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 60, 1946
- Christ, I’m getting corny. — Jack Neal Cassidy, Letter to Jack Kerouac, p. 135, 5th October 1947
- They were full of corny quips and Eastern college talk[.] — Jack Kerouac, On the Road, p. 227, 1957
- [“]New York meant beautiful women and street-smart guys who seemed to know all the angles.” Nah, no . . . corny, too corny. . . for . . . my taste. — Manhattan, 1979

corpse cop noun

a homicide detective US, 1985

- Sidney, I realize an old corpse cop like you has instincts about dead bodies. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Secrets of Harry Bright, p. 168, 1985

corpuscle noun

used as a humorous synonym for “corporal” US, 1968

- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 11, 1968

corral noun

a group of prostitutes working for a single pimp US, 1971

- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 58, 1971

corroded adjective

ugly US, 1980

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin’ down some lines, p. 233, 1980

co-signer noun

a fellow prisoner who is willing to vouch for you or to defend you with action US, 1989

- — James Harris, A Convict’s Dictionary, p. 30, 1989

cosmic rays noun

the source of an unexplained computing problem US, 1991

- “Hey, Eric—I just got a burst of garbage on my tube, where did that come from?” “Cosmic rays, I guess.” — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 107, 1991

cosmos noun

phencyclidine, the recreational drug known as PCP or angel dust US, 1977

- — Drummer, p. 77, 1977
- — Jay Robert Nash, Dictionary of Crime, p. 82, 1992

cotics noun

narcotics, especially heroin US, 1942

- — US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994

cottage cheese noun

cellulite US, 1997

A purely visual coining.

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 53, 1997

cotton noun

1 cotton used for straining a dissolved narcotic (heroin, cocaine, or morphine) before injection US, 1933

- I was all out of junk at this point and had double-boiled my last cottons. — William Burroughs, Junkie, p. 37, 1953
- But when I make that big sting, I’ll straighten you / If you’ll save me a little on the cotton. — Dennis Wepman et al., The Life, p. 78, 1976
- Of course that’s where Rooski would go to ground, there to run errands for the Troll and beg cottons from the other dopefriends. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 60, 1990

2 female pubic hair US, 1970

- — Roger D. Abrahams, Deep Down in the Jungle, p. 259, 1970

cotton-chopper noun

used as a term of address, especially to someone with a southern accent US, 1977

- Terms such as Bud, cottonpicker, cottonchopper, guy, and good buddy are affectionate-type terms used among truckers. — Gwyneth A. “Dandalion” Seese, Tijuana Bear in a Smoke’um Up Taxi, p. 18, 1977

cotton fever noun

an intense illness sometimes suffered after injecting heroin leached from used cottons US, 1989

- — Geoffrey Froner, Digging for Diamonds, p. 22, 1989

cottonhead noun

a heroin addict who habitually uses cotton used by other addicts to leach out heroin for his use US, 1970

- — Richard Horman and Allan Fox, Drug Awareness, p. 465, 1970

cotton picker noun

a radar-jamming aircraft US

- The “Cottonpicker,” Air Force radar jammers and radar warning aircraft, said more MIG’s were taking off and SAM radars were tracking us. — Frank Elkins, The Heart of a Man, p. 69, 8 August 1966

cotton-picking adjective used as a folksy intensifier US, 1949

- “Okay, gourd-head. Get that cotton-picking butt off the ground and give us a hand.” — Audie Murphy, To Hell and Back, p. 47, 1949
- That’s the sum cottinpickin total[.] — Robert Gover, Here Goes Kitten, p. 54, 1964
- “And tell those cotton-pickin’ cowboys to give me a shout when they pass the ol’ Funny Farm.” — E.M. Corder, Citizens Band, p. 33, 1977

cotton shooter noun

a drug addict who injects residue aggregated from cotton swatches used to strain drugs US, 1951

- Down-and-out addicts are “cotton shooters.” They collect discarded cottons, soak out the narcotic residue and come up with an anemic shot. — San Francisco News, p. 1, 5th December 1951

cotton slut noun

a person who will attend an event for the sole purpose of obtaining a tee-shirt being given to those in attendance US, 2001

- — Don R. McCreary (Editor), Dawg Speak, 2001

couch *noun► on the couch

1 undergoing psychotherapy US, 1961

- — American Speech, pp. 145–148, May 1961: “The spoken language of medicine; argot, slang, cant”

2 in gambling, without further funds US, 1996

- — John Vorhaus, The Big Book of Poker Slang, p. 27, 1996

couch casting noun

the practice of casting roles in performances based on the actor’s willingness to have sex with the casting director US, 1973

- — Sherman Louis Sergel, The Language of Show Biz, p. 60, 1973

couch checkers noun

sexual foreplay US, 1967

- What sports to you like? Couch checkers? — Elaine Shepard, The Doom Pussy, p. 48, 1967

couch dance noun

a sexual dance performed in a sex club, with the dancer grinding on the lap of a man seated on a couch US, 2002

- Additionally, some officers are pulling the tough duty of sitting around in topless clubs and paying for table or couch dances, waiting to be “wrongly touched.” — Seattle Times, p. D1, 20th June 1990
- “What’s a couch dance?” “You take the guy into a private room filled with couches. No door, and a bouncer standing outside, keepin’ an eye on things. You dance on his lap and he gropes you for three, or four minutes.” — Richard N. Cote, The Redneck Riviera, p. 126, 2002
- Some of the girls sashay over to chat with the generous tippers or give private “couch dances” in circular booths along back walls. — Cincinnati Enquirer, p. 1B, 19th May 2003

couch potato noun

a person who habitually idles, watching television US, 1976

One of the very few slang words or phrases where it is seemingly possible to trace the coining; in July 1976 a group of friends in California coined the term, which was first used in commerce in 1977 and then hit the big time with the Official Couch Potato Handbook (1983).

- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Spring 1984
- I'd be ready to give odds he's a couch potato, sitting in watching television while the other kids are out batting the baseball around or playing soccer. — Robert Campbell, The Cat's Meow, p. 75, 1988

cough and die verb

(used of a computer program) to cease operating by virtue of a design feature US, 1991

- The parser saw a control-A in its input where it was looking for a printable, so it coughed and died. — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 109, 1991

cough syrup noun

money paid to police informers US, 1951

- — American Speech, p. 155, May 1951: "Hermann Collitz and the language of the underworld" count noun

1 the ratio by which a drug is diluted US, 1964

- They say it's supposed to be six and one, but if the dealer is wise, he wants everybody to keep coming to him, and he wants to give them a nice count so they can fall out, he will go and cut it two and one, or three and one, and make it nice and strong. — Jeremy Lamer and Ralph Teffteller, The Addict in the Street, p. 38, 1964

2 the weight or amount of a drug US, 1967

- COUNT: The amount or purity of a drug. — Elizabeth Finn, Drugs in the Tenderloin, 1967: Glossary of Drug Slang Used in the Tenderloin count verb

in pool, to make a shot US, 1967

- I started in there when I was 13 and when I was 14 I got my stroke. I got my stroke and learned to count [pocket the balls]. — Ned Polsky, Hustlers, Beats, and Others, p. 89, 1967

▶ count days

in twelve-step recovery programs such as Alcoholics Anonymous, to track your recovery from addiction US, 1998

- We count our days since we last incurred unsecured debt. — Christopher Cavanaugh, AA to Z, p. 74, 1998

▶ count your money to use the toilet US, 1954

- — Jerry Robertson, Oil Slangage, p. 41, 1954

counter noun

1 in poker, a player who to the annoyance of other players repeatedly counts his chips or money US, 1963

- — Irwin Steig, Common Sense in Poker, p. 183, 1963

2 a prostitute's customer US, 1964

- — Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 48, 1964

country noun

▶ in country

during the Vietnam war, in Vietnam US, 1977

- Great care must go into packing each item to assure that it will arrive two months from now in country in workable condition. — Chris Gaynor, Letter to Family, 8 December 1966
- I have been in-country Vietnam for 4 months today. — Bruce Schulze, Letter to Family, 18 June 1970
- How much longer do you have in country? — Ronald J. Glasser, 365 Days, p. 177, 1971
- The 24th is 8 months in-country. — Rick Holt, Letter Home, 1 September 1971
- After a few months "in country," the advisers and experts usually came to the conclusion that the United States was not sending enough commodities for them to do their job properly. — Frances Fitzgerald, Fire in the Lake, p. 347, 1972
- And I was new, brand new, three days in-country[.] — Michael Kerr, Dispatches, p. 167, 1977
- The longer I was in country, the more that I had this feeling like I wasn't doing enough. — Ron Steinman, The Soldiers' Story, p. 231, 1999

country adjective

unsophisticated, rural, not world-wise US, 1964

- You know what Otis? What. You're country. It's alright. — Otis Redding, Tramp, 1964
- Cuz you're so country. So Bama. I didn't know niggers like you still existed. — Mo' Better Blues, 1990 country bama noun

a naive, gullible rustic US, 1990

- I can't imagine no country bama muthafucka talking bout. — Boyz n The Hood, 1990
- But he wasn't what Tracy used to call a "country bama," either. — Felicia Nason, Truly, Honestly, p. 304, 2000
- Because he's a big old country bama, ain't got no good sense. — Sandra Jackson Opoku, Hot Johnny (and the Women Who Loved Him), p. 172, 2001
- In fact, I was gonna ask your country Bama ass why do you put those Jheri Curl drip-drip chemicals in your Black nappy hair? — Ayana Byrd, Hair Story, p. 112, 2001

country club noun

1 a minimum security, comfortable prison generally reserved for corporate and banking criminals US, 1960

- Once, when jailed briefly in the early 50's, Costello was sent to a Federal country club near Flint, Michigan[.] — Lee Mortimer, Women Confidential, p. 34, 1960
- Chino, California's "country club" prison, yesterday had its first murder. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 18, 18th July 1972
- I should be going to one of those country-club joints like where they sent those Watergate assholes[.] — Elmore Leonard, Freaky Deaky, p. 13, 1988

2 anything that appears to be relatively comfortable and undemanding US, 1973

- His instructors had spoken of some precincts that were "country clubs"—in the quieter residential sections of the city[.] — Peter Maas, Serpico, p. 58, 1973

country jake noun

a naive rustic US, 1973

- "They're all tied into together, they're all country jakes." — Joe Eszterhas, Charlie Simpson's Apocalypse, p. 30, 1973

country mile noun

a long distance or margin US, 1951

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 22, 1951
- I sliced one a country mile into a chocolate factory off the right fairway. — Sam Snead, The Education of a Golfer, p. 36, 1962
- I love my job, it's the best I've ever had by a country mile and turning up for work is an absolute delight. — Paul Vautin, Turn it Up!, p. 103, 1995

country send noun

in a big con, sending the victim away to retrieve money US, 1997

- In the old days once a mark was hooked on the con, the sharpers would always send him home to get more money. It was called. "The Country Send." — Stephen Cannell, Big Con, p. 292, 1997

country store noun

in the Vietnam war, a military self-service supply center US, 1968

- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 11, 1968

country straight noun

in poker, a hand consisting of four sequenced cards which can be converted into a five-card sequence with the correct draw at either end of the sequence US, 1978

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 53, 1987

country store noun

a rigged carnival game US, 1985

- — Gene Sorrows, All About Carnivals, p. 15, 1985

county noun

any county jail, where the accused are held before trial and prisoners convicted of misdemeanors are incarcerated for short sentences US, 1949

- Leaving him a reasonless desire to go hurrying out through the snow to the nearest station, whatever the cost, in the hope of getting some sort of charge at County. — Nelson Algren, The Man with the Golden Arm, p. 304, 1949
- So there we were in County. — William Burroughs, Junkie, p. 66, 1953
- Okay gentlemen, you've both been to County before, I'm sure. Here it comes. — Pulp Fiction, 1994
- Judge said if we go within a hundred feet of the stores, we get thrown into County. — Kevin Smith, Jay and Silent Bob Strike Back, p. 14, 2001

county blues noun

a blue uniform issued to prisoners in a county jail US, 1993

- Caine is dressed in the "County Blues"; that's the jumpsuit that they give all inmates. — Menace II Society, 1993

county shoes noun

inexpensive shoes issued to prisoners by a county jail US, 1973

- One of them is still wearing his "county shoes." That tells me he just got out of county jail[.] — Joseph Wambaugh, The Blue Knight, p. 9, 1973

county time noun

time served in a local county jail, as opposed to a state or federal prison US, 1996

- Less than "state time" or "hard time."
- Add county time awaiting hearings, and that hole we just left, that's more'n a decade of correctional living. — Elmore Leonard, Out of Sight, p. 45, 1996

Coupe noun

a Cadillac Coupe de Ville car US, 1980

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin' down some lines, p. 233, 1980

coupon noun

an "I owe you" which has not and will not be paid off US, 1996

- I haven't seen Big Larry in three months; I think I'm holding a coupon. — John Vorhaus, The Big Book of Poker Slang, p. 11, 1996

coup troops nickname

ARVN armored units US, 1991

- Not surprisingly, ARVN tank troops came to be called "coup troops" and their M24 tank "voting machines." — Steve Zatoza, M24 Chaffee Light Tank, p. 34, 2003
- Vietnamese armored units were given the name "coup troops" by detractors. — Simon Dunstein, Vietnam Tracks: Armor in Battle, p. 47, 2004 courage pill noun

a capsule of heroin US, 1933

- — Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 59, 1949
- I was discovering why heroin caps are so often called "courage pills." — Douglas Rutherford, The Creeping Flesh, p. 149, 1963

court noun

▶ hold court in the street to mete out what a police officer deems justice through physical beatings US, 2001

- He was busting heads and holding court in the street, then getting you dummies to take the heat for him if complaints came down. — Stephen J. Cannell, The Tin Collectors, p. 179, 2001

court verb

- to physically assault as part of a gang initiation US, 2005
- Now I know. Courting means to be physically “jumped in.” — Colton Simpson, Inside the Crips, p. 19, 2005

court card noun

- in a deck of playing cards, any jack, queen, or king US, 1961
- Irv Roddy, Friday Night Poker, p. 217, 1961

courtesy flush noun

- a mid-defecation flush of the toilet as a courtesy to others in a bathroom or other prisoners in the cell US, 1972
- The smell is terrible, and I open the only window. I can see someone’s feet beneath the commode stall door. “Give us a courtesy flush, will ya?” — Dennis Smith, Report From Engine Co. 82, p. 179, 1972
- Reinhold Aman, Hillary Clinton’s Pen Pal, p. 33, 1996
- When performing the Courtesy Flush, always lift up from your seat to avoid speckling your ass with toilet water. — Fred Pollack, The College Senior’s Survival Guide to Corporate America, p. 125, 2002

court-in noun

- a ceremonial beating to initiate a new member into a gang US, 1990
- Giggles, Shygirl and Rascal performed the initiation they call a court-in, a 13-second beating that ended with tangled hair, smudged lipstick and a bloody nose. — Houston Chronicle, p. 3A, 4th February 1990
- Mark S. Fleisher, Beggars & Thieves, p. 288, 1995

court in verb

- to initiate into a youth gang US, 1993
- I had heard about being “courted in” (“courted in” means to be accepted through a barrage of tests, usually physical, though this can include shooting people) or “jumped in[.]” — Sanyika Shakur, Monster, p. 9, 1993

court-out noun

- a ceremonial beating of a person leaving a gang US, 1990
- If she fails to do her part as a loyal gang member—if she is not, as the girls say, down for her neighborhood—she can face a “court-out,” in which there is no time limit to the beating. — Houston Chronicle, p. 3A, 4th February 1990

cover noun

- an admission fee paid to enter a bar or club US, 1986
 - A shortened “cover charge.”
 - Bellamy was so snookered he didn’t even blink at the ten-dollar cover. — Carl Haasen, Tourist Season, p. 2, 1986
- a single large-denomination bill wrapped around small-denomination bills, giving the impression of a great deal of money US, 1964
 - He loved to flash his “Kansas City roll,” probably fifty one-dollar bills folded with a twenty on the inside and a one-hundred dollar bill on the outside. We always wondered what Dollarbill would do if someone ever stole his hundred-dollar “cover.” — Malcolm X and Alex Haley, The Autobiography of Malcolm X, p. 89, 1964
- a recording which has been popularized by someone else US, 1970
 - A shortened form of the more formal “cover version.”
 - Listen, it isn’t bad enough, we have to do covers, we’re doing the Spice Girls, and those chicks can’t even fucking sing. — Elmore Leonard, Be Cool, p. 35, 1999
- the disguise and staged personality assumed by an expert card counter playing blackjack in a casino in the hope of avoiding detection and ejection US, 1991
 - Michael Dalton, Blackjack, p. 25, 1991
- a hat US
 - I couldn’t even find my garrison cover (hat), a fore and aft, flat “piss-cutter” we called it, that went with the jungle utilities that we were to wear on the plane home. — Bud Willis, Marble Mountain: A Vietnam Memoir, p. 435, 2010

cover verb

- (used of a favorite by sports gamblers) to win by at least the margin established as the pointspread by the bookmakers US, 1991
- Bay Sports Review, p. 8, November 1991

covered wagon noun

- an improvised tent in a prison cell used to conceal sexual activity US, 1950
 - They built “covered wagons” or “hunks” around the beds. That screened out what went on inside the bunks. — Haywood Patterson, Scottsboro Boy, p. 65, 1950
 - “Prisoners, they got this thing they do called ‘the covered wagon.’ What they do is string up a blanket from a bunk so the guards can’t see into the cell. Then they take fresh ass, a guy like you, behind the blanket and gang-fuck him.” — John Ridley, Love Is a Racket, p. 271, 1998
- an aircraft carrier, especially the USS Langley US, 1933
 - The nickname “covered wagon” describes the way the Langley looked with its rooftop landing strip over the deck. — Sunday Telegram (Worcester, Massachusetts), p. B1, 4th May 1997
 - They called it a covered wagon because the flight deck was above the well deck making the ship sort of look like a covered wagon. — Virginian-Pilot (Norfolk, Virginia), p. 5, 5th September 1997 covered with horseshoes adjective

- extremely lucky US, 1988
- George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 24, 1988

covers noun▶ pull the covers off

- to reveal someone’s homosexuality US, 1981
- Maledicta, p. 265, Summer/Winter 1981: “By its slang, ye shall know it: the pessimism of prison life”

▶ pull your covers

- to harass US, 2002
- “It’s all good, O.G. I ain’t fittin’ to pull yo covers.” — Jimmy Lerner, You Got Nothing Coming, p. 96, 2002

▶ to pull someone’s covers

- to catch someone in a lie US, 1967
- “If they try to pull your covers,” Fassenaux feels compelled to advise me, “retaliate. Pull their motherfucking covers.” — Ken Kesey, Kesey’s Jail Journal, p. 4, 1967

covey noun

- a group of gullible people, likely victims for a swindle or crime US, 1964
- R. Frederick West, God’s Gambler, p. 223, 1964

cow noun

- a prostitute attached to a pimp US, 1859
 - Her tricks, when she functioned as an independent instead of a cow, had been hundred-dollar babies who came highly recommended. — John M. Murtagh and Sara Harris, Cast the First Stone, p. 128, 1957
 - Pimps also refer to the women as “cows” and “shitkickers.” — Sara Harris, The Lords of Hell, p. 48, 1967
- a can of evaporated milk US, 1975
 - When the cow is called for, the standard reply is, “Send down the milk, the calf’s blattin’!” — John Gould, Maine Lingo, p. 62, 1975
- a transport aircraft, usually a C-123 or C-130, outfitted with pumps and large rubberized drums US
 - Cow: C-123 or C-130 aircraft equipped with a rubberized collapsible drum and 350-g.p.m. pumps. — Shelby Stanton, Vietnam Order of Battle, p. 355, 1987

▶ have a cow

- to become emotionally overwrought; to lose control US, 1966
- Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 100, 1968
- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, April 1978
- My mom had a cow. — Francesca Lia Block, I Was a Teenage Fairy, p. 134, 1998
- Martha Stewart would have a cow over my apartment. — Janet Evanovich, Seven Up, p. 99, 2001

cowabunga; cuyabunga!

- used as an expression of triumph US, 1955
- Originally a signature line uttered by Chief Thunderthud on The Howdy Doody Show (NBC, 1947–60). Embraced by surfers, American soldiers in Vietnam, and the writers of Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles and The Simpsons.
- Those hopscotch poledads and pedestrians too, will bug ya / Shout “Cuyabunga!” now and skate right on through. — Jan Berry and Dean Torrance, Sidewalk Surfin’, 1964
- Hy Lit, Hy Lit’s Unbelievable Dictionary of Hip Words for Groovy People, p. 10, 1968
- Gene Brabender sometimes walks around bellowing “cowabunga!” So I threw some trivia at him. “Bender, who first said ‘cowabunga?’” — Jim Bouton, Ball Four, p. 314, 1970

cowboy noun

- a reckless, impulsive, undisciplined person US, 1926
 - A Cuban has trouble getting in and out; and besides, this is not a cowboy job. — Edwin Torres, Carlito’s Way, p. 72, 1975
 - Am I crazy? I got a business. What do I need cowboy stuff for? — Richard Condon, Prizzi’s Honor, p. 234, 1982
 - He’s a good kid, but he’s crazy. He’s a cowboy. He’s got too much to prove. — Goodfellas, 1990
 - My hand had a reputation as an energetic, likeable “cowboy” who, like Shoats, preferred action to talk. — Pete Earley, The Hot House, p. 116, 1992
- a driver prone to breaking the rules of the road US, 1928
 - New York Times Magazine, p. 88, 16th March 1958
- in computing, a person with intelligence, knowledge, and dedication to programming US, 1991
 - Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 109, 1991
- in a deck of playing cards, a king US, 1967
 - Albert H. Morehead, The Complete Guide to Winning Poker, p. 260, 1967
- a rear-echelon troop or civilian who dressed the part of a combat soldier but did not experience combat US
 - Cowboy: Denigrating term for a dumb ass, civilian contractor, jerk who likes to wear civilian side arms like ivory handled revolvers and go around looking for trouble. — James Slosson, Unmailed Letters from an REMF, p. 12, 2009
- an unprincipled, untrustworthy, hustling Vietnamese person US
 - First I thought he was a cowboy. That’s what we call a thug. — Ron Steinman, The Soldiers’ Story, p. 290, 1999

Cowboy nickname

- Nguyen Cao Ky, Prime Minister of South Vietnam after the murder of Diem US
- So named by President Diem. “Cowboy” is a term the Vietnamese then reserved for only the most flamboyant of gangsters. US Secretary of Defense McNamara condemned Ky as “the absolute bottom of the barrel.”
- Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 53, 1991

cowboy verb

- to act in a reckless, fearless fashion US, 1954
 - So you cowboy it; you rob everything and anything in the way of business establishments that you happen to find open for business. — Cary Chessman, Cell 2456 Death Row, p. 175, 1954
- to murder someone in a reckless manner US, 1946
 - And the wops are gonna cowboy me on sight. Open contract. — Edwin Torres, Q & A, p. 180, 1977
- to gang-rape someone US, 1957
 - They cowbayed him in the steam room. — William Burroughs, Naked Lunch, p. 188, 1957

cowboy *adjective*reckless, impulsive, flamboyant US, 1951

- To shoot a man off his front doorstep, without the mapped-out getaway, the “hot” car, the other fine details carefully worked out, was truly a “cowboy job.” — Burton Turkus and Sid Feder, Murder, Inc., p. 9, 1951

cowboy Cadillac *noun*any pickup truck US, 1976

- — Wayne Floyd, Jason's Authentic Dictionary of CB Slang, p. 13, 1976
- Came back to town once in a cowboy Cadillac, big old bull horns on the hood and six-shooters for door handles. — Craig Lesley, The Sky Fisherman, p. 78, 1995

cowboy coffee *noun*coffee boiled in an open pot, served without milk or sugar US, 1943

- I taught him how to make cowboy coffee by merely throwing the grinds into the pot, and I drank plenty of it, loving the smell of it. — Anne Rice, Servant of the Bones, p. 15, 1996

cowboy cool adjective(used of beer) at room temperature US, 1984

- I don't have any cold beers, but you're welcome to one of these if you don't mind it being cowboy cool. — Ken Weaver, Texas Crude, p. 63, 1984

cowboy coupe *noun*a pickup truck decked out with accessories US, 1962

- — American Speech, p. 268, December 1962: “The language of traffic policemen”

cowboy gun *noun*a revolver US, 2006

- He traded $50 worth of marijuana for a stolen “cowboy gun,” a .22 caliber revolver. — Philadelphia Daily News, p. Local 3, 27th December 2006 cowboys and indians *noun*a prison sentence of 99 years US, 1990

- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 201, 1990

cow college *noun*a small rural college, especially one offering degrees in agriculture US, 1906

- Your career would have been different—you might have been stuck in some cow college. — Wallace Stegner, Crossing to Safety, p. 8, 1987 cow cunt *noun*a despicable person US, 1988

- Creepy cow cunt like Krystal! — Mary McGary Morris, Vanished, p. 61, 1988
- A retard. A cow cunt. — Joyce Carol Oates, Foxfire, p. 149, 1994

cow-cunted *adjective*possessing a slack and distended vagina US, 1994

- — Maledicta, p. 184, Winter 1980: “A new erotic vocabulary”
- — Michael Dalton Johnson, Talking Trash with Redd Fox, p. 64, 1994

cow fence *noun*a defensive barbed-wire fence around a military camp US, 1968

- Cow fence—Applies to the Barrier—a five- to six-foot-high barbedwire fence. — Kenneth Mertel, Year of the Horse, p. 320, 1968

cowgirl *noun*a sexual position in which the woman is on top, astride and facing her partner US, 1995

- — Adult Video News, p. 42, August 1995
- [I]n describing one of these positions (called the “cowgirl,” in which the woman is facing the man and sitting up, or the “reverse cowgirl,” in which she faces away from him) a pornographic director has said: “Very unnatural position. The girls hate it!” — Gail Dines, Pornography, p. 76, 1998
- These include fellatio, cunnilingus, missionary-style, doggie-style, cowgirl, reverse cowgirl, double penetration, double-pussy penetration and double-anal penetration. — Carolina Vegas Starr, Jobs Your Mother Never Wanted You to Have, p. 77, 2002
- [S]he refuses to stand still when there is a stud to mount and romp in cowgirl superior. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin's Skincyclopedia, p. 388, 2005 cow kicker *noun*an electric prod US, 1973

- “And just to make sure he felt like a real spring chicken once he got out of the truck, I hit him with a cow kicker in the ass.” — Vincent Teresa, My Life in the Mafia, p. 158, 1973

cow lick *noun*in publishing, inexpensive varnish used on a book cover US, 1986

- Rachel S. Epstein and Nina Liebman, Biz Speak, p. 50, 1986

cowyard *noun*an inexpensive brothel US, 1964

- The worst conditions for prostitutes were found in 6-foot by 6-foot cribs and multi-story “cowyards” off Pacific Street, which was known to sailors everywhere as Terrific Street. — San Francisco Examiner, p. A17, 26th December 1994

cox box *noun*an electronic device that includes an amplifier/microphone system as well as various measurement functions, used by a coxswain in competitive rowing US, 1999

- Cox box: The in-boat intercom used by the coxswain to be sure all eight rowers can hear the commands. — Sue Muller Hacking, Boatless in Seattle, p. 76, 1999

coxy; cocksy *noun*an inexperienced swindler working on a scam by telephone who makes the initial call to potential victims US, 1988

- — Kathleen Odean, High Steppers, Fallen Angels, and Lollipops, p. 132, 1988

coxy *noun*a coxswain US, 1966

- He's coxy on the Olympic crew. — Richard Farina, Been Down So Long, p. 39, 1966
- — Judy's Enterprises, Coxswain Postcard, 2001

coyote date *noun*a date with an ugly woman US, 1985

- When you wake up in the morning and she's laying on your arm, you chew your arm off so she won't wake up as you leave. That's a coyote date. — Mark Baker, Caps, p. 231, 1985
- “Has anyone out there ever had a coyote date?” — Richard Meltzer, A Whole Just Like the Rest, p. 377, 2000 coyote ugly *adjective*very ugly US, 1985

- The conceit of the term is that a man who wakes up with a “coyote ugly” woman sleeping on his arm will, like a coyote caught in a trap, gnaw off his arm to escape.
- In an interview, [Judge Bernard] Avellino said the victim “was the ugliest girl have ever seen in my entire life ... in the top 10.” Avellino was also quoted as calling the victim “coyote ugly.” — Los Angeles Times, p. 2, 5th February 1986
- — Philadelphia Inquirer, p. A1, 27th January 1986
- [A] judge chastised a defendant accused in an attempted rape case for having picked an “unattractive girl” and later, in a subsequent interview, described the victim as “coyote ugly,” society is again sent a clear message. — Laura A. Otten, Women's Rights and the Law, p. 9, 1993

cozmo *noun*phencyclidine, the recreational drug known as PCP or angel dust US, 1994

- — US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994

c phone *noun*a cell phone US, 1997

“C” is for “cellular.”

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 49, 1997

CP pill *noun*a large, orange anti-malaria pill taken once a week US, 1969

Chloroquine-primaquine.

- Tuesday 8 July 1969: Lower intestinal problem this morning secondary to the C-P pill yesterday plus last night's brandy, scotch and pernod! — Wesley Byerly, Trung ta Bac si, p. 92, 1986
- A side effect was diarrhea,—especially from the weekly CP pill. — Douglas Bey, Wizard 6: A Combat Psychiatrist in Vietnam, p. 91, 2006

CPT *abbreviation*Compton, California US

- Straight off the fucking streets of C-P-T. — Dr. Dre, “The Next Episode,” 2001

CPT; CP time *noun*a notional system of time in which punctuality is not important US, 1925

An abbreviation of COLORED PEOPLE'S TIME.

- And come on time, not C.P.T. — Letter from Langston Hughes to Carl Van Vechten, 23rd September 1949
- Their lives run by a clock that keeps C.P.T., Colored People's Time, which assumes that appointments won't be kept, work promised won't be delivered, jobs found won't be gone to, since those are all part of the outside world. — Paul Jacobs, Prelude to a Riot, p. 12, 1967
- In recognition of the fact that a stereotype has developed regarding C.P. Time, the first 15 minutes of any meeting shall henceforth be known as J.T. (Jive Time). — Carolyn Greene, 70 Soul Secrets of Sapphire, 1973
- Although there are cultural jokes about “CP time” (being chronically or consistently late), I was once told by a brother from Kenya that “things begin when the people gather.” — Teresa L. Fry Brown, God Don't Live Ugly, 2000

crab noun

1 in the language of members of the Bloods youth gang, a member of the Crips youth gang US, 1987

- “We keep Crabs out of our ‘hood,” he said, referring to area Crip gang members. — Los Angeles Times, p. 6 (Metro), 8th November 1987
- “Fuck you, Crabs!” someone in the car yelled—an increasingly familiar war cry. — Bob Sipchen, Baby Insane and the Buddha, p. 110, 1993
- “Yeah, you, you little crab-ass punk!” (Crab is a disrespectful term used by Bloods against Crips—defacing the enemy.) — Sanyika Shakur, Monster, p. 22, 1993
- “There's crabs in the ‘hood,” she said, using the derogatory slang for “Crips,” a rival gang. — Omaha World-Herald, p. 1A, 18th September 2002

2 a first-year college student US, 1947

- — Marcus Hanna Boulware, Jive and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947

crab *nickname*an M-29C armed cargo carrier US, 1990

- Amphibious units were formed and equipped with M29C Weasel cargo carriers, nicknamed Crabs (Crabs) by the French. — Simon Dunstan, Vietnam Tracks: Armor in Battle, p. 11, 2004
- Furthermore there were the 5th Amphibious Group with LVT-4 Alligators and M-29 Crabs. — Mal Viet Ha, Steel and Blood: South Vietnamese Armor, p. 304, 2008

crab verb

1 in the language of parachuting, to direct the parachute across the wind direction US, 1978

- — Dan Poynter, Parachuting, p. 166, 1978: “The language of parachuting”

2 in the television and movie industries, to move the camera

sideways US, 1987

- — Ira Konigsberg, The Complete Film Dictionary, p. 67, 1987

crab bait noun

a newly arrived prisoner US, 1976

- John R. Armore and Joseph D. Wolfe, Dictionary of Desperation, p. 25, 1976

crabby adjective

ill-humored, perpetually mean, cross US, 1908

- The villain of the extremely popular 1957 Tom Terrific cartoon series from Terry-Toon Cartoon Studios was the aptly named Crabby Appleton, who was, we remember, “rotten to the core.”
- It was something else bothering her, or her life in general that made her crabby. Sitting there pissed off in her black bra and panties. — Elmore Leonard, Glitz, p. 188, 1985

crabs *noun1 pubic lice UK, 1707

- The Inspector opens his fly and begins looking for crabs, applying ointment from a little clay pot. — William Burroughs, Naked Lunch, p. 73, 1957
- I’ll stay a week / And get the crabs / And take a bus back home. — Frank Zappa, Who Needs The Peace Corps?, 1968
- The French call them papillons d’amour, i.e., the “butterflies of love.” I call them crabs, the tiny parasites of crotch. — Jim Carroll, Forced Entries, p. 4, 1987
- When we were kids in the Navy, he had such a bad case of crabs, we used to call him the Governor of Maryland. — The Sopranos (Episode 60), 2004

2 in craps, a three US, 1938

- Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 53, 1987

3 by extension, in a deck of playing cards, any three US, 1981

- Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 53, 1987

4 the Royal Air Force US

- “It’s OK, it’s only the Crabs,” said a man with a pair of high-powered binoculars—Crabs being the military nickname for the Royal Air Force. — Robert McGowan, Don’t Cry for Me, Sergeant-Major, p. 80, 1983 crack *noun1 crystalline lumps of concentrated cocaine US, 1985

- When cocaine got too expensive for the ‘hood, crack was invented. Now brothers with fourth-grade educations go down into their basements and become mad scientists. — Chris Rock, Rock This!, p. 68, 1997
- The simple technique used in the preparation of crack consists of heating cocaine hydrochloride in a baking soda and water solution[.] — Richard Rudgley, The Encyclopaedia of Psychoactive Substances, p. 69, 1998
- Hip hop ‘bin around since 1970. It got exposed in 1979. So once it’s exposed, this is it. Just like crack. Crack ‘bin around, till Richard Pryor got burnt up, then it went: whoosh! — Alex Ogg, The Hip Hop Years [quoting Kool Herc], p. 45, 1999

2 a witticism; a quick and funny remark US, 1884

- I sat there in the tree-shaded yard, listening to Axel talk and Marie make cracks[.] — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 240, 1961

3 the vagina UK, 1775

The imagery from which this derives should be apparent; it remains in widespread use.

- “Snatch,” “hole,” “kooze,” “slash,” “pussy” and “crack” were other terms referring variously to women’s genitals, to women as individuals, or to women as a species. — Screw, p. 3, 3rd January 1972
- I could feel the soft hairs over her crack and they aroused me like always. — Donald Goines, Never Die Alone, p. 163, 1974
- He used his forefingers to gently pry her crack apart. — Jon Sharpe, Springfield Shooters, p. 73, 1994
- She splays wide her hairless crack before Max Hardcore (real name Max Steiner), who initiates her into the Mile-High Club. — Editors of Adult Video News, The AVN Guide to the 500 Greatest Adult Films of All Time, p. 199, 2005

4 an instance; one item US, 1937

- He and I and Alvah drove to Oakland in Morley’s car and went first to some Goodwill stores and Salvation Army stores to buy various flannel shirts (at fifty cents a crack) and undershirts. — Jack Kerouac, The Dharma Bums, p. 84, 1958

5 an opportunity or chance US, 1893

- Okay, who wants to take a crack at wiring Mr. Zimm’s jaw? — Get Shorty, 1995 crack *verb1 to shoot US, 1984

- We both had a look of surprise. And I cracked him. — Wallace Terry, Bloods, p. 21, 1984

2 to burglarize US, 1972

- We would go crack some poison joints and he would get enough stuff [drugs] to last him two or three months. — Harry King, Box Man, p. 48, 1972

3 to speak US, 1897

- I said, “Have you cracked anything about me to him?” — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 155, 1969
- As I was about ready to end my spiel, my man Walter cracked “Go on and pimp, Stoney, to hell with what any black-ass pimping sonuvabitch gotta say!” — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 45, 1973
- When I crack on a female “how you livin’?” she got to respond to me in the positive, or I don’t waste my time. — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 87, 1989

4 to ask for something US, 1928

- Oh yeah, you can cop a “spike” [needle] at any drug store. You gotta crack for insulin with it. — Iceberg R. Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 135, 1969
- When I cracked for seconds, the hack stood there looking / I said, “Serve it raw, punk. The chair’ll do the cooking.” — Dennis Wepman et al., The Life, p. 118, 1976

5 to reveal a secret; to inform on someone US, 1922

- [I]t was easy going through the usual jailhouse bullshit, answering a lotta things, like who’s doing what, how long Joe Blow been dealing, how’d I get cracked, who cracked me. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 127, 1973

6 to tease someone; to taunt someone; to insult someone US, 1942

- The girls used to fight over their macs. “That coffee-an’ mac you got,” a French girl would crack to a straight one, and then it was on—hair came out by the handful. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 23, 1946

- When he was new to the life he’d liked to crack on them just for the sport. — Alix Shulman, On the Stroll, p. 229, 1981
- Rodney, man, I was just crackin’. — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 181, 1992
- Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 42, 1997

7 to arrest someone US, 1952

- Did you know that was the time I got cracked? That the Man swooped down on me? — Clarence Cooper Jr., The Farm, p. 46, 1967
- I had spent the two months in County Jail where I had been taken after Captain Churchill, a “House” bloodhound, backed by city police, crashed my pad and cracked me on an ancient fugitive warrant for the escape from the “House.” — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), The Naked Soul of Iceberg Slim, p. 21, 1971
- How did you get cracked on that there rape beef, anyway, Green Grass? — Charles W. Moore, A Brick for Mister Jones, p. 103, 1975

► crack a bennie

to break a Benzedrine™ (amphetamine sulfate) inhaler open US, 1970

- William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Uptight People, p. 7, December 1970

► crack a rat

to fart US, 1998

- Peter Furze, Tailwinds, p. 39, 1998

► crack a short to break into a car US, 1970

- William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Uptight People, p. 7, 1970

► crack the nut to meet an operation’s daily operating expenses US, 1980

- Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 29, 1980

► crack wise to insult someone with a degree of sarcasm and humor US, 1921

- Imparts a slight air of the old gangster life.
- If he was all hopped up, cracking wise, acting big buying drinks for the house, he was on his way. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 59, 1946
- He came up to me cracking wise all the way and we shook hands. — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 350, 1961
- Such a wiseass. But go ahead. Crack wise. That’s why you’re jockeying a register in some fucking local convenience store instead of doing an honest day’s work. — Clerks, 1994

► crack your cherry

to lose your innocence or virginity US, 1970

- He had no idea he was talking to a young man who cracked his cherry in the thievery business with forty times that at Ludwig’s. — Red Rudensky, The Gonif, p. 76, 1970

► get cracking to start, to begin work UK, 1937

- In, out—let’s get crackin’! — Stephen Sondheim, West Side Story, 1957 crack adjective

excellent UK, 1793

- I rode all the way back on The Chief, the crack train on the Santa Fe[.] — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 137, 1946

crack attack noun

the intense craving for crack cocaine felt by an addict US, 1992

- Terry Williams, Crackhouse, p. 148, 1992

crack baby noun

a child born with an addiction to crack cocaine US, 1988

- A “crack baby” addicted to cocaine because the mother was an addict. — Paul Baller, A More Perfect Union, p. 289, 1988
- “But they are not that much smaller that you can walk in and say that’s a crack baby.” — St. Petersburg Times, p. 38, 23rd May 1988
- These are cocaine and crack babies. Born carrying a psychic ball and chain they didn’t ask for. — New Jack City, 1990
- “Um . . . cause I a motherfuckin’ crack baby, man.” — Jess Mowry, Six Out Seven, p. 16, 1993

crack cooler noun pieces of crack cocaine soaked in a wine cooler drink US, 1994

- US Department of Justice, Street Terms, 1994

crack down verb

in horse racing, to be determined to win a race US, 1994

- Igor Kushyshyn et al., The Gambling Times Guide to Harness Racing, p. 114, 1994

cracked ice noun

diamonds that have been removed from their settings US, 1962

- Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World’s Toughest Prison, p. 795, 1962

cracked out adjective suffering symptoms of heavy crack cocaine usage US, 1988

- The way it is now, Ronnie could do it, play himself, some cracked out asshole. — Get Shorty, 1995

cracked squash noun

a fractured skull US, 1984–1985

- Maledicta, p. 117, 1984–1985: “Milwaukee medical maledicta”

cracker *noun1 a poor, uneducated, racist white from the southern US US, 1766

- Tommy was another cracker bastard. — Chester Himes, If He Hollers Let Him Go, p. 26, 1945
- “I’m Ethel Waters,” I told him, “and I’m standing on my grounds. And you or no other cracker sonofabitch can tell me what to do.” — Ethel Waters, His Eye is on the Sparrow, p. 203, 1951

- I think we ought to just challenge for the heck of it every two hours or so, just to let those crackers know that we are on our toes and they'd better not try anything. — Stokely Carmichael and Charles V. Hamilton, Black Power, p. 110, 1967
- [A] number-one-all-American cracker[.] — Abbie Hoffman, Woodstock Nation, p. 41, 1969

2 the buttocks US, 1948

- And the loudest cussor is generally the first one knocked on his cracker and sent to the bench for repairs. — Fortnight, p. 11, 31st December 1948
- Now their fear of missing something has carried them almost, but not quite, to the point of hoping that Clay wins so that the beautiful sight they want most to see—that of Clay on his cracker—might be “saved” for their eyes at some later date. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 61, 23rd March 1966

3 a person who breaches a computer system's security scheme US, 1991

- Coined by hackers in defense against journalistic misuse of their word.
- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 110, 1991
- These crackers exploited a flaw in the VMS infrastructure which DEC Corporation had announced was remedied three months earlier. — The Knightmare, Secrets of a Super Hacker, p. 8, 1994

4 a phonograph record US, 1947

- — Time Magazine, p. 92, 20th January 1947

cracker-ass noun

- a thin person US, 1966
- “He’s a cracker-ass cracker.” — Kevin Dole, Tangerinephant, p. 111, 2005

crackerbox noun

- a plain, box-like house US, 1945
- The people sweltering through the early dog days of late spring . . . not warm enough to stay outside all the time, but too warm to stay inside the crackerbox walls[.] — Odie Hawkins, Ghetto Sketches, p. 9, 1972
- The house was a frame crackerbox with a pair of dormer windows sticking out of the roof and no style at all until Richard fixed up the front with imitation ledgerock, a grillwork porch and striped aluminum awnings over the porch and windows. — Elmore Leonard, Switch, p. 37, 1978
- Why on earth didn't I sell this run-down little cracker box and return to my hometown[?] — Armistead Maupin, Maybe the Moon, p. 19, 1992

cracker-box adjective

- plain, simple, unsophisticated US, 1911
- [H]earing for month after month after month of the achievements of bums like Floyd and Karpis and Nelson and Dillinger, who were getting rich off cracker-box banks. — Horace McCoy, Kiss Tomorrow Goodbye, p. 7, 1948

Crackerdom noun

- an area inhabited predominantly by racist white people US, 1987
- My Lady saved me from Georgia, the Georgia that I had thought of, the world that represented Crackerdom, was undermined by people from another place. — Odie Hawkins, Scars and Memories, pp. 82–83, 1987

cracker factory noun

- a mental hospital US, 1970
- You'd have me sent to a cracker factory if I told you. — Sidney Sheldon, The Naked Face, p. 160, 1970
- Six months in a five-star cracker factory, and that woman is home free. — Judith Kelman, One Last Kiss, p. 70, 1994

crackerjack noun

- an excellent example of something US, 1895
- We've got a crackerjack here, Miss Chambers, who's been with us twenty years. — Mary McCarthy, The Group, p. 199, 1963

crackerjack adjective

- highly skilled, excellent US, 1899
- Everything is shipshape, jim-dandy, and crackerjack[.] — Jim Thompson, The Nothing Man, p. 189, 1954
- “Yes, sir,” interrupted Jefferson, “we have gone and made us a real crackerjack of a college.” — Max Shulman, Anyone Got a Match?, p. 125, 1964
- I've been getting crackerjack reports from them, particularly in Empathy[.] — Gore Vidal, Myra Breckinridge, p. 48, 1968
- I know some cracker jack pool hustlers solo sharking that are starving to death. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Mama Black Widow, p. 158, 1969

crackers noun

- LSD US, 1967
- From the practice, at least in Boston, of saturating animal cracker cookies with LSD and selling it in that form.
- — John Williams, The Drug Scene, p. 111, 1967

crackers adjective

- crazy, mad UK, 1925
- I guess he and Kurt told me all that crap just to see exactly how crackers I was! — Beatrice Sparks (writing as ‘Anonymous’), Jay's Journal, p. 40, 1979

crack gallery noun

- a building or room where crack cocaine is sold and smoked US, 1989
- — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 136, 1989
- Ques pulled the cab into the trash-strewn parking lot, and he spoke his first impression: “Place is a crack gallery, folks.” — Robert McCammon, Blue World, p. 193, 1990

crack girl noun

- a girl or woman addicted to crack cocaine US
- If you catch the crack girl early on she can still look fine. Three weeks into the addiction, no one can tell the difference—except that a girl who would normally never talk to you . . . will fuck you for five or ten dollars. — Chris Rock, Rock This!, p. 79, 1997

crackhead noun

- a person addicted to crack cocaine US, 1986
- “I want quality young people in this organization, not crackheads, is that understood?” he said again. — New York Times, p. 8 (Section 11), 10th August 1986
- — Terry Williams, Crackhouse, p. 148, 1992
- The guy could be a crackhead. — Sleepless in Seattle, 1993
- Marion Barry at the Million Man March. Do you know what that means? Even in our finest hour we had a crackhead on stage. — Chris Rock, Rock This!, p. 187, 1997

crack house noun

- a building or room where crack cocaine may be bought and consumed US, 1985
- Meanwhile, narcotics officers of the New York City Police Department have shut down a few of the so-called crack houses, the rough equivalent of heroin-shooting galleries, where sales are made and users gather for smoking binges that can last for several days. — New York Times, p. A1, 29th November 1985
- You know, they turned that spot into a crack house, it's just crack and more crack. — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 70, 1989
- She took me to crack houses. They stink. — S. Beth Atkin, Voices from the Street, p. 7, 1996

crackie noun

- a crack cocaine user US, 1997
- Back in 1989–1990, I spent many nights in the East Village of New York hanging out with “crackies” of all stripes around makeshift bonfires of the insanities. — Jim Crotty, How to Talk American, p. 90, 1997

crack in the shack noun

- a homosexual in a jail cell US, 1984
- “What’s happening in there?” “We got us a crack in the shack, man. Want to get down?” — Inez Cardozo-Freeman, The Joint, p. 490, 1984

cracko noun

- a crazy person US, 1981
- Crackos pulled knives on the street[.] — Alix Shulman, On the Stroll, p. 8, 1981

crack out verb

- 1 to escape from prison US, 1950
- — Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 51, 1950
- 2 in a swindle, to relieve the victim of his money quickly US, 1977
- — Robert C. Prus and C.R.D. Sharper, Road Hustler, p. 169, 1977

crackpot noun

- a person who is somewhere in the continuum between odd and crazy UK, 1883
- When Washington was suddenly flooded with a horde of crackpots from the campuses, Communists, ballet-dancers and economic planners, there was no place for them to live. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 9, 1951
- What the hell, we were supposed to be here as observers, not as participants in any of Allen’s crackpot schemes. — Terry Southern, Now Dig This, p. 122, November 1968
- “The Beach police think it’s a crackpot,” Garcia added in a noncommittal way. — Carl Haassen, Tourist Season, p. 54, 1986
- “Just remember,” Rebus warned, “the person we’re looking for might be a crackpot too.” — Ian Rankin, The Falls, p. 99, 2001

crack rack noun

- a small seat mounted behind the regular seat on a bicycle US, 2002
- I put my jacket, bunched and bungeed onto the crack rack over my rear wheel for her comfort, all inviting. — Lynn Breedlove, Godspeed, p. 73, 2002

cracksmoker noun

- a person whose sanity is open to question, whether or not they actually smoke crack US, 1997
- — Maybeck High School Yearbook (Berkeley, California), p. 28, 1997

crack-up noun

- 1 a nervous breakdown US, 1936
- So return with us now to Los Angeles where Brenda (Griffiths) is headed for a crack-up even before she hits her mother, the crazy psychiatrist Joanna Cassidy[.] — New York Metro, 4th March 2002
- 2 a cause for laughter US, 1961
- Yes sir, I was definitely the life of the party. A real crack-up. — Bill Myers, The Incredible Worlds of Wally Mcdoogie #7, p. 33, 1994

crack up verb

- 1 to undergo a nervous breakdown US, 1917
- Lank lizards, as Weetzie would say. Maybe I am cracking up. — Francesca Lia Block, Missing Angel Juan, p. 293, 1993
- 2 to amuse someone greatly; to cause laughter US, 1942
- And that cracked me up, because I grew up with him. — Ben Fong-Torres, Hickory Wind, p. 72, 1991 crack whore noun

- a prostitute motivated by a desire to buy crack cocaine US, 1980s
- A crack whore named Princess from the Forties House in South Jamaica had turned up dead in the grass near an exit ramp to Greenwich, Connecticut. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 5 (Sunday Review), 19th August 1990
- See, he likes to smoke crack; she’s a crackhead. There’s a difference. She leaves because she’s a drifting crack whore and she literally sleeps where she ends up. — Chris Rock, Rock This!, p. 75, 1997

cracoid noun

- a crack cocaine addict US, 1990
- A turf challenge was slanting across the Strip, a precision patrol of cracoids swivelhipping between stalled bumpers straight for the Blue Note. — Seth Morgan, Honeyboy, p. 17, 1990

cradle rape noun

sex with a girl under the age of consent US, 1969

- What's your story, morning glory? It costs three grand to fix cradle rape. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Trick Baby, p. 161, 1969

cradle robber noun

a person who is in a sexual relationship with someone who is far younger than they are US, 1920

- And besides that, I'm no cradle robber.— Patricia McLaine, Love is Contagious, p. 30, 1961
- "that woman's a cradle-robber from way back." — Glenn Savan, White Palace, p. 249, 1987

cradle-snatcher noun

a person who is in a sexual relationship with someone who is far younger than they are US, 1907

- She would be discreet in front of people, not wanting to cross the middle-class sensibilities of the hotel clientele by appearing to be a cradle-snatcher. — Robert Klein, The Amorous Busboy of Decatur Avenue, p. 152, 2005

craftsman noun

a socially inept dolt US, 1992

- [T]he cha ("very cool") worlds include: "winded" for hung over; "craftsman" for a complete idiot; and "ass" for awful. — Washington Times, p. C3, 26th August 1992 cram it!

used for registering an imperative rejection US, 1957

- "Hey, did the mirror fog up, Susan? Did you touch yourself?" "Would you just cram it?" Susan said. — Howard Stern, Miss America, p. 277, 1995

cramp noun

an unpleasant person US, 1992

- Stupid cramp, man! — Jess Mowry, Way Past Cool, p. 32, 1992 cramp verb▶ cramp someone's style to hamper or prevent someone from doing, or being at, their best US, 1917

From sporting use.

- "If you don't think it would cramp you style, Franzie, to have me around— will." — Frederick Kohner, Gidget Goes to Rome, p. 109, 1963

cramper noun

a small cage in which a prisoner of war is confined US, 1986

- The cage, with a locked drop gate facing the open end of the horseshoe of buildings, was not large enough for him to stand or fully extend himself on the ground, and Veil had to shuffle on all fours in order to turn around. It was what, in Vietnam, had been called a tiger cage, or "cramper." — George C. Chesbro, Veil, p. 123, 1986

cranberry noun

a B-57 Canberra bomber US, 1967

- "Old Charlie harbors a special hatred for the Cranberries." — Elaine Shepard, The Doom Pussy, p. 38, 1967

crane noun

1 in skateboarding, a maneuver in which the rider crouches on one foot, extending the other leg outward US, 1976

- — Laura Torbet, The Complete Book of Skateboarding, p. 105, 1976

2 a superior with a great deal of influence US, 1997

- New York police slang.
- The Extremely Unofficial and Completely Off-the-Record NYPD/ESU Truck-Two Glossary. — Samuel M. Katz, Anytime Anywhere, p. 387, 1997

crank noun

1 methamphetamine hydrochloride in powdered form; any amphetamine; methcathinone US, 1966

On 15th September 1966, jazz critic Ralph J. Gleason wrote to slang lexicographer Peter Tamony, reporting that on 6th September he had heard the word "crank" used by a "young Negro pusher" in San Francisco's Fillmore district. On 9th October 1967, Gleason wrote Tamony a second note, clarifying that "crank" was the same as "meth," not "heroin." Peter Tamony heard the term again on 12th April 1968, in a speech at a meeting of the California Folklore Society in Berkeley.

- — William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Uptight People, p. 7, December 1970
- I ain't trading no uptown crank for no downtown trash. — Drugstore Cowboy, 1988
- Are you saying you never made crystal meth, crank, methamphetamine, what ever you want to call it, with these chemicals? — Eleusis Lightning on the Sun [The Howard Marks Book of Dope Stories], p. 322, 2001

2 a mentally unstable person; an unreliable, unpredictable person; a person who is obsessed by a single topic or hobby US, 1833

- Since you seem to be unwilling to accept the note as the work of some crank who has observed Mr. Bigelow's movements and who profited by an unfortunate but by no means extraordinary coincidence. — Jim Thompson, Savage Night, p. 135, 1953

3 a prison guard who takes pleasure in making life difficult for prisoners US, 1981

- — Maledicta, p. 264, Summer/Winter 1981: "By its slang, ye shall know it: the pessimism of prison life"

4 the penis US, 1968

- Right soon after that, his crank was hard. It rose up like it wanted to have a look around. — Tom Abrams, A Piece of Luck, p. 47, 1994
- He pulled his zipper down, extracted his crank, and started to relieve himself. — Wolfman Jack (Bob Smith), Have Mercy!, p. 54, 1995
- So, to save time, he simply pulled out his crank and pisses into his now-empty Diet Coke cup. — Rick Reilly, Who's Your Caddy?, p. 51, 2003

- I wanted her to just snatch up my crank and wrap her little hand around it and squeeze it[.] — Chris Miller, The Real Animal House, p. 31, 2006

crank verb

1 to use amphetamines or methamphetamine, central nervous system stimulants US, 1970

- — William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Uptight People, p. 7, December 1970

2 to turn up the volume of music to very loud US, 1994

- Hey! Turn your radios up! Crank it up so's we can hear it! — Airheads, 1994
- I had the tunes cranked, I had nine grand sitting in front of me. — Empire Records, 1995

- I've got it modified with the TK 421, which is a bass unit that basically kicks in another two, maybe three quads when you really crank. — Boogie Nights, 1997

3 to excel US, 1988

- UNREAL, it's cranking out there. — Michael V. Anderson, The Bad, Rad, Not to Forget Way Cool Beach and Surf Discriptionary, p. 5, 1988

4 in computing, to perform well US, 1991

- This box cranks (or, cranks at) about 5 megaflops, with a burst mode of twice that on vectorized operations. — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 110, 1991

5 in a card game, to deal the cards US, 1988

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 25, 1988

▶ crank your yanker

(of a male) to masturbate US, 2005

- If you are a slave to the boob tube, you've probably cranked your yanker too thoughts of Kristian Bauer. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin's Skincyclopedia, p. 48, 2005

crank bug noun

an insect that is seen by someone under the influence of methamphetamine but not by others US, 1977

- — Walter L. Way, The Drug Scene, p. 107, 1977

crankcase verb

the head US, 1960

- You're not responsible to desk sergeants any more, sweets, can't you get that through your crankcase? — Clarence Cooper Jr., The Scene, p. 50, 1960

cranked; cranked out; cranked up noun

1 excited; intensified US, 1957

Mechanical imagery.

- Only a fool would try to explain why four thousand Japanese ran at top speed past the U.S.S. Arizona, sunken memorial in the middle of Pearl Harbor, along with another four or five hundred certified American liberals cranked up on beer and spaghetti[.] — Hunter S. Thompson, Songs of the Doomed, p. 189, 1980

2 stimulated by methamphetamine or amphetamines US, 1981

- "There's another worrier," said my attorney. "He's probably all cranked up on speed." — Hunter S. Thompson, Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas, p. 14, 1971
- I was half-drunk, fully cranked, and pissed off at everything that moved. — Hunter S. Thompson, The Great Shark Hunt, p. 663, 1979
- They're all crazy cranked-out animals! — Joseph Wambaugh, The Secrets of Harry Bright, p. 243, 1985
- Akerlund rounds up a troupe of Hollywood B-isters—Mena Suvari, Brittany Murphy, Jason Schwartzman, and Patrick Fugit—for an hour and a half of cranked-out obnoxiousness. — Boston Globe, p. D8, 28th March 2003

cranker noun

a methamphetamine user US, 2001

- "Tweaker," "cranker," "meth monkey"—A user. — Lewiston (Idaho) Morning Tribune, p. 6A, 20th May 2001

crank freak noun

a methamphetamine addict US, 1996

- I should mention that I was something of a "speed" and "crank" freak in the middle 70s. — alt.recovery.aa, 29th June 1996
- "Cindy. She's a crank freak." — Carl Haasen, Nature Girl, p. 122, 2006

cranking adjective

amusing; pleasing; exciting; good US, 1982

- — Mary Corey and Victoria Westermark, Fer Shurt! How to be a Valley Girl, 1982

crank off verb

to consume something US, 2001

- I'm busy crankin' off an eight-ball, dude. — Stephen J. Cannell, The Tin Collectors, p. 116, 2001

crank time noun

the time set to start up a helicopter US

- "Crank time is 1945 hours, commo check at five-five, and pitch, pull on the hour." — Albert Rampone, Silent Birdmen, p. 99, 1988
- Crank time was usually 0500 and the crews often flew until midnight. — Peter Kokalis, Soldier of Fortune, p. 50, 2007

crap noun

1 excrement UK, 1846

- Why is dog crap always bigger when they shit in the house than when they do their business outside? — Rick Huffman, Graffiti Mirror, p. 81, 2002

2 nonsense UK, 1898

- And I think that stuff about women wanting it just as bad is crap. — Sex, Lies and Videotape, 1989

3 marijuana US, 1961

- — Francis J. Rigney and L. Douglas Smith, The Real Bohemia, p. xiii, 1961

4 weak or highly diluted heroin US, 1942

- — Richard Lingeman, Drugs from A to Z, p. 51, 1969

▶ take a crapto defecate US, 1952

- I took a crap in a 1000-year old Indian stone crapper in the outdoors. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Allen Ginsberg, p. 350, 10th May 1952

crap *verbto defecate UK, 1673

- Gandhi was at the bottom of the bed and he had crapped in it. — Marion Davies, The Times We Had, p. 227, 1975

crap around *verbto idle; to pass time doing nothing; to waste time US, 1935

- Tell him I'm not going to crap around bargaining. — James Clavell, King Rat, p. 221, 1962

crap artist *nouna convincing liar US, 1934

- Oh, hell, I hate them, those crap artists. — Saul Bellow, Humboldt's Gift, p. 142, 1975
- Wassamatter, all the big girls found out you're a crap artist? — Jackie Collins, Chances, p. 577, 1980

crap-ass *nouna despicable person US, 1975

- [E]ven though architects are always trying to take credit for it—crapasses. — Todd McEwen, Who Sleeps with Katz?, p. 40, 2003

crap-ass *adjectiveshoddy, inferior US, 2000

- I'm a dull, boring hack writing copy for crap-ass products and sucking up to a bunch of corporate dildos. — Linda Watanabe McFerrin, Hand of Buddha, p. 51, 2000

crap course *nounan easy college course US, 1956

- But you were having an affair with your college professor. That jerk that teaches that incredible crap course "Contemporary Crisis in Western Man!" — Annie Hall, 1977

crape-hanger *nouna doomsayer US, 1949

- The crapehangers love to bury me. They think I'm making more money than I should. — Time, p. 54, 27th June 1949
- The crape hangers were out in full force. — Vincent Curcio, Chrysler, p. 269, 2000

craphole *nouna bad place, a disgusting place US, 1939

- That shit was my ticket outta this craphole and every one like it. — Randy Everhard, Tattoo of a Naked Lady, p. 197, 284

craphouse *noun1 a toilet US, 1934

- I'm got the ol' experience, I'm smart as a craphouse rat. — Nelson Algren, Never Come Morning, p. 10, 1963

2 a dirty, unpleasant place US, 1934

- You don't need to snake their dirty whores in some enlisted man's off-limits craphouse, then cover your ass with that Jesus talk of yours. — David Poyer, The Med, p. 54, 1988

crapola *nounused as an embellished "crap" in any and all of its senses UK, 1959

- "The Prime Minister expressed his hope that the Greek and Turkish Governments would reconsider the British proposals in the light of..." "Crapola," Mellors said. — Derek Bickerton, Payroll, p. 77, 1959
- Let us cope with the preliminary part of that farrago of crapola by citing the handiest record of the net assessment of the Shah's reign[.] — San Francisco Examiner, p. 34, 10th December 1979
- And you got to know that statue will be some dipped-in-shit, John Wayne crapola[.] — Larry Heinemann, Paco's Story, p. 157, 1986
- Tell me you've finished your crapola Foreign Legion movie. — Gerald Petievich, Shakedown, p. 133, 1988

crap out *verb1 to be completely exhausted; to go to sleep US, 1976

- American Speech, p. 227, October 1956: "More United States Air Force slang"
- Four in the morning / crapped out, yawning. — Paul Simon, Still Crazy After All These Years, 1976

2 to die US, 1929

- Suppose I crap out? — Mickey Spillane, Me, Hood!, p. 14, 1963

3 to fail to produce, to stop functioning US, 1929

- If so, they crap out, I can picture myself getting stoned by MacClaine, McClure etc., but actually what I'd do in such a case is get it published by Grove or New Directions[.] — Jack Kerouac, Jack Kerouac Selected Letters 1957–1969, p. 236, 10th June 1959: Letter to Philip Whalen
- "I'm sorry to crap out like this, Danny," he said, "but I don't have the vigorish for this job." — George Clayton Johnson, Ocean's Eleven, p. 187, 1960

crap paper *nountoilet paper US, 1952

- I noticed that there were no orange tissue wrappers hanging on the wall. "No crap paper," I muttered. — Harry Grey, The Hoods, p. 19, 1952

crapper *noun1 a toilet US, 1927

- "Him, we wouldn't let a guy like him even touch the crapper," said Willie. — James T. Farrell, Willie Collins, p. 115, 1946
- I took a crap in a 1000-year old Indian stone crapper in the outdoors. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Allen Ginsberg, p. 350, 10th May 1952
- I try and try, ma'am, but I'm afraid I'll never make my mark as head man of the crappers. — Ken Kesey, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, p. 151, 1962
- Inside the crapper, I ripped a wad of paper from its holder. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 81, 1969

2 the anus and rectum US, 2000

- "And the fleshier one's had it up her crapper as well," gurgled Maggie with a grin. — alt.sex.stories, 11th December 2000
- Both shove their bratwurds simultaneously up her cunt and crapper in a reverse, bouncing cowgirl d.p. — Editors of Adult Video News, The AVN Guide to the 500 Greatest Adult Films of All Time, p. 65, 2005

In the crapperin horse racing, finishing in fourth place or worse US, 1976

- Tom Ainslie, Ainslie's Complete Guide to Thoroughbred Racing, p. 333, 1976

crapper dick *nouna police officer who patrols public toilets in search of illegal homosexual activity US, 1950

- Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 52, 1950
- A crapper dick has got to have good eyes to be able to see everything. — Bruce Rodgers, The Queens' Vernacular, p. 207, 1972

crappy *adjectiveof poor quality US, 1942

- He'd clip out cartoons and weather reports and crappy poems and health columns. — Jim Thompson, The Killer Inside, p. 96, 1952
- I'm a crappy little agency with crappy little clients nobody else will touch[.] — Max Shulman, Anyone Got a Match?, p. 24, 1964
- Duncan and I went fishing in a crappy little catfish creek below the dirt road. — Jeffrey Golden, Watermelon Summer, p. 111, 1971
- Yeah, but the animation's all crappy—it probably can't sustain itself over ninety minutes. — South Park, 1999

craps *noundice, especially used in craps US, 1965

- And I'd take some loaded craps down there, some bones, and I would beat the paddy boys out of all their money. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 151, 1965

crapshoot *nounan unpredictable, risky situation US, 1971

- All oil field exploration is a crap shoot at best, with only one in ten or fifteen fields panning out. — Stephen Cannell, Big Con, p. 137, 1997

crap up *verb1 to fill something with clutter US, 1946

- It was still all crapped up. Boxes of car parts were stacked all the way to the ceiling. Tires were rolled over in the corners. Oil cans and carburetors and anything else that didn't have a box were all crammed together on a bunch of shelves. — Sam Giancana, Double Deal, p. 65, 2003

2 to spoil something; to ruin something US, 1953

- I'm sick and tired of Him and His whole choir of Guardian Angels—all they do is crap up my life! — Laura Esquivel, The Law of Love, p. 134, 1996

3 to address someone with a complete lack of sincerity US, 1950

- "[Y]ou don't have to give me any crap." "Well, for Christ's sake, who's crapping you up?" — Hal Elson, Tomboy, p. 121, 1950

crash *verb1 to enter a party or social event without an invitation US, 1921

- The newcomers intended to crash, as everyone in the room knew. — Hal Elson, The Golden Spike, p. 69, 1952
- On this particular night, the Wolf "crashed" a rather high-class party. — Max Shulman, Guided Tour of Campus Humor, p. 70, 1955
- Needless to say, nobody with an ounce of good manners or a thimbleful of concern for the feelings of others ever crashes a party. — Dick Clark, To Go or Not to Goof, p. 130, 1963
- Frank crashed the party? — Terry Southern, Now Dig This, p. 220, 1978

2 to enter a place with force with the intention of committing a crime US, 1924

- I told her somebody had crashed the place before I got there and liked to knock it apart. — Mickey Spillane, My Gun is Quick, p. 24, 1950
- We had a pretty good bunch of O'Sullivan's, a torch man, a mechanic, a jigger and a hard-shell biscuit who'd been with a gopher mob. We crashed with a get-in betty. — The New American Mercury, p. 709, 1950
- It wasn't really fear even though he had never crashed a joint before. — Donald Goines, Dopefiend, p. 162, 1971

3 to stay somewhere temporarily; to sleep somewhere US, 1945

- As we walked up the steps a neighbor said "Here come two more kids looking for a place to crash." — James Simon Kunen, The Strawberry Statement, p. 96, 1968
- Well, she lets me crash at her place. — Airheads, 1994
- Then I realized that I owned my own apartment and had an American Express card while he was still crashing on his friend's couch and thrilled to have a new library card. — Anka Radakovich, The Wild Girls Club, p. 158, 1994
- I was just planning to crash on the floor for a few days till I figure out what I'm doing. — Kenneth Lonergan, This Is Our Youth, p. 54, 2000

4 to return to normal perceptions after a drug intoxication; to experience an associated feeling of post-intoxication depression or dismay US, 1967

- WYATT: Wow! I think I'm gonna crash. BILLY: Ah, man. I think you have crashed, man. — Peter Fonda, Easy Rider, p. 71, 1969
- "I'm crashing, man," Manny says. He lies on the floor. — John Rechy, The Fourth Angel, p. 114, 1972

5 (used of a computer program) to fail completely without warning US, 1983

- Guy L. Steele et al., The Hacker's Dictionary, p. 49, 1983

6 to hit something, to strike something US, 1989

- Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 136, 1989

7 to escape from jail or prison US, 1970

- Red Rudensky, The Gonif, p. a, 1970

8 in circus and carnival usage, to change money US, 1981

- Don Wilmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 66, 1981

- 9 to intubate a hospital patient quickly and urgently US, 1994
- Sally Williams, Strong Words, p. 137, 1994
- 10 to perform a high-priority job as soon as possible US, 1986
- Department of the Army, Staff Officer's Guidebook, p. 58, 1986

crash and burn

in computing, to fail in a dramatic and spectacular fashion US, 1991

- Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 110, 1991

crash car noun

1 an old, inexpensive car used in the distribution of illegal alcohol US, 1974

- David W. Maurer, Kentucky Moonshine, p. 115, 1974

2 in a robbery, a car used to crash into other cars to thwart pursuit of the robbers US, 1981

- The theory of a crash car is to obstruct whatever pursuit there may be of the getaway car, regardless of the risk involved. — Ovid Demaris, The Last Mafioso, p. 12, 1981

crash cart noun

a mobile cart used to carry equipment US, 1982
Originally hospital use, since expanded.

- Next to me was the “crash cart” they had used for Marcus. Rubber tourniquets hung like streamers from the black handles of the cart. — James Patterson, Kiss the Girls, p. 29, 1995
- Usually, the crew chief sits on top of a big box, called a crash cart, which is filled with equipment used for quick repairs[.] — Mark Martin, NASCAR for dummies, p. 152, 2000

crash-out noun

an escape from prison or jail US, 1940

- He was the last guy I would have picked as a partner in a crash-out; he was very young, this would be his first break, and Christ alone knew how his reflexes would work if something went wrong. — Horace McCoy, Kiss Tomorrow Good-bye, p. 7, 1948

crash out verb

to escape from prison US, 1954

- He's on the lam from a pen back east, crashed out with twenty years to serve of a thirty-year bank-robber rap. — Jim Thompson, A Swell-Looking Babe, p. 77, 1954

crash pad noun

1 a room, apartment, or house where people stay for the night or temporarily, with or without knowing the owner, with or without formal invitation US, 1967

- In one week, four Digger-sponsored crash pads were busted by the cops. — Abbie Hoffman, Revolution for the Hell of it, p. 54, 1968
- [R]ent or work deals with the urban gov't to take over spaces that have been abandoned for use as carpentry shops, garages, theaters, etc., rent whole houses, but don't let them turn into crash pads. — The Digger Papers, p. 15, August 1968
- Landis was taken into custody at his home at 243 Bradford street, which police said was being used as a “crash pad” for assorted homeless hippies. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 3, 19th June 1968
- The White House will become a crash pad for anybody without a place to stay in Washington. — Jerry Rubin, Do It!, p. 256, 1970

2 a pit of soft dirt or sand used for low-level stunt falls US, 2003

- John Cann, The Stunt Guide, p. 57, 2003

crate noun

a carton of cigarettes US, 2002

- Jeffrey Ian Ross, Behind Bars, p. 184, 2002: Slammer Slang

crater noun

1 a deep sore caused by repeated injections US, 1967

- I had cultivated a crater and always shot through the same hole. It sure looked awful, though. — Piri Thomas, Down These Mean Streets, p. 202, 1967
- Edward R. Bloomquist, Marijuana, p. 337, 1971

2 a facial blemish US, 1968

- Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 101, 1968

crater verb

in rock climbing, to fall and hit the ground US, 1998

- CRATER Hit the ground. — Shelley Youngblut, Way Inside ESPN's X Games, p. 209, 1998

C-rats noun

US Army combat rations US, 1965

Vietnam war coinage, used since.

- “Rain fallin’ into my C-rats—A perfect example of nature pollutin’ garbage. — Michael Hodgson, With Sgt. Mike in Vietnam, p. 31, 1970
- It brought the usual water, C-rats and mail. — Charles Anderson, The Grunts, p. 106, 1976
- Negative, m’ man, fuck a bunch a C rats. I mean meat. — Larry Heinemann, Close Quarters, p. 142, 1977
- When off duty, Prince was a furry mooch, always on the lookout for C rats, fish, or whatever. — Ralph Zumbro, Tank Sergeant, p. 65, 1986
- “We might not get another hot meal today. It’ll probably be C-rats.” — John Cain, Vietnam Blues, p. 94, 1988
- The bombs thudded, the ground trembled, Taylor cranked the volume higher. “Rock ‘n’ roll is C-Rats for the soul,” he said, using the military slang for field rations. — Boston Globe, p. 1, 27 January 1991

crawfish verb

to evade someone or something US, 1842

In nature, the only defence available to the crawfish is to bury itself in mud or silt, moving backward.

- “Aw shut up.” Green said impatiently. “You’re crawfishin and you know it.” — Raymond Chandler, The Long Goodbye, p. 33, 1953 crawl noun

1 in television and movie-making, titles that roll from the bottom of the screen to the top US, 1990

- Ralph S. Singleton, Filmmaker's Dictionary, p. 39, 1990

2 in pool, backspin applied to the cue ball US, 1954

- Mike Shamos, The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Billiards, p. 63, 1993 crawl verb

to search somewhere US, 1986

- But the dresser had been pulled out, and the three scrapbooks stacked across it had been replaced unevenly, one upside down. The pad had been crawled. — James Ellroy, Suicide Hill, p. 740, 1986

crawling horror noun

in computing, obsolete hardware or software US, 1991

- Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 110, 1991

crayon noun

a programmer who works on a supercomputer designed by Cray Research US, 1991

- Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 111, 1991

crazies noun

phencyclidine, the recreational drug known as PCP or angel dust US, 1993

- Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 50, 1993

crazy noun

a person who engages in erratic or unpredictable behavior US, 1867

- In one room crazies planned to rent planes and fly over the Rose Bowl dropping antiwar leaflets on the crowd. — Jerry Rubin, Do It!, p. 38, 1970
- The “crazies” might still be winning headlines, but largely they had lost the campuses. They had taken to playing revolution mostly with themselves. — William Tulio Divale, I Lived Inside the Campus Revolution, p. 195, 1970
- In a town full of bedrock crazies, nobody even notices an acid freak. — Hunter S. Thompson, Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas, p. 24, 1971
- This town has always had its share of crazies. — Slacker, 1992

crazy adjective

1 excellent, exciting, superlative US, 1948

- It's “crazy,” it's the “world's best.” — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, 31st October 1947
- Isn't this the craziest! — Rebel Without a Cause, 1955
- Things were “cool” and cool things “gassed” the initiates and anything that was particularly cool was “crazy.” — Robert Sylvester, No Cover Charge, p. 287, 1956
- [H]e blew his now-settled-down-into-regulated-design “crazy” notes[.] — Jack Kerouac, The Subterraneans, p. 13, 1958

2 (used of a particular card in poker and other card games) capable of being played as a card of any value US, 1967

- The same as the more common “wild.”
- Albert H. Morehead, The Complete Guide to Winning Poker, p. 260, 1967

3 many US, 1989

- Everybody thinks they can make crazy dollars, but they confused. — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 86, 1989

crazy alley noun

the area in a prison in which mentally ill patients are confined US, 1992

- William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 3, 1992

crazy-ass adjective

very crazy US, 1994

- They're like that crazy mother in the first Dirty Harry movie. 'Member that crazy-ass mother? — Natural Born Killers, 1994

crazy doctor noun

a psychiatrist or other psychotherapist US, 1989

- Leo Rosten, The Joy of Ynglish, p. 119, 1989

crazy Eddy noun

high quality phencyclidine, the recreational drug known as PCP or angel dust US, 1993

- Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 50, 1993

crazy eight; crazy 8 noun

a discharge from the US Army for mental unfitness US, 1968

- From US Army Regulation 600–208.
- Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 12, 1968

crazy freak noun

a pretty girl US, 1955

- American Speech, p. 302, December 1955: “Wayne University slang”

crazy house noun

a mental hospital US, 1887

- I just hope no one sees me down in those bottoms talking to a monkey. Why, they would put me in the crazy house sure as shootin'. — Wilson Rawls, Summer of the Monkeys, p. 120, 1976
- It was nothing to walk in her home and find Mexicans or someone from the crazy house eating dinner. — Renay Jackson, Oaktown Devil, p. 59, 1998

creaker noun

an old person US, 1958

- This family is full of creakers. We creak along to about the age of 96.
- Flannery O'Connor, Letter to Richard Stern, p. 574, 14th April 1964 cream noun

a bribe US, 1982

- Bill Reilly, Big Al's Official Guide to Chicagoese, p. 23, 1982

cream verb

1 to ejaculate; to secrete vaginal lubricants during sexual arousal US, 1915

- Sometimes, though, I'd go home afterwards, after having had a hard-on for four hours of making out on the floor and in the bleachers, but without creaming, and it really gave you a sore dick. — The Berkeley Tribe, p. 13, 5th-12th September 1969
- "I bet you're creaming all over yourself this minute, you blind freak." — Robert Deane Pharr, S.R.O., p. 334, 1971
- "Jesus, nobody creams that much, especially not some guy who hasn't moved a muscle in his face for the last half hour." — Anne Steinhart, Thunder La Boom, p. 148, 1974
- Leslie gives the gorgeous geisha a raunchy workout, which ends with him creaming all over her grateful face, after which he goes to work on Mai's still-smouldering snatch[.] — Adult Video, p. 23, August/September 1986

2 by extension, to gush with excitement US, 1948

- It is only "history" that today critics cream all over Moby Dick, the dear perceptive things. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Neal Cassady, p. 173, 8th December 1948
- Movement, it creams me to be talking to you. — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 228, 1954
- The PD's office would cream over something like this. — Carl Hiaasen, Tourist Season, p. 21, 1986

3 to defeat someone convincingly US, 1940

- [H]e had benched his regulars and sent in his scrubs, and as a result, the Rockets had been creamed the next three times in a row. — Max Shulman, Rally Round the Flag, Boys!, p. 224, 1957
- We creamed them 7-0. — Erich Segal, Love Story, p. 11, 1970
- We're gonna get creamed. — A Few Good Men, 1992
- "Bruno left it on the bus after Friday's game," sniffed Fuzzy indignantly. "I guess he was bummed we got creamed again." — C.D. Payne, Youth in Revolt, p. 198, 1993

4 to kill someone US, 1940

- [W]hen she had the chance to get Evello creamed before that congressional committee she put in her bid[.] — Mickey Spillane, Kiss Me Deadly, p. 143, 1952
- "I dunno," Ms. Murphy said, "but he's sure got a thing about the cat he creamed." — Cyra McFadden, The Serial, p. 164, 1977

5 to hit someone or something US, 1942

- When Ali creamed him in the eighth, Foreman pirouetted, spiraled downward using the whole ring for his fall[.] — Bill Cardoso, The Maltese Sangweech and Other Heroes, p. 304, 1984
- You can't strap into your seat belt, without almost getting creamed by a bus. — Gone in 60 Seconds, 2000

▶ cream the rag

to boast in an offensive manner US, 1971

The masturbatory image is powerful.

- — American Speech, p. 233, Autumn-Winter 1971: "Checksckmuck! The slang of the chess player"

▶ get creamed

to be knocked from your surfboard and pounded into the ocean, ocean bottom or pilings of a pier US, 1978

- — Dennis Aaberg and John Milius, Big Wednesday, p. 208, 1978

CREAM; cream noun

money US, 1994

- — Wu-Tang Clan, C.R.E.A.M. (Cash Rules Everything Around Me), 1994
- "This 'cream' that they keep chanting about getting," he pointed to Sinbad and co., "what do they mean?" "C.R.E.A.M. Cash Rules Everything Around Me. It's just an old word for money!" — Diran Adebayo, My Once Upon A Time, p. 59, 2000
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 3, October 2002

creamdown noun

sex focused on the pleasure of the active male participant US, 1997

- "He basically liked them leaning over, braced against the wall, legs wide, a good fast pump. Back in San they call that a creamdown." — Ethan Morden, Some Men Are Lookers, pp. 54–55, 1997

creampie noun

semen seeping from a vagina, anus or mouth US, 2002

- A fetish that oozed from US Internet pornography in the early 2000s.
- Creampie vids mean to correct this by showing sex as it actually happens, plus bodily fluids getting licked off the floor. — Village Voice, p. 179, 23rd April 2002
- Howard Schiffer is not the first parent to be alarmed that his teenager was learning about sex from either sniggering peers or a deeply confused culture that veers between sexual repression and Internet "creampie" raunch. — Salon.com, 12th May 2004
- Diamond Foxx and Dallas Sexton go for the cream pie after rimming, doggie, and mish. — Editors of Adult Video News, The AVN Guide to the 500 Greatest Adult Films of All Time, p. 11, 2005

cream puff noun

1 an effeminate male US, 1945

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Live Talk Dictionary, p. 9, 1945

2 an easy target, easy prey US, 1915

- Blue had been right about Frascati. He was a real cream puff. He didn't give us an anxious moment all during the play. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Trick Baby, p. 299, 1969

creamy adjective

sexually attractive US, 1947

- "Mike Horner—he plays the guitar. He's absolutely creamy and guess what?" — Frederick Kohner, Gidget Goes Hawaiian, p. 55, 1961

crease noun

in sports betting, a distortion created when strong fan support for one team or contestant creates an imbalance in the odds which can be exploited by a clever better US, 1991

- — Avery Cardoza, The Basics of Sports Betting, p. 43, 1991

cred noun

credibility UK, 1998

- [G]unpoint abduction didn't have enough cred to be anything more than an implausible but as-yet-uneliminated possibility. — Christopher Brookmyre, Not the End of the World, p. 192, 1998
- When the Hollister incident cut deep into their cred, they labeled rowdy, outlaw motorcyclists the "one-percenters." — Ralph "Sonny" Barger, Hell's Angel, p. 41, 2000

credit noun

an achievement or accomplishment US, 1992

From the acknowledgement of service rendered in the entertainment industry.

- He asked me if I ever done armed robbery before. I read him my credits. — Reservoir Dogs, 1992 credit card noun

a favor owed US, 1985

- If he wants to screw Amad he'll call in some credit cards at Vacaville. — Vincent Patrick, Family Business, p. 244, 1985 creek noun▶ up the creek

in trouble US, 1918

Variant phrases include "up the creek without a paddle" and "up the creek with a paddle in a barbed-wire canoe."

- The local bogies [police] made inquiries and he was up the creek. — Charles Raven, Underworld Nights, p. 31, 1956
- If not you're up the creek without a paddle, and no mistake. — Troy Kennedy Martin, Z Cars, p. 135, 1962

creep noun

1 a prisoner who steals from other prisoners at night US, 1951

- We also have a group of prisoners called "creeps" or "night-crawlers," who prowls the dormitory at night and steal from the other sleeping prisoners. — James Blake, The Joint, p. 21, 15th April 1951

2 a sex offender US, 1975

- Creeps never "get a hang-out card" (command enough respect to mingle and converse freely with other prisoners). — Miguel Pinero, Short Eyes, p. 123, 1975

3 an objectionable or unpleasant person; a dull or insignificant person US, 1926

- I got this here album by this bunch of Limey creeps called Jethro Tull[.] — Lester Bangs, Psychotic Reactions and Carburetor Dung, p. 133, 1973

4 a prisoner who is neither respected nor liked US, 1951

- Very often, a "creep" to escape general harassment will pay tribute to one particular "gee" and will be taken under his protection. — American Speech, p. 194, October 1951: "A study of reformatory argot"

5 a thief who operates in hotels, entering unlocked rooms as the guests sleep UK, 1877

- Often creeps would check into the hotel, in order to have a plausible explanation if challenged by a corridor patrol. — Dev Collins with Stewart Sterling, I was a House Detective, p. 32, 1954
- Some Creeps wear thick woolen socks over their shoes. — Charles Raven, Underworld Nights, p. 11, 1956

6 a drug addict who relies on the kindness of other addicts for small amounts of drugs US, 1971

- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 60, 1971

7 a furtive arrival or departure US, 1946

- The Chicagoans, including some of the Austin High Gang, were pulling a creep in a dozen different directions. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 129, 1946

8 in the League of Legends game, minion waves US

- Creep: a nickname for minion waves, or the general progress of minions along their lane. They can easily be taken for granted as they typically are evenly matched without a champion pushing behind them. — "League of Legends: Beginner Terminology and Slang Guide," operationsupplydrop.org, 1st January 2013

Creep nickname

the Fairchild AC-119 twin engine, piston-powered gunship US

- The Air Force decided to assign the name Creep to the AC-119, because of the capabilities it had with its sophisticated equipment. — Ian Padden, U.S. Air Commando, p. 106, 1985

creep verb

1 to work as a sneak-thief US, 1928

- Sapphire Harris, the King of Creeps, had crept a gaff on a tip-off passed on to him by Larry[.] — Charles Raven, Underworld Nights, p. 191, 1956

2 to ambush someone with the intent of seriously injuring or killing them US, 1974

Prison usage.

- — Paul Glover, Words from the House of the Dead, 1974
- Y'all niggas ain't gonna creep me! — Earl "DMX" Simmons, E.A.R.L., p. 236, 2002

3 to attempt to have a secret sexual relationship with someone's boyfriend or girlfriend US, 2001

- — Don R. McCreary (Editor), Dawg Speak, 2001

4 to be sexually unfaithful US, 1972

- — David Claerbaut, Black Jargon in White America, p. 61, 1972

5 to escape US, 1967

- Still even those who managed to creep were reapprehended with stifling regularity. — Malcolm Braly, On the Yard, p. 205, 1967

6 to secretly watch others through a window US
 ● He just wanted to make sure the tomcatting, creeping bastard wasn't ever going to have an excuse to peep into his or anyone else's bedroom window ever again. — James Fogle, Drugstore Cowboy, p. 89, 1990

creep-and-cuss adjective
 (used of car traffic) extremely congested US, 1964
 ● It was creep-and-cuss traffic for two hours, beginning at 11:30 a.m. On Bayshore Freeway, autos were bumper-to-bumper from Candlestick south to San Bruno, about eight miles. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 1, 17th August 1964

creep catalogue noun
 a high school yearbook US, 1971
 ● — Art Unger, The Cool Book, p. 110, 1961

creeped out adjective worried, disturbed US, 2001
 Extends from THE CREEPS (a feeling of dread).
 ● It was midafternoon, and I was more than a little creeped out[.] — Janet Evanovich, Seven Up, p. 15, 2001

creeper noun
1 a burglar US, 1906
 ● Bill had been a creeper at one time, who had made his living by breaking into homes and apartments. — Nathan Heard, Howard Street, p. 36, 1968
 ● He was a daytime hotel creeper and hitting maybe four to six hotel rooms in the best downtown hotels every time he went to work. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Blue Knight, p. 20, 1973

2 a marijuana cigarette US, 1997
 ● — Jim Emerson-Cobb, Scratching the Dragon, April 1997

creepers noun
 soft-soled, quiet shoes favored by burglars US, 1949
 ● — Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 61, 1949
 ● — Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World's Toughest Prison, p. 796, 1962
 ● — Inez Cardozo-Freeman, The Joint, p. 491, 1984

creepers!
 used for expressing surprise US, 1944
 An abbreviated version of JEEPERS, CREEPERS!
 ● Creepers! If any of my buddies in the lower income group could see me here, I wonder what they'd say. [Freckles and his Friends comic strip] — San Francisco News, p. 29, 17th October 1946 creeper weed; creeper noun marijuana with intoxicating effects that are not immediate US, 2008

 ● dunno who all knows this lingo but where i used to live it was about the kind of weed that takes about 15–20 minutes to kick in but when it did it would hit you pretty hard. I haven't had creeper in a while so i was wondering. . . — Forum.grasscity.com, 24th November 2009

creep game noun
 a scheme in which a prostitute and her confederate rob the prostitute's customer US
 ● Lying in bed, he explained to her the new hap-nings and also started to teach her in the art of using knock-out drops plus, "The Creep game" where one girl does the physical work while another would rob the victims pockets. — Babs Gonzales, I Paid My Dues, p. 97, 1957

creep house noun
 a brothel where customers are routinely robbed US, 1913
 ● Warnings of immorality were probably less effective than warnings that some brothels were creep houses or panel houses wherein visitors were robbed of money and gold watches. — Irving Lewis Allen, The City in Slang, p. 180, 1993

creeping crud noun any skin rash suffered in tropical and jungle environments US, 1946 ● "Jungle rot," "New Guinea crud" or "the creeping crud" are U.S. servicemen's names for any & every kind of tropical skin disease. — Time, p. 76, 13th August 1946

creeping mocus noun
 a nonexistent disease US, 1947
 ● — American Speech, p. 304, December 1947: "Imaginary diseases in army and navy parlance" creep joint noun

 a brothel where customers' clothes are searched and robbed US, 1921
 ● Took my public-school training in three jails and a plenty of poolrooms, went to college in a gang of tea-pads, earned my Ph.D. in more creep joints and speakeasies and dancehalls than the law allows. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 3, 1946
 ● "Whaddya going to that kind of a creep joint for?" — Irving Shulman, Cry Tough, p. 167, 1949
 ● What kinda creep joint you run here? — William Burroughs, Naked Lunch, p. 200, 1957
 ● [W]e went through plush lavender and redwood catacombs to the inner sanctum of a florid-faced wheeler dealer in a four-hundred dollar suit who was oozing distractive charm like a pickpocket whore in a creep joint. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), The Naked Soul of Iceberg Slim, p. 142, 1971

creepo noun
 a contemptible person US, 1960
 ● So it constantly amazed him, and left him feeling much abused, to hear such nonsense—twerp, creepo, butter-brain. — Tim O'Brien, Going After Cacciato, p. 36, 1978
 ● "Some creepo was tailing me," he was saying, "for like a hundred miles." — Carl Hiaasen, Sick Puppy, p. 16, 1999

creep out verb
 to create a very uncomfortable feeling in someone US, 1983
 ● Actually, Dad, that room creeps me out. — Francine Pascal, Tearing Me Apart (Sweet Valley High Senior Year No. 36), p. 87, 2001
 ● Ric Flair was another person who creeped me out on a regular basis. — Missy Hyatt, Missy Hyatt, p. 107, 2001

creep pad noun
 a creep joint US, 1946
 ● I swear I'm no sky-pilot, but a creep pad turns into a confession booth as soon as I squat in it. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 88, 1946 creeps!

 used as an all-purpose, nonprofane expression of surprise US, 1971 ● Creeps! What the heck is that? [Tiffany Jones comic strip] — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 24, 24th May 1971

creepster noun
 a revolting person US, 1993
 An embellished CREEP.
 ● Look at this crazy girl following some stranger into his diner trying to save her boyfriend who isn't even her boyfriend anymore because of some weird creepster dream. — Francesca Lia Block, Missing Angel Juan, p. 349, 1993

creepy adjective annoying; producing anxiety or nervousness in others US, 1919
 ● Do you have any control over how creepy you allow yourself to get? — As Good As It Gets, 1997

creepy-peepy noun
1 battlefield radar US, 1965
 Vietnam war usage.
 ● — Time, p. 32, 10th December 1965
 ● — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 12, 1968
2 a television mini-camera US, 1986
 ● — Rachel S. Epstein and Nina Liebman, Biz Speak, p. 52, 1986

Creme de Menthe French noun oral sex performed with a mouth full of creme de menthe alcohol US, 1993
 ● — J.R. Schwartz, The Official Guide to the Best Cat Houses in Nevada, p. 164, 1993

crested fresh adjective attractive, stylish US, 2000
 A term coined by the sock puppets on television's Sifl and Ollie show.
 ● And then Michael suddenly appeared out of nowhere, looking crested fresh—isn't that a funny expression? I learned it from Michael—in the tux his mom made him get[.] — Meg Cabot, The Princess Diaries, p. 274, 2000 crest verb

 to smile US, 1997
 From the branded toothpaste.
 ● — Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 42, 1997

cretin noun
 an incompetent and despicable person US, 1991
 ● — Coevolution Quarterly, p. 29, Spring 1981: "Computer slang"
 ● — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 112, 1991

cretinous adjective
 in computing, incompetent, dysfunctional US, 1991
 ● — Coevolution Quarterly, p. 29, Spring 1981: "Computer slang"
 ● — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 112, 1991

crew noun
1 a criminal gang US, 1946
 ● Lepke and Gurrah stepped up into an exclusive crew headed by Li'l Augie Organ[.] — Burton Turkus and Sid Feder, Murder, Inc., p. 291, 1951
 ● Most of my crew got washed on the way. — Edwin Torres, Carlito's Way, p. 6, 1975
 ● To become a member of a crew, you've got to be one hundred percent Italian so that they can trace all your relatives back to the old country. — Goodfellas, 1990
 ● They could have a lovers' quarrel, give the dope to a new boyfriend not in the crew, sell it themselves, smoke it themselves. — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 5, 1992
2 a tightly-knit group of close friends US, 1957
 ● [T]hose guys made me a member of the crew. — Frederick Kohner, Gidget, p. 37, 1957
 ● Quite a few of the old crew are in institutions across the country, quite a few still out on the street. — John Allen, Assault with a Deadly Weapon, p. 222, 1977
 ● So, anyway, the whole crew is going to this party in the Valley. — Clueless, 1995
3 a group of graffiti artists who work together US, 1997
 ● Crews are one of three things: a group of people down for each other; a group of people working for the common goal of getting up, or a group of people unified through a certain style. — Stephen Power, The Art of Getting Over, p. 118, 1999

crew chief noun
 the leader of a unit of a criminal gang US, 1992
 ● It was exactly the one Andre had given to him, complete with hug, when Strike's mother had gone to Andre four years ago, after some long-gone local crew chief had taken Strike out for his haircut. — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 281, 1992

crew dog noun
 a crew chief in the US Air Force US, 1978
 ● — Seattle Times, p. A9, 12th April 1998

crew hog noun

- a miscellaneous member of a movie crew US, 2000
- The typical porn crew—camera operators, assistant directors, box-cover photographers, and other “crew hogs”—does not have as good a time as you might think. — Ana Loria, 1 2 3 Be A Porn Star!, p. 30, 2000

crew pie noun

- a pizza made by a pizza parlor’s employees US, 1996
- Maledicta, p. 10, 1996: “Domino’s pizza jargon”

crew runner noun

- the leader of a criminal gang US, 2000
- Kip’s become quite the little crew runner since you left. — Gone in 60 Seconds, 2000

crew up verb

- to join a gang; to form a group of friends US, 2005
 - On one side of Kyle’s you could still see the Krush Krew tag put up by Ruina like two years back when we first crewed up. — Linden Dalecki, Kid B, p. 2, 2006
- to form a group to commit a crime US, 2000
 - If we put out the word that we’re crewing up for a one-time-only job, what do you think that’ll yield. — Gone in 60 Seconds, 2000

crib noun

- a person’s dwelling; an apartment or house US, 1809
 - He had chicks sleeping with cats in nice cribs downtown. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 109, 1965
 - Nat wasn’t making but twenty dollars ($20) a night but he told me when I got out I could shack up at his crib for a few weeks while getting my strength back. — Babs Gonzales, I Paid My Dues, p. 25, 1967
 - But I’ll tell you what, you meet me over to my crib in about an hour. — Donald Goines, El Dorado Red, p. 78, 1974
 - Next time you bogart your way into a nigger’s crib, an’ get all in his face, make sure you do it on white boy day. — True Romance, 1993
- a room or shack where a prostitute plies her trade US, 1846
 - All of nigger Chicago is lousy with police stations, gambling joints, and whore cribs. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Mama Black Widow, p. 74, 1969
- a prison cell US, 1990
 - Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 202, 1990
- a safe US, 1962
 - Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World’s Toughest Prison, p. 796, 1962

crib verb

- to reside somewhere US, 1969
 - I coasted the “Hog” into the curb outside the hotel where Kim, my newest, prettiest girl, was cribbing. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 272, 1969
 - All the chorus chicks from the Lido was cribbing there (20) so I knew I was gonna have a ball. — Babs Gonzales, Movin’ On Down De Line, p. 15, 1975
 - If nothing else, just knowing where Deek cribbed could be a major advantage. — Jess Mowry, Way Past Cool, p. 124, 1992
 - [I]nstead of moving west where the rest of the LA money cribbed, they kept themselves close to their roots. — John Ridley, Everybody Smokes in Hell, p. 36, 1999
- to plagiarize something; to copy something UK, 1941
 - It’s an easy act for a doctor to crib. — Philip Wylie, Opus 21, p. 159, 1949

crib course noun

- a basic, easy course of study US, 1970
- Crib course in wireless basics. — Clint Smith, Wireless Telecommunications FAQs, p. Back Cover, 2001

cribhouse noun

- a brothel US, 1916
- He wasn’t anything, for he got cut by a coke-frisky piano player in a cribhouse where he had gone to take out a little in trade on his protection account. — Robert Penn Warren, All the King’s Men, p. 13, 1946

cribman noun

- a professional safecracker US, 1976
- John R. Armore and Joseph D. Wolfe, Dictionary of Desperation, 1976
- He’s in the big house for all day and night, a new fish jammed into a drum with a cribman, who acts like a gazoonie. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 26, 17th August 1976

crib prowl noun

- an illicit search of a house US, 1995
- Black bag work—a classic FBI Commie crib prowl. — James Ellroy, American Tabloid, p. 28, 1995

crib sheet noun

- a piece of paper with information used for studying or cheating in an examination or test US, 1960
- Finally, do not carry notes or crib sheets on your person—this can only result in the gravest of crimes. — O. Ray, Audition, p. 33, 2003

crib up verb

- to live (somewhere) US
- “I’m cribbed up in Encino,” Hector said. — Joseph Wambaugh, Harbor Nocturne, p. 40, 2012

cricket noun

- an improvised explosive device US
- A homemade explosive device was alongside the drugs, according to Assistant County Attorney Michael Zaino. “The street slang for it is ‘a cricket.’” — Manchester (New Hampshire) Union Leader, 16th April 2011

crills noun

- crack cocaine US, 1995
- Maria Hinojas, Crews, p. 167, 1995

crimey noun

- a criminal US, 1969
- CRIMEY A fellow prisoner who was a member of one’s gang or a partner in crime. — Miguel Pinero, Short Eyes, p. 124, 1975
- “My crimey here thinks the way to go is more drugs,” he says[.] — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 86, 1989
- They know I’m the type that never had a crime partner. I was always by myself, and the times that I did have some crimeys, we all basically got up out of it by keeping our mouths shut. — Yusuf Jah, Uprising, p. 29, 1995

crimp noun

- a military recruiter US, 1987
 - Uncle Sam sent the crimps (the recruiters) out when I was in college. — Ernest Spencer, Welcome to Vietnam, Macho Man, p. 13, 1987
- an obstacle or impediment US, 1896
 - I can understand that must have been a bitch of a crimp. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Airtight Willie and Me, p. 59, 1979

crimp verb

- to intrude; to impede something US, 1979
- That hump of a husband of hers was crimpin’ on my time. — Edwin Torres, After Hours, p. 218, 1979

crimp cut noun

- in a card game, a cheating move in which the cheater cuts the deck of cards to an intended spot US, 1996
- Peter O. Steiner, Thursday Night Poker, p. 409, 1996

crimper noun

- in gambling, a person who crimps cards so as to be able to identify them in future hands US, 1992
- Besides dice tats and 7UPS, there were volumes for nail nickers and crimpers (card markers), hand muckers and mit men (card switchers), as well as card counters and shiner players. — Stephen Cannell, Big Con, p. 143, 1992

cringe noun

- methamphetamine US, 1993
- Probably from CRANK, but the image of cringing is powerful when discussing a methamphetamine user.
- Teener means one sixteenth of an ounce. One eighth is called a eightball. You ever do cringe? That’s what we call meth, cringe. — Joseph Wambaugh, Finnegan’s Week, p. 40, 1993

crink noun

- a sharp, searing pain US, 1970
 - [T]hat was the direction in which she turned in order to ease a crink in her neck. — Roger Zelazny, Bring Me the Head of Prince Charming, p. 187, 1991
- methamphetamine sulfate in powdered form US, 1967
 - Sometimes I get some crink (methedrine) or smack (heroin) and then the dough really comes in. — Elizabeth Finn, Drugs in the Tenderloin, p. 12, 1967
 - Walter L. Way, The Drug Scene, 1977

crinkle-top noun

- a black person with natural or afro hair US, 1980
- Edith A. Folb, runnin’ down some lines, p. 233, 1980

crip noun

- an easy course in school or college US, 1923
 - Time Magazine, p. 46, 24th August 1959
 - Andy Anonymous, A Basic Guide to Campusology, p. 7, 1966
- a cripple US, 1893
 - In the middle of the second month we attended a wedding of an old whore and a crip on the abandoned stage of a Main Street theater closed for repairs. — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 238, 1961
 - The stump [of a rat’s foot] was ragged like a trap had hacked off the foot, or perhaps the old crip had chewed it off in a valorous escape from the trap. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Mama Black Widow, p. 71, 1969
 - Multicultural Management Program Fellows, Dictionary of Cautionary Words and Phrases, 1989
 - How’d dem crips get the jack inside? — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 331, 1990

crip verb

- to dress and behave in a manner associated with the Crips youth gang US, 1993
- D-Don’s mother ordered that there be no Crippin’ at her son’s memorial or funeral. — Bob Sipchen, Baby Insane and the Buddha, p. 219, 1993
- When I was in there, I was Crippin’ hard. — Yusuf Jah, Uprising, p. 28, 1995
- “Crippin’ ain’t easy,” Smiley says. “You gotta stay down and represent to the fullest.” — Colton Simpson, Inside the Crips, p. 19, 2005

crip lick noun

- theft of marijuana US
- They traded text messages about a “crip lick.” — Vero Beach (Florida) Journal, 4th February 2014

crippie noun

- high quality marijuana US, 2002
- The top grade marijuana, known in street slang as “crippie,” sold for about $5,000 a pound. — Sun Sentinel (Fort Lauderdale, Florida), p. 1B, 4th June 2002

cripple noun

- a Class 4, low-power radio station US, 1995
 - It was what people in the radio business call a “cripple,” a station with either a weak signal or crummy facilities. — Wolfman Jack (Bob Smith), Have Mercy!, p. 75, 1995
- a knee-boarder; a surfer who rides kneeling rather than standing US, 1988
- Derogatory, spoken with disdain by experienced surfers.
- Surf Punks, Oh Nol Nat Them Again!, 1988

3 in pool, a shot that cannot be missed or a game that cannot be lost US, 1964

- Steve Rushin, Pool Cool, p. 11, 1990
- Mike Shamos, The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Billiards, p. 63, 1993

crippleware noun

computer software that operates up to a point but then is disabled until payment for a full working version is made US, 1991

- Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 112, 1991

crispy noun

a badly burnt person or corpse US, 1981

An abbreviation of CRISPY CRITTER.

- J.E. Lighter, Historical Dictionary of American Slang, Volume One, p. 523, 1994

crispy adjective

good, stylish, fashionable, pleasing US, 1997

- You're crispy, you're the shit, you really are, Joey. You're the man. — Joel Rose, Kill Kill Kill Faster Faster, p. 141, 1997
- Even a Fubu sweat suit; I like it to be fresh, crispy, brand-new, looking right. — Style, p. 96, July 2001

crispy critter noun

1 a burnt corpse, especially one burnt by napalm US, 1967

The term was borrowed from the branded name of a sugar-frosted oat cereal cut out in animal shapes, popular in the US in the 1960s.

- Current Slang, p. 15, Summer 1970
- Larry Heinemann, Paco's Story, p. 15, 1986
- While the white-hot cloud drained out, dissipating in the slight afternoon breeze, a squad found two crispy critters inside. — Charles W. Sasser and Craig Roberts, One Shot One Kill, p. 198, 1990
- Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 54, 1991
- It's a two-story dump on North Bond Street and, of course, there are no witnesses—just a bunch of burned furniture and one crispy critter in the middle room. — David Simon, Homicide, p. 447, 1991

2 a badly burnt hospital patient US, 1988–1989

- Maledicta, p. 35, 1988–1989: "More Milwaukee medical maledicta"

3 a burnt pizza US, 1996

- Maledicta, p. 10, 1996: "Domino's pizza jargon"

criss-cross adjective

of the Eastern Orthodox faith US

- I offered her a job dancing in a Hollywood night club owned by some criss-cross dudes I know. — Joseph Wambaugh, Harbor Nocturne, p. 43, 2012

criss-cross noun

an amphetamine tablet, especially Benzedrine™ (amphetamine sulfate) US, 1993

From the cross scoring on the tablet; possibly a play on CRIS, a central nervous system stimulant (amphetamine).

- US Department of Justice, Street Terms, August 1993

cristina; cris; crist; christina noun

methamphetamine US, 1971

A personification of CRYSTAL (powdered methamphetamine).

- Walter L. Way, The Drug Scene, 1977
- And amidst all this Crist' poppin' and wristwatches / I just sit back and just watch[.] — Eminem (Marshall Mathers), Marshall Mathers, 2000

critical adjective

1 impressive, amazing US, 1990

- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 3, November 1990
- Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 42, 1997

2 (used of a wave) very steep, threatening to break at any moment US, 1963

- Grant W. Kuhns, On Surfing, p. 115, 1963

croak noun

a mixture of crack and an amphetamine US, 1993

- Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 51, 1993

croagies noun

the testicles US, 1985

- She didn't do anything like that, try to kick me in the croagies or anything. — George V. Higgins, Penance for Jerry Kennedy, p. 191, 1985

croak verb

1 to die UK, 1812

From the death rattle.

- Old Mr. Keller croaked, but he was almost eighty years old, he shoulda croaked[.] — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, p. 59, 1970

2 to kill someone UK, 1823

- Let her go ahead and croak him. — Chester Himes, The Real Cool Killers, p. 45, 1959
- I recall pointing to the loaded double-barreled shotgun on my wall and replying, with a smile, that I would croak at least two of them before they go away. — Hunter S. Thompson, Hell's Angels, p. 143, 1966
- "Party" tried his fists and muscle until the pimp game croaked him. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 41, 1969
- When I heard they croaked Charlie I freak out, almost went back to shootin' scag. — Charles W. Moore, A Brick for Mister Jones, p. 105, 1975

3 to inform on someone, to betray someone US, 1964

- R. Frederick West, God's Gambler, p. 223, 1964

croaker noun

1 a doctor, especially a company doctor UK, 1879

Sometimes abbreviated to "croak."

- We'll knock off this croaker. — William J. Spillard and Pence James, Needle in a Haystack, p. 18, 1945

- The old croaker on 102nd finally lost his mind altogether and no drugstore would fill his scripts[.] — William Burroughs, Junkie, pp. 25–26, 1953

- From this croaker up on 76th Street. He used to write for me, you know, scripts, prescriptions. I turned a trick with him. — James Mills, The Panic in Needle Park, p. 91, 1966

- He told me he knew of a couple of people who were keeping up habits making croakers. — Herbert Huncke, The Evening Sun Turned Crimson, p. 84, 1980

croak noun

1 an unpleasant or worthless person, object or experience; a waste of time US, 1944

Contemptuously abbreviated from the familiar CROCK OF SHIT.

- Your ideas are a croak, I added to myself. — Jack Kerouac, The Dharma Bums, p. 72, 1958

2 a person with medical problems which are the result of abusive living US, 1978

- Maledicta, p. 68, Summer/Winter 1978: "Common patient-directed pejoratives used by medical personnel"

3 a computer program that normally functions but fails if modified at all US, 1983

- Guy L. Steele et al., The Hacker's Dictionary, p. 50, 1983

4 nonsense US, 1962

An abbreviation of CROCK OF SHIT.

- "Now what kind of croak are you giving us?" No croak. It's every word gospel. — Ken Kesey, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, p. 297, 1962
- "Now, that's a croak," the kid said, cocking his head insolently. — Malcolm Braly, It's Cold Out There, p. 37, 1966

croaked adjective

drunk US, 1917

- In the first place, they were both slightly croaked. — J.D. Salinger, Catcher in the Rye, p. 86, 1951
- I had traveling money and got croaked in the bar downstairs. — Jack Kerouac, On the Road, pp. 76–77, 1957
- The producer arrived slightly croaked and drank a half-bottle of Scotch before he lay naked on the waterproofed bed and the bizarre scene began. — Xaviera Hollander, The Happy Hooker, p. 247, 1972
- Both of them were half-croaked, drunken leers on their faces. — Herbert Huncke, The Evening Sun Turned Crimson, p. 119, 1980

croak of shit noun

1 an unpleasant or worthless person, object or experience; a waste of time US, 1951

- Now, stop stallin', man, or else admit all this professional stuff you're talkin', about is a croak of shit. — 48 Hours, 1982

2 nonsense, lies US, 1945

- They said God took her away. That's a croak of shit. God don't do evil things like that[.] — Rita Mae Brown, Rubyfruit Jungle, p. 27, 1973
- Now, stop stallin', man, or else admit all this professional stuff you're talking about is a croak of shit. — 48 Hours, 1982 crop noun

a fifth of a gallon of wine US, 1975

- American Speech, p. 57, Spring–Summer 1975: "Razorback slang"

crop dust verb

to break wind US, 2000

- The average person crop dusts a room about 14 times a day. — Joy Masoff, Oh, Yuck, p. 54, 2000

cross noun

► in a cross

in trouble US, 1976

- I go for you, Sam, I think you're boss / but don't think you can ever put me in a cross. — Dennis Weppman et al., The Life, p. 40, 1976

CROSS verb

1 to betray someone UK, 1821

- Seven years later she would tally up and happily cross me into prison. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 110, 1969

2 to cheat a cheat US, 1950

- Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 55, 1987

cross bar hotel noun

a jail or prison US, 1865

- Swinging Syllables, 1959
- the poor jerk from Camden you take up the river to the Crossbars Hotel. — Darryl Ponicsan, The Last Detail, p. 181, 1970
- So Butch said he could keep me out of the Crossbar Hotel for a while if I would send him another hundred[.] — Joe Bob Briggs, Joe Bob Goes to the Drive-In, p. 32, 1987
- "If they ignore [the laws] they're going to end up staying in the Virginia Beach crossbar hotel," says Virginia Beach police officer Lou Thruston. — Washington Times, 24th May 1996

cross buzz noun

the effect of combining alcohol and drugs US, 2005

- Connie Eble, Campus Slang: University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Spring 2014

cross-faded adjective

under the influence of both alcohol and drugs US, 2005

- The intoxicating effects of alcohol and marijuana have been widely studied, but their combined effect—getting "Cross-faded"—is woefully underexplored scientific territory. — Gabe Bergado, "What Happens to Your Body When You get Drunk and Stoned at the Same Time?"; www.popscl.com, 21st March 2014
- Connie Eble, Campus Slang: University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Spring 2015

crossfire noun

in confidence games, conversation between confederates in the swindle that draws the victim into the swindle US, 1940
Originally used to describe the quick banter of vaudeville, then adapted to criminal purposes.

- Now, when Blue came back he'd need me to set up the crossfire to make it logical to Dot that the flue and the mail-away were necessary and fair arrangements for us all. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Trick Baby, p. 27, 1969 crossfire verb

(used of a racehorse) to clip the rear hooves together while running US, 1951

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 22, 1951

cross my heart and hope to die used as an oath, often with humor US, 1926

- No jive, cross my heart and hope to die, Darling. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Airtight Willie and Me, p. 75, 1979

cross my heart and hope to spit used as an oath and pledge US, 1957

Popularized by Theodore "Beaver" Cleaver on the US television comedy Leave it to Beaver (CBS and ABC, 1957–63), in place of the more common "cross my heart and hope to die." Used with referential humor by those who had watched the show as children.

- "Cross my heart and hope to spit." He spat into the bushes. — Bess Kaplan, The Empty Chair, p. 189, 1978

crossover verb

to leave one youth gang and join a rival gang US, 1995

- — Bill Valentine, Gang Intelligence Manual, p. 75, 1995

crossroad noun

an amphetamine tablet identified by its cross-scoring US, 1968
Less commonly heard than CROSS-TOPI.

- Some of the names describe the drugs' effects, such as "helpers," "copilots," "Los Angeles turn arounds," or their shape, color and markings—"hearts," "footballs," "blackjacks," "crossroads." — Phil Hirsch, Hooked, pp. 51–52, 1968
- — National Institute on Drug Abuse, What do they call it again, 1980

crossroader noun

an itinerant card cheat or thief US, 1889

- Most thieves are crossroaders—they travel around, so they can't have a family. — Harry King, Box Man, p. 76, 1972
- [I]n a court of law, if a blackjack Dealer gets terribly unlucky and his table keeps losing fifteen nights in a row, there is no legal proof that he is cheating for the benefit of an "outside" man or "crossroader," that he is "dumping out." — Mario Puzo, Inside Las Vegas, p. 180, 1977

cross top noun

a tablet of Benzedrine™ (amphetamine sulfate), a central nervous system stimulant US, 1971

From the appearance: white tablets with a cross cut into the surface.

- — Walter L. Way, The Drug Scene, 1977
- Actually, the cross tops from the early '70s were sometimes decent-grade methamphetamines, not the early '80s-style caffeine crap. — Don Bolles, Retrohell, p. 50, 1997
- I suspected they were speed, known on the street as "cross-tops." — Lora Shaner, Madam, p. 213, 1999

crostown noun

the air space above Hanoi US, 1990

- — Joseph Tuso, Singing the Vietnam Blues, p. 249, 1990: Glossary

croth noun

a woman US, 1973

- I come in here, I open the door, and there's this croth at the desk there. — George V. Higgins, The Digger's Game, p. 180, 1973

Crotch nickname

the US Marines Corps US, 1953

- "There are a lot of mean sons-of-bitches in the Crotch." — Martin Russ, Happy Hunting Ground, pp. 33–34, 1968
- I been busted so many times I couldn't make lance corporal if I stayed in the Crotch for thirty years. — Philip Caputo, A Rumor of War, p. 133, 1977
- They talked about how much they hated the Marine Corps—"the Crotch," "the Green Motherfucker." — Robert A. Anderson, Cooks & Bakers, p. 118, 1982
- Anyway, I go, "Were you in the Crotch?" He says, "The Crotch?" I say, "Yeah, the Marine Corps. Were you around Da Nang?" — James Lee Burke, Sunset Limited, p. 134, 1998

crotch crickets noun

pubic lice US, 1971

- Oh shit, I've never had saber-toothed crotch crickets before. — Beatrice Sparks (writing as "Anonymous"), Jay's Journal, p. 130, 1979
- On top of being skinny, our crotch crickets were very prevalent, and the bedbugs were everywhere. — Donald Knox, Death March, p. 401, 1981
- — Michael Dalton Johnson, Talking Trash with Redd Foxx, p. 51, 1994

crotch light noun

in the pornography industry, a light used to illuminate the genitals of the performers US, 1977

- They said, "What am I doing here" and see all these strange faces and people holding crotch lights. — Stephen Ziplow, The Film Maker's Guide to Pornography, p. 14, 1977

crotch magazine noun

a pornographic magazine US, 1986

- "My name's Whistler," he said when the attendant looked up from his crotch magazine, open to the centerfold in which a girl of stunning beauty opened her legs for anyone who cared to ogle her. — Robert Campbell, In La-La Land We Trust, p. 95, 1986

crotch rot noun

any fungal infection in the crotch US, 1967

- Sometimes your chops for action and your terror would reach a different balance and you'd go looking for it everywhere, and nothing would happen, except a fire ant would fly up your nose or you'd grow a crotch rot.[.] — Michael Herr, Dispatches, p. 1962, 1977
- Maybe we would be able to clear up the cases of trench foot and crotch rot that seemed to be plaguing everyone. — Gary Linderer, The Eyes of the Eagle, p. 118, 1991
- — Sally Williams, "Strang" Words, p. 137, 1994
- Aside from some improvement in my jungle sores, crotch rot, and immersion foot, I rejoined my unit in much worse shape than when I'd left. — Nelson DeMille, Up Country, pp. 280–281, 2002

crotch row noun

in a striptease performance, seats very near the performers US, 1973

- — Sherman Louis Serge, The Language of Show Biz, p. 63, 1973
- — Don Wilmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, 1981

crotch shot noun

a photograph focused on a person's genitals US, 1973

- Customer always want smiling crotch shots. — George Paul Csicsery (Editor), The Sex Industry, p. 163, 1973
- The explicitness of the crotch shots was made for pigs like you who need the anatomy lesson. — The Village Voice, 25th July 2000

crow noun

1 a black person US, 1823

Offensive.

- It was a dangerous practice to call a Negro anything that could be loosely construed as insulting because of the centuries of their having been called niggers, jigs, dinges, blackbirds, crows, boots and spooks. — Maya Angelou, I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings, p. 106, 1969

2 a mawkish, old-fashioned person US, 1945

- A corny person is a "cornball" or a "crow." — Women's Digest, p. 40, September 1945

3 an electronic warfare specialist US, 1980

Vietnam war usage.

- He knew the "crows" in the back of the plane—four electronic warfare officers—were doing the same. — William C. Anderson, Bat 21, p. 3, 1980

4 an eagle insignia in the US Navy US, 1905

- She hadn't felt so powerful since those days when she'd first earned the "crow" of a petty officer, taking on the responsibility of command over subordinates. — Joseph Wambaugh, Finnegan's Week, p. 29, 1993

crowbait noun

a horse, especially an older horse US, 1851

- — American Speech, p. 270, December 1958: "Ranching terms from eastern Washington" crowd noun

a fat person US, 1970

- — William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Uptight People, p. 8, 1970

crowded cabin noun

in poker, a hand consisting of three cards of one rank and a pair US, 1988

Conventionally known as a "full house."

- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 25, 1988

crowd-surf verb

to pass over the heads of a crowd, propelled and supported by the hands of that crowd US, 1992

- Men, now you can stage-dive and crowd-surf, and maybe get a look at the band before the security nazis throw you off the stage. — talk.bizarre, 18th January 1992
- With the club's tables and chairs tucked away, the flannel-clad crowd had plenty of room to dance and crowd-surf, which the band encouraged. — Buffalo (New York) News, p. 5, 25th October 1993
- They had a bunch of people, and they would make guys crowd surf. — Suroosh Alvi et al., The Vice Guide, p. 313, 2002

crowd-surfer noun

a person who allows himself to be passed over the heads of a crowd, propelled and supported by the hands of that crowd US, 1992

- Nearly lost my earring when a crowd-surfer kicked me in the head (earring back knocked off, post bent sideways). — talk.bizarre, 31st January 1993

crowd-surfing noun

passing over the heads of a crowd, propelled and supported by the hands of that crowd CANADA, 1989

- [C]rowd surfing, where the stage-diver is passed over the heads of moshers in apparent gratitude for not having squashed anyone. — The Oregonian, p. C4, 7th December 1992

Crow Jim noun

anti-white racial discrimination by black people US, 1956

A reversal of the common term JIM CROW for anti-black discrimination.

- Even in their chosen field of "traditional" jazz the authors are unreliable due to the constant intrusion of a form of racial bias known in the trade as "Crow-Jim." — San Francisco Examiner, p. 3 (1), 7th January 1957
- Archie Shepp had not yet passed form Fire Music into increasingly virulent Crow-Jim nihilism. — Lester Bangs, Psychotic Reactions and Carburetor Dung, p. 41, 1987

crown *nouna hat US, 1976

- Sported a hand-painted tie that hung down to his fly / And he had on a gold-dust crown. — Michael H. Agar, The Journal of American Folklore, p. 177, April 1971
- A candy-striped tie hung down to his fly / And he sported a gold-dust crown. — Dennis Wepman et al., The Life, p. 54, 1976
- — Bill Valentine, Gang Intelligence Manual, p. 110, 1995

crow's feet *nounwrinkles at the corner of the eyes UK, 1374

- I told you, he's got that outdoor good-guy look. Even has crow's-feet when he squints. — Elmore Leonard, Riding the Rap, p. 103, 1995

crow's foot *nounin electric line work, a device formally known as Exaxirod tri-unit US, 1980

- — A.B. Chance Co., Lineman's Slang Dictionary, 1980

CRS disease *nouna sudden loss of memory US, 1997

- The person in question "can't remember shit."
- The other guys caught the CRS disease. — Dee Holmes, The Caleb Tree, p. 148, 2000

crud *noun1 a contemptible person US, 1930

- Originally Scottish dialect for "excrement."
- The crud pulled out his money to try to bribe me. [Steve Canyon comic strip] — San Francisco Examiner, p. 14, 24th March 1947
- No bums like these cruds. — Hubert Selby Jr., Last Exit to Brooklyn, p. 123, 1957
- The furious District Attorney of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., who describes his town's Easter vacation visitors as "College cruds," put it too mildly. — Los Angeles Herald-Examiner, p. B3, 5th April 1967

2 dried or sticky semen US, 1967

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 52, 1967

3 any sexually transmitted infection US, 1951

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 52, 1967

4 a notional disease, covering many ailments, real and imaginary US, 1932

- — American Speech, p. 304, December 1947: "Imaginary diseases in army and navy parlance"

5 snow that does not produce good snowboarding US, 1990

- — Elena Garcia, A Beginner's Guide to Zen and the Art of Snowboarding, p. 121, 1990

crudball *nounan odious person US, 1987

- A yahoo is a crudball, a stupid person. — William McQuade, SAT Success, p. 90, 1987
- Yes, this crudball clearly aspires to join the net.cosmic.asshole Hall of Fame. — alt.flame, 3rd November 1987
- I shared it with crudballs who won't give me the time of day now. — David Simon and Edward Burns, The Corner, p. 103, 1997
- "You were just saying, hey, you no-major, somewhere-down-the-money-list crudball, pick up my bag and be happy you know me." — Dan Jenkins, The Money-Whipped Steer-Job Three-Jack Give-Up Artist, p. 11, 2001

crudded up *adjective1 infected with a sexually transmitted disease US, 1997

- It's not possible that she's all crudded up? — Chasing Amy, 1997

cruddy *adjective1 useless, worthless, unpleasant, disgusting US, 1947

- Created from CRUD (filth).
- "Go back to your nice little apartment and get the hell out of this cruddy divest. Just go." — Curt Cannon, Die Hard, p. 11, 1953
- Oh, my aching, breaking, cruddy, bloody back! — Max Shulman, Rally Round the Flag, Boys!, p. 20, 1957
- Is this the Mothers of Invention recording under a different name in a last ditch attempt to get their cruddy music on the radio? — Frank Zappa, Cruising With Ruben & The Jets, 1968

2 encrusted with dirt or filth US, 1949

- This is where you're heading. A cruddy lung, smoking through a hole in your throat. Do you really want that? — Clerks, 1994
- Can I sit on the chair? I don't want to get all cruddy. — Airheads, 1994

crudie *nounan unsophisticated rustic US, 1968

- — Mary Swift, Campus Slang (University of Texas), 1968

crud up *verbto foul something; to spoil something US, 1963

- There never was much around Houston or Dallas to crud up, but the limestone hills and fast rivers of Central Texas—that's a shame. — Molly Ivins, Molly Ivins Can't Say That, Can She?, p. 26, 1991

crudzine *nouna poorly written and/or poorly produced fan magazine US, 1976

- — American Speech, p. 53, Spring 1978: "Star trek lives: trekker slang"
- — American Speech, p. 25, Spring 1982: "The language of science fiction fan magazines"

cruff *nounany unpleasant, unidentified substance US, 1983

- — Guy L. Steele et al., The Hacker's Dictionary, p. 50, 1983

cruffy *adjectivein computing, poorly designed or poorly built US, 1997

- — Guy Steele, Coevolution Quarterly, p. 29, Spring 1981: "Computer slang"
- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 114, 1991

cruise *nouna male homosexual who picks up multiple short-term sexual partners US, 1950

- That cruise we robbed looked like a bum but he went for four C's on the shake. — Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 53, 1950 cruise *verb1 to search for a casual sex partner, usually homosexual; to pursue a person as a casual sex partner, especially by eye contact US, 1923

- "Oh that charming young scamp, or is it 'camp,' who passed me on the stairs on his way out cruising." — Reginald Harvey, Park Beat, p. 76, 1959
- [T]wo anxious fairies cruise me. — John Rechy, City of Night, p. 194, 1963
- I don't get it—you cruise Atlantic City or something? — Mart Crowley, The Boys in the Band, p. 121, 1968
- At first it simply didn't occur to me that this number was cruising me. — John Francis Hunter, The Gay Insider, p. 35, 1971

2 to drive US, 1957

With a suggestion of carefree elan.

- "Whaddya say, hey?" he said to Comfort. "Let's do some cruisin'." — Max Shulman, Rally Round the Flag, Boys!, p. 58, 1957
- Wait, wait, I gotta cruise by this afternoon and run a little business if you know what I'm talking about. — Dazed and Confused, 1993

3 to take someone, to lead someone US, 1946

- Rue Auberg; fly little chick gets stranglehold on my lapel, tries to cruise me up to her apartment[.] — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 197, 1946

► cruisin' for a bruisin'heading for trouble, especially a physical beating US, 1947

- — Newsweek, p. 28, 8th October 1951
- — Dobie Gillis Teenage Slangue Dictionary, 1962
- Your dad is really cruisin' for a bruising, Carlotta. — C.D. Payne, Youth in Revolt, p. 376, 1993 cruise joint *nouna bar or other establishment where people gather in search of sexual partners US, 1966

- "We'd hit the cruise joints around Chicago looking for a well-heeled out of town faggot in the city for kicks," explained Gene. — Johnny Shearer, The Male Hustler, p. 36, 1966

cruisemobile *nounany desirable car US, 1978

- — Lillian Glass with Richard Liebmann-Smith, How to Deprogram Your Valley Girl, p. 27, 1982
- The hot exhausts of Chevy Biscaynes, Pontiac Catalinas, Mercury Montereys, and the rest of the road's superwide, electrigradle, V8 cruisemobiles muddy the atmosphere[.] — William Clark, Temples of Sound, p. 193, 2003

cruiser *noun1 a prostitute US, 1868

- — Ruth Tadosca et al., The Intelligent Woman's Guide to Dirty Words, p. 3, 1973

2 a surfer who approaches surfing with a casualness that borders on laziness US, 1988

- — Michael V. Anderson, The Bad, Rad, Not to Forget Way Cool Beach and Surf Discriptionary, p. 5, 1988

3 a gang member US

- They hire it done. He'd just find an Eighteenth Streeter or some other local cruiser and put a ticket on her. — Joseph Wambaugh, Hollywood Hills, p. 84, 2010 cruising *nounthe recreational activity of searching for a casual sex partner, usually homosexual UK, 1927

- There was quite a bit of forthright cruising (that's the gay word for giving a guy "the eye") going on [.] — Screw, 24th November 1969
- Cruising, he had long ago decided, was a lot like hitchhiking. It was best to dress like the people you wanted to pick you up. — Armistead Maupin, Tales of the City, 1978

cruisy *adjective(of a place) characterized by a high degree of activity by homosexual men looking for sexual partners US, 1949

Also spelt "cruisey."

- Third Avenue is also cruisy in the later afternoon. — John Francis Hunter, The Gay Insider, p. 120, 1971
- A place where one can expect to find many persons on the make is termed cruisy. — Wayne Dynes, Homolexis, p. 39, 1985
- You can go out and make good friends without it being a cruisey scenario. — Attitude, p. 34, October 2003

crut; croot *nouna new military recruit US, 1897

- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 12, 1968

cruller *nounthe head US, 1942

- "Toady to the turban, droop, or snipe a Stayman off your son's cruller with a bow and arrow at a hundred paces," says Mr. Big. — Harry Haenigsen, Live's Like That, 1947

crumb *noun1 a despicable person US, 1919

- "One move outta you or your other crumbs and I'll have this in your guts," Crazy rasped. — Irving Shulman, The Amboy Dukes, p. 213, 1947
- I think I remember Larry sayin'—"Mayor Lindsay is a crumb!" — Eugene Boe, The Wit & Wisdom of Archie Bunker, p. 102, 1971
- "I began to realize that what I'd promised Goodman would make me nothing but a crumb, workin' and slavin' for a few bucks." — Martin Gosch, The Last Testament of Lucky Luciano, p. 26, 1975

- [L]andlady to a dozen or so crumbs who flopped into her furnished rooms for a week or a year[.] — William Brasler, City Dogs, p. 77, 1976
- 2 a body louse US, 1863
- — Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World's Toughest Prison, p. 796, 1962
 - — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 29, 1980
- 3 a small piece of crack cocaine US, 1994
- — US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994

crumb box noun

in circus and carnival usage, a small suitcase or box containing personal belongings US, 1981

- — Don Wilmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 67, 1981

crumb bum *noun1 a lowly, inept person US, 1934

- All the guys have gone into the army; only the crumb-bums are left. — Hal Ellison, Summer Street, p. 15, 1953
- Spell: untailing me from my friends at Malibu beach, referred to by my father as the beachniks or the crumbums or just plain bums[.] — Frederick Kohner, Gidget Goes Hawaiian, p. 2, 1961

2 a gambler who places very small and very conservative bets US, 1950

- — The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, p. 123, May 1950

crumb castle noun

in circus and carnival usage, a dining tent US, 1981

- — Don Wilmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 67, 1981

crumb-catcher *nouna young child US, 1962

- I said, "Well, I can dig it, buddy, 'cause I'm hooked up myself. I got a dough-roll [wife] and two crumb-catchers [children], you know." — Bruce Jackson, In the Life, p. 152, 1972
- What about this little crumb-catcher you got in the oven here? — Edwin Torres, After Hours, p. 378, 1979

crumb crunchers noun

the teeth US, 1945

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 23, 1945

crumb-crusher; crumb-cruncher *nouna child, especially a very young one US, 1959

- — Robert George Reitsner, The Jazz Titans, p. 153, 1960
- — Frank Prewitt and Francis Schaeffer, Vacaville Vocabulary, 1961–1962
- I hadn't heard about a "crumb crusher." — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 114, 1969
- The little bitch—outta the clear blue—told me one night that she was going to have a crumb crusher! — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 45, 1973
- She ain't into nothin'; with two crumbcrushers and no ambition. — Donald Goines, The Busting Out of an Ordinary Man, p. 21, 1985

crumb crushers noun

the lips US, 1957

- Just keep your crumb crushers shut, Monk said. — Herbert Simmons, Corner Boy, p. 219, 1957

crumbo *noun► el crumbo

a socially inept person US, 1959

Pseudo Spanish.

- — American Speech, p. 155, May 1959: "Gator (University of Florida) slang" crumbs noun

a small amount of money US, 1970

An offshoot of BREAD.

- — Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 42, 1970
- — Kenn "Naz" W. Young, Naz's Underground Dictionary, p. 23, 1973

crumb-snatcher noun

a child; a baby US, 1958

- — Robert George Reitsner, The Jazz Titans, p. 153, 1960
- — Frank Prewitt and Francis Schaeffer, Vacaville Vocabulary, 1961–1962
- I was about twelve strokes from a nuclear orgasm when I realized the crumb snatchers were on my front porch. — Eric Jerome Dickey, Cheaters, p. 13, 1999

crummy *adjective1 inferior US, 1915

- "Of all the lousy, crummy, garish, flamboyant, undisciplined, stupid, corny writing," continued Mr. Oliver, "that I have ever had the misfortune to read, this is absolutely the—Will you stop blubbering?" — Max Shulman, The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis, pp. 149–150, 1951
- "That's the crummy part of it." — Chandler Brossard, Who Walks in Darkness, p. 80, 1952
- When it came to a choice of being nice and dead or crummy and alive, the guy would work overtime at being a heel. — Jim Thompson, Savage Night, p. 40, 1953
- Once at Ames with Minnesota Fats and then again at Arthur's in that cheap, crummy poolroom. — The Hustler, 1961

2 lice-infested UK, 1859

- — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 29, 1980

crump *verb1 to die US, 1958

- — Sally Williams, "Strong" Words, p. 137, 1994

2 (used of a hospital patient) to become suddenly sicker, especially without hope of recovering US, 1980

- — Maledicta, p. 31, 1988–1989: "Medical maledicta from San Francisco"

crump out verb

to succumb to exhaustion; to die US, 1953

- Just the implication that, if she keeps her equipment in regular use, she'll be all set for sex until she crumps out altogether. — Susan Rako, The Hormone of Desire, p. 33, 1996 crunch *noun1 a most severe test of strength, courage, nerve, skill, etc. UK, 1939

- A kid points out that we've come to the big crunch. If you don't go to the dean you're suspended and you have the draft and prison. — James Simon Kunen, The Strawberry Statement, p. 62, 1968
- "Crunch" is a word currently favored by the keener journalists. It means the showdown, the moment of truth. — Gore Vidal, Myra Breckinridge, p. 202, 1968

2 a number sign (#) on a computer keyboard US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 39, 1991

3 a hospital patient with multiple fractures US, 1989

- — Maledicta, p. 32, 1988–1989: "Medical maledicta from San Francisco"

crunch *verb1 to flirt US, 2002

From the 1999 movie Never Been Kissed.

- "Josie, Guy is totally crunching on you." — Dictionary of New Terms (Hope College), 2002

2 to analyze something, especially a large amount of data US, 1983

- — Guy L. Steele, Coevolution Quarterly, p. 29, 1981: "Computer Slang"
- — Guy L. Steele et al., The Hacker's Dictionary, p. 51, 1983
- We did it by crunching data. — Point Break, 1991

crunch and munch noun

crack cocaine US, 1993

From the drug's arguable resemblance to breakfast cereal or a snack food.

- — Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 51, 1993 crunch case noun

a hospital patient with a severe head injury US, 1994

- — Sally Williams, "Strong" Words, p. 137, 1994

cruncher *noun1 a dent in a surfboard that can be repaired without a resin filler US, 1986

- — George Colendich, The Ding Repair Scriptures, p. 88, 1986

2 a foot US, 1946

- Gee, you feel it way down to your crunchers. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 100, 1946

crunchy *noun1 the sidewalk US, 1945

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 9, 1945

2 a foot soldier, or member of the infantry US, 1951

Korean and then Vietnam war usage.

- Armed helicopters were especially reassuring to the "crunchies," the ground infantrymen who depended on them to deliver accurate supporting fire. — Shelby L. Stanton, The Rise and Fall of an American Army, p. 86, 1985

crunchy adjective

embodying the values or at least the trappings of the 1960s counterculture; a person who embodies these values US, 1990

An adjective often associated with GRANOLA, used to describe the throwback person.

- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Spring 1990
- "A crunchy is a '90s hippie," says Scott Blasik, a young poet from Durham, New Hampshire. "A hiking-boot-wearing, granola-eating, Grateful Dead/Blues Traveler-listening type of person." — David Shenk and Steve Silberman, Skeleton Key, p. 48, 1994
- — Andy Ihnatko, Cyberspeak, p. 48, 1997
- True, they [the Indigo Girls] are crunchy lesbian-coffeehouse-alternate-rock, and I know you hide the CD when people come over, but it's time we make these girls cool again. — Suroosh Alvi et al., The Vice Guide, p. 17, 2002

crunk *noun1 an excited state US, 2001

- Iconz take a geeky, white American family clubbing and they all get their crunk on. — Mixmag, p. 38, December 2001

2 used as a substitute for any profanity US, 1994

A device created by Conan O'Brien in 1994.

- "What the crunk are you talking about?" — Dictionary of New Terms (Hope College), 2002

crunk adjective

excellent; intense US, 1995

Rap coinage; a variation of CRANKED (intensified).

- Take him out and take his money / Then I spit on the punk / Now I'm crunk[.] — Three 6 Mafia, Tear Da Club Up, 1996
- But around here we get it crunk when ya / Bounce with me. — Lil Bow Wow, Bounce With Me, 2000
- I go out to clubs. I love to dance and get "crunk." — Alison Pollet, MTV's Real World Chicago, p. 104, 2001

crunked adjective

excited US, 2001

Rap usage; a variation of CRUNK (excellent).

- Best bit: When overcrunked dad grabs a podium dancer and gets a smack. — Mixmag, p. 38, December 2001
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 3, October 2002

crush *noun1 an infatuation US, 1884

- RUTH: Do you remember your first crush? LIANNA: My first crush. . . I used to go to camp up north in the summer. There was this one counselor, she was fifteen maybe sixteen [. . .] I had sort of a crush on her. — John Sayles, Lianna, 1983

- 2 a hat US, 1916
- Marcus Hanna Boulware, Life and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947
- 3 in pool, the opening or break shot US, 1993
- Mike Shamos, The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Billiards, p. 66, 1993

crushed adjective

- ugly US, 1993
- People Magazine, p. 73, 19th July 1993

crusher noun

- 1 a police officer UK, 1835
- “Look, Mr. Hyatt, I just spent three hours talking to the crushers, and I’m about talked out.” — Malcolm Braly, The Protector, p. 131, 1979
- 2 a powerful, hard-breaking wave US, 1964
- John Severson, Modern Surfing Around the World, p. 165, 1964

crush out verb

- to escape US, 1960
- “Betcha he crushes outta there,” he heard under the thunderous music. — George Clayton Johnson, Ocean’s Eleven, p. 40, 1960

crust noun

- nerve, courage, gall US, 1900
- You got a crust asking Allbright to use ammunition on that slob. — Raymond Chandler, The Long Goodbye, p. 75, 1953

crust verb

- to insult someone US, 1945
- Lou Shelly, Hepcats Live Talk Dictionary, p. 9, 1945

crusty adjective

- 1 dirty, shabby US, 1972
- Helen Dahlsgog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 16, 1972
 - A crustie boy examined his bourbon-and-scotch soaked pants and scratched his head, raising a small cloud of dust. — Linda Jaivin, Rock n Roll Babes from Outer Space, p. 138, 1996
 - “I couldn’t stand sitting next to that crusty man in the theater.” — Rick Ayers (Editor), Berkeley High Slang Dictionary, p. 17, 2004
- 2 crude, vulgar US, 1964
- J. R. Friss, A Dictionary of Teenage Slang (Mt. Diablo High), 1964
 - Current Slang, p. 2, Fall 1966

crut noun

- a disease US, 1947
- Benny clutched his stomach and rolled his eyes. “Me too. I got the crut.” — Irving Shulman, The Amboy Dukes, p. 73, 1947

crutch noun

- 1 an improvised holder for the short butt of a marijuana cigarette US, 1938
- The term of choice before ROACH CLIP came on the scene.
- She doubled the empty match cover over backward and put the butt of the cigarette up in the fold to make a crutch, and she brought the cardboard up to her lips and took three deep final drags off the short roach. — Thurston Scott, Cure it with Honey, p. 69, 1951
- 2 in pool, a device used to support the cue stick for a hard-to-reach shot US, 1990
- As the terminology suggests, the device is scorned by skilled players.
- Steve Rushin, Pool Cool, p. 11, 1990

Crutches nickname

- Las Cruces, New Mexico US, 1970
- Current Slang, p. 16, Spring 1970

cry noun

- the cry
- the best US, 1955
- Q: Charlie, how would you describe the house parties? A: It’s the cry! The latest! — Max Shulman, Guided Tour of Campus Humor, p. 106, 1955

cry baby noun

- a child swindler who appeals for money from strangers with pitiful tales of woe, accompanied if need be by tears US, 1982
- Bill Reilly, Big Al’s Official Guide to Chicagoese, p. 23, 1982

crying adjective

- used as a negative intensifier US, 1942
- Yet no one came up with a crying dime. — Nelson Algren, The Man With the Golden Arm, p. 136, 1949

crying towel noun

- a notional linen given to someone who is a chronic complainer US, 1928
- Give Challee a crying towel, with the compliments of the Caine! — Herman Wouk, The Caine Mutiny, p. 479, 1951
 - Zander Hollander and Paul Zimmerman, Football Lingo, p. 28, 1967 cry me a river!

- used for expressing a lack of sympathy in the face of an implicit solicitation of same US, 1995
- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 3, April 1995
 - Huh, cry me a river. Three kings. — David Chase, Sopranos, 25th August 1997

cryptie; crippie noun

- in computing, a cryptographer US, 1991
- Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 115, 1991

crystal noun

- 1 a powdered narcotic, especially methamphetamine US, 1964
- She believes crystals are a form of Methedrine and that “they’re called chicken feed because they’re actually given to chickens.” — San Francisco News Call Bulletin, p. 3, 17th February 1964
 - Methamphetamine hydrochloride, known colloquially as methedrine or crystal, and going under such trade names as Desoxyin, is of the same chemical family as Benzidine[...]. — The San Francisco Oracle, 1966
 - Crystal got to be real popular. — John Sinclair, Guitar Army, p. 291, 1972
 - ROLLERGIRL: This stuff burns. DINK: It’s crystal. — Boogie Nights, 1997

2 phencyclidine US, 1977

- Recorded as a current PCP alias.
- Drummer, p. 77, 1977

crystal chin noun

- a fighter who is easily injured with blows to the chin US, 1981
- Redbeard Mahoney in his time had been a merchant seaman, a renowned arm wrestler, and a pretty good professional boxer, except for his crystal chin. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Glitter Dome, p. 83, 1981

crystal palace noun

- an apartment or house occupied by amphetamine and/or methamphetamine abusers US, 1997
- Walter L. Way, The Drug Scene, p. 107, 1997

c’s noun

- 1 combat rations, the standard meals eaten by US troops in the field, consisting of an individual ration of packaged precooked foods which can be eaten hot or cold US, 1968
- We carried two kinds of hot rations: C’s and long-range rations. — Martin Russ, Happy Hunting Ground, p. 210, 1968
 - “Let me show you guys how to eat C’s,” the Professor said. — Joe Haldeman, War Year, p. 53, 1972
 - First thing that morning the Anachronism drew a case of C’s for each of US. — William Pelfrey, The Big V, p. 29, 1972
 - Have your people shaved by noon tomorrow and tell them to eat up all their C’s—we gotta pallet coming in the morning. — Charles Anderson, The Grunts, p. 90, 1976
 - “You hungry any?” “Inna sorta gen’ral way, yeah. You mean C’s?” — Larry Heinemann, Close Quarters, p. 142, 1977
 - Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 32, 1991
 - Doc Baldwin always collected discarded C’s for this purpose. — Christopher Ronnau, Blood Trails, p. 62, 2006
 - I don’t mind the C’s but Walers hates them. — James Slosson, Unmailed Letters from an REMF, p. 109, 2009

2 food US, 1968

- An abbreviation of “calories”; “to get your c’s” is “to eat.”
- Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 93, 1968

CS

- used as a warning not to deface a piece of graffiti US, 2000
- An abbreviation of CON SAFOS, which literally means “with safety.” Used in English conversation by Spanish-speaking youth.
- Often, gang writings will be concluded with the initials c/s. — Robert Jackson and Wesley McBride, Understanding Street Gangs, p. 64, 2000

C sponge noun

- a contraceptive sponge US, 1997
- They’d blame it on the fact that I was wearing a c-sponge, saying it would make them numb. — Anthony Petkovich, The X Factory, p. 99, 1997

CT noun

- 1 a woman who signals an interest in sex with a man but does not have sex with him US, 1971
- An abbreviation of COCK TEASE.
- I responded by emptying my Bud on her lap, those Texas CT’s sure are somethin’ else. — Richard Meltzer, A Whore Just Like the Rest, p. 214, 1971
- 2 a woman who signals an interest in sex with another woman but does not have sex with her US, 1923
- An abbreviation for CUNT TEASE.
- Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 61, 1971

CTB abbreviation

- to commit suicide (an abbreviation of catch the bus) US
- Bob was tired of life, so he decided to CTB. — The Grim Reaper, urbandictionary.com, 10th November 2005
 - Many do go there specifically to gather information on surefire ways to “catch the bus,” or CTB, as suicide is known. — Nadya Labi, “Are you sure you want to quit the world?” www.qq.com/story/suicide, 55 March 2011

CTL noun

- a capsule of amobarbital sodium and secobarbital sodium (trade name Tuinal™), a combination of central nervous system depressants US, 1971
- An abbreviation of CHRISTMAS TREE LIGHTS.
- A brother and sister from Michigan, eighteen and sixteen years old, whispered to me that they were turned on with CTL—Christmas Tree Lights. — Arthur Blessitt, Turned On to Jesus, p. 233, 1971

CTN

- used as shorthand in Internet discussion groups and text message to mean “can’t talk now” US, 2002
- Gabrielle Mander, WAN2TLK? Itt klk of txt msgs, p. 44, 2002

Cuban pumps noun

- in homosexual usage, heavy work boots US, 1986–1987
- Maledicta, p. 53, 1986–1987: “A continuation of a glossary of ethnic slurs in American English”

cubby noun

- a room, apartment or house US, 1948
- Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 235, 1948: “A glossary of Harlemisms”

cube *noun1 a complete conformist US, 1955

- An intensification of SQUARE (a conventional person).
- Youngsters of both sexes used to call a person who wasn't hip a “square,” but now the phrase is “cube” (that's a square in 3-D). — American Weekly, p. 2, 14th August 1955
- “A cube is a new fangled square, isn't it?” she teased. — Morton Cooper, High School Confidential, p. 138, 1958
- “Compared to you, Big Ten boys are cubes.” — Glendon Swarthout, Where the Boys Are, p. 69, 1960

2 LSD US, 1966

- From the fact that LSD was often administered in sugar cubes.
- Donald Louria, Nightmare Drugs, p. 45, 1966

3 a tablet of morphine US, 1950

- Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 54, 1950
- Rose Giallombardo, Society of Women, p. 207, 1966: Glossary of Prison Terms

cube noun

an herbal cigarette, pungent and spicy, made from the cubeb berry US, 1959

- “Granny will smell it if you smoke in here,” Sissie said. “She thinks they're cubebs.” — Chester Himes, The Real Cool Killers, p. 93, 1959

cube farm noun

an office designed with multiple cubicles US

- Cube farm: An office filled with cubicles. — Gareth Branwyn, Jargon Watch, 1997
- The beloved cube farm began to crop up on our office landscape in the 1970s with what Haworth design manager Jeff Reuschell calls a “noble purpose.” — Des Moines (Iowa) Register, Life Style Section p. 1, 17th August 1997
- A cluster of cubicles in an office. From the top down, they look like an ant farm or bee nest, having productive little workers into their cells. — Urban Dictionary, 22nd December 2003

cube head noun

a regular LSD user US, 1966

- Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 61, 1971

cubes *noun1 the testicles US, 1968

- Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 103, 1968

2 dice US, 1918

- “You know, I'm pretty hot with the cubes, mister.” — Mickey Spillane, The Long Walk, p. 114, 1951
- He lit a cigarette, exhaled, and said with hazel eyes ashine, “Say, Speedy, how's your cube game?” — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Long White Con, p. 168, 1977

3 morphine US, 1980

- Edith A. Folb, runnin' down some lines, p. 233, 1980

cub reporter noun

a young, naive and untrained reporter US, 1908

The term is a popular culture allusion to the Superman legend. When Clark Kent went to work at the Daily Star, Jimmy Olsen was an office boy with aspirations to be a great reporter. With help from Superman, Olsen, who was forever tagged with the label “cub reporter,” became a member of the reporting staff. From the much earlier (1845) sense of a “cub” as an “apprentice.”

- For two weeks out of every year, students were required to go to work as cub reporters on the downtown Minneapolis newspapers, where they covered real news stories and helped to put out a real metropolitan daily. — Max Shulman, The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis, p. 142, 1951
- Leon Daniel, a fine and dedicated newsman, gave me my start by hiring me as a cub reporter for UPI in London. — Thomas L. Friedman, From Beirut to Jerusalem, p. 573, 1995

cuckie bucks noun

curly or kinky hair that has not been chemically straightened US, 1973

- Malachi Andrews and Paul T. Owens, Black Language, p. 88, 1973

cuckoo noun

a fool; a crazy person UK, 1889

- Listen, I got another one of those phone calls this morning. Some cuckoo, he'll get picked up and thrown in jail. — Elmore Leonard, Maximum Bob, p. 245, 1991

cuckoo adjective

crazy, mad, distraught US, 1906

- “You can't leave the kids with that girl. She's cuckoo!” “Now, Harry—” “Don't give me the ‘Now Harry’ bit. I tell you this girl is a certifiable maniac!” — Max Shulman, Rally Round the Flag, Boys!, p. 82, 1957
- Look, honey, if that man is cuckoo for kids, that's his problem, not yours. — Armistead Maupin, Further Tales of the City, p. 223, 1982
- He's boo-koo koo-koo. — Gone in 60 Seconds, 2000

cuckoo house noun

a mental hospital US, 1930

- I ended up in the cuckoo house, and after that they finally realized I needed rehab. — S. Beth Atkin, Voices from the Street, p. 50, 1996

cuckoo's nest noun

a mental hospital US, 1962

- Her antics gave our neurology section a heady “cuckoo's nest” atmosphere. — Jean-Dominique Bauby, The Diving Bell and the Butterfly, p. 96, 1997

cucumber noun

in gambling, an ignorant victim of a cheat US, 1962

A play on “green,” the color of the cucumber and a slang term for “inexperienced.” Often shortened to “cuke.”

- Frank Garcia, Marked Cards and Loaded Dice, p. 261, 1962

cuda noun

a barracuda US, 1949

- “Remember what happened last time with the ‘cuda.” — Carl Hiaasen, Skin Tight, p. 283, 1989
- “Wait, don't cast yet, those are just cudas,” he cautioned as he threw more live bait over the rising cloud of snook. — Inshore Salt Water Fishing, p. 45, 2001

cuddle bunny noun

an attractive girl US, 1946

- Hey, Cuddle-bunny, come on over. I'm tired of being a chair-warmer for this drip-bait. [Freckles and his Friends comic strip] — San Francisco Examiner, p. 15, 9th February 1946 cue *noun1 barbecued meat US, 1992

- Probably, Earl got to have him some 'que on Memorial Day. — Odie Hawkins, Black Chicago, p. 149, 1992

2 barbecue US, 1908

- The term barbecue (a.k.a. Bar-B-Q, BBQ, 'cue, or, to the real aficionados, simply Q) is often used synonymously with grilling. — Omaha Steaks, Omaha Steaks, 2001

3 a tip or gratuity US, 1970

- Roger D. Abrahams, Deep Down in the Jungle, p. 259, 1970

cueball *noun1 a bald person US, 1941

- Don R. McCreary (Editor), Dawg Speak, 2001

2 a crew-cut haircut US, 1955

- American Speech, p. 303, December 1955: “Wayne University slang”

cue biter noun

an actor who proceeds with his lines without letting the audience react appropriately to the cue line US, 1973

- Sherman Louis Sergel, The Language of Show Biz, p. 63, 1973

cue-bow noun

a charge of “conduct unbecoming an officer” filed against a police officer US, 1975

- The charge was conduct unbecoming an officer, or CUBO, called “cue-bow” by the policemen. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Chairboys, p. 20, 1975

cues noun

headphones worn by musicians overdubbing a tape US, 1979

- Arnold Shaw, Dictionary of American Pop/Rock, p. 100, 1982

cuff noun

a prostitute viewed as the possession of a pimp US, 2002

- In the early morning dark, Twilight found himself anointing his latest cuff in the dim lights of his back room. — Tracy Funches, Pimpnosis, p. 106, 2002

► on the cuff1 on credit US, 1927

- [A]rrangers worked for us on the cuff. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 288, 1946
- Look, boys, I'm a little short. You don't mind putting this one on the cuff, do you? You know I'm good for it. — William Burroughs, Junkie, p. 76, 1953
- When asked for a shot on the cuff he would answer reflectively, “I wouldn't want such a good-lookin' girl like you to be goin' down State Street thirsty.” — Nelson Algren, The Neon Wilderness, pp. 97–98, 1960
- He's got the capital, he can let you ride on the cuff a little while. — John Sayles, Union Dues, p. 244, 1977

2 admitted to a theater without paying for a ticket US, 1973

- Sherman Louis Sergel, The Language of Show Biz, p. 64, 1973

cuff verb1 to handcuff someone UK, 1851

- I just got cuffed again / Now I'm going to dizz knee land. — Dada, Dizz Knee Land, 1992
- You are under arrest! Cuff 'em! — South Park, 1999

2 to shine something, to polish something US, 1973

- While the cat was cuffing my boots, my brother came in. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 27, 1973

3 to admit someone to an entertainment without charge US, 1987

- But the two assigned to keep the visitors happy had worked the bright-light belt, so they knew where they could cuff a few small night clubs. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 223, 1951
- Don Wilmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 67, 1981

4 in an illegal betting operation, to accept bets at odds and in a proportion guaranteed to produce a loss for the bookmaker US, 1951

- David W. Mauver, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 23, 1951

5 to form a relationship US, 2007

- Connie Eble, Campus Slang: University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Spring 2014
- Ah, tis the season for cuffing. — “Your Guide to Cuffing Season,” Huffington Post, 7th October 2014 cuff link faggot; cuff link queen noun

a wealthy, ostentatious homosexual male US, 1965

- In this rarified area, Johns are not Johns but cuff link faggots or queens, an expression derived from their tendency to wear extravagant looking jewelry. They are also called “finger bowl faggots.” — Antony James, America's Homosexual Underground, p. 29, 1965 cuff-up verb

to submit to being handcuffed US, 1998

- Sometimes, when an inmate refuses to cuff up, or be handcuffed, and come out of the cell, the guards—dressed in riot-type clothing, carrying large shields to protect themselves—rush in on that inmate. — Bookie Williams, Life in Prison, p. 72, 1998

cuke noun

a cucumber US, 1903

A domestic colloquialism.

- I got tomatoes, cukes, and a jar of mayonnaise. She wanted bacon, but all the bacon was gone. — Stephen King, Skeleton Crew, p. 52, 1985

CUL

used in computer message shorthand to mean “see you later” US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 342, 1991

cull noun

1 a prisoner reassigned to an undemanding job after failing at a more challenging one US, 1990

- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 202, 1990

2 in horse racing, a horse that is cast off by a stable because it has failed to perform well US, 1947

- — Dan Parker, The ABC of Horse Racing, p. 145, 1947

culture fruit noun

watermelon US, 1973

- Black people did not want to reject the fruit because of the white man's mechanism of perpetuating racism in relation to it, so we made it a positive thing by calling it CULTURE FRUIT cause it was too good to let go. — Malachi Andrews and Paul T. Owens, Black Language, p. 96, 1973

cumbucket noun

a despised person US, 1975

- “Scumbags?” “Naw.” “Cumbuckets?” “Too long.” — Joseph Wambaugh, The Choir Boys, p. 33, 1975
- She heard him call me disgusting names, like the time we were sitting in the kitchen and he yelled to me from the living room, “Hey, cumbucket, get out here with a beer.” — Robert Davidson, Fighting Back, p. 167, 2000

cummy face noun

in a pornographic film or photograph, a close-up shot of a man's face as he ejaculates US, 1995

- — Adult Video News, p. 42, August 1995

cung noun

marijuana US, 1995

- — Bill Valentine, Gang Intelligence Manual, p. 130, 1995

cunny noun

the vagina UK, 1615

A play on CUNT (the vagina) and “con(e)y” (a rabbit).

- Some “cherries” completely close the cunny hole and have to be opened by surgery. — Screw, p. 9, 29th December 1969
- LESSEE YA LAP THAT CUNNY UPI. — Lester Bangs, Psychotic Reactions and Carburetor Dung, p. 364, 1981
- I must have been wearing loose-fitting shorts because, as I was waiting to see my friend, her puppy came to me and licked me several times on my little cunny. — Nancy Friday, Women on Top, p. 221, 1991
- Does he ever get down there and tongue my cunny? No sir, no how, no way. — Letters to Penthouse XV, p. 303, 2002

cunny fingers; cunny thumbs noun

an awkward, clumsy person US, 1982

A term originally applied to a weak shooter.

- Oh, give it here, cunny-thumbs. I know my way 'round a cork. — Dewey Lambdin, King's Captain, p. 345, 2000

cunt

a civilian under naval training US, 1991

- CUNT: Civilian Under Naval Training. — Allen Rubin, Handbook of Military Social Work, 2012

cunt noun

1 the vagina UK, 1230

The most carefully avoided, heavily tabooed word in American English.

- I bet her cunt is juicy & ripe, huh? — Neal Cassidy, The First Third, p. 197, 1950
- You know: well-scrubbed, blonde bangs, china blue eyes, apple cheeks, little cunt that smells like a gouda cheese. — Tom Robbins, Another Roadside Attraction, p. 78, 1971
- The Melody girls orchestrate their stripteases over five-song cassette sound tracks; the generous ones reach cunt by the fourth number, while the ones who fancy themselves jazz ballerinas wait till the fifth. — Josh Alan Friedman, Tales of Times Square, p. 9, 1986
- Then he said, “Allright bitch, I want to taste a little bit of your cunt.” — Final Report of the Attorney General's Commission on Pornography, p. 437, 1986

2 a woman, especially as an object of sexual desire UK, 1674

- And do you know that the same thing happened to that dumb little cunt. — Jack Kerouac, On the Road (The Original Scroll), p. 284, 1951
- After that, Mexico, and this time a cunt will live with me. — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Neal Cassidy, p. 400, April 1953
- Ha, you bet your sweet ass they could be improved! Get some halfway decent cunt in there for openers! — Terry Southern, Blue Movie, p. 25, 1970
- And all because of a stupid blond cunt in a cold water flat who knew how to assuage his sex problems.[.] — Mickey Spillane, Last Cop Out, p. 7, 1972
- I shouted from the audience, “You're nothing but eight assholes and a token cunt!” — Larry Flynt, An Unseemly Man, p. 192, 1996

3 sex with a woman UK, 1670

- [A]t the same time depriving him of cunt and subjecting him to homosex stimulation[.] — William Burroughs, Naked Lunch, p. 27, 1957
- They would run down a story to them about selling them some cunt from some of the finest bitches they ever saw. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 160, 1965
- All the cats laughed at me all the way to Frisco, “Ole Babs spent Fifty Dollars and still didn't get no cunt, so that makes Babs a trick.” — Babs Gonzales, Movin' On Down De Line, p. 22, 1975
- [P]rostitutes are our political prisoners—in jail for cunt. — Kate Millet, The Prostitutes Papers, p. 111, 1976

4 a despicable person, female or male UK, 1860

When used as a reductive term of abuse, “cunt” is usually more offensive than the male equivalents.

- Do you know what that cunt said? — Eve Babitz, Eve's Hollywood, p. 117, 1974
- Her new husband makes potato chips. And she's a cunt. — Armistead Maupin, Babycakes, p. 206, 1984
- “You fucking Communist cunt, get out of here,” he [Richard Mellon Scaife] said to Karen Rothmyer of the Columbia Journalism Review. — Al Franken, Lies, p. 132, 2003
- You're a terrific person. You're my favorite person. But every once in a while, you can be a real cunt. — Kill Bill, 2003

5 among homosexuals, the buttocks, anus, and rectum US, 1972

- Move your cunt—Mama wants to sit down. — Bruce Rodgers, The Queens' Vernacular, p. 57, 1972

6 among homosexuals, the mouth US, 1972

- Close your filthy cunt; I don't want to hear any more about it. — Bruce Rodgers, The Queens' Vernacular, p. 57, 1972

7 to a drug addict, a vein used for injecting a drug, especially the vein found on the inside of the elbow US, 1960

- [I]t looks like a small purple cyst . . . into which she drives the needle each time she fixes. “That's your cunt, Jody,” I said once[.] — Alexander Trocchi, Cain's Book, p. 31, 1960
- CUNT: An area of vein that is favored for injections. — Elizabeth Finn, Drugs in the Tenderloin, 1967: Glossary of Drug Slang Used in the Tenderloin
- — Stewart L. Tubbs and Sylvia Moss, Human Communication, p. 119, 1974

cunt book noun

a pornographic book, especially one with photographs or illustrations US, 1969

- Goldstein showed that it wasn't just pervers that bought cunt books. — Screw, p. 2, 4th July 1969
- You sanitize everything? Take out the rubbers and cunt books? — David Poyer, The Passage, p. 192, 1995

cunt breath noun

a despicable person US, 1992

- And leave those cocksucking, cunt-breath, pusnuts, shit-for-brains, pencil-pushing Pentagon assholes to me. — Richard Marcinko, Rogue Warrior I, p. 266, 1992
- Little five-foot-six-inch Roten stands up and says, “He said suck my shorts, cunt breath!” — Daniel E. Kelly, U.S. Navy Seawolves, p. 31, 2002

cunt cap noun

a narrow green garrison cap worn by enlisted men UK, 1923

Probably of World War 1 vintage. The same article as a “cow's-cunt-cap.” Soldiers learn the term in the first few days of training. They now learn not to use the term in the presence of women.

- — Argosy, p. 81, July 1966
- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 13, 1968
- Shaerbach's kid brother in his uniform, his cunt cap pushed back on his shaved, Neanderthal skull[.] — Gilbert Sorrentino, Steelwork, p. 59, 1970
- A white soldier, his shirttail out behind, his cunt cap crosswise on his dome, staggered along happily[.] — Earl Thompson, Tattoo, p. 121, 1974
- Since at least as long ago as 1940, the soldier's name for the Army's garrison cap has been cunt cap. — Maledicta, p. 222, Winter 1980
- For this special occasion I wore a khaki uniform, spit-shined jump boots, and a flat, rectangular-shaped hat called a cunt cap that looked like a little inverted canoe on top of my head. — Manny Garcia, An Accidental Soldier: Memoirs of a Mestizo in Vietnam, p. 59, 2003
- We were then fitted for the dress blue uniform, which included a service hat, aptly nicknamed a “cunt cap,” because of its shape when it is opened and a hard-bill dress cap. — Al Aldridge, Those Damn Flying Cows: How I Ended up in Vietnam, p. 12, 2005
- I found my khakis and my cunt cap wadded up under my jump boots. — Gary Linderer, Eyes Behind the Lines: L. Company Rangers in Vietnam, 2011

cunt collar noun

a desire for sex US, 1965

- But then they got so bad that even cats with long cunt collars would get tired of screwing these cold junkie bitches. — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 193, 1965
- He had a cunt collar around his neck bigger than this galaxy[.] — Steve Cannon, Groove, Bang, and Live Around, p. 29, 1969
- Spoon's cunt collar was tight / which was understandably right / after serving three years and day. — Lightnin' Rod, Hustlers Convention, p. 16, 1973
- She began to wonder what made this dude uptight . . . have what Ranger called a “cunt collar.” — Robert Deane Pharr, Giveadamn Brown, p. 60, 1978

cunt eater noun

any person who performs oral sex on a woman US, 1967

- “The shiteaters, cornholers, hermaphrodites, pricks, assholes, cunts and cunteaters.” — John Williams, The Man Who Cried I Am, p. 130, 1967
- I want so much to really get down there and examine her cunt. But I am ashamed to do it. I might be called a “Cunt Eater,” for even getting that close. — Clarence Major, All-Night Visitors, p. 20, 1998

cunt face noun

a despicable person US, 1948

- That's the one. The little cunt face. — Mark Barker, Nam, p. 29, 1981

- [Generations of academy maintenance men had sanded away the more flagrant obscenities, although an occasional "dork-brain" or "cunt-face" was freshly etched in the wooden slats.] — John Irving, A Prayer for Owen Meany, p. 111, 1989
- And I want it all, whether it's from an ugly Indian-curry-quaffing cunt-face—the Bureau butt-wiping baloney-beaters—or Michael Ei. — Robert Eringer, Lo Mein, p. 157, 2000

cunt-faced adjective
despicable US, 1974

- We can't let these cunt-faced white-assed motherfuckers get away with this shit no longer. — James Baldwin, If Beale Street Could Talk, p. 159, 1974
- He said she was a heartless lying evil cunt-faced bitch just like her goddamn fucking mother was. — Buddy Giovinazzo, Life Is Hot in Cracktown, p. 6, 1993
- She kept her eyes off the mess he was making of her crime scene, reading the words on the wall, cocksucker, disgusting cunt-faced pig. — Michele Jaffe, Bad Girl, p. 295, 2003

cunt fart noun
a despicable person US, 1996

- This is your wake-up call, you cunt fart. — Bruce Wagner, I'm Losing You, p. 151, 1996

cunt hair noun
a very small distance US, 1951

- "I had a touch of gangrene in it and they had to amputate a cunthair tip off the end." — Jack Kerouac, On the Road (The Original Scroll), p. 285, 1951
- Well, we the side of the angels in the censorship fight, won one recently by the margin of a cunt's hair! — Screw, p. 12, 8th March 1970
- [A] quick, but competent one arm chin with both hands, satisfactory enough with the right hand and a cunt hair short with the smaller left. — Neal Cassidy, The First Third, p. 165, 1971
- Clipping a famous rat would put me a cunt hair away from being made. — David Chase, The Sopranos: Selected Scripts from Three Seasons, p. 114, 3rd November 1998

cunthead noun
a despised fool US, 1971

- Wilson was looking for some diversion, and he clearly didn't like Kent's looks. "Shove off, cunt-head," he snapped. — John Irving, The Water-Method Man, p. 239, 1972

cunt hound noun
a man obsessed with the seduction of women US, 1960

- It was shocking, but I knew Joe was 1 helluva cunthound, or so he said! — Clarence Cooper Jr., The Farm, p. 187, 1967
- — Maledicta, p. 10, Summer 1977: "A word for it!"
- Ralston is a notorious well-endowed cunthound and he's had years to work on you. — James Ellroy, Brown's Requiem, p. 175, 1981
- An old cunt-hound professor pal of Shark's at the prestigious feminist institution somehow secured the main auditorium at Marymount. — Josh Friedman, When Sex Was Dirty, p. 34, 2005

cuntish adjective
1 unpleasant; stupid US, 1999

- "Hey, man! You going cuntish on me?" — James Ellroy, Killer on the Road, p. 232, 1999

2 weak, cowardly US, 1988

- "Don't go cuntish on me!" Roscoe snarled when he drove away from the station. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Choir Boys, p. 53, 1975
- Danny stood up, feeling warm and loose, wondering if he should muscle Lembeck for going cuntish on him. — James Ellroy, The Big Nowhere, p. 83, 1988

cunt juice noun
vaginal secretions US, 1990

- Cunt juice is a perfume. — Kathy Acker, In Memoriam to Identity, p. 128, 1990
- My cock slides in almost too easily—her cunt is too wet, drenched with her own cunt juice and Christie's saliva, and there's no friction. — Brett Easton Ellis, American Psycho, p. 175, 1991
- I eased myself into her ass, very slowly, greasing myself well with her cunt juice. — Pedro Juan Gutierrez, Dirty Havana Trilogy, p. 5, 1998
- I could see steam rising up from the tank barrel where her warm cunt juices had bathed it. — Letters to Penthouse XV, p. 147, 2002

cunt-lapper noun
a person who performs oral sex on a woman US, 1916

- "Wait a minute," he yelled, "don't you cunt-lappers know that's Agnes, she's got the biggest dose in Hartford, everybody knows that." — Jack Kerouac, Letter to Neal Cassidy, p. 298, 10th January 1951
- And don't give me (you better, you bastard) any more wonderful bullshit, you giggling cuntlapper, about my letter attempts. — Neal Cassidy, Neal Cassidy Collected Letters 1944–1967, p. 264, 8th January 1951: Letter to Jack and Joan Kerouac
- Well, cock-suckers and reluctant cunt-lappers, the revolution is here! — Screw, p. 5, 12th June 1972
- "You cuntlapper," the Greek said. — George Higgins, The Digger's Game, p. 183, 1973

cunt-lapping noun
oral sex on a woman US, 1970

- Is Cunt-Lapping Better Than the Pill? (Headline) — Screw, p. 13, 22nd March 1970
- His own young porno collection had swung more and more toward pictures, stories, drawings, any material having to do with cunt-lapping. — James Jones, The Merry Month of May, p. 53, 1971

cunt-lapping adjective
despised US, 1923

- The public-relations value of appearing to send all the pot-smoking, cunt-lapping, ad-men for the revolution to Brixton, or even Parkhurst, is enormous. — Germaine Greer, The Madwoman's Underclothes, p. 45, 1986
- I know you and Boyd wanted that cunt-lapping faggot to win. — James Ellroy, American Tabloid, p. 1, 2001

cunt-licking noun
oral sex on a woman US, 2003

- It took a good ten minutes of wrestling and another five were given over to cunt-licking before Samson got to sink his sausage in Walker's tunnel of love. — Stewart Home, Slow Death, p. 107, 1996
- Elsewhere there's all the stuffed cunts, finger jobs, and cunt-licking you can handle—and then some. — The Penthouse Erotic Video Guide, p. 196, 2003

cunt-licking adjective
despised US, 1985

- "I'm not gonna be any cunt-licking nurse," Natalie snapped. — Augusten Burroughs, Running with Scissors, p. 44, 2002

cunt light noun
in the pornography industry, a light used to illuminate the genitals of the performers US, 1995

- — Adult Video News, p. 50, October 1995

cunt pie noun
the vagina, especially as an object of oral sex US, 1980

- There, in public, making herself hotter and hotter, finger in cunt pie going round and round, as finger slips black panties lower, she breathes harder and harder. — Kathy Acker, Portrait of an Eye, p. 147, 1980

cunt-punt verb
to kick a woman in the groin US

- Bitch, if you sleep with my man again, i will cunt punt you so hard they will have to dislodge my toenails from the roof of your mouth! — Urban Dictionary, 4th November 2005
- I will fucking cunt-punt the next person I hear about doing something like that. — Rebecca Martinson email dated 18th April 2013.
- But don't think for a second that I won't cunt punt you if you lose this fuckin' piece of paper. — Taylor Bell, Dirty Rush, p. 117, 2015

cunt racket noun
prostitution US, 1977

- Must be some hod times in the cunt racket. — John Sayles, Union Dues, p. 152, 1977

cunt rag noun
1 a sanitary napkin US, 1968

- A bitch was nothing but a bitch no matter who she was; they spread their legs the same wore cunt-rags the same when they had their periods, and sat on the toilet to do the same things! — Nathan Heard, Howard Street, p. 177, 1968
- You'd have to go to the bottom of the Hudson River and bring me back Lena Horn's cunt rag. — Dennis Weptman et al., The Life, p. 151, 1976
- She's putting that cunt rag back in. — James Ellroy, My Dark Places, p. 350, 1996

2 a despicable person or thing US, 1997

- You ever seen a nun call a small child a "fucking cunt rag?" Wasn't pretty. — Chasing Amy, 1997

cunt-simple adjective obsessed with sex; easily distracted by women US, 1982

- With her mind, and with her body, she had to organize Louis Palo, that cunt-simple schmuck, and her own husband, to steal the money then to take the fall for her. — Richard Condon, Prizzi's Honor, p. 70, 1982

cunt splice noun
any improvised splice US, 1956

- — Peter Kemp, The Oxford Companion to Ships and the Sea, p. 218, 1976

cunt stretcher noun
the penis US, 2001

- What price now, "cunt plugger," "cunt prober," "cut prodder," "cunt rammer," "cunt stopper," "cunt stretcher," "cunt whacker?" — Ian Gibson, The Erotomaniac, p. 184, 2001

cunt-struck adjective obsessed with sex with a woman or women UK, 1866

- I do not agree, for instance, that he is a philosopher, or a thinker. He is cunt-struck, that's all. — Henry Miller, Tropic of Cancer, p. 4, 1961
- — John D. Bell et al., Loosely Speaking, p. 6, 1966
- — Michael Dalton Johnson, Talking Trash with Redd Foxx, p. 62, 1994

cunt-sucker noun
1 a person who performs oral sex on women UK, 1868

- He can become a world-class cunt sucker who will have women standing in line waiting to be next. — Betty Dodson, Orgasms for Two, p. 172, 2002

2 a despised person US, 1964

- Meal mouthed cunt suckers flow through you. — William S. Burroughs, The Soft Machine, p. 47, 1966
- You ain't been here twenty minutes you finished already, you cheap quickie cuntsucker . . . in and out . . . that's what she likes, the cold bitch. — Grace Paley, Enormous Changes at the Last Minute, p. 112, 1974

cunt-sucking noun
oral sex on a woman US, 1998

- I sat right down on Joe's mouth and he gave me the most comprehensive cunt-sucking that I've ever had in my life. — Graham, Masterson, Secrets of the Sexually Irresistible Woman, p. 244, 1998

cunt-sucking adjective
despised US, 1964

- And you just let me tell you how much all the kids in the office and the laboratory hate you thinking heavy metal assed cunt sucking board bastards. — William S. Burroughs, Nova Express, p. 48, 1964
- I didn't foresee that my editors at Columbia University Press would be called "cunt-sucking maggots to let this one slither through." — Elaine Showalter, Histories, p. x, 1997

cunt tease noun

a woman who signals an interest in sex with another woman but does not have sex with her US, 1971

- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 61, 1971
- I pulled myself away from Shoshi, feeling like a cunt-tease. “I’m sorry. I can’t. I think we need to go.” — Angela Brown, Best Lesbian Love Stories 2005, p. 106, 2005

cunt-tickler noun

a mustache US, 1967

- I wish you was an Italianate Jew, all earthy and Levantine and suave and had a cunt-tickler of a mustache[.] — Norman Mailer, Why Are We in Vietnam?, p. 15, 1967

Cunt Town nickname

Norfolk, Virginia US, 1982

A major naval base, and hence a hotbed of prostitution.

- — Ralph de Sola, Crime Dictionary, p. 198, 1982

cunty adjective

unpleasant US, 1972

- [S]he was also smart, tough, feisty and knew her way around without being foul-mouthed and cunty. — Emmett Grogan, Ringolevio, p. 198, 1972

cunt zombie noun

a man obsessed with the female sex organs US, 1974

- Sometimes she made fun of the whole trip, exaggerating bumps and grinds, stopping and staring right back at the cunt zombies[.] — Anne Steinhart, Thunder La Boom, p. 177, 1974

cup noun

the vagina US, 1973

- Satin was a bitch that had one of those real rare fuzzy cups, the kind a man runs into once in a lifetime. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 108, 1973

cupcake noun

1 a cute girl US, 1939

- It’s Art Linkletter, assisted by a cupcake named Jean Lewis, setting up one of his harebrained stunts for “People Are Funny.” [Caption] — San Francisco News, p. 4T, 25th September 1954
- He gets a look at the cupcakes and he’s staggering all over the place, and he grabs her right by the left tit and gives her a nice little milkshake, on the house. — George V. Higgins, The Rat on Fire, p. 126, 1981
- Give me that cupcake shot first. — Robert Stoller and I.S. Levine, Coming Attractions, p. 195, 1991
- “Hi Nick,” said Jerry, toweling his hair. “You get a piece off your cupcake yet?” — C.D. Payne, Youth in Revolt, p. 48, 1993

2 a haircut shaped like a box US, 1989

- — Ellen C. Bellone (Editor), Dictionary of Slang, p. 8, 1989

cupcakes noun

1 the female breasts US, 2001

- “Yeah, well, nice cupcakes!” he said, eyes locked onto the woman’s breasts. — Kregg Jorgensen, Very Crazy G.I., p. 159, 2001

2 well-defined, well-rounded buttocks US, 1972

- — H. Max, Gay (S)language, p. 9, 1988

cupid’s itch noun

any sexually transmitted infection US, 1930

- — Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World’s Toughest Prison, p. 796, 1962
- “So your client goes in on Monday complaining that he is,” she reads from a page, “as he describes it, ‘pissing battery acid,’ and wondering if he has to tell his wife about a little bout of Cupid’s itch.” — Richard Dooling, Brain Storm, p. 261, 1998
- [T]he gals all had Cupid’s tch and the whiskey was two dollars a glass. — Jake Logan, Hot on the Trail, p. 101, 2002

cupid’s measles noun

syphilis; any sexually transmitted infection US, 1970

- You say only three people know that this Prince has Cupid’s measles? — George MacDonald Fraser, Royal Flash, p. 98, 1970

cuppie noun

a female hanger-on at a World Cup sailing competition US, 1996

- The cuppies, many of whom were dressed in upscale sailing togs, outnumbered sailors and sailing wannabes by a wide margin. — Joseph Wambaugh, Floater, p. 55, 1996

cups noun

sleep US, 1948

- — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 235, 1948: “A glossary of Harlemisms”

▶ in your cups

drinking; drunk UK, 1406

- Well, Collie, is this part of your college training? Not to take advantage of a lady in her cups? — Jim Thompson, After Dark, My Sweet, p. 35, 1955
- In his cups, of course. Meant no harm. — Max Shulman, Anyone Got a Match?, p. 68, 1964 curb *noun▶ against the curb

without money US, 1995

- — Bill Valentine, Gang Intelligence Manual, p. 74, 1995

▶ to the curb

1 destitute; suffering from hard times US, 1989

- — James Harris, A Convict’s Dictionary, p. 40, 1989

2 rejected in romance US, 1993

- — Washington Post, 14th October 1993

3 vomiting US, 1989

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 19, 1989

curb verb

1 to stop or slow down US, 1953

- — Lavada Durst, The Lives of Dr. Hepcat, p. 12, 1953

2 to reject in romance US, 1999

- “He curbed your butterball booty and left you blowing snot bubbles and slinging boogers on your birthday.” — Eric Jerome Dickey, Cheaters, p. 401, 1999

curb creature noun

an eccentric person who loiters on the sidewalk US

- He shot a casual glance towards the Walk of Fame, where lots of curb creatures were already out. — Joseph Wambaugh, Hollywood Moon, p. 4, 2009

curb serve verb

to sell crack cocaine on a street corner US, 1995

- — Bill Valentine, Gang Intelligence Manual, p. 75, 1995

curb *verb▶ get cured

to get rich US, 1957

- Salvador, known as Sally to his friends—he always keeps a few “friends” around and pays them by the hour—got cured in the slunk business in World War 2. — William Burroughs, Naked Lunch, p. 156, 1957

curl noun

the concave face of a wave as it breaks US, 1963

- — Grant W. Kuhns, On Surfing, p. 115, 1963

curlies noun

pubic hair US, 1973

Used both literally and figuratively to suggest complete control over someone.

- You’re in no position to make deals. We got you by the curlies. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Blue Knight, p. 146, 1973

curly do noun

a curly hair style popular with black men and women in the mid-1970s US, 1975

- It’s goodbye Afro, hello curls for scads of local hip black men who are part of the international, unisex trend to curly hair. They call the style “a Superfly,” “a Lord Jesus” or just “a Curly Do” and they’re spending lots of time and money to get the look. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 34, 13th April 1975

curly lip *adjective▶ to give someone the curly lip to say something displeasing US, 1989

- Most people call me Jimmy. One or two call me Jimbo when they want to give me the curly lip. — Robert Campbell, Nibbled to Death by Ducks, p. 2, 1989

curly wolf noun

an aggressive, belligerent man US, 1910

A term from the American west.

- I think I’ll pick a flower and maybe call on the old curly wolf himself. — Kerry Newcomb, Texas Anthem, p. 121, 1986 curse noun

the bleed period of the menstrual cycle US, 1930

Used with “the.”

- I’ve got the curse. But call me again. — James T. Farrell, Rendezvous, p. 139, 1955
- She hadn’t had the curse in months—all she needed was a change-of-life kid. — Jacqueline Susann, Valley of the Dolls, p. 232, 1966
- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 102, 1968
- I was praying all these past four days I wouldn’t get the curse. I’m overdue. — Elmore Leonard, Switch, p. 158, 1978

curse of Mexico noun

in a deck of playing cards, the two of spades US, 1949

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 57, 1987
- — George Percy, The Language of Poker, p. 25, 1988

curse of Scotland noun

in a deck of playing cards, the nine of diamonds UK, 1715

- — Albert H. Morehead, The Complete Guide to Winning Poker, p. 260, 1967

curtain-raiser noun

the first game of a season US, 1950

- — Parke Cummings, Dictionary of Baseball, p. 15, 1950
- I spent last Saturday night TV surfing, going from “The Godfather” on ABC, the Corleones vs. those other families, to the NFL curtain-raiser on NVCC[.] — Times-Picayune (New Orleans), p. 1 (Sports), 9th February 2001

curtains noun

the end, implying death or dismissal US, 1901

Theatrical origin (the final curtain of a play).

- Now, when we get out there, you do what we say or its curtains. — Natural Born Killers, 1994

▶ curtains and carpet that match; matching curtains and carpet said when a person’s hair color matches the color of their pubic hair US, 2003

- “Do the curtains match the carpets?” “I don’t understand.” “Your pubic hair? Does it match the color of the hair on your head?” — Andrew Lewis Conn, P: A Novel, p. 16, 2003

curve-breaker noun

a diligent, smart student US, 1955

A student whose performance upsets the grading curve.

- A. I’ve had two guts all lined up, but they backfired. Q. Why? A. Too many curve breakers. — Max Shulman, Guided Tour of Campus Humor, p. 105, 1955 curve-killer noun

a student who excels US, 1959

A reference to the grading curve.

- — Time Magazine, p. 46, 24th August 1959
- — Helen Dahlsgog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 17, 1972

cush noun

1 the vagina; sex; a woman as a sexual object US, 1960

- No, it was a walking, living round balloon with a fat “poke” [wallet] and a flaming itch for black “Cush.” — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 40, 1969

2 money US, 1900

- — Inez Cardozo-Freeman, The Joint, p. 492, 1984

cush adjective

comfortable, unstrained US, 1931

A shortened form of cushy.

- I called Homeboy at Folsom, got through ‘cause he got this cush orderly job. — James Ellroy, Suicide Hill, p. 796, 1986

cushy adjective

easy, comfortable, unstrained UK, 1915

From Hindi khush (pleasant) or Romany kuшто (good).

- There was a cushy career spot in State arranged by his father Sam’l and waiting for him when he got his very own Ph.D. — Bernard Wolfe, The Magic of Their Singing, p. 8, 1961

cuspy adjective

(used of a computer program) well designed, highly functional US, 1981

- — Guy L. Steele, Coevolution Quarterly, p. 29, Spring 1981: “Computer Slang”
- — Guy L. Steele et al., The Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 52, 1983

cuss fight noun

a loud, angry argument US, 1923

- He rushed to the White House and they had a huge cuss fight[.] — John Grisham, The Pelican Brief, p. 100, 1992

cuss out verb

to reprimand someone with a heavy reliance on

profanity US, 1863

- She hates to drive anywhere with me because I am inclined to cuss out drivers who don’t please me. — Wallace Earle Stegner, The Spectator Bird, p. 10, 1976

cuss word noun

a profanity US, 1872

After cuss (a curse).

- If I was a fat bitches thong I’d be like “Hell naw!” / If I was a hotties thong I’d be like “Awwwww. . .” / If I was a cuss word I’d just be like “fuck”. — Insane Clown Posse, If, 2000

custler noun

a person who poses as a member of a youth gang but is not accepted as a gang member US, 1995

- — Bill Valentine, Gang Intelligence Manual, p. 75, 1995

cut noun

1 an adulterant used to dilute a drug; a dilution of a drug US, 1966

- Now today, if you buy your piece, you’d be very lucky if you could get a three-to-one cut[.] — James Mills, The Panic in Needle Park, p. 44, 1966
- New York Pure, no more than a one cut, if that. — Vernon E. Smith, The Jones Men, p. 88, 1974
- Probably all the lactose in the cut: you were shooting ten times more sugar than junk. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 139, 1990
- Buy four, bleed in a ounce of cut, make it five. — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 185, 1992

2 a reduction of a prison sentence US, 2002

- Gary went back to court to try to get a time cut. — Gary K. Farlow, Prison-ese, p. 15, 2002

3 any place where young people congregate to socialize US, 1953

- — Lavada Durst, The Lives of Dr. Hepcat, p. 12, 1953

4 in hip-hop music, a sample or part of a tune that is played repeatedly US, 2000

- — James Haskins, The Story of Hip-Hop, p. 137, 2000

5 the vagina US, 1967

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 54, 1967

cut verb

1 to leave US, 1965

- “Like we have to cut. Hot. Movies.” — Sol Yurick, The Warriors, p. 18, 1965

2 in the drug trade, to dilute drugs US, 1937

- Ray just sat there and watched while Chico went to work cutting the horse with milk sugar. — Hal Elson, The Golden Spike, p. 166, 1952
- They cut it, cap it, and retail it at about a hundred percent profit. — John D. McDonald, The Neon Jungle, p. 61, 1953
- I invest half a grand in cocaine and H. It’s good enough so I can cut it twice with milk, sugar, and still have the best stuff on Thirty-fifth Street. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Trick Baby, p. 184, 1969
- It’s good shit. From when they busted those Columbians uptown. You can cut it in half. — The Bad Lieutenant, 1992

3 to dilute anything by the addition of a secondary ingredient US, 1985

Extended from the previous sense (to dilute drugs).

- They’re cutting the butter with Vaseline. — William Burroughs, Queer, p. 36, 1985

4 to fart US, 1967

- [S]ome American speakers use “cut” as a variant of “lay” or “let” and refer to “cutting” or “cutting a fart.” — Peter Furze, Tailwinds, p. 55, 1998

5 to engage in an informal musical competition in which musicians attempt to better each other in extended jazz solos US, 1937

- When one jazz musician cuts another, he merely outplays him, does it better, shows him how, establishes who’s boss of the instrument. — Robert Sylvester, No Cover Charge, p. 48, 1956
- Maybe he couldn’t cut the cats at the Savoy in Harlem, but he sure could dance. — Billie Holiday with William Dufty, Lady Sings the Blues, p. 98, 1956
- “But I can still cut all these cats two choruses to one,” he spat out[.] — John Clellon Holmes, The Horn, p. 51, 1958

6 to record a song US, 1937

- — Arnold Shaw, Lingo of Tin-Pan Alley, p. 10, 1950
- He finally came half an hour late, borne up (as it were) by a jostling, haggard bunch of hangers-on, among whom was the white boy for whose phantom company the records were to be cut. — John Clellon Holmes, The Horn, p. 67, 1958

- They can cut disks which are played on our Muzak-type system. — Gore Vidal, Myra Breckinridge, p. 52, 1968

- When you get my backups straight, then we’ll talk about cutting this tune here. — Nashville, 1992

7 to skip something, to fail to attend something UK, 1794

- You’re not going to cut again. Get up. — Irving Shulman, The Amboy Dukes, p. 19, 1947
- He cuts a lot of classes. He got thrown out of schools. — John D. McDonald, The Neon Jungle, p. 94, 1953
- The fact that you’re cutting gym so you can TA. Sophomore English just to hear his name, is a little without in itself if you ask me. — Ten Things I Hate About You, 1999

8 to leave quickly UK, 1790

- “Let’s cut,” I said. We started down the platform. — William Burroughs, Junkie, p. 48, 1953
- [S]uddenly he gets up and says to Miss Van Allen, “I got to cut. This isn’t my scene.” — Gore Vidal, Myra Breckinridge, p. 207, 1968

9 to tease or disparage someone US, 1975

- — American Speech, p. 57, Spring–Summer 1975: “Razorback slang”

10 to perform surgery US, 1970

- You just sit up front and sign the mail, and leave the cutting to us. — *M*A*S*H*, 1970

▶ be cut out to be a gentleman to be circumcised UK, 1961

- — Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 53, 1964

▶ cut a chogie

to leave quickly US, 1988

- It was time for us to “cut-a-chogie,” to haul our asses out of the area. — c.s. Crawford, The Four Deuces, p. 251, 1989
- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 55, 1991
- Our pay was burning a hole in our fatigue pockets, so we “cut a chogie” down to the Dragon’s Lair and exchanged a good share of it for cold cans of beer. — Robert Peterson, Rites of Passage, p. 473, 1997

▶ cut a hus

to do someone a favor US, 1991

Marine slang in Vietnam.

- Take what shots we wanted at the Lifers, they cut us a hus and left us alone. — George Mariscal, Aztlán and Viet Nam, p. 162, 1999

▶ cut a rug

to dance expertly US, 1942

- He goes to the jukeery to watch and wait and cut a rug with a solid gate: he snatches a quail with hep and class and they go to town cooking with gas! — Harry Haenigsen, Jive’s Like That, 1947
- When somebody asks you if you’d like the cut a rug, say, “Fine, you get the scissors.” — Art Unger, The Cool Book, p. 5, 1961
- “I’m . . . ah, curious to know if you can still cut a bad rug.” — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Doom Fox, p. 253, 1978
- Come on. Let’s cut a rug. — Empire Records, 1995

▶ cut a rusty

to show off US, 1838

- “You’re still spunky,” the voice responded. “Ain’t no one able to cut a rusty like you.” — Gwyn Hyman Rubio, Icy Sparks, p. 204, 1998

▶ cut ass

to leave, especially in a hurry US, 1969

- “Sarge, we could cut ass out.” — William Eastlake, The Bamboo Bed, p. 60, 1969
- — Helen Dahlsgog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 5, 1972

▶ cut loose

1 to leave someone alone US, 1974

- — Stewart L. Tubbs and Sylvia Moss, Human Communication, p. 120, 1974

2 to enjoy yourself unrestrained by any sense of moderation US, 1808

- After that, maybe I’d cut loose a little bit. — Mickey Spillane, My Gun Is Quick, p. 6, 1950
- I guess I cut pretty loose in my day too. — Rebel Without a Cause, 1955

▶ cut someone dead

to ignore someone completely UK, 1826

An emphasized use of cut (to ignore).

- “I seen the dweeb around,” Baborak replied, cutting me dead and walking away. — C.D. Payne, Youth in Revolt, p. 243, 1993

▶ cut the crap

to stop talking nonsense US, 1931

- “I don’t owe you a cent. I already gave her the five—” “Cut the crap, now. Let’s have it.” — J.D. Salinger, The Catcher in the Rye, p. 101, 1951
- “Cut the crap, Sid.” — John O’Hara, Instrument, p. 103, 1967

▶ cut the gasto stop talking US, 1951

Teen slang.

- — Newsweek, p. 28, 8th October 1951

▶ cut to the chaseto get on with it US, 1983

Cinematic imagery; “to jump to the next exciting sequence.”

- “Cut to the chase,” he muttered irritably. “What the hell is it you want us to do?” — Carl Hiaasen, Native Tongue, p. 83, 1991

▶ cut up jackiesin the circus or carnival, to tell stories about the past US, 1980

- — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingua, p. 29, 1980

▶ cut up jackpots(used of carnival workers) to engage in carnival insider conversation US, 1985

- — Gene Sorrows, All About Carnivals, p. 19, 1985

▶ cut up old touchesto tell stories about past triumphs US, 1950

- [W]e'd sit up there and cut up what we call “old touches”—that's a phrase for discussing old capers. — Harry King, Box Man, p. 145, 1972

▶ cut up pipesin circus and carnival usage, to gossip, brag or disparage someone US, 1981

- — Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 69, 1981

▶ cut your water offin shuffleboard, to hold an opponent to a scoreless half round US, 1967

- — Omero C. Catan, Secrets of Shuffleboard Strategy, p. 65, 1967

cut *adjective1 circumcised US, 1988

- — H. Max, Gay (S)langage, p. 10, 1988
- I've got six-pack abs. I'm eight inches cut. — The Village Voice, 4th April 2000

2 physically fit, conditioned, well toned US, 1985

- He had lost his nondescript straight's fleshiness; he was cut and basted. — Ethan Morden, I've a Feeling We're Not in Kansas Anymore, p. 17, 1985
- That is, if you mention a strong stomach, you must have cut abs. — John Preston, Hustling, p. 121, 1994
- “My body was shredded down, cut as they call it and I was totally ripped.” — Robert Picarello, Rules of the Ring, p. 139, 2000

cut and paste *verb*to open a patient's body in surgery only to discover an inoperable condition, and then to close the patient back up US, 1994

- — Sally Williams, “Strong” Words, p. 137, 1994

cutback *noun*in surfing, a turn back into the wave US, 1979

- I've admired your nose-riding for years. I like your cutback too. — Apocalypse Now, 1979

cut buddy *noun*a close friend US, 1954

- — Robert George Reisner, The Jazz Titans, p. 153, 1960
- We greeted each other like we were of cut-buddies, but after all the greeting and slapping hands, we found it hard to talk to each other. — H. Rap Brown, Die Nigger Die!, p. 24, 1969
- “You're my cut-buddy, buddy,” Solly said drunkenly. “My real bosom boon buddy-buddy.” — John Oliver Killens, And Then We Heard the Thunder, p. 197, 1983
- Most Black males have at least one close male friend—often called “Cuz,” “Running Buddy,” “Ace Boon Coon,” “Cut Buddy,” “Road Dog,” “Homeboy,” or “Main Man.” — Joseph L. White, Black Man Emerging, p. 134, 1999

cutemup *noun*a prison doctor US, 1961–1962

- — Frank Prewitt and Francis Schaeffer, Vacaville Vocabulary, 1961–1962

cuter *verb*a twenty-five cent piece US, 1927

A corruption of “quarter.”

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Live Talk Dictionary, p. 9, 1945

cuteration *noun*the zenith of cuteness US, 1963

- — American Speech, p. 275, December 1963: “American Indian student slang”

cutesy *adjective*cloying, annoyingly cute US, 1914

- Don't take all that cutesy-kitschy fuckin' retro-Sixties bullshit out in my apartment. — Kenneth Lonergan, This Is Our Youth, p. 32, 2000

cutie *noun*an attractive or clever young woman US, 1911

Originally (UK, C18) a “clever but shallow person”; this sense is an early example of a US term moved into wider usage by Hollywood films.

- “The Snake Pit” is that—the mad gathering place at cocktail time for the local celebs—the Senators, lobbyists, army brass and blondes cuties. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 132, 1951
- “If you and Gil Sullivan went and got yourselves fixed up with a pair of semi-pro cuties down in the city, I wouldn't applaud, but I think I could understand[.]” — John D. MacDonald, The Deceivers, p. 147, 1958

cutie-pie *noun*an attractive woman US, 1970

- Les Harrison attempted to intercept her and introduce her to the cutie-pie starlet. — Terry Southern, Blue Movie, p. 17, 1970

- And there were leggy cutie-pie vultures and cold-blooded toothy hustlers staked out in the plush murk to ambush celebrity bankrolls. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), The Naked Soul of Iceberg Slim, p. 80, 1971

- I only like cutie pies massaging me. When you're massaged, you like to open up your eyes and see a cutie pie there. — Susan Hall, Gentleman of Leisure, p. 93, 1972 cut-in *noun*the initial contact with the intended victim in a confidence swindle US, 1977

- Folks left the office and went to the elevator athrow with satisfaction that the Bates cut-in had come off so sweetly. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Long White Con, p. 94, 1977

cut in *verb1 to attempt a romantic relationship with someone already romantically involved US, 1950

- That makes her his chick. You've both been playing around when you're not supposed to. Happy don't fancy that crap and neither do we 'cause there's not supposed to be any cutting in. — Hal Ellson, Tomboy, p. 76, 1950

2 to seize a share of a business or enterprise US, 1980

- I wanted to be in the swim so I cut in on a chick. She was not much to look at, but she made good money[.] — Louis Armstrong, Satchmo, p. 86, 1954 cut into *verb*to approach someone and draw them into a swindle; to introduce someone to something US, 1940

- He doesn't know a diamond from a seashell. I've already cut into him and told him the tale. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Trick Baby, p. 298, 1969
- Prince cut me into a choice little crib for fifteen cents a week. — Babs Gonzales, Movin' On Down De Line, p. 15, 1975

cut man *noun*the member of a boxer's entourage responsible for treating cuts between rounds US, 1975

- Of course he had a great cut man, Whitey Bimstein, and Charley Goldman, a great trainer, taught him to shorten up his shots and develop a left hook. — Edwin Torres, Carillo's Way, p. 135, 1975
- The cutman should have told him not to clear his nose after taking the shot in the eye from Palomino. — Elmore Leonard, Out of Sight, p. 113, 1996

cutor *noun*a prosecuting attorney US, 1962

- — Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World's Toughest Prison, p. 796, 1962

cut out *verb1 to leave US, 1827

- Now, look, man, we ought to be cutting out. — John Clennon Holmes, Go, p. 98, 1952
- “This joint must have just been raided,” she said. “Looks like everybody cut out.” — Steve Allen, Bop Fables, p. 6, 1955
- With her pretty nose in the air she cut out of there[.] — Jack Kerouac, On the Road, p. 89, 1957
- Then E.J. and I had cut out, bumming around and fruit-picking[.] — Clancy Sigal, Going Away, p. 84, 1961
- Looks like you decided to cut out early. — Empire Records, 1995

2 to die US, 1955

- The bad jazz that a cat blows wails long after they've cut out. — William “Lord” Buckley, Marc Anthony's Funeral Oration, 1955 cuts *noun1 the definition of body muscle from spaces between the muscle that have no fat US, 1984

- — American Speech, p. 199, Fall 1984: “The language of bodybuilding”
- His stomach still had cuts from workouts during his prison bid. — Adrian Nicole LeBlanc, Random Family, p. 293, 2003

2 permission from a friend to step into a line at their place US, 1989

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 43, 1989

3 clothing US, 1978

- Whooh! This preacher got some cuts, I thought, admiring the sharp clothes he was wearing. — Bobby Seale, A Lonely Rage, p. 133, 1978

cutta *noun*the buttocks US, 1957

- “Man, dig that crazy cutta on the big beast in the plaid skirt.” — Herbert Simmons, Corner Boy, p. 58, 1957 cutter *noun1 a forensic pathologist US, 1991

- Julie Goodin looks nothing like a cutter, and considering the prevailing stereotype, that's probably something of a compliment. — David Simon, Homicide, p. 428, 1991

2 a surgeon US, 1970

- Y'all were short a couple cutters and we're what the Army sent. — *M*A*S*H*, 1970

3 a person who is proficient with the use of a knife or of a weapon US, 1947

- Crazy's reputation as a cutter and potential killer was well known in Brownsville. — Irving Shulman, The Amboy Dukes, p. 214, 1947

4 a pistol US, 1908

- — American Speech, p. 193, October 1957: “Some colloquialisms of the handgunner”

5 a musician who betters another in a competition of solos US, 1956

- Mexico's “cutters” must have played variations on it for three straight, solid hours. — Robert Sylvester, No Cover Charge, p. 49, 1956

6 any substance used to dilute a drug, thereby expanding volume while reducing potency US, 1995

- — Mark S. Fleisher, Beggars & Thieves, p. 288, 1995

- 7 in American casinos, twenty-five cents US, 1985
Playing on the sound of “quarter.”
- Steve Kuriscak, Casino Talk, p. 17, 1985
- cutting house noun
a place where drugs are diluted for resale US, 1974
- Well, that was Willis McDaniel’s main cuttin’ house they hit. — Vernon E. Smith, The Jones Men, p. 54, 1974
- cutting man noun
a best friend US, 1970
- Roger D. Abrahams, Deep Down in the Jungle, p. 259, 1970
- cutting match noun
a competition between improvising jazz musicians US, 1963
- Cabiness knew it would turn into a cutting match, and Kovin would blow him through the door. — Malcolm Braly, Shake Him Till He Rattles, pp. 72–73, 1963
- cutting plant noun
a shop where stolen cars are dismantled or altered US, 1978
- But wait—and both of them had been in there for grand theft auto, supplying new Sevilles and Continentals to body shops and cutting plants down near Columbus. — Elmore Leonard, Switch, p. 16, 1978
- cutty noun
a cousin US, 2002
- On the west side, Mexicans and blacks started calling him “Cutty,” street slang for cousin. — Los Angeles Times, p. 1, 26th August 2002
- cut up verb
to behave without restraint US, 1846
- The lowlier links lam the 36 miles to Baltimore to cut up. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, 1951
- cuз noun
a friend US, 1979
- The Bell (Paducah Tighman High School), pp. 8–9, 17th December 1993
- cuз; cuzz noun
a term of address used by one member of the Crips youth gang to another US, 1990
- Thanks cuzz. — Boyz n The Hood, 1990
 - “What’s up, cuз?” Tray Ball extends his very dark, muscular, veined hand. — Sanyika Shakur, Monster, p. 5, 1993
 - One of the Crips named Cunningham had been tagged with the moniker “Young Cousin.” This was subsequently shortened to “Young Cuzz,” and then to, “Cuzz.” Many of the other Crips started calling each other Cuzz[.] — Bill Valentine, Gangs and Their Tattoos, p. 75, 2000
- cwazy adjective used as a jocular substitute for “crazy” US, 1952
- After all these years, the hamburgers at Vanessi’s—when Mario makes ‘em—are still the endest, the gonest, the cwaziest. — San Francisco, p. 29, 23rd March 1952
 - Monkey Flees Its Cage and Cwazy People [Headline]. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 5, 15th March 1956
- CYA verb to protect yourself from future criticism for actions being taken now US, 1959
- An abbreviation of “cover your ass.”
- In World War II, the Army coined its special code word—SNAFU, or politely translated, Situation Normal All Fouled Up. Today’s Army has its code word too—CYA, or Cover Your Ass. — New York Times, p. SM10, 5th September 1971

- “I can’t cover for you there, even if I wanted to,” he said, laying out the usual C.Y.A. office ground rules. That’s the way it was in the District Attorney’s office. You had to “Cover Your Ass,” because Gil always covered his. — Stephen Cannell, King Con, p. 46, 1997
- Pumping up a coalition that existed mostly in name, putting out CYA statements, refusing to concede a war plan had obvious problems, hyping one of the more dramatic (and cinematic) moments of the war—none of this was surprising behavior for the Pentagon[.] — David Corn, The Lies of George W. Bush, p. 267, 2003

c-ya

used in computer messages as shorthand to mean “see you” US, 1995

- Christian Crumlish, The Internet Dictionary, p. 44, 1995

cyber-banging noun

use of the internet in gang warfare US

- The wave of feuding gangs going online to call out rivals—digital graffiti called “cyber-banging”—May have not only lead to the murder of aspiring rapper Joseph “Lil JoJo” Coleman last month, but also a 26-year-old parolee in a potential retaliation slaying. — Chicago Sun Times, 21st October 2012
- “Cyber Banging Drives New Generation of Gang Violence,” Los Angeles Times, 3rd October 2015

cyclo noun

a rickshaw pulled by a bicycle US, 1988

- [F]rom the poor cyclo drivers of Hue to the most sophisticated intellectuals[.] — Frances Fitzgerald, Fire in the Lake, p. 244, 1972
- He drove out of the old French cavalry camp and then maneuvered in his impatient way through Saigon’s vehicular extravaganza of trucks and gaudily painted buses coming and going from the countryside, Vespa scooters and Lambretta motorbikes, cyclos[.] — Neil Sheehan, A Bright Shining Lie, p. 41, 1988

cyclo boy noun

a young Vietnamese man on a motorbike, often one who procures women for American soldiers US, 1991

- The cyclo boy knew where the house was immediately, without being given the address. — Christopher Koch, Highway to a War, 1996
- She smiled in Top’s direction—our cyclo boy had apparently let her know what we were after. — Dirk Harman, Semper Aloha, p. 81, 2005

cyclo girl noun

a prostitute US

- Cyclo girl—whore from village. — Rambo: First Blood, 1985
- “Me no cyclo girl!” she said, storming out of the room. — Eric Karlson, Fall to Grace, p. 121, 1999
- cyclo girl: A term that a virtuous Vietnamese girl would use to describe a prostitute. In other words, “She would take anyone for a ride.” — Richard Ingelido, It’s Not About the War, p. 223, 2009

cyclone noun

phencyclidine, the recreational drug known as PCP or angel dust US, 1994

- US Department of Justice, Street Terms, October 1994

cyring call noun

in poker, a bet equal to the last bet made in a hesitating fashion US, 1982

- David M. Hayano, Poker Faces, p. 186, 1982

Dd

D noun

1 a police detective US, 2005

- Milo briefed one of the D's very quickly, then came over to where I sat, just outside the tape. — Jonathan Kellerman, Rage, p. 487, 2005

2 Dilaudid™, a synthetic opiate US, 1954

- All right, we was just gonna shoot this little bitty bottle of D. — Bruce Jackson, In the Life, p. 220, 1972

3 narcotics US, 1976

- — John R. Armore and Joseph D. Wolfe, Dictionary of Desperation, p. 26, 1976

4 a member of the Disciples youth gang US, 1969

- "Nah, ain't no D shot me. My old-lady cousin did it." — L.H. Whittemore, Cop, p. 180, 1969

D/s noun

in sado-masochistic sex, domination and submission US, 1995

- Since the D/s (Dominance/submission) and B&D (bondage and discipline) crowds often incorporate dressing for pleasure as a related part of their lifestyle, it is not surprising to find that many of the posts relate to this lifestyle. — Nancy Tamosaitis, net.sex, p. 99, 1995

DA noun

1 a hair-style popular in the early 1950s; the hair was tapered and curled on the nape of the neck like the feathers of a duck's tail US, 1951

Abbreviated from DUCK'S ASS.

- The D.A. haircut requires nothing more than finding a barber who is not a square (i.e., one who would think it was named for the district attorney). — Life, p. 137, 25th January 1954
- [S]moothing their hair lightly with the palms of their hands, pushing their DA's gently and patting them in place. — Hubert Selby Jr., Last Exit to Brooklyn, p. 28, 1957
- I noticed they were dressed in peg pants with pistol pockets, wearing DA's, like everybody except me. — Bobby Seale, A Lonely Rage, p. 86, 1978
- Her hair was done in a salt-and-pepper DA. — Armistead Maupin, Tales of the City, p. 25, 1978

2 a drug addict US, 1946

- I sure didn't want to be classed as a junkie, no matter how many "D.A.'s" they stamped on my card. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 311, 1946

da

so; very US, 1981

Hawaiian youth usage.

- "Oh, da hot!" — Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max, 1981

dab noun

1 hashish oil US

- Other street or slang names for Hash Oil are "Dabs," "earwax" and "Shatter." — US Fed News, 17th September 2014
- Dabs are more potent than conventional forms of marijuana because they have much higher concentrations of the psychoactive chemical tetrahydrocannabinol. — "Marijuana Dabbing is Exploding onto the Drug-Use Scene, livescience.com, 15th June 2015
- Dabs are concentrated doses of cannabis that are made by extracting THC and other cannabinoids using a solvent like butane or carbon dioxide, resulting in sticky oils. — "What is Dabbing and How do Dabs Work?" leafy.com/news/cannabis, 13th October 2015

2 a drunk woman US

A vocalized abbreviation of "drunk-ass bitch"

- This word usually has a negative connotation and is not often used when describing your drunk friends, but more so when describing a girl whom you do not particularly like. — Urban Dictionary, 12th April 2013
- Usually traveling in packs, DABS walk into beachy nightclubs with the sole intention of making a whole lot of memories that they sure as hell won't remember. — Collegemagazine.com, 18th March 2015

dab verb

in mountain biking, to touch the ground unintentionally with any part of the body US, 1992

- — William Nealy, Mountain Bike, p. 160, 1992: 'Bikespeak'

dabble verb to use addictive drugs without succumbing to the addiction US, 1949

- — Captain Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 64, 1949
- How long have you been dabblin' in stuff? — Claude Brown, Manchild in the Promised Land, p. 322, 1965
- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 64, 1971

dab-dab noun

to participate in homosexual sex US, 1990 Prison usage.

- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 202, 1990

Dachau noun

any military stockade US

- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 13, 1968

dad noun

1 used as a term of address for a man, especially an older man.

Often patronizing US, 1928

- — Robert S. Gold, A Jazz Lexicon, p. 76, 1964

2 a homosexual prisoner's "owner" (protector and lover) US, 1992

- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 59, 1992

'Dad' nickname

the state penitentiary in Soledad, California US, 1993

- "They's as cold-blooded killas as anyone you ever met in Quentin or the 'Dad.'" — Bob Sipchen, Baby Insane and the Buddha, p. 92, 1993

dad-blamed adjective

used as a euphemism for "damned" US, 1844

"Dad" is a euphemism for God.

- "What you always writing in that dad-blamed book for?" she asked with a sour little face. — Louise Fitzhugh, Harriet the Spy, p. 36, 1964
- When they're located, the whole dad-blamed family is going to be whisked off to a mansion in Beverly Hills[.] — Portland Mercury, 18th September 2002

daddy noun

1 the dominant partner in a homosexual relationship US, 1932

- They are usually long-terms and are familiarly known to inmates by such local cognomens as "wolves," "top men," "jockers" or "daddies." — Ebony, p. 82, July 1951
- [T]he queens will go on looking for their own legendary permanent "Daddies" among the older men who dig the queens' special brand of gone sexplay[.] — John Rechy, City of Night, p. 108, 1963
- The complementary role to the femme is the "stud broad" or "daddy" who assumes the male role. — Rose Gialombardo, Society of Women, p. 124, 1966
- It must have been your night to play daddy. — Malcolm Braly, On the Yard, p. 333, 1967

2 an aggressive, predatory male homosexual US

- "Look, if you're a kid in here it means ya gotta have a 'daddy.'" — Nathan Heard, To Reach a Dream, p. 30, 1972
- Immates subject to rape ("punks") face threats and violence perpetrated by stronger inmates ("daddies," "jockers," or "booty bandits") who initiate unwanted sexual acts. — Corrections Today, p. 100, December 1996

3 in the US Army, your supervising officer US, 1968

- — Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 13, 1968

4 a procurer of prostitutes US

- You might see an older male checking in with a young female or females. You might see a young girl refer to that older man as her boyfriend or as "daddy." — Cincinnati Enquirer, 28th July 2013

daddy-come-to-church noun

an unusual event US, 1953

- All that hard work and deep breathing had put breasts on her like daddy-come-to-church. — Jim Thompson, Savage Night, p. 22, 1953

daddy mac noun

an attractive young man US, 1997

- — Yann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 48, 1997

daddy-o noun

1 used as a term of address for a man US, 1947

- You just burned down the town last Wednesday, daddy-o. — William "Lord" Buckley, Nero, 1951
- "Sorry, Daddy-o," said Red. "Some other time." — Steve Allen, Bop Fables, p. 38, 1955
- RIFF: Spread the word, Diesel. DIESEL: Right, daddy-o. — Stephen Sondheim, West Side Story, 1957
- Evan Hunter, author of MGM's movie "Blackboard Jungle," was sued for using the expression "daddy-o" in the script. A Midwest disc jockey claimed he coined the term. — San Francisco Chronicle, This Week, p. 10 (II), 26th August 1962

2 the US Federal Communications Commission US, 1977

- — Bill Davis, Jawjacking: The Complete CB Dictionary, p. 33, 1977

3 an aggressive, predatory male homosexual US, 1951

- He is simply the brass-brained, muscle-bound Golden Boy who appointed himself my jailhouse Daddy-o. — James Blake, The Joint, p. 24, 13th May 1951

daddypoo noun

used as an embellishment of "daddy," usually from a woman to a man US, 1966

- All the other girls are ahead of me this month, daddypool [Steve Roper comic strip] — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 54, 1st March 1966

daddy tank noun

a jail cell reserved for lesbian prisoners US, 1971

- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 64, 1971
- — Ralph de Sola, Crime Dictionary, p. 37, 1982
- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 10, 1992

daffy adjective

odd, eccentric, silly UK, 1884

The original meaning of "slightly mad" has softened over the years.

- [T]he whole thing was making a young girl who wasn't too bright to begin with into some kind of a daffy basket case. — George V. Higgins, The Rat on Fire, p. 149, 1981
- Before Lynn could get into his Rambler, Nelson showed him that daffy grin and said, "If we get him, I hope you'll put in a good word for me with your ex-captain." — Joseph Wambaugh, Fugitive Nights, p. 103, 1992

dag verb

1 to engage in anal sex US, 2001

- — The Correctional Officer's Guide to Prison Slang, 2001

2 to participate in serial, reciprocal, homosexual oral sex US, 1990

- Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 202, 1990

dag!

used for expressing surprise US, 1987

- “I made four goals in the game yesterday.” “Dag! You were hot!” — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 3, Spring 1987
- Can’t go nowhere without the hat. Dag. — David Simon and Edward Burns, The Corner, p. 102, 1997
- “Oh hell, I might as well try ‘em [psychoactive mushrooms], this party is so drab.” “Oh dag!” “What?” “I ain’t mean for you to eat the whole bag!” — Eminem (Marshall Mathers), My Fault, 1999
- “Dag, I’ll take it.” — Richard Price, Samaritan, p. 33, 2003

dagga

a marijuana cigarette US, 1955

- American Speech, p. 87, May 1955 dagger

a lesbian US, 1980

An abbreviation of the full BULLDAGGER.

- Edith A. Folb, runnin’ down some lines, p. 234, 1980

dago

an Italian or Italian-American US, 1857

A slur, originally applied to Spaniards, then to Spaniards, Portuguese and Italians, and now only to Italians.

- Angelo meant “angel” in dago. But he wasn’t no angel. — Willard Motley, Knock on Any Door, p. 91, 1947
- “He called me a dago son of a b—,” explained Sinatra as he told how he had clouted Mortimer at the entrance of Ciro’s. — Fortnight, p. 20, 21st April 1947
- Who gets the jobs over there in the NMU Hall? American white men like you and me? No. Dagos and Spiks and Niggers. — William Burroughs, Junkie, p. 72, 1953
- I had so much of that hot greaser dago cock that I stopped men-strating and started minestroning! — Terry Southern, Candy, pp. 211–212, 1958
- In ‘77 he smoked a bag of dust he bought from a dago. — New Jack City, 1990

Dago

San Diego, California US, 1931

- We don’t do it in Dago. — Raymond Chandler, Playback, p. 13, 1958
- I made a connection with some Mexican pushers in ‘Dago, and they kept me supplied. — John O’Day, Confessions of a Male Prostitute, p. 105, 1964
- Berdo and Dago Chapters of the South don’t think so, they really can’t see it this way. — Frank Reynolds, Freewheelin’ Frank, p. 21, 1967
- I caught the six o’clock bus to Dago and walked across the border. — James Ellroy, Brown’s Requiem, pp. 128–129, 1981

dago bomb

a type of firework US, 1960

- Now loo, when the Dago bomb goes off I want all of you to be ready. — Jean Shepherd, The Ferrari in the Bedroom, p. 187, 1972

dago red

cheap Italian red wine US, 1945

- They entered the back door of the Gambino’s frame house on East 93rd Street, interrupting a heated conversation in the kitchen between Frank’s father and a half dozen other rather threatening Italians drinking dago red out of jelly glasses. — Brian Boyer, Prince of Thieves, p. 18, 1975
- I mean, around here a cultured person is one that don’t drink dago red from a jar. — Joseph Wambaugh, Finnegan’s Week, p. 9, 1993

dagotown

a neighborhood dominated by Italian-Americans US, 1960

- Even the dago-town pusher was wary of him now, just because of Sonny. — Clarence Cooper Jr., The Scene, p. 12, 1960

Dagwood

a large and elaborate sandwich US, 1948

Named after the sandwiches made by the Dagwood Bumstead character in the Blondie comic strip.

- Sol had a saltine Dagwood going: peanut butter, lox spread, sardines. — James Ellroy, Hollywood Nocturnes, p. 96, 1994

daikon legs

short, pale, and fat legs US, 1981

Hawaiian youth usage. The “daikon” is also known as an Asian, Oriental, or Chinese radish; it is stubby and white.

- Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max, 1981

daily-daily

during the Vietnam war, antimalaria pills taken daily, in addition to a second medication taken once a week US, 1982

- Doc McCarthy came by with the daily-daily (anti-malaria) pills. — John M. Del Vecchio, The 13th Valley, p. 243, 1982
- “Don’t forget your Daily-Daily,” Doc warns, holding out the malaria pill. — Fred Brown, Vietnam War Diary, p. 212, 1998

daily double in poker, two consecutive winning hands US, 1996

A borrowing from horse racing.

- John Vorhaus, The Big Book of Poker Slang, p. 12, 1996

dainties

underwear, especially women’s underwear worn by transvestites US, 1972

- Bruce Rodgers, The Queens’ Vernacular, p. 59, 1972

daisy

an attractive young woman US, 1876

- Who was she? Just some blonde daisy, getting into the Jag. — John Milne, Alive and Kicking, p. 33, 1998

daisy chain

noun

1 a group of people, arranged roughly in a circle, in which each person is both actively and passively engaged in oral, anal, or vaginal sex with the person in front of and behind them in the circle US, 1927

A term that is much more common than the practice.

- Past the Horseshoe Club, with its modified burlesque, and where for five bucks extra you can watch three naked women form a daisy chain on the floor of a basement room anytime after one a.m. — Rogue for Men, p. 46, June 1956
- We had sort of a daisy chain, with Ned in the middle. Ned’s boyfriend performed fellatio on him while Ned used his hand on me and I masturbated his friend. — Ruth Allison, Lesbianism, p. 117, 1967
- The orgy scene is to involve, primarily, three different sexual activities in the following chronological order: oral sex in a “daisy-chain” configuration with all five performers involved. — Vincent Barth, Porno Films and the People who Make Them, p. 121, 1973
- His appearance signals a nine-person orgy that features a delicious daisy-chain of joined cocks and cunts and mouths. — Adult Video, p. 29, August/September 1986

2 figuratively and by extension, a series of events that return to the beginning US, 1954

- Randolph is suing, Stanley is suing Stuyvesant North. it’s a daisy chain. — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, p. 15, 6th May 1954
- “But the cool nurse who’s no longer cool goes immediately to the feds, who’ve been talking to her anyway, and now the fucking daisy chain comes around again.” — Elmore Leonard, Bandits, p. 140, 1987

3 in computing, a network architecture in which a single cable connects all nodes US, 1995

- Christian Crumlish, The Internet Dictionary, p. 47, 1995

4 a confidence swindle where funds from successive victims are used to keep the swindle alive with the earlier victims US, 1985

- He has a girlfriend named Monica Brown, a con artist who’s working a gold-mine scam, a daisy chain. — Gerald Petievich, Shakedown, p. 154, 1988

5 a series of (Claymore) mines attached to each other and rigged for sequential detonation UK, 1950

From the general appearance.

- He carried ten extra claymore mines, and we spent the better part of the evening running a daisy chain that went forever. — Larry Chambers, Recondo, p. 74, 1992

6 a formation used by helicopters and tanks, spread out in a line, nose to tail US

- One of the methods devised by M 113 units for crossing muddy rice paddies was the “daisy-chain” or “choo-choo train.” A number of APCs were cabled together and all the vehicles pulled in concert. — Simon Dunstan, Vietnam Tracks, p. 55, 2004
- The Elite HAL-3 Helicopter Squadron in Vietnam teach you the technique of a daisy-chain-type delivery so that you’ll get the feel for covering your wingman. “Daisy chain” meant that each chopper would fire and roll around. — Daniel Kell, U.S. Navy Seawolves: The Elite HAL-3 Helicopter Squadron in Vietnam, 2008
- “OK, 38 set up a daisy chain. Get separation for rocket firing.” — William Hellman, A Pilot’s Tale: Flying Helicopters in Vietnam, p. 220, 2008
- A daisy chain of 276 UH-1 helicopters picked up ARVN troops at Khe Sanh and deposited them at LZ Hope near Tchepone. — Vinh Truong, Vietnam War: The New Legion, p. 126, 2010

daisy-chain

verb

1 to take part in DAISY CHAIN SEX US, 1962

- “You didn’t go in for any of that daisy-chaining with Ira?” — Stephen Longstreet, The Flesh Peddlers, p. 171, 1962

2 to arrange Claymore mines in a sequence US, 1991

- It was too dark to daisy-chain together so we tried to at least overlap the kill zones. — Gary Linderer, The Eyes of the Eagle, p. 177, 1991

daisy cutter

a 10,000 to 15,000 pound bomb used to clear jungle and create an instant landing zone in Vietnam US, 1917

- It can drop napalm (jellied gasoline), phosphorus bombs, 500-pound demolition and 260-pound fragmentation bombs, and a 500-pound Daisy Cutter with an attachment to detonate the bomb before it buries itself in the soft soil of the Delta. — Elaine Shepard, The Doom Pussy, p. 30, 1967
- The bunker complex was not secured until the air force hit it with Daisy Cutters. — Keith Nolan, Ripcord, p. 89, 2000
- A “Daisy Cutter” is a huge bomb that can cause massive destruction [. . .] The type depicted in the leaflets, and also used in Afghanistan, is the BLU-82B Commando Vault or Big Blue 82, also known as the Daisy Cutter. — BBC News, 6th November 2001

Daisy Dukes

very short and very tight shorts US, 1993

Named after a character on the unforgettable television program Dukes of Hazzard.

- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Spring 1993
- I tripped off of these “Daisy Dukes”; they be wearing these short, biker shorts, and these little crazy outfits. — Yusuf Jah, Uprising, p. 103, 1995
- Randi Storm is in the classic blond bimbo mold, getting d.p’d out of her tit-sling and Daisy Dukes. — Editors of Adult Video News, The AVN Guide to the 500 Greatest Adult Films of All Time, p. 326, 2005

dak

noun

a C-47A Skytrain plane, also known as a DC-3, most commonly used to transport people and cargo, but also used as a bomber and fighter US, 1975

- She was known affectionately as the “Gooney Bird,” “Dak,” and “Dizzy Three” to the men who flew her during World War II. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 60, 18th January 1975

da kine

used at any time to mean anything US, 1951
Hawaiian youth usage. Can be used as a noun, pronoun, adjective, and suffix.

- — Douglas Simonson, Pidgin to da Max, 1981
- — Mitch McKissick, Surf Lingo, 1987

dama blanca noun

cocaine US, 1976
Spanish for “white lady.”

- — R.C. Garrett, The Coke Book, p. 200, 1984
- — US Department of Justice Street Terms, August 1994

damage *noun1 expense; cost UK, 1755

Probably from damages awarded in law. Especially familiar in the (jocular) phrase, “what’s the damage?” (how much?).

- What’s the damage? It is one dollar and fifty all together, senor. — William Edmund Barrett, The Lilies of the Field, p. 26, 1967

2 a problem US, 1988

- What’s your damage, Heather? — Heathers, 1988

damaged goods noun

an ex-virgin US, 1916

- — Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 65, 1949

dame *noun1 a woman UK, 1720

While the term originally reflected on the woman involved (an implication of common status), it now reflects more on the speaker, suggesting a tough or old-fashioned viewpoint.

- Prosperous now, he drifted into Broadway life—and immediately tangled with a new breed of dames. — Bernard Wolfe, The Late Risers, p. 48, 1954

2 in a deck of playing cards, a queen US, 1996

- — Peter O. Steiner, Thursday Night Poker, p. 409, 1996

damfino used as a jocular abbreviation of “damned if I know” US, 1882

- “Then why are we doing this?” “Damfino.” — Jerry Pournelle and Jerry Pournelle, Football, p. 514, 1985

damn noun

something of little or no worth UK, 1760

Usually in phrases like “not worth a damn,” “not care a damn,” and “not give a damn.” There is a strongly fought historical argument that this derives from “dam” (an Indian coin of little value); the Oxford English Dictionary prefers “damn” (a “profane utterance”) as the object of this etymology.

- Life’s not worth a damn / Till you can say / I am what I am. — Jerry Herman, I Am What I Am, 1983
- David O. Selznick was fined $5,000 for allowing Clark Gable to say “Frankly, my dear, I don’t give a damn” in Gone With The Wind (1939). — Aubrey Dillon Malone, I Was a Fugitive from a Hollywood Trivia Factory, p. 99, 1999
- I mean it. I don’t give a damn who you are. — James N. Frey, How to Write a Damn Good Mystery, p. 46, 2004

-damn- infix

used as an intensifier US, 1867

- “And I’ll guaran-damn-tee you they won’t be back,” and he put his hat on and left. — Fannie Flagg, Fried Green Tomatoes at the Whistletop Cafe, p. 206, 1987

Damn, Gina! Dang, Gina! exclamation used for expressing humorous frustration or surprise US, 2004

Popularized by Martin Lawrence on “Martin” (1992–1997)

- Once you put on these lashes, everyone will be saying, “Damnnn, Gina.” — Xxx, 2016

damnation alley noun

in roulette, the twelve-number column on the left of the layout US, 1979

So named because a dealer may not see a cheat place a late bet in the column, which is sometimes out of the dealer’s line of sight.

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 58, 1987

damned tooting used for expressing emphatic agreement US, 1963

Folksy.

- Simms said he was damned tootin’ he was right. — Jim Thompson, The Grifters, p. 17, 1963
- You’re damned tootin’ ol LB ain’t gonna take no money from the members of the Bar. — Oscar Zeta Acosta, The Autobiography of a Brown Buffalo, p. 21, 1972

damn skippy

absolutely! without a doubt! US, 1994

An intensive affirmative.

- We got them on our side and damn skippy we’ll use them. — William Upsi Winsatt, Bomb the Suburbs, p. 51, 1994
- ‘I’m telling you, you can’t trust nobody anymore.’ “He snookered us.” “Damn skippy.” — Janet Evanovich, Seven Up, p. 12, 2001

damp adjective

allowing the importation of alcohol for personal consumption but not for public sale US, 1991

A play on the extremes of “wet” and “dry.”

- — Russell Tabbert, Dictionary of Alaskan English, p. 89, 1991

damp blanket noun

in the theater, a bad review US, 1981

- — Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 70, 1981

damper noun

1 a solitary confinement cell; a cell US, 1992

- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 10, 1992

2 a safe deposit box in a bank US, 1872

- — Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 44, 1970

3 a bank US, 1932

- He was a pretty good fake in his day, but he couldn’t show his mug around any of the dampers in the Apple. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 134, 1973

damper verb

to mute, to quiet US, 1979

- Pallies, damper the rapping! — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Airtight Willie and Me, p. 29, 1979

dance verb

1 to fight US, 1975

- — Report to the Senate, California Senate Committee on Civil Disorder, p. 227, 1975

2 (used of a wink in tiddlywinks) to wobble around US, 1977

- — Verbatim, December 1977

3 to cause a car to bounce up and down by use of hydraulic lifts US, 1980

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin’ down some lines, p. 234, 1980

▶ dance in the rain room to take a shower in prison US, 1989

- — James Harris, A Convict’s Dictionary, p. 30, 1989

▶ dance on the blacktop

to be stabbed, especially in a prison yard US

- — Matt Soniak, “50 Prison Slang Words to Make You Sound Like a Tough Guy,” mentalfloss.com, 17th October 2012

dancehall noun

the execution chamber in a prison US, 1928

- — Troy Harris, A Booklet of Criminal Argot, Cant and Jargon, p. 8, 1976

- [T]he condemned man was moved from the regular Death Row cells to a cell near the Dance Hall, through which he would walk on in his way to the chair. — Ted Conover, Newjack, p. 195, 2000

dance of death noun

a relationship or marriage between two addicts US, 1998

Used in twelve-step recovery programs such as Alcoholics Anonymous.

- — Christopher Cavanaugh, AA to Z, p. 75, 1998

dancing academy noun

used as a euphemism and legal dodge for an after-hours homosexual club US, 1974

- Although it appears an unlikely hour for serious study, private dancing academies offering instructions between 2 a.m. and 6 a.m. have opened in San Francisco, the police reported to the Board of Supervisors yesterday. — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 4, 12th April 1974

dancing girls noun

in dominoes, the seven tiles with a five US, 1959

- — Dominic Armanino, Dominoes, p. 16, 1959

dance of the old troopers noun phrase veteran members of the armed forces sharing memories and old stories US

- The Sergeant Major raised his bottle of beer and tipped it toward the Colonel and stared out the open door too. They were doing the Dance of the Old Troopers, the Colonel and the Sergeant Major. — Lucian Truscott, Army Blue, p. 185, 1989

D and D noun

the criminal charge of being drunk and disorderly US, 1966

- “We better get out of this neighborhood,” Doc warned. “Or we’ll find ourselves with thirty days D and D.” — Malcolm Braly, It’s Cold Out There, p. 73, 1966

D and D adjective

deaf and dumb US, 1937

Usage is both literal (applied to beggars) and figurative (applied to someone who knows nothing and will say nothing).

- “He went D and D,” Loretta Fischetti said. “Yes, Deaf and Dumb, I said.” — Daniel Pinkwater, Looking for Bobowicz, p. 59, 2004

dandy noun

a grade of “D” US, 1965

- — Time, p. 57, 1st January 1965: “Students: the slang bag” dang

used as a mild oath or intensifier US, 1821

A euphemized “damn.”

- Dang me, dang me / They oughta take a rope and hang me. — Roger Miller, Dang Me, 1964
- It’s those dang judgment calls! — Dan Jenkins, Life Its Ownself, p. 193, 1984
- LUCY: Get me a beer. VELMA: Hey, we quit drinking. LUCY: Dang, that’s right, enit? I forgot. — Smoke Signals, 1998
- Dang, can’t a bro take a five-minute break? — Eric Jerome Dickey, Cheaters, p. 410, 1999

danged adjective

used as a euphemism for “damned” US, 1962

- When did they sneak that danged glass in there? — Ken Kesey, One Flew Over the Cuckoo’s Nest, p. 195, 1962
- Because the danged place was being painted, and the painters had left their ladders and cans scattered all over everywhere. — Jim Thompson, Pop, 1280, p. 10, 1964 danger is my business used as a humorous response to a suggestion that a proposed activity is dangerous US, 2006

The motto of cartoon secret agent Cool McCool (NBC, 1966–69), used with referential humor.

- “And who do I look like, Philip Marlowe?” “Not in the least. But it was Cool McCool who said ‘Danger is my business,’ not Philip Marlowe.” — Michael Blair, Overexposed, p. 256, 2006

dangle noun

the penis US, 1936

- On the wall was a nude drawing of Dean, enormous dangle and all, done by Camille. — Jack Kerouac, On the Road, p. 44, 1957
- — Collin Baker et al., College Undergraduate Slang Study Conducted at Brown University, p. 103, 1968
- She must have featured the angle of his dangle. — J.F. Freedman, Against the Wind, p. 88, 1991
- When I asked Mr. Dent, the gym teacher, if the angle of his dangle was equal to the heat of her meat, he rammed my head into a locker. — Breece Pancake, The Stories of Breece D’J Pancake, p. 135, 2002

dangler noun

the penis US, 1970

- “I’d be scared stiff,” he mutters. “Or, rather, I’d be scared limp, if you follow me. My dangler.” — Paul West, I’m Expecting to Live Quite Soon, p. 57, 1970
- At which point he unzipped his fly and yanked out his dangler and waved it at me. — John Francis Hunter, The Gay Insider, p. 204, 1971
- He let down his pants and was seated, and within two minutes was bitten on his dangler by a violin spider. — Samuel Steward, Understanding the Male Hustler, p. 130, 1991

Da Nang two-trot noun

dysentery US

- Everybody, all ranks, got the Da Nang “two trot.” That is, by your second, third and fourth days in Nam, you frequently, throughout the day, took two steps and crapped in your pants. — Bob Stoffey, Cleared Hot!, p. 13, 1992

daniel noun

the buttocks US, 1946

- Man, we oughta git up off our daniels and dig what’s goin’ on. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 250, 1946
- — Kenn “Naz” Young, Naz’s Underground Dictionary, p. 24, 1973

Daniel Boone mission noun

a small military incursion into Cambodia from Vietnam US, 1973

- Daniel Boone was the code name for the operations being run across the border into Cambodia[.] — Senate Committee on Armed Services, Bombing in Cambodia, p. 244, 1973
- A good buddy of mine on a Daniel Boone mission had been captured by the NVA crossing the Vam Co Dong River[.] — Paul Morgan, The Parrot’s Beak, p. 49, 2000

Daniel Boone squad; Daniel Boone team noun

US soldiers who engaged in cross-border reconnaissance in Cambodia during the Vietnam war US, 1991

- [A] Special Forces “Daniel Boone” team helicoptered into the target area. — Tom Wells, The War Within, p. 290, 2005

Danish noun

sexual intercourse with full penetration US, 1981

- “[S]tick to Swedish massage (by hand), or French (by mouth), and only go Spanish (between the breasts), Russian (between the thighs), American (a body roll) or Danish (inside) if it’s worth the money.” — Alex Shulman, On the Stroll, p. 133, 1981

Danish pastry noun

a transsexual US, 1997

An allusion to Denmark’s standing as an early pioneer in sex-change operations.

- — Jim Crotty, How to Talk American, p. 138, 1997

dank noun

a very potent marijuana US, 1998

- In conventional English, “dank” conjures the “stinky” STINKWEED (marijuana) smell of WEED (marijuana) growing in a damp place; or possibly from the slang adjective “dank” (excellent). Recorded with the use of “the.”
- I am a mobile buffet though, plenty of meth, always ‘shrooms and doses, windowpane or blotter with Disney characters on it, and Calidiggity dank to take off the edge. — Lynn Breedlove, Godspeed, p. 86, 2002

dank adjective

excellent; brilliant US, 1989

BAD is “good,” WICKED is “excellent.”

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 33, 1989
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Fall 1996
- — Connie Eble, Campus Slang: University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Spring 2014

Dan O’Leary noun

a tour of police duty in which the police officer works every possible minute US, 1958

- — New York Times Magazine, p. 88, 16th March 1958

dap noun

a handshake hooking thumbs, used by black US soldiers in Vietnam US, 1972

- The intricate dap is made up of dozens of steps ranging from tapping fists to slapping chests. Blacks say the dap is mainly used to say hello, show friendship, and express brotherhood. However, some of the most commonly used gestures (the dap varies from region to region) are symbols for cutting the throats of MP’s and shooting them in the head. — UPI Release, 25 April 1971

- And greeting each other with “the dap,” the mystical and increasingly ornate soul brother handshake. — Post Crescent (Appleton, Wisconsin), 25 May 1971
- [R]ace consciousness took the form of symbolic cultural behavior, for example, involved handshakes or the “dap.” — Charles R. Figley, g, p. 79, 1980
- This was a dap, among “in-country” vets a sign that they had been in Vietnam. — Wukuan Diehl, Thai Horse, p. 249, 1987
- Dap was the Vietnamese word for beautiful, and it was this way of shaking hands. — Harry Maurer, Strange Ground, p. 515, 1989

dap verb

to greet another with a ritualistic handshake; to show respect in greeting US, 1973

- They do a weird thing called “dapping” just to irritate others, as I understand it. — Margaret Herrgesell, Dear Margaret, Today I Died, p. 20, 1974: Letter home dated 22 March 1972
- Even if you just hate my fuckin’ guts go ‘head and dap me / Cause I’m gon’ dap you anyway and then go home and pray for yo’ ass later. — Outkast, Wailin’, 1996

dap adjective

well-dressed, fashionable US, 1956

A shortened “dapper.”

- — Robert George Reiser, The Jazz Titans, p. 153, 1960
- — Current Slang, p. 19, Fall 1968
- — Hermese E. Roberts, The Third Ear, 1971

dapdown verb

to dress nicely US, 1980

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin’ down some lines, p. 234, 1980

dapper noun

a person dressed in style US, 1974

- When she hesitated and put her hands on her hips, two young dappers yelled from the middle of the bar. — Donald Goines, Never Die Alone, p. 46, 1974

dapperDan noun

any well-dressed man US, 1955

- I asked famed fashion designer Bill Blass the difference between a slob and a Dapper Dan last night at an I. Magnin party. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 37, 21st October 1970

darb adjective

in circus usage, excellent US, 1981

- — Don Wilmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 70, 1981

dark *noun▶ inthedark

(used of a bet in poker) made without having seen your cards US, 1990

- — Anthony Holden, Big Deal, p. 302, 1990

dark adjective

1 unreachable by telephone US, 2004

A condition usually resulting from a failure to pay your bill.

- — Ben Applebaum and Derrick Pittman, Turd Ferguson & The Sausage Party, p. 24, 2004

2 untelevised US, 2000

- Dark matches serve numerous purposes. Wrestlers who’ve shined on the independent circuit—cards staged by small promoters in high school gyms, Grange halls and fraternal lodges—are invited to World Wrestling Federation TV tapings to audition for Federation officials. — Raw Magazine, p. 48, September 2000
- Just as non televised under-card bouts are called “dark matches” non televised arena events are called “dark shows.” Yeah, sure, the results show up in the rankings, but not on the boob tube. — Rampage Magazine, p. 18, September 2000

darkcheaters noun

sunglasses US, 1949

- Don’t think for a minute those dark cheaters fool little Flackie. — Raymond Chandler, Little Sister, p. 65, 1949

Dark Gable noun

a handsome black man US, 1959

Punning on the name Clark Gable. The nickname has been taken by more than one, but perhaps nobody more prominent than Mohammed Ali who briefly called himself Dark Gable in 1981.

- You make like a Dark Gable but you can’t dig my fable. — Dan Burley, Diggett Thou?, p. 45, 1959

dark-green adjective

1 excellent US, 1954

- “Dark Green,” he explained, “is what the hipsters are saying now instead of “real crazy.” — San Francisco Examiner, p. 31, 7th May 1954

2 black US

Marine humor—a black Marine was said to be “dark-green.”

- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 57, 1991

dark horse noun

in horse racing, a horse that is deemed a poor performer but one that might surprise all and win US, 1951

- — David W. Maurer, Argot of the Racetrack, p. 23, 1951

dark meat noun

a black person as a sexual object US, 1888

- All white men hanker after dark meat. The reader has the preacher’s word for that. — Pacific Spectator, p. 108, Winter 1947
- I tell them dark meat’s all the same as white in the dark, but I think they can’t believe it. — John M. Murtagh and Sara Harris, Cast the First Stone, p. 11, 1957
- Vess’s remarks really started me to wondering, however, why I really did like dark meat so much. — Phil Andros (Samuel M. Steward), Stud, p. 89, 1966

- This torrid tribute to the joys of dark meat features a chorus line of ebony beauties bouncing and boffing through a series of raunchy, relentlessly racist, and often unbearably funny skits that mine just about every sick cliché[.] — Adult Video, p. 16, August/September 1986

dark thirty *noun*late at night US, 1984

- To work from dawn till dark thirty. — Ken Weaver, Texas Crude, p. 91, 1984

dark time *noun*night US, 1976

- — Elementary Electronics, Dictionary of CB Lingo, p. 60, 1976

darktown *noun*a neighborhood populated largely by black people US, 1976

- The black ghettos of the “Darktown” slums in every Southern city were the consequence mainly of the Negro’s economic status, his relegation to the lowest rung of the ladder. — C. Vann Woodward, The Strange Career of Jim Crow, p. 1, 1974
- “It might be a window peeper who’s been working Darktown lately.” — James Elroy, White Jazz, p. 54, 1992
- Lorenzo had guessed as much, Gannon being the mostly white blue-collar town bordering the so-called Darktown section of Dempsy. — Richard Price, Freedomland, p. 37, 1998

darkwad *noun*a person who is oblivious to the dangers of walking within lighting at night US

- Anyone who walks or rides on the playa at night without adequate lighting on the front and back of his/her person or vehicle. — <http://burningman.org/culture/glossary/> (accessed 23rd May 2016)

darky; darkie *noun*1 a black person US, 1775

Originally used in a paternalistic, condescending manner, but now mainly to disparage.

- In fact, there’s a saying in Georgetown now that you’re not “smart” unless darkies live next door to you. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 10, 1951
- Darkies are always singing. You people know that. — James Baldwin, Blues for Mister Charlie, p. 73, 1964
- Well, what the hell is your problem that you and that other darky would come here to my house with the city lousy with government agents? — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Long White Con, p. 148, 1977
- But who was using em? Chinese immigrants. Slave labor. And the darkies up in the inner cities[.] — Traffic, 2000

darkytown *noun*a neighborhood with a large population of black people US, 1971

- Roy felt it when he ventured out of darky town onto the broad reaches of Court Square the center of white power and prestige in Holly Springs.—J. Anthony Lukas, Don’t Shoot — We Are Your Children, p. 79, 1971

darling *noun*used as a term of address between male homosexuals US, 1949

- Darling.—Meaningless vocative loosely used in “bitchy” conversation. — Anon., The Gay Girl’s Guide, p. 6, 1949 darn!; darn it!used for registering annoyance, frustration, etc US, 1781A euphemistic variation of DAMN!

- Well, it’s my own fault, darn it, she sighed, then smiled a little smile. — Terry Southern, Candy, p. 149, 1958 darned *adjective*used as an intensifier US, 1807Euphemistic for DAMNED.

- “You’re darned straight I’m impressed.” — Donna Clayton, Taking Love in Stride, p. 83, 1991 darned tooting!

used as a mock oath affirming that which has just been said US, 1963

Usually used in a self-mocking way, conjuring the image of an older, confused, country bumpkin.

- Simms said he was darned tootin’ he was right. — Jim Thompson, The Grifters, p. 17, 1963
- You’re darned tootin’! — Fargo, 1996

dash *noun*an escape from custody US, 1952

- — American Speech, p. 25, February 1952: “Teen-age hophead jargon”

date *noun*1 a prostitute’s customer US, 1961

- This John is a real honest-to-goodness hundred-dollar date, the way it used to be during the war. — Ross Russell, The Sound, p. 181, 1961
- I put her to work on the same edge on Hastings Street and fixed it where she could take her dates to a pal’s pad to turn em. — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 88, 1973
- Since each girl usually had between five and twenty dates a day, the average would be about twelve. — Jan Hutson, The Chicken Ranch, p. 83, 1980
- They told him that he was her first date of the night, but her cunt seemed to be full of something viscous like come or corn syrup. — William T. Vollman, Whores for Gloria, p. 15, 1991

2 a sexual liaison between a prostitute and a customer US, 1957

An ironic euphemism.

- The men involved on these “dates” were always Chinese. — Harry J. Anslinger, The Murderers, p. 38, 1961
- But there were no $5 dates in my house. — Bruce Jackson, In the Life, p. 78, 1972
- You want a date, honey? — Vernon E. Smith, The Jones Men, p. 111, 1974

- Since each girl usually had between five and twenty dates a day, the average would be about twelve. — Jan Hutson, The Chicken Ranch, p. 83, 1980
- Oliver had assured her that she was his top bitch but demanded to know why she couldn’t catch as many dates as Alice, his bottom bitch. — Joseph Wambaugh, Floater, p. 67, 1996

3 a prisoner’s expected date of release from prison US, 1989

- — James Harris, A Convict’s Dictionary, p. 30, 1989

date verb(used of a prostitute) to have sex with a customer for pay US, 1951

- A white prostitute tried to date us at the Mai Fong restaurant, in Chinatown[.] — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 26, 1951
- His name is Milt. I’ve dated him before, he only gets to the Apple once or twice a year. — Ross Russell, The Sound, p. 182, 1961
- “If a john walks up and offers seven dollars she tells him to shove it, she only dates for ten.” — Robert Deane Pharr, S.R.O., p. 372, 1971
- The polite form is to have a date, to turn a date, or dating. — Christina and Richard Milner, Black Players, p. 38, 1972

datebait *noun*1 an attractive person of either sex who is sought after as a date US, 1944

- She was not somebody who was considered date bait, because of her weight and her presentation. — David Brock, The Seduction of Hillary Rodham, p. 40, 1996

2 anything that might serve as an incentive for a date US, 1986

- What a fun, sweet, terrific movie. Great date bait. — Roger Ebert, Questions for the Movie Answer Man, p. 163, 1997 daughter *noun*a male homosexual in relation to the man who has introduced him to homosexuality US, 1949

- — Anon., The Gay Girl’s Guide, p. 6, 1949
- — American Speech, p. 56, Spring–Summer 1970: “Homosexual slang”

dauncey *adjective*pregnant US, 1952

The “Lucy is Enceinte” episode of the television comedy “I Love Lucy” (CBS, 1950–57), which aired on 8th December 1952, was the first US television treatment of pregnancy. Lucy avoided the word “pregnant,” instead saying that she was “feeling real dauncey,” explaining that it was a word that her grandmother “made up for when you’re not really sick but you just feel lousy.” The word enjoyed brief popular usage.

davvy *noun*a sofa or couch US, 1997

A corruption of “Davenport.”

- — Amy and Denise McFadden, CoalSpeak, p. 5, 1997

dawg *noun*1 a dog US, 1979

A rural, southern “dog.”

- Kleinfeld put his hand out and Carlito slapped it. “You dawg,” Brigante said. — Edwin Torres, After Hours, p. 208, 1979

2 a fellow youth gang member US, 2003

- [Y]our Kru, or your Massive, your Thugs, or Bredrins; Dawgs, Homies, your Clique, or your Posse. — Julian Johnson, Urban Survival, p. 264, 2003

dawner *noun*an engagement between a prostitute and customer that lasts all night, until dawn US, 1987

- Rialto was supposed to be waitin’ on Felita to say was it going to be a quick trick or a dawner. But Rialto wasn’t there. — Robert Campbell, Alice in La-La Land, p. 328, 1987

dawnpatrol *noun*any activity that requires staying up all night or getting up very early US, 1945

Originally a military term, later applied figuratively.

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 44, 1945
- “I suffered through those dawn patrol meetings myself,” says Masters. — San Francisco News, p. 23, 19th September 1951
- Therefore, I insisted that one girl work the dawn patrol. — Madam Sherry, Pleasure Was My Business, p. 107, 1963
- Dawn patrol—major dawn patrol. My son had a full blown attack. — As Good As It Gets, 1997 day com *noun*a practice of leaving a safe locked during business hours but only requiring a slight adjustment to open US, 1976

- Day com is when the manager of a store, fearing robbery, wants to give the impression his safe is locked, and still not have to rework the entire combination every time something is needed. — Malcolm Braly, False Starts, p. 125, 1976

day-for-day; day-to-day *adverb*serving a prison sentence without any reduction in the sentence for good behavior US, 1983

- “Let me explain something so you understand,” Stick said. “See, I did seven years straight up day to day in a room six and half feet wide by ten feet deep.” — Elmore Leonard, Stick, p. 84, 1983
- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 202, 1990

day job noun

a conventional job, usually used to finance a person's true interest or passion US, 1994

- HONEY BUNNY: Well, what else is there, day jobs? PUMPKIN: Not this life. — Pulp Fiction, 1994 daylight in the swamp!

used for rousing people from bed US, 1936

A logger term.

- My father woke us early, hours before it's light out, pounding on our doors, bellowing "Reveille, reveille, it's daylight in the swamp!" — Susan Fox Rogers, Solo, p. 17, 1996

daynumber noun

in an illegal number gambling lottery, a wager on a number for a single day's drawing US, 1949

- — American Speech, p. 191, October 1949

day player noun

an actor who is called for a single day's work on a television program or movie set US, 1988

- I mean was it a pretty big part or were you just—were you a day player? — Robert Campbell, Juice, p. 28, 1988

daytime name noun

a person's legal name, as distinguished from an alias or nickname US, 1949

- "That's me, too, Sparrow Saltskin, it's my daytime name." — Nelson Algren, The Man with the Golden Arm, p. 5, 1949

DB noun

a dead body US, 1973

- "I think a guy might be dead upstairs." "What the hell made you think so?" I said sarcastically, as we started up the stairs and I smelled the d.b. from here. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Blue Knight, p. 131, 1973

DC noun

a hamburger with every possible trimming and condiment US, 1966

- — American Speech, p. 280, December 1966: "More carnies talk from the west coast"

DD noun

a person who is deaf and dumb US, 1926

- — Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 68, 1949

DD adjective

by extension, said of a criminal who gives up no information at all if arrested US, 1950

- — Hyman E. Goldin et al., Dictionary of American Underworld Lingo, p. 56, 1950

DDT!

used for disparaging, urging the listener to drop dead twice US, 1947

Youth usage; punning on the insecticide now banned but used with great effectiveness to kill mosquitoes in the years after World War 2. Recorded in Time, 3rd October 1949.

- Last year's "drop dead" is now "D.D.T." (drop dead twice) or, more formally, "Please do me the personal favor of dropping dead." — Life, p. 119, 17th November 1947
- But when Batsy feels like snoozing nice . . . "DDT," you all . . . "Drop Dead Twice." [They'll Do It Every Time comic strip] — San Francisco Call-Bulletin, 10th November 1950
- — American Weekly, p. 2, 14th August 1955
- He remembers Winchell's famous handwritten notes on top of wrong items returned to the sender: "DDT" which meant "Drop Dead Twice." — Daily Variety, p. 2, 19th November 1998 deacon verb

to present a job or product in the best possible light, placing more importance on the first impression than on the actual quality US, 1855

- He deaconed his barn by painting the side toward the ro'd. — John Gould, Maine Lingo, p. 70, 1975

deacon seat noun

the seats nearest a fire US, 1975

- Because the deacons usually sat down front in church, the deacon-seat became the bench nearest the fire in a lumber camp. — John Gould, Maine Lingo, p. 70, 1975

dead noun

in any card game, cards that have been discarded US, 1973

- I buried their dead/ then did what they said/ dealing each man their hand. — Lightnin' Rod, Hustlers Convention, p. 90, 1973

dead adjective

1 (used of dice) weighted to have one face land up more often than the law of averages would predict US, 1993

- — Frank Scoblete, Guerrilla Gambling, p. 304, 1993

2 in bar dice games, no longer wild US, 1976

If a game is played with "aces wild" (assuming the point value of any other die), a call of "aces dead" after the first call of a hand nullifies the "wild" status.

- — Gil Jacobs, The World's Best Dice Games, p. 191, 1976

3 in pinball, said of a bumper that scores when hit but does not propel the ball back into play US, 1977

- — Bobbye Claire Natkin and Steve Kirk, All About Pinball, p. 111, 1977

4 in pool, said of a shot made such that the cue ball stops completely after striking the object ball US, 1990

- — Steve Rushin, Pool Cool, p. 11, 1990

dead as disco adjective completely dead US, 1995

From the meteoric rise and fall of the disco fad in the 1970s.

- By Friday, man, or you're fuckin' dead as disco. — Get Shorty, 1995

dead ass noun

the buttocks in seated repose US, 1950

- Look, we have this date scheduled. I can't perform unless you get off your dead ass. — Rosabeth Moss Kanter, Change Masters, p. 81, 1983

dead-ass adjective

lacking energy US, 1958

- I gave a dead-ass performance. — Andrea Siegel, Women in Aikido, p. 80, 1993

dead-ass adverb

absolutely US, 1971

- "We've got three infantry brigades," he said. "Yours is dead-ass last." — Joseph Persico, My American Journey, p. 204, 1995

dead babies noun

semen US, 1998

- — Ethan Hilderbrant, Prison Slang, p. 36, 1998

dead-bang adjective

beyond debate US, 1934

- We were both hungry for jurywork, and therefore we agreed to try a dead-bang loser of a rape case on reassignment from somebody smarter. — Scott Turow, Presumed Innocent, p. 174, 1987

dead-bang adverb

absolutely US, 1919

- I don't need to turn you, Vicky. I got you dead bang. — Stephen Cannell, Big Con, p. 323, 1997

deadbeat noun

a person who won't pay his debts, especially one who does not pay child support after divorce US, 1871

In modern use, often construed with "dad" or "parent."

- You sonofabitch fuck. Are you calling me a deadbeat? The money I spent here? — Goodfellas, 1990
- So you want a financial, is he a deadbeat? — Sleepless in Seattle, 1993
- There's a lot more money in getting deadbeats to pay up, isn't there? — Elmore Leonard, Riding the Rap, p. 158, 1995
- [T]hey knew if you let one go, then every other deadbeat on the Strip would think they could pull something, too. — John Ridley, Stray Dogs, p. 53, 1997

Dead board noun

an Internet bulletin board system designed by, and for, fans of the Grateful Dead US, 1994

- — David Shenk and Steve Silberman, Skeleton Key, p. 53, 1994

dead cat noun

in circus usage, a lion, tiger, or leopard that is on display but does not perform US, 1981

- — Don Wilmet, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 71, 1981

dead cat on the line noun used as a representation of something that is wrong or immoral US, 1970

- There's a dead cat on the line, Eleanor. And you'd better wake up and smell it. — Candy Dawson Boyd, Charlie Pippin, p. 32, 1987
- If one comes in there like a scalded dog, the others in that hole know there's a dead cat on the line somewhere. — Foxfire Fund, Foxfire 11, p. 266, 1999

dead drop noun

in espionage or a sophisticated criminal venture, a location where a message can be left by one party and retrieved by another US, 1986

- — Henry Becket, The Dictionary of Espionage, pp. 52–53, 1986
- That bank could be the dead-drop. — Stephen Cannell, King Con, p. 119, 1997

dead duck noun

an absolute failure, a person or thing with no possibility of success US, 1829

- Senator Hugh Burns (F Fresno) said his bill to make the present closing hours permanent apparently is a "dead duck." — San Francisco News, p. 1, 10th June 1947

deadfall noun

a dishonest, disreputable, vice-ridden drinking establishment US, 1837

- They worked the come-on joints and dead-falls on West Fifty-second Street, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues[.] — Lee Mortimer, Women Confidential, p. 138, 1960

dead fish noun

a gambler who places small bets to prolong the inevitable US, 1963

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 58, 1987

dead hand noun

in poker, any hand held by a player who has bet all of his chips or money on the hand US, 1947

- — Oswald Jacoby, Oswald Jacoby on Poker, p. 141, 1947

deadhead noun

- 1 a person who rides free on a railroad, bus, or airplane, usually because of their employment with the carrier US, 1841
 - — Norman Carlisle, The Modern Wonder Book of Trains and Railroad, p. 261, 1946
 - The only other people on the plane were a half dozen or so off-duty pilots: “deadheads” as they say in the business. — Hunter S. Thompson, Generation of Swine, p. 137, 7th July 1986
- 2 a boring person; a person of limited intelligence US, 1907
 - “But can you see me doing my top yak routines on the boat for deadheads?” — Stephen Longstreet, The Flesh Peddlers, p. 214, 1962
 - “I’m booking and shylocking and working all kinds of scams, but I’m cutting the money with a bunch of fucking deadheads.” — Ovid Demaris, The Last Mafioso, p. 124, 1981
- 3 a non-playing observer of gambling US, 1974
 - — John Scarne, Scarne on Dice, p. 465, 1974
- 4 a person given a ticket or tickets for having performed minor services in a theatrical production US, 1973
 - — Sherman Louis Sergel, The Language of Show Biz, p. 69, 1973

Deadhead noun

- a follower of Grateful Dead, a band strongly associated with psychedelic drugs, seen by many to epitomize the hippie ideal US, 1972
 - Grateful Dead’s choice of name was the result of browsing a dictionary, usually abbreviated to “The Dead”; their 30-year career as a live band came to an end in 1995 with the death of guitarist Jerry Garcia.
 - — Connie Eble (Editor), UNCC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Fall 1982
 - Someone who loves—and draws meaning from—the music of the Grateful Dead and the experience of Dead shows, and builds community with others who feel the same way. — David Shenk and Steve Silberman, Skeleton Key, p. 60, 1994
 - [J]ust hanging out, doing drugs with their dead-head clothes on[.] — Tim Lucas, Cool Places, p. 154, 1998
 - Ten music-related university courses that really exist [. . .] 2 — DEAD-HEAD 101, University Of North Carolina, Greensboro — Q, p. 38, December 2001

deadhead verb

- (used of an airline or railroad employee) to ride as a passenger in available seating US, 1854
 - Deadheaded up there like a bat out of fuckin’ hell. — George V. Higgins, The Rat on Fire, p. 105, 1981

dead lice

- ▶ dead lice are falling off; dead lice are dropping off used for describing someone who is very slow-moving or lazy US, 1960
 - Look at those good-for-nothing loafers, so lazy that dead lice wouldn’t drop off them. — Robert Ruark, The Old Man and the Boy, p. 119, 1957

dead line noun

- in prison, a line the crossing of which will bring gun fire from guards US, 1961–1962
 - — Frank Prewitt and Francis Schaeffer, Vacaville Vocabulary, 1961–1962

deadlock noun

- a prison cell housing a prisoner who is temporarily not allowed to leave the cell US, 1949
 - The cons up there were either in bug cells or deadlock. — Nelson Algren, The Man with the Golden Arm, p. 205, 1949

deadly adjective

- 1 excellent US, 1970
 - — Clarence Major, Dictionary of Afro-American Slang, p. 45, 1970
 - Right now I’m enjoying a Jolt cola with a dash of Henson’s Orange soda. It’s deadly. — Wayne’s World 2, 1993
- 2 very boring US, 1955
 - — American Speech, p. 303, December 1955: “Wayne university slang”

deadly embrace noun

- in computing, the condition resulting when two processes cannot proceed because each is waiting for another to do something US, 1981
 - — “Computer slang”, p. 29, Spring 1981

dead man’s hand noun

- in poker, a hand with a pair of aces and a pair of eights US, 1886
 - Although it is the modern belief that this was the hand held by Wild Bill Hickok when shot to death in 1876 in Deadwood, Dakota Territory, early uses of the term (which also sometimes referred to hands other than aces and eights) make no mention of Hickok. In 1942, Damon Runyon wrote that the hand was sometimes called the “Montana dead man’s hand.”
 - — John Scarne, Scarne’s Guide to Modern Poker, p. 277, 1979

dead man’s pull-ups noun

- an exercise in which a person hangs with their arms extended from a bar, lifts their chin over the bar, and then lowers themselves to the full arm-extended position US, 1996
 - Her hands had looked like chopped sirloin from all the training, until at last she could pump out twenty. All the way down. All the way up. Dead man’s pull-ups. — Joseph Wambaugh, Floater, p. 140, 1996

dead man’s zone; dead Marine zone noun

- a demilitarized zone US, 1984
 - Back-formation from the initials DMZ.
 - Roy tells the group that the DMZ also was known as the “Dead Marine zone.” — Raymond Scurfield, A Vietnam Trilogy, p. 153, 2006
 - Carroll was approximately 60 miles south of the DMZ (demilitarized zone) aka Dead Man’s Zone. — J.W. Clark, Flashback: Forgetting and Remembering Vietnam, p. 26, 2011

- It was referred to as the “Dead Man’s Zone.” — T. Roy Jackson, The Red Stock Company, p. 150, 2011

dead meat noun

- used for expressing a very high degree of trouble US, 1974
 - Originally applied only in situations where death was certain, but then softened to include lesser consequences.
 - “You’re dead meat,” I said. — Armistead Maupin, Maybe the Moon, p. 179, 1992
 - It’s a good thing you had that plane ticket to get out of the country. You’d be dead meat for sure here. — C.D. Payne, Youth in Revolt, p. 347, 1993
 - “He’s dead meat, man.” “He put away people that would have died for him.” — Bob Sipchen, Baby Insane and the Buddha, p. 378, 1993
 - I’m fucking dead meat in this town. — Theresa Rebeck, View of the Dome, p. 54, 1998 dead money noun

- 1 obviously counterfeit paper money US, 1956
 - — American Speech, p. 100, May 1956: “Smugglers’ argot in the southwest”
- 2 in poker, money bet by a player who has withdrawn from a hand US, 1992
 - — Edwin Silberstang, Winning Poker for the Serious Player, p. 218, 1992

dead-nuts adverb

- completely US, 1887
 - I catch you dead nuts in the middle of the act, you don’t even act nervous or anything. — Elmore Leonard, Swag, p. 9, 1976
 - Ordinarily Marine Corps noncoms were dead-nuts certain about everything. Even when they were wrong. — Stephen Coonts, Victory, p. 436, 2003

dead on arrival noun

- phencyclidine, the recreational drug known as PCP or angel dust US, 1993
 - In honor of the drug’s fatal overdose potential.
 - — Peter Johnson, Dictionary of Street Alcohol and Drug Terms, p. 5, 1993

deadpan adjective

- without expression; displaying no emotion US, 1928
 - With his sunken cheeks, deadpan kisser and wig that looked like a Fuller brush, he used to give us hysterics up on the bandstand[.] — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 85, 1946

dead pigeon noun

- 1 in a criminal enterprise, a double-crosser US, 1964
 - — R. Frederick West, God’s Gambler, p. 225, 1964: “Appendix A”
- 2 a person who is destined to lose US, 1919
 - Well, sir, Mary is a dead pigeon, the way I see it, and Barney goes for that kind of case. — Herman Wouk, The Caine Mutiny, p. 377, 1951

dead presidents noun

- money US, 1944
 - From the portraits of Washington, Lincoln, Hamilton etc., printed on the different value notes.
 - — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Talk Dictionary, p. 23, 1945
 - Say, if you overhear some conversation about “a lot of dead Presidents,” don’t phone J. Edgar. It’s accepted American slang for money—especially bills. Broadway’s Gentleman George Soltovaire coined it. It’s catching on all over. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 24, 17th December 1952
 - I say, “Bitch, what about those dead Presidents?” — Christina and Richard Milner, Black Players, p. 87, 1972
 - Maurice, the Blue Note’s manager, no matter how often or eloquently he promised a bonus percentage of gross receipts over a certain figure, always kicked the same lousy fifty dead presidents across the bar at closing. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 13, 1990

dead rabbit noun

- the penis in a flaccid state US, 1964
 - — Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 54, 1964

dead soldier noun

- an empty alcohol bottle or beer can US, 1899
 - I found a half-dead soldier in the drawer of the night stand and I poured myself a stiff one. — Curt Cannon, Die Hard, p. 16, 1953
 - First toast: “May the war be over before this bottle becomes a dead soldier!” — San Francisco Chronicle, p. 24, 29th June 1966
 - Dead soldiers of all cheap and barely legal brands were kicked into the corners[.] — Earl Thompson, Tattoo, p. 23, 1974
 - Another dead soldier and the brandy’s near touching bottom. — Elmore Leonard, Cat Chaser, p. 13, 1982

dead-stick landing noun

- a forced landing of an aircraft that has lost all propulsive power US, 1991
 - Fenn had been hit on a similar mission on 24 August and managed a dead-stick landing in his damaged F-100D at Binh Thuy. — Peter Davies, F-100 Super Sabre Units of the Vietnam War, p. 57, 1992
 - After tinkering with it and racking my brain for a few minutes, I began going over in my head the emergency procedures for a dead-stick landing. — Bud Willis, Marble Mountain: A Vietnam Memoir, p. 49, 2010

dead-stick verb

- to land an aircraft without engine function US, 1962
 - My only alternative was to dead-stick the plane into the chilly waters. — Bob Hoove, Forever Flying, p. 29, 1996
 - The dead-stick ditching of a plane into the ocean wasn’t something you could practice; you had to get it right the first time. — Elgen M. Long, Amelia Earhart, p. 30, 1999

Dead threads noun

- in the language surrounding the Grateful Dead, the layers of clothes worn by a concert-goer US, 1994
 - — David Shenk and Steve Silberman, Skeleton Key, p. 59, 1994

dead time noun

time served in jail which does not count towards fulfillment of the prisoner's sentence US, 1973

- It ain't dead time no more like it used to be. Now they give a man all the time he spends in the county jail. — Donald Goines, White Man's Justice, Black Man's Grief, p. 32, 1973
- Under California law, such time is dead time. — Malcolm Braly, False Starts, p. 237, 1976

dead tumble noun

capture during the commission of a crime US, 1952

- — Charles Hamilton, Men of the Underworld, p. 321, 1952: Glossary

deadwood noun

1 an incompetent or otherwise useless person US, 1887

- He'd have a lot of deadwood to clear out, or put some sap back into 'em. — Jim Thompson, The Grifters, p. 122, 1963
- Luke Zigman was surprised to see the old deadwood player being rolled by into the casino by his nephew at three in the morning. — Stephen Cannell, Big Cat, p. 224, 1997

2 a flaccid penis US, 1995

Extended from wood (the erect penis).

- — Adult Video News, p. 51, October 1995

3 unsold tickets for a performance US, 1934

- — Joe McKennon, Circus Lingo, p. 30, 1980

4 nonplaying observers of gambling US, 1974

- — John Scarme, Scarme on Dice, p. 482, 1974

5 a person caught outright committing a crime US, 1992

- — William K. Bentley and James M. Corbett, Prison Slang, p. 92, 1992

deal verb

1 to sell drugs US, 1958

- Frankie has been dealing for six years without a bust. — Abbie Hoffman, Woodstock Nation, p. 66, 1969
- We are all outlaws in the eyes of America / In order to survive we steal cheat lie forge fuck hide and deal — Jefferson Airplane, We Can Be Together, 1970
- Seems like dealing is all I'm good at, so be it. — Edwin Torres, Carlito's Way, p. 66, 1975
- DANTE: How many times I gotta tell you not to deal outside the store. JAY: I'm not dealing. KID: You got anything, man? JAY: Yeah, what do you want? — Clerks, 1994

2 to supervise the blackjack game in a casino US, 1980

- How many games do you deal? — Lee Solkey, Dummy Up and Deal, p. 111, 1980 deal off the top to treat fairly US, 1969

From the gambling scheme of cheating by dealing off the bottom of a deck.

- After I had been in town six months, fate dealt me one off the top for a change. — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Pimp, p. 288, 1969

dealer's band noun

an elastic band used by a drug dealer to secure or to facilitate the jettisoning of drugs for sale US, 1966

- Many addicts—especially pushers—wear a rubber band on their wrists (a dealer's band, some call it) which, if hooked properly around a deck of heroin, will send it flying if an approaching detective is spotted. — James Mills, The Panic in Needle Park, p. 15, 1966

dealie; dealy noun

a thing the correct name of which escapes or is not important to the speaker US, 1997

- "Oh yeah, Mr. Singh, he said I couldn't park with the handicaps even though I got the blue wheelchair dealie on the mirror." — Carl Hiaasen, Lucky You, p. 150, 1997
- "The book our mothers had was the Bible, not some fifty-cent dealie." — Barbara Kingsolver, The Bean Trees, p. 111, 1998
- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 59, 2001

dean noun

a skilled and experienced poker player US, 1979

- — John Scarme, Scarme's Guide to Modern Poker, p. 277, 1979

dean of men noun

a prison warden US, 1949

- — Captain Vincent J. Monteleone, Criminal Slang, p. 66, 1949

Dear Jane noun

a letter to a girlfriend or wife breaking off the relationship US, 1963

- Oh, you mean the "Dear Jane" routine? — Clarence Cooper Jr., Black, p. 64, 1963

Dear John; Dear John letter; Johnny letter noun

a letter from a woman to her husband or boyfriend ending their relationship US, 1945

- "Leave a girl behind, get a Dear John?" — Norman Mailer, The Naked and the Dead, p. 181, 1948
- — American Speech, p. 303, December 1955: "Wayne university slang"
- 389 pieces of mail (which included one birth announcement and three Dear Johns) received. — Charles Anderson, The Grunts, p. 121, 1976
- Hey, Crutcher, I hear you got a Dear John from your gal. — Platoon, 1986
- Aboard the nuclear-powered carrier USS Theodore Roosevelt, with a crew of 5,000, the chaplains spent hours last Sunday night counseling men who'd received one version or another of the dreaded "Dear John" letter. — Washington Times, 1st February 1991
- In Baghdad, the worst of the fighting over and the soldiers bunking in a former train station, the mail watch began again. A letter arrived for Tielbar and he recognized it wasn't what he'd hoped. It was a "Dear John" letter. She couldn't wait any longer. — Hartford (Connecticut) Courant, p. 6, 9th November 2003 death noun

someone or something that is exquisitely perfect US, 1965

- David Frazer said she was death. — Diner, 1982
- — Levi Strauss & Company, Campus Slang, p. 2, January 1986
- — Trevor Cralle, The Surfin'ary, p. 28, 1991

death benefit noun

in poker, money given to a player to complete a bet US, 1996

- — John Vorhaus, The Big Book of Poker Slang, p. 12, 1996 death breath noun

a social outcast US, 2004

- "Keep moving, death breath." — Brittany Kent, O.C. Undercover, p. 137, 2004

death cookie noun

in snowboarding, a rock hidden in snow US, 1995

- — Jim Humes and Sean Wagstaff, Boarderlands, p. 221, 1995

death mitten noun

bags slipped over the hands of murder victims to preserve evidence US, 1992

- Death mittens, in case something's under the nails. You know, like hair, skin, from a struggle. — Richard Price, Clockers, p. 137, 1992

death on call noun

Battery C, 4th Battalion, 77th Infantry of the US Army US

A gunship unit with the boast of "kill by profession."

- — Gregory Clark, Words of the Vietnam War, pp. 136–137, 1990

death pen noun

a designated pen with black indelible ink used in hospitals for filling out death certificates US, 1994

- — Saly Williams, "Strong" Words, p. 138, 1994

death rim noun

any expensive car wheel rim US, 1995

The rim is an invitation to crime and violence, hence the name.

- — American Speech, p. 303, Fall 1996: "Among the new words" death seat noun

the front passenger seat of a car or truck US, 1975

From the probability, actual or notional, that the passenger is the least likely to survive an accident.

- [Y]es, he was sitting in the death seat I think you call it in the insur, the phrase they used in the paper that is to say beside the driver. — William Gaddis, JR, p. 239, 1975
- I could tell Franny had taken the wheel when the car began to careen between the trees, great slithers of the spring mud flying—and the wild, half-seen gestures of Frank's arms waving in what is popularly called the death seat. — John Irving, The Hotel New Hampshire, p. 199, 1981

death spiral noun

a downward spiral of an airplane from which recovery is nearly impossible and as a result of which impact with the ground is inevitable US, 1990

- The two, in the course of the fight, found themselves in what some call "the death spiral." — Robert K. Wilcox, Scream of Eagles, p. 157, 1990

death trip noun

1 LSD enhanced with botanical drugs from plants such as Deadly Nightshade or Jimsonweed US, 1970

- — William D. Alsever, Glossary for the Establishment and Other Uptight People, p. 3, December 1970

2 a fascination with death US, 1969

- The herding tribes gradually overran the feminist states, replacing the Great Mother with God the Father, substituting the Christian death trip for the pagan glorification of life. — Tom Robbins, Even Cowgirls Get the Blues, p. 331, 1976

death wish noun

phencyclidine, the recreational drug known as PCP or angel dust US, 1986

- — Richard A. Spears, The Slang and Jargon of Drugs and Drink, p. 138, 1986

deazingus noun

a dingus, or eye dropper used in drug injecting US, 1973

- Deazingus taken from a carnival grifter's usage and an example of cezarney, an argot based on phonetic distortion. — David Maurer and Victor Vogel, Narcotics and Narcotic Addiction, p. 402, 1973

deb noun

1 a debutante US, 1920

- [A]ll the debbs and dowagers let their hair down and danced.] — Charles Raven, Underworld Nights, p. 102, 1956
- You'll meet her. She's one of the debbs I invited over. — Dan Jenkins, Life Its Ownself, p. 127, 1984

2 a girl associated with a youth gang, either directly as a member or through a boyfriend US, 1946

A lovely if ironic borrowing from "debutante."

- The Debbs and Sub-Debbs are usually from 50 to 500 feet behind the warriors. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 106, 1948
- Why isn't she like the rest of the debbs in the gang, or any other girl? — Hal Elison, Tomboy, p. 2, 1950
- She's the head guy's deb. You stick your nose in there any more, the Mau Maus'll slice it off. — Man's Magazine, p. 12, February 1960
- Our debbs sat on the stoops watching for the fuzz or for any wrong shit from the Jolly Rogers. — Piri Thomas, Down These Mean Streets, p. 52, 1967

deball verb

- to castrate US, 1961
- I'll gut and deball the old bastard if he's touched you. — Keri Hulme, The Bone People, p. 137, 1983

debone verb

- to bend a playing card so that it can be identified later in another player's hand US, 1968
- Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 60, 1987

debris noun

- marijuana seeds and stems remaining after cleaning US, 1971
- Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 64, 1971

debug verb

- to clear an area of listening devices US, 1964
- "We were first on the scene and concluded that Rove had hired a company to debug his office and the same company had planted the bug[.]" — Lou Dubose, Boy Genius, p. 34, 2003

debut verb

- to subject a boy to his first homosexual experience UK, 1978
 - Anon., King Smut's Wet Dreams Interpreted, 1978
- to acknowledge your homosexuality US, 1964
 - Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 55, 1964

decaf adjective

- decaffeinated US, 1981
- She stopped all her caffeine sodas and only had one decaf soda a week. — Juliana van Olphen-Fehr, Diary of a Midwife, p. 150, 1998

decayed adjective

- drunk US, 1966
- Current Slang, p. 2, Fall 1966
- Helen Dahlsgog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 18, 1972

decent adjective

- good, pleasing, excellent US, 1979
- Detroit Free Press, 4th November 1979
- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 3, November 1990
- Lee McNeilis, 30 + And a Wake-Up, p. 7, 1991

decision verb

- to win a boxing match by a decision of the judges as opposed to with a knock-out US, 1979
- One of the boys from the old neighborhood was parkin' the cars on 60th Street (used to be a good pug, had decisioned Bethea in the Garden). — Edwin Torres, After Hours, p. 329, 1979

deck noun

- a packet of a powdered drug US, 1916
 - The stuff is usually paid for in advance, with the peddlers hoping they come through with enough decks to make money on it. — Mickey Spillane, The Jury, p. 23, 1947
 - Once he was too feeble to leave the house and sent me out for a deck of junk. — Ethel Water, His Eye is on the Sparrow, p. 148, 1952
 - Many addicts—especially pushers—wear a rubber band on their wrists (a dealer's band, some call it) which, if hooked properly around a deck of heroin, will send it flying if an approaching detective is spotted. — James Mills, The Panic in Needle Park, p. 15, 1966
 - The man, identified as Reynaldo Colon, 33, of Ridgewood, Queens, approached the detective with a folding Leatherman, a metal-colored multipurpose tool, and said, "Give me the decks," using street slang to refer to the small glassine packages of heroin. — New York Times, p. B3, 21st October 2000
- a pack of cigarettes US, 1923
 - I sat there until a quarter to nine trying to smoke my way through a deck of Luckies. — Mickey Spillane, One Lonely Night, p. 103, 1951
 - Newsweek, p. 98, 8th October 1951
- a skateboard US, 1993
 - Lactameon wasn't even sure Steadham's like that were made anymore, and a seriously ridden deck was lucky to last half a year no matter how good[.] — Jess Mowry, Six Out Seven, p. 84, 1993

deck verb

- to knock to the ground US, 1945
- Irrigated his face with the shot of J and B I'd just poured him. Then I tried to deck the sucker. — 48 Hours, 1982
- [I]f people weren't performing they'd get decked. — Andy McNab, Immediate Action, p. 48, 1995
- Doesn't say a word, walks up and decks the guy and throws him out on the street. — Elmore Leonard, Be Cool, p. 183, 1999

deck ape noun

- an enlisted sailor in the US Navy US, 1944
- Deck apes worked in whites, not dungarees. — Earl Thompson, Tattoo, p. 309, 1974
- Shelby said, "Look at all them lazy deck apes, smokin' n' jokin'! Can't tell me anybody works in the navy. I shoulda been a swab." — Joseph Wambaugh, Finnegan's Week, p. 39, 1993

decked adjective

- dressed stylishly US, 1972
- David Claerbaut, Black Jargon in White America, p. 62, 1972

deck monkey noun

- a deckhand US, 1941
- [T]wo other "deck monkeys" besides himself, who would grind the winches and provide ballast. — Mark L. Friedman, Everyday Crisis Management, p. 101, 2002
- We could deck up two-three hundred in an evening's time. It all depends on how much you got and how fast you deck up. — Jeremy Lerner and Ralph Tefferteller, The Addict in the Street, p. 207, 1964
- Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 64, 1971

declare verb

- declare a gang (used of warring youth gangs) to agree to discuss a truce US, 1953
 - Dale Kramer and Madeline Karr, Teen-Age Gangs, p. 174, 1953

decomp room noun

- the room in a morgue housing decomposed bodies US, 1983
 - There were bunches of bodies in the "decomp" room, decomposed bodies, lying putrid under ceiling fans[.] — Joseph Wambaugh, The Delta Star, p. 42, 1983
 - She gagged as she passed the decomp room, where decomposing bodies lay under plastic sheets, waiting for autopsies. — Stephen Cannell, King Con, p. 62, 1992

decorate verb

- to pay for something at a restaurant or bar US, 1908
- Most commonly in the phrase "decorate the mahogany" for buying drinks at a bar.
- Decorating the booths in the ice-cream parlor. — Dick Clark, To Goof or Not to Goof, p. 103, 1963

decoy noun

- an undercover police officer whose appearance leads criminals to assume the officer is a promising victim US, 1981
- We go in teams in a hot street-crime area, inner city. Dress like you live around there. One guy's the decoy, the target. — Elmore Leonard, Split Images, p. 23, 1981

dedo noun

- an informant US, 1995
- From the Spanish for "finger," used by English speakers in the American southwest.
- Bill Valentine, Gang Intelligence Manual, p. 41, 1995: "Hispanic gang terminology" dedud verb

- to clear unexploded artillery shells from a practice range US, 1968
- Carl Fleischhauer, A Glossary of Army Slang, p. 14, 1968

deeda noun

- LSD US, 1967
- Probably New York slang.
- John Williams, The Drug Scene, p. 111, 1967

deemer noun

- a ten-cent piece US, 1926
- From the colloquial "dime."
- "If I stepped out on that street and played chump Santa Claus to my last deemer, that would be Blue's happiness, not yours." — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Trick Baby, p. 12, 1969

deep adjective

- 1 filled with the specified number of referential objects US, 1973
- For example, "four deep" would mean "four people in a car."
 - Malachi Andrews and Paul T. Owens, Black Language, p. 86, 1973
- 2 serious, intense US, 1990
 - Damn, Furious is deep, he used to be a preacher or something? — Boyz n The Hood, 1990
- 3 numerous US, 1991
 - "Crips, man—deep!" — Leon Bing, Do or Die, p. 36, 1991

deep cut noun

- a song that is played live but not often heard on the radio US
- Your favorite band may play a deep cut during Coachella. — "The Coachella Festival Glossary," live105.cbslocal.com, 12th April 2011

deep-dick verb

- (from the male perspective) to have sex US, 2005
- He and Boz methodically deep-dick the willing starlets. — Editors of Adult Video News, The AVN Guide to the 500 Greatest Adult Films of All Time, p. 47, 2005
- The African-American porn star does his part to end simmering Mexican-black tensions by deep-dicking Mexican gals in all three inputs as they moan in English and espanol. — Gustavo Arellano, Ask a Mexican, p. 80, 2007

deep-dicking noun

- (from the male point of view) sex US, 1997
- Can I at least tell people that all you needed was some serious deep-dicking? — Chasing Amy, 1997
- After I turned him down, Edd was his next target for a bit of deep dicking. — Benjamin Evans, Tales From The Kerb, p. 135, 2006

deep freeze noun

- solitary confinement US, 1958
- And in a couple of hours form now he wouldn't have a job, even if the cops didn't grab him and toss him into the deep freeze. — Raymond Chandler, Playback, p. 72, 1958
- Inez Cardozo-Freeman, The Joint, p. 492, 1984

deep kimchi noun

- serious trouble US, 1998
- Based on the unflattering comparison of the Korean pickled delicacy with excrement.
- Seattle Times, p. A9, 12th April 1998: "Grunts, squids not grunting from the same dictionary" deep magic noun

- in computing, an understanding of a technique in a program or system not known by the average programmer US, 1991
- Compiler optimization techniques and many aspects of OS design used to be deep magic; many techniques in cryptography, signal processing, graphics, and AI still are. — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker's Dictionary, p. 122, 1991 deep-pocket adjective

(used of a defendant in civil litigation) wealthy, possessing considerable financial reserves US, 1976

- If the latter is ever spotted, do not attempt to feed ordinary lawyer bait: i.e., greenbacks, cocaine, hookers, deep-pocket defendants, adolescent boys. — Joseph Wambaugh, Fugitive Nights, p. 93, 1992

deep sea fishing noun

exploratory surgery US, 1994

- — Sally Williams, “Strong” Words, p. 138, 1994

deep serious adjective

extremely critical, as bad as it gets US, 1985

Vietnam war coinage and usage.

- Armed helicopters were especially reassuring to the “crunchies,” the ground infantrymen who depended on them to deliver accurate supporting fire whether conducting raids or in “deep serious” trouble trying to disengage. — Shelby L. Stanton, The Rise and Fall of an American Army, p. 86, 1985

deep shaft noun

strong, illegally manufactured whiskey US, 1999

- It is called corn liquor, white lightning, sugar whisky, skully cracker, popskull, bush whiskey, stump, stumphole, ‘splo, ruckus juice, radiator whiskey, rotgut, sugarhead, block and tackle, wildcat, panther’s breath, tiger’s sweat, sweet spirits of cats a-fighting, alley bourbon, city gin, cool water, happy Sally, deep shaft, jump steady, old horsey, stingo, blue John, red eye, pine top, buckeye bark whiskey and see seven stars. — Star Tribune (Minneapolis), p. 19f, 31st January 1999

deep shit noun

serious trouble US

- — S.L.A. Marshall, Ambush, p. 229, 1969
- “You don’t want to go to the 196th either, they’re in deep shit out there in I Corp.” — Fred Brown, Vietnam War Diary, pp. 53–54, 1988

deep six verb

to discard; to reject US, 1952

- We pulled over to the side of the road, and like a couple of Mafiosi getting rid of the guy who betrayed the family honor, we deep-sixed him into the ditch. — Rita Ciresi, Pink Slip, p. 32, 1999

deep throat noun

oral sex performed on a man in which the person doing the performing takes the penis completely into their mouth and throat US, 1972

A term from the so-named 1972 classic pornography film.

- “Would you like to try deep throat?” — D.M. Perkins, Deep Throat, p. 46, 1973
- She was beaten on an almost daily basis, humiliated, threatened, including with guns, kept captive and sleep-deprived, and forced to do sex acts ranging from “deep throat” oral sex to intercourse and sodomy. — Andrea Dworkin, Mercy, p. 344, 1991
- On Saturday night a game of deep throat was being played. The Marines had drawn a line on the rhino’s dildo and chanted, “Beat the line, beat the line,” as a woman would simulate performing oral sex. — Gregory L. Vistica, Fall from Glory, p. 328, 1997
- Once you’ve mastered the basic techniques of fellatio and cunnilingus, you might want to experiment with a “69,” deep throat and other oral tricks for adventurous lovers! — Siobhan Kelly, The Wild Guide to Sex and Loving, p. 64, 2002

deep throat verb

to take a man’s penis completely into the mouth and throat US, 1991

- [S]tudents expecting to see “Kermit’s Wild West Adventure” were instead exposed to a mattress-level montage of Latin porn star Pina Kolada deepthroating a semi-pro soccer team. — Carl Hiaasen, Native Tongue, p. 47, 1991
- I know he is ready to shoot his thick cream come down my throat, as I deep-throat him. — Nancy Friday, Women on Top, p. 81, 1991
- You may have to deep-throat wing a “69” position in order for his and your angles to match up. — Craig Nelson, Finding True Love in a Man-Eat-Man World, p. 82, 1996
- So if you’re giving him head, you’ve got to deep throat it so you can touch that part. — Anthony Petkovich, The X Factory, p. 86, 1997

deep-water Baptist; deep-dip Baptist noun

a member of a Baptist sect that practises full-immersion baptism US, 1949

- “Lives like a deep-dip Baptist. Can’t be touched.” — Stephen Longstreet, The Flesh Peddlers, p. 85, 1962
- I came to, under a steaming pile of trash / In the narrow alley-way / Behind that old Deep Water Baptist mission. — Paul Muldoon, Immram, p. 98, 1977

dee wee noun

driving while intoxicated US, 1995

- Dee Wee: Phonetic for DWI (Driving While Intoxicated). — Samuel Katz, NYPD, 1995

def adjective

excellent, superlative US, 1979

- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Fall 1987
- — Ellen C. Bellone (Editor), Dictionary of Slang, p. 9, 1989
- — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 136, 1989
- [E]ven “stoopid fresh,” which could also be “def” when it wasn’t “dope.” — Nelson George, Hip Hop America, p. 209, 1998

def adverb

definitely US, 1942

- [Jim] Morrison, def, does not get a pie in the face! He ‘fessed up! — Lester Bangs, Psychotic Reactions and Carburetor Dung, p. 36, 1970
- — Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 2, Fall 1996

default world noun

at Burning Man, the outside world US

- The rest of the world that is not Black Rock City during the Burning Man event. — <http://burningman.org/culture/glossary/> (accessed 23rd May 2016)

definite adjective used as a meaningless embellishment US, 1985

- “Definite”—all-purpose Rat Pack prefix, as in “I’ll hail a definite cab.” — Washington Post, p. B1, 17th January 1985

degennie noun

a degenerate gambler US, 1974

- Of course, you can get degennies who would like to stay in action right up until midnight by betting Sunday night hockey games[.] — Gary Mayer, Bookie, p. 6, 1974

dehorn noun

1 denatured alcohol (ethyl alcohol to which a poisonous substance has been added to make it unfit for consumption) US, 1926

- [H]e lived on dehorn alcohol, mulligan, dayolds, misery[.] — John Clellon Holmes, The Horn, p. 159, 1958

2 a person who is addicted to denatured alcohol (ethyl alcohol to which a poisonous substance has been added to make it unfit for consumption) US, 1926

- The Jolity Theater is a crummy burlesque house on Minneapolis’s skid row. It is patronized largely by vagrants, winos, dehorn, grifters, and other such unsanitary persons. — Max Shulman, The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis, p. 203, 1951

dehorn verb

to have sex after a long period of celibacy US, 1972

- — Helen Dahlsgog (Editor), A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, p. 18, 1972

dehose verb

to return a computer that is suspended in an operation to functioning US, 1991

- — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 122, 1991

deja fuck noun

the unsettling sensation that the person with whom you are now having sex is a former sexual partner US, 2002

- — Amy Sohn, Sex and the City, p. 154, 2002

deja vu all over again noun

the same thing, once again, repeated US, 1995

An assault on the language attributed to baseball great Yogi Berra.

- “It’s deja vu all over again,” as Yogi Berra probably didn’t say. We are out to get a new baseball stadium, according to the gazettes. — The Seattle Times, p. B1, 30th May 1995
- When his teammates Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris slugged back-to-back home runs for what he described as “the umpteenth time,” he [Berra] grunted, “It’s deja vu all over again.” — New York Times, pp. 13–1, 8th August 1999
- Bush Plan: Deja Vu All Over Again — Washington Post, 17th May 2001

deke noun

a decoy US, 1950

- We found an unoccupied blind, put out our “dekes” and sat down to await developments. — San Francisco News, p. 12, 16th December 1950
- Anyone suffering from art-gallery gout, Delhi belly, jaded eyeballs or other ills of the traveler on the high road, is hereby advised to relax while suffering. — Washington Post, Times Herald, p. F17, 24th July 1955
- When it comes to where you can get Delhi Belly, Tut’s Trot, or Montezuma’s revenge, there are no surprises here. — Robert Young Pelton, The World’s Most Dangerous Places, p. 15, 2003

Delhi belly noun

diarrhea suffered by tourists US, 1944

- Anyone suffering from art-gallery gout, Delhi belly, jaded eyeballs or other ills of the traveler on the high road, is hereby advised to relax while suffering. — Washington Post, Times Herald, p. F17, 24th July 1955
- When it comes to where you can get Delhi Belly, Tut’s Trot, or Montezuma’s revenge, there are no surprises here. — Robert Young Pelton, The World’s Most Dangerous Places, p. 15, 2003

delicatessen book noun

a betting operation where the odds are constantly cut US, 1947

- — Dan Parker, The ABC of Horse Racing, p. 145, 1947

delish; deelish adjective

delicious UK, 1920

- I took her first to dinner. “Gee, that was a delish dinner,” she said as we left the restaurant. — Max Shulman, The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis, p. 43, 1951
- “No, tell me how you like it with my hair over one eye!” “De-lish!” she exclaimed. — Eve Babitz, L.A. Woman, p. 119, 1982
- — Judi Sanders, Da Bomb, p. 5, 1997

delivery boy noun

in poker, any young, inexperienced, unskilled player US, 1996

- — John Vorhaus, The Big Book of Poker Slang, p. 13, 1996

delivery order noun

a request that a certain type of car be stolen and sold to the requesting party US, 1983

- [A] brand-new Corvette he could get five grand for easy, even without a delivery order. — Elmore Leonard, Stick, p. 67, 1983

delosis noun

a pretty girl US, 1953

- — Lavada Durst, The Lives of Dr. Hepcat, p. 12, 1953

delta noun

- a helicopter used for troop transport US, 1967
- The true transport model, which hauls seven to nine men into battle, is called “The Slick,” technically “The Delta” or UF-1D. — Elaine Shepard, The Doom Pussy, p. 4, 1967

Delta delta noun

- a female Red Cross volunteer US, 1990
- Wilkes, the newest replacement to the squad asked Jinks what Yazz meant about the Delta Deltas. “Delta delta is for DD in the phonetic alphabet see?” “Yeah. So?” “A DD is a Donut Dolly, Wilkes, one of those USO pastry pushers.” — Chuckler Breuer, The Horse Soldiers of Vietnam, p. 37, 2000
- This veteran’s comments are in no way repeated to disparage Red Cross workers (“Delta Deltas”). — Philip Beidler, Late Thoughts on an Old War: The Legacy of Vietnam, p. 31, 2004
- He called in that he had two “Delta Deltas” down there, so somebody came in and picked them up. — Keith Walker, A Piece of My Heart: The Stories of 26 American Women Who Served in Vietnam, p. 66, 2009

Delta dust noun

- marijuana grown in Vietnam US
- A subtle pun on the several scientific names for marijuana and its psychoactive component that include “Delta 1” or “Delta 9”.
- Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 60, 1991

delta oscar verb

- to proceed US
- Oh well, as they say over here, Delta Oscar, or Drive On. — Don Bishop, Letters Home: Vietnam, p. 175, 31 May 1969

Delta sox noun

- nylon socks that replaced wool socks for US Army troops in Vietnam in 1970 US
- The army concluded that nylon socks were more suited for tropical wear, especially in areas such as the Mekong Delta, than were wool socks.
- Gregory Clark, Words of the Vietnam War, p. 139, 1990

delts noun

- the deltoid muscles US, 1981
- American Speech, p. 199, Fall 1984: “The language of bodybuilding”
- “Lats and delts poking around inside a dress shirt in the Park with those binoculars.” — Ethan Morden, Some Men Are Lookers, p. 318, 1997

delurk verb

- to post a message on an Internet discussion group after previously observing without posting US, 1995
- Christian Crumlish, The Internet Dictionary, p. 51, 1995

deluxe noun

- in circus usage, a box seat US, 1981
- Don Wilmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 72, 1981

Dem noun

- a Democrat US, 1875
- When the Dems found out he knew Republicans, and vice versa, they began to use him as a channel to square things they didn’t want to talk about directly to each other.[.] — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 161, 1951

demented adjective

- in computing, not functional and not useful US, 1983
- In computing, the condition resulting when two processes cannot proceed because each is waiting for another to do something.
- Guy L. Steele et al., The Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 55, 1983

demento noun

- a deranged person US, 1977
- “I don’t have a clue about you, old sport,” he says. “You’re just another New York demento, as far as I can tell.” — Pete Hamill, Forever, p. 573, 2003

demi-god noun

- a person recognized by the computing community as a major genius US, 1991
- To qualify as a genuine demigod, the person must recognizably identify with the hacker community and have helped shape it. — Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 123, 1991

demie; demmy noun

- meperidine, an analgesic best known by its trademarked brand name Demerol™ US, 1956
- “We call them demmies. If you can’t buy H or M, why, demmies will do the trick.” — Jess Stearn, Sisters of the Night, p. 59, 1956

demo noun

- a demonstration model or recording US, 1963
 - You don’t happen to have a tape or a demo that we might listen to? — King of Comedy, 1976
 - I wanted the money to make a demo [demonstration record] and go into the record business. — Terry Williams, The Cocaine Kids, p. 89, 1989
 - You guys are an unsigned band, and you broke into the radio station to get your demo tape played on the air? — Airheads, 1994
 - Bobby Beck, the owner, used to let me come in and play drums on the demo kit. — Empire Records, 1995
- a laboratory pipette used to smoke crack cocaine US, 1992
 - Terry Williams, Crackhouse, p. 152, 1992

demon adjective

- excellent US, 1983
- Tom Hibbert, Rockspeak!, p. 47, 1983
- Connie Eble (Editor), UNC-CH Campus Slang, p. 4, Spring 1988

demoto noun

- a person lacking motivation; a self-non-starter US, 1993
- Washington Post, 14th October 1993

Denmark *noun▶ go to Denmark

- to undergo a sex change operation US, 1957
- Homosexual usage; an allusion to the sex-altering operation performed on Christine Jorgensen in Denmark.
- I’ll make you a real woman without goin’ to Denmark. — Hubert Selby Jr., Last Exit to Brooklyn, p. 46, 1957
- The Guild Dictionary of Homosexual Terms, p. 19, 1965
- Maledicta, p. 53, 1986–1987: “A continuation of a glossary of ethnic slurs in American English”

den mother noun

- an older, unofficial leader of a group of homosexual men US, 1997
- Jim Crotty, How to Talk American, p. 138, 1997

dense adjective

- exciting, fashionable, popular US, 1961
- That’s Dense—that’s cool. — Art Unger, The Cool Book, p. 106, 1961

dentist’s friend noun

- in circus and carnival usage, any sweet US, 1981
- Don Wilmeth, The Language of American Popular Entertainment, p. 72, 1981

Denver mud noun

- a patent medicine applied as a poultice US, 1970
- Strange things surfaced, like the taste of the Denver mud Mama applied to my chest when I had a cold. She heated the mud in the lid on the burner, then spread it on my chest. — Kay Allenbaugh, Chocolate for a Woman’s Soul, p. 215, 1997

depart verb

- in the language of fighter pilots, to accelerate through the plane’s limits US, 1990
- If that failed, McKeown would deliberately “depart” the plane (take it outside its flight envelope) as a last resort maneuver. — Robert K. Wilcox, Scream of Eagles, p. 140, 1990

depeditate verb

- in computing, to place text in a fashion that cuts off the feet of the letters US, 1991
- Eric S. Raymond, The New Hacker’s Dictionary, p. 124, 1991

depth charge noun

- a shot of whiskey served in a glass of beer US, 1956
- [A] “Coalminer’s Breakfast,” or “Depth Charge” (when a shot of whiskey is dropped into a glass of beer.) — Roger E. Axtell, The Do’s and Taboos of Hosting International Visitors, p. 76, 1990

depth charging noun

- a system of playing blackjack based not on a count of the value of cards played but on the depth of the deck dealt US, 1991
- Michael Dalton, Blackjack, p. 42, 1991

deputy do-right noun

- a police officer US, 1980
- Edith A. Folb, runnin’ down some lines, p. 234, 1980

derby noun

- oral sex US, 1969
- Today the single most requested service is fellatio (“French” or “derby”). — Charles Winick, The Lively Commerce, p. 207, 1971
- Kenn “Naz” Young, Naz’s Underground Dictionary, p. 24, 1973

derel noun

- a person lacking in basic intelligence US, 1991
- An abbreviation of the conventional “derelict.”
- Trevor Cralle, The Surfin’ary, p. 29, 1991

DEROS; deros verb

- to return to the US from combat duty in Vietnam US, 1968
- From the abbreviation for the “date of estimated return from overseas.”
- The reduction hadn’t worked, but he would DEROS Vietnam and ETS the army at the same time. — Ches Schneider, From Classrooms to Claymores, p. 149, 1999

’ders noun

- oral sex US, 1982
- An abbreviation of “headers,” itself an embellishment of HEAD.
- It was a way cranking party, but I was soooo embarrassed, like I walk into the bedroom and Tricia’s totally giving Sean ders! — Mary Corey and Victoria Westermark, Fer Shurr! How to be a Valley Girl, 1982 desert cherry noun

- a soldier newly arrived to Kuwait or Saudi Arabia during the first Gulf war US, 1991
- I don’t really mind the sudden change, because if it holds, the kid will DEROS (Army jargon ... forgot what it means ... except get the heck out of here!) from Papa Victor (Phouc Vinh) instead of having to hassle with a forward FSB. — Don Bishop, Letters Home: Vietnam, p. 262, 8 November 1969
- I intend to pay him a visit when I deros from here in May. — Corrine Browne, Body Shop, p. 70, 26 December 1970: Letter from Sgt. Charles O. Jones
- “Desert cherries” in “Kevlars” fly the “Sand Box Express” to the “beach” and soon are complaining about “Meals Rejected by Ethiopians” if they can’t find a “roach coach” run by “Bedouin Bob.” — Houston Chronicle, p. 15, 24th January 1991
- One day over beer, before Duncan DEROSed out of here, we had the big party discussion. — James Slosson, Unmailed Letters from an REMF, p. 289, 2009

desert rat noun

any long-time resident of any desert area, especially, in modern usage, Las Vegas, Nevada US, 1907

- These confirmed desert dwellers are called “desert rats” and they wouldn’t give up their carefree life in the sun for anything. — San Francisco Examiner, p. 1, 22nd March 1964
- In the early days of Vegas an old desert rat collapsed outside a small-town casino. — Mario Puzo, Inside Las Vegas, p. 327, 1977
- — Maledicta, p. 156, Summer/Winter 1978: “How to hate thy neighbor: a guide to racist maledicta”

designer adjective

(used of pornography) relatively high-brow, designed for couples and first-time viewers US, 2000

- — Ana Loria, 1 2 3 Be A Porn Star!, p. 165, 2000: “Glossary of adult sex industry terms” designer drug noun

a recreational drug synthesized to mimic the effects of an illegal drug US, 1985

- Sales of the “designer drug” called Ecstasy are booming at night clubs in Dallas[.] — Washington Post, p. A10, 29th June 1985
- Designer drugs are drugs made underground, often in home based labs. The chemists making these drugs modify the molecular structure of certain types of illegal drugs to produce analogs. These analogs are what are termed “designer drugs.” — Gary L. Somdahl, Drugs and Kids, p. 94, 1996

desk commando noun

a military support worker who does not face combat UK, 1958

- That’s putting a desk commando in his place. — Paul Good, Once to Every Man, p. 164, 1970 desk cowboy noun

a military or police support worker who does not face combat or street duty US, 1942

- If you were an experienced investigator who’d handled a few of these before, that would be one thing. But you’re a desk cowboy, okay? — Boston Teran, God Is a Bullet, p. 47, 1999

desk jockey noun

an office worker US, 1953

- The edict from some remote desk jockey interpreting jeopardy stated “the aircraft crew must be in jeopardy before fire can be returned, and sporadic ground fire would hardly meet the connotation of the word jeopardy.” Say What? — Chuck Carlock, Firebirds, p. 187, 1995

desk pilot noun

a military or police support worker who does not face combat or street duty US, 1955

- A pair of polyester desk pilots who smelled like hair oil and made grade by jamming up other cops. — James Lee Burke, Purple Cane Road, p. 354, 2000

desk rider noun

a military support worker who does not face combat; an officious bureaucrat US, 1966

- He’d had enough of this fat, strutting little desk rider! What did he know about the job? — Barbara Nadel, Belshazzar’s Daughter, p. 106, 1999

desmadre noun

a disaster US, 1974

- Border Spanish used in English conversation by Mexican-Americans.
- — Dagoberto Fuentes and Jose Lopez, Barrio Language Dictionary, p. 54, 1974

desperate adjective

very good US, 1951

Largely dependent on a melodramatic delivery to impart the slang sense.

- Oh what a desperately wonderful affair it’s going to be—Harry James and a grand march and everybody goes formal. Isn’t that desperate? — Max Shulman, The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis, p. 55, 1951 despicable adjective

worse than despicable US, 1975

- — John Gould, Maine Lingo, p. 72, 1975

dessert crack noun

nitrous oxide US, 2002

Small containers of nitrous oxide used in canned dessert topping are a prime source of the gas for young users.

- Whippits: Otherwise known as “hippie crack” or “dessert crack.” Either way, it’s the best high a thirteen-year-old can get. — Suroosh Alvi et al., The Vice Guide, p. 20, 2002

destructo noun

in surfing, a large and powerful wave US, 1978

- — Dennis Aberg and John Millus, Big Wednesday, p. 209, 1978

detox noun

a facility where an alcoholic or drug addict can begin treatment with the detoxification process US, 1973

- They’re not patients till they’re admitted somewhere for treatment, or we sent them to detox. — Elmore Leonard, Maximum Bob, p. 20, 1991

Detroit iron noun

a large, American car US, 1950

- — Edd Byrnes, Way Out with Kookie, 1959
- — Chrysler Corporation, Of Anchors, Bezels, Pots and Scorchers, September 1959
- “Meanwhile, you prefer a bike to a Detroit iron?” — Irving Shulman, College Confidential, p. 84, 1960
- It’s underpowered. Two seats. Detroit iron. Nice, but compare it with a Jaguar XJS, which is quieter, smoother, handles better, is faster, and costs twenty thousand dollars less. — John McPhee, Irons in the Fire, p. 182, 1997

deuce noun

1 two of anything, such as two marijuana cigarettes, two women, etc US, 1943

- I drove straight home to stash my frame between a deuce of lily-whites. — Mezz Mezzrow, Really the Blues, p. 101, 1946
- It hopped off with a deuce of studs jiving some buds about how strong they were — Dan Burley, Diggeth Thou?, p. 15, 1959

2 a two-year prison sentence US, 1925

- Well, the faggot draws a deuce; and in the box he meets this cat who is some species of cheap hustler. — William Burroughs, Naked Lunch, p. 129, 1957
- He had served a bullet ‘n a deuce. — Lightnin’ Rod, Hustlers Convention, p. 10, 1973
- My man Colorado was doing a deuce, and he had a little click waiting for me when I got up there. — Edwin Torres, Carlito’s Way, p. 46, 1975
- He pleaded guilty anyway, expecting a deuce maximum, back on the street in eighteen months tops. — James Ellroy, Suicide Hill, p. 579, 1986

3 two dollars US, 1900

- Zaida dug in her bag. “Here’s a deuce for the cab.” — Ross Russell, The Sound, p. 240, 1961
- You’ll learn; sometimes you’ll stand around all day and wait for a 15-buck score, a 10-buck score, even a deuce—all day! — John Rechy, City of Night, p. 43, 1963
- The turnstile attendant thinks it might help me if I went for a little walk (the cops watch him while other cops watch the cops) and then returned to him with a deuce in my hand. — James Simon Kunen, The Strawberry Statement, pp. 91–92, 1968

4 an act of defecation US, 2003

From the children’s toilet vocabulary: NUMBER TWO (defecation).

- “I think she’s in the back dropping a deuce.” — Howard Stern Radio Show, 24 January 2003
- Tlepess Deb squats on the pot and drops a deuce while making googoo eyes at her boyfriend as he brushes his teeth. — Mr. Skin, Mr. Skin’s Skincyclopedia, p. 172, 2005

5 in dice games, the point two US, 1950

- — The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, p. 123, May 1950

6 in pool, the two-ball US, 1878

- — Mike Shamos, The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Billiards, p. 76, 1993

7 two dollars’ worth of drugs US, 1992

Originally a $2 package of heroin; with inflation other drugs became more likely to fit the bill.

- — Robert Nash, Dictionary of Crime, p. 101, 1992

8 two hundred US, 1998

- TED: Mary’s a little chubby, huh? HEALY: I’d say about a deuce, deuce and half. Not bad. — Something About Mary, 1998

9 two hundred dollars US, 1973

- This thing’s worth about a deuce. — Charles Whited, Chiodo, p. 48, 1973

10 twenty dollars US, 1960

- I stood repeating, “Tis some strange midnight stud that’s sounding a money beat on my pad’s door. A deuce the morrow!” — William “Lord” Buckley, The Raven, 1960

11 in television and movie-making, a 2,000 watt spotlight US, 1990

- — Ralph S. Singleton, Filmmaker’s Dictionary, p. 46, 1990

12 an arrest or conviction for driving under the influence of alcohol US, 1971

California Penal Code Section 502 prohibits driving under the influence of alcohol, hence the “two” reference.

- I don’t wanna book a deuce right now. I wanna go get a hot pastrami.
- — Joseph Wambaugh, The Secrets of Harry Bright, p. 56, 1985
- — Judi Sanders, Don’t Dog by Do, Dude!, p. 10, 1991

13 used as a substitute for “the devil” or “hell” UK, 1964

- I had the deuce of a time trying to find you. — Horace McCoy, Kiss Tomorrow Good-bye, p. 324, 1948
- I walked on down the street and turned into the subway kiosk wondering what the deuce had happened to Washington. — Mickey Spillane, Kiss Me Deadly, p. 45, 1952

14 the Delta Dagger fighter aircraft US, 1970

- The first USAF aircraft armed only with guided missiles and unguided rockets—the Convair YF-102 Delta Dagger, always called “the Deuce”—made its first flight on 24th October 1953. — James P. McCarthy, The Air Force, p. 81, 2002

► chunk the deuce

to flash a two-finger peace sign US, 2006

- The rest of the Clique chunked the deuce and jumped in the El C. — Linden Dalecki, Kid B, p. 133, 2006

Deuce nickname

42nd Street, New York US, 2002

An abbreviation of FORTY-DEUCE.

- [C]oming out of its doors, you’d bump into the other Deuce grind-houses whether you went left, right, or crossed the street. — Bill Landis, Sleazoid Express, p. 47, 2002

deuce verb

to back down from a confrontation US, 1950

- You deuced. Admit it. You deuced. — Hal Ellson, Tomboy, p. 3, 1950

deuce-and-a-half noun

a two-and-a-half ton cargo truck US, 1944

Military usage since World War 2.

- “Fill up that deuce and a half,” hollered the loadmaster[.] — Elaine Shepard, The Doom Pussy, p. 61, 1967
- A deuce-and-a-half was waiting beside the orderly room. — William Pelfrey, The Big V, p. 16, 1972
- The gas truck, a deuce-and-a-half with two fuel tanks on the back, marked “Mo-gas,” had begun moving up the line, refueling. — Larry Heinemann, Close Quarters, p. 17, 1977
- Going in, there were sixty of us packed into a deuce-and-a-half[.] — Michael Herr, Dispatches, p. 72, 1977

- No, we ain't seen nothin' all night 'cept some jeeps and a deuce 'n a half going up to the cavalry. — Harold Coyle, Team Yankee, p. 12, 1987
- So I got out the deuce-and-a-half truck and went with him. This thing was three times as big as a coffin. — Ron Steinman, The Soldiers' Story, p. 147, 1999

deuce bag; deuce noun

a two dollar bag of heroin US, 1971

- — Richard A. Spears, The Stang of Drugs and Drink, 1986

deuceburger noun

a prison sentence of two years US, 1990

- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 202, 1990

deuce-deal verb

to deal the second card in a deck US, 1965

- — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 61, 1987

deuce-deuce noun

1 a .22 caliber weapon US, 1990

- I got a Deuce Deuce. My brother gave it to me before he went inna county jail. — Boyz N The Hood, 1990
- He say how dem guinea gray cats go got him a deuce-deuce t'carry. — Stephen Cannell, King Con, p. 50, 1997
- Bolden broke into the Pony Express Sports Shop in North Hills and took about 25 guns—"nines," "deuce-deuces," and "deuce-fives," Dixon, also of North Hills testified[,] — Daily News of Los Angeles, p. N1, 27th April 2003

2 a 22-ounce beverage, especially beer US, 2002

- "When driving down 17th Street in Holland, it is not uncommon to see people on their porches drinking a deuce-deuce." — Dictionary of New Terms (Hope College), 2002

deuce-five noun

a .25 caliber gun US, 1991

- Sidewinder's weapons in the crime were "a gauge and a deuce-five automatic." — Leon Bing, Do or Die, p. 47, 1991
- Bolden broke into the Pony Express Sports Shop in North Hills and took about 25 guns—"nines," "deuce-deuces," and "deuce-fives," Dixon, also of North Hills testified[,] — Daily News of Los Angeles, p. N1, 27th April 2003

deuce gear noun

a soldier's rucksack and other items carried in the field US, 1987 Formally known as 782 gear; the "deuce" comes from the two.

- Tomorrow morning 0700, he was informed, the platoon would draw its Deuce gear and weapons. — Gerald Giroldi, Broken Time, 2004
- "We ain't got enough deuce gear to go around yet, but be patient." — Craig Roberts, Crosshairs on the Kill Zone, p. 103, 2004
- I had to add a packboard to my deuce gear in order it carry it all. — Ray Hildreth, Hill 488, p. 44, 2010
- 782 Gear: Individual field equipment issued to Marines, such as cartridge belt, ammunition pouches, canteens, packs, etc. Also called deuce gear. — Andrew Finlayson, Killer Kane: A Marine Long-Range Recon Team Leader in Vietnam, p. 272, 2013

deuce of benders noun

the knees US, 1947

- — Marcus Hanna Boulware, Live and Slang of Students in Negro Colleges, 1947

deuce out verb

to withdraw from a situation out of fear US, 1949

- Hell, I felt like I was getting to be chicken. Deucing out. — Hal Ellson, Duke, p. 17, 1949

deuce point noun

the soldier in the second-to-front position on an infantry patrol US, 1991

- Lieutenant Chi was to be deuce point, followed by myself. — Michael Hodgins, Reluctant Warrior, 2011
- I alternated between point and deuce point, teaching Fix and Horn how to handle both positions. — Bill Peters, First Force Recon Company, Sunrise at Midnight, p. 177, 2011

deuces noun

1 dice that have been altered to have two twos, the second two being where one would expect to find a five US, 1974

Used in combination with fives, likely to produce a seven, an important number in craps.

- — John Scarne, Scarne on Dice, p. 466, 1974

2 a double line US, 1990

- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 205, 1990

Deuces! exclamation

used in parting US, 2003

Vocalizing two fingers symbolizing peace.

- — Connie Eble, Campus Slang: University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Spring 2015

deuce up verb

to line up in pairs US, 1990

- — Charles Shafer, Folk Speech in Texas Prisons, p. 202, 1990

deuceway noun

an amount of marijuana costing two dollars US, 1979

- Yeah, they got stoned on giggle-weed, zonked on grifa, zapped on yerba, bombed on boo, they were blitzed with snop, warped on twist, gay on hay, free on V—deuceways, nickels, dimes, lids, pounds and kilos of it. — Hi Life, p. 14, 1979

devil noun

1 a barbiturate or other central nervous system depressant, especially Seconal™ US, 1969

A truncated form of RED DEVIL.

- I said, "If your sick father can part with at least two dozen devils, I'll part with half a C-note." — Iceberg Slim (Robert Beck), Trick Baby, p. 268, 1969

2 the hallucinogen STP US, 1971

- — Eugene Landy, The Underground Dictionary, p. 65, 1971

3 a white person US, 1980

- — Edith A. Folb, runnin' down some lines, p. 234, 1980

4 in craps, a seven US, 1993

- — Frank Scoblete, Guerrilla Gambler, p. 305, 1993

devil-dog noun

a member of the US Marine Corps US, 1918

- He spotted the joker which would have wiped out the Marine Corps in the administration Defense reorganization measure and tied the bill up until the Devil Dogs were assured of being more than a mere "police force." — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, Washington Confidential, p. 162, 1951
- "Nothing," crowed The New York Times, "could stop our gallant Devil Dogs." That was not entirely true. — William Manchester, Goodbye, Darkness, p. 25, 1979

devilfish noun

in poker, a skilled player who plays poorly to mask his skill early in a game US, 1996

- — John Vorhaus, The Big Book of Poker Slang, p. 13, 1996

devil's bedpost noun

in a deck of playing cards, the four of clubs UK, 1837

- — Albert H. Morehead, The Complete Guide to Winning Poker, p. 261, 1967

devil's candy noun

cocaine US, 1999

- I hate cocaine. It's the Devil's candy. I just despise it. — James St. James, Party Monster, p. 271, 1999

devil's dancing rock noun

a large, smooth, flat stone found in a pasture or meadow US, 1963

- — Charles F. Hayward, Yankee Dictionary, p. 44, 1963

devil's dandruff noun

cocaine; crack cocaine US, 1981

A simile for an "evil white powder."

- Beware the devil's dandruff, he'd heard an actress warn. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Glitter Dome, p. 249, 1981
- — Mike Haskins, Drugs, p. 280, 2003
- [H]e "made love all night" after being introduced to the Devil's dandruff by a lap dancer. — Q, p. 32, October 2004

devil's dick noun

a crack cocaine pipe US, 1992

- — Terry Williams, Crackhouse, p. 148, 1992

devil's dust noun

phencyclidine, the recreational drug known as PCP or angel dust US, 1992

- — Jay Robert Nash, Dictionary of Crime, p. 101, 1992

devil's half acre noun

a neighborhood catering to vice US, 1959

- In a riverside neighborhood called the Devil's Half Acre, dozen of bars, bordellos, and gambling dens competed to empty the men's pockets. — Jamie Jensen, Road Trip USA: New England, p. 115, 2001

dew noun

marijuana; hashish US, 1971

- — Richard A. Spears, The Slang and Jargon of Drugs and Drink, p. 141, 1986
- It was the first and only time I ever smoked any dew with Linderer. He was so funny. — Larry Chambers, Recondo, p. 182, 1992
- The first group, of which I became an instant member, consisted of those who got high the natural way—smoking dew. — Paul Fazekas, Enduring Images, p. 90, 2010

► knock the dew off the lily; shake the dew off the lily

(of a male) to urinate US, 1974

- "Think I'll shake a little dew off the lily then." He turned toward the door beyond the dance floor marked HIS. — Earl Thompson, Tattoo, p. 75, 1974
- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 54, 1989
- "While you're doing that," Elvin said, "I'm gonna go shake the dew off my lily." He got up and walked to the men's room, all the way in back. — Elmore Leonard, Maximum Bob, p. 201, 1991

dewbaby noun

a dark-skinned black male US, 1972

- — David Claerhaut, Black Jargon in White America, p. 62, 1972

Dewey noun

a socially inept social outcast US, 1988

- — Michael V. Anderson, The Bad, Rad, Not to Forget Way Cool Beach and Surf Discretionary, p. 5, 1988

dex noun

Dexedrine™, a central nervous system stimulant US, 1961

- "Benny" and "dex" are fairly common in large groups because they combat fatigue[.] — William and Jerry Breedlove, Swap Clubs, p. 151, 1964
- In my case, I was just on dex, and occasionally on Benzadrine. — John Warren Wells, Tricks of the Trade, p. 16, 1970
- He said there would be two or three doctors on hand with B1 shots and Dex and penicillin to handle various things like hang-overs, fatigue and the clap. — Dan Jenkins, Semi-Tough, p. 125, 1972

- I had a couple of tall-ones, a change of clothes, doubled-Dexed it, and hit the street. — Terry Southern, Now Dig This, p. 131, 2001
- dexie; dexi; dexo noun
Dexedrine™, a central nervous system stimulant US, 1951
- Two or three people can get high on one joint (marijuana cigarette). Of course, you can take bennies (Benzedrine) or dexies (Dexedrine), but they make me nervous. I'm a hog. I don't just take one. I take three or four. You can get hooked on them. — Time, p. 19, 7th July 1952
 - "I feel miserable today. I'm really dragging." SECOND WOMAN: "Here, take one of these Dexies." — Lenny Bruce, How to Talk Dirty and Influence People, p. 46, 1965
 - She had needed two Dexies to wake up. — Jacqueline Susann, Valley of the Dolls, p. 285, 1966
 - Meditation, shit! Cocaine or maybe a dexi was more like it. — Odie Hawkins, The Busting Out of an Ordinary Man, p. 156, 1985
- dexing noun
the recreational abuse of dextromethorphan US, 1999
- Anyway, hopefully this answers your questions. happy DEXING! — rec.drugs.psychedic, 16th November 1999
 - Kids don't have to drink entire bottles of goopy cough syrup to go "Robotripping" or "Dexing." — USA Today, p. 1A, 29th December 2003
 - DMX can produce a euphoric feeling that some teens call "robotripping," "skittling" or "dexing." — Carla Di Fonzo, Intelligencer Journal (Lancaster, Pennsylvania), p. A1, 19th May 2007
- dexter noun
a diligent, socially inept student US, 1985
- The strongest competition to squid and grimo as successor term of nerd is dexter, a shortening of poindexter, probably based on a cartoon character. — New York Times Magazine, 22nd September 1985
- DFFL
dope forever, forever loaded—a slogan of the Hell's Angels motorcycle gang that enjoyed somewhat wider popularity US, 1966
- Others, like the patch saying "DFFL" (Dope Forever, Forever Loaded) and the Playboy Rabbit (mocking birth control) were exposed by True magazine. — Hunter S. Thompson, Hell's Angels, p. 117, 1966
 - I wear my DFFL patch below my right front pocket. — Frank Reynolds, Freewheelin' Frank, p. 74, 1967
- DFF noun
in pornography, a scene in a movie or a photography showing two men ejaculating on a woman's face; a double facial pop US, 1995
- — Adult Video News, p. 44, August 1995
- DG noun
a degenerate US, 2005
- "D.G.?" "Degenerate. A loser who craves more of the same thing even when it's already wrecking his life." — Peter Fenton, Eyewing the Flash, p. 52, 2005
 - But every D-girl in Hollywood drove one of those roadsters[.] — John Ridley, Everybody Smokes in Hell, p. 33, 1999
- D girl noun
a low-level female employee in a movie or television studio US, 1999
- The "D" stands for "development." Episode 20 (27th February 2000) in the second season of the HBO series "The Sopranos" was titled "D-Girl" and brought the term some brief fame.
- But every D-girl in Hollywood drove one of those roadsters[.] — John Ridley, Everybody Smokes in Hell, p. 33, 1999
- dial noun
the face US, 1842
- I gave the rest of the watch the once over, but there were no signs of scrapping on any other dial[.] — Robert S. Close, Love Me Sailor, p. 108, 1945
 - [His] days as the shining light of the Ghost Squad were now over, his dial having become as familiar to the entire underworld of London as Big Ben's. — Charles Raven, Underworld Nights, p. 99, 1956
- DIAL adjective
dumb in any language US, 1994
- Said of truly incommunicative hospital patients.
- — Sally Williams, "Strong" Words (Disertation), p. 139, 1994
- dialer noun
a telephone that when called automatically calls another telephone number US, 1976
- The line was used as an inexpensive alarm system, known as a "dialer." — Emmett Grogan, Final Score, p. 86, 1976
- dial in on verb to understand what motivates someone else; to grasp their personality US, 1997
- — Vann Wesson, Generation X Field Guide and Lexicon, p. 52, 1997
- dial out verb
to ignore US, 1967
- Then I dialed him out because he seemed to advocate everything that had been said by his cohorts, and I could look in his face and tell he was afraid. — Clarence Cooper Jr., The Farm, p. 166, 1967
- dialtone noun
a personality-free person US, 1990
- She knew Sunny Deelight, a real dialtone. — Seth Morgan, Homeboy, p. 296, 1990
- diamond noun
a custom diamond-shaped car window US, 1980
- — Edith A. Folb, runnin' down some lines, p. 234, 1980
- Diamonds in the back, sunroof top/ diggin the scene with the gangster lean. — Massive Attack, Be Thankful for What You've Got, 1991
- diamond cutter noun
the erect penis US, 1975
- A later variation on the penis as a type of tool.
- During his one month convalescence Rosco was unable to raise what Harold Bloomguard called a "diamond cutter" or even a "blue veiner" due to the shooting pains in his groin. — Joseph Wambaugh, The Choirboys, p. 45, 1975
 - Plus, in his glue-dazed condition, Chub found himself hieading something less than a world-class, diamond-cutter erection. — Carl Hiaasen, Lucky You, p. 368, 1997
- diamonds noun
the testicles US, 1964
- An evolution from the common FAMILY JEWELS.
- — Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 57, 1964
- diamond season noun
warm weather US, 1987
- — Carsten Stroud, Close Pursuit, p. 271, 1987
- diamond white noun
a white Cadillac US, 1998
- — Ethan Hilderbrant, Prison Slang, p. 36, 1998
- diaper noun
a sanitary napkin US, 1980
- — Edith A. Folb, runnin' down some lines, p. 234, 1980
- diaper dandy noun
an athlete in his first year of college US, 1993
- Coined or popularized by sports announcer Dick Vitale.
- "Dale Brown, you got a Diaper Dandy, baby! Welcome to LUS, Shaquille O'Neal." — Shaquille O'Neal, Shaq Talks Back, p. 33, 2002
 - "You're a diaper dandy. You haven't earned the right. The front row is for veterans." — Dick Vitale, Dick Vitale's Living a Dream, p. 18, 2006
- diaper sniper noun
a child molester US, 2000
- Cain is a diaper sniper. Boycott the WWF! — rec.sport.pro-wrestling, 17th March 2000
 - chester: Child molester. Also known as short eyes, diaper sniper. — Jeffrey Ian Ross, Behind Bars, 2002
- dibbler noun
the penis US, 1998
- The attraction of my hand, my fingers at her clitoris, only distracts from her skill on my dibbler. — Clarence Major, All-Night Visitors, p. 6, 1998
- dibs noun
1 first right to, first claim on US, 1932
- Among the earliest slang a child in the US learns; derives from "dib" (a portion or a share) which was first recorded in the UK in 1889.
- The black market, meaning the dope fiends who slept in our kitchen in the winter, offered us dibs on what they stole. — Odie Hawkins, Scars and Memories, p. 147, 1987
 - But now, you understand, Homicide will have a priority, first dibs. — Elmore Leonard, Freaky Deaky, p. 175, 1988
 - "Vijay has his dibs in on them." "But, Frank, that's not fair!" I complained. "I know, Nick. But those are the rules. Dibs is dibs. You know that." — c.d. Payne, Youth in Revolt, p. 284, 1993
 - RANDAL: That's the movie I came for. V.A. CUSTOMER: I have first dibs. RANDAL: Says who? V.A. CUSTOMER: Says me. I've been here for half an hour. I'd call that first dibs. — Clerks, p. 35, 1994
 - "Dibs on that bitch," I avow. "Good luck," Dylan says. — Marty Beckerman, Death to All Cheerleaders, p. 13, 2000
- 2 a living US, 1949
- What do you shake them for? How do you make your dibs? — Raymond Chandler, The Little Sister, p. 28, 1949
- dibs and dabs noun
small amounts US, 1960
- To have small dibs and dabs of time at his disposal will not be sufficient even if the total is an impressive number of hours. — Peter F. Drucker, The Effective Executive, p. 28, 2007
- dice noun
Desoxy™, a branded methamphetamine hydrochloride US, 1977
- — Walter L. Way, The Drug Scene, p. 108, 1977
- dice bite noun
a wound on the hand of a gambler in casino craps when struck by tossed dice US, 1983
- The stickman shouts, "there's no cure for dice bite," as a signal for the players to keep their hands up when the dice are coming out. — Thomas L. Clark, The Dictionary of Gambling and Gaming, p. 62, 1987
- dice mob noun
a group of two or more cheats in a dice game US, 1961
- The dice not only appeared to be constructed in two pieces, they actually were constructed in two pieces. Apparently, a dice mob had switched a batch of dice. — Jacques Noire, Casino Holiday, p. 166, 1968
- dicer noun
a hat US, 1887
- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Dictionary, p. 9, 1945
 - — Joseph E. Ragen and Charles Finston, Inside the World's Toughest Prison, p. 796, 1962: "Penitentiary and underworld glossary"

dick *noun1 the penis US, 1888

- Sometimes, though, I'd go home afterwards, after having had a hard-on for four hours of making out on the floor and in the bleachers, but without creaming, and it really gave you a sore dick. — The Berkeley Tribe, p. 13, 5th-12th September 1969
- The kid had a dick like a horse and could screw all night. — Dennis Havens, Autopsy on a Living Corpse, p. 90, 2000
- The guy with the huge dick hardly spoke any English. — Rich Merritt, Secrets of a Gay Marine Porn Star, p. 227, 2005
- Het let up momentarily then tried to force his dick into her ass once again. This time she felt pain and screamed out loud, "Jeremy, that's the wrong hole." — Renay Jackson, Crack City, p. 176, 2005

2 the clitoris US, 1964

- She had a dick so long she had to be circumcised. — Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me, p. 148, 1964

3 a man US, 1914

- Hunter would remind Maureen she was a girl. Or Hunter would tell her she was just one of the dicks. — Elmore Leonard, City Primeval, p. 33, 1980

4 sex with a man US, 1956

- [H]ow could you beat two hundred dollars a night just to be there listening and now and then give up a little dick? — Alix Shulman, On the Stroll, p. 55, 1981
- I bet she hasn't had any dick in years and years. Judging from the type of woman she was and her age. Old women don't get a lot of dick. — Elmore Leonard, Glitz, p. 320, 1983
- Women are tricky. You ask a woman how many men she's fucked, and she'll tell you how many boyfriends she's had instead. A woman doesn't count all the miscellaneous dick. — Chris Rock, Rock This!, p. 130, 1997
- Cause even if he did decide to play his self and slip on of these bitches a little dick, they ain't me. — K'Wan Foye, Sweet Dreams, p. 154, 2004

5 a police officer, especially a detective; a private detective US, 1886

- "I know you don't believe that"—he laughed shortly—"and I guess you don't like dicks. But we aren't bad guys." — Irving Shulman, The Ambay Dukes, p. 105, 1947
- The dicks gave her the bum's rush too. — Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, New York Confidential, p. 163, 1948
- I was cooking up some stuff, bending over and this dick kicked me dead up the can. — Hal Elson, The Golden Spike, p. 152, 1952
- The thought that hit my mind was that this guy was trying to get him some bread other than his dick's pay[.] — A.S. Jackson, Gentleman Pimp, p. 103, 1973

6 a despicable person US, 1966

- Don't be a dick. That stuff'll kill her. — Heathers, 1988
- Now, they got him dressed like a dick. He's wearing these stupid-lookin' pants, this horrible sweater. — True Romance, 1993
- I thought the executive producer was a total dick, and I got fired from it in the middle of the LA riots. — Drew Carey, Dirty Jokes and Beer, p. 31, 2000
- Republican politicians are shameless dicks. — Al Franken, The Truth With Jokes, p. 58, 2005

7 nothing, zero UK, 1925

- "I didn't do dick and I don't know dick. And you did way less than dick." — Jonathan Kellerman, The Murder Book, p. 43, 1991
- He steals from you, you don't do dick. — Empire Records, 1995

8 during the Vietnam war, the enemy US

- From the Vietnamese dich (enemy).
- — Linda Reinberg, In the Field, p. 63, 1991

▶ get your dick tender to have an emotional need to be with a woman at all times US, 1972

- I knew that as soon as she became conscious of the fact that I had weakened in that respect, as soon as I had what they call "got my dick tender"—that means you've got to be with a woman all the time—they figure they're out working and you're out chipping someplace. — Bruce Jackson, In the Life, p. 179, 1972

dick *verb1 to exploit; to take advantage of; to harm US, 1964

- In the 1968 US presidential election, the bumper sticker "Dick Nixon Before Nixon Dicks You" raised eyebrows.
- I got them on one side, I got La Cosa Nostra on the other, I got more people trying to dick me than if I turned tricks for a living. — Elmore Leonard, Glitz, p. 289, 1985
- Compared to other law firms, Kipper Garth's had the overhead problem dicked. — Carl Hiaasen, Skin Tight, p. 89, 1989
- Time to play let's dick the old guys, huh, Harp? — Point Break, 1991
- The club owner is trying to dick me out of some money. — Wayne's World, 1992
- I know not to dick with him when it comes to matters PC. — Armistead Maupin, Maybe the Moon, p. 163, 1992

2 (from the male point of view) to have sex with US, 1942

- I fucked her here in Pussycat where the coffin sets. — Pietro Di Donato, Naked Author, p. 294, 1970
- He said, "Did I ask him, you want to know, if he's dickin' her? No, I didn't." — Elmore Leonard, Split Images, p. 16, 1981
- Shark, a newcomer to dickin' onstage, comes from Cuba, perhaps a gift from Castro's boat-people exchange. — Josh Alan Friedman, Tales of Times Square, p. 189, 1986
- Beat her in the day and dicked her little hole at night. — David Shore, Flares and Other Motor Episodes, p. 240, 2001

dick around *verb1 to behave in a sexually promiscuous fashion US, 1969

- Wives were fools who let their husbands dick around. — Danya Rubbenberg, Yentl's Revenge, p. 3, 2001

2 to pass time idly US, 1947

- "Aw, I'm just dickin' around until I head down to South America." — Nicholas Kolya, You Never Ate Lunch in This Town to Begin With, p. 153, 2002

dickbrain *nouna fool US, 1971

- "Think real hard, dick brain," the Punk responded derisively. — Scott Sommer, Hazzard's Head, p. 52, 1985
- Good place, dickbrain. Who would ever think to look there? — Stephen J. Cannell, The Tin Collectors, p. 6, 2001

dick-breath *nounused as a term of abuse US, 1972

- "Make her bark, dick-breath." "Who are you calling dick-breath?" "You, you dog-stealing fuck." — Daniel Lyons, Dog Days, p. 177, 1998
- "We're on the job." Job me, dickbreath—Donna Donahue is mine! — James Ellroy, Destination Morgue, p. 223, 2004

dick-dip *nounsex US, 1967

- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 57, 1967

dick doc *noun1 a urologist US, 1994

- — Sally Williams, "Strong" Words: (Dissertation), p. 161, 1994

2 a military doctor or medic who inspects male recruits for signs of sexually transmitted disease US, 1964

- — Roger Blake, The American Dictionary of Sexual Terms, p. 58, 1964
- — Dale Gordon, The Dominion Sex Dictionary, p. 119, 1967

dickeroo *nouna police officer US, 1945

- — Lou Shelly, Hepcats Jive Dictionary, p. 9, 1945

dickey *nounthe penis US, 1962

- The hair around my dickey has been there since I was fourteen, and I have hair under my arms. — Charles Perry, Portrait of a Young Man Drowning, p. 48, 1962
- And his albino humpback saw the traveling salesman with his dickey hanging out. — Christopher Durgan, The Marriage of Bette and Boo, p. 42, 1985

dickface *nouna contemptible fool US, 1975

- The shithead has all the latest shampoos and conditioners. — Jay McInerney, Story of My Life, p. 112, 1988
- "Queer. You dickface." — Larry Brown, Dirty Work, p. 46, 1989
- "Why'd you kill Patrick?" "Why not. He's a dickface." — Sue Grafton, G is for Gumshoe, p. 251, 1990
- I know you've been listening to some scumhead, some bald dickface up there. — Howard Stern, Miss America, p. 276, 1995
- Chub said, "Then where's our ticket, dickface?" — Carl Hiaasen, Lucky You, p. 39, 1997

dick-fingered *adjectiveclumsy US, 1984

- He's so dick-fingered he can't pick his nose without puttin' his eye out. — Ken Weaver, Texas Crude, p. 108, 1984
- — Michael Dalton Johnson, Talking Trash with Redd Foxx, p. 130, 1994

dick flick noun

an action-oriented movie that appeals to a male audience US, 2001

- An opposite and equal reaction to CHICK FLICK.
- — Don R. McCreary (Editor), Dawg Speak, 2001

dickhead *nounan inept, unlikeable person; an idiot US, 1964

A satisfying embellishment of DICK (the penis). As a term of abuse this is often accompanied by, or even replaced with, a mime of the masturbation of a flaccid penis, gesturally sited in the centre of the forehead.

- "Ruin our A&A will you?" he snorted. "Gahdam dickhead." — Elaine Shepard, The Doom Pussy, p. 142, 1967
- If it wasn't for dickheads like you, there wouldn't be any thievery in this world, would there? — Full Metal Jacket, 1987
- Dickheads with a family crest and a prep-school code of honor. — Jay McInerney, Story of My Life, p. 11, 1988
- Now we know something's rotten in Denmark, 'cause this dickhead had a big bag, and it's uncut too, so we're sweatin' him, tryin' to find out where he got it. — True Romance, 1993

dickie *nounthe penis US, 1962

Children's vocabulary.

- On the other hand, some corresponding euphemistic expressions (e.g., dickie, peepee, weewee, number one, number two, to move the bowels, to pass water, to make love, and so on), obviously evasive in their very structure, do have considerable usage. — Eros, p. 69, Autumn 1962
- "And stick his dickie up a butthole instead." — Rick Russ, Everything You Know About Sex is Wrong, p. 298, 2005

dickjoke *nounany coarse joke US, 1991

- — American Speech, p. 167, Summer 1991: "A brief annotated glossary of standup comedy jargon" dickless noun

a female police officer or detective US, 1984

A shortened form of DICKLESS TRACY that plays on two meanings of dick—"penis" and "detective."

- "You think I'd be a good Robbery/Homicide dick?" Lloyd laughed. "No, but you'd be a great Robbery/Homicide dickless." — James Ellroy, Blood on the Moon, p. 100, 1984

dickless adjective

gutless, cowardly US, 1971

- I'm fifty. That's not old, dickless. — Lethal Weapon, 1987
- "Listen, you dickless sack of shit," I said[.]. — Janet Evanovich, Seven Up, p. 118, 2001

dickless Tracy noun

a female police officer US, 1963

A neat pun on DICK (the penis) and the popular comic book hero-detective Dick Tracy created by Chester Gould in 1931; a contemptuous suggestion that a female cannot be as effective as a male.

- No-Balls Hadley, who was sometimes called Dickless Tracy, was also right when she declared fearlessly at a policewomen's meeting attended by chauvinist spies for Commander Moss that he, as well as most high ranking officers of the department, had little or no street experience[.] — Joseph Wambaugh, The Choirboys, pp. 78–79, 1975
- "They call us Dickless Tracys," said said[.]. — Joan Didion, The White Album, p. 21, 1979
- "I expect you to make sure she doesn't fall flat on her ass," he said, glancing pointedly at Bailey. "I don't need any Dickless Tracy problems." — Gerald Petievich, To Die in Beverly Hills, p. 11, 1983

dickless wonder noun

a person of either sex who lacks courage or conviction US, 1977

- He dreamed he was back in boot camp, trying to do push-ups while a brawny black sergeant stood over him, calling him a faggot, a pussy, a dickless wonder. — Carl Hiaasen, Lucky You, p. 170, 1997

dick-lick noun

used as a term of abuse US, 1984

- Or do you get off on pigs rubbin' their shoes on your ugly dick-lick face, you lowlife beefcake faggot! — John Patrick Shanley, Danny and the Deep Blue Sea, p. 24, 1984
- What are you smiling at, you dick-lick? — Don Ericson, Charlie Rangers, p. 3, 1989

dicklicker noun

a "cocksucker" in all its senses US, 1968

- Ahm sho 'nuff glad they got that dicklicker, man! — Nathan Heard, Howard Street, p. 236, 1968
- DCT made me what I am, in a way. Fucking dicklicker. — Ethan Coen, Gates of Eden, p. 104, 1998
- "We got really honest and called each other 'gofers,' 'ass-kissers,' 'butt-wipes,' and 'dick-lickers.'" — Jimmy Lerner, You Got Nothing Coming, p. 55, 2002

dicklicking adjective

despicable US, 1978

- He'd driven straight to the plant to get away from that dick-licking deputy[.] — Joseph Flynn, Digger, p. 266, 1997
- Dick-licking bastards! How could they steal our mules? — Thomas Harlan, The Dark Lord, p. 299, 2002

dick mittens noun

hands that were not washed after urination US, 2001

- — Jim Goad, Jim Goad's Glossary of Northwestern Prison Slang, December 2001

dicknose noun

used as a term of abuse US, 1974

- At least Lou is upfront about it, which makes him more human than the rest of those MOR dicknoses. — Lester Bangs, Psychotic Reactions and Carburetor Dung, p. 196, 1976

dick off verb

to waste time, to idle, to shun work US, 1948

- "But when it comes down to a little goddam work, you're always dicking off!" — Norman Mailer, The Naked and the Dead, p. 138, 1948

dick-skinner noun

the hand US, 1971

- You ain't going to have no skin on those dick-skinners. Remember them hands is your best girl. Rosie Palms. — Daniel Buckman, The Names of Rivers, p. 58, 2003

dick-smacker noun

a prison guard US, 1984

- Not kind.
- Hey, you stupid dick-smacker, get down here and open this door. — Inez Cardozo-Freeman, The Joint, 1984

dicksmith noun

a US Navy hospital corpsman US, 1974

- I never thought them nice, clean "Dicksmiths" knew that kind of language. — Edward Raymer, Descent into Darkness, p. 84, 1996

Dick Smith noun

a drug user or addict who does not socialize with other users US, 1876

- — American Speech, p. 87, May 1955: "Narcotic argot along the Mexican border"

dick-stepper noun

a clumsy, awkward person US, 1992

- "I just don't want any dick-steppers. Don't send anyone you wouldn't want to break in on your team." — Larry Chambers, Recondo, p. 228, 1992

dick-string noun

a male's ability to achieve an erection US, 1953

- If yall was battlin some rookies we know and let um git up on ya that close, they'd slit ya dick-string loose. — Mark Kennedy, The Pecking Order, p. 122, 1953

- Ah hopes yuh busted his dick string. — Piri Thomas, Down These Mean Streets, p. 157, 1967
- "If you ever get her set, she'll knock your dick-string loose." — Robert Dean Pharr, The Book of Numbers, p. 181, 1969
- The hill had definitely busted his dick string, so she lounged back and smoked a Salem. — Chuck Logan, Absolute Zero, p. 225, 2003
- Seeing her jerked hard on my dick string. — Penthouse International, Letters to Penthouse XXI, p. 357, 2004

dick sucker noun

a homosexual male US, 1983

- "Every man is a homo, a dick-sucker, every woman is a dyke." — Charles Bukowski, The Most Beautiful Woman in Town, p. 80, 1983
- Maybe they have a problem with each other, because, you know, they look like a couple of dick suckers. — Pete Dexter, The Paperboy, p. 179, 1995

dicksucking noun

oral sex performed on man US, 1977

- Her beautiful face was puckered with the size of his dick, as he plunged forward and back to give him a wild dick-sucking. — Roy Hawkins, Bimbos by the Bay, p. 53, 1977
- "Me and my girlfriend are having a dick-sucking contest and we thought you'd be a good judge." — Chris Rock, Rock This!, p. 135, 1997
- I wanted to make this dick-sucking an event he would remember for the rest of his damn life. — Noire, Thong on Fire, p. 154, 2007

dick-sucking adjective

despicable US, 1972

- [T]he Causey I know is the C.O. of the most limp-wristed, dick-sucking squadron in the history of flight. — Pat Conroy, The Great Santini, p. 326, 1976

dicktease noun

a woman who creates the impression of being more sexually available than she is US, 1989

A variant of the more common PRICK-TEASER.

- — Pamela Munro, U.C.L.A. Slang, p. 33, 1989

dickteaser noun

a person who suggests that they will engage in sex with a man but will not US, 1962

Originally applied to women, but later to both women and men.

- — American Speech, p. 273, December 1963: "American Indian Student Slang"
- I wanted to, but my muscles had atrophied. I didn't want him to think of me as a dick teaser. — Maya Angelou, Gather Together in My Name, p. 22, 1974
- And we don't go to meet markets to buy drinks for dick teasers. — Dan Savage, Savage Love, p. 26, 1998
- You know Saphronia, decent women aren't dick-teasers. — Michele Andrea Bowen, Church Folk, p. 82, 2001

dickwad noun

an unlikeable or despicable person US, 1989

- I get dickwad in there wantin' to play wheel of fortune so I can find out their supplier! — Break Point, 1991
- [A] TV personality, a fucking dickwad who could screw any hot stripper he wants[.] — Howard Stern, Miss America, p. 11, 1995
- Who's gonna stop me, dickwad? — Stephen J. Cannell, The Tin Collectors, p. 8, 2001
- Indeed, at times the station house was so peaceful that the arrest of a "dicky waver," a man who exposed himself, was the major law-enforcement event of the day. — Peter Maas, Serpico, p. 107, 1973

dick-waver; dicky-waver noun

a male exhibitionist US, 1973

